Town Board Topics

Ordinance No. 186 which regulates the burning of garbage and trash inside the city limits of Culver came up for second reading at the regular meeting of the Culver Town Board last Monday evening, Sept. 21. Following the reading a motion was made to waive the third reading since the ordinance had been published in accordance with the law. This action places the ordinance in effect as of Monday night.

A discussion arose as to whether or not certain areas recently incorporated had been recorded in the proper offices at the county court house. Edgar Shaw, board member, stated he would investigate the matter and report at the next board meeting.

It was brought to the board's attention by the clerk-treasurer that a week remained before the deadline to voluntarily pay the Culver City dog tax. After that date, the collection of delinquent dog tax will be made by the town marshal. To date $77.00 has been collected in dog tax.

The board discussed the problem of past due sewer accounts and authorized the clerk-treasurer to send out notices of water shut-off on the tenth of each month to persons delinquent for two months or more in the payment of sewer charges, unless previous arrangements have been made with the clerk or the board for payment of the charges.

Odds and Ends — Roger Wise, representing the Culver Jaycees, asked the board's permission to hold a street fair in Culver during the week of June 20, 1965 with plans to hold it in the same location as this year. The board agreed — Mrs. Nellie Jackson thanked the board for the street improvement near her home and asked if something could be done about the accumulation of water on the side of the street in that vicinity. The problem will be looked into. — A general discussion was held on the possibility of paving certain alleys near the center of town to eliminate the washing out of gravel during a heavy rain. No action taken — C. W. Epley asked for information concerning the laying of sidewalks and curbing adjoining the new Duplex on North Forest Place and just what would be permitted. The board suggested that an examination of the approved plat would be necessary before information could be given. — Repairs of the Street Garage roof and the replacing of the flashing on the town hall roof was discussed. The board decided to ask Mr. Weiger to look over the two roofs and take care of whatever would be needed. — William Washburn discussed with the board some much needed repairs to the Beach Lodge that should be done this fall, no action taken. The building of park tables this winter was also discussed.

Four New Teachers Appointed To CMA English Staff

Two instructors educated in England are among four teachers appointed to the English department at Culver Military Academy.

The four new teachers replace a similar number who have left the Academy faculty, two of them to return to England after appointments as visiting instructors. Two others are doing graduate work during the current academic year.

Appointed to the 19-man English department under the chairmanship of Arthur G. Hughes are:

John M. Hartley, formerly chairman of the English department of Wellington School, Somerset, England;

Anthony H. De Quehen, who was born in Southern Rhodesia and educated at the University of London;

William W. Finley, who holds a master's degree from Notre Dame University;

David F. Weeks, who recently received his master's degree from Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn.

Hartley previously taught at Culver in 1961 when the English department initiated a plan for bringing visiting teachers from England for one-year appointments to the faculty. Hartley's re-appointment is on a permanent basis. He was graduated with honors in English from Cambridge University, and he holds a diploma in education from Oxford University. Hartley was awarded a master's degree from Cambridge last November.

De Quehen is at Culver on a one-year appointment as a visiting teacher. He was born and educated in Southern Rhodesia and received a bachelor's degree from the University College of Rhodesia and Nyasaland. He received this year a bachelor's degree with honors in English from the University of London. He has teaching experience in Rhodesia and London.

Finley is a native of Kendallville, Ind., and received his bachelor's degree with an English major from Depauw University, Greencastle, Ind. He was on the editorial board of the Depauw literary magazine. Finley received his master's degree in August, 1963, from the University of Notre Dame. He has teaching experience at Clay High School, South Bend, and Notre Dame High School, Niles, Ill.

Weeks is from Philadelphia. He did his undergraduate work at Brown University and attended Wesleyan University on a fellowship while working towards his master's degree in teaching.

School Board Studies New Building Plans

The Board of School Trustees on Monday evening devoted the major part of the business to a conference with Mr. Sam Woodruff and Mr. Gordon Gibbs, representing the architectural firm of Louis C. Kingscott and Associates.

The School Board received a detailed explanation of the procedures involved in planning for a new high school and of the various areas of costs to be taken into consideration. The company's representatives also reviewed with the School Board the plans which have been used in a number of new high schools for which their firm has provided architectural and engineering services.

The School Board expects to interview several other architects within the next month and to visit a number of new high schools which have been erected for corporations of the size of Culver Community Schools. These inspections of the new facilities will enable the members of the School Board to observe various types of construction and planning.

Since the transportation reports were received from the bus drivers within the past week, the School Board reviewed these and proposed certain changes to equalize mileage for the routes in North Bend Township. Because North Bend drivers who own part of the bus equipment receive the same reimbursement, it was the School Board's opinion that the daily mileage of these drivers should be as nearly equal as possible. The proposed changes would improve the situation as revealed by the reports prepared by the drivers.

Car Hits Utility Pole, Two Injured

Mrs. Lorraine James and her daughter, Robin, Rural Route 2, Culver, were injured in a one-car accident about 5:55 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 16. The accident occurred when Mrs. James, traveling eastbound on State Road 10, failed to make the turn at the Cihak corner, which is about 2½ miles west of Culver. The car crashed into a utility pole and ripped out approximately 100 feet of fence on the Osborn and Cihak farms.

Mrs. James and daughter were taken to the Parkview Hospital in Plymouth where they were treated for lacerations of the head and face. They were then released to their home.

The car, a 1964 model, was a total loss. Damage to the utility company property was estimated at about $125. The accident was investigated by State Trooper Robert Baldwin and Culver Chief of Police Don Mikasell.

Fire Destroys Chicken Barn

A small chicken barn on the Jesse D. Newman farm, located southwest of Culver on the Upas Road, was destroyed by fire about 3:10 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 17.

The fire of undetermined origin, was too far advanced for Culver firemen to save the building. The building was not in use at the time of the fire. Estimate of the loss is not known.

'65 Chevrolet Impala Sport Sedan

Chevrolet
Impala '65

It's longer, lower, wider—with comforts that'll have many an expensive car wondering why it didn't think of them first. More shoulder room, more leg room up front. Curved side windows, an instrument panel that's a conversation piece. In fact, just about everything's new right down to the road. And even that'll seem newer because the Jet-smooth ride is smoother than ever.

'65 Chevelle Malibu Super Sport Coupe

Chevelle
Malibu '65

Here's all that made Chevelle America's most popular new-sized car—plus some new surprises. Like those cleaner, bolder lines. Like the silky way its new ride skims over the choppiest roads. Like V8 power that'll make you think we stole some of Corvette's stuff—which we did. All told, five engines are available from a quieter six to a V8 that comes on 300 horses strong.

'65 Chevy II Nova 4-Door Sedan

Chevy II
Nova '65

It may be the expensive-est looking thrift car you've laid eyes on. But thrifty it is. The big difference being that Chevy II's marvelous mechanical efficiency now wears a debonair new look. And offers a new range of engines, including a new 300-hp V8. You could get the idea that saving you money was the last thing we had in mind—if it weren't for that price sticker on the window.

New top-of-the-line Corvair Corsa Sport Coupe

Corvair
Corsa '65

How's this for sport with an international flair! The longer, wider design gives all closed models a hardtop roof, along with more shoulder and entrance room. And to go with the racier look, there's up to 180 hp available in the new Corsa series, up to 140 hp in the Monza and 500 series. Also a flatter riding independent suspension, more responsive steering and a wider road stance.

CMA Eagles Beat Hobart, 20-7, In Opening Game

The Culver Military Academy Eagles over-powered Hobart River Forest 20-7 in the opening game last Saturday.

The Eagles dominated the running and passing game as they ground out 238 yards rushing to 48 by Hobart. Culver passers connected on five of six passes for 79 yards and the opponents hit on only two of 11 for 28 yards.

Academy halfback Carl Urban romped six yards off right tackle to climax a 55 yard scoring drive. Quarterback Lander Carter sparked the drive with a 20 yard run around left end.

With the score 7-6 in Culver's favor, Carter pitched out to halfback Jeff Hand, who fired a 35-yard pass to end Steve Schwaiger in the end zone. This was the last play from scrimmage in the first half.

Sophomore fullback Mark Thurlow swept left end in the third quarter and out-ran the Hobart defenders to go 69 yards for a touchdown. Thurlow started at fullback and played defense in his first varsity game.

Tackle Mike "Tiny" Turnbull kicked the extra point. He was successful in two of three placement attempts; his second attempt was blocked.

Coach Russ Oliver received a transistor-powered portable megaphone and a framed certificate for his entry in the DuPont "Play of the Year" contest.

Scoring by quarters was:

Two Generals Visit C.M.A.

Two high-ranking military generals were guests of Culver Military Academy within two days of each other this week.

General Wallace M. Greene, Jr., commandant of the U. S. Marine Corps and one of the highest ranking officers ever to visit the Academy, was given a 19-gun salute Monday prior to a talk "Your Responsibility For the Future," before members of the student body and faculty. The Marine Corps commandant was escorted onto campus by the Lancer Platoon of the Black Horse Troop, and he inspected the Honor Guard and the Band.

General Green visited Culver enroute to Indianapolis, where he spoke to members of the Fleet Marine Reserve Corps Tuesday night.

Major General John R. Pugh, commander of the U. S. Army Sixth Corps, inspected military science classrooms and other Academy facilities during a visit Wednesday (Sept. 23). The Academy's military science detachment, under the direction of Lt. Col. William D. Scruggs, Jr., comes under the Sixth Corps command.

Dean Ernest B. Benson officially welcomed both generals in the absence of Major General Delmar T. Spivey, superintendent, who is away from the campus this week.

Mrs. Ralph Johnston of Rochester and Mrs. Frank Henderson visited in Chicago Wednesday and Thursday of last week with Maj. and Mrs. Howard Johnston and daughters.

NOT SO ZIPPY — Use of the postal Zip Code apparently isn't always a guarantee your mail will be sped to its destination. The Steuben Republican, published at Angola, was informed by Harry C. Tuttle of Talihina, Okla., that a copy of the paper mailed to him Feb. 13 was not delivered until May 6. He enclosed the wrapper which was plainly addressed, "Harry C. Tuttle, Talihina, Okla., Zip Code 74571." In large type stamped under the address were the words, "Missent to Tokyo." Both the subscriber and the publisher are wondering how come the newspaper made the long trip to Japan and back to the United States.

COOL MAN, COOL — A Dunkirk mail carrier, Estel Wilson, is popular with youngsters along his route as he gives them handouts of bubble gum and candy. However, Wilson told The Dunkirk News and Sun one of the youngsters on a hot day recently accepted a stick of bubble gum and then asked, "Why don't you carry ice cream bars, too?"

Culver's Baseball Indians Beat LaPaz, 3 to 1

Culver tightened their hold on first place in the County baseball standings with a 3-to-1 win over the LaPaz Vikings.

Paul Liette went the distance for Culver in picking up his third win of the Fall season. Paul gave up only two singles in pitching one of his stronger games of the year.

All the action in the Thursday game on the local diamond was reserved for the sixth inning. LaPaz scored their run in the top half of the inning. The Indian rally in the bottom half was started by back-to-back perfect bunts by Jim Lewis and Jim Boswell, with Lewis scoring on Boswell's bunt and a LaPaz error. With two outs, Dave Lemar worked the Viking pitcher for a walk, getting Culver men on first and third with Bruce Lindvall coming to bat. Bruce delivered his most timely base hit of the year, a game-winning two-run double.

This victory leaves Culver with a 4-0 record in County play.

Monday's game with Tyner was rained out and the replay date has not been set.

THE SCHOOLBELL

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE PRESS CLUB OF CULVER HIGH SCHOOL

Well, maidens and braves, get out your genuine electric Indian blankets, now that the cold weather has come. (If it's 90° in the shade when you read this column — just smile and try to remember when we wrote it!)

Some seniors are going around talking to themselves, but don't be alarmed, they're just rehearsing their play lines. By the way, what happened to Jim Weirick? It seems he got a little too ambitious and turned over the couch. Next time wear pants that are made for jumping!

What's this? Does Wanda really have Ned's ring? Good show girl. Don't worry about all those "Campus Cuties," he's all yours now.

Who has Sheryl Fisher been seeing every noon? Could it be D.S.?

Bob Enstis has been trying his hypnotic powers on several friends (?). Does anyone care for a parsnip? (For more information see the Senior Play.)

Linda dear, how do you always manage to be so clumsy? Now what is the latest excuse for your knee? Speaking of accidents, it seems that Sheila Fish got hit with a guitar . . . or at least that's what she said!!!!

The juniors all have sore eyes from gazing at the new rings. It'll be quite a day in November when they come. Everyone is cautioned to wear sunglasses so the glare won't hurt so much!

FLASH!!!! Patty O. predicts Jim Boswell to be the best singing star since the Beatles!! Let's ask him why!!!

What's this I hear about some junior girls and boys out hunting ghosts? Pretty dark back there, huh kids?

Hey Doug Lindvall!! Where did you get your driver's license? Oh! Out of a cracker-jack box? Oh well, no damage done . . . except to your car, your pocketbook, . . . and your ego???

Dave Lemar also needs a few more driving lessons — no, Dave, you can't go driving through cornfields whenever you feel like it! Truck or no truck!!

Now tell me again, was Jim Lewis hit at the baseball Monday crucial or was it crucial? For the answer to this $24 million question, ask Dave Lemar!

Well my fair maidens, the smoke is dying down now, as the halls of C.H.S. are again filled with the rapid pace of our braves. So, until next week, keep working!!!

Teenagers Consider Their Responsibility

By Linda Baker, Sharyl Welsh, Judy Price, Joan Dillon, and Bob Shirrell

To the citizens in our country the word "teen-ager" has many a connotation. To the very young a teen-ager is a hero and an ideal; he is thus highly respected. Mention the word "teen-ager" to many an adult and immediately words such as individual and leader of tomorrow come to mind.

Let us lend an ear to these people called "teen-agers." Let us listen to what attitudes toward leadership and responsibility our own Culver students may have. When asked the question, "What is the role of the American teen-ager in national politics?" the following students answered:

Kathy Easterday — It is important for our youth to pay attention to national affairs. These affairs will give us a backing for our leadership of tomorrow.

Pat Ogden — It is necessary for the American teen-ager to be informed concerning politics, because he will control the government in the future; also on the principle that every American should take an active interest in his government.

Larry Washburn — I believe it is necessary for teen-agers to at least understand the main ideas of politics; they can possibly attend speeches or rallies to learn more about politics. Someday it will be our turn to elect a man into an important position in a critical time, and I believe we should know and understand for whom and for what we are voting.

Phillip Scruggs — I believe teen-agers should be interested in national affairs for we shall be the leaders of our country in a score of years.

Pam Fish — Although the teen-ager cannot vote, he can acquaint himself with the more important people and policies in politics. He can attend different meetings in order to better himself and gain more knowledge about how to vote.

Paul Liette — We should read more material and take a bigger interest in what is going on in our world.

Layne Zechiel — As the future voters it is our duty as teen-agers to take active parts in politics and government so that as human beings we can represent the ideals of government by voting for the person we think best.

Phyllis Jewell — I believe the teens have a great deal to do with the way the voters think and vote. I saw a group of teens hold a demonstration at a state convention urging the delegates to vote for their man. Afterwards many of the delegates were heard stating that if the teens wanted him in office, he must be worth having. I think this is an excellent example of the value voters place on the opinions of teens and, I believe, we teens should try to express our opinions, because the voters do base their opinions on ours sometimes.

Wanda Warren — I believe they should prepare themselves to the best of their ability and then vote when the right time comes.

Peggy Herr — An American teen-ager, although he cannot vote, should keep well informed on political issues so that he will have a good sound background when he finally does get the right to vote.

Jamboree Highlights

Boy Scouts from 42 nations recorded their Jamboree activities on tape donated by the 3M Company. Like the Philippine youngster here, foreign scouts sent taped voices of their new American Scouting friends across the seas.

Fun and games, as ever, played a big part at this year's Jamboree, including the Alaskan blanket scene, showing tents dotting the landscape at Valley Forge National Park where the Jamboree was held.

Adrum, some guitars, and there was an international recording session at the jamboree. A French scout, left, participated in this taping session using a Wollensak recorder.

Scouts from our area, too, were part of this Jamboree scene, showing tents dotting the landscape at Valley Forge National Park where the Jamboree was held.

Judy Price — There is much that teen-agers can do in politics — take the voting poll, address letters, "stuff" envelopes, pass out campaign literature, talk up your candidates, and encourage voters to read such books as "A Choice Not an Echo" and "None Dare Call It Treason."

Tina Ferrier — What can I add that Judy Price hasn't already said?

Suzi Overmyer — I agree with Judy. I think teen-agers should know about politics and their government instead of taking it for granted. The more he knows now the more he'll know when he is eligible to vote.

Linda Sparling — Teen-agers role in politics is to make a study of both candidates and then decide who you would vote for if you could.

Mike Eastis — The teen-agers role is to follow the elections and keep up with the politicians and with politics, so they will be able to vote in a way that they know what is going on, and so they can elect the man, best suited for the position.

Foreign Language Corner

For the new and old French students here is an excerpt from a poem written by Jacques Prevert, about a boy learning to add. Jacques Prevert is a modern French poet who writes in the style of E. E. Cummings without punctuation or capitalization.

Lifesaving Classes

By Jeanne Adams
Anne Osborn, a senior at Stanford University in Palo Alto, Calif., and a former graduate of Culver, came to Mr. Cole and asked if she might give a lifesaving course here at Culver. Miss Osborn felt that there was need for more safety on Lake Maxinkuckee.

Miss Osborn is quite qualified to teach the Red Cross Lifesaving Course. She has been on the swimming team at Stanford, and this past summer she was a life guard on the ocean in Hawaii.

Miss Osborn started teaching the class, consisting of eight juniors ages 12-15, and five seniors, ages 16-18, on Sept. 2.

To begin with, those in the junior division had to be able to swim 200 yards and the senior division 400 yards.

During the next two weeks, they had classes at school during the eighth period, and after school they spent 1 1/2 hours practicing the different lifesaving techniques.

At the end of the two weeks, the students had to pass a written examination and practical aptitude test where they had to perform six lifesaving techniques to get their Red Cross Lifesaving Awards.

At a convocation on Tuesday, Sept. 15, the following were awarded their lifesaving badges: Edward Behrke, William Bennett, Debbie Hyland, Joan Kostermao, Nancy Porter, Cathy Welsh, Pam Welsh, and Cheryl Zink received their Junior Lifesaving Badges; the following received Senior Lifesaving Badges: Douglas Brown, Phyllis Jewell, Terry Porter, Sheryl Welsh, and Dennis Westcott.

Since Miss Osborn volunteered her services, she received no monetary rewards. So at the convocation, Miss Shanks, President of the Culver Teachers Association, presented Miss Osborn with a gift.

Congratulations to these students who will now make Lake Maxinkuckee a little safer.

LOOKS AT NEW BOOKS By Cheryl Zink

This year the student body has at its fingertips an abundant supply of new and excellent reading material. Where can this material be found? Why, in our own school library, of course.

Let's take a look at one of the large variety of interesting new books recently purchased by our school library.

"Animal Farm", by George Orwell, is a story in which farm animals revolt against their farmer. Acting like people, these animals create their own government. The two pigs are the dictators. Everything runs smoothly until some of the animals become lazy, and refuse to do their share of the work. Actually, this story is a political satire on Communism, substituting animals for people.

Several other new books in our school library are as follows:

Sociology
"Making of the Presidency", White; "Overtime In Heaven", Lissigor and Higgins; "So You Were Elected", Ballard; "Spy In The U. S.", Monat; "The American President", Rossiter; "Twixt Twelve and Twenty", Pat Boone; "Wall Street", Sterling; "Working Men", Lens.

Sports
"Mickey Mantle, Yankee Slugger", Shapiro; "Story of the Olympic Games", Kieran and Daley.

Vocational
"First Under the North Pole", Anderson; "Story of Nursing", Dodge.

Arts
"Here's Your Hobby", Zarchy.

Biographies
"Admiral Byrd of Antarctica", Gladys; "Day Lincoln Was Shot", Bishop; "Dr. Schweitzer of Lambarene", Cousins; "Four Days", American Heritage; "Peter Zenger, Fighter For Freedom", Galt; "Ralph J. Bunche, Fighter For Peace", Kugelmass; "Ten Famous Lives", Piutarch.

Fiction
"Abel's Daughter", Maddux; "Animal Farm", Orwell; "Cup And The Sword", Hobart; "Farmer", Malvern; "Last Nine Days Of The Bismack", Forester;

"Quo Vadis", Sienkiewicz; "Swamp Fox Of The Revolution", Holbrook.

History
"Admiral Kimmel's Story", Kimmel; "Greater Fighter Missions", Sims; "Hawaii-The Aloha State", Bauer; "Nation That Refused To Starve", O'Daniel; "Struggle For Europe", Wilmot; "What I Learned In Russia", Adlai Stevenson.

Literature
"American Forum", Rage; "Family Book of Verse", Ganett; "How To Be Brief", Flesch.

Science
"Miracle Metals", Newcomb; "Prehistoric Animals", Epstein; "Solar Energy", Branley; "The Insect World", Harpster; "Understanding Maps", Tannenbaum.

Summer Brought Improvements

By Pat Ogden and Jeanne Adams

The summer has brought many improvements in our school.

Due to urging on the part of the North Central Association Mr. Miller, head of the guidance department, now spends full time in guidance and thus has no classes.

Spanish I has been affixed to our curriculum, and a room on the north end of the third floor has been converted into a student disciplined Spanish and French lab.

Room number 17 has been added to the ground floor. This room is transformed into a cafeteria fourth period and noon hour. It has large new tables and steel chairs and really contributes to the hot-lunch program. It is used as a regular classroom during all other periods.

The art department received from the PTA a potter's wheel to improve the making of ceramics.

There have been many new text books added to our school system. One of the authors of the new World History book, Dr. Slosson, held an Eppley Chair at Culver Military Academy in the school year of 1961-62.

For the first time in the history of the school library high school and junior high books have been completely listed in a beautiful nine-drawer catalogue case. Mr. Tanksley, the school librarian, with the help of his son and wife spent about 320 hours typing the 9000 catalogue cards.

There has also been an improvement in the arrangement of books on the shelves. The history books were placed on counter high shelves which contain 500 books.

Approximately 400 new books and replaced copies have been arranged on the shelves since January. At present the library has about 1750 grade books and 1300 high school and junior high school books.

"The Encyclopedia International" and the latest edition of "Who's Who in America" have been added to our collection of reference books.

The picture, "Susquehanna River" by Jasper Cropsey, was purchased last spring by a committee of student librarians and art teachers with money collected from overdue books. The picture now hangs on the south wall of the library.

We are extremely fortunate in having all teachers in the entire school fully licensed.

We are certain that the students of Culver appreciate these improvements greatly.

Cheerleaders In The Little Green Forest

By Lonni Darocsi

Once upon a time there were four cheerleaders . . . Kathy Cheerleader, Sheryl Cheerleader, Cheryl Cheerleader, and me, Lonni Cheerleader. Well, one bright morning the four cheerleaders got up, packed their things and went to Kathy Cheerleader's little house in the city.

"Let's hurry," said Kathy. "Mr. and Mrs. Fisher are going up to Hartland, Michigan soon. Let's see if they'll take us to the cheerleading camp in the forest."

The rest of us hurriedly agreed because we were very eager to learn some new yells so we could come back to the city and yell for our Indian team from the Maxinkuckee reservation.

About 9 a.m. we four cheerleaders left for the forest (after locking the doors to our little cottages and carefully hiding all the porridge just in case that sneaky little Sil'rylocks came around).

When we got there, we went right to the main lodge, Cro-maine, to register. There we found out where we were to stay for the rest of the camp session. After getting complete directions, we followed the little path that led deeper into the green forest — and our rooms.

Next we were to report to the main lodge again for warm-ups. One pair of split shorts and 15 minutes later, Miss Hess, camp director, welcomed us, introduced the staff, and told us about all the rules and regulations.

Then there was a free period. During these free periods, all the yell leaders could either swim in Walden Lake, go to tumbling classes, or just sit around.

"Practice time!" About 10:30 a.m. each and every squad marched down to the clearing (the staff called it the practice field, but some cheerleaders, — namely Culver's and Plymouth's — called it the sweat box) and learned all kinds of yells, chants, and tumbling stunts.

Before we were allowed to eat any meal, we would have to yell our lungs out. Chants like "We've got the hungries" and "Hey, we want to eat" could be heard all through the little green forest, across the pretty blue lake, and over the little green hills.

Every night a program was planned. Each cheerleading squad would do some of their own yells or some that they learned at camp. Then there was another half-hour of free time.

When the program and the night's free period was over, each cheerleader would take out her flashlight, to avoid stumbling over the rocks in the path that led into the deep green forest, and go to the cabins.

Now, this sounds like dull routine stuff, doesn't it? Well, this isn't the happy and restful ending for the four cheerleaders. At times that little ole' green forest had some crazy ideas of its own. For instance the day it rained so hard it blew all the windows open and drenched the beds — and us too. Then there was the time our only boy counselor wanted to see us do a yell and some brave soul suggested we do our yell "behind a bush" so we wouldn't feel so out of place (the names have been withheld to protect the guilty).

All in all, our trip to camp was a five-day vacation of learning. At nights the dorms got kind of noisy — with our yelling parties and all — but it was a worthwhile session. Of course the last night there was a little wild. Some sang "Taps" out of the window, some chased down the halls, and still others played flashlight tag from one room to another.

If you think the four cheerleaders spent five days of constant practicing just for fun and excitement, and the delicious food they served us, I dare you to come out to the big city and watch our local Indians play basketball and also see what we have learned. Come Nov. 6, and see what resulted from our summer in the deep green forest and we'll all have a very happy ending. GO YOU INDIANS!!

THE END

Book Review

By Mary Lu Matson

"The Gallant Mrs. Stonewall" was written by Harnett T. Kane and copyrighted in 1957.

Anna and Thomas "Stonewall" Jackson, who met by accident, were able to marry only through the intervention of a tragedy and were separated throughout the tragic, accidental shooting of Jackson by his own Confederate troops at Chancellerville.

In "The Gallant Mrs. Stonewall," Harnett T. Kane shows what an uphill road Jackson and Anna walked from the beginning. When she married the obscure soldier-professor, Anna had to face ridicule from old friends. But she stood by Jackson loyally and when he suddenly emerged in the War Between the States as one of the strategists of all times, she knew fulfillment and triumph beyond her highest hopes.

While searching through the archives of American history in preparing this novel, the author uncovered much information in letters, documents, and records which shed new light on Jackson, his family, and Anna.

All of this revealing new information is incorporated into "The Gallant Mrs. Stonewall," which is, above all, a warm and touching story of love, faith, and honor.

Monday, Sept. 14, the baseball team extended its winning streak to four straight with a win over West High. The big blow came in the second inning. Dave Lemar led off with a long triple and Bruce Lindvall singled to give Bruce Lindvall first run. Bob Eustis singled to put men on first and second. Stu Lowry then hunted safely to load the bases. Next came Jim Lewis's crucial single which drove in two runs.

This put Culver ahead for the first time in the contest. Jim Boswell scored the lead run in the fourth with a double off losing pitcher, Ken Johnson. Bruce Lindvall received the win for Culver. The Indians are now in first place in the county standings.

Culver's cross-country team with a few points of beating Triton, the county champs, Tuesday evening. George Wright came in first for Culver, Paul Hatten in second and Danny Haenes came in third.

I would say that right now, Culver's future looks very good in cross-country.

RETIRING THIS YEAR? CHECK SOCIAL SECURITY RECORD

Now is the time to check on your social security record, according to Chas. E. Burke, social security district manager, if you expect to retire this year or at the end of the year. Persons expecting to retire should get in touch with their social security office by telephone or mail as much as 3 months prior to the date of their retirement.

The records for every social security number ever issued are kept on file in Baltimore, Maryland and not in the local social security office. Mr. Burke says that a telephone call or a letter sent ahead of time will allow your local office to secure your record of earnings from Baltimore, and to remind you to bring in the necessary proofs to complete your claim. Then when you are asked to come into the office after your record arrives, you can bring in the required proofs. This will allow the social security office to handle your claim faster and to mail your first check a lot sooner.

Your South Bend Social Security Office is located at 335 N. Lafayette Blvd., or telephone 233-7147.

The Perfect Idiot

By Donna Rogers

The Culver Community Building was the scene for the senior play try-outs held Thursday, Sept. 3. Many of the seniors came to audition for a part, but as usual, there are only so many characters available.

"The Perfect Idiot", written by Eunice and Grant Atkinson, is the name of this delightfully comical play. Miss Charlton and Mr. Crabb, the two senior sponsors, will be directing and producing this play respectively. This year the sponsors introduced something a bit different from the usual. They have decided to have a student director to help with the production. Cathy Carrothers has been chosen for this job. Also, there will be two performances instead of the usual one. The dates are Oct. 9 and 10.

Margaret Tenneyson, the mother of the Tenneyson household, will be portrayed by Valerie Gunder. Mrs. Tenneyson's youngest son Jackie will be characterized by Jim Weirick, and Jane Ives is his girl, Jeannie. Sue Cole plays Rhodora, the Tenneyson's maid. Daniel Tenneyson, a young genius is portrayed by Bob Eustis. Roger Tenneyson, played by Dave Lemar, is father to Daniel and Jackie. Walter P. Latherby, played by John Behmer, is a soap manufacturer. Layne Zechiel will step into the shoes of Arthur Barnard, principal of Center High School. Linda, Arthur Barnard's daughter, characterized by Lonni Darosci, is very interested in Daniel. Puff Witonski, star athlete, is portrayed by Doug Lindvall, and Linda Thurin is his girl, Carla Wilson. Miss Baker, who is Cindy Kemple, is a school teacher at Center High School. The policeman is played by Jim Lewis. A psychiatrist, Dr. Von Barf, is Larry White. Kay Thomas has the part of a newspaper reporter,

Miss Booth.

The ticket manager will be Peggy Herr; publicity and program managers will be Eva Norris and Susie Spencer; the stage managers are Gale Vander Meade, Hugh Hartz, and Arl Altman; the property manager is George Wright.

This play is a particularly popular play and has been put on in many high schools all across the nation. A few comments from directors of different schools who have had the opportunity of directing such an excellent play follow:

"In the closing moments of Act 2 the house went wild. It is a sure fire play for laughs." — Helen Stewart, Comanche High School, Comanche, Okla.

"People are still talking about it." — Elaine Duncan, Harper High School, Harper, Ore.

"We got 16 minutes of show stopping laughter by actual record." — B. J. DeSautell, Denver City, Texas.

"The humor of the play appeals to high school students — it's neither too subtle, not yet cheap or obvious . . . the audience enjoyed every moment and laughs were frequent and sometimes uproarious." — H. M. Campbell, High School, Queen City, Mo.

"Appeals equally to students and adults." — Frances M. Benninger, Summerville Joint High School, Summerville, Pa.

"One of the most outstanding plays for high school I have ever read or produced — a perfect play for a perfect production!" — Bradley G. Patrick, Beaver Dam High School, Hartford, Ky.

"We were pleased to see the audience still chuckling as they left at the end . . . the search for parsnips brought down the house!" — Anna Fay Pfeiger, Elbridge Central High School, Elbridge, N.Y.

The Senior Class cordially invites the public to see the play everyone is talking about — see you there!!!

A LESSON — A Danville, Ill. man, Neal Erwin, recently went to considerable pains to give Hoosier officials at Peru a lesson in flag etiquette. Peru residents had noted that the flag which had been flying day and night over the Miami County courthouse was missing. Several days later County Auditor Lynn Titus received through the mail, a package containing the flag. Enclosed with it was a booklet entitled "Our Flag" and the booklet explained the flag should be lowered at sundown. Titus also received a letter from Irwin in which the Illinois man said he had taken it upon himself to lower the flag and then return it with the booklet on its proper display. Irwin in his letter said that on several occasions while motoring from Danville to Warren, O., on business trips he had noticed the flag flying over the courthouse at all hours of the night.

They have their day before the permanent facts and their perfection in Spirit appear . . . Mortals must look beyond fading, finite forms, if they would gain the true sense of things" (pp. 263-264).

THE ROMANS MOVED RIVERS

In this age of technological wizardry never sneer at the past. The Roman engineers who designed this aqueduct in Spain were brilliant men. Skill such as theirs, more than the might of Caesar's armies, fashioned the vast civilization of the Empire.

In this age of scientific discovery never overlook the Truths long ago revealed.

Christianity was born in a remote province of ancient Rome. It suffered generations of persecution until it converted even its persecutors. And when barbarians overran the Empire, our faith found a foothold in their hearts as well.

In a civilization of modern marvels the Church still raises its towers of truth. And when, next Sunday, we come with our families to worship, somewhere a congregation will be singing:

*O where are kings and empires now
 But, Lord, thy Church is praying yet—
 Of old that went and came?
 A thousand years the same!*

All Work And No Play

By Peggy Herr

(Note: Senior English students have been analyzing argumentative writing from newspapers and magazines. Last Friday, they ventured to write their own argumentative theme. This is an example of the work they've been doing.)

Should students study to the extent that they cut out all social life? No, absolutely not! That would be detrimental to their health both physically and mentally. Everyone has to have some recreation during which he is able to really let down his hair.

Some students think that all that counts is to cram in all the book learning possible and to get the highest grades conceivable.

I agree that it is good to study well, do the homework, and generally do one's best, but that does not mean that it is necessary to be at the old grind constantly. If one has no contact with other people, one has no practical use for his learning except as a source of pride. One has to know people, how they feel, and what they think, to be able to impart or share his knowledge effectively.

If all one does is study and read, he becomes stale and unable to communicate his ideas. Association with people helps you to learn, to reason, and to see life in its proper perspective. Even though you have much learning you will find that you always absorb more of the who, what, and why's of life by communicating and mingling with others. School and books aren't the only sources of learning.

If a student does nothing but study, his body becomes flabby — just a machine for the mechanical process of life such as eating, sleeping, and walking. Once the body has slowed to a minimum, the mind, also, becomes dull and slower at functioning. The student appears to be snobbish or stand-offish and as a result the other young people don't care to associate with him or care to even hear what he knows.

A student has to organize his time so that studying and recreation can both be included. The easiest way that I have found to arrange this, is to join a club. Then you will be forced to associate and meet people.

To summarize my argument, I would merely like to say, "Don't be a grind! All work and no play makes anyone dull."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Culver, Ind.
Sept. 8, 1964

Editor, CITIZEN:
We're back home in Indiana again, back to daily chores as if we'd never left. But we did go away and, as a result, the ruts to which we returned will never be the same. It's always good to be home, to hear your neighbors, the shopkeepers, your friends call to you, "Welcome home!" We weren't so far, really — approximately as long as it takes to drive from here to Denver — a whole world away. A whole way.

These things we will miss, a thousand others: the sheep going up the mountain in the Fall, or coming down in the Spring, their bells echoing each other as shouting, whistling shepherds guide them from one grazing land to another; the lone stroller — or a group — suddenly bursting into song; the promenade on Sundays, on every road and shore; men and women stopping at the flower market or shop for a large bouquet of perfect bright blooms — or the man who picks or buys a fragrant flower just to smell or tuck over his ear so that the delicious odor is wafted about him with every move of his head; the geraniums and whitewash of even the poorest hut; the widows in their black from head to toe, taking their lunch in a cloth bundle, wine in a clay jug, a bunch of flowers and a candle, on their Saturday trek to the cemetery. Greece's ruins are breathtakingly beautiful, awesome, but her people, with their gift of appreciation, and their hospitality are her very real riches. They gave us so much more than we could give to them.

It's easy to be rhapsodic about Greece, even while you're there; one doesn't need distance to enhance her qualities. But at the end of June we left what we could not take of Greece's beauty, ruggedness, and individuality behind us when we sailed through the Corinth Canal, passed Patras, and entered the Ionian Sea, headed toward Brindisi, above the heel of Italy, and the start of our Continental tour for the summer. Originally we had intended to cross Europe, hopping from city to city; but our little Opel, which we'd bought shortly after our arrival in Thessaloniki, behaved so well on the treacherous mountains in the Peloponnese that we decided to keep it and see the country-side between towns in Europe. We're glad we did. We would have missed seeing: the bridges, works of art spanning the chasms of Northern Italy and Austria; the manicured mountainsides of Austria and Switzerland where the grass and hay are cut and taken to the cattle, putting them among the world's most pampered bovines; that wonderful restaurant in the middle of nowhere outside Rheims, in France; the drive along the Channel through Dunkirk — now a mecca for beach-lovers who seem oblivious to the dune-framed "pill boxes" now sightlessly turned to the sea; the scenes when we stopped "just to look" in Holland, where everything's a picture and all the Flemish and Dutch art we'd seen was suddenly come to life; the thatched-roofed cottages (and mansions!) of Belgium; the view of the White Cliffs of Dover as we came in on the ferry from Calais; Canterbury Cathedral with its wonderful Dean, Archbishop Ramsey, greeting the tourists and chatting a while with us (we almost became Episcopalians at that delightful meeting!); the chance to visit, at Grayesend, the charming parents of our "returned Englishman," John Hartley; the grand Yorkshireman who led us, out of his way, over side roads (to give us the best views) to the right road towards Scotland, when we were lost — for the umpteenth time, though those times were when we met the nicest people!

We visited nearly all the art galleries and museums offered along the way. How exciting it is to see the originals of all the reproductions we've been content with — the Rahaels, the Michelangelos, the Vermeers and Van Goghs, etc. — and to see, with tears in our eyes, the Elgin Marbles, from the Parthenon in Athens, so proudly displayed in London. Ah! That part of the Greek heritage (along with the exquisite Winged Victory, now in the Louvre in Paris) never to be returned to the Homeland, wrenched viciously at that part of us which is Greek. They were taken from Greece to protect them; rightly so, or we'd not have them now to wonder at. The British Museum has a special room for the Parthenon frieze and pediments; the Louvre has placed the Winged Victory at the head of a magnificent stairway in deference to her majesty. But — Well, I won't go into that! Greece still has Praxiteles' Hermes and the Charioteer, and the Boy (on a Dolphin? or a horse?) and much else which she cherishes. But —!

Everywhere we saw breathtaking beauty from the very simplest, everyday, useful things, to great buildings and monuments which dwarfed us by their size and opulence. Often the opulence brought disgust, and the simple, tears, but never did we lose interest for that object or the next to come. Occasionally, the body or the eye would beg for mercy, a chance to rest, to refresh, and as often as possible we'd grant that demand; though sometimes that element, Time, (which is so much more a motivator here than in Europe, especially Greece, where one acquires a sense of Eternity) would push us on, to our dismay and our loss.

The children enjoyed the year tremendously. Wendy, who is a bit young to appreciate being "dragged" about, would occasionally inquire, "Are we going to ANOTHER MUSEUM?" Generally, she was a good sport, and even went so far as to be quite under-the-weather a couple of times, but kept it to herself so that Tom or I didn't miss what we wanted to see. She registered more than we presumed, because as we try to figure out an occasional slide, she is the one who says, "Oh, that's where —." And she's right! Craig is the one who got the most out of the whole year. He started from scratch, but began to read and study, and was never afraid to explore spots we "old folks" would hesitate to investigate. He played soccer with the Greek boys who spoke no English and learned "Soccer Greek" in the meantime. He tied in associations between ruins in Greece, or between paintings we saw and places we'd been, before Tom and I did, in many cases. In fact, he won a few "discussions" as to where we'd seen a particular thing, when our cluttered minds didn't function properly. We all made mistakes, though, and most of them were real "doozies!" We'd look at these children, whose young eyes and minds had been exposed to, and had absorbed, so much, with envy. May they retain even one-third of this year in those minds and hearts. It was a year to grow on!

We are perfectly aware that we are not the only people ever to have had this experience, nor are we the last; yet to each person who travels, or is fortunate enough to live in a place that is not his home, the experience is unique. Even as we retrace our steps through the slides we took, we'll find our reactions differing from being "on the spot" or simply remembering.

It's been wonderful, we want to go back, but in the meantime — It's good to be home!

Editor, THE CITIZEN:
In 1960, I voted for John F. Kennedy for President and now in 1964 I am trying to look at both sides with an open mind.

Unfortunately for the Democratic party, there are many such as I who would not have voted for LBJ had he been the Presidential nominee in 1960. JFK had the ability to fire the imagination and enthusiasm of the people; LBJ does not have this magnetism.

The 1964 election may be the most important in American history, and any Christian freedom loving citizen wants to be sure that our country will not end up under the Red flag of the Communists.

I am concerned about the stories referring to the moral leadership of LBJ; we continually hear about the congenial Texan in the liberal news media, however in order to see the other side, I purchased and read "A Texan Looks At Lyndon" by J. Evetts Haley. If what the author purports is true, then LBJ with his Billie Sol Estes and Bobby Baker scandals, among others, is to be viewed with alarm and distrust.

If what the book says is untrue, then Mr. Haley should be sued for libel; if it is true, then everyone should read the truth about LBJ! Presently "A Texan" is the hottest selling book on the newsstand and is worth the trouble to find. It reads like something out of the "Untouchables" and is stranger than an Alfred Hitchcock mystery.

Two other books recommended to me were: "A Choice Not An Echo" by Phyllis Shalffy and "None Dare Call It Treason" by John Stormer . . . none of these books cost over $1.00 and are paperbacks available at the newsstand.

In conclusion, if these books are untrue, why aren't the authors sued for libel and the books taken off the market?

"The way of the life you save, during this election may be your own."

A DISCONTENTED DEMOCRAT

Editor, THE CITIZEN:

Saturday morning I watched the introductory program in a series of televised seminars conducted by Dr. Edward W. Bauman, minister, professor, author, and nationally recognized lecturer. For the first time one of his telecourses is being presented in Northern Indiana. It is presented on WSJV-TV, channel 28, from 9:00 to 9:30 a.m. each Saturday. It is sponsored by the Council of Churches of Marshall, Elkhart and St. Joseph Counties, and Berrien County, Mich.

The title of the series is "The Relevance of the Bible in a Modern Day." With a group of eight people, Dr. Bauman discusses such topics as the purpose of life, the problem of suffering, the power of prayer, and many other vital issues. I am sure that many people will find the program interesting, stimulating, and extremely worthwhile.

Letter To Editor

San Diego, Calif. 92104
Editor THE CITIZEN:

For 39 months I was Culver's milkman, 1908, 1909, 1910 and 1911.

One of the best customers was the Palmer House, W. P. Walters, proprietor. Thousands of gallons of milk was delivered to the Palmer House for five cents a quart,

W. P. Walters and Waitresses At The Palmer House In Early 1900's

Mr. Walters was a congenial man and always had waitresses around that were not hard to look at.

Another familiar person at the Palmer House, was George Rollins, the Chef. Mr. Rollins, came to Culver from Mexico, Mo., along with the school that later became the Culver Military Academy.

Mr. Rollins was born of parents who were slaves. He had practically no schooling, but he saw to it that his several children had a good education.

Mr. Rollins was a Christian gentleman and a member of the Methodist Church in those days.

Later I believe he helped organize a Negro church in Culver, now known as Rollins Chapel.

In the days I am referring to, Rev. Wayne G. Nicely was pastor of the Methodist Church in Culver, and there were in those days what was called the midweek prayer meeting. After all the rest had had their say, Mr. Rollins would get to his feet and give a modest testimony that outstripped all the rest of us.

Yes, I remember George Rollins, as a wonderful friend.

Last year I stood at the headstone of his grave in silent remembrance of him.

JUST BLOOMS AWAY — The Springs Valley Herald reports on a rose bush in French Lick which seems to give support to the saying, "Life begins at 40." The newspaper says the exact age of the bush is not known but it is certain it has borne blooms each spring for the last 46 years. The bush is on the lawn of the A. E. Pershing home to which it was transplanted in 1918 when the Pershings moved from another residence. Mr. Pershing said the roses, white in color, have been more abundant this year than in any previous year.

Boy Scouts To Hold Camporee At CMA Sept. 25-26

An estimated 1,200 Boy Scouts and adult leaders from the Tri-Valley Council will take over part of the campus of Culver Military Academy for a "Frontier Camporee" on Friday and Saturday, Sept. 25 and 26.

The camporee is the first of its type to be held by the Tri-Valley Council since 1960, when a similar event was staged at Bendix Field, South Bend.

The Scouts represent five districts within the Tri-Valley Council and will come from St. Joseph and Marshall Counties. They will camp out on the section of the Academy's 1,400-acre campus located across Route 10 where the baseball and other recreation fields are located.

Key personnel in charge of the camporee are Edwin Pearson, of Plymouth, general chairman; Bruce Van Der Weele, Argos, vice chairman; and Richard Brown, Plymouth, Boy Scout executive for the Menominee District.

Brown said there are 2,800 Scouts associated with the Tri-Valley Council and that advance registrations indicate a good turnout. He added that while preparations are being made for some 1,200 boys and their Scout leaders, registrations are still open and additional boys will be added at the time of the Camporee.

Each of the five districts will set up individual camps about 5 p.m. Friday, Sept. 25, and the Camporee will officially open at 7 p.m. The event will close at 8:30 p.m. Saturday when all districts are expected to break camp. The Camporee will be held regardless of the weather, and the Academy has extended the use of its large Riding Hall for demonstrations and other segments of the program in the event of rain.

Brown said a full schedule has been set up for Saturday beginning with demonstrations by each of the districts at 9 a.m. He said the schedule is being revised to permit Scouts, their leaders, and visiting parents to watch military drills taking place on the Culver campus at about 10:15 a.m. Saturday.

The Military Science Department at Culver has scheduled practice drills for artillery, infantry, and cavalry units of the Academy that morning, weather permitting. The Academy's corps of 874 cadets — largest in the school's history — will parade onto the football field prior to a 2 p.m. game with Bremen High School, and Scouts and their parents have also been invited to attend the contest and pre-game ceremonies.

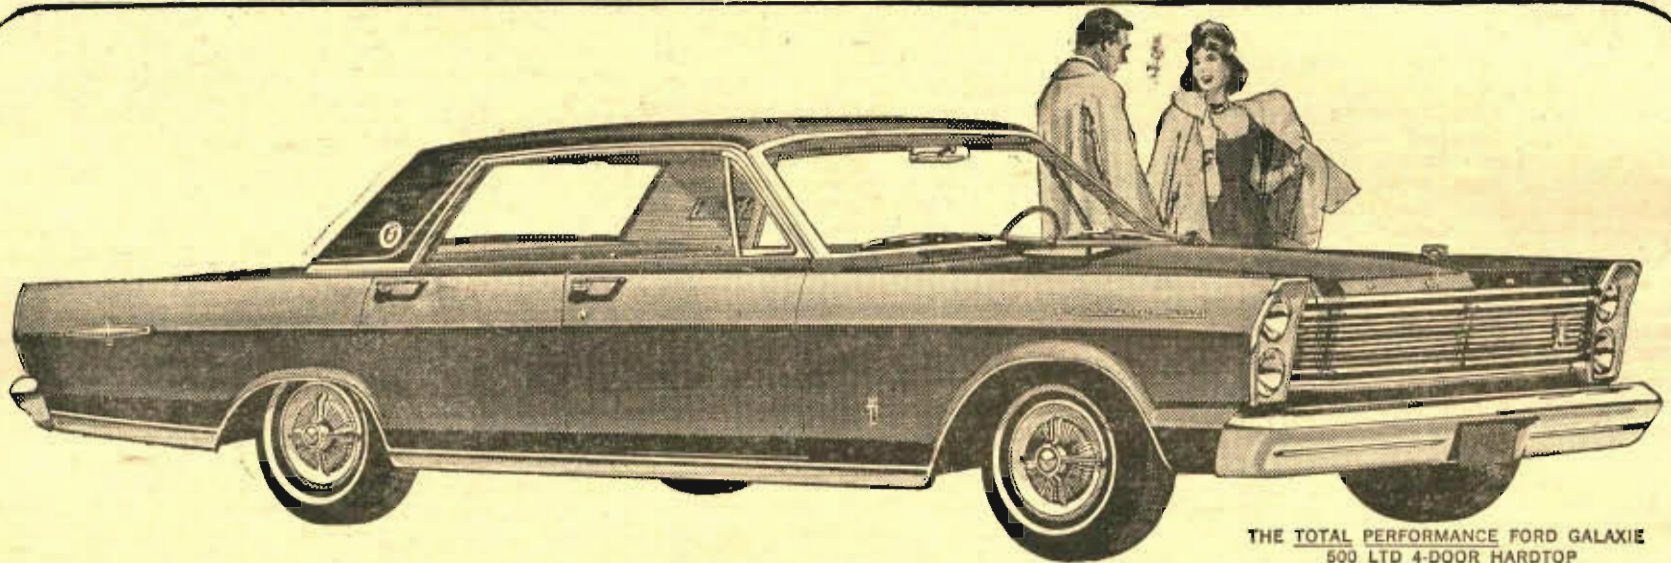

The five districts — Dragoon Trail, Menominee, Miami, Council Oak, and Potawatomie — each will be given 45 minutes for such demonstrations of Scouting skills as cooking, pioneering, rope specialties, soil and water conservation, forestry, fish and wildlife management, fire-fighting, Indian lore, first aid, and others.

The districts will each have main campfires and will do all of their own cooking.

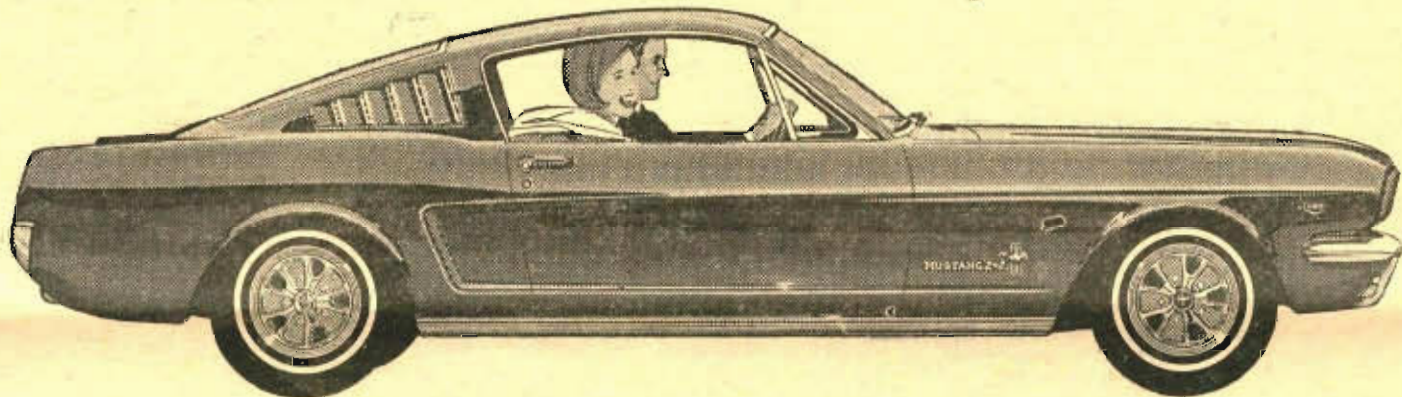

Many drowning victims are essentially non-swimmers who do not ordinarily go in the water at beaches or in public pools. It's best to learn to float and swim even if your bathing activities are limited to your own private pool. Small children should always be supervised in backyard pools.
