FORBIDDEN FASHIONS

IN THE PAST THERE WERE NUMEROUS LAWS REGULATING WOMEN'S CLOTHING. THE MOTIVE BEHIND MOST OF THEM WAS TO PREVENT THE "LOWER CLASSES" FROM DRESSING LIKE THEIR SO-CALLED "SUPERIORS." UNDER THE LAWS OF SOLON, GREEK WOMEN WERE FORBIDDEN TO WEAR MORE THAN THREE GARMENTS AT A TIME.

ELIZABETH - THE VIRGIN QUEEN - A FASHION FANCIER IF EVER THERE WAS ONE (SHE OWNED MORE THAN 3,000 DRESSES) WAS AUTOCRATIC REGARDING THE DRESS OF HER SUBJECTS. AMONG OTHER THINGS, SHE RESTRICTED THE USE OF GREAT RUFFS, EXCEPT FOR HERSELF.

ONE OF THE REASONS BEHIND THE TYPICAL DRAB DRESS OF THE MASSACHUSETTS COLONIAL WOMAN (WHOSE SOUTHERN COUNTERPART WAS GAILY DRESSED IN THE LATEST FASHION) WAS A RESTRICTION AGAINST "EXTRAVAGANCE" ON THE GROUNDS THAT EXCESS OF APPAREL WAS UNBECOMING TO A WILDERNESS COMMUNITY.

It will be conducted annually by the School of Medicine Alumni Association in cooperation with the staff and faculty and with the Indiana University Foundation. In the first year's campaign gifts were received from more than 1,000 donors representing 300 cities in 37 states.

Dr. Dennis S. Megenhardt of Indianapolis, who is serving his second year as National Chairman of the program, said that local chairmen are now organizing for personal solicitation in 180 cities throughout the country. Home Demonstration
Clubs Sponsor Annual Holiday House On Nov. 8

For several years the Home Demonstration Clubs of Marshall County have held Holiday House. The 32 clubs of the County set up plays and demonstrations of many suitable for the Holiday season.

The committee; Mrs. Robert Miller, Chairman, Home and Hobby; Mrs. David Allen, Friendly Homemakers; Mrs. Hugh Umrig, Walnut Ruralettes; and Mrs. Richard Martin, MY-T-Fine, decided on the theme, "Let's Give on the Holidays."

To help carry out this theme they hope that the local clubs can contribute in some way in their exhibit. It may be by the use of family pictures for greeting cards, it may be as subjects for painting pictures as gifts, it may be as helping to get the family interested in a hobby.

The committee this year has suggested that the local clubs may want to expand their exhibits to cover more than the Holiday Season. It may be based upon some special occasion, such as birthday, anniversary, or other special event. Holiday House will be held at Plymouth Church of the Brethren, Monday, Nov. 8 from 10 to 3. The county officers will also be giving light refreshments throughout the day.

A special discussion period on photography will be held at 10:30 and 1:30.

Earle Baumgardner, Sr. will talk about cameras, accessory equipment, and film subject matter. Mr. Baumgardner is a retired photographer, with 30 years of experience. He is now associated with Schilling's in South Bend.

Holiday House is open to the public and so are these class discussions. Because of limited seating capacity only about 50 people can be accommodated in each time period.

Why don't you spend the day in the Home Demonstration Club members in Marshall County Holiday House?

Wide Awake Class

The Wide Awake Class met on October 21 at 7:30 in the Fellowship Hall of the Culver Methodist church with 17 members present.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. George Speyer, Mrs. H. P. Scott, Mrs. Otho Warner, and Mrs. H. D. Mayfield.

Failure-To-Yield Greatest Cause Of Traffic Accidents

What many self-confident drivers may class as 'the little things' actually cause the majority of all the traffic accidents in Indiana, completion of a driver error study has revealed.

"Believe it or not, just nine basic driver errors accounted for 97 per cent of the 82,572 accidents investigated last year by police in this state," Al Huber, executive director of the Indiana Traffic Safety Foundation, pointed out.

"It may surprise some people to know that failing to yield the right-of-way to another vehicle or pedestrian was the No. 1 error," he said.

Second on the list was 'other improper driving.' This includes such mistakes as failure to signal, giving an improper signal, stopping or parking on the roadway — or inattention.

Other driver errors in order of frequency include:

Exceeding the legal or safe speed limit, following too close, driving to the left of the center of the road, driving while under the influence, improper turning, improper passing and disregarding traffic signs and signals.

of error prevails in this year's experience," Huber said. "These facts underline the need for constant driver attention to the 'basic' rules of the road," he added.

"Every driver should keep in mind that even the 'simplest' traffic maneuver is important on to-highways," he said. "A driver who steals the right-of-way, travels in excess of established speed limits, fails to properly signal turns or change of lanes, is actually developing a habit which will lead to an accident," he concluded.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Listerger of Hammond were Sunday guests of the former's parents, and Mrs. Roy Listenberger.

WHY DO PLANTS GROW OLD?

Why do plants grow old? Why, for example, does a wheat field blow and die in summer? Why do soybeans die in August?

Dr. A. Carl Leopold, Purdue University plant physiologist in horticulture department, is working with these basic questions by investigating the chemical control systems regulating growth of plants.

Scientists believe that senescence, or death, of plants is regulated by two chemical systems. Behavior of mysterious growth substances, called kinins, which are concentrated in flowers and fruits, is apparently indirectly responsible for causing death in plants. When these kinins are concentrated in one part of the plant, such as the fruit, they can cause the rest of the plant to die. When plants produce fruit, Leopold explains, they may be actually concentrating the kinins in one place — thus leading to a degeneration of the rest of the plant.

But the reason why plants grow old is not that simple.

The kinins appear to play their role in death by acting on nucleic acids — substances which actually carry genetic information. Nucleic acids direct, for example, the building of proteins.

A buildup of kinins leads to a buildup of nucleic acids, and thus to a localization of protein accumulation. The rest of the plant suffers.

Aging in animals and humans is believed to also involve a declining effectiveness of the nucleic acids.

The yellow colors of dying leaves are caused by a chain of events beginning with a decline in nucleic acid concentration. This decline is followed by a loss of protein buildup. Then the structures which manufacture chlorophyll deteriorate and the green color begins to disappear.

The yellowing, Leopold says, comes from the loss of chlorophyll and is associated with the formation of yellow pigments.

The chain of events, leading a leaf from green to yellow, appears to be the same for dying plants in general. In leaves of trees, the events are restricted to the leaf.

WEED-FREE LAWN

The solution for a lawn's dandelion problem is 2, 4-D, according to Purdue University extension horticulturist Don Scheer.

This material was first used during World War II to knock the leaves off trees in the Pacific. Then it was found that a weak concentration would kill broad-leaf weeds in lawns and not kill the grass.

Scheer offers these tips for using 2, 4-D on your lawn weeds:

You can spray or apply 2, 4-D in a granular form. Or, you can kill weeds by merely pulling a wax bar impregnated with 2, 4-D over your lawn. There's no mixing and there is less chance of injury to surrounding plants with the wax bar.

For best control with 2, 4-D, it's wise to treat your lawn when the weeds are vigorous. When you use 2, 4-D, be sure to follow the directions on the container and be careful that the spray drift doesn't get on other plants. If you do use a sprayer, use it only for chemical weed control, since it's hard to wash the 2, 4-D out of the sprayer, and residues can cause trouble to other plants.

Even if you use 2, 4-D, you'll find that there are a few broad-leaf weeds that will "sneak by". Among these are chickweed, knotweed, ground ivy, and purslane. But don't be discouraged. You can use 2, 5, 5-TP, sometimes called Silvex on these sneaky weeds. Use it just the same as you would 2, 4-D.

THE SCHOOLBELL

A-h-h-h the haze is clearing and hark, this week's Teepee appears! Congratulations seniors! A new record for the magazine sales is really great!

We hear that Mr. Wolfe is having a "little" trouble in his 5th period chemistry class. You say bees keep dive-bombing the class and that a certain cat keeps crawling through the windows? Well, if you say so!

Patti, Elaine, Suzi, could you please explain the weird noises echoing through the halls 5th period.

Say Cheryl, how does it feel to be a pioneer? Walking to school can't be that bad. (But don't tell her that.)

Mike just how did you come by that cast on your hand? Could coach be right???

It seems that another mighty sophomore has been injured, too. Is basketball practice really that rough, Corky? Oh, it wasn't your fault at all.

Hey Patti O., sorry about your driver's test. Better luck next time, and the time after that, and . . .

Brenda and Elaine how did Mr. Fouts' opera sound from the back of the room? That's what you get for tacking.

Speaking of those two, just what was it you did after Rainbow Monday night?

It seems that our famous Culver chorus has only got one step to go before it cuts its first record. Keep up the good work folks. We'll hear you sooner or later.

You're beginning to see more and more of the senior cords around good ol' C.H.S. lately. The lazy ones are finally getting with it.

. . . You may be a girl, but you smell like a boy . . . Linda, Elaine, Joan, Kitty, how does it feel to have that manly scent?

Ple-e-e-z leave your leaves to us! (That as a paid public announcement sponsored by the mighty softmors.) Just between you and me I think they need some spelling lessons.

It seems that two sophomore girls got into a little difficulty at Bair's party after foaming up John's and Bob's cars. Suzi R. was completely covered. Say Suzi, does it do anything for your hair? How come Kitty didn't get it too. Oh, you say she talked her way out of it.

Really! Enough is enough! Let's end this shaving cream fad before we all get hit. It seems that four senior girls were innocently riding their bikes when they were ambushed. No fair! At least give them a chance.

The haze is now returning as this week's teepee comes to a close.

SPORTS

Culver's cross-country team attended the cross-country sectional Friday, October 15. This event took place in Wabash, Indiana, at White's Institute, where 108 runners representing 16 different schools participated. The Culver participants times and placings are as follows:

| | | |
|---------|-------|----|
| Hatten | 10:25 | 6 |
| Crow | 10:40 | 31 |
| Davis | 10:45 | 34 |

| Haenes | 11:30 | 69 |

The top 6 qualifying schools and their point scoring is as follows:

| Northfield | 88 |
| Bluffton | 89 |
| Churnbusco | 130 |

| Culver | 190 |

This meet ended a great cross-country season for Culver, and we hope that all of the coming seasons will be as successful as this one has been.

Culver's Jr. High basketball team has started practice and is getting in shape to take on all this year's newcomers. The Jr. High coaching staff consists of Mr. Wolfe (coaching 7th grade) and Mr. Kline (coaching 8th grade).

National Honor Society Initiation

By Bruce Lindvall

Fifteen members of the sophomore class were inducted into the National Honor Society on Friday, Oct. 15. Candidates for admission to this society must have spent at least one semester at Culver High School and must be a member of the sophomore, junior, or senior class. Eligible candidates must have a scholastic average of B or higher for all their high school solids. Their eligibility is then considered on their service, character, and leadership. Their election is held by a chapter council, consisted of the principal and four teachers.

The initiation of those properly elected is held before the entire student body with an initiation ceremony. Each member is then presented with a pin and certificate of membership.

Mike Eustis, president of the National Honor Society, told of the honor which is bestowed upon a member of this organization. The student body was reminded that scholarship alone does not admit a student. Leadership, character, and service must be added to scholarship.

Danny Haenes, who spoke on scholarship, told that the gold of his sash symbolized the light of knowledge as it shines in the darkness of ignorance. There are three opportunities which knowledge has to offer: freedom, a chance to succeed, and a place in the future.

Diane Davis, speaking on leadership, said that her blue sash represented the royal aspect of leadership. The power of leadership blazes the trail for man's upward climb.

Lucinda Ricciardi stated that her white sash symbolized the purity of character for which everyone in this society must strive. Character will make him the richest man of all times.

Jim Easterday, speaking on service said that his red sash symbolized the unselfish devotion which gives itself to the service of one's home, church, and nation. One can give service many ways. A scholar may use his knowledge for others. A leader serves his followers faithfully. Character is used as an example for others.

Mr. Cole then declared the candidates members of the Culver Chapter of the National Honor Society. He presented the pin and membership certificate to the following: Patsy Behnke, Gary Davis, Kathy DeWitt, Susie Donnelly, Greg Easterday, Phil Edgington, Brian Lindvall, Stu Lowry, Corky Overmyer, Karen Rubnow, Virginia Shidler, Karen Stevenson, Susie Thews, Jim Taber, and Mike Wynn.

Teachers' Institute

By Linda Baker, Patty Overmyer
On October 20 and 21 our dearly beloved teachers attended meetings in South Bend, Fort Wayne, or Indianapolis for the sole purpose of improving the teaching standards in Indiana. This was all part of the program conducted by the ISTA. (Indiana State Teachers Association)

The ISTA is divided into seven divisions. The meetings are held in the bigger cities of Indiana.

There are six different departments. A few of these being Administrative, Higher Education, Senior High School, Junior High School, and Elementary School. These departments are further divided into individual subjects taken in school.

The teachers took on the role of students, and attended lectures, business meetings, displays, demonstrations, workshops, and, of course, luncheons. (Some lucky ones even had coffee hour or brunch!)

Attending the field(s) in which he teaches, the teacher got ideas on how to better help his students, or learned different approaches to teaching.

For instance, if he were attending Language Arts (Junior) in Indianapolis, he might sit through a lecture on Haiku, Japanese poetry, which would be followed by a teaching demonstration of Haiku.

Every field imaginable was included in those two fast-moving days. The program also included Education of the Deaf, Nature Study, Publications and Journalism, and Special Education, plus many other new fields available for high school teachers.

So, you see, students, no matter how you look at it, teaching isn't all fun and games for the teacher, as it might appear from your point of view.

The Shadow Gets Another Victim

By Debbie Triplet

This week the Shadow has got in range of one of those fabulous freshmen girls. Her school day began with a usual round of "howies" to all her friends and an enthusiastic build-up for the center. She then stomped up study hall and slid into her seat just as the final bell rang. After studying diligently (boys that is our victim finally suffered through first period.

Going to second period English our victim felt pretty coordinated because she only trampled through people in the mad rush. During second period she got a pass from Mrs. Hughes to get a book, (or least that's what she told Mr. Hughes).

In third period Algebra our victim got back her unwanted Algebra test in which she made a remarkable 86, being that Mr. Dillman's tests are pretty hard.

After Mr. Dillman's lecture about talking, our victim slowly trudged to fourth period Biology to take one of Mr. Brown's Biology tests. After getting her nitrogen and oxygen cycles mixed up, our victim gladly returned her test as unforcefully rushed to the cafeteria to indulge in her favorite hobby.

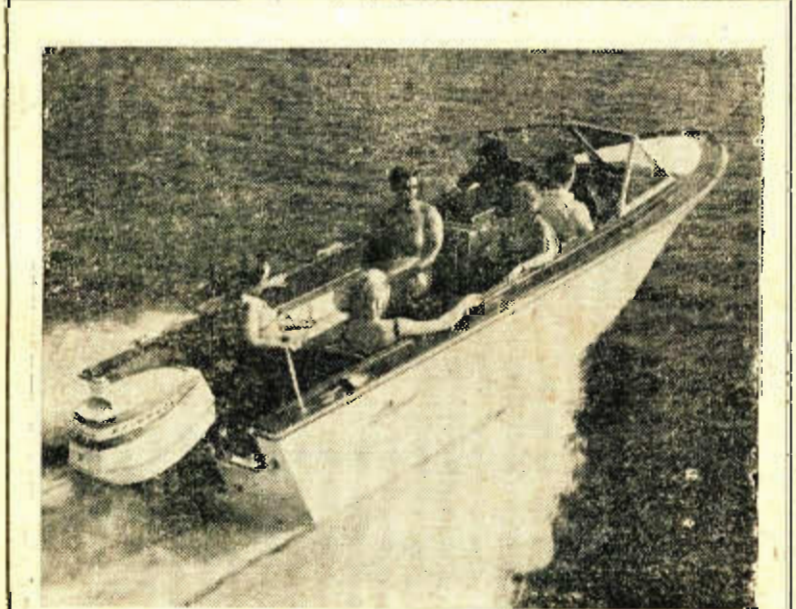

Fifth period started off with a B flat concert scale, whole note up and down but for our victim was a C concert scale quarter note up and eighth notes down, main because she wasn't listening. Most of the period was spent watching that certain boy. — Does he always forget his glasses?

Our victim then shoved her way to the gym and got a second seat where she listened to the inspiring Honor Society Initiation during the mid-afternoon activity period.

Our victim did not have sixth period gym, but a study hall instead. She spent this time talking about that certain boy.

During seventh period Spanish our victim spent most of the period giggling and joking with some of her "neat" classmates.

The Shadow's victim this week is none other than that popular freshman cheerleader, Vicki Clinton. So all of you Shadow fans roaming the halls of C.H.S. beware! you may be the Shadow's next victim!

EVINRUDE 100 HP STARFLITE 100-S — Top of the Evinrude outboard line for 1966 is the all-new 100 hp Starlite 100-S. It features a completely tuned exhaust system mated with a new electric shift gear case to provide a new degree of flexibility for converting engine horsepower to propeller thrust. A selection may be made of one of five specially designed propellers. Special exhaust deflectors, combined with the timing of the intake and exhaust, give the effect of "ramming" of fuel charges into each cylinder for maximum efficiency and power. New aluminum alloy pistons provide extra heat conductivity. The adjustable mounting angle range has been increased to obtain maximum performance on all boats. Evinrude's exclusive push-button electric shift controls and a 20-amp capacity fully-regulated alternator are standard equipment. The Starlite 100-S is available in either blue and white or gray and white. Because of its exceptional acceleration and power, it is made only in the 20-inch lower unit length.

What Is An American?

By Sharyl Welsh
 Editor's Note: This paper was written as part of an assignment in Civics for Mr. Lawson.

An American is . . . the blond, burly, naturalized Scandinavian who is a dairy farmer in Wisconsin, or maybe in Illinois. With so many hundreds of acres of land, he is busy plowing, planting, and reaping his fields of oats, hay, corn, and wheat to help feed a large herd of dairy cows that congregate each morning and evening at 5:30 about the doors of the huge barns that require cleaning each day, and sometimes repairing, and less frequently, painting. Since his children are in school, he is interested and active in the PTA with his wife. For his community he is a member of the Jaycees, or the Lion's Club, or Kiwanis.

. . . the brawny German with his still-thick Germanic tongue and his U.S. citizenship papers proudly framed and on the wall. His job in the steel mill pays well, so that his family lives in a roomy, comfortable home and has good and plentiful foods to eat, with no fears of freezing or starving such as he experienced as a young boy in Europe.

. . . the Jew whose father, in the Old World, had lived with the weight of persecution and possible death over his head, and the Star of David about his arm, faithfully, though it invited certain torment. The son hardly recalls the ghetto where he spent his earliest childhood years, but his father remembers . . . The old man spent many years learning to quiet the panic in his mind and body, and he works, plays, and prays freely.

. . . the proud, spunky little Russian — or Rumanian or Hungarian — who takes his ballot and starts for the booth, smiling and remembering the one Communist party on the ballots and the massive armed guards of the "other place". A vote for government, for freedom, for happiness, — that was what he put in the ballot box.

An American is a born or naturalized citizen of the United States of America. If he is one of the many different nationalities of which America is composed, and is a legal member of the country, he is, perhaps, a more true American than one who was born here and has never known any other country, government, or way of living and so has nothing to compare his fortune to. But nearly every person in the United States has a mixture of nationalities in him.

The American, unless he is a direct descendant of American Indians, is a dark-haired, black-eyed Italian, a dark-skinned Mexican, a small-statured Chinaman, or a combination of several. His living is made by farming, factory production, baking, building, or tearing down. He prays in his Mormon tabernacle, his Jewish synagogue, or his Protestant church. He cares what happens in the government and in elections, and voices his ideas and opinions if not to a lot of people, then at least with a few of his close friends and his co-workers. On election day, he votes, and his wife votes — if not on the same party ticket, at least they are there supporting and proving that it is their America.

"Kiddies' Korner"

By Karen DeWitt, Linda Fisher

This week we interviewed the third graders. The questions concerned favorite animals, school, and older brothers and sisters.

Peggy Riester: What's your favorite animal? (Dog) What do you like about dogs? (They can be house pets.)

Bill Taher: Do you have a favorite animal, Bill? (I like elephants best.) Why? (They go fast and make a lot of noise.)

Kathy Clifton: Do you like school? (Oh, yes and no!) Is there anything special you like about school? (Oh, I like teacher and sometimes the work)

Kenny Carter: Do you have any older brothers or sisters? (Yes, two sisters.) Is there anything you like about them? (My sister buys me cokes and stuff.) What don't you like about her? (She's always hitting me.) Have you ever played a trick on her? (Uh huh, when she opens her door and comes out, I trip her with a rope and then I tie her to her bed.)

Connie Humes: Do you like school, Connie? (Yes, I guess.) What do you like about school? (Yes, I like the teachers, the work, and sometimes the kids — but not the boy in front of me.)

John Salyer: Do you have any older brothers and sisters? (Yes, three) What do you like about them? (Nothing, Oh, I guess my brother takes me fishing.) Is there anything about them that you don't like? (Whenever their friends come over, I never get to talk to them because they take them in their rooms and close the door.)

Kelly Sprouts: Is there an animal you like better than the rest? (Yes, the gorilla.) Why do you like the gorilla, Kelly? (Cause it's rough.)

Patsy Humes: Do you have any sisters or brothers older than you? (Yes, four.) What do you like about them? (Nothing.) Well, if you don't like anything about them, what do they do that you don't like? (They fight all the time.) Can you remember ever playing a trick on one of them? (No, but they play tricks on me.) Tell me one. (They say the moon's rising when it's daytime.)

Kimberly Kay Robertson: Out of all the animals in the world, what is your favorite? (The puppy) Why is this your favorite? (Cause it goes after everything you roll.)

Patty Bean: I'll bet you like school, don't you Patty? (Uh, huh.) Why do you like school? (Oh, I like Arithmetic stuff)

Donnie Mackey: How many older brothers and sisters do you have? (Three) In what way do you like your brothers and sisters? (They don't tease me as much.) Well, then what is there about them that you don't like? (Sometimes they tease me mostly.) If you ever played a trick on them, would they get mad? (Yes) Have you ever done anything like that to them? (When they're outdoors, I tell them they're wanted on the telephone, but they really aren't.)

Sandra Nicodemus: What is your favorite animal Sandra? (Cat) Why cats? (Because when you call our cat he won't come when you call him "Wink", just when you call him "Winky" 'cause that's his real name.)

Susie Mann: Do you like to go to school, Susie? (Yes) Why do you like school? (Well, because you get to go out for recess and play inside when it rains.)

Mary Beth Oldham: How many older brothers or sisters do you have Mary? (Two) What do they do that makes you like them? (I forgot) Well, can you remember anything they do that you don't like? (My sister coughs all night and I can't sleep.) Have you ever tried to play a trick on one of them? (When my sister comes home, I trip her.)

Tina Morrison: What is your favorite animal, Tina? (Dogs.) Why do you like dogs better than other animals? (You can play with them and they keep you warm.)

Terry Baker: Do you have any older brothers or sisters, Terry? (No, but I have a younger brother named Johnny.) What does he do that you like? (He plays with me.) What don't you like about him? (Nothing) Well, have you ever played a trick on him? (I hide his guns.)

Donald Crabb: If you could have any animal, what would you want? (Guinea Pig) Why do you like them? (Cause her runs around a lot and you can play with him.)

Levita Cartwright: How many older brothers and sisters do you have? (Two) Why do you like having someone older than you? (They help me with my homework) Do they do anything you don't like? (They fight me, sometimes) I'll bet you've played a trick on one of them, haven't you? (Yes, I hide their books so they can't do their homework.)

Danny Osborn: Do you have any brothers or sisters older than you? (Yes, three) When do you like them the most? (When they take me swimming.) Then, when don't you like them? (When they beat me up) Have you ever played a trick on one of them? (I can't remember)

Wayne Plant: What is your favorite animal, Wayne? (Pigs)

"Whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth" (Hebrews 12:6).

The Lesson-Sermon in Christian Science churches this Sunday points out some of the ways this statement comes true in the lives of people today. The topic is "Everlasting Punishment."

One explanation of chastening is presented from the tenets of Christian Science, as stated in "Science and Health with Key to the Scripture" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 497): "We acknowledge God's forgiveness of sin in the destruction of sin and the spiritual understanding that casts out evil as unreal. But the belief in sin is punished so long as the belief lasts."

Throughout the Lesson-Sermon, this chastening is shown to be for man's ultimate benefit, as expressed in these lines from Matthew (25:34): "Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world."

Always be on the alert for signs of spoilage in home canned foods, say Purdue University food specialists. Before opening a jar examine it closely. If there is even the slightest indication of spoilage, do not eat or even taste the contents. Dispose of the contents so that they cannot be eaten by humans or animals. Wash the empty jar in hot, soapy water and rinse. Boil in clean water for 15 minutes.

PLASTIC SHEET

A plastic drop cloth costs little, takes up a small amount of space. But if caught in a rain storm out in your boat it can keep several people dry.

THE CULVER CITIZEN

What They Wore... by PHYLLIS JOYCE

SOME FASHIONS OF THE PAST HAVE BEEN REMARKABLE FOR THEIR EXTREMES. THE FRENCH REVOLUTION WAS A PERIOD OF GREAT UNDRESS. THE MORE IMPORTANT THE WOMAN, THE MORE UNDRESSED SHE WAS. TINY JACKETS CALLED "SPENCERS" PROVIDED SUCH LITTLE PROTECTION THAT THE RESULT WAS A HIGH MORTALITY FROM PNEUMONIA.

THE RIDICULOUS FARTHINGALE REACHED ITS LIMIT WITH A WIDTH OF SIX OR EIGHT FEET AND A CIRCUMFERENCE OF 18 FEET

THE WOMEN OF THE EMPIRE PERIOD DRESSED TO HARMONIZE WITH THE ROOMS IN WHICH THEY WERE TO RECEIVE THEIR GUESTS. THERE IS A STORY THAT A CERTAIN HOSTESS, KNOWING WHAT HER RIVAL WAS GOING TO WEAR TO HER HOME FOR A PARTY, HAD THE ROOM PAPERED IN A COLOR THAT MADE THE GUEST LOOK LESS THAN ELEGANT.

Academy Sports

Culver Military Academy's football fortunes were at their lowest ebb of the season today as the Eagles attempt once more to get a winning attack going here Saturday in a 2 p.m. game with New Carlisle High School.

Already in the throes of a losing season, the Cadets had insult added to injuries last Saturday when St. John's Military Academy scored a 13-12 victory in Culver's annual homecoming contest.

The Wisconsin eleven rarely has been the victor in recent competition for the Gregory Memorial Sabre, which annually is retained by the winner, but Saturday St. John's managed to outlast its favorite rival. The defeat placed Culver's record at one victory, four defeats, and one tie.

Coach Russ Oliver's club was suffering from several key injuries, including starting quarterback Jim Vestermarck and top ground gainer Mark Thurlow, neither of whom saw action. But the game was lost in the point-after-touchdown department as St. John's roared away to two first period touchdowns, kicked one extra point, and then held off the Eagles the rest of the way.

Second string quarterback Dave Rafes got Culver moving in the second period when he crashed over from the one for the first Academy touchdown. Butch Bartlett rushed around end in the third period for a 15-yard jump that put the Eagles within one point of St. John's. But the Academy's first string center was also out on injuries, and as was the case after the first touchdown, a poor center eliminated any chance kicker Scott Dugas may have had for the extra point. Neither kick got off the ground.

The Maroon and White moved into St. John's territory late in the game, but the attempt died in the mire of Academy field. The field was a quagmire by the end of the game after an unusual day of driving rain, sleet, and light snow, that marred the Fall Festival-Homecoming Weekend.

Girl Scout News

It is that time of year when the leaves are falling and ghosts and goblins begin to fly. Yes, it is Halloween time again, which reminds Girl Scouts that Oct. 30 is Juliet Lowe's birthday. Juliet Lowe was the founder of Girl Scouts in the U.S.A.

Troop 273 had a Halloween party Monday evening, games were played and refreshments were enjoyed by all. Plans were discussed for an investiture ceremony Nov. 15.

Troop 47 have had their investiture ceremony and all mothers were present. A Halloween party with costumes was enjoyed by all Monday evening.

Troop 153 went for a Nature hike at the Town Park. A hike evaluation and plans for a Halloween party for next Monday evening were discussed.

Troop 52 had an investiture ceremony to invest Glenda Martin into the troop and to rededicate the other troop members. A Halloween party in honor of Juliet Lowe followed the ceremonies.

Troop 113 held a Scouts Own, Wednesday evening, followed by a round table discussion of plans for a Thanksgiving party.

Mrs. Larry Welsh, leader of troop 148, has been ill. We hope to see her back with us soon.

Troop 278 made Halloween masks and had a party Monday evening. Some very interesting masks that will please the best ghosts and goblins were created. A good time was enjoyed by all.

There will be an Arts Caravan, Wednesday, Nov. 3, at 2:30, at the Methodist Church. The program will dramatize international Holiday Customs and Dances and Songs from around the world. Anyone interested in attending, contact Mrs. Jack Spencer, VI 2-2423. This should be a very interesting program and we hope to have a large turn out.

Beef cows should be examined for pregnancy in August or September remind Purdue University extension veterinarians. Four veterinarian can determine whether or not they are pregnant.

TIM FRAIN INJURED IN FREAK ACCIDENT

Tim Frain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frain, 451 Forest Place, Culver, is recuperating satisfactorily at his home following a severe leg injury received Saturday, Oct. 16, while on a Boy Scout weekend campout in Faulkner's woods.

Tim received the injury while swinging on a rope attached to a tree branch which broke and caused the branch to become imbedded in the inside upper portion of his leg. The youth was admitted to Parkview Hospital where numerous stitches were required to close the wound.

Able to be about on crutches, Tim is eager to return to school soon and resume his Scout activities.
