"Doctor" Spiers Tells How To Get Rid Of Those Telephone Pests

THE FIENDISH scheme probably was born in the tortured mind of some neurotic house-to-house peddler driven wholly off his rocker by too many door-slam toe pinches and nose bruises.

HATING THE WORLD, he snarled, "You think your homes are sacred, eh? Hah! I'll fix ya!"

AL SPIERS

W h e reupon he switched to huckstering by telephone — always at meal times.

No doubt this poor, sour, addled soul now justly occupies a padded cell. But, like mythical Pandora, he unleashed a devilish pestilence that has spread faster and farther than Asian flu.

NOW IT'S SO BAD that phone removal is the only sure way to avoid exposure. Since that cuts off a foot to cure corns, Dr. Spiers has researched some tasty, painless remedies to prang the pests and vitiate their virulence.

TO FAIRLY place this monkey on the right backs, let's first make it clear that a few — a very, very few! — telephone solicitors are tolerable.

Honest, polite, plucky shut-ins, denied self-support in other ways, deserve a considerate hearing.

THE PESTIFEROUS rest rate only eye-for-eye counter-irritation, and for them Dr. Spiers has concocted some nasty nostrums.

No — don't just hang up. Pesky phone hucksters are caloused to that. Live dangerously and switch the pain. Here's one way:

Let the caller habble his oily pitch almost to the end, then say, "Wait a minute. I'm John Jones Jr. You want my dad."

Then give the phone to a 5-year-old — your own or a neighbor's. If the groggy pest is still aboard after five minutes, have your wife say, "I'm sorry — Mr. Jones Sr. isn't home."

IF YOU'RE GOOD at dialect stories, try the don't-quite-spickada-Engleesh routine. But act earnest, sincere, and eager — or they'll hang up.

If a gal spouts the sales pitch, make like a rake. Goo like an old roue, "Honey, your voice sends me. What are you doing later?"

It's 100 to 1 she won't bother you long. (If you chance to hit the lucky 100th, you're on your own!)

NO DOUBT you've endured the phone huckster's crude, oily quiz pitch. You answer a question and win a $25 prize — good for a down payment on a $100 product they brazenly peddle for $150.

Heads Lions Club For Coming Year

NORMAN KELLY

Local Automobile Man Is Service Club President

The Livewire Culver Lions Club is fortunate in having Norman Kelly as its new president. He is generally recognized as one of the most substantial young business leaders of our community.

Norm took over his new duties on July 1. His loyalty to and interest in the service club is best illustrated by the fact that he has had a perfect attendance record for the past 12 years. During that period he served as secretary for four years.

Mr. Kelly has been associated with Hatten Motor Sales for 13 years, and is one of the major reasons for the popularity of Chrysler, Plymouth, and Valiant automobiles in this vicinity.

Leiters Ford Graduate

Norm was graduated from the Leiters Ford High School in April, 1942, and received a B.S.B. in accounting from the International Business College at Fort Wayne, which he attended during two different periods in 1942 and 1943.

He served with the U.S. Army Signal Corps for three years during World War II in the Pacific area, Guam, the Philippines, Ie Shima, and finally Tokyo, Japan.

Married to the former Marilyn Hatten, the popular young Culver couple have three fine children: David, born July 13, 1949; Steven, born June 24, 1951; and Connie, born June 16, 1955.

Attend Burr Oak Church

The Kellys are members of the Burr Oak Church of God.

The new Lions Club president belongs to the Culver Chamber of Commerce and the Maxinkuckee Lodge of the I.O.O.F.

Edna Hampton Dies After Long Illness

Just as today's Citizen is about to go to press the sad news comes of the death this morning of Mrs. Edna Hampton of West Lake Front at the home of her son, William, in Indianapolis after a long illness.

Mrs. Hampton is also survived by her husband, William, and 3 grandchildren.

The body is being sent to the Easterday Funeral Home from which the time of the services can be obtained.

A complete obituary will appear in next week's Citizen.

Bank Purchases The 4-H Grand Champion Steer

Nelson, Babcock Are Also Buyers

The annual Marshall County 4-H Fair last week at Argos attracted large crowds and was generally acclaimed as the best yet.

The State Exchange Bank of Culver, always one of the most enthusiastic supporters of this event, purchased the 935-pound Grand Champion Steer, owned by Merlyn Albright of Walnut Township, for $748 — that's 80 cents per pound for the prize Angus beef.

See Today's Back Page

Don't miss the back page of today's Citizen which carries the congratulations of The State Exchange Bank of Culver and Argos, the State Exchange Finance Company of Culver, and the Farmers State Bank of LaPaz to all of this year's 4-H beef, swine, and lamb winners.

The striking full-page advertisement presents in interesting detail all of the purchases made by these affiliated financial institutions which play such a prominent role in the progress and prosperity of this entire area.

In the swine sale, the Grand Champion barrow brought Lynn Leffert, also of Walnut Township, around a dollar a pound. The Nelson Equipment Company of Culver paid $197 for the animal. The Maurice Nelson firm also bought 10 other swine.

George Babcock of the Marshall County Concrete Company purchased the 237-pound Reserve Champion, owned by Richard Burglund of Polk Township, for 27½ cents a pound for a total of $65.18. This firm also bought five other swine and the Marshall County Lumber Company, which is managed by Mr. Babcock, bought four swine.

Restaurant Is Buyer

Another swine was purchased by the M & M Restaurant on South Main Street, which is owned and operated by sisters, Mrs. Marcella White and Mrs. Mildred Ditmire.

Singing Star At Michigan Camp

TOM CULTICE

Texaco Dealer's Son Is Brilliant Musician

INTERLOCHEN, MICH. — Tom Cultice, the 21-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon A. Cultice of Culver, earned a top honor at the National Music Camp here last week.

He is one of 22 youths selected from 1,400 of America's most talented students to perform as concerto soloist with full orchestra in public concert at Interlochen next week.

Picked From 1,400 Students

Ninety of the most musically gifted of the 1,400 students, who are enrolled in the full eight-week program at the National Music Camp this season, auditioned for the concerto finals.

Tom Cultice and the other 21 finalists were selected by a faculty jury for excellence of performance during the auditions.

He will sing an aria from Gounod's "Faust" on Saturday, Aug. 13, with the Honors Orchestra under the direction of Orlean Daley.

University of Michigan Senior

A senior at the University of Michigan, Tom is majoring in voice. In addition to part-time staff work at Interlochen, he is a member of the University Choral Ensemble.

Taxable Property In Township Jumps $185,000

Trustee Benedict Outlines Plans

Union Township Trustee Eugene G. Benedict has some mighty good news for his constituents this week as our readers will note in the legal publication of "Notice to Taxpayers of Tax Levies" in this issue of The Culver Citizen.

The school levy remains exactly as it was a year ago — $2.72. This should be the cause of general rejoicing in the community!

Two New School Buses

For the same financial rate this year, Trustee Benedict explained to The Citizen that we will get two new school buses costing $12,000; $3,000 worth of remodeling improvements in the kitchen of the Home Economics Department; and more than $1,000 in new furniture for two classrooms.

The evaluation of taxable property in Union Township this year has jumped $185,000.

This increased evaluation was picked up all over Union Township, not only around Lake Maxinkuckee, but through ordinary improvements in the entire area.

Venetian Village Affected

Several thousand dollars were added to the rolls because of the 50 choice lots in the new Venetian Village sub-division at the south end of the Lake.

Also being legally published this week and next are the notices of additional appropriations for the Civil Township and School Township, in each case totalling only $10 and $60, respectively, to cover Social Security items.

The heavy spenders down in Washington, D.C. might do well to study the Hoosier approach to tax problems on the local level.

Annual Moonlight Serenade Is A Whopping Success

The annual Moonlight Serenade on Lake Maxinkuckee last Saturday and Sunday nights aboard the O. W. Fowler was out of this world!

The Naval Summer School Band's 2½ hour program of superb music each night, under the expert and enthusiastic baton of Col. Edward T. Payson, was indeed a night to remember.

Contributing to the Culver Military Academy's beautiful event was the weather — perfect for the first time in two years. The Japanese lanterns that encircled the Lake were a thrilling sight both nights. Colonel Payson stated that the young musicians voted the handsomely decorated canoe of Mary Cooling and Jane Hillis as their favorite "applause" of the delightful evening.

There will be music, cocktails, a buffet supper, and good talk. Members of St. Mary's of the Lake Church and scores of local non-Catholics have found Father Lenk's hospitality to be unexcelled at this most enjoyable community event.

Robert S. Kennedy Gives Low-Down On Russia

Local Student Writes Parents

[Robert S. Kennedy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex S. Kennedy of Culver, is on a tour of Europe with the dean of men and 11 fellow students of MacMurray College, Jacksonville, Ill., where he will be a sophomore this fall. They are visiting 14 different countries in a two-month period. This letter to his parents is a real eye-opener and The Citizen is proud to share it with its readers.]

Moscow, Russia
July 21, 1960

Dear Mother and Dad:

I sent a card this morning from Smolensk, but there isn't much you can say on a post card, so I wanted to write a letter too.

Quite a few things have been going on since we got behind the iron curtain, so I'll start at Yugoslavia. Trying to get into that country took us nearly 5 hours at the border. We hadn't gotten the correct visas so had to fill out a large amount of red tape, completely unload the trucks, and every pack, box, and sleeping bag was gone through completely. It was late and we were all tired and really had a rough time.

Then the authorities told us that they wouldn't exchange our Italian money that we had left over, and the border officials were going to confiscate it. None of us would let them take it, so we went back into Italy about 2 a.m. and spent it all. I only had $3 left so it wasn't too bad, but some of the kids had almost $20.

We drove all night in Yugoslavia and the next morning we stopped at several places for the group to take pictures. We were driving through some small town, when an officer stopped us and told us to follow him.

It turned out that we had been reported to authorities for taking illegal pictures. One of the group had taken a picture of a military monument, and it was against the law. They took all cameras and were about to take all the film out when a call came through from someone. After the call they let us go and returned our cameras to us.

We were sort of soured on Yugoslavia but it was a pretty country. The most fascinating thing I've ever seen started there and has been going on ever since. We stopped in a city for gas, and in about 10 minutes, at least 200 people surrounded the two cars. No kidding, they love Americans. We were the first that most of them had seen in a long time and many of the younger people had never seen an American before. Although they don't speak our language, and we don't speak theirs, we managed to communicate wonderfully. They came up just to look at us and to feel us.

By the time we left, they had given us all kinds of little things. They gave Leslie many toys and trinkets. A girl scout gave me her pin and almost everyone gave us something. One real old lady gave us a huge box of strawberries which are very hard to get there. It was really a great experience. From there on every town we got to a huge crowd gathered all around us. It will really be a let-down to get home and not even be noticed. Ha! These people were so poor, you wouldn't believe it.

From Yugoslavia we came to Poland, and headed right for Warsaw, the capital. Half of the city is still so badly torn apart from the war that you would think it happened only yesterday. It's all brand-new and really modern. Eighty-five per cent of the city was destroyed completely, so you can imagine how new it really is.

The Russian Communists are paying for much of the reconstruction, and although the Poles claim to be anti-Communist, they are accepting their help. I guess they can't be blamed for that, though. That night we stayed in a nice hotel where we even had supper served in our rooms. We all had private bathrooms and huge feather-beds.

The next morning we drove to Oswiem, Poland, where Rudolph Hess had his infamous concentration camp in 1942. It was the most horrible thing that I have ever seen, and probably the worst thing I will ever see.

In a period of two years, over 4 million people, mostly Jews, were killed here. The camp itself isn't very large and is said to have been terribly overcrowded. These people were forced to buy their own train tickets and then herded in railway cars, 185 in each car and shipped to this place. When they reached the camp, they were told to take a shower and while in the shower room, they were gassed. The Jewish rabbis were then forced to cut off the hair of all the women, and take their jewelry, rings, gold teeth, etc.

Our guide took us into this one huge room and behind glass windows, surrounding the entire room, and about 10 to 15 feet deep, was the hair of over a million women! It weighed over 40 tons. No kidding, we all almost got sick. There was hair that had been braided and had ribbon in it from small children. It was really gruesome.

Then there were rooms full of toothbrushes, hairbrushes, glasses, and all sorts of remains of the 4 million people. One room was full of children's toys. We then went to the crematoriums where all the bodies had been cremated. They are just like large ovens, with a conveyor belt where 5 bodies at a time were placed. It took about 15 minutes to dispose of this mess into ashes, which were sold as fertilizer to nearby farmers. Of the 4 million people who were sent here, only 450,000 got out alive. We met a man who was visiting there who had been a prisoner here. He said that the odor of the camp was so terrible, that many of the guards wore gas masks. That's enough about that place. I'll never forget it though.

That day we left for Russia, and called the American Embassy to make sure everything was all right to go in. Right at the border, we picked up our guides who will be with us for the 3-day stay. Our guide, Noska, is 21 years old, and real nice, even though she is a Communist. Lonna is 30, and much more like you'd think a good Communist would be. She is constantly reminding us of the bigger and better things that Russia has than the U.S.

Right now I'm in Moscow, but I won't be able to tell you much about it. We just got in at 8 this evening. Craig and I took a short walk after supper, and it looks neat as a pin. Tomorrow we start our tour of 3 days, then we are going to fly to Kiev instead of driving.

It's quite a long way and we want the time somewhere else. Our guides told us that our mail would not be censored, so I do hope this gets to you. This letter probably doesn't sound like I'm having a lot of fun behind the iron curtain, does it? Well, I'm not!

This has been by far the most exciting and interesting part of the entire trip. I've learned more here than I could ever learn from any book. There is no such thing as religion for the young people here, but the old people still go to church. There are only three churches in Moscow, and the first thing we did when we got into the city was to go to one of them. It was the only run down building around. Inside there wasn't one person under 75 years old. They were the poorest people yet. Instead of shoes, they wore rags on their feet. On the way out they all begged for money. The few people in the congregation were kneeling on the floor praying, crying, and talking out loud.

No kidding, it was really a weird feeling to see this and realize that when 5 years have gone and these people are dead, there will be no church at all.

We had a city guide with us who was 19 years old, and this was the first time she had ever set foot in a church. On the way out, she just laughed and thought it ridiculous. She said, "We don't need God, we've got the state."

Really, it's just like the movies here. The people have almost no expression on their faces. Even when they are laughing they don't look happy. There are 5 million people in Moscow, but very few cars on the wide streets. The people are dressed like the war movies I've seen. All the Russians we've met have been very nice; something we didn't expect from all of them. The oddest thing about it is that they all seem to be content with Communism. Our guides told us that everyone is in favor of it. We tried to tell several of them about the submarines off the U.S. coast, etc., and they called us liars! They are quite sincere about it too. They think that we want peace, but still send more and more spies like the U-2. They honestly do not believe that the Communists do likewise. There doesn't seem to be a thing we can do about it either. No kidding — it's frustrating.

July 24, 1960

Yesterday we passed a busload of children, and asked the guides where they were going. She told us that when a boy or girl reaches the age of 9, he is sent to a "Pioneer camp" for the summer. It's like any other summer camp, but they also learn a little about Communism. They go every summer until they are 14, then go on to join the Young Communist League, which they stay in until the age of 24. At 24, they take a series of tests before being admitted into the party. That's why there are only 8 million communists in Russia today.

THE CITIZEN
Culver, Indiana
Wednesday, August 10, 1960

We walked through a park and saw a billboard with several pictures of people on it. It turned out to be an "honor board." Extra good men and women who are hard workers get chosen the party and their pictures are posted every so often. Even where there are signs of progress which are supposed to encourage the people to work even harder to meet the requirements for the plan.

Boy, when I get home, if I ever hear a girl or woman talk about how hard life is, I will sympathize a bit. Mother, Ma, Joyce, and any other female I reads this, believe me, the women in Russia and all the other European countries really work hard. Everyday while driving through the countryside we see women working with sickles cutting hay, making haystacks, and carrying it for miles on their backs. That too, is something we can't imagine until we see it. It is real something to see beautiful black top roads with no cars, just horses pulling a huge haystack. These people really look healthy though.

Well folks, it's now 2 a.m. and I'd better get to bed. I hope this letter didn't sound too corny, but it's funny how much something like this can get a person thinking about things and how lucky the people in the U.S. are. I'm dying for a peanut butter and banana sandwich on our own soft crusty bread. I'll look for your letter from Stockholm, Sweden.

Love, BOB

Bones Of 10,000-Year-Old Animal Found Near Here

Rochester Farm Discovery Site

Bones of a prehistoric animal have been unearthed by an Earlham College group in Northern Indiana during the past month.

James Cope, curator of the Joseph Moore Museum, is in charge of the excavation of an 8,000 to 10,000-year-old mastodon skeleton which was discovered last summer on the farm of James O. Wells near Rochester.

The farmer first discovered some of the bones in a peat bog while he was attempting to drain the bog. He notified Cope, who, together with Dr. James Thorp, professor of geology and soil science, investigated the site last spring and decided to excavate the skeleton.

With Cope are Gertrude Ward of the Biology Department and several students. During the first week of digging they were accompanied by Dr. Ansel Gooding of the Geology Department.

Bones In Good Condition
"The bones are in remarkably good condition," Dr. Gooding said upon returning from the site. "We managed to excavate the skull with one of the tusks still attached, although the tusk was cracked in three places. I understand that the other tusk has now been found and is in a perfect state of preservation."

The skeleton is buried between six to eight feet underground. The group had to dig a hole 30 feet ed out of the bog. The group also built a dam in an attempt to keep the excavation as dry as possible, Gooding said.

Each evening bones which have been found during the day are carefully transported to the Earlham group's headquarters, where they are cleaned and bound in clamps to prevent splitting and warping as they dry.

The processing continues after several days of drying. Individual bones are then covered with several coats of thin shellac which penetrates the pores of the bones.

Before the larger bones can be removed from the ground, they are covered with a plaster of Paris cast. The casts are designed to prevent the water-logged bones from breaking while they are being removed from the ground.

The casts will be kept intact until the skeleton will have been moved to the college. Their careful removal and final processing of those pieces is expected to take months.

Area Rich In Skeletons

"This area is rich with skeletons of prehistoric animals which date from the ice age," Dr. Gooding said.

"Peat bogs, which are prevalent in the area, were formed during the ice age, between 8,000 and 10,000 years ago.

"As the ice retreated, large blocks of ice would become lodged in the earth and would leave holes in the ground as they melted. These holes are our Indiana lakes today," the geologist said.

"The smaller ones filled up with debris and formed peat bogs," he added, "and animals which attempted to cross these bogs often were trapped in them and were sucked under."

Besides digging for bones, Dr. Gooding collected samples of pollen, snails, and wood from different levels in the ground to a depth below that of the mastodon. From these samples he is able to determine climatic changes of the area mammal.

"The pollen found in the bog at the depth of the mastodon shows mostly spruce, pine, and fir trees, indicating the presence of arctic forests at that time," he said.

A Few Leg Bones Missing

Most parts of the skeleton have now been reclaimed, according to Dr. Gooding. Only a few leg bones still are missing. Probing with steel rods has indicated the presence of the missing bones and digging will continue.

No plans for assembling of the skeleton have been made. A mastodon skeleton already is on exhibit in the Joseph Moore Museum. It is a composite made from bones found in Randolph County, and in New Paris, Ohio.

"Parts of skeletons of mastodons are no rarity in this part of the country," Dr. Gooding said. "Scattered isolated bones are constantly being discovered in Indiana and other glaciated areas in the midwest. However, skeletons as complete and in as good condition as this one is are rare."

Word of the Earlham work came to light when The Chicago Tribune published a story about bones of another mastodon having been found west of where the Earlham group has been working.

An excavation contractor digging on a farm unearthed the bones while working in a peat bog. A skull first was found.

It was known in that area that the Earlham group was at work nearby so Cope was asked to help supervise the excavation to identify the bones as those of a mastodon. About a quarter of the skeleton has been uncovered.

No previous announcement had been made of the Earlham group's work, the college explained, because it was hoped to avoid curiosity seekers who might be a hindrance.

The mastodon was a fur-bearing elephant which roamed the American continent in abundance

Musicals continue to prove the most popular fare at the Maxinkuckee Playhouse and the current production of "Damn Yankees" adds another score for the hit column. Possessing a good plot, a lot of comedy, and some of the most exciting music to be heard in many a day the fast paced, colorful show is a sure winner in all departments.

LARRY BRUCKER

Larry Brucker sings the lead in "Damn Yankees" currently playing at the Maxinkuckee Playhouse.

Carrying the leading role of Joe, the miracle baseball player, Larry Brucker from South Bend, Ind. Mr. Brucker certainly has one of the most beautiful voices heard at the Playhouse and ranks along with Playhouse member David Canary as a sure Broadway potential.

Karen Lang, who has won a host of fans this summer through her work in "Dark At the Top of the Stairs" and "The Matchmaker," shows another side to her talent by beautifully singing many of the lovely songs.

State Police Now Training Underwater Men

Drowning Victims Recovered

Underwater troopers are being added to the Indiana State Police emergency forces, Col. Harold S. Zeis has announced.

Fourteen state policemen began a concentrated four-day training course Aug. 2 at Butler University as the start of the state's first official skin-diving unit, he said.

Lt. Fred Leete III, Indianapolis, of the U. S. Coast Guard, is the instructor.

Wear Skin-Diving Suits

Trainees will complete the preliminary course with water recovery problems at Geist Reservoir, using four skin-diving suits and oxygen tanks. Plans call for expansion of the unit later by training men in all State Police districts.

"Underwater exploration has a variety of important applications in police work," Colonel Zeis pointed out.

Speedier Recovery Possible

Speedier recovery of drowning victims is possible, he said, due to the diver's ability to make a visual search. Dragging operations from a boat are often slowed because currents sweep the victim's body from the point of entry, or because of heavy grasses and other obstructions below the surface. In instances where motorists have been trapped under water, the services of a diver are vital in locating the car, removing the occupants, and attaching cables to hoist the vehicle to the surface, the State Police official said. Divers can also aid in criminal investigations by recovering physical evidence thrown into lakes, rivers, or ponds by persons seeking to hide traces of their unlawful acts.

Staff Capt. Mark A. Nelson, director of the Traffic and Uniform Division, will be coordinator of the course. Troopers will enroll from Dunes Park, Ligonier, Lafayette, Putnamville, Seymour, Jasper, and Charlestown districts.

Vision Test For Oldsters Age 75 and Over AUTO LICENSE BRANCH

Editor, CITIZEN:
The Plymouth Auto License Branch will be closed all day Tuesday, Aug. 16, so that the staff can attend a meeting at Michigan City for all personnel.

It has been announced by R. C. Gilbert, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, that all applicants 75 years and over, when renewing their driver's license, will be given the vision test and a behind-the-wheel driving test at each renewal.

The written examination will be taken every four years. These applicants must appear before the State Examiner for such tests.

The Plymouth Branch has a State Examiner every Monday and Tuesday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Wednesday 1:30 p.m. to 4 p.m. for such tests.

The Branch is closed every Thursday afternoon and daily from 12 noon and 1 p.m.

This new ruling does not affect applicants who are still required to take the vision test and written examination every four years.

We're Still Confused

Editor, CITIZEN:
In reply to William R. Sullivan of Los Angeles, whose letter was recently published in your paper, he must be a disciple of King Herod who went around killing children.

Isn't it odd many a person finds LIFE so sweet they gladly spend a lifetime's fortune for a few more years, whereas there are those on the other hand who would deny admission to a healthy normal human.

I'm a great believer in Indiana and you!

The meaning of God's supremacy and all-power will be explained at Christian Science services
this Sunday.
Scriptural selections in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Soul" will include the following from Leviticus (26:3,4,11): "If ye walk in my statutes, and keep my commandments, and do them:
Then I will give you rain in due season, and the land shall yield her increase, and the trees of the field shall yield their fruit . . .
And I will set my tabernacle among you; and my soul shall not abhor you."

God's power is also brought out in readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy which include this statement (330:11-12): "God is infinite, the only
Life, substance, Spirit, or Soul, the only intelligence of the universe, including man."

ARTHUR G. HUGHES IS ATTENDING SEMINAR
THAT IS UNIQUE
ANN ARBOR, MICH. — Twelve English teachers, including Arthur G. Hughes of Culver Military Academy, are exploring means of instructing academically talented students in a University of Michigan summer seminar that is unique in the U.S.
Under Assistant Prof. James W.
Downer of the U-M Department of English, the program seeks to familiarize teachers with the purpose, nature, and evaluation methods of the Advanced Placement Program. Teachers enrolled in the seminar instruct students in public, parochial, and private schools in Michigan, Indiana,
Texas, and New York.
The group has discussed and examined textbooks, teaching materials, and methods suitable for use in accelerated or Advanced Placement classes. Their sessions have included instruction on teaching methods for various literary forms and procedures for establishing and administering Advanced Placement classes.

"Hoosier At Large"

Counter like this:
"Who is buried in Grant's tomb?"
"Robert E. Lee!"
If given another chance, you've got 'em! They'll go daft groping for questions.

I had similar wicked fun one dull evening with a "survey-gag" huckster bent on getting greedy paws on my furnace. The dialogue went like this:

"We're making a survey. If you'll help, we'll inspect your furnace and give you, absolutely free, our Super-Giant Long-Burn Gizmo."

"SPLENDID. SURVEY away!"
"What is the make and age of your furnace?"

"Say, I'm glad you asked. We have a very unusual heating plant. The furnace is a Stinks-atchen. Imported, you know. We bought the place from immigrants."

"What's that make again?"
A CLINKERSTUCHEN. I'm not sure about the age. About 20 years, I'd say."

"How do you spell that name?"
"Golly, I'll have to go see. Hold on a moment." (The "moment" lasted five minutes.) Then: "Sorry to keep you waiting. It's spelled with two T's."

"Oh . . . yes, I see . . . Now when can our men call and install your free Super-Giant Long-Burn Gizmo?"

THAT, OF COURSE, opened the door to a long, musing monologue. I travel a lot . . . erratic schedule . . . night work . . . this'n that . . . so a week from Sunday, maybe? No Sunday work, eh? Saturday night, then? Bad, too, eh?

"Let me work it out and call you back," I concluded. "What's your number?"

That tore it. Like most, this phone pest had no office or roots — but was merely an advance scout picking and priming pigeons to be plucked by following crews. Moreover, a number can be traced.

"Don't call me . . . I'll call you," said the jerk — and hung up. I did, too — with a big, satisfied grin.

TRY IT NEXT TIME such a pest blatantly invades your home. You'll grin, too!

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Berrigan and 3 sons of Baldwinville, N. Y., arrived Thursday for a visit with Mrs. Berrigan's mother, Mrs. Grace Poland, and her sisters and families, Mrs. Joe Heiser, Mrs. Eldon Ault of Plymouth, and Mrs. Jake Siple.

HAS BUG IN EAR

When we met our good friend, Mrs. Edith McQuat, of Newburgh, Ind., downtown the other day, she confided that she had a bug in her ear. To us that meant she had heard something worth repeating in the paper. Such was not the case. Mrs. McQuat, one of our oldest Lake summer residents, actually had a bug in her ear the night before that required the attention of Donald Reed, M. D.

WEST SHORE LAKE RESIDENTS ENJOY CONCERT

The residents around the outlet of Lake Maxinkuckee have expressed their appreciation to Col. Edward T. Payson and the members of the Naval Band for the several numbers played for their enjoyment while the O. W. FOWLER lay anchored just offshore during Sunday night's Moonlight Serenade.
