Funeral Services Held Friday For Dr. C. G. Mackey

Funeral services for Colonel G. Mackey, M. D., a former Culver physician for 35 years, were conducted at 2 p.m. Friday, March 19, at the Easterday-Bonine Funeral Home with Rev. Roy L. Fisher, Chaplain of the Logansport State Hospital, officiating.

Doctor Mackey, 74, died at 4:15 a.m. Wednesday, March 17, at the Memorial Hospital in Logansport following an illness of seven weeks.

He was born May 27, 1890, at Rochester, Ind., where he lived until entering Indiana University and the Indiana Medical School. He practiced medicine in Whiting, Ind., for several years before serving in the Medical Corps in World War I.

In 1920, Doctor Mackey moved to Culver and practiced medicine here until 1955 when he accepted a position as physician at the State Hospital in Logansport.

He was married June 21, 1917, to Alice M. Fifield who preceded him in death on May 7, 1945. In 1946, he married Lora Pflaught who died in 1963.

A former Marshall County Coroner, Doctor Mackey was a member of the Grace United Church of Christ in Culver, the Henry H. Culver Lodge 617, F. and A. M., the W. A. Fleet American Legion Post, American Medical Association, and a senior member of the Indiana State Medical Association.

Surviving are a son, Dr. Colonel F. Mackey, Rensselaer; a daughter, Mrs. Alice Besse Jacobson, Newport News, Va.; a stepson, Bernard Dillard, Plymouth; a step-daughter, Mrs. Norma L. Swanson, Alpha, Ill.; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Hoffman, Rochester; and Mrs. Charlotta Palmer, Leiters Ford; and seven grandchildren.

Burial was made in the Culver Masonic Cemetery with the Fleet American Legion Post conducting graveside services.

An interesting story about Dr. Mackey's unusual name of "Colonel" has been brought to the attention of The Citizen by Col. H. W. Walmer. It seems that Doctor Mackey was given this name because his father, who was a Civil War veteran, greatly admired his Colonel in the army and wanted to name his son after him. However, instead of naming his son by the given name of his superior officer he called him, Colonel.

During World War I Doctor Mackey served overseas as a First Lieutenant in the Medical Corps and was quartered with a friend, 1st Lt. Fred Metz, also a doctor. When they signed in, Doctor Mackey's signature, Lt. Colonel G. Mackey, resulted in the two doctors getting the quarters of a Lieutenant Colonel rather than those of a First Lieutenant.

In relating this story to Mrs. Effie Shafer of near Leiters Ford, Colonel Walmer was informed by her that she was the first baby delivered by Doctor Mackey in this vicinity.

Another interesting incident in the life of Doctor Mackey happened many years ago when he was named, "U. S. Fishing Champion of the Year," and received national publicity regarding the catch he made on one of his northern fishing trips.

Col. H. W. Walmer To Conduct Next Investment Course

The current investment course, which is being conducted for over 30 adult students by Richard D. Williams of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner, and Smith, did not meet March 23, but will meet for the last session on Tuesday, March 30.

A new investment course is scheduled to start early in April with Col. H. W. Walmer, former member of the Culver Military Academy faculty, as the instructor.

The new course will review briefly the present course and will deal with the comparison and evaluation of different industries and the relative merits of stocks within these industries. Emphasis will be placed on strong industries and strong stocks.

The time and place of meetings has been tentatively set for each Tuesday or Wednesday, beginning April 6 or 7, at The State Exchange Bank Auditorium.

Registration will be made at the first meeting. The enrollment fee will be $5 for the first six sessions or $7 for a man and wife for the first six sessions, and will be payable at the first meeting.

Bosworth's To Expand Ready-To-Wear Dept.

Bosworth's of Plymouth will begin construction this week to expand the size of its ready-to-wear departments, according to an announcement by William F. Laramore, store manager.

A one-floor addition to the northwest corner of the present structure will add 1100 square feet of selling area, nearly doubling present space for women's apparel. According to Laramore, the expansion will enable the store to enlarge its selection of coats and sportswear and to add a section for additional brands of better dresses.

Architect for the addition was Arthur W. Thomson, Plymouth, with interior design by Albert B. Chipman, Jr., of Chicago, store designer. Exterior construction will be by H. W. Hunter, Plymouth, general contractor, and interior construction by Shaffer Bros., Plymouth. Contracts for other phases of the building have been let to Plymouth firms. Grand opening is scheduled for this summer.

The expansion is the fifth major interior improvement to Bosworth's in the recent history of the 74-year-old firm. Officers of The F. W. Bosworth Co., Inc., are Miss Esther Bosworth, president; Mrs. Glenn Eddy, the former Muriel Bosworth Laramore, vice-president; Mrs. William F. Laramore, secretary, and Mr. Laramore, treasurer.

Culver Bank Seeks To Open Plymouth Office

The Department of Financial Institutions at Indianapolis is scheduled to rule today (Thursday) on the application of the State Exchange Bank of Culver to establish a branch bank at Plymouth.

The application of the bank to establish a branch was taken under advisement when the board met last week. The department was to meet with representatives of the bank to further discuss the matter.

William O. Osborn, president of the State Exchange Bank, said the bank has made application with the Indiana Department of Finance to establish a branch bank north of Plymouth.

The bank has an option on the southeast corner of the Labas Chevrolet property, West 7th road and U. S. 31, just north of the city limits of Plymouth.

School Board Negotiates Loans

The Culver School Board has accepted the proposal of the Leiters Ford State Bank to lend $12,000 to help meet tuition expenses for March and April, and will negotiate with the State Exchange Bank for the balance of $45,000 needed. The temporary loans are required because the present school budget does not include an operating balance sufficient to cover expenses. The loans will be repaid from tax funds being collected this year.

In other board activity, School Superintendent Frank McLane said letters are being sent to Culver teachers inviting them to renew their contracts for next year. The teachers have been asked to notify the board of their intentions by April 15.

Town Plan Commission Turns Down Petition For Zoning Extension

The Culver Town Plan Commission, after a public hearing on Tuesday night at Town Hall, voted unanimously to deny a petition for amendment to the zoning ordinance and map that would have extended the "contiguous" area beyond the present northern limits.

The petition had sought an extension of northern zoning boundaries up to a maximum two miles permitted by law beyond the corporate limits and a designation of the area as "S" suburban. The action would have limited commercial-type operations now taking place to their present form.

Council chambers were packed with both petitioners and remonstrators, the latter group represented by Attorney Eugene Chipman of Plymouth who pointed out that total assessed valuation of property affected was $93,000, and those opposing owned $67,000 of this property.

Board members present were President Robert Berger, Secretary Virginia Bair, Edgar Shaw, Wilfred Craft, Robert Boswell, Harold Fitterling, and Ray Manis.

Names of petitioners were: Frances and Ralph Geiselman, Mrs. Francis Fishburn, Elsie and John Wagner, Jenny and Thurlow Tennis, King and Cora Hester, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Overmyer, Paul and Lucille Ulery, Ora Overmyer, Marcella and Jesse White, Robert and Phyllis Lindvall, Elgie and Margaret Good, Ralph Neidlinger, Dovie and Chester Davis, Augusta Overmyer, Pauline and Herman Siems, Zina Overmyer, Fred and Bertha Katlun, Wallace Starr, John and Dorothy Vander Meade, Glen and Wilma Snyder, William and Helen Millbrath, Oscar and Lovina Wesson, N. A. Lichtenberger, Harry and Irma Winkler, Charles and Mildred Weiger.

Names of remonstrators were: Paul and Inez Humbert, Chancey and Carolyn McFarland, Harold Houghton, Ray and Esther Morrison, Paul and Jeannette Beaver, Russell and Esther Overmyer, Guy and Mary McAfee, Robert and Patricia Measels, Marion and Linda Measels.

In other board business, President Berger read a letter from Jaycee President Ron McKee urging diligence in the regulation of "the planning and expansion of this community . . ."

The letter said: "We hope you are aware that the Culver Jaycees are interested in promoting industry locations and business growth in the Culver area."

"It has long been felt by many citizens of Culver and the surrounding area that the people of the Culver area should do something to stimulate some economic growth and to improve the employment opportunities for our many fine young people who are leaving this community every year.

"Our Jaycee creed states that economic justice can best be won by free men through free enterprise. In keeping with this creed, this club opposes any action that would limit or restrict these pursuits.

"We sincerely hope this commission has the entire Culver area and population in mind as they sit in regulating the planning and expansion of this community."

"Our club realizes the problems encountered by this commission in dealing with your fellow citizens. We respect your abilities and we intend to respect your decisions. We ask only that you give every problem every consideration and think of Culver as an entire community desiring growth and economic expansion with your supervision."

Miss Bess Easterday entertained the group with a review of the book, "Things As They Are," by Paul Horgan.

During the social hour Mrs. Reed was assisted by Mrs. Edgar Shaw, Mrs. Onesti and Mrs. Wayne Kline.

Golden Keys Meet With Mrs. James McKinney

Mrs. James Davis, Mrs. Donald Milner, Mrs. William Baker, and Mrs. Ronald McKee were guests at the March 16 meeting of the Golden Key Home Demonstration Club at the home of Mrs. James McKinney.

Devotions were given by Mrs. Walter VonEhr, who also read a poem entitled, "I Am."

Mrs. Arnold Lowry and Mrs. Lyman Craft gave the lesson on housekeeping short cuts and emphasized the following points:

1. You can do something so well that there isn't time for things you enjoy doing.
2. Break your old habits of doing things and try an easier way.
3. Don't plan more work for one day than you can get done.
4. Use your money and time to the best of your advantage.
5. Remember that your family always come first in the home.

Mrs. Richard Woodward read the history for the song of the month, "My Wild Irish Rose," and then led the group in singing the same song.

Mrs. Craft gave a report on a recent meeting at the Bremen Hospital which dealt with the artificial kidney machine, which is capable of saving up to 20,000 lives a year but it is costly. In discussing the qualities of a good nurse, she brought out the need for unselfishness, alertness, patience, pleasing personality, and good schooling and training. A nurse's jobs are many.

The door prize was won by Mrs. Ronald McKee.

Mrs. Richard Dehne closed the meeting with a Lenten reading.

Maxinkuckee Shamrocks 4-H Club Meeting

Members of the Maxinkuckee Shamrock's 4-H Club met Tuesday, March 16, in the Home Ec room of the Culver school. The purpose of this meeting was to plan the program for the coming year.

The meeting began by the recitation of the pledges by the members. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were given and the Health and Safety report was read. Then members entertained themselves for about ten minutes with singing, led by the song leader.

Then they took up the old business which was the decision as to what the dues for the coming year would be. It was decided by an almost majority vote that dues should be 50 cents.

Attention then moved to the new business of planning the program. There was much discussion and suggestions were offered, many of which will greatly improve our club this year.

A program was finally worked out and we were then dismissed for refreshments.

Our next meeting will be held on March 30, at which we hope to have 100 per cent attendance such as we experienced at this meeting.

Following the meeting, Colonel Graham and Captain Raymond Walmoth showed training films on horsemanship and a color film on Arabian horses to the group of 44 members and 30 visitors present.

BRIGHT IDEAS

FOR GROWING HOUSE PLANTS

Biggest problem for amateur plant growers and hobbyists during the short days of winter, or with out-of-season flowers, is to provide a steady supply of the sun's red and blue radiant energy, essential for plant growth.

You can now grow more beautiful plants than ever before with Sylvania Gro-Lux fluorescent lamps. They supply the correct light to stimulate growth, yet use no more electricity than standard fluorescents. Gro-Lux units come ready-made, or you can create charming, decorative touches by building them into storage walls, room dividers, bookcases, hutch cabinets, or dry sinks.

For a particularly novel and dramatic effect, use the special lamps for lighting wall-recessed or free-standing aquariums. Either way, studies show that Gro-Lux is beneficial to water plants and enhances the color of both fish and plants.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Osborn and Steven entertained at dinner Sunday in honor of their son and brother, Airman 2nd Class Ronald Osborn, who is home on furlough from Lincoln Air Force Base. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Larry Osborn and son, Richard, of Buchanan, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Osborn, Mishawaka; Mr. and Mrs. David Burns and sons of Culver; and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Woolington of Kewanna.

OPERATION BRAINPOWER APRIL 10, AT PURDUE

More than 3,000 Hoosier high school students are expected to attend Operation Brainpower College Day, April 10, at Purdue University.

The annual event, sponsored by the Purdue Agricultural Alumni Association, is designed to acquaint high school students with college opportunities and college life through tours of campus facilities and visits with Purdue students and professors.

Seventeen different guided tours from which the students may choose begin the day's activities at 8:30 a.m., EST.

A general session at 11:30 a.m. features speakers Dr. Frederick L. Hoyde, president of Purdue; Dr. Earl L. Butz, Purdue's dean of agriculture, and Nels Ackerson, an agricultural economics sophomore from Westfield and past president of the National Future Farmers of America. Karen Post, a home economics junior from Arlington Heights, Ill., will be toastmistress.

Classroom sessions and a tour of the co-educational recreational gymnasium and residence halls follow in the afternoon.

Purdue's Glee Club will present a concert in conclusion of the day's activities.

Maurice L. Williamson, association executive secretary, said 60 county Purdue Ag Alumni chapters are cooperating in bringing the high school students to the campus.

Watch out for school children especially if they're driving.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY BY THE PRESS CLUB OF CULVER HIGH SCHOOL

Well, here we are again — back at the ol' gossip center! Seniors have only a few more days until the trip — they're busy with last minute details. The rest of the kids are looking forward to a few days escape from prison.

Would you like to buy a ticket to the show? No? Well, would you like to buy a ticket to the Spaghetti Supper? This is a sales pitch from one of many ticket-confused Sophomores. That's ok gang, we understand.

We would like to welcome Linda B. to the drivers' license club. Not that she really needed it, but now she can drive legally!

Has anyone taken a good look at the water tower lately? There seems to be some sort of a kite flying around it. There looks like there's writing on it, too. Hmmm. Wonder what it says.

Valerie Gunder seems to have come to the conclusion that blonds don't have any more fun than brunettes. We could've told ya' that, Val!

What's this Mike E. found in his locker last Monday? Somebody must know he goes out for baseball, but I declare! The mit was a little too small.

Did Jon and Carolyn have fun that Friday night? Ask 'em! Better luck next time Jon.

Danny has acquired another nickname - no, not "Buzz" - this time its Golden Boy. Wonder how he got that nickname???

Steve U. must have a phobia on blinds - he can't stand to have one pulled down in English class.

Don't be startled if a ghost appears to be walking around in Doug L.'s skin. You see, Doug's deceased!!!!

I hear the Mother's Party was really a riot. Those who attended got their eyes full. Right Lonni and Kay? They also discovered that sleeping ugly is really beautiful after all.

Say, Marsha G. where are you going this weekend? Some people have all the luck!!

By the way, Becky Easterday, who's your new interest? We know - his initials are S.S. Why not tell us more?

It seems the Jr. English classes are having a poetry sharing day. Bruce, we didn't realize 'mud' meant so much to you.

Hey, Linda N., how come you don't recognize Tom's voice when you call him? You were expecting some one else, maybe?

Sounds as if there are two junior girls that had fun times over the weekend. Tell us more about your "battle wound" Cindee L.

Well, that's all, folks!! Due to the terrible windy weather, the smoke signals are no longer readable!!

A Tribute To Mothers

By Sue Cole

The Sunshine Society has had an Ideal Ladies' Party for many years. These ideal ladies are to be chosen by the girls and be other than their mothers. This year the Society had a party honoring the mothers.

March 12, the mothers entered an atmosphere of Tea for Two. Everywhere the colors green and white livened the atmosphere. The tables were decorated with teapots and cups. As the opening din died away, Peggy Herr, the Sunshine Society president, welcomed all who could come. The members recited their creed and sang their song.

The guests at the head table were introduced so that everyone could be familiar with the officers and sponsor of the Society. Then each girl introduced her mother or someone substituting for her that evening.

No party would be complete without some good hired (?) entertainment. Susie Spencer gave a chalk talk — showing how to draw a figure starting with a letter of the alphabet. The viewers were then whisked away to Never, Never Land. Here everyone watched the antics of Sleeping Ugly (Cindy Lemar). Kay Thomas and Wanda Warren played the King and Queen of Transylvania, in that order. A songbird (Valerie Gunder) who also plays the guitar lightened everyone's evening by singing and playing "I Am, I Am." To live up to the preceding performer, Kay Thomas and Lonni Darosci pantomimed the classic "Alley Oop."

The evening was ended with everyone enjoying gingerale and sherbet punch, tea cakes, nuts, and candies.

Sunshine Girl Of The Month

By Cheryl Zink

Vera Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Smith, who is a senior at Culver this year, was elected Sunshine Girl for the month of March. The choice was based on her attitudes toward her school and church. Vera has been an active member of the Sunshine Society for three years. She has been in Pep Club for three years, and was in the high school chorus one year. She was also chosen Co-Ed Correspondent for the year 1964-65. She is a member of the Union Church of the Brethren where she sings in the choir, and is secretary-treasurer of the YF. Her hobbies are sewing and sports. When she graduates, she plans to enter beauty school, and become a beautician.

A machine that detects changes in wind direction is expected to help fight forest fires, reports Electronics, McGraw-Hill publication. The portable instrument can be set up in an area unaffected by a blaze. If the wind there shifts, bringing the threat of fire, the instrument signals a monitor and firemen are dispatched to the new danger area.

Hail The New Co-Editors!

By Kay Thomas

Congratulations are certainly in order for Juniors Marsha Guise and Judy Thews who were recently chosen as next year's Schoolbell co-editors. These capable girls will undoubtedly do as terrific a job as Jane Ives and Cathy Carrothers have done this year.

As an introduction to the production of a newspaper, the two girls (Judy and Marsha) visited the home of the Plymouth Pilot newspaper, Thursday, March 11. No sooner had the girls arrived at the newspaper office at 8 a.m. than they were immediately put to work creating headlines for various articles, studying layouts, and typing up stories. At 9:30 a.m. they went on the "beat" with Pilot reporter, Mike Boys. This consisted of a trip to the courthouse, where they met the county clerk and the county treasurer and learned the many duties of both offices. They also visited the office of the county agent and a downtown office.

Returning to the Pilot office at 11 a.m., Marsha and Judy commenced sorting, correcting, and revising the half dozen feature articles from Culver that would appear in the next day's Pilot high school section. Those news items included the write-up of the basketball banquet, the Judson-Culver faculty basketball game, the Sunshine Mothers' Party, and the junior-senior excursion to Indianapolis.

At noon the girls attended a luncheon at the Plymouth V.F.W. where they enjoyed scrumptious chicken salad sandwiches, potato chips, jello, rolls, and milk.

A fascinating afternoon followed when Judy and Marsha were allowed to tour the newspaper building to observe how the paper is formulated, laid out, and printed. At 2:30 p.m. the two girls left the Pilot office more aware and appreciative as to how much hard work goes into running a newspaper efficiently.

Marsha and Judy's first assignment as co-editors will be producing the senior commencement issue of the Schoolbell. Good luck to both of you — we're behind you 100 per cent!

National Honor Society Initiation

By Jeanne Adams

On Monday, March 15, eight students were inducted into the Culver Chapter of the National Honor Society before an assembly of the student body and the initiates' parents. President Jim Boswell started the meeting by telling of the methods of choosing the students for this honor.

Jim then introduced the first speaker, Jane Ives. Jane spoke on the attribute of scholarship. In her speech, Jane said that knowledge had three things to offer to every person. First, Freedom — for knowledge is truth and "the truth will make you free." Second, A Chance to Succeed — you hold your success in your willingness to learn. Third, A Place in the Future — the sky won't be your limit, but your knowledge will be.

Bob Eustis was the next speaker, and he spoke on the qualities of leadership. Bob said, "Our country feels an increasing need for leaders in thought, work, and action. A leader must keep faith with the trust which his companions place in him by their recognition of his leadership. It is the power of leadership that blazes the trail for man's upward climb."

Character is the next quality needed for admission, and this speech was given by Larry White. Larry brought up this point in his speech that: Knowledge may make a man ruthless, service may make him vain, leadership may make him domineering, but character will make him the richest man of all times — rich not with gold that corrupts, but rich with virtue which lasts through time and to eternity.

The fourth speaker was Peggy Herr and she spoke on the attribute of service. Peggy summed up all of the speeches thus: So what good is scholarship if the scholar doesn't use his knowledge for others, what good is leadership if the leader doesn't serve his followers faithfully, and what good is character if it isn't an example to others?

At the beginning of each speech, a candle representing that characteristic is lighted from the candle of truth and wisdom. The four candlelighters were Eva Norris, Linda Thurin, Jeanne Adams, and Kathy Easterday.

Mr. Cole then presented the following students with their pin and membership card: Phyllis Jewell, senior; Paul Hatten, Dave Kelly, Patti McCombs, Patty Overmyer, Suzanne Overmyer, Bob Vondra, and Ellen Wallace, all sophomores.

Congratulations to these students, and next time maybe you can be one of these lucky students.

"The Moon Race" Is It Worthwhile?

By Donna Rogers

Across the United States and around the world, people are trying to determine whether the "moon race" is worth the U.S.'s investment or could the money on space exploration be put to better use? The students of CHS have varied opinions on this question, and these opinions express a few of those which people around the world have.

The United States must not completely give up the "moon race", because whether we win or lose it will be a very important factor in the future. Since the United States is behind in the race, our government has to catch up and this means we need more money right now. Some people disagree with spending such great amounts of money when there are so many other causes that need money, but the U. S. officials declare that we must win the race — and to do this we must spend more money. Even though we must go on with the race, we must find some way to cut down on what it will cost. The country should not give up everything else for the "moon race".

Other people feel that since the world's population is growing and someday we might have to have someplace to put the people. Also, if Russia would beat us to the moon and establish a station, it would endanger our country in case of attack.

The scientific knowledge gained through the research required for these programs, the demand for skilled technicians, and our standing among other nations is worth the money being spent on these projects. The competition between countries is very beneficial in making people strive for the leadership in space.

Although space travel is important it should not receive as much of the tax dollar as it does. When we can not get along with other people on earth, we should not spend the money we do have on space travel. As long as people are dying from diseases still unknown and unconquered by medicine, we should not concentrate so much on space.

The advance in science and technology have greatly improved the American way of life. Further advancement would further better our nation. Understanding scientific phenomena over the years has allowed us to surround ourselves with time saving devices, medical advancement, and better quality for other goods. Although the possibility that the investment in space exploration will not reveal any great advancement, the prestige and faith brought about by scientific exploration in the eyes of the world will add the people of the United States and the world.

In our attempts to gain the moon, we are not only racing with other countries, we are searching for new and better things. Who knows what we will find on the moon when we get there? On attaining our goal we may find nothing, but we never the less must try because of the chance of finding something. There is a risk in this space exploration just as there is in everything else; however, the risks must not stop us from pushing forward for knowledge.

Spread a coating of soft butter, margarine, peanut butter or cheese spread to edges of bread slices to avoid picking up moisture from salad-type fillings, suggest food specialists at Purdue University.

Students See Crime Prevention Skit

Mr. Cole is shown here with the five convicted criminals who addressed the student body Friday afternoon.

By Jane Anne Ives

Friday afternoon, March 19, the Culver Community Building became the scene of one of the most unique convocations in many years. Approximately 430 students, faculty and the Culver public witnessed a crime prevention skit presented by five inmates from the Indiana State Prison. The skit was brought to Culver by the Maxinkuckee Junior Woman's Club and has been shown at schools all over the state before 24,600 teenagers.

Mr. Cole opened the convocation by introducing Lee Baron of the Public Relations Department at the prison. Mr. Baron addressed the group thus:

"This program is not going to be entertaining; it was not meant to be. We are going to allow you to eavesdrop on the conversations of five convicted criminals as they discuss true events in their lives which served as stepping-stones to their present plights."

For one hour these men talked to each other from behind wooden cell doors as they usually do when there is no audience. The students heard of the 15-year-old boy who got in the wrong crowd and killed in the robbery. They heard of another boy, now a man of 27, who was sent to prison at the age of 14. Both are serving life sentences. They listened as the men expounded on the underlying theme: IF ONLY I HAD STAYED IN SCHOOL! They heard the stories of families and friends who had forgotten the men after a few short months — no mail and no visits.

These men know!

The five seemed to agree that the big factor which helped them to get where they are today was loss of respect for their church, for their school, for their homes and for themselves.

The words of the convicts were real and poignant:

"There is no future for us — just the past, and the crummy future."

"I'm in prison because I didn't listen to anyone — not my minister, my teachers or my parents — not even to my own conscience."

"My parents? They tried, but I thought they were old fashioned — they couldn't tell me anything I didn't already know. Now look at me."

"What really hurts is the affect this has had on my mother. There isn't a day passed that I haven't regretted it and prayed for forgiveness."

"I didn't realize how important an education would be to me later on in life."

Principal Kenneth Cole stated after the program, "That is the quietest I have ever seen so many students for so long a time!"

The "crime skit" was initiated by Ward Lane, Warden, a far seeing modern penologist interested in the causes of crime, its prevention and its relation to disruptive social influences prevalent among young people. Approximately two years ago, a group of hardened criminals were organized and welded into a team, dedicated to aiding young men who are following or about to follow in the footsteps of the men at Indiana State Prison.

Yes, these men know — because they have experienced, firsthand, the waste and futility of criminal life. And because these men know, they quickly dispel the unrealistic and often exaggerated accounts of crime and prison life as depicted in the movies and on television. These men have a very worthwhile message for society and are making a great contribution to today's youth.

We, the students of Culver High, salute these men and applaud their fine work.

African violets grow in temperatures of 65 degrees at night and 75 during the day. Purdue University extension horticulturists recommend they be removed from windows on cool nights to keep the plants from chilling.

By Mary Whitman

Paper dolls have long been important to little girls.

As a matter of fact some of the earliest paper dolls were published in Godey's Lady's Book. Other women's magazines a few generations ago also offered paper dolls for readers to cut out. Undoubtedly they had a good effect in getting young ladies interested in sewing and wardrobe planning.

Long before a little girl can help with her mother's work she can practice on a paper doll "family."

One of the newest paper doll favorites is sure to be Skipper, a younger sister of the popular Barbie doll. She's of an age to appeal to the jump-rope set.

"And a welcome newcomer to the paper doll field," forecasts June Behling of Whitman Publishing Company of Racine, Wis., "will be Wendy and her wardrobe in book form." Swatches of real fabric have been photographed and reproduced in play-book, and stencils are provided, so that a girl can create her own clothes designs for paper doll Wendy to try on. Trimmings such as collars and buttons can be changed at will.

Paper dolls come in all sizes. Stand-up dolls, printed on heavy cardboard and provided with a base, are easy for even preschoolers to work with. There are many improvements in paper doll wardrobes too. Some clothes adhere to the doll by means of friction and need no other fastenings. You'll find many of these innovations in boxed sets.

Punch-out paper dolls eliminate scissors work, so that even toddlers can play safely.

Storage space is never a problem for a paper doll family. Any empty box can be decorated to hold cut-out dolls and their wardrobes. Or a dresser drawer can be allotted to these dolls and other play projects.

The conversion and baptism of Saul of Tarsus, as told in the Acts of the Apostles, plays an important part in the Bible Lesson on "Reality" which will be heard at Christian Science churches Sunday.

Also included will be these lines from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (pp. 324-5): "When the truth first appeared to him in Science, Paul was made blind, and his blindness was felt; but spiritual light soon enabled him to follow the example and teachings of Jesus, healing the sick and preaching Christianity throughout Asia Minor, Greece, and even in Imperial Rome. . . He who has the true idea of good loses all sense of evil, and by reason of this is being ushered into the undying realities of Spirit."

STORY-HOUR AT MONTEREY LIBRARY

A Spring Story-Hour was the center of interest by 43 children at the Monterey-Tippecanoe Public Library last Saturday afternoon. Several mothers enjoyed "coffee and get-acquainted hour" also. As long as these are well attended the story-hour will be continued and parents are welcome to attend.

The children present were Brenda and Brent Keller, Scott and Terry Reinholdt, Danny Ringeb, Rory and Ryan Smith, Debbie and Duane Large, Shirley and Marsha Reinholdt, Beth Zehner, Cindy Posthuma, Robin Zehner, Mary Lou Langenbahn, Brett and Matt Master, Micheal Fisher, Candy Sheppard, Judy and Ronnie Zehner, Timmie and Nancy Bauer, Steve, Susie, Valerie and Vickie Bauer, Lori and Tina Zehner, Linda Reinholdt, Ruthann and Rebecca, Richard and Robert Hartman, Vickie and Ronnie Fox, Gregg and Janet Winter, Mark Wamsley, Lori and Donnie Shaffer and Jeff LaZarrus.

BALANCE

It is said of a certain friend of ours that he went off the deep end.

Strange expression, that! It can mean that a person had a mental breakdown, or that he became a sort of fanatic; or it can mean simply that he got too interested in one thing to the exclusion of other important matters.

And the very fact that our generation has coined such an idiom is indicative of the fact that we see such tragedy every day.

One of the vital contributions of religion to life is its gift of balance. The knowledge of God helps a man see all else in its proper perspective.

In a day when millions are caught in turbulent crosscurrents, faith points to the true center of existence . . . worship steadies the mind and heart!

Retailers Must Watch Buyers' Habits and Fads

Customers change their attitudes more quickly today than ever before in our history. Therefore retailers must have a sixth sense in foreseeing new fads and buying habits before their rivals. Otherwise they will be left trailing behind in terms of turnover and net profits. How customers are going to react tomorrow even more important than how today's "take" is.

Rapid Changes Emerging
In the old days — and not so long ago — the largest retail outlets were established and grew prosperous in the city centers. People were content to take subways, trains, trolleys, or buses to shop downtown. They could count on more or less regulation prices, dependent upon the basic quality of the goods they might want. Clerks were expected to give personal attention; and any subsequent ser-VICES needed, for exchange or repairs or replacement, were taken pretty much for granted.

The evolution of self-service began about the same time that city decentralization into the suburbs was starting. Since that time, changes in buying and selling patterns have been little short of spectacular, aided by the almost universal use of automobiles and the "explosion of suburbias" outside all the big cities. Here it was that a lot of retailers were left out in the cold because they didn't foresee the surge toward self-service, shopping centers, and supermarkets in outlying areas.

Discount Houses
The idea of discount selling had been used by a few go-getters for a long while, but it was not until the blossoming of huge retail centers that their full possibilities were realized. Discount outlets quickly webbed out in the feverish attempt to gain as much of the new suburban and outlying trade as possible. Costs were kept at a minimum by almost complete reliance on self-service and by virtual elimination of the delivery and other "convenience" services maintained by standard department and variety stores. Discount prices were the "come-on" that attracted eager consumers.

But, as is the case in most "mushrooming" crazes, the discounters tended to overextend, sometimes beyond the boundaries of financial safety. And comparison buyers began to note increasing instances of lower-quality goods at prices not very far below those for higher-grade articles at regular variety stores. The result of such developments inevitably is a gradual consolidation, with the strongest and most intelligently operated firms driving out the get-rich-quick elements. Though the discount houses are obviously here to stay, there will be important changes in their operations.

Demand More Consideration
Family incomes are on an uptilt at the highest level in the nation's history. There is a vast reservoir of discretionary spending money that can be used without much need for penny-pinching. As a result, there is a new attitude developing among the buying public. More and more consumers want top-quality merchandise of all types. They also are coming to expect more personalized attention from store employees, more consideration in terms of "follow-up" requirements such as installation, helpful instructions and suggestions, deliveries, and courteous servicing.

With the cultural level of the people rising and with a constantly greater number of families building on college backgrounds, the tendency of buyers is toward goods of more polish, more elegance. Sales are steadily on the increase for books, recordings, objects of art, antiques, luxurious rugs, imported foods, more expensive autos, exotic china, furs, etc. With spending money as free as it is — and promising to become even freer for some time to come — the trend toward more fastidious purchasing will continue. Those stores providing goods of excellent quality, coupled with service and courteous attention, will do well in 1965 and beyond — regardless of size or special field of sale.

The timing is always right when you call VI 2-3377 for a result-getting Culver Citizen Classified Ad.

Annual 60-Mile Canoe Race To Be Held April 10-11

Culver Military Academy's 60-mile canoe race on the Tippecanoe River will be held Saturday and Sunday, April 10-11.

The second annual race is expected to draw an even larger field than the 60 outdoorsmen who participated last year, according to William Garrison, an Academy history professor who conceived the event and serves as its chairman.

"Increased interest from canoe clubs in the Cincinnati and Chicago areas should boost the number of competitors," said Garrison. "We have also expanded the race to include two more divisions that will appeal to women."

Last year's race, held in rain and fog, was won by two Indianapolis residents, 27-year-old salesman Frank Miller and 15-year-old Broad Ripple student Douglas Guion. They covered the 60-mile course in eight hours, 20 minutes, some 10 minutes ahead of their nearest rivals, two youngsters from Indianapolis Southport High School.

This year's race will be held in four divisions: cruising canoes, racing canoes, a special division for mixed crews of men and women, and a division for all-women crews. The latter two divisions will be held only on Sunday and will cover 30 miles of the course, however women may enter in the cruising and racing divisions over the entire distance.

The race will begin at noon Saturday from Leiters Ford, and the first leg of the competition will end in late afternoon at Beason Park, an Academy-owned facility on the Tippecanoe some 17 miles from the Culver campus.

Sunday morning the race will resume on a basis of the time required by teams to cover Saturday's leg of the race. The race will end Sunday afternoon at Buffalo, Ind.

Entry fees of $5 per canoe will be used for prizes. The Academy will also make available food and lodging at Beason Park and the Culver Inn at a nominal cost.

Application blanks and further information may be obtained by writing Terry O'Hara, West Lodge, Culver Military Academy, Culver, Ind.
