"HOOSIER AT LARGE"

April in Culver and All Other Indiana Towns

AFTER YOU'VE read this, go for an aimless walk. Shed habit's stifling bonds. Flee all cares and chores. Play hookey awhile and let April's wondrous magic soothe your soul.

Dishes to wash? Foo and faw stack 'em in the sink.

A FAVORITE TV program on 4ap? Nuts! There's an infinitely more delightful and enchanting drama just outside your door — "Spring's Sweet Caress," produced by Mother Nature.

And don't say you simply MUST attend a lodge, church, PTA or whatnot meeting. Think of it this way: A century from now, who'll care what that piddling group of puny humans does tonight?

Too-downright spring-lazy to stir? O. K. — that's a passable excuse. Loaf in your cloister.

Or come along with those who are sadly sick, helplessly shut in, or pathetically enfeebled and take this enchanting April walk vicariously with me.

DON'T PLAN. Don't think. Be aimless and unearring. Scrub your mind of preoccupation, open your pores and attune your senses.

Walk slowly, lazily, quietly. Sniff the soft, sweet scents of blossoming new life. Listen to spring's melodious symphony — trilling birdsong harmoniously blended with the squeals and happy cries of children freed, at last, from winter's punishing prison.

FEEL THE SEDUCTIVE touch of vagrant breezes on your cheek... and open eyes and heart to simple beauties too often unnoticed by the hurried and the harried.

Pause and peer closely at that cluster of early daffodils, lavish golden loveliness upon all who care to share it.

THE SPRING season ushers youngsters into the streets with kites, skates, bikes and scooters. The Indiana Office of Traffic Safety urges motorists to drive carefully, particularly in school, park, neighborhood and recreation areas.

IN THIS WORLD

THE PASSION PLAY...
 IN 1633 THE BUBONIC PLAGUE STRUCK THE SMALL BAVARIAN VILLAGE OF OBERAMMERGAU, GERMANY, TAKING 85 LIVES...

THE CROSS USED IN THE CRUCIFIXION SCENE WEIGHS 200 POUNDS.

DISTRAUGHT, THE CITY ELDERS MET BEFORE THE ALTAR OF ST. ROCCO'S CHURCH, AND PLEDGED THAT IF NO MORE LIVES WERE TAKEN, EVERY TEN YEARS THE VILLAGE WOULD PRESENT A FIGURINE DEPICTING THE SUFFERING AND DEATH OF CHRIST... MIRACULOUSLY, THE PLAGUE TOOK NO MORE LIVES, AND THE PLEDGE OF THE VILLAGERS HAS BEEN KEPT TO THIS DAY.

IN 1960, THE PASSION PLAY WILL BE PRESENTED AGAIN FROM MAY THROUGH SEPTEMBER BY A CAST OF 900 VILLAGERS. THE AUDITORIUM OF OBERAMMERGAU HOLDS 6,000 SPECTATORS; YET IN 1950, MORE THAN 500,000 REQUESTS FOR TICKETS HAD TO BE DENIED! ALTHOUGH THERE WERE MORE THAN 50 PERFORMANCES, BECAUSE OF THIS AMERICAN EXPRESS TRAVEL SERVICE WILL OFFER EUROPEAN TOURS THROUGHOUT THE SUMMER INCLUDING TICKETS FOR THE PASSION PLAY.

CULVER MAN'S BROTHER A BRILLIANT CARTOONIST

Few Culver citizens are aware that Clemens Gretter, whose syndicated "In This World" cartoons appear in more than 1,200 U.S. community newspapers, is a brother of Urban Greiter, who owns and operates Greiter's Food Market on Main Street.

Cartoonist Gretter heads highly successful Gretter Features at 516 Fifth Avenue in New York City.

Just one week after Clemens (Clem) Gretter arrived in New York in the depths of the depression, he landed an assignment as an author-illustrator. That was in 1936, and he's been at it ever since.

After a boyhood spent on the farm, first in his native Benton County, Indiana, and later at Avery, Iowa, young Gretter migrated to Chicago, where he worked his way through the evening classes at the Art Institute by serving on the editorial staff of the old Chicago Evening Post, and later, on the art staff of The Chicago Tribune.

The project that launched his career in New York was the book "Glimpses of American History," published by Grosset & Dunlap, which he co-authored and illustrated. Many assignments followed, among them assisting Robert L. Ripley as confere and artist (1941-1945), and he now numbers among his clients America's leading publishers, advertising agencies, newspapers, and industries.

DEER ENJOYS WATERS OF LAKE MAXINKUCKEE

Mr. and Mrs. William Herrmann of 316 South Shore Drive report seeing a deer swimming in the Lake near their home about 5:30 Tuesday morning. The animal appeared puzzled and frightened as it attempted to come ashore several times before leaving the Lake through a nearby vacant lot and bounding off through the trees.

Sings In Palm Sunday Opera At I. U.

Distinguished and Colorful Career Of Culver's Col. Robert Rossow Ended By Death At Age 79

Community Mourns Passing Of A Great Soldier, Author, and Instructor

MADE THE BLACK HORSE TROOP FAMOUS

Col. Robert Rossow, 79, colorful and greatly admired and respected soldier, author, instructor, horseman, and former chief of Indiana State Police, died at Memorial Hospital in South Bend Monday morning after an extended illness.

Born Jan. 22, 1881 at Delray, Mich., at the age of 17 he began what was to be an extremely eventful career by enlisting in the United States Army and serving in the Philippine Islands throughout the insurrection from 1898-1906 with the 14th U.S. Cavalry.

In 1917 he was commissioned a major in the newly established Cavalry Reserve Corps, and was an instructor in the first and second training camps at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis.

Commanded Overseas Division
 Going overseas in 1917, he commanded the 325th Machine Gun Battalion, 84th Division, in France. During the time of the occupation, he commanded the 128th Machine Gun Battalion, 32nd Division, at Coblenz, Germany, and also served as area commander of the 32nd Division Machine Gun School in Rengsdorf, Germany.

In 1919, he was promoted to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel in the Reserve Corps.

No. 1 In His Class
 Later Rossow attended the U.S. Cavalry School at Fort Riley, Kansas, and graduated No. 1 in his class.

He was promoted to the rank of colonel in 1924 and assumed command of the 157th Cavalry Brigade Reserve. Two years later he was graduated from the Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, and in 1927 attended the Army War College, Washington, D.C.

Interspersed with and subsequent to his military service in 1906 he became director of the famous Black Horse Troop at Culver Military Academy, and served in that capacity until 1927 when he was appointed as Commandant of Cadets.

While director of the Black Horse Troop, he developed the organization until it became internationally known. It served as escort to Vice Presidents Thomas R. Marshall and Richard M. Nixon at inaugural ceremonies as well as for Marshal Foch, President Hoover, and General Pershing.

Organized CMA Summer Camp
 In 1907 he organized the Summer Cavalry Camp at Culver which has grown in size and effectiveness during the years since. In 1935 he became director of the Culver Summer Schools Woodcraft Camp and remained in that capacity until his retirement in 1945.

In January of 1947 he was appointed Superintendent of State Police by Governor Ralph F. Gates, serving until January, 1949.

Upon his retirement from the State Police, he was appointed, in 1952, Dining Hall manager at the Academy and presided over the eating facilities until the service was taken over by the Stouffer Company in 1958.

Wrote Successful Novel
 During his busy and happy lifetime, Colonel Rossow found opportunity to write a well received book, "Tex Rains," about a cadet trooper at Culver; to act as technical director of the motion picture, "Tom Brown at Culver;" and to engage in many civic and fraternal activities.

He was a member of the Masonic lodge, commander of The American Legion post, a former member of the Governor's Commission for Control of Crime; and active in the local Boy Scout and Girl Scout programs. In 1941-42 he served as head of the Culver Community Service Corps.

Headed United Fund
 The Colonel was the tireless head of the Culver-Union Township United Fund for several years and always put the drive over the top through his spirited leadership.

In 1928 he was named honorary chief of the Black Feet Indians. In 1947 he was presented with the Citizenship Medal by the Indiana Veterans of Foreign Wars.

He is survived by his wife, Ethel Simmons Rossow; a daughter, Mrs. Nancy Ryan, of San Jose, Calif.; and a son, Robert Jr., who is attached to the American Embassy at Kabul, Afghanistan; a brother, William Rossow, Uica, Mich.; and five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at the Academy's Memorial Chapel at 2 p.m. today with Chaplain Allen F. Bray, USNR, officiating. Maj. James V. Miracle will sing.

THE SCHOOLBELL

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE PRESS CLUB OF CULVER HIGH SCHOOL

April Fool's Day provided a good opportunity to execute some of those unpractical jokes. One of these antics was played on Mr. Graham whose rostrum mysteriously vanished, but after "due deliberation" it was located. A few bright ones sang happy birthday to Joan Barshes on this convenient day. I think that makes about the 50th time this year and there's still one thing that's rather vague — when is her birthday?

Mrs. Anne Waite was the victim of an embarrassing situation when she quite innocently proceeded to turn a style show ticket in at the Ham Supper. I always say what's good fur wun es goot fur n'other!

Mention of the Ham Supper brings back memories to the Juniors such as: ham, tired feet, aching backs, spilled coffee, no silverware, and clean-up time afterward. They not only broke the records for the fastest clean-up time ever, but possibly a few cups or something too. With a little more assistance they might have folded the gym up and neatly packed it in a suitcase! The Juniors all had a barrel of fun and dirty dishes and want to thank all parents who took part — heaven only knows what we would have done without you. Instead of keep those cards and letter comin' in — it would have been appropriate to say keep those forks and spoons comin' in. A worried observer immediately following the Ham Supper was heard to have said "Whatever happened to all those cakes?" The answer given was — the look on innocent faces and only an occasional snicker or so.

Baker . . . Baker . . . where have I heard that name before, said Barbara Rosebaum. Slowly her memory freshens and she sees through a foggy haze the skating rink and GEORGE.

Since convertible cars are beginning to show up on the Spring Scene, Impalas are also. Miss Burns (Nancy) and Miss Bean (Lila) find it a very enjoyable preoccupation to be transported in a '60 White Impala, with two admiring escorts naturally.

At 1:30 a.m. with Ma in her kerchief and Pa in his cap, Jamie what in the world were you doing walking down Cathy O. road alone — just think of all that moonlight you (wasted?)

Anyone looking for summer jobs can contact Mr. Geiger, he's got some very ingenious ideas.

Some Biology students are not turning green with envy but, blue with dye!

Phil Gretter's after the Ham Supper party was the scene of a lot of fun and food. Mr. Lawson your telephone call originated here, Jean McCoige are you the villain?

Anne Behmer and Merrie K. Stoneburner were visited by a couple of South Bend citizens Saturday night. Anne's steady plus one.

I imagine many of you democratic minded Americans have been watching the campaign for party nominations. Never to be put in the background — Culver has had some campaigning of its own. The eighth grade girls have had very catchy posters up declaring their abilities, etc.

The eighth grade girls have hit the spotlight once more this week by performing an amazing feat — a triumphant tramp or I should say walk around the lake.

In case someone hasn't noticed, we have a new couple around C.H.S. which consists of Barbara Moore and Mike Miller.

One more hurried week is drawing to a close and with it this column, so as they always say "I'll be seeing you in all the old familiar places."

CHURCH BELLS AND EASTER EGGS

Church bells, not rabbits, are said to deliver Easter eggs in Belgium and France according to World Book Encyclopedia, one legend says that the bells, which do not ring from Good Friday to Easter, fly to Rome. They return on Easter and drop the eggs.

Arthur Alexander Is Honored

ARTHUR ALEXANDER
By JOAN BARSHES

On Saturday, April 2, a certificate of merit was given to a teacher on Culver's faculty. This teacher was Mr. Arthur Alexander.

This award was given to him by the Indiana Industrial Education Association at their annual convention in Indianapolis, as being the 1960 outstanding Industrial Arts teacher in eastern Indiana.

The plaque reads: "Certificate of merit awarded to Arthur Alexander in recognition of results attained by his interest in his profession, his community, and the contributions Industrial Arts makes to the total school program; his ability to direct and guide pupil interest and attainment as demonstrated by the prominent place of his school's program; his ability to organize content and present it through interesting laboratory methods; and because of his cooperation with pupils, teachers, the administration and the community as these apply to the field of Industrial Arts."

Men of his own profession selected him for this fine award. Congratulations Mr. Alexander, we're very proud of you.

BERYL LOU WARRAN IMPROVING IN FORT WAYNE HOSPITAL

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Warran, 205 E. Wabash St., Culver, visited their daughter, Beryl Lou, Sunday at St. Joseph Hospital in Fort Wayne.

Miss Warran was seriously injured on March 17 when she was hit by a car as she was leaving a city bus in front of her apartment at 1102½ East Jefferson St. in Fort Wayne.

Her parents report that her condition is improving, but she is still unable to be on crutches and will be in the hospital for about three more weeks.

Sportscasting

By EARL MISHLER

The track team had two meets last week as their schedule begins to take shape.

Tuesday evening, Culver defeated LaPaz, 75-34, in the midst of a rain-shower. Among the first places gained by Culver boys were: Dave Washburn in the 100-yard dash, pole vault, and shot put; George Baker in the half-mile; Gary Dillon in the mile.

Thursday evening at Knox, the team did not fare quite as well. Culver finished third in a three-way among Hamlet, Knox, and Culver. Hamlet, with their best track team in years, was first, while the hosts were second. Washburn's first in the 100-yard dash was Culver's only first, although Dave was nosed out in the shot put, and George Baker lost in a "Photo finish" in the half-mile.

The high school boys' table tennis tournament has reached the quarter-final round, with eight of the thirty-two original boys remaining. They are: Jim Hall, Jamie Piersol, Corky Walter, Bob Kerrigan, Gary Dillon, Don Wynn, Dave Washburn, and Earl Mishler.

Athletic Awards Made At Convocation

Tuesday morning in assembly many of the boys who have participated in sports were rewarded for their efforts.

Seventh graders winning a four-inch red "C" were: Jim Boswell, Herschel Odle, Dave Lemar, Bill Osborn, Doug Lindvall, Peter DeTroy, Jim Lewis, and John Kibort. Eighth graders awarded the same were: Paul White, Ned Davis, Frank Kirt, Bob Carter, Shaun Donnelly, Brian Piersol, Tom Yocom, Charles Snyder, Sam Lowry, and Tom Miracle.

Coach Benbrook told us about the types of awards, major, minor, and freshman numerals. He said that a boy could win four major awards: a letter, sweater, chevrons, and jacket.

Freshman winning numerals were Thad Overmyer, Dennis Shock, Jerry Nelson, Rick Ervin, Wade Logan, Robbie Ogden, and Mike Geiger.

Minor awards were presented to George Baker, Rodney Edgington, George Herr, John Cromley, Corky Walter, and Ronald Osborn.

Cafeteria Staff Feeds 425 Hungry Indians Daily

By STANLEY CURTIS

Behind every one of the 425 meals which are served daily at our school cafeteria, there is much thought, planning, and work.

When this reporter visited the cafeteria seeking material for this story, around the myriad machines — potato peeler, ovens, ranges, dishwasher, automatic laundry, a large three-door refrigerator, large mixer, as well as other sundry items which one would expect to be found in a kitchen — were standing the four regular workers in our cafeteria, Mrs. Anne Waite, Mrs. Zetta Shaw, Mrs. Marie Cowen, and Mrs. Katie Saft. Mrs. LaVerne Geiger works in the cafeteria during the serving hours.

Mrs. Waite, who is the manager of the cafeteria, plans all the menus under the supervision of Mrs. Straif, our home economics instructor, who checks in order that our menus be complete and nutritious. After the menus have been selected, Mrs. Waite orders the food from one of several food wholesalers in South Bend, and also tries to work in any surplus which the government may give the cafeteria through the school lunch program.

The ladies who work in the cafeteria arrive at the school at 8:00 in the morning to begin preparing the food. All during the morning, students who normally would have a study hall period, are excused to assist in the cafeteria. There are ten such students altogether.

After the food has been prepared the serving begins. The cafeteria staff prepares the plates for the lower grades, so that after they have turned their tickets in, they are seated at a table which is completely set and prepared. Student assistants aid in placing the prepared plates on the tables, and cleaning the tables after the students are finished with their meals.

The lower grades begin the lunch hour at 11:00 a.m. and by the time that the entire high school body is through the cafeteria line, the clock usually reads 12:20, which means about an hour-and-a-half of intensive work for the staff.

Mrs. Waite tries to remain on call during this period so she can remove the pans from the stove or oven just before the servers need them. This insures everyone of a hot meal. At this time, too, she generally supervises the dining room.

After all the plates have been taken to the scrapers by the students, they are washed, dried, and placed back on their respective shelves, and the tables are washed in preparation for another day of hungry Culver Indians. By the time this is completed, and the kitchen is tidied-up, the time is usually 3:30, which is the average hour at which the staff goes home.

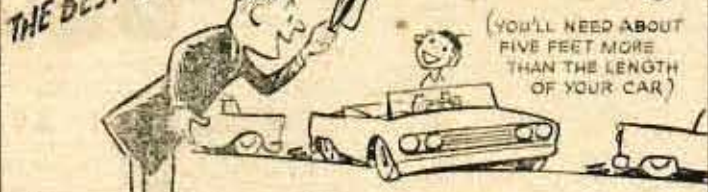

We all certainly thank the cafeteria staff for their work during this school year, and because of their diligent efforts, none of us has gone hungry this year.

Trials Of Getting To School Daily

By SHARI YOCOM

"Ugh! Do you have to jump on my stomach EVERY morning? I mean, really, I can be awakened by something less vigorous like a cannon shot or reveille blown riple forte into my ear. Now go m down stairs and tell mother I don't want any breakfast this morning — well, go on — all right — PLEASE go downstairs and tell mother I don't want any breakfast this morning —"

Thus begins a typical school day. I then proceed to inspect my wardrobe, trying to come up with a combination that has not yet been worn. Which at last one is found it is about 7:50.

"Omigod! I forgot to read that story Mr. Graham assigned yesterday. Better skim through . . . (blare) . . . Tom, turn down your radio . . . (blare) . . . Tom, turn down your radio . . . (blare) . . . TOM, TURN DOWN YOUR RADIO!"

"Shar! did you . . . (mumble, mumble)."
"What?"
"I said, did you holler at me?"
" . . . oh, no of course not . . ."

ALLWAYS
"Okay. That's all I wanted to now BLARE!"

"TOM!"
"Whaddaya want!"
"TURN THAT THING OFF!"
"Aw, shut up and crawl back a your cage!"

"I have to read my literature!"
"Well, why didn't you SAY so!"
All is silent on the home front:
I read . . . (meow) . . . (meow) . . .
"Go way!" . . . "I give up!"
So I open the door and let the cat in. I read some more and finally, by completely ignoring it outside doors, I manage to finish the story. By then it's about 8:00 and I'm downstairs.

"Yerbreakfastready!" Mother announces from the kitchen. After chasing my little brother round the house with the nearest club handy, I inform my mother that "Ape," that for all practical purposes is my brother, "as supposed to tell her I didn't want any breakfast. I then amulate over the blocks and around the race cars and fire engines to be stairway and call to my dear" brother.

While the extra food is being taken care of I brush my hair and comb my teeth (I find it works much better that way) and then find I have forgotten to ring my lipstic with me. I make a dash for my purse and when I get to a halt I find it's too late, mom is already occupying the space in front of the mirror.

"Kookie, kookie — get the heck out of the bathroom! I have to put my lipstic."

He moves over and I am allotted six-inch square on the mirror, then I finally am satisfied I at last look alive. I pick up my books and head for school. I walk about a block and remember that need my diarin-t seventh period. Tom and I usually depart multaneously and arrive at school about 8:25.

That, ladies and gentlemen, includes our tour through a typical home on a very typical day before school.

Seniors Excited As Trip Nears

By JOAN BARBERS AND PAT VANSCHOIACK

Seventh: The class is having a tating party on April 22, to be held at the local skating rink.

Eighth: The eighth grade candidates for next year's officers have been busy campaigning. They have some very clever slogans and posters. Good luck to you all. The girls are looking forward to their Mother's Tea which will be held on a day in the future. They will model the clothes they made this semester in Home ec. The boys are also getting their shop projects finished.

Tenth: The Sophomores are very proud of the fact that they made $103 on their recent movie. Quite a class of eager beavers, wouldn't you say? This was their first project of the year, but they're looking forward to another "successful" (financially, that is) year as JUNIORS.

Seniors: The seniors are very excited about going on the senior trip. They received their itineraries and you've probably seen them reading them over and over. Sounds so exciting, doesn't it? April 28 is the magic day for them, and one they will remember for a long time. All senior class members and pay heed, please — pay for all invitations and any other bills you may have as soon as possible.

Grades Report On Activities

By JEAN DITMIRE, NANCY FLOESZNER, AND JAMIE PIERSON

Mrs. Keyser — First: Andrea Vernum had a birthday March 28. She treated the room to ice cream, bread sticks and balloons. The first graders have also seen many signs of Spring. Terry Babcock, Melissa Guise, Brenda Lindvall, and Mary Wieringa made a very nice Easter Bulletin board for our room.

Miss Whan — First: Debbie Martin and Dennis Reinhold both celebrated their seventh birthdays by having parties in the class room. Victor Triplet, who also had a birthday, brought candy bars for the class on his seventh birthday. The children are looking forward to their Mother's Tea on Thursday, April 14, at 2:30. They are busy preparing a program and looking forward to entertaining their parents.

Mrs. McLane — First and second: We want to thank all the many parents and friends who stopped in for our Open House. We are decorating our room for Spring.

Miss Page — Second: Our mother's Tea is April 8. We hope all our mothers can be there. The following children have April birthdays: Steven Osborn, Jim Baker, Bonnie Day, and Velda Prosser.

Mrs. Carter — Third: Richard Snyder had a birthday dinner at his home Monday evening to celebrate his birthday. There were 13 persons present. Robie Hall brought some things that his grandmother brought from Mexico. Among them were a sombrero, a puppet, and a Mexican toy. We have decorated our room with Easter posters. We have also completed our science books and are now reading supplementary readers.

Future C.H.S. Is Pictured

By KATHY CLYNE, PAT HICKS, AND JEAN McCOIGE

Come with us to the C.H.S. of 1984

Just then the awakener set off the vibration waves and I was up and had my breakfast pill in a few seconds. Quickly I flipped on the classroom and just in time, because Miss Lindvall was checking attendance. Since it was a 2-way T.V., I tried to look wide awake and settled down to a serious discussion in math.

Next class was B-ship driving class. The last driving class had put me "low man on the totem pole" — my emergency landing gear was on top of a factory chimney. So I made notes and answers like crazy about the new instrument panel. My mother needed some help with her C-ship imagine landing on Formosa when aiming at Hawaii.

The blue light on my desk panel was flickering so I nulled the phone — it was mother smiling on the phone picture tube — "just checking," she said sweetly and faded out.

That made me late for my next class and as I flipped the T.V. on, I heard the vibrant voice of Mr. Graham. He was stating his "Don't wait and see" policy. Then he went on about Hamlet. For an earth-bound creature, Shakespeare was quite a guy.

Lunch pills were yellow and brown and orchid, no wonder I had indigestion.

Science class called for assembly so I waited on the launching pad until the school ship scooped me up. Science study was at the 40-mile level and required deep concentration. The space station we were using was drafty and it turned out to be a pretty boring review. I looked for my No-Nods, but they were back on my desk.

We floated back to the school field for physical fitness and Miss Overmyer directed in calisthenics for the next hour. We were all eager for our vitamin break after that session.

On Mondays and Thursdays, I studied Russian. On Tuesdays and Fridays it was Spanish and on Wednesdays the beginners class in Japanese was held. This being Friday, we jetted to Mexico City where Senor Muno roared questions at us in Spanish until we were dizzy.

There was a big athletic rally that night so we jetted back to the school gym. It was just like old times, watching Culver and Argos battle it out on the basketball court. Of course Culver won.

Opinions Vary On Sack Dress

By MERRIE KAY STONE-BURNER AND CHRIS CROY

"Are you glad sack dresses didn't come back this Spring and why?" This was the question, which confronted our tribe this week.

Cathy Overmyer-No. If they would have come back nobody could tell I've gained five pounds.

Lila Bean-No. Then everyone wouldn't see my size and have to put up with it.

Sharon Baker-No. During the winter I ate so much I lost my waist line and if I wore a sack dress no one could tell.

Sharon Spahr-Yes. Spring is supposed to be the season of flowers and romance. Who can get very romantic over protoplasm in a sack.

Jean Eikenberry-Yes. Because if they would have I would have to buy new dresses since I lost a few pounds.

Linda Banks-No. I liked them. Jean Warner-Yes. I didn't like them so I only bought two.

Nancy Ervin-No. I loved them. Bill Schmidt-No. I liked the design. I like the sack look, I guess.

Edna Mense-I don't know. I couldn't afford to buy any, anyway.

Mary Mevis-Yes. I think they looked ridiculous.

Jean Dittmire-Yes. Some of them looked like gunny sacks.

Barbara Moore-Yes. I never could wear them.

Karen Kemple-Yes. I didn't like them.

Jean McCoige-Yes. I only thought they looked good on some people.

Linda Gibbons-Yes. They looked crude.

Sharon Lindvall-I didn't care for them much either.

Anne Behmer-Yes. They were just a passing fad.

Nancy Burns-Yes. It makes people butze in all the wrong places.

Betty Zechel-Yes. I didn't think they did anything for a girl's figure.

Rochelle Good-Yes. They made you look like a barrel.

SPEED DEMON - His feat may not impress young hot rodders but a Dearborn County man, Bonard Dam of Homestead, is mighty proud of a gold medal he received for winning a bicycle race back in 1898. Dam finished first in a field of twelve in a race from Rising Sun to Lawrenceburg. He covered the 13 1/2 miles on his two-wheeler in 46.1 minutes.

Barnes has been named chief switchman in the telephone company's Michigan City office. Hatten has been exchange repairman here.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

He "Auto" Know Better

Should have seen the crowd come running when Cap Edwards breezed up to the Post Office in his brand-new buggy. It's one of those pint-size foreign cars with the motor in back and the trunk up front.

While folks opened doors, poked upholstery and peered under the hood, Cap went in to pick up his mail. A minute later a fellow came up to him, all out of breath.

"Say, mister," he said to Cap, "better get back to your car. Somebody's opened the hood and swiped your whole auto engine!"

From where I sit, most of us are people of habit—new things take some getting used to. And, too, most of us have "favorites" for which there'll never be a substitute. For instance, my summer Saturday nights are spent on the porch with a refreshing glass of beer and close friends. Now maybe you have a "newer, better" way to spend Saturday. Fine! You do it your way. I'll do it mine. That's American— isn't it?

Three of the four team members won the top three positions in the individual four-position championship race. Lathrop took first place with 487, Perlstein was second, and Mac Whiteford third, both with 481 scores.

East Shore Will Get Natural Gas During 1961

It will be a great day for Culver when natural gas comes to our community later this year through the mains of the Northern Indiana Public Service Co.

The town's chances of attracting new industry here will be twice as great when natural gas becomes available.

The initial project calls for the extension of the gas mains from the corporation limits to the Academy.

Here is real good news! James P. Parcell, NIPSCO manager of public relations at Hammond, has written The Citizen's publisher as follows:

Chief Engineer Quoted

"I discussed the extension of gas service to the East Shore with the chief engineer of the project and he tells me that it is definitely planned for the summer of 1961. In the meantime, he suggests that if you are rebuilding before that time you install propane gas rather than oil since the conversion is much simpler and less costly."

ON THE DOT - The man who turned in the alarm when a disastrous fire broke out in the Washington County town of Pekin pinpointed exactly the time he discovered the blaze. Said Lloyd Gibson: "It was just as Maverick was coming on television."

The Week With Governor Handley

Youth Conference At White House; Low Road Bids

INDIANAPOLIS, April 4 — "Community action and stricter family control are the surest cures for juvenile delinquency," Governor Harold W. Handley said here today following a flying trip to Washington in which he met with the 140 Indiana delegates to the White House Conference on Youth.

"Laws and the enforcement of those laws certainly can help to regulate the small percentage of our young people who are anti-social and destructive," Governor Handley said.

"But regardless of the value of a national exchange of views and findings by delegates from all parts of the country, every community is different. The people who live in each community are better qualified to handle their problems effectively than those who live at a distance."

Good Citizenship Stressed
The Governor urged acceptance of juvenile training as primarily a family responsibility. He said that "good citizenship by good example" is a vital factor.

"Where there is adult delinquency there will be juvenile delinquency. We can't expect our young people to observe our laws when their parents won't."

Governor Handley flew to Washington Wednesday evening after explaining at a news conference how a detailed study is being made by citizen groups in each county of problems of the aged and aging.

"Indiana played an outstanding part in the White House Conference on Youth," Governor Handley said. He praised the Hoosier delegation for having refused federal expense money.

"Thus they were able to express the Hoosier viewpoint in a manner that is impossible when the delegation is subsidized by federal handouts," he said.

"The Indiana delegation was of particular interest when it reported the way we Hoosiers are conducting the war on pornography and smut that is essential if the minds of our young people are to remain clean and constructive."

Declares War On Fifth

"By persuading retailers not to peddle such fifth — by demonstrating that decent customers expect decent literature the same as they expect pure foods and drugs — we are making progress in this war without indulging in official censorship."

"Customer selectivity can be a most effective weapon in this fight."

Governor Handley said that "a most important state conference on the problems of the aged and aging will be held here in Indiana next autumn, as a preliminary to the 1961 White House Conference that will deal with this problem. "Regional conferences will be held throughout the state this spring to consider specific topics.

"Those who really know the facts are great admirers of the Indiana program for helping our elderly citizens. We are not sitting on our hands, waiting for another Washington bureau to come in and spend a lot more of the people's money. We are doing our citizens' job of community good housekeeping without outside interference."

State Highway Program

Governor Handley expressed elation over the latest letting of bids for the state highway expansion program. "When the lowest bids consistently run between 12 and 15% below the engineers' estimates, you can be sure that we are enjoying lively competitive bidding, and also that the people are getting the most highway value for their gasoline tax dollars."

Governor Handley said that "there is going to be a lot of ribbon-cutting on new highways this year throughout Indiana. Drive around our state in any direction and you will see what we are doing to keep our highways adequate and safe."

The Governor spoke to an all-campus student convocation at Ball State Teachers College last Monday, asserting that "there is no greater opportunity than that of teaching young Americans the great story of our past and preparing them for the challenging years of the future."

Last week he also participated in an official inspection of the State Reformatory at Pendleton and the State Women's Prison.

Praises Shrine Hospitals

Governor Handley officiated in opening ceremonies at the Shrine Circus in Indianapolis Thursday evening. He praised the Shrine and affiliated organizations "for what they are doing to make such good entertainment possible for children, and the Shrine hospitals for crippled children."

ONE CAN never pay in gratitude; one can only pay "in kind" somewhere else in life. — Anne Morrow Lindbergh

JOHN BABCOCK TAKES PART IN NORTHWESTERN POLITICAL CONVENTION

John Babcock, son of Dr. and Mrs. T. L. Babcock of East Shore Lane in Culver, is participating as a delegation chairman in the 1960 Northwestern University Mock Political Convention.

Mock Political Convention is a bi-partisan nomination convention which has been held at Northwestern each presidential election year since 1908. Over 2000 Northwestern students participate in the convention as delegates and alternates. During the two-day, three-session event, students adopt a platform of eight planks and nominate their choice for president and vice-president of the United States.

The results of this convention represent the feelings and views of young people as to government, present day policies and political parties. Many nationally known senators, representatives, governors and political figures will address the convention delegates.

Art Students Work On Pottery

By SHARON LINDVALL.
The high school has started pottery. Each student has slab construction; they will roll the clay out to even thickness, cut out a piece according to a pattern and fasten them together. They will make coffee mugs, salt and pepper shakers, boxes with lids on them; these are only some of the many ways to work with clay.

The students that have already made something with clay can do anything they want to now.

Mr. Dennis's sixth grade work in groups of four; they are working on tall narrow panels of flower designs.

A lot of the grade school students have been making Easter designs, including rabbit pictures.

When the weather permits, the band can be seen and heard, we might add, practicing marching outside.

A party for the high school band and choir members is being planned for sometime in the near future.

In the near future, also, the band will give a convocation for the school during the fourth period.

Four band concerts are planned for this summer, on which we will start rehearsing soon.

Last minute scoop on the "Marching Indians" — we've been invited to participate in the 500-mile parade which will be held two days prior to the 500-mile race itself.

POWERFUL - Today's farmer is a highly mechanized businessman. Department of Agriculture figures show more than 4,750,000 tractors on U. S. farms which now supply the power formerly supplied by about 20 million horses. U. S. farmers also have some 9 million motor trucks on their farms. It is estimated that Hoosier farmers own nearly 100,000 trucks which count toward the 2 million national figure.

USE EASTER SEALS

New Clothes On Easter Is An Ancient Custom

The first Easter Parade weren't the fashion shows Irving Berlin wrote about, but the celebration of a "New Life."

The custom of wearing new clothes on Easter Sunday dates from the early days of Christianity, when newly baptized Christians were clothed in garments of white linen.

"The New Life"
Researchers with World Book Encyclopedia report that baptism has always been closely associated with Easter. Just as the Resurrection represents the new life of Christ, so baptism represents the initiation of the believer into a new life.

In the early Church, Lent was the annual season of preparation for baptism, and the sacrament was celebrated on Holy Saturday during the Easter Vigil.

Eventually all Christians began to dress up for a joyful parade through town — much to the joy of today's clothing manufacturers.

In fact, it might have been an early advertising executive who coined the English rhyme, "At Easter let your clothes be new, or else be sure you will it rue!"

minate private property, would certainly be considered outright murder by Jesus.

I report that Jesus would insist that the reforms be voluntary and that men should let God (who, He said, is a Spirit) do the punishing.

In order for me to take Premier Khrushchev seriously in his purported "respect for the Sermon on the Mount," he would have to raise the iron curtain full-length and stop persecuting any people.

However, because Khrushchev is not consistent in no reason why we should be lax in practicing the teachings of Jesus in His Sermon on the Mount.

What Russians Can Teach Us About Religion

Jesus Would O.K. President's Help

By ROGER W. BABSON
No. 1 U.S. Economist

Babson Park, Mass. — I rather hesitate to write this column because some people may think that I am getting favorable toward Russia; but let me first assure you that I detest many things Russia is doing and was glad to get out of the country.

Nevertheless, I can always learn something wherever I go, and from any nationality. Those who keep their eyes shut and their ears plugged are getting more ignorant every day and are only fooling themselves.

What Russians Mean
Although I visited a church in Russia where, on the previous Sunday morning there had been 1,000 people standing on their knees (these churches have no seats), yet 95 per cent of the one billion people in Moscow and the 100 million in its suburbs will tell you they are "atheists."

Some of them say they do not believe in "God," but the majority tell you they do not believe Jesus was the "Son of God."

They say that Jesus was the great leader and founder of Christianity, just as Buddha was the founder of Buddhism, Mohammed the founder of Mohammedanism, and Confucius the founder of Confucianism.

I am not acquainted with all the church denominations in this country; but I am told that the Unitarian branch and some of the Pacific Coast branches of the Protestant church may feel about the same toward Jesus as the Russian leaders. (I cannot speak authoritatively on Russia as a whole, as Moscow was the only city which I visited.)

Sermon On The Mount
When I was talking with some prominent Communists in Moscow about Christianity, they first made the point that a very small portion of the Bible consists of Jesus' own words.

They realize that the Old Testament is a history of the Jewish people and may be found in many Moscow libraries translated into Russian.

They, however, would substitute the teachings of Nikolai Lenin, the founder of Communism, in place of the writings of St. Paul. When a Russian does this, he feels justified in calling himself an atheist, although this is not the description which Webster's Dictionary gives for an atheist.

I had no personal talk when in Moscow with Nikita Khrushchev, the Premier, he being in Peiping at the time; but I met people who claimed to know his thoughts. They told me that Mr. Khrushchev has said that if we Christians in the U.S. followed the teachings of Jesus in the Sermon on the Mount, Communism might have had no opportunity to develop.

The Big Difference
Seldom do I ask followers of my column to read anything; but I do ask you to read today Jesus' Sermon on the Mount (as found in the fifth chapter of Matthew) and relate it to our present mode of life.

It agrees pretty well with the Communists' goal of taking care of their less fortunate people and seeing that all are fed, housed, and clothed, and that those who are qualified have a proper education, etc.

Jesus also warned against wealth as a handicap to proper living. Certainly, Jesus would heartily approve the desire of President Eisenhower to help backward nations and unfortunate people.

But, Jesus insisted that these changes should come about voluntarily and not by force.

The wicked massacres by the Communists in Hungary and other countries, merely to eli-

BIG NEWS - There was great excitement at the Clay County town of Cory when word got around that quintuplets had been born at the farm of Glenn Turner, southeast of Cory. The excitement subsided but not much when it was learned that the quads were born to a registered brown Swiss cow. County Agent, R. C. McFarlane says quadruplets are rare in bovine circles, probably not more than half a dozen a year in the United States.

STAGE STEP OUT - At a dance for seventh and eighth graders in Greendale (Dearborn County) the girls were dancing with each other while most of the boys were sitting bashfully on the sidelines. Suddenly the boys scrambled out on the floor and the girls dashed off. The cause of the commotion became apparent when one of the young gentlemen stood up in the middle of the dance floor holding by the tail a flux mouse he had captured.

Anyone who's looked around knows the majority of Chevrolet models—6's and V8's together—list for less than comparable models of other low-priced cars. But the price tag alone is only one of a whole raft of reasons a Chevy does better by your dollars.

Nothing near Chevy's size and price can match the Full Coil cushioning of its ride, or the fine, finished workmanship of its Body by Fisher. That even applies to some cars that cost a lot more. You're up in the higher price brackets before you find a car that moves as quietly as a Chevrolet or offers the inner space that Chevrolet does.

Or look at the extras Chevy gives you—at no extra cost—that others in its class can't offer at any price. Shock-cushioned steering. Safety Plate Glass in every window. Keyless locking of all doors. Crank-operated vent windows. Chevrolet offers the widest choice of power teams, too. Drive a Chevy just once. You'll have a tough time settling for anything less.

EASTER

He is not here; for He has risen, even as He said.
Come, see the place where the Lord lay.

Matt. 28:6

Belief in the miracle of Easter can be the salvation of the world. It can end hatred among people and nations; it can prevent crime and war and poverty; it can bring peace to the entire world, and, to its inhabitants, freedom from want and fear and oppression.

Almighty God is merciful and just. His Word is the shining light that guides all men in the paths of righteousness. God is love, and those who believe in Him through our Lord Jesus Christ will reflect His teachings in their daily lives. This, then, is the solution to world problems today. Only through Godly wisdom and beliefs can all nations and peoples unite together in a civilization that will offer everlasting peace and security.

On this glorious Easter Sunday let us go into the House of the Lord, and pray that the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ will give us strength and understanding to see the working of His mighty power. Let us worship Him who suffered and died on Calvary's Cross so that we might be blessed with life everlasting. On this day and forever more may the world be filled with the gladness of a living hope.

The empty sepulcher where our Lord had lain means no more knowledge that they shall not perish, but shall live forever in the Kingdom of God. May this joy be in the hearts of all on this Holy Easter Day as we lift our voices and sing, "Christ the Lord is risen today, Alleluia!"

MAY THE BLESSINGS OF THE EASTER SEASON BE UPON YOU AND YOURS THIS DAY.

Look at the trees, green-crowned again after a winter of ash naked ugliness.

Linger near a newly-turned garden plot. Savor the rich, dusty smell of plowed loam . . . and ponder the eternal miracle of earth that transforms death and decay into new life.

WALK ON and watch a gaggle of wee girls gaily skipping rope — faces radiant, eyes sparkling, hearts overflowing with the joy of spring.

Listen to their singsong chattering:

"STRAWBERRY shortcake . . . huckleberry pie . . . tell me the initial of my good-looking guy . . . A-B-C-D-E . . . Mabel, Mabel . . . set the table . . . don't forget the B-E-D H-O-T P-E-P-P-E-R . . ."

Enjoy the warm flood of nostalgia the chattering provokes. You skipped to them in your own childhood, didn't you?

And you flew kites, like those boys over there. Do you suppose the modern generation knows how to send a paper "message" up the long, trailing string?

GO AHEAD . . . zip over and cheer 'em. You're not an old, waddlesome fuddy-duddy this night. You're a boy again . . . and it's spring.

Walk on — slowly, aimlessly, restfully. Walk to the dusk deepens and the sounds fade and night draws its cloak of quiet peace.

Contemplate the stars as they begin to twinkle like tiny diamonds in the dark, far-off mystery of outer spaces.

THEN GO HOME . . . your soul serenely at peace . . . your faith in eternity rekindled by spring's boundless, bursting new life.

Col. Rossow Dies

Here I am at the sumptuous Royal Hawaiian Hotel. I had a wonderful time on the ship and upon my arrival received several beautiful bouquets. It's so nice here today and I'm already in love with the place. Best regards to all Culver, CMA, and East Shore friends.

Letter of Appreciation

Editor, CITIZEN:

The Maxinkuckee Federated Junior Woman's Club would like to thank you for all your wonderful coverage of our recent style show. The placement of the advertisements was always excellent and we appreciate it very much.

Since the final bills are not all in, we can't give an accounting this week, but it seems we will have a nice sum to divide between the Girl Scout camp (and the Art Department).

Thank you again for your fine cooperation.

Here's a new dip that has a tangy, smoky taste to go with potato chips or crackers. Better make a double batch as one taste desires another.

SMOKED EGG DIP

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|---|
| 12 hard-cooked eggs, riced or sieved | 2 drops Tabasco |
| 2 tablespoons soft butter | 1 teaspoon salt |
| 1½ teaspoons liquid smoke seasoning | ¼ teaspoon ground pepper |
| 1 tablespoon lemon juice or vinegar | ½ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing |
| 2 teaspoons prepared mustard | Garnish: radish slices |
| 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce | Accompaniments: potato chips and tiny rolls |

Combine all ingredients except garnish and accompaniments. Beat until smooth. If desired, add more seasonings. Have consistency soft enough to permit potato chips to be dipped into it easily. Refrigerate until ready to serve. About 30 minutes before serving, remove from refrigerator and beat or whip dip to fluff and soften it. Pile into chilled bowl. Garnish with radish slices. Serve with potato chips and tiny rolls. Makes 1 quart.
 NOTE: The Smoked Egg mixture makes an excellent sandwich filling.

Miniature cream puffs can be your specialty. Make them from your favorite recipe or from a package of mix, then fill with any of your best fillings—instant puddings, cream cheese with a few nutmeats, or this tasty one.

DEVILED CHEESE FILLING

Mix together 1 cup grated American cheese, $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. mustard, 3 tbsp. mayonnaise, $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. Worcestershire sauce, 1 tsp. grated onion, 5 to 6 drops Tabasco sauce, $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. celery seeds. Makes 1 cup filling.

COCONUT MACAROON SNAPPERS

Make up macaroon dough from mix or your own favorite recipe. Place 3 pecan or walnut halves with ends together in center for each macaroon on baking paper. Drop dough onto center of nuts and bake. While warm, top with Thin Chocolate Icing.

Thin Chocolate Icing

Melt together over hot water 1 square chocolate (1 oz.), 1 tsp. butter. Remove from over hot water. Blend in 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar, 2 tbsp. boiling water. Beat only until smooth but not stiff.

BACON SCALLOPS

16 to 20 slices bacon, cut in half
1 package (7 ounces) frozen pre-cooked Sea Scallops

Sea Food Cocktail Dip

Fry bacon until partly cooked but not crisp. Drain. Put each frozen scallop on a toothpick. Place a piece of bacon on the toothpick on each side of scallop, folding bacon 2 or 3 times. Place on rack with drip pan (such as broiler rack and pan). Bake in hot oven (425°F.) 10 to 12 minutes, turning once. Drain. Serve hot with Sea Food Cocktail. Makes 16 to 20 hors d'oeuvres.

SEA FOOD COCKTAIL DIP

$\frac{1}{2}$ cup catsup
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon salad oil
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon onion salt
 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon pepper

Combine all ingredients, mixing well. Chill, if desired. Serve with sea food. Makes about $\frac{1}{2}$ cup.

TURKEY MORSELS

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1 cup chopped cooked turkey gizzards (or hearts and livers) | 2 tablespoons lemon juice or white vinegar |
| 1/4 cup soft butter | 1 tablespoon grated horse-radish |
| 2 tablespoons mayonnaise | 1/4 teaspoon ground pepper |
| 2 tablespoons catsup | 1/4 teaspoon salt |
| | 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard |

Then beat all ingredients together until smooth.) Cover and refrigerate to mellow several hours or longer. Use as a spread for appetizers. Or shape into balls and roll in toasted sesame seed, chopped parsley, nuts, chives, crushed potato chips or ready-to-eat cereal. Giant mushrooms can be stuffed for another variation. Springtime

The very arrival of Spring seems to create a festive mood—the warm balmy air . . . trees bursting in bud . . . the gaiety of the garden scene as purple crocus, golden daffodils, stately narcissus and bright-hued tulips unfold before our eyes. Springtime just seems to call for a celebration!

Of course, we can make this gala affair elaborate and festive, or simple yet gay—and have fun at either occasion. If we wish it to be elaborate we'll begin with fancy appetizers, possibly spread with a turkey paté we've made ourselves, and along with these we may serve miniature pinwheel sandwiches and shrimp crescents, just to get the party started.

It's more than probable that we'll serve the dinner itself buffet style, regardless of how formal or informal it is. If we want to be particularly impressive we can arrange slices of hickory-smoked ham on a silver tray, garnishing the platter with pear halves decorated with softened cream cheese and circles of candied cherries . . . Another artistic idea for an entrée is a cold Ribbon Party Loaf. In this we'll use cranberry sauce, diced cooked chicken, diced peppers and celery.

For an informal meal, Sour Cream Meat Balls served in a chafing dish forms the basis for a buffet supper . . . Another attractive idea may be Horns of Plenty in the form of cornucopias of ham filled with green beans that have been marinated in a zesty vinaigrette dressing and spooned into the cornucopias. These may be served hot or cold . . . Shrimp Curry offers another exciting possibility.

Of course, it's the dessert which proves the ultimate triumph of the party! Peaches Jubilee carried in with flames dancing would provide a most dramatic finale. This is easy too, just moisten sugar cubes in lemon or orange extract, light them, and while your guests enjoy watching the merry blaze, pour the coffee.

If you want a "conversation piece" for the informal affair, a Royal Pineapple Cake proves full of delightful surprises. Let's swing into Spring by creating a bit of festivity of our own!

PIN WHEEL SANDWICHES

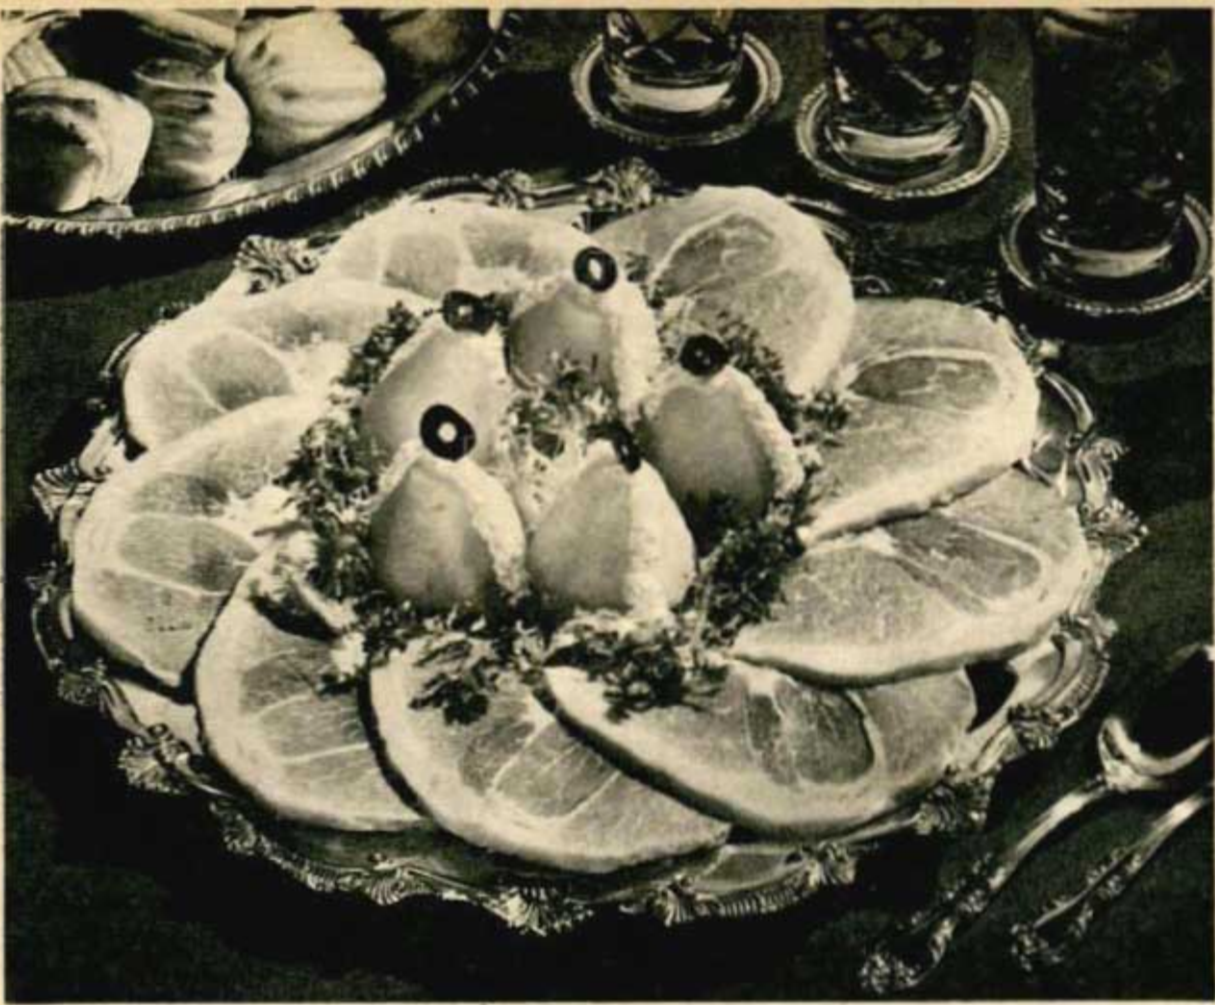

- | | |
|---|---|
| 1/2 cup peanut butter | 2 lengthwise thin slices enriched bread (cut from unsliced sandwich loaf) |
| 6 tablespoons chopped, seedless raisins | |
| 6 tablespoons orange juice | |

Combine peanut butter, raisins and orange juice. Spread 1/2 cup raisin-peanut butter mixture on each slice of bread. Cut each slice in equal halves crosswise. Roll each half slice of bread as for jelly roll. Wrap each roll in waxed paper, twisting ends of paper. Place on a flat surface so that roll rests on last turn of bread; chill. To serve: unwrap and cut each roll into 6 slices. Yield: 24 Pin Wheel Sandwiches.

SHRIMP CRESCENTS

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|--------------------------|
| 1/2 cup cooked, finely chopped shrimp | 2 teaspoons lemon juice |
| 1/2 cup finely chopped celery | 6 slices enriched bread |
| 1/2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing | 1 tablespoon soft butter |

Combine shrimp, celery, mayonnaise and lemon juice. Spread each slice of bread with butter. Cut each slice of bread into 4 crescents with a cookie cutter. Spread 1 teaspoon shrimp mixture on each crescent. Garnish if desired. Yield: 24 Shrimp-Crescents.

To complete this party buffet menu, serve a tangy meat sauce over the ham, relishes, fresh asparagus with hollandaise sauce, hot rolls, fruit tarts and coffee.

HAM SLICES WITH TANGY MEAT SAUCE
20 servings

- | | |
|---|---------------------------------|
| 1 (8-pound) Fully-Cooked Ham, or 1 (6-pound) Canned Ham | 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce |
| 2 tablespoons butter | 4 egg yolks, slightly beaten |
| 2 tablespoons flour | 1 cup pineapple juice |
| ½ teaspoon salt | 1 cup cream |
| 2 tablespoons sugar | 6 tablespoons horseradish |
| 1 tablespoon prepared mustard | |

Slice cold ham and arrange on platter. If served hot, follow directions on label for heating in oven.

To make sauce, melt butter in heavy saucepan. Add flour, salt, sugar, mustard and Worcestershire sauce. Blend. Combine egg yolks and pineapple juice and add to first mixture. Stir in cream and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thick. Add horseradish. Serve hot or cold. Makes 2½ cups or 20 servings.

Meanwhile heat tomatoes and force through sieve. As meatballs are browned, drop into drained tomato. Stir flour into drippings and blend into tomatoes. Add salt. Cover, and boil slowly about 30 minutes. Cut olives from pits into large pieces. Just before serving stir olives and sour cream into tomato sauce. Heat thoroughly. Serve with hot rice. Serves 6 to 8.

Gold Ribbon Winner at Wisconsin State Fair gives you her recipe for Dealer's Choice Rolls

"I'm a real recipe doodler," says Mrs. Franklin Gauer of Milwaukee, who won the new Gold Ribbon for yeast baking at the Wisconsin State Fair. "And my 'Dealer's Choice Rolls' can be made into twists, cloverleaves, whatever you like. Just be sure you use Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast—the kind we prize-winning cooks use. It's so fresh and fast rising your baking's bound to come out perfect!"

Dealer's Choice Rolls

- | | |
|---|---------------------|
| 2 packages Fleischmann's Active Dry Yeast | ½ cup sugar |
| ½ cup warm, not hot, water | 1½ teaspoons salt |
| ½ cup milk | ¼ cup shortening |
| | 2 eggs, beaten |
| | 5 cups sifted flour |

Dissolve yeast in warm water. Scald milk, stir in sugar, salt and shortening. Cool to lukewarm. Stir in lukewarm milk mixture. Add beaten eggs and 3 cups flour. Beat until smooth. Add additional flour. Turn out on board and knead lightly. Place in greased bowl. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Punch down and let rise again. Turn out on floured board and roll out about ¼ inch thick. Cut into rounds with 2½-inch cooky cutter. Crease each round with dull edge of knife to one side of center. Brush lightly with melted margarine or butter. Fold larger side over smaller so edges just meet. Place close together in greased and floured pan. Cover and let rise until light, about 30 minutes. Bake in moderately hot oven (375°F.) about 20 to 25 minutes.

ORIGINATORS OF DDT INSECTICIDES

Production of corn is probably the biggest job tackled by farmers each year. More acres of corn are grown than any other single crop and big improvements have taken place. This past year, 1959, about 84.5 million acres produced almost 4.4 billion bushels of corn—20% more than the same acreage in 1948 produced with similar weather.

Much more change in corn production will occur during the 1960's. New types of corn will be planted in different types of seed beds. More chemical weed and insect control will be used. Labor required per acre will be cut still further by the use of six- and eight-row planting and cultivating equipment and four-row harvesting machines. New harvesting and storing methods will be used on a much larger portion of the crop. These new techniques will permit farmers to cut the time needed to get corn planted from the present four-hours per acre all the way down to one hour or even less.

Seed companies and colleges are working to develop shorter stalked hybrids. Yields are lower than for more conventional corns but they're making progress. For example, in 1959, average dwarf yields in Illinois tests were 74.6 bushels at several locations throughout the state. Normal hybrids at the same locations yielded 96.2 bushels per acre.

Other developments in corn breeding also bear watching. Several companies are continually observing and selecting individual plants and strains that exhibit some resistance to various disease and insect problems such as corn borer, stalk rot, etc. The idea is to develop hybrids that will be more resistant to these pests. They are also working on multiple eared corn and special hybrids that yield about 30% more oil and 10% more protein than present commercial hybrids. This could mean more highly productive corn and improved feeding value in the near future.

Planting rates and methods are also undergoing changes. Seed corn producers already have seed which is more tolerant to thick planting. However, problems still exist. If moisture is ideal and fields highly fertile, populations of 20,000 or more stalks to the acre give maximum yields. Often, though, stalks are weak and a dry spell at the wrong time can cut yields sharply. These problems will be solved in coming years and we'll see average corn producers push their populations on up to the 20,000 plant level and more.

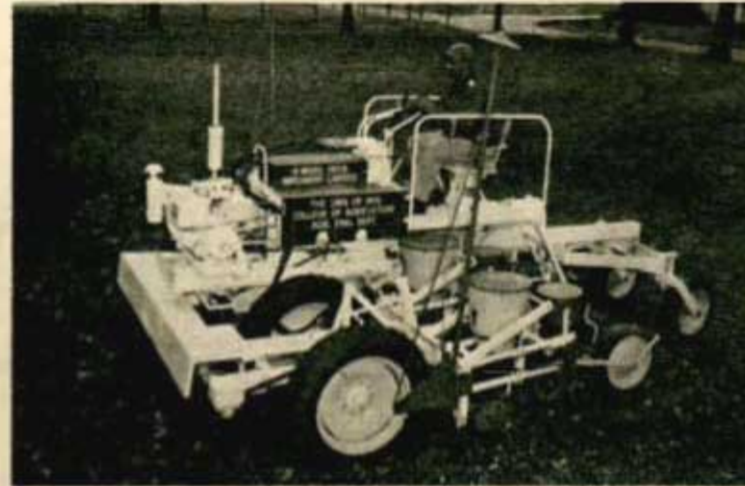

Another way to increase corn population without the problem of barren stalks and poor standability is through planting methods. A recent experimental method called "equidistant" has been devised. Whether it will be practical in the long run remains to be seen. Row widths are narrowed to 21 or 28 inches to give as much space between plant rows as between stalks in the row.

NEW ERA IN

CORN

PRODUCTION

A self-propelled wheel track planter may be the final answer to wheel-track planting. University of Wisconsin agricultural engineers have come up with this solution to complex planting operations. Since the operator is right on the planter he's in an excellent position to watch special equipment such as fertilizer attachments, insecticide applicators and band spraying equipment. The engineers also hope the carrier can be used for mounting spraying or swathing attachments.

New fertilizers will become increasingly important in new corn growing methods. Complete liquid fertilizers have been used for about five years and in many cases cut labor and heavy work of applying the plant nutrients needed for today's high corn yields. Up to now, the liquid fertilizers have been low analyses, since they would begin to "salt" out in cool weather but within a few years much higher analyses will be available and many of the ingredients will be of lower cost.

Corn combining has been increasing rapidly, especially in areas where the grain is stored in silos. One of the problems when combining is the relatively small-size grain tank on combines. Here this operator is using an auger wagon to expedite corn harvest and keep the combine moving as much of the time as possible. Old method of moving ear corn from the field to storage will give way as more of the crop is harvested shelled rather than by the ear.

Here's an example of the selection and breeding work being done by hybrid corn companies. In this case they have selected for resistance to stalk rot which is an inherited characteristic. Note how well the resistant strain, on this man's right, is standing compared to the very heavy lodging of the non-resistant strain on his left. Development work such as this can be a big help to you in getting improved yields and more profit.

CAREFUL ACCURATE PLANTING for HIGH CORN YIELDS

Most of the costs of producing corn are behind you by planting time. Plowing, disking, harrowing and major fertilizer applications have already been completed. You've made your major investments in the crop. If you don't get a good stand of corn, up at the right time, you haven't a chance of "coming out" on this investment. It's the most critical time of the season and you must be ready.

Careful maintenance, accurate planting rate and good field practice pretty well sum up what it takes to get the stand of corn you need to take advantage of your soil type and fertilizer applications. Without the stand, all other good practices you think of won't help produce maximum yields.

Go over your planter thoroughly before planting time. Make sure all units are square and straight. A press wheel bent to one side will dig more than it will cover. You may have one row of corn missing if weather turns off dry. Also if automatic markers are out of adjustment this will cost you enough time to plant an extra two or three acres of corn a day.

While you still have the planter in the service lot make sure all units are adjusted so they plant the same depth. Trying to control weeds when you have two rows of corn ankle high and the other two just coming through the ground is exasperating.

Check the valves carefully. Modern high speed planter valves can't be made as heavy as they used to be. The lighter metal wears out, bends or breaks. Have the clutch overhauled by your dealer if it doesn't seem to be functioning right. On many planters your stand depends on this if you're checking or hill dropping.

Almost every seed corn producer recommends a plate number for the corn you buy. This is a good starting point in selecting plates to use. Find out if possible how fast he ran the test-stand planting unit, though. You'll usually find he operated it more slowly than you'll travel when you're in the field.

As a general rule you can figure that you should use the next larger plate if you're planting at five miles per hour or more. If you hold field speed down to around three or 3½ mph, which is most desirable, the plate recommendation on the seed tag is about right.

All TWIN-WHEEL drive mowers are quick and easy to mount or hook up. Heavy-duty cutter bar mows in any position from a 45° down slope up to any slope that's practical to mow vertically.

The side-mounted 80-S is specially engineered to work simultaneously with hay conditioners. Watch for these and other new Allis-Chalmers hay tools on the way.

RAKE...gently with leaf-saving action

Move hay into windrows with minimum travel for more leaf savings, using the new PTO-driven parallel bar rake. Mounts with SNAP-COUPLES hitch on Allis-Chalmers tractors; available with 3-point hitch for other makes. When you want tedding as well as raking, try the No. 7 power rake.

BALE...into leaf-protecting round bales

Gentle, roll-up compression with ROTO-BALER gives more protein as proved by field tests. And once it's in round bales, hay is safe from summer showers. Experiment station tests show how much better round bales withstand weathering. Try the ROTO-BALER with new overdrive for increased capacity.

Under average soil and growing conditions you may be able to increase yields as much as 20 to 30 bushels by planting for stands as thick as this. Various tests have shown that the normal planting rate of 10,000 to 12,000 plants per acre on fertile soil is too low to obtain the yields your soil is capable of producing. Stands of 16,000 to 20,000 plants per acre will give more economical yields on fertile soil with adequate moisture.

Scoop up a basketful of ear corn out of your crib and check it for average ear size and weight. The average size of ear often reflects how thick your corn was planted. Corn specialists say that ears averaging one-half pound each are ideal. If your average ear weight is greater than this, then chances are you planted too light last year. Increase your planting rate so you can maintain an ear weight of about one-half pound.

Make sure your planter plates are matched with the particular kernel size you plant. If you plant at faster than normal speeds, you will get a more uniform stand by using the next larger size plate. Higher seed drop accuracy occurs at high planting speeds with larger cell plates.

With today's tendency to use higher application rates of fertilizer, it is extremely important that it be placed properly in relation to the seed. If fertilizer is too close to the seed, germination may suffer and plants will tend to not root properly. This farmer shows how his starter fertilizer was applied about two inches to the side and two inches below the seed with the newer type offset attachments. He has found these attachments have more than paid for themselves in better stands and improved corn yields.

Report to Farmers on 1959 Corn Yields

REMARKABLE INCIDENT—NOT ACCIDENT

Records show some mighty high individual corn yields over the years which have received well-deserved honors. Of greater significance, however, are high average corn yields made NOT by ONE, but by THOUSANDS of farmers over a widespread area. Here, many types of soils, management and weather enter the picture. This is the true test of a corn's ability, its bred-in ability to come through under widely varying conditions. A remarkable record has been compiled in the 21 years of National Selected 5-acre DeKalb Corn Growing Contests.

A GREAT BIG AVERAGE

1959 was a good year for corn. Yields were generally good. Most yields in DeKalb's National Contest were great. With 5,771 farmers participating in this nation-wide yield-power demonstration, an overall average of 109.8 bus. per acre* was achieved.

MAKES IT 4 IN A ROW

After recording the highest yields in South Dakota for 4 years in a row, a Father and Son team produced the highest official contest yield in the country. Henry Carlson and Son of Spearfish, in Lawrence County, grew 204.66 bus. per acre* in their irrigated field of DeKalb 409.

*ALL YIELDS WERE MADE ON SELECTED 5-ACRE CONTEST PLOTS.

The above figures have been audited and to the best of our knowledge are correct as of December 30, 1959.

CHAMPS REALLY "KNOW THEIR STUFF"

We've got to go from Dakota to Kentucky to find our National Reserve Champ. He's Charles Brooks of Allensville, who produced 194.95 bus. per acre* with DeKalb 852. Then up to Danville, New York where William G. Carney grew 192.9 bus. per acre* with DeKalb 222 for 3rd place honors. Our 4th place winner, Ruben Schissler farms near LaSalle, Colorado. He produced 189.68 bus.* with DeKalb 409. Champions from Illinois, Iowa, Ohio and Nebraska all achieved yields over 180 bushels per acre* The average of all state champions, including the Canadian Champ, was over 153 bushels per acre*.

THIS "TOPS 'EM ALL"

For 20 straight years, MORE farmers have planted DEKALB than ANY OTHER CORN. DeKalb scientific breeding... DeKalb quality... DeKalb "know-how" must be the reasons why DeKalb is so different. See for yourself in 1960.

RESEARCH PAVES THE WAY

DeKalb Seed Corn Research gives DeKalb corn its "yield-power." DeKalb's test fields can be found just about everywhere. This is why key DeKalb varieties have such honorable records. Order and plant DeKalb... the corn of CHAMPIONS.

CONTROL WEEDS AND INSECTS in your corn fields

Corn yields and performance may be improved by 25 to 35% through proper and timely use of insecticides, herbicides and mechanical cultivation. Seedbed preparation eliminates many weeds but most annual weed seeds do not germinate until after May 1. Thus, preplanting operations will not do a reasonable job of eliminating weeds on other than late planted corn. If you had trouble last year, then plan to use a pre-emergence herbicide this spring.

Weeds in the corn row during germination and early corn growth are the biggest threat to yields. In Illinois tests over the last three years heavy infestations of giant foxtail and pigweed each reduced yields by 20 to 30 bushels per acre, compared with rows having no weeds at all.

The new corn herbicides have demonstrated ability to pay their way with a "plus", not only increasing corn yields but saving time and releasing machinery for other work, both of particularly high value at planting time.

An investment in herbicides equivalent to the dollar value of three to four bushels of corn has produced yield increases of nine to sixteen bushels per acre by controlling competing grasses and broadleaf weeds. Increases of twenty-five to thirty bushels per acre are not uncommon, and in some cases yields have been increased up to forty bushels. With the price of 1960 corn forecast at an average of about one dollar per bushel, a conservative fifteen-bushel increase would allow farmers to expect about $1,500 extra profit on one hundred acres.

But the dollar value of the increased corn yield is not the only advantage. Others appear in time saved when cultivating band-treated rows. By the time cultivation is necessary, the corn plants are up so high that equipment can be moved rapidly through the field without covering them up with soil. In case of wet fields impossible to cultivate, the banded herbicides control weeds in the row and the corn never has to compete with them.

The cultivation time saved can be devoted to making hay while at its peak in feeding value—a plus which may increase the hay's value by ten dollars per ton. This value will be reflected in better production or gains when fed on the home farm. Or the saved time may be used for planting soybeans or late corn, and for completing other seasonal work.

Don't overlook the need for controlling soil insects, too. These can reduce stands if uncontrolled. By applying an insecticide, tests have shown that under average conditions yield may be improved by ten bushels per acre. It's impractical to mix insecticides with fertilizers when using offset placement fertilizer attachments since the insecticide is too far from the corn kernels.

HE STRESSES STRESS CONTROL!

Egg producer points to improved quantity and quality as solid reasons for continuous use of Aureomycin in layer feeds.

"If you want to keep a hen actually producing up to her maximum potential, you've got to keep her healthy—and that's why I use AUREOMYCIN® in my feed," reports Antone J. Popp, Westville, Ind.

Mr. Popp operates a 4000-hen unit and markets his eggs to stores and restaurants in Gary, Ind.

Controls stress

Mr. Popp says that AUREOMYCIN in the feed carries his birds through their two extreme stress periods in good condition—first, when they leave the range and go into the laying pens and, second, during the August hot weather period, at the end of the hens' productive period.

Improved uniformity

Mr. Popp continues, "Since my laying hens went on a steady ration of AUREOMYCIN about three years ago, I've noticed improved livability in replacement stock and more uniform development, with fewer stragglers, among young pullets.

"When our replacement stock of pullets reaches maturity uniformly, we can substitute them for the outgoing flock all at one time and save ourselves a great deal of time and work."

Improved egg production and quality are the results that keep him using AUREOMYCIN.

Controls disease

Mr. Popp further reports, "My observation has been that when any disease does occur among them, chickens receiving a steady intake of AUREOMYCIN snap back to good health faster than chickens not receiving AUREOMYCIN. I'm convinced that AUREOMYCIN adds mightily to my flock's good health."

Good health—good quality

In conclusion Mr. Popp states, "As to egg quality improvement from healthier hens, shell texture is an important indication. That means thicker, tougher shells with less porosity to admit bacteria or permit dehydration."

What Aureomycin does

Some antibiotics knock out only limited groups or types of harmful bacteria. AUREOMYCIN, the wide-range antibiotic, protects your birds against the widest range of disease-causing bacteria. During periods of stress, the harmful bacteria are kept under control and cannot make their damaging attacks on the health of the birds.

AUREOMYCIN helps control CRD, blue comb and synovitis. No antibiotic has as yet bettered the performance of AUREOMYCIN—the first wide-range antibiotic eleven years ago—and still first today.

Consult your feed dealer

Your feed dealer can tell you, in detail, of the many advantages AUREOMYCIN offers. And he can supply your preferred layer feed containing recommended levels of AUREOMYCIN. He'll be glad to give you the benefit of his experience and knowledge. American Cyanamid Company, Agricultural Division, New York 20, N. Why you should Start 'em with STONEMO GRANITE GRIT

- to give them "TEETH"
- to develop healthy GIZZARDS
- to build strong DIGESTIVE SYSTEMS

Hard, insoluble grit is important in helping your chicks grind their feed, develop healthy gizzards and build strong digestive systems for large feed intake.

And where profits are important, you'll find leading breeders and egg producers insist upon Stonemo—the grit with the extra grinding surfaces to grind out more value from their feed.

BREEDERS RECOMMEND STONEMO

Monroe C. Babcock of Babcock Poultry Farm, Inc., one of the nation's leading poultry breeders, has this to say about Stonemo:

"We have used your Stonemo Grit for many years. Chickens of all ages should have insoluble grit whether they are on grain and mash or all-mash. In my opinion all-mash isn't ground as fine as a chicken wants it to be for best digestion."

So do as this leading breeder does. Start 'em right. Help your chicks build the healthy gizzards and strong digestive systems they need to produce. Make Stonemo—the grit with the extra grinding surfaces—a part of your feeding program. See your feed dealer today.

Mr. Popp has depended on AUREOMYCIN for three years to control stress and disease in his flocks.

Here's proof of how effective weed control within the row really can be. Weeds within the row at left were controlled with a band treatment whereas the one on the right was untreated. Both rows were cultivated. The weeds which couldn't be killed with a cultivator cut this farmer's yield by 17 bushels per acre.

Here's a field that was not treated with a pre-emergence herbicide. Note the heavy grass infestation in the row, which was not removed by cultivation. You can rely on cultivating to control weeds between rows but for the rest you'll need to rely on pre-emergence band treatments. A heavy infestation like this could trim yields by 20 bushels.

Notice how effectively a 12-inch band treatment of Simazine has controlled the weeds in these corn rows. The area between the rows is still thick with weeds, but a good job of cultivating within a day or so will take care of these. Timely cultivation must go hand-in-hand with the use of chemical weed treatment. Either cultivation or chemical treatment will give fair control of weeds but a combination of the two will give best results.

Science for the world's well being

This pasture is entirely too typical of what some dairymen expect cows to turn into milk. Weeds and brush can hardly be classified as high quality forage. Simply mowing this pasture regularly will help, but an application of lime and fertilizer is probably needed, plus spraying for weeds and some reseeding. Annual land costs are generally getting too high to let it lie in unproductive pasture.

GRASSLAND FARMING AND DAIRYING

Many Midwest farmers are showing an increasing interest in grassland farming—especially if they have sloping land where erosion is a problem. Lower prices on corn and soybeans also may cause some to take a closer look at grass as a crop.

Cattle are the logical way to market the grass that you produce, and in the Midwest it's most apt to be dairy cattle that you consider. They can make the best use of really high quality forage. It's been stated that a cow producing 12,000 pounds of milk will produce 80% of her capacity on high grade roughage alone.

The real problem is that thousands of tons of poor quality hay are put up every year. Thousands of acres of so-called pasture grow up in weeds and brush because farmers do not realize the importance of pasture as a crop. New machines and chemicals make it possible to upgrade the quality of forage being supplied to Midwest dairy cows, greatly increasing the average milk production.

Research at the University of Wisconsin and at the University of Minnesota indicates that inheritance alone accounts for only about one-third of a cow's current milk output. The rest is determined by feeding and general management.

Green chop feeding, rotation grazing, pasture weed control, high quality grass silage, hay crushers or conditioners, wagon drying of hay that is quickly moved in out of the weather—these are all fairly recent developments that you should be considering in order to provide your cattle with forage rich in nutrients.

This dairyman is using a rotation grazing system which gives high milk production and involves a minimum waste of his alfalfa-brome pasture. The 21 acres were divided into three plots with electric fencing. From May 15 until winter this acreage provided pasture for 34 head of cattle. The next year it was plowed up and planted to corn. The alfalfa-brome and the manure left by the cows supplied nitrogen and also improved the tilth of the soil.

Midwest dairymen are rapidly moving to the green chop or "zero pasture" method of feeding forage. In a few years the majority of the dairy cows will probably never see pasture. The green chop method definitely results in more feed being harvested per acre—there is no loss from trampling or manure. Doing away with fences adds 5% more usable land to a 40-acre field. Milk flow is maintained at a high level because cattle receive a uniform supply of quality forage every day. You need equipment that is in good condition to provide supply and labor to do this chore.

The hay crusher or conditioner has really moved up the popularity list with farmers in the past couple of years. It breaks or crushes the hay stems so that moisture inside can evaporate faster than under old methods. This means that stems and leaves can dry more uniformly. Otherwise, leaves get dry and drop off—they are the best part of the hay crop. Total drying time is cut for hay-making, reducing risk of rain damage.

New, durable plastics are being brought into use in wagon drying of baled hay. This shot shows four wagonloads of baled hay being dried in the field with a huge plastic bag attached to the drier and fastened over the wagons. The hot air comes out through the slatted floors of the wagons.

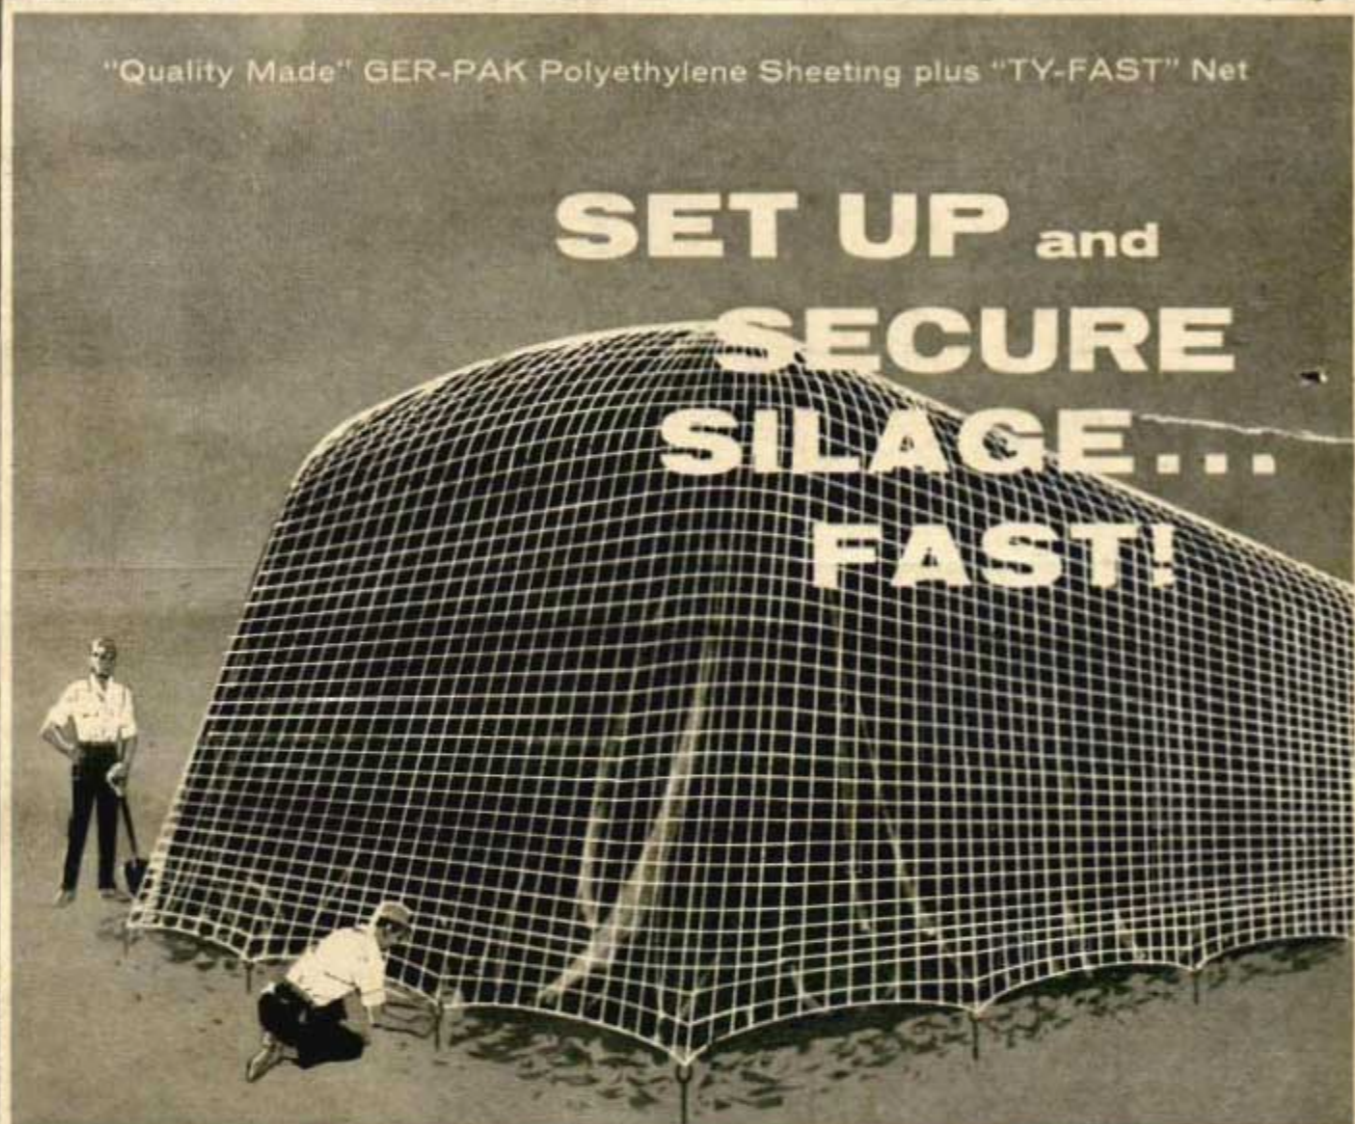

Grass silage has come into widespread use for feeding dairy cattle. Much of it has been stored in trench or bunker silos. Losses have been discouraging in many instances. Recently, as shown here, there has been increased acceptance of plastic covering to preserve this silage. Rain damage can be as serious as top spoilage. Twelve inches of rainfall on an open trench silo will reduce the dry matter content of the silage by 5%. This means that cattle can't eat enough of this wet silage to get the necessary nutrients.
