Here's Another Typical Indiana Story From Rural Idaville In Nearby White County

SECURITY LOVERS who see scant individual opportunity in today's America are confounded by Cecil Phelps.

Early in 1955, Phelps, then 37, had powerful reasons not to go for broke on his own. He was the secure, well-paid plant manager of a stable, thriving Owosso, Mich., firm. He had scant capital and two children fast nearing college age.

At times, he was bothered by arthritis and old war wounds.

WHEN PHELPS confided his dream, most close friends shook their heads and said, "You'll be invading a savagely competitive field. It's root hog—or die. Why gamble? You've got it made."

Phelps had a few pros to balance these cons. In 15 up-from-the-ranks years he'd learned to design and produce furniture efficiently. He had key contacts in the trade and prodigious energy that hungered for outlet in a venture of his own.

CECIL ALSO HAD a fine wife, Clara, who fully shared the go-for-broke dream and was equally eager to gamble and toil to achieve it.

So the Phelpses boldly chucked cozy security, moved to Monticello where Cecil's parents dwelled and began scouting for a place to start.

IN TIME, Phelps found a vacant, three-store building in tiny, rural Idaville in White County on Route 24. There in July, 1956, he set up shop and began making two items—juvenile chairs and divans.

With scant cash or credit, Phelps started with two power saws borrowed from a brother's home workshop, a few tools and materials, four hired hands, himself and his wife, Clara, who kept house and also toiled at Cecil's side in the tiny plant.

THEIR FIRST YEAR was wickedly disheartening. Sales developed slowly and bad credit risks nicked them for $4,000. They'd grown slightly and were still afloat, but doubts gnawed Cecil. Not Clara.

"Look at the bright side," she urged. "Given that lost $4,000, we'd be way ahead. We'll make it."

About then, Cecil got—and made!—a fine break. A friend fetched him a 21x18-inch formica-topped piece of three-quarter-inch plywood and said:

"It's a pre-fab home builder's sink cut-out," he said. "As semi-waste, it can be bought cheaply—if you can find a use for it."

Phelps cudged his wits, talent and savvy and presently came up with an ingenious telephone chair with attached lamp and book

'Hobgoblin House' To Be Presented By C.H.S. Juniors

Shrieking ghosts, a headless phantom, and an old skull all add to the excitement of "Hobgoblin House," the mystery play to be presented by Culver High School's Junior Class, Friday evening, Oct. 20, at 8 p.m. in the Community Building.

Barbara Hatten as Miss Priscilla Carter buys haunted Hobgoblin House which is located near the Ozark Foothills to get her pretty nieces, Jill and Marian, played by Bonnie Parker and Sheryl Hohman, away from their silly boy friends, Thad Overmyer and Nick Knoerzer.

Miss Priscilla has troubles as soon as she arrives at Hobgoblin House when her English maid, Carolee Easterday, and her other two servants, Bonnie Good and Rick Ervin, see a "headless hant" at the foot of the basement stairs.

Dennis Shock as Darius Krupp, the old caretaker of the house, makes matters worse by telling them that the ghost bell will ring and that the house is really haunted by the ghost of Nellie Bronson who was murdered many years ago.

About the time Miss Priscilla thinks she has convinced everyone there are no ghosts in the house, Wade Logan, as Bluebeard Bronson, an insane maniac, comes back hunting his wife who was murdered 20 years ago.

Bill Wilkins, Bluebeard's keeper at the mental institution, is acted by Paul Cromley.

All the mysterious happenings are brought to a climax when Linda Behmer, as Patricia Arnold, a kidnapped Chicago heiress who has been held captive for some time in the haunted house, escapes and tells all.

The Juniors say, "If you want some laughs and excitement, see Hobgoblin House, Friday evening, Oct. 20 at 8 p.m."

Fish and Game Club Stocks Lake Maxinkuckee

The Maxinkuckee Fish and Game Club has released approximately 300,000 bass, bluegill and sunfish in Lake Maxinkuckee. These fish were hatched under the management of the local club.

It should be pointed out here that many of these fish will be caught during the coming ice fishing season and they should be returned to the water rather than left on the ice to die. Over the past five years, nearly 1,500,000 fish have been stocked in Lake Maxinkuckee from the hatchery ponds.

Future club plans include experimental raising of walleyes and possibly northern pike to supplement the supply of large fish in the lake.

Club officials are presently negotiating with the State Conservation Department for the continued use of the hatchery. Also a request has been submitted to the Division of Fish and Game for a biological lake survey so that the future needs of the lake may be scientifically determined.

According to a recent survey, newspaper advertising influences purchasing most, 81% of the people made purchases because of newspaper ads, only 4% because of television.

Miss Verna McDonald Becomes Bride Of Gerald Staten Of Chicago At Beautiful Saturday Wedding

Palms, candelabra, and standards containing white gladioli and greenery with large white satin bows provided the setting at St. Mary's of the Lake Catholic Church in Culver for the 11 o'clock Saturday morning, Oct. 14, wedding which united in marriage Miss Verna Elizabeth McDonald and Gerald Joseph Staten.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. James H. McDonald of Burr Oak and the late Mr. McDonald. Mrs. Dennis Staten, 4554 W. Barry St., Chicago, and Mr. Staten, 2715 E. Ash St., Springfield, Ill., are parents of the bridegroom.

Father Joseph A. Lenk, pastor of the church, performed the double-ring ceremony.

Mrs. Sam Strang, organist, played the nuptial musical prelude, including "Panis Angelicus" by C. Franck.

White satin bows and huckleberry greenery marked the pews.

Escorted down the white carpeted aisle on the arm of her grandfather, Melvin R. Shriver, 217 Prairie Ave., Mishawaka, the bride was lovely in her bridal gown of princess styled off-white brocaded taffeta. The bateau front neckline, encrusted with seed pearl motifs, formed a deep V in the back. The back center panel of the gown featured a deep V just below the waistline where an insert of deep pleats gave way to the chapel train. The long tapered sleeves formed points over her hands where pearl motifs were repeated. The very full gored front skirt was sprinkled with the pearl motifs just above the hemline. Her finger tip veil of imported English illusion fell gracefully from a double crown headpiece of pearls. Her bridal bouquet was a cascade arrangement of baby white chrysanthemums and rosebuds with white streamers.

Mrs. Charles Reidelbach of Winamac was matron of honor. Her gown of Copenhagen blue taffeta featured elbow length sleeves and a fitted bodice with a bateau front neckline which formed a deep V in the back. The very full gathered ballerina length skirt with deep hem was topped with a cummerbund of brocaded Japanese silk. Her double bow headpiece of the same material held her circular veil of matching tulle. White short gloves, a double strand pearl necklace, and matching slippers completed her ensemble. She carried a floral cascade arrangement of yellow mums, wheat, leaves, and streamers.

The Misses Karen and Sharon McDonald, twin sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. Their gowns were styled identical to that of the matron of honor and their accessories matched hers. Miss Karen McDonald appeared in Saxe blue and carried a floral cascade arrangement of yellow and bronze mums, wheat, leaves, and streamers. Miss Sharon McDonald chose royal blue for her gown and her flowers were a cascade arrangement of bronze mums, leaves, wheat, and streamers.

Miss Debra Schumaker of South Bend, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. Her floor length gown of baby blue taffeta was styled as the other attendants and her accessories matched theirs. She dropped yellow petals from a small wicker basket.

Mike McFarland of Burr Oak carried the rings on a heart-shaped white satin pillow with a wide lace ruffle and blue and white ribbon streamers.

Serving his brother as best man was Ronald Staten of Chicago. Groomsmen were Richard Staten and Dennis Staten, also brothers of the bridegroom, both of Chicago.

George Kosteroski and Frank Chvatal, both of Chicago, were ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. McDonald selected a coat styled dress of Dior blue crepe and black accessories. Mrs. Staten, mother of the bridegroom, wore a light blue lace over taffeta dress and matching hat with black accessories. Both mothers wore shoulder corsages of white mums and rosebuds. Mrs. Shriver, grandmother of the bride, wore a beige knit dress with black accessories and a corsage of white mums.

A centerpiece of blue and white mums flanked by white candles decorated the linen covered tables with blue taffeta and white net streamers for the wedding breakfast served at the American Legion Post Home following the ceremony to 35 guests by Mrs. Charles Ferrier and Mrs. Paul Kaley.

An afternoon reception was held at the same place for 150 guests. White wedding bells and blue net decorated the room. The mantel of the stone fireplace held three-tiered candelabra and baskets of white gladioli.

Mums and greenery encircled the four-tiered wedding cake which was centered on the white taffeta covered reception table. The cake was decorated with bells and lovebirds and topped with a miniature bridal couple. Mums and greenery also encircled the memory candle. Assisting Mrs. Ferrier and Mrs. Kaley with the afternoon serving were Mrs. Owen Slater of Mishawaka and Mrs. Carson Schumaker of South Bend, aunts of the bride, Mrs. Joseph Clingenpeel of Warsaw and Mrs. Al Kepler of Cleveland, Ohio, cousins of the bride, Mrs. Paul Johnson of Lakeville, and Mrs. Carl Bennett of Burr Oak.

Mrs. Ronald Taylor of Grovertown, cousin of the bride, presided over the guest book for the wedding and reception.

For her going-away ensemble the new Mrs. Staten selected a two piece suit dress of teal blue wool and black accessories complemented by the rosebud corsage from her bridal bouquet.

Following their honeymoon to Washington, D. C., the newlyweds will be at home in their newly furnished apartment at 2414 N. Kilbourn St., Chicago.

The bride is a 1958 graduate of Culver High School and a 1961 graduate of Grant Hospital School of Nursing in Chicago. She is presently employed as a nurse at Grant Hospital.

The bridegroom is employed by the Sunbeam Corp.

Guests attending the wedding were from Argos, Burr Oak, Churubusco, Culver, Elkhart, Fort Wayne, Grovertown, Knox, LaGrange, Lakeville, Mishawaka, Ober, Plymouth, South Bend, Walkerton, Warsaw, and Winamac, Ind.; Chicago, Elk Grove Village, Springfield, and Waverly, Ill.; Cleveland, Ohio; and Quincy, Wash.

MR. AND MRS. NORMAN DITMIRE

In a double ring candlelight ceremony at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening, Oct. 14, at Emmanuel Evangelical United Brethren Church, Miss Nancy Jayne Flosenzier became the bride of Norman Eugene Ditmire. Mr. and Mrs. Guy D. Flosenzier of Route 2, Culver, are the parents of the bride and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Raymond Ditmire of 425 S. Main St., Culver, and the late Mr. Ditmire.

The altar was decorated with baskets of pink gladioli and white mums with seven-branch candelabra with white satin bows and lighted white tapers on either side. The pews were marked with white satin bows and greenery.

Paul White, cousin of the bridegroom, played the traditional nuptial music and accompanied Miss Betty Lou Kose who sang "Because," and "Always," preceding the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer," as the couple knelt at the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in a gown of white dulset satin which was fashioned with long pointed sleeves, a high scoop neckline, and a simple basque bodice highlighted with pearl and crystal beading. The full skirt was accented by a slim front panel, a large white satin bow in back and extended into a chapel train. Her hand-rolled illusion veil fell from a crown of pearls and iridescent crystal beads. She wore a cultured pearl necklace, a gift of the bridegroom, and carried a cascade bouquet of pink and white roses.

Miss Sandra Grove of Route 4, Plymouth, was maid of honor and the bridesmaid was Mrs. Alvin Triplet, of Culver, sister of the bridegroom. The attendants wore identical dresses made of bright pink acetate satin and were accented with a rose at the waist line and belled skirts. The attendants wore matching short, blush veils of nylon maline over a braided crown with glittering aurore borealis crystal-like beads. They carried cascade bouquets of white mums and pink roses.

Lee Ditmire was his brother's best man and ushers were Alvin Triplet, brother-in-law of the bridegroom and Guy R. Flosenzier Jr., brother of the bride.

Mrs. Flosenzier chose for her daughter's wedding a rose lace dress with bolero jacket and black accessories, with which she wore a white rose corsage. Mrs. Ditmire, mother of the bridegroom, wore a blue and wine print dress with a wine jacket and black accessories. She also wore a corsage of white roses.

Following the wedding a reception for approximately 200 guests was held in the church social rooms. The refreshment table was covered with a white cloth and was centered with the four-tier wedding cake which was trimmed with pink and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Greenery and pink bells encircled the cake. Punch, mints, and assorted nuts were also served.

Presiding at the refreshment table were Mrs. Max Ottow of Donaldson, Mrs. Keith Thomas of Route 4, Rochester, Miss Joan Poort of Rochester, and Miss Donna Smith of Culver. Miss Jane Ditmire, of Culver, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Linda Flosenzier of Plymouth, cousin of the bride, were in charge of the guest book.

The young couple left for a wedding trip to southern Indiana and when they return they will reside at Route 2, Culver. For traveling the bride wore a red wool sheath dress with black accessories and a white rose corsage from the bridal bouquet.

Guests from out of town were from Chicago, Ill., Columbus, Ohio, Plymouth, South Bend, Delong, Indianapolis, and Nappanee.

Mrs. Ditmire graduated from Culver High School in 1960 and is now employed as a dental assistant with Dr. Foster F. Sheller in Culver. Her husband graduated from Aubbeenaubee Township High School in 1957 and is employed at the Dale Jones D-X station in Culver.

Rev. G. Hanabusa To Speak At Local E.U.B. Churches

The Rev. George Hanabusa of Japan will be holding services in the Culver and Burr Oak Evangelical United Brethren Churches on Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 21 and 22.

He will be at the Culver Church Saturday evening to show slides and lead the discussion, and will conduct the Sunday morning services there. Sunday evening the slides will be shown at the Burr Oak Church followed by discussion.

All local churches are invited to share in this service.

Rev. Hanabusa was born in Yokohama, Japan, in 1931, the son of a Christian minister. He has spent almost all his life in the Tokyo area, receiving his education from elementary school through seminary in that city.

He entered Tokyo Union Theological Seminary in 1950 and graduated in 1956. Following graduation he served for five and one-half years as pastor of Itabashi Church. In addition to his parish ministry he served as a member of the youth committee of Tokyo Kyoku, and as secretary of the northern district of Tokyo.

An offering will be received for the scholarship fund of the EUB Division of World Missions.

Three '62 Service Academy Posts Are Available

Rep. Brademas Announces Exams

Washington, D. C. — Congressman John Brademas has announced that he will use the competitive system of nomination in filling three service academy appointments available for 1962 to the Third Congressional District, including Culver — one each for the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo.; Military Academy at West Point, N. Y.; and Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md.

"In order to give every candidate a fair chance and to nominate the best qualified young man, I have adopted the policy of making these nominations on a competitive basis," Brademas said. "The academies prefer this method and every young man has an equal opportunity for appointment."

Brademas used this method in making his 1960 and 1961 nominations to the service academies.

Exam At South Bend
A Civil Service written examination, designed specially for service academy aspirants, will be held at locations throughout the nation, including South Bend, on Saturday, Nov. 4.

Brademas said that all prospective candidates from St. Joseph, Elkhart, La Porte and Marshall Counties will be required to take this examination and must notify him by Oct. 2 of their desire to compete for one of the three vacancies. Candidates must be between 17 and 22 years of age on July 1, 1962.

30 Applications Already
He emphasized that the CSC examination is a preliminary test given to determine candidates for the academies. The candidates must then qualify for admission by passing written and physical examinations given directly by the academies. Brademas said he has already received 30 applications for these nominations.

The Hoosier Congressman also announced that he is allowed to nominate 10 candidates to compete on a State-wide basis with other Congressional nominees for Indiana's allotment of seven 1962 vacancies at the Merchant Marine Academy at Great Neck, Long Island, N. Y.

Write Congressman Brademas
Candidates for the Merchant Marine Academy will also take the CSC examination on Nov. 4 and should apply to Brademas by Oct. 2.

Congressman Brademas urged all aspirants to the academies to write him as soon as possible in order to receive information made available by the Civil Service Commission concerning the Nov. 4 examination. Address him at 1329 House Office Bldg., Washington 25, D. C.

Slight Farm Income Drop Forecast

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 9. Purdue University agricultural economists tonight forecast a slightly lower net income for Indiana farmers during the next 12 months. This smaller income will result primarily from lower prospective hog and poultry prices.

However, the outlook for U.S. farm income is about the same as that of the past 12 months. Lower hog prices have a greater impact on Hoosier farm income than on national farm income since Indiana farmers receive more than a fourth of their income from hogs.

Substantial expansion in general business activity is expected in the year ahead, the economists reported. To Indiana farmers this means:

"Off farm employment will be a little more difficult to find. . . . Hired farm help probably will be a little less plentiful. . . . An increasing number of Indiana farmers will become part-time farmers and more farm wives will find off farm employment.

"Prices of farm production items will probably increase slightly. . . . The business upturn plus population increases should raise total demand for farm products about two per cent."

These observations came in the first of a series of some 58 meetings throughout Indiana devoted to discussion of the agricultural outlook for the period from Oct. 1 to Sept. 30, 1962. The meetings, held each autumn, will continue through Oct. 20.

Here follows the economists' analysis of the Indiana outlook:

Feed and Grain

"Corn prices at harvest for the 1961 crop are expected to average 90 cents to $1 a bushel on a No. 2 basis. The Indiana farm price of corn probably will rise next summer to around $1.10-$1.20 in the corn surplus areas. In corn deficit areas the price will be 10 to 20 cents a bushel higher. Modest profits may be expected from storage operations.

"Prices of oats and barley will average slightly above the loan rate (62 cents and 93 cents, respectively), while grain sorghum prices will average slightly below the loan ($1.93 per hundred-weight).

"Protein feed prices are likely to average five to 15 per cent below last year's levels.

"Soybean prices are expected to average above the loan rate of $2.30 a bushel, but considerably below last year.

"Wheat prices will fluctuate slightly above the state loan rate of $1.82 a bushel."

Hogs

"With increased marketings in prospect, hog prices are expected to average $1 to $3 lower than the $17.74 (all barrows and gilts at Indianapolis) for the 1960-61 marketing year. Larger marketings will result mostly from increased farrowings. The Indiana hog-corn ratio is expected to remain above the long-time average of 13.7 to one until mid-1962. Some liquidation of breeding herds may take place in late 1962 or early 1963."

Beef Cattle

"Cattle numbers are expected to continue their upward cyclical trend during the coming year with resulting larger marketings and price declines. Fat cattle prices will average a little lower, with strongest prices for the year during the winter or spring. . . . Indiana beef herd operators can expect some what lower prices for feeder cattle and lower profits from the beef breeding enterprise in the next few years."

Sheep And Lambs

" . . . lamb and mutton consumption has declined about 35 per cent in the last 20 years. So, even with reduced numbers, substantial improvement in returns from ewe flocks is not expected in the near future. Lower feeder lamb prices and prospects of stronger prices of fed lambs make for a better profit situation for lamb feeders than during the past year."

Dairy

"Net income to Indiana dairymen will be up one to four per cent in 1962. Milk prices will be steady to slightly higher. Individual producers will have to continue to increase volume and efficiency if they are to share in the increased income. No significant change is expected in support levels for dairy products in the year ahead."

Eggs

"Returns from laying flocks are expected to be substantially less favorable as a result of higher feed costs and lower egg prices. The trend toward large commercial producing units will continue. It will be extremely difficult to make 'hired man's' wages for the hours spent in caring for a small farm flock."

Broilers

"Broiler prices for much of the remainder of 1961 will remain near their recent record low levels. A cutback in supply is expected to improve price levels during the first part of 1962. Any substantial price improvement will probably trigger a return to expanding rates of production."

Turkeys

"Only a slight seasonal price increase is expected for the current record-sized turkey crop. For 1962, turkey production is likely to be as high or higher than in 1961 with little prospect for improvement in price or income."

Production Item Prices

" . . . production items, wages, taxes and interest are expected to average one to three per cent higher than during the past year. Farm real estate taxes are expected to show the largest increase . . . Farmers' expenditures for durable goods, such as machinery, equipment and building materials, declined during the past two years. However, with higher farm incomes in Indiana in 1960 and 1961, compared to 1959, an increase in the purchase of these items is expected in the year ahead."

Farm Real Estate

"Steady to slightly higher land values are expected in Indiana for the next year. Prices for better grades of land will tend to rise more than prices for land which is less productive. Values are expected to be higher in 1970 than presently."

Fruits And Vegetables

" . . . Stocks of canned tomatoes and tomato products going into 1962 appear to be adequate. Thus no real pressure to increase acreage and contract prices to producers is likely . . ."

" . . . Indiana's 1961 apple production is estimated to be 20 per cent smaller than last year. The large national crop, however, means essentially no change in prices from last year for Indiana growers."

African Songstress Makes Second Appearance At Eppley Auditorium

MIRIAM MAKEBA AND CHAD MITCHELL TRIO

South African songstress Miriam Makeba will appear at Culver Military Academy Saturday, Oct. 21, as part of the 1961-62 Concert-Theater Series.

Miss Makeba's performance will begin at 8:15 p.m. in the Eugene C. Eppley Auditorium. She will be accompanied by the Chad Mitchell Trio.

Wins Return Engagement

The Saturday concert will be the second appearance by Miss Makeba at Culver in as many years. Miss Makeba was booked last fall when the Academy faced a cancellation by another artist, and she proved so entertaining to the Academy's corps of cadets that she was added to this year's series.

Both Miss Makeba and the Chad Mitchell Trio are leading exponents of folk music. Miss Makeba's specialty are the songs of her own South African Xosa tribe. She was a top recording artist in her own country and was selected to play the feminine lead in the jazz opera "King Kong." This led to a brief role in a semi-documentary film "Come Back Africa," which afforded her the opportunity to go to Venice.

Praised By Steve Allen

American TV star Steve Allen saw Miss Makeba in Venice and booked her for his show. Allen, together with singer Harry Belafonte, arranged for her entry into this country, and since her arrival in 1959, Miss Makeba has been popular in television, concert, and festival appearances.

William J. Martin, director of theater at Culver, said a few seats are still available to the public for the Saturday night concert. Mail and telephone orders may be made through Thursday. Prices are $3 and $2 for this performance.

SPECIAL SERVICES HELD AT BURR OAK CHURCH OF GOD

A special service was conducted Sunday morning, Oct. 15, at the Burr Oak Church of God by a group of the young people of the church. In an informal type discussion the young people presented, "New Views and Reviews" with which they challenged the congregation.

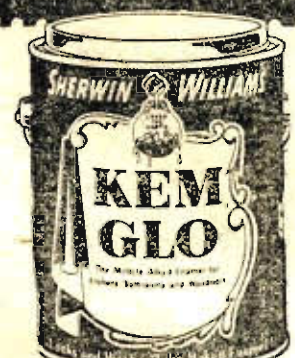

Rochelle Good directed a panel of six members, Bonnie Good, Barbara Rosebaum, Bernice Mevis, Carol Heiser, Betty Zechiel, and Carol Overmyer. A well prepared and thought out program was presented by the panel. Important features of their presentations were: The importance of music in the church services; the need for leadership of the church in view of the present world situation; an attitude of Christian fellowship within the church. The closing thought was an admonition from the scripture, "Redeem the time."

This service is in accord with the "Spiritual Preparation" program being conducted within the church. The climax of this program will be a series of evangelistic services to which the public will be invited to be conducted the week following Thanksgiving.

COMMUNITY HOME SCHOOL

THE SCHOOLBELL

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE PRESS CLUB OF CULVER HIGH SCHOOL

Attend Press Meeting At Pilot

By Cheryl Dillon

At 4:30 on Thursday, Oct. 5, Margo Overmyer and Linda Kose, co-editors of the "Schoolbell" and Linda Behmer and Cheryl Dillon, the Plymouth Pilot-News reporters met at the schoolhouse. Shortly thereafter Mr. M. R. Robinson, Press Club sponsor, arrived and took us to Plymouth to the Plymouth Pilot-News building.

We were greeted by Miss Mary Jurkiewicz, social editor of the Pilot, and given identification tags with our names and the name of our school. Linda Kose and Margo recognized some of their fellow Girls' Staters and Mr. Robinson talked with many of his friends. Besides renewing old friendships, we met lots of new people.

The invocation was given by Donald R. J. Cramer, managing editor, and a delicious supper was served by the members of the Pilot staff. Following the meal, Mr. Cramer, who was the master of ceremonies, welcomed everyone and introduced the other members of the Pilot staff: Mrs. Sally Bagley, school page editor; Miss Mary Jurkiewicz; Bob Hutchins, sports editor; and Mike Boys, photographer. Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Boys, publishers of the Plymouth Pilot-News, were also introduced and they welcomed the guests.

Mike Boys provided the entertainment for the evening. He did two very amusing pantomimes to the selections "Yellow Rose of Texas" and "Man on the Flying Trapeze." He also showed a very interesting film on "The Newspaper Team."

Mrs. Bagley told us the plans for this year's school page. Pamphlets containing information and various materials were passed out to the sponsors from each school. A trip to Chicago will be awarded to the two top reporters for the school year.

Tours of the new building ended a most enjoyable and informative evening.

By Nick Knoerzer and Donna Smith

Well, here we are back at the salt mines for another week of slavery. It is really not that bad for our teachers are kind, gentle, and most helpful. Just ask Bob Parker if they are not helpful. They will even help you over the telephone.

The parties were in full swing last weekend with John Crum having a hayride. I hear it was slowed up for awhile because there was the misfortune of a flat tire.

The upper four grades attended the performance of the Belafonte Folk Singers at the Academy on Friday afternoon. Everyone had an enjoyable time even though you had to crawl to squeeze into the building.

The juniors have been working madly, trying to get ready for the big night, Oct. 20. Everywhere you look you see juniors trying to memorize their parts. By the way, if you have not bought a ticket and wish to do so, tickets can be purchased from any junior.

Pat Lutz, where did you get that horrible case of poison ivy? George Herr and Joe Rosebaum have become experts at square roots. If anyone needs help these are the boys to see.

While on the subject of Joe Rosebaum, how did he celebrate his birthday last Friday?

Elouise Tanner has more trouble than any other person I know. Along with all her other troubles, she now has to worry about flat tires.

Martha MacAllister, do you think you'll know Sam when he comes home?

We are certainly proud to see a former Indian back in Indiana territory. He is none other than our own Jerry Kimmel. It is good to see you, Jerry.

Mimi Fisher, if you don't stay at home, how do you expect to be able to answer any of your telephone calls?

Hats off to the senior girls who appeared in the Minstrel Show.

Well, it is getting late and my brain is getting foggy, so we had better say good-bye until next week.

Culver High has an unusual distinction — it has three varsity cheerleaders who pronounce their given names the same, yet they are all spelled differently. They are Sherrill Edgington, Cheryl Dillon and Sheryl Hohman. No other school in the whole U.S.A. has this distinction!

Arts Students Work In Clay

By Shari Croy

Ceramic clay, a very plastic medium, is being investigated by the seventh graders. They started by making various shapes, such as cylinders, cubes, so they could get the "feel" of the new material. When they knew the possibilities of their clay, they made small bowls with their hands as their only tools. They are now making planters from clay slabs and decorating them by cutting designs with a knife or by pressing objects into clay. Then, when the pieces are dry, they will bake them, paint them with glaze, and bake them again.

The proportions of the human figure are the concern of the high school classes. Earlier this week we used telephone wire scraps to express the figure in action. At present we are concentrating on drawing the folds in our clothing as we sit, bend the elbow, or stoop to the floor. Next we are going to model figures in clay, putting into practice what we have learned about proportion, the folds in clothing, and the direction of the parts of the figure in action.

Juniors Sell Play Tickets

By Elouise Tanner and Pat Lutz

The Freshman class held their first meeting Friday, Oct. 6, in the Home Economics Room. They decided to start their fudge sales on Oct. 23. They also picked two people from the Freshman class to serve on the cheer-leading committee. Those representing the Freshman class were Joan Dillon and Dave Lemar.

Does anyone want their leaves raked? If so contact any member of the Sophomore class. The class has been divided into eight teams, with seven on a team, and should begin raking soon. The class has also decided to sponsor fudge sales again this year. Also, in their class they have started to discuss and try to pick their sophomore movie and will be selling tickets soon. Those serving on the cheer-leading committee from the Sophomore class were Janet Beck and Tom Yocom.

The Juniors have been busy as bees trying to sell tickets for their class play, "The Hobgoblin House," which will be given on Oct. 20, at the Culver Community Building at 8:00 P. M. The Junior class has been divided into three teams for their ticket selling, the chairman of these teams are: Larry Miller, Cheryl Dillon and Charlene Lucas. Judy Kimmel is the chairman of the poster committee. An apology goes out to Wade Logan whose name was missed in last week's paper. He will be playing the part of Bluebeard Bronson, a maniac. They are hoping to have a good turn-out again this year, and promise an evening of laughter. Those representing the Junior class on the cheer-leading committee were Linda Behmer and Dennis Shock.

The Seniors are busy cleaning the recreation room so that they will be ready for the first home basketball game. Susan Ruhnow was chosen chairman with five others helping. In the class meeting held Friday, Oct. 6, it was voted that all dues be in by Jan. 19, so all Seniors don't forget! It was also voted that an additional twenty-five cents be added for each day that dues are overdue. Donna Smith and Don Miller were chosen to represent the Seniors on the cheer-leading committee. All of the senior points have been totaled and posted in Room 6, in order that all seniors may see where they stand and what needs to be done on their last project, concessions at the basketball games.

Reporters Chat With Mrs. Cast

By Barbara Hatten and Lucy Osborn

If you have noticed an attractive, feminine teacher new to Culver's faculty, it is probably Mrs. Carole Cast, our new home economics teacher.

Mrs. Cast was born on Sept. 7, in Chicago. She attended high school in Winamac, and college at Indiana University.

Before coming to Culver, Mrs. Cast taught at White Pigeon, Mich., where she met her husband who is now attending school in South Bend.

Her favorite food is steak and her favorite color is blue. In the areas of home economics, she likes sewing best of all.

Do you like to chew gum in class? Well, beware for this is her pet peeve.

Chorus Using New Risers

By David Frain

Mr. Hambrock attended the vocal clinic at Plymouth High School last Saturday. The guest director was Dan Trach from Vandercook School of Music, Chicago. Over forty directors were present and were able to sing and select some new songs of recent publishers.

The band uniforms have been reissued for this coming school year.

The chorus risers that were purchased by the music department have arrived and are now in daily use.

Bob Shirrell and Mike Hansen have started on bass sousaphone, both having previous training on the cornet.

A new folder rack is now in use in the band building. This rack was built and painted by Mr. Alexander, shop instructor. Many thanks to Mr. Alexander for his time on this on this project, for it is appreciated very much by the music department.

Plans are now being made for the Piano, Vocal, and Ensemble Contest to be held in January. Any interested student should sign up now.

Culver has six twirling students in the Twirling Contest at Lowell, Indiana. The results of this contest will be published next week.

Grade Students Busy With Many Projects

By Judy Kimmel and Gloria Baker

In Mrs. Melton's kindergarten, the children have been making jack-o'-lanterns and pumpkin faces to decorate for Halloween. Robert Craft had a birthday party on Tuesday.

Miss Cripe's first grade children have brought interesting things to supplement their science shelf. Mike McFarland brought a bird nest that he found and some poliwogs, and Tuesday Todd Matson brought his hamsters for the day. Judy Nelson celebrated her seventh birthday Tuesday, Oct. 10, with a party at school. Judy's mother was a guest at the party.

Miss Page's second grade took a walk to see the beautiful leaves. They have begun to read from their first second grade reader, "We Are Neighbors." David Herr had a birthday Oct. 10.

In Mrs. Allen's second grade, the students have their new reading books. They are called "We Are Neighbors." They also took a walk down town to see the colored leaves. They liked the dogwood tree best.

Mrs. McLane's third grade has a new pupil in class, Vicky Mike-sell. She comes from Clay Township. They now have 33 boys and girls. They are displaying a collection of six leaves for each boy and girl. Kenneth Baker had a birthday party on Wednesday, Oct. 4.

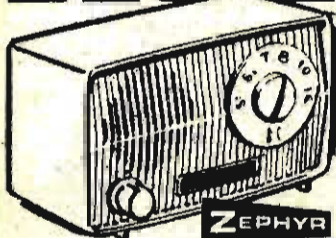

Mrs. Carter's third grade is making a seed collection. Diana Crabb is chairman of the committee. The class is also experimenting with planting seeds in flower pots. Thomas DeTroy is chairman of this committee. Twenty-eight pupils out of 32 got all of their spelling words right. They received stars. Mrs. Carter is reading "Black Beauty" to them. David Williams brought his rock collection to class and the children were surprised to find that one rock was lava. Charles Pennington has been absent due to injuries he received when he was hit by a car.

Mr. Smith's sixth grade students have been measuring themselves in health class. They have also been making a collection of insects and leaves consisting of 15 of each. Twenty-three out of 25 of the students got their words correct in spelling.

Students Tell True Meaning Of Freedom

By Diane Boots and Barbara Rosebaum

Just what is the true meaning of freedom to you? This was the question asked of the Culver Indians.

Gloria Baker — The true meaning of freedom is to be able to speak what you want and to do what you want.

Richard Warner — I think the true meaning of freedom is that a person can live his life the way he wants and worship the way he chooses.

Carmen Gretter — Freedom is truth, wisdom, and security.

Rick Ervin — The right to do as you please as long as it doesn't interfere with other people's rights.

Linda Kose — It is hard to say what freedom is for it is many things. It is being able to worship, think, speak, write, and act as we choose. It is these few things I have mentioned and more. Only when freedom is taken away from us can we truly appreciate its meaning.

Phil Gretter — To live in America is enough.

Bonnie Good — Freedom means security. The right to walk around knowing that you are safe. The love of America is also freedom.

Rodney Edgington — The true meaning of freedom is the right to speak your piece, and the right of liberty.

Ofelia G. Briones — To believe as we wish, to believe and to be able to do what we want with our things and property.

Paul Cromley — The privilege of free speech and freedom of opinion.

Linda Shock — To be independent to the extent of good judgment.

These answers just go to show that the Indians can get serious even though they have their minds on six week tests, basketball, and many other things.

Kathy Keeps Reporter Busy

By Mary Jane Guise

The Shadow's victim this week is Kathy Clyne, a senior at Culver High School (natch), and generally an all-around good kid.

I first encountered the victim at 9:10 a.m. in world history. During the period, she sang, made wierd noises, and banged her hand against her chair repeatedly. Someone asked her if she had heard any new jokes; her reply was, "Nah." She continued yawning the rest of the period. At the end of class she flashed out of the room so fast I couldn't catch up with her and I lost sight of her as she struggled up the stairs. I slyly waited for her in third period English, and sure enough — shuffling slowly and occasionally peering over her shoulder — in she came. After a slight grimace when someone pulled her hair, she was unusually quiet for the rest of the period except for a reply to a question — "Number — uh — 26." I followed her very closely after class and while she was going to the next class she met Carmen Gretter, made a wierd noise, and pointed her finger (to represent a gun, I presume.)

I managed to watch her closely in honor study hall and I was almost discovered when she asked me what I was writing and ripped the paper from my hand. After a wild skirmish, I retrieved my paper and proceeded to watch her closely. During this time, she (among other strange things) put on lipstick, yelled wildly at several people, and made a horrible face at me for staring at her. She smeared my glasses (which she thought was extremely funny), made more strange noises, and began to whistle. After some time, she squirted some medicine in her eye and showed me how glazy it got — getting us both reprimanded for talking.

At the dinner table she maliciously bent everyone's milk straw, and after much ado and stealing other people's silverware, finally decided to get some of her own.

I lost track of her until 8th period, but one of my "super dooper" hired spies reported that in 5th period study hall she moved to another seat and had quite a bit of fun (doing what, I wouldn't know.)

Eighth period rolled along and I again had a chance to move in closer. She scribbled on a note-book and there were several wild peals of laughter at different intervals throughout the period. After a while, she put the note-book away and started discussing a lecture she had heard the night before. She put on some more "Queen of Diamonds" lipstick and when the bell rang, ambled out of the room. I was terrifically relieved when she yelled her characteristic "adios." As I watched her go, I wondered who next week's Shadow would be and felt a twinge of sadness and pity.

Nine Win Their Baseball Letters

By James Westcott

On Thursday, Sept. 28, the county cross-country meet took place at the Culver Bird Sanctuary. The placement of the participating schools was Lapaz with 40 points, Bourbon with 44 points, Culver with 72 points, Argos with 86 points, Tippy with 87 points, Tyner with 167 points, and West with 187 points. Yazel of Lapaz came in first in 10:03, a new county record. The previous record was held by George Baker of Culver and was 10:06, which was very good for the track. The boys participating from Culver were George Wright in 10:44, Frank Keiser in 10:59, Don Miller in 11:00, Tom Yocom in 11:01, Paul White in 11:22, Dennis Shock in 11:23, Wade Logan in 11:27, Thad Overmyer in 11:36, Doug Lindvall in 11:45, Ed Matson in 11:47, and Chuck Reed in 11:53. There is only one more meet scheduled for Culver in the coming month. It will be at South Bend and will be the sectional.

During this season, our baseball team has done very well. Many of the members have won high school letters. The following boys won major letters: Jim Carter, George Herr, Rick Ervin, Paul White, Sam Lowry, Bob Carter, Paul Liette, Jim Boswell, and David Lemar. Minor letter winners are: Larry Linhart, Jim Lewis, and Jim Weirick.

This Is Dagnet Working In C.H.S.

By Charlene Lucas

Dum-de-dum-dum! Unsolved mystery at hand! What are those weird screams that have been heard coming from the high school building at nights?! Dum-de-dum-dum!

My name is C. L. Lucas. I'm a secret agent. I was hired to solve this case, madame. Here's the facts, madame, just the facts. October 3, 1961.

Decided to stake out C.H.S. halls to see if I could get a lead. At 8:02 a.m. suspicious looking character entered U. S. history class and gave a friendly greeting to his fellow classmates. I inquired around and found out this boy worked under the name of Thad J. Overmyer. I decided to shadow this boy. Something told me this Overmyer had something to do with the case. (We'll soon find out!)

At 8:08 a.m., suspect held fiery discussion with junior girls. Overmyer was registering a complaint against a certain junior girl, (name withheld to protect the innocent), who has a habit of disturbing his peace. Seems she has a passion for honking her horn in front of his home at all hours of the night. Overmyer warned this girl that she may be missing a car horn very soon! (Ummm, possible thief here.)

At 8:10 a.m., school began, and my subject began his daily routine. I employed a junior agent to help me in the shadowing of suspect, and continued with my work.

Thad acted pretty good in history class. He answered a few questions, listened to Mr. Robinson, and was the first one out of the door when the bell rang. (That's pretty good considering his seat is one of the farthest from the door!)

Suspect then made a brief stop at his locker and continued to chemistry. It didn't take long for me to get my first clues. Thad soon became the object of his friend's teasing. My boy had been somewhere the night before. (Ah-ha!) Just what did you and Sheryl do last night, Thad? (Something very fishy going on around here!)

Third period: Suspect was very hard to keep up with. He went to study hall and talked to Mr. Logan for a few minutes, then dashed off to the band building with his shadow right behind him. (I'm not a member of the Sherlock Holmes fan club for nothing, you know!)

Fourth period: Overmyer attended algebra class. Upon seeing a certain girl, he again warned her about that darn horn blowing! (This boy doesn't give up.) During this class Thad got a test back, and after uttering a few quotable comments about his score, settled down to work. But not for long! He soon became bored with being good and started complaining to his neighbor about people who blow horns at 10 at night. (One track mind, maybe?) He then started tapping the girl in front of him with his pencil, made a few more comments about the test, and finally burst out with the earth-shaking statement, "BOY, AM I EVER HUNGRY!"

During the noon hour, band, and typing, my suspect behaved like a model student. Could it be that you can't do much talking while hasting on a trombone, or typing 56 words a minute? (That's the secret, teachers, keep him busy and he's a regular angel!)

Seventh period: In English T. J. was also acting very nice and innocent. (Aside from a few little comments that he added to each discussion!) Very good sign. Al Capone acted innocent, too.

4:40 p.m.: School was out. I was feeling rather discouraged. Could I have been wrong about this Thad Overmyer? I decided not to give up.

7:00 p.m.: My patience paid off. Got a tip that suspect was entering high school followed by some other juniors. (Ah-ha again!) I decided to wait a few moments before closing in on the gang. I wanted to catch them in the act. I slowly moved in, and caught them red-handed in the act. Right in the middle of act one of the junior play!

I solved the mystery, but if you want to know what part my suspect, Thad J. Overmyer, plays in causing those weird screams, and what all the screaming is about, be in the gym on Oct. 20 for the junior play. This case is closed. Those are the facts, madame, just the facts!

MA Eagles Meet L. John's For Homecoming Game

Squad Works On New Offense

Culver Military Academy's football squad began working on new offense this week in an effort to snap its two-game losing streak by Saturday's Homecoming game against arch-rival St. Louis Military Academy. The game starts at 2:15 p.m. in four games to date, Culver used a multiple offense but only a double slot. The Eagles ran well with victories over Bremen and Tuley High Schools. Then they were clobbered by Luers, 41-13, and last Sunday Culver lost to Penn School, 12-0, gaining only yards from scrimmage.

Hampered By Injuries
Culver hopes to develop new plays that will spring several of its faster backfield aces like Bobkenstein, leading scorer, on other backs, Chris Hinkle and Bill Baker, have been hampered with injuries that have hurt the Eagle offense.

Against Penn, Culver gave up 10 first period touchdowns and held the Kingsmen for the remaining three quarters. Woody Wood climaxed a 55-yard drive following the opening kickoff and scored for Penn on a 10-yard run. Culver ran four plays, punt and Penn this time took 13 yards to cover 54 yards. Pat Carlingo the final eight yards of the TD. Rain and winds held down the scoring at that.

Runners Win Twice
In other sports, Coach Dave Drake's cross country runners came up with two victories last week. During the half of Saturday's football game, the Eagles defeated Warsaw, 23-28. A three-way meet at Culver last week, the Academy defeated names, 20-35, but lost to Cheston, 15-48.

Here's why the REMC generating plant is NOT duplication

Private utilities complain that the Hoosier Energy generating plant at Petersburg is "duplication." Their advertising shouts that Indiana has "all the power it needs for now and in the future."

Let's look at the facts—

1. Indiana's commercial utilities say that their estimated total peak use in 1961 is 3,893,000 kilowatts.
2. Reports made by these same utilities to the Federal Power Commission show that the use of electric power in Indiana is doubling every 10 years . . . therefore, they will need another 3,893,000 kilowatts by 1971.
3. Their total extra electricity now available is 1,040,900 kilowatts.

It will take 3 years to build the Hoosier Energy plant

By that time, Indiana's normal growth will have offset the surplus that private utilities have now, as well as the 198,000 kilowatts to be generated by Hoosier. If this country meets with an emergency, Indiana's present supply of electricity would be critical.

Plenty of electricity available? Indiana's private utilities admit that they will need to build more generation themselves.

OKAY BOYS, TAKE IT AWAY!

Our Patent Incentive System

"If a man can make a better mouse-trap than his neighbors . . . the world will make a beaten path to his door." — Ralph Waldo Emerson

The colorful Emerson statement still holds water. No facet of living, or of manufacturing, escapes the fertile minds of inventors seeking newer, cheaper, faster, or better ways of doing things.

Within a few days, some inventor will be awarded the three millionth patent by the U. S. Patent Office — and hopefully enlarge the driveway to his house!

Moreover, Patent No. 3,000,000 will feature this 125th anniversary year of the Patent Act. Beginning October 15 — "American Patent System Week" — there'll be big doings in Washington. Celebrants will remind us how American industry has flourished under the patent system; how new products are invented; how millions are employed — and, of course, how inventors are given incentives and protection.

But ominous clouds will hang over the celebration.

The politicians want to latch on to the patent system.

Here's a prime example:

One administration-backed bill would diminish the exclusive use of a drug patent by the owner from 17 years (the present legal limit) to a maximum of three. At the end of the three years, the bill would force the company with a new prescription drug to license its manufacture by any come-later competitor.

Now — just how much do-re-mi do you think a drug manufacturer would spend (on research, labor, advertising, etc.) if he knew his exclusive right to the product would be forfeited?

He would probably spend zero. (Note — during the past 20 years, U. S. manufacturers have come up with over 50% of the world's leading drug discoveries).

And what about defense industries, now beset by certain solons in Washington? Some Government officials would virtually destroy the commercial patent rights, know-how, and trade secrets of companies working on Government contracts.

Why rock the boat now?

Let's keep the American patent incentive system high-balling at its current speed of granting more than 1,000 patents a week.

COOL, CLEAR WATER

MAN has contaminated the waters flowing in our rivers and streams. In spite of stream pollution, the tap water in this country is second to none in the world.

Maintaining a high purity of the water we use has not been easy and has necessitated a continuous fight to keep it that way.

We have seen the death of many streams from the discharge of waste in volumes too great for the capacity of the streams to absorb. The death of a stream is obvious from odors and unsightliness, the disappearance of game fish, and the decline of boating and swimming.

Health authorities are concerned over the possible long-range poisonous effects on people by the wastes that are byproducts of modern life.

The expansion of the synthetic chemical and petro-chemical industries in recent years has created new water pollution problems.

A few years ago waterborne epidemics and disease outbreaks were usually localized and mainly caused by known, living, bacterial organisms which could be identified and brought under control.

Today the problem of controlling pollution is vastly more complex due to the changing industrial technology which has created a whole new range of contaminants. The residues of millions of pounds of detergents, insecticides, herbicides, solvents, and cleaners now find their way into watercourses.

Water pollution experts are studying the possibility of the potential hazards in radioactive contamination of water.

Some of the new types of wastes are only partly or not at all affected by the protective processes available to treat water and sewage.

It is known that any amounts of contaminants remain in the water—even in the water people drink.

Fishing Tips

In case you never noticed, fishing boat captains like to make things easy for their clients. One way to call in the fish is to get chummy with them; that is, spread an area with goodies that delight a fish's appetite. Well, you can work the same scheme on a smaller scale and be one up on the big boys. Fill a gunny sack with clams or mussels, weigh it down, and then sink it at your favorite fishing hole. Just don't tell your best friends about it, and you'll find that your favorite hole has become a fisherman's hotspot, with you as the sole fisherman.

For many fishermen nighttime is the time to fish. But fishing at night also brings its headaches — it's usually a chore to find things in the dark. If you tie a knot in your line so it reaches your hand when the plug is at your rod tip, there'll be no more cussing and searching in the dark for your plug and you can spend your saved energy on a more worthwhile project — fishing.

Here's still another way to end second-guessing. When you have pulled in a big one that's been feeding deep, your next question is: How deep was he? You can answer this puzzler yourself with no strain if you have marked your fishing line every five feet with colored nail polish (the Little Woman won't mind, it's a good cause).

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

In an official order, Attorney General Robert Kennedy has announced that from now on, until further notice, in cases of anti-trust violations, where the government is entertaining accepting a consent judgment from the defendants, the proposed consent judgment will be made public at least 30 days before it is entered in court.

This is perhaps a step forward in the objective that has been sought by the nation's independent businessmen voting through the National Federation of Independent Business.

As it has been in the past, the government could find some operation guilty of a violation of the anti-trust laws. The defendant corporation, rather than having the matter go to trial, can accept the government's findings and agree to a consent judgment. This judgment has been entered in the court and the case and its records then closed, with usually the defendant agreeing to cease and desist, and sometimes paying a nominal fine, in addition.

From the standpoint of independent competitors who have been severely damaged, or ruined by the practices to which the defendant pleaded guilty, there is then no opportunity, from a practical standpoint, to exercise the right of the injured party to sue for triple damages.

Of course, the injured small competitor does have the right to sue, but from a practical standpoint, the injured competitor does not have the funds to carry on long and expensive search for evidence that the government has engaged in, usually with the assistance of the FBI.

It has long been the viewpoint of independent businessmen, that inasmuch as Federal tax funds were employed to dig up the findings that causes the guilty party to agree to a consent judgment, that this evidence, gathered at tax expense, should be available to the injured small competitors in bringing damage suits.

While this new order by the Attorney General does not accomplish this full objective, it at least means that it will not be possible, as in the past, for a guilty firm to engage in private negotiations to cease illegal practices, and to have the matter handled with the utmost of discretion.

Inasmuch as some 70% of the anti-trust cases have been handled in this manner, the issue is quite large here.

The purpose of the order is to permit injured competitors and other persons and government agencies, to comment upon the case at issue. Justice Dept. on the basis of such additional information received, will reserve the right, if it is deemed to be proper, to withhold the government's sanction to a consent judgment, and thus bring the matter for a full scale trial.

Probably the greatest gain for independent business gained here is a forthwith recognition by government that violations of the anti-trust laws are illegal, and that before government should accept a plea of guilty and then consent to a modest penalty, the parties injured by the action should be heard from.

Salvation is attained through spiritual awakening, growth, and progress. This is a theme of the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Probation After Death" which will be presented at Christian Science churches Sunday.
From John (5) will be read
these words of Christ Jesus:
"Verily, verily, I say unto you,
He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life."
One of the citations from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states: "Universal salvation rests on progression and probation, and is unattainable without them" (p. 291).
The Golden Text is from I Corinthians (6): "God hath both raised up the Lord, and will also raise up us by his own power."
