Culver-based IB&I Featured In 150th Celebration

The Indiana Manufacturers Association today announced the sending of 1200 copies of a special Sesquicentennial edition of "Indiana Business & Industry" magazine to all Indiana high schools, colleges and universities, and public libraries as a contribution to the Indiana Sesquicentennial Commission's project to compile histories of Indiana art, music, literature, agriculture, education and industry.

The 196-page edition, published by The Culver Press, Inc., here in Culver, highlights photographs of more than 100 "first products" manufactured by Hoosier firms in business prior to 1940, the first known compilation of these industrial contributions.

According to A. C. Conde, executive vice president of the IMA, the association undertook the distribution because of its value to teachers, students and library patrons as a complete and factual record of the history and growth of Indiana industry.

"It is especially gratifying to the Indiana Manufacturers Association," said Conde, "to be able to make this contribution during our State's 150th birthday celebration."

"The research and writing that have gone into producing this magnificent record of Indiana industry will have long-lasting value as a reference source for those Hoosiers interested in the economic growth of this State," Conde said. "And many readers will be pleasantly surprised to learn of some of the very noteworthy contributions made by Indiana industry over the years."

"For example," Conde said, "Diamond Chama produced the drive chain for the Wright Brother's airplane, Arvin's first product was a tire pump and the forerunner of the General Electric Company, the Fort Wayne Jenney Electric Light Company, installed a lighting system for the first night baseball game."

Carl Zenor, executive director of the Indiana Sesquicentennial Commission, had high compliments for the magazine and the association.

"This is an outstanding contribution to the State's efforts to produce during this Sesquicentennial a library of Indiana's 'first products' as 'the gems,'" Zenor said. "The inclusion of manufacturing highlighting first products will be a most valued addition."

"On behalf of the Commission, I want to congratulate 'Indiana Business & Industry' magazine and the Indiana Manufacturers Association for this major contribution," Zenor concluded.

Ordinance Repeal Is Requested At Board Meeting

The question of the legality of Town Ordinance 177 permitting three-way beer-wine-liquor retailing was re-opened at Monday night's meeting of the Town Board. The regularly scheduled meeting had been postponed from the previous Monday, due to the absence from town of two board members.

A delegation of six women representing the Culver-Union Township Council of Churches and the W.C.T.U., whose spokesman was Mrs. W. J. MacQuillan, appeared, as did Rev. and Mrs. Lawrence White.

Mrs. MacQuillan questioned the legality of Ordinance 177 and asked the board to consider its repeal, after which a new ordinance could be introduced, published, and public hearings conducted.

Board President Ted Ervin said that, in the opinion of the counsel, the ordinance is legal and a suit which has been pending for many months challenging the legality of the ordinance has no legal merit. He said an investigation of the minutes of the Town Board meeting at which the ordinance was passed late in 1963 showed no illegal procedures. It was noted, however, that the passage was speeded by the waiving of second and third readings, and no public hearings were conducted — an unusual procedure in matters of widespread public interest.

Ervin noted that the present board members, none of whom were in office when Ordinance 177 was passed, have discussed the subject numerous times and agree that while they do not favor repeal as a solution to the problem, they would submit the question to public referendum if properly petitioned by a sufficient number of local citizens. The earliest date that such a referendum could be held will be submitted to legal counsel for an opinion.

Other routine matters and bills paying marked the board meet-

World Day Of Prayer Set For February 25

The local observance of the World Day of Prayer will convene Friday, Feb. 25, at 2 p.m. at the Culver Methodist Church.

Mrs. Evert Hoessel, program chairman, announces special music will be rendered by Mrs. James Jones and Mrs. Richard Overmyer, with Mrs. Connie Ervin at the organ and Mrs. Dollis Dillon, song leader.

Representatives from each of the seven churches in the council will present the program. There will be an attendant in the church nursery so mothers with small children may attend.

The World Day of Prayer, observed each year on the first Friday in Lent, is sponsored by United Church Women of the National Council of Churches. It is truly world-wide in character. Basically, the same service is used by groups in all the 125 participating territories, protectorates, countries, and areas of the world.

The service each year comes from a different part of the world. This provides an extraordinary opportunity for Christian fellowship at a deep level and the experience of Christian unity in prayer.

The day had its beginning in 1887 when the president of the Women's Board of Home Missions of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. called for a national day of prayer and offerings. In 1890 two Baptist women suggested an interdenominational day of prayer for foreign missions.

The Council of Women for Home Missions and the Federation of Women's Boards of Foreign Missions picked up and carried forward these two days until 1919 when they were combined into one day. Soon after, the day began to be observed in other countries and spread rapidly around the world.

When, in 1941, the two women's missions groups merged with the Federated Church Women to form the United Council of Church Women, the World Day of Prayer was assigned to this new body. It has continued since as the responsibility of United Church Women with the offerings being divided between the mission divisions of the National Council of Churches for interdenominational projects.

Mark the date of Feb. 25 on your calendar now and plan to attend the local observance of World Day of Prayer at 2 p.m. at the Methodist Church.

GMA's Sprouse Called To High Army Post

SGT. MAJOR C. B. SPROUSE

A member of the Culver Military Academy ROTC detachment has been appointed as the highest non-commissioned officer in the U.S. Army.

Sgt. Major Clarence B. Sprouse, who has taught military science at Culver for the last four years, was ordered to Washington, D.C. to fill the newly-created position of Enlisted Personnel Directorate Sergeant Major. As such, Sprouse becomes the connecting link between all sergeant majors throughout the world and the Department of the Army. Sergeant major is the highest non-commissioned rank in the Army.

Sprouse will be stationed with the personnel operations office of the Army's headquarters unit and is expected to accompany Army Chief of Staff General Harold K. Johnson on trips to Viet Nam and other parts of the world where he will confer with other sergeant majors.

Before his new appointment, Sprouse was part of a nine-man regular U.S. Army detachment responsible for instruction in military science at Culver. The detachment is commanded by Lt. Col. William D. Scruggs.

Sprouse has an outstanding record of service with the Army. He has made more than 100 parachute jumps and was the ranking sergeant major who landed with American troops in the Lebanon crisis in 1958. He is also a veteran of the Philippine campaigns during World War II and served in Korea. In 1958, Sprouse was graduated from the Seventh U.S. Army Europe Non-Commissioned Officers Academy with the highest score in the school's history. The score has never been surpassed. He holds the rank of major in the U.S. Army Reserve.

Both Sprouse and Col. Scruggs were honored at Culver recently. Sprouse received a letter of commendation from Major General Delmar T. Spivey, superintendent of Culver. Said General Spivey:

"Throughout your tour at Culver you have displayed initiative, sound leadership and excellent judgment in all areas of responsibility. Your conscientious and efficient performance of duties have contributed immeasurably to the successful operation of the ROTC program at the Academy."

Col. Scruggs was given a citation for the Army Commendation Medal for his service at Culver during which he devised a new leadership evaluation program. Col. Scruggs holds the position of professor of military science, a post which he previously held at Boston University.

Culver, the nation's largest college preparatory boarding school, offers a ROTC program to its 888 cadets.

BEAUTIFYING AMERICA

As one of America's first conservationists, George Washington is as well known for the trees associated with him, as he is for the places where he is reputed to have slept. Two pecan trees given to Washington by Thomas Jefferson in 1775 are said to be the oldest trees now standing on the Mount Vernon Estate.

Many of the original plantings have perished from the rigors of nature and neglect. Today the grounds have been completely landscaped using Washington's writings as a guide.

On this 234th anniversary of his birth it is fitting to recall his love of beautifying the landscape.

Even when steeped in the exigencies of the Convention meetings in Philadelphia, Washington took time to write "... Endeavor to keep the Willow in the Serpentine Walk upright by means of stakes, and tow yarn or grass or something else to tie them thereto that will not rub, or fret the bark . . . and have you thinned the carrots, which were too thick? . . . What have you done to the Gravel Walks?"

While many were cutting down trees indiscriminately, he cut trees only in the woodland reserved for his timber supply and fuel. At the same time he kept on planting and transplanting trees for landscaping and timber. His interest in beautifying the estate was so great that he asked for progress reports while fighting the revolutionary war.

George Washington, conservationist and forester, utilized trees in many ways — to help construct an embryonic nation — to provide fuel and to enhance the landscape, so that today Mount Vernon stands in living testimony to the harmonious relationship of man to the astute use of nature's gift — the tree.

3D INFANTRY DIV., GERMANY — Army Pvt. Walter W. Holcomb, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin H. Holcomb, Leiters Ford, participated in Exercise MARNE MAULER, an 11-day field training exercise conducted by the 3d Infantry Division in Germany, Jan. 28-Feb. 7.

The exercise provided training in tactics against an aggressor force and trained the division to support itself logistically.

French, German and U. S. air and ground forces took part as friendly and aggressor forces.

MARNE MAULER was part of a year-round program to maintain combat proficiency.

Holcomb, overseas since last October, is a tank driver in Headquarters Company of the division's 1st Battalion, 64th Armor near Kitzingen.

He entered the Army in May, 1965 and completed basic training at Fort Knox, Ky.

Holcomb worked for Essex Wire in Akron before entering the Army.

SAN DIEGO, CALIF. (FHTNC) Feb. 3 — Marine Private Donald M. Bowen, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Vernie Bowen of Leiters Ford, Ind., received a Marksmanship Award during graduation ceremonies at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif.

Private Bowen received his award for being the high shooter in his platoon on the rifle range. He fired a score of 218x250.

MARCH 1 IS APPLICATION DEADLINE FOR ROTC SCHOLARSHIPS

A March 1 deadline for applications for full-tuition university scholarships offered by the Army is nearing, Col. Thomas R. Bruce, professor of military science at Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind., reminded Indiana high school youths today.

He said that the top high school students in the state should consider the scholarship plan which pays full tuition, fees, books and a $50-a-month allowance. Upon graduation, the student will spend four years as an Army officer.

The Army offers 400 four-year scholarships nationwide and Purdue is one of 247 colleges participating in the program. There are also 600 similar scholarships available for junior-college transfers and others who wish an Army commission through the ROTC program upon graduation.

Selection for scholarship recipients is based on ability; financial need is not a basis for selection, Col. Bruce said.

More information can be obtained from Col. Bruce at Purdue or by writing to ROTC Scholarships, U. S. Fifth Army, 1660 E. Hyde Park Blvd., Chicago, Ill. 60615.

TAX REFUNDS NOT AUTOMATIC

You will not receive an automatic refund of tax withheld from your wages unless you file a tax return, said James E. Daly, District Director of Internal Revenue for Indiana.

Many taxpayers believe that when the tax withheld is more than the tax liability, the overpayment automatically will be refunded to them by the government.

Although no tax return is required when the gross income received during the year is less than $600, Mr. Daly said that a return must be filed to obtain a refund of the tax withheld.

This advice is particularly applicable to students and other taxpayers who worked only a part of the year.

Forms 1040 and 1040A must be filed by everyone under 65 years of age whose gross income for 1965 is $600 or more. If the taxpayer is 65 years or older, a return is required only if the total income amounts to $1,200 or more.

Maxinkuckee Homes: A Family-Tailored Homes Brand Name Builder

Charles E. Edgington of Maxinkuckee Homes signs on the dotted line to participate as a Family-Tailored Homes dealer in the Culver area. Helping to seal the contract is Jim Price of National Homes Corporation, and a "stand-in" Johnny Carson, who will advertise these new homes on his NBC-TV network show.

As a Family-Tailored Homes dealer, Maxinkuckee Homes becomes one of the select group of builders in 42 states who will sell the homes. The brand name program was developed following extensive research to determine housing features most desired by consumers. The program creates the first brand name in the housing industry and each home has a five-year written warranty on components supplied by National Homes Corporation.

SESQUICENTENNIAL SCRAPBOOK

By J. M. Guthrie
ASSISTANT DIRECTOR
Indiana Sesquicentennial Commission

Sesquicentennial Scrapbook mat. SHOO FLY

Children of today have no conception of the murderous houseflies that once were the bane of every home, store, church and place frequented by man.

Perhaps someday the housefly may be eradicated — indeed great strides have been made, but most people living in Indiana today cannot possibly know the insect scourge that men endured here as late as three decades ago.

Flies, just a few generations ago, were looked upon with some sentimental sympathy! The insect was said by some to be nature's scavenger, without whose services the world would become too odoriferous and unhealthful for human habitation. (Some people just have to find something good about everything.)

There was even published a goody-goody story about the kind little girl who would tenderly pick drowning flies out of milk jars and put them in the oven to dry out their little, shiny, gossamer wings. The counterpart to this story was about the cruel boy who was detested by all because he took delight in killing these pesky but otherwise "harmless" creatures.

All that has changed. Nowadays, the fly killer is backed up by the public and great strides have been made to rid Indiana of this ugly, deadly pest, end product of the maggot.

There was a time when there were no screens and not even netting or mosquito bar to spread over openings in homes and flies swarmed around in little clouds. There was no escaping; they were simply endured by all. There are stories of infants' faces so covered with flies that they flew in the mouths and nostrils and babies suffocated.

In days when horse stables were in every back alley and on every farm, flies bred by the billions. Until screening was invented and within the financial reach of the majority, there was nothing to do but live with flies.

They were the uninvited guests at every feast and while generally discouraged, could not be eliminated until the coming of insecticides and a more enlightened populace.

Pitched battles were fought with flies and some of the methods of humans in the wars are worthy of mention.

The fly brush was once a part of every home's equipment. This might be a great tassel of paper cut into ribbons and fastened to a pole, or it might just be a bough from a peach tree. Someone was detailed at meal time to wave the "brush" above the heads of eaters and keep flies from: 1. being consumed or 2. consuming too much food. Perhaps this didn't help diners much but it annoyed the flies and kept them buzzing elsewhere. Food left on the table for the next meal was covered by a cloth to keep flies from devouring it.

In public places like restaurants, there were fringes of paper suspended from ceilings. The supposition must have been that flies would be annoyed by breezes stirring these paper ribbons or if there were no drafts, the flies might be attracted to roost on the paper instead of on humans and their chattels. It didn't work but the fringing survived for many years.

Flytraps, built on the theory that flies could find their way into a cone but not out of it, worked well to catch them by the scores and probably resulted in the reduction of one one-hundredth part of a trillion of the pest's population. Many places, especially farms, had fly traps of this design around, some in great quantity. Flies were attracted into these traps by bait of many kinds. They're still available, incidentally, and we see one once in a while.

Poison paper could be bought or made. It was left around in saucers filled with some sweetened water and it worked. But dead flies had to be gathered up before the chickens ate many of them — else dead chickens. Also little fellers and pets around the premises might try eating poisoned, sweet-tasting paper, so this method was not too popular.

Paper cut in strips and pasted across the top of jelly glasses was another device used in fly warfare. Glasses were filled with soapy water, the underside of the paper was coated with molasses and Mr. Fly got his wings wet in the narrow space under the bait. Of course, it took a housewife's time preparing these ingenious traps and then keeping them emptied of fly carcasses but it worked.

Boys liked the gunpowder method best, perhaps, as it offered more sport than most others. Two long parallel strings of molasses were pored down a board and between them was run a train of gunpowder. When hordes of flies had gathered about the sweet stuff a match touched to the gunpowder resulted in a fantastic slaughter of flies. But this was cruelty —

An ancient pioneer device was made of two boards hinged together and arranged so that when one was pulled by a string, they would slap together smartly and smash the bait (and flies) in between. Housewives and others, in the course of daily work could, from time to time, pull the strings of these devices suspended in each room and slay thousands.

Flypaper came into its own eventually and in time was seen everywhere. No respectable home or business house was without it. It came in ribbons to be suspended from above or was available in sheets to be spread around on tables, shelves, chifferobes and windowsills. It was yellow and sticky and a horrible black mess after a few days. Cats had trouble with fly paper. It's still used in many places.

In time man learned something about flies, particularly how very dangerous they are, so steps were taken to eliminate them. With the passing of the horse and the old family milk cow, the outhouse and manure pile, the coming of screening, sanitation and knowledge concerning such things, the fly population suffered considerable decline.

The wonder is, how did mankind survive and not become total "victims of the blue tail fly?"

Home Economics Essay Contest Open To Home Ec Senior Students

James Rabb of the Rabb Lindsay Soft Water Company, 209 E. Jefferson St., Plymouth, urges all local high school senior home economics students to participate in an essay competition that offers a grand prize of a $1,000.00 scholarship and an all-expense paid trip to San Francisco.

"It isn't often that there is a contest especially developed for home economics students and their teachers where the chances of a local student winning are so very great", said Mr. Rabb.

The essay competition has just been announced to home economics classes by the Water Conditioning Foundation of Glenview, Ill. The subject of essays to be submitted by students concerns the importance of quality water as it pertains to homemaking tasks.

James Rabb, the local representative of The Lindsay Company of St. Paul, Minn., leading manufacturer of water conditioning equipment, has offered to assist local home economics students and their teachers with information on soft, conditioned water and why it is so essential to the modern homemaker.

Said Mr. Rabb, "These home economics students are learning techniques and methods to apply in their parents' homes now and their own homes when they become homemakers. Many of them will adapt their knowledge to jobs in industry. Their understanding of the many benefits and advantages of soft, conditioned water and how such quality water contributes to better living, will give them a chance to win a $1,000.00, prize plus a trip to the home economics convention in San Francisco this summer."

Students who desire additional information on the importance of quality water can contact the Lindsay dealer at 209 E. Jefferson St., Plymouth, (phone 936-4805) for literature and further help. The competition closes April 21. On or about May 19, the Water Conditioning Foundation of Glenview, Ill., will announce the names of the students who have won the prizes as follows:

- 1st prize — $1,000.00 Scholarship, plus trip to American Home Economics Association Annual Meeting for student and her teacher;
- 2nd Prize — $500.00 U. S. Government Bond;
- 3rd Prize — $100.00 U. S. Government Bond;
- 4th Prize — $25.00 U. S. Government Bond;
- 5th Prize — $25.00 U. S. Government Bond;
- 6th-50th Prizes — honorable mentions.

"Vedette" Editor To Attend National Education Conference

A Culver Military Academy senior has been chosen to represent the State of Indiana at the National High School Youth conference on Education in Washington, D.C., Feb. 23-25.

He is Ronald Terrazas, editor of the student newspaper at Culver, "The Vedette," and a high-ranking student academically. Terrazas has attended Culver on scholarship for four years and is from Albuquerque, N.M.

The selection of the Academy senior was made by the Institute for Development of Educational Activities (IDEA), which will pay all of Terrazas' expenses to attend the conference. During the three days in Washington, Terrazas will meet with outstanding students from throughout the nation to discuss new concepts in education.

Terrazas recently directed his staff of student editors in a special issue of "The Vedette" devoted entirely to education. The issue was entitled "Schools Today — Much Ado About Something," and it was during his research that Terrazas contacted Dr. B. Frank Brown, principal of Melbourne (Fla.) High School, which has received nation-wide attention during the last two years for its experimentation in conducting an "ungraded" secondary school program. Dr. Brown is also director of information and services for IDEA, and he became sufficiently interested in the newspaper's special issue to invite Terrazas to apply as an Indiana representative to the conference.

In the special issue of the student newspaper, Terrazas and student editors discussed such topics as: student involvement today — resolution vs. revolution, the student protest movement, independent study program, the increasing number of students in graduate programs, the increasing tendency towards specialization at an earlier age, and why more students are going abroad to study. The issue is the fifth time in recent years the student newspaper at Culver has been devoted to reporting on a serious topic in depth.

Zoom! Pant, pant! Hi! Here we are again. We just received another bagful of goodies from batman and his associates and we're ready to expose it! Here goes.

Juniors, why the glum look? Oh, it's that time of year, huh? Well, good luck with your term reports — and have fun!?!

Our spies reported that Marsha, Cindy, and Pat had a private little party up in the library the other night. Sorry to expose you girls, but it's our duty. You'll still have each other as friends.

This is a notice to all single, available, and daring girls who do not have street lights near their house — contact Larry Butler.

Cupid has been sneakin' through the halls of CHS early this year. He seems to be getting a better aim from the looks of things. Kitty & Terry C., Paula & Phil, Susie & Bruce, Elaine & Kerry, Holly & Mike Y. (from O.D.), and a lot of others are on his list of prey. I'm sure. Beware!

Mike Van Horn, what's this we hear about you having a mad crush on Kathy Banks? (and you so young!) Just goes to show our spies are active in every grade. No one can escape the sharp eyes of the TP kids.

It seems Cindy L. had quite the interesting date last weekend. In fact, the guy was so "hung" on listening to her that he wants to see her again. You'll have to ask Cindy what she thinks of him. How about it Cin?

Linda B., why is it you can't stand boys who don't know how to make up their minds — ever? Oh, you say there's no problem now. Glad to hear it.

If by chance you happened in the library last Tuesday night and saw all the Seniors there, you probably thought they were having some kind of a class meeting. Maybe the fact that Mr. Lawsons' maps were due the next day had something to do with it.

Randy, how are ya feeling? Hope you've thoroughly recuperated from your accident — the Indians need you!

Barb, whose letters did you bring to school last week? I know one person who might object to making his letters public.

Karen D., we hear you got a bad bruise Monday night? How did it happen? — What on earth were you climbing over, a fence and a wall????

Poor Johnny K. must really be hurting for the "green stuff". Now he even steals it from innocent (?) little girls. Let's all contribute to the "Johnny get rich" fund so those poor little girls won't have to wear padlocks on their purses.

Hey, girls, was the situation so pressing in Viet Nam that you had to call Mr. Crabb at 12:30 at night? How about it Patti!

It seems Marlene Morrison had trouble with the gas tank Monday. Running out of gas once is bad, but twice??? Well, at least you got a good walk out of it.

Band Members Play In Contest

By Bob Shirrell

On Saturday, Feb. 5th, 41 members of the CHS Senior Band and the CJHS Junior Band traveled to Argos High School for the annual solo and ensemble instrumental contest. The group, as a whole, did very well.

Of the 35 soloists and ensembles, 14 received firsts, 15 received seconds, and six received thirds. These high placings show that a lot of hard work was done by each individual and by Mr. Fouts, the director.

One soloist and one ensemble entered group one and received a first and will be going on to the state instrumental contest at Indianapolis. The soloist was Andrea Siple who plays the bassoon and George Jewell (baritone), Dave Kelly (cornet), Andy Lowry (cornet), and Stu Lowry (trombone) who played in an ensemble. To play in group one and receive a first is one of the highest honors given to high school musicians.

To participate as a soloist, a contestant must first choose a piece of music to play which is not too far above his musical ability. Then he must achieve complete fluency in playing the piece. Last, and perhaps hardest of all, the soloist must then memorize the complete sheet of music.

Then, on contest day, the contestant travels to the contest center where he performs his solo in front of an audience and a judge. The judge grades the participant's performance and gives him a rating. But whatever rating the contestant receives he will come back a better player with more musical ability than he had when he started to work on his solo.

Soloists in group one were (following each name is the rating): Andrea Siple I, Cathy Welsh II.

Soloists in group two were: Judy Thews I, Jim Easterday I, Beth Routson I, Stu Lowry I, Virginia Shidler I, Brenda McAllister II, Carin Manchester II, Joyce Odle III, Dave Kelly III, Danny Scott III.

Soloists in group three were: Carol Kline I, Lyle Whybrew II, Tom Vondra II, Lois Newcomb II, Vicki Clifton III.

Soloists in group four were: Billy Napier III, Mike Van Horn III.

Ensembles in group one were: 14 (Andy Lowry, George Jewell, Dave Kelly, Stu Lowry) I.

Ensembles in group two were: No. 8 (Carin Manchester, Linda Shirrell) I, No. 7 (Carin Manchester, Karen Banks) I, No. 13 (Danny Scott, Dave Beauchamp) II.

Ensembles in group three were: No. 12 (Kathy Tasch, Norma Davis, Debbie Triplet) I, No. 6 (Lois Newcomb, Cathy Welsh, Virginia Shidler, Steve Kelly) I, No. 11 (Kathy Tasch, Norma Davis, Debbie Triplet, Linda Shirrell) I, No. 10 (Debbie Triplet, Norma Davis) II, No. 15 (Beth Routson, Carol Kline, Jim Taber, Jim Easterday) II.

Ensembles in group four were: No. 9 (Margaret Ruhnow, Anita Witowicz, Jan Shock) II, No. 2 (Pam Thompson, Carole Zehner, Ginny Thews) II, No. 3 (Ginny Thews, Carole Zehner, Margaret Ruhnow) II, No. 4 (Fred May, Connie Morrison, Alan Huys) II, No. 5 (Fred May, Alan Huys) II, No. 1 (Jan Price, Lynne Langlois, Wendy Nelson) II.

Attend Church EVERY Sunday

"Guess Who"

By Guess Who

This week we trailed one of those popular members of the 'CLASS OF '66'. She's blonde and has blue eyes. Her favorite color is also blue. She's about 5'7" and usually hangs around with the "gang". She laughs and smites a lot and is very active in most school activities, being a member of S.S.S., Schoolbell, band, and pep block.

A typical day in her life begins with a brisk walk to school, where first period she has studyhall. After that she travels to Economics where she converses with anyone who'll talk to her. Third period she has Sec. Practice where she busies herself talking — oops typing. Fourth period she attempts her own version of the 'Atom Bomb in Chemistry. During the noon hour she "messes around" in the hall in front of the office, then 2 minutes before the bell rings rushes down to band for fifth period, but she's usually on time — I said usually. Sixth period she is in Miss Charlton's English 12 class, where she listens with one ear to Miss Charlton, while trying to hold a conversation with the boys behind her. The last period she usually slaves at trying to get the SCHOOLBELL together on time.

It was just too tough to figure out, but if you haven't guessed by now, our mighty senior is Judy Thews.

Students Attend CMA Convocation

By Loretta Berger

Friday, Feb. 4th, the county schools again had the privilege of being guests at the Culver Military Academy for a convocation. We were entertained by the DeCormier Folk Singers, formerly known as the Belafonte Singers. The group consisted of both male and female voices, all of which were fabulous. They sang such songs as "Where Have All The Flowers Gone" and "A-men". The singers sang "A-men" twice: the second time asking their audience to join in. All the students that were there will surely agree that it was a very enjoyable afternoon!

Since everyone's new hero seems to be "BATMAN", we went to the first graders and asked them a few questions about him. As you will see, most of them think he's great!

Ricky Warner: (Do you like Batman?) Hmmm I don't know. I just watch him when the Munsters are on. Sometimes I don't watch him. Yeah I like him. (Would you join the Batman Club?) Well, maybe.

Susan Oldham: (Do you like Batman?) Yeah. (What do you like best about him?) I don't know. (Why do you watch him?) I like it. (Would you join the Batman Club?) I don't know. (Do you like his car?) Yeah! I don't like him as much as the Munsters.

James Napier: (Do you watch Batman?) Sometimes. (What do you like best about him?) His car. (Would you like to be a Batman when you grow up?) I don't know. (Do you like Batman better than Superman?) Yes. My Mom won't let me watch it but I watch it at the Wolverton's when we go there.

Christi Dan: (Do you like Batman?) Yes. (What do you like best about him?) (thoughtful look) Hmmm. (Do you like Robin?) Yes. (Why?) (more thinking) (Would you join the Batman Club?) No. (Why?) I don't know. (Do you like Batman better than Superman?) Yes.

Scott M.: (Do you like Batman?) Yeah. (Why?) I don't know. (What do you like best about him?) (he shrugs) (Would you join the Batman Club?) yes, I am you do-do.

Susan Campbell: (Do you like Batman?) No! (Why not?) (What do you like to watch?) the Munsters.

Jimmie Hansen: (Do you like Batman?) I never watch him. (What do you watch?) The Adams Family. (Do you like Superman better?) I don't watch him either.

A new play depicting the life of the late Indiana war correspondent Ernie Pyle will be performed for the first time at 8:15 p.m. Friday, Feb. 18, at Culver Military Academy.

Entitled "The Vagabond From Indiana," the play was written by Harvey Firari, an Academy English instructor, and will be directed by William J. Martin, holder of the Hough Family Chair of Fine Arts at Culver.

The production will be given in Eugene C. Eppley Auditorium and is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

Written as part of Indiana's sesquicentennial observance this year, the play originally was to have been a concert reading but was changed into a full-fledged play by Martin. The production is unusual in that while Firari has staged actors on stage to read many of the writings of Pyle, he has also utilized various film projectors, tape recorders, and other effects to dramatize the action of World War II.

"To bring Ernie Pyle to the stage," says Martin, "Firari has utilized virtually every aspect of visual communication possible. The production is not a play in the usual sense but rather a documentary in which Firari has used Pyle's own words and transformed them into form and structure that can be used on the stage."

To reproduce World War II as background to Pyle's writings, Director Martin dug back into thousands of still pictures. He also clipped and spliced more than 1,000 feet of combat films from among 14 reels donated to the Academy by Harrison Culver, St. Louis, a member of the board of directors of The Culver Educational Foundation.

In his version of many aspects of Pyle's life, the playwright raises a question of whether or not the Hoosier war correspondent was death prone.

"The more I lived with Pyle's writings, the more I began to sense that an attraction-repulsion theme was central to his life and writings. Pyle seemed to be drawn into situations, before and during the war, that jeopardized his life. Nothing compelled him to live on the brink of death," says Firari, "yet he chose by his own volition to invite a quick death. Eventually, that's what he got." Pyle was killed in the Pacific in 1945.

The play casts 20 Academy students, one coed, and two faculty wives, and is the seventh Firari play to be produced by Martin at Culver. Martin also produced Firari's play "Endiken at Reetchie" at Cambridge last summer when Martin was a member of the Harvard University drama staff. Firari is a former winner of the William Morris Agency Fellowship at the Yale University Drama School.

1966 Easter Seal Child For Indiana Is Kay Slickers

KAY SLICKERS

She was selected for the honor by the Women's Civic Club of Indianapolis. Kay will visit Trade Winds Rehabilitation Center in Gary, Ind., accompanied with the State Easter Seal Chairman U. S. Senator Birch Bayh to launch the annual appeal of the Indiana Societies for Crippled Children and Adults which opens March 1.

A popular junior high student, Kay is familiar with confinement and handicaps, for she is the victim of a congenital hip and curvature of the spine. This determined, ever-smiling 13-year-old received her handicapping condition at birth, but with the aid of braces and crutches she is ambulatory. Her friendly personality has made her one of the most popular youngsters receiving treatment with the Tippecanoe County Easter Seal Society. Since she possesses energy in large amounts, she has learned to walk amazingly well, and under her doctor's suggestion has taken exercises to strengthen the muscles of her legs.

Kay has two brothers, Randall, 19, a student at Wabash College, and Mark, 17, a senior at Lafayette-Jefferson High School, and a younger sister, Margo, age 9, a 4th grader.

Under the firm guidance of her mother, Kay has assumed certain responsibilities at home, the same as any other 13-year-old. She has an artistic flair and enjoys and plays the piano well. Kay has already demonstrated her adaptability to all school activities, with her friendliness and ready wit. With the security and influence of a close and affectionate family, and her proved intellectual capacity, Kay should, in every way, find her rightful place in the world.

FEDERAL TAX

Q — My son went to work last fall after his graduation. Can we still claim him as a dependent? He is unmarried and lives at home.

A — If you have provided more than one half his support for the year, you may be able to claim him as a dependent. In addition to this support test, if he earned $600 or more during the year, then he had to be under 19 at the end of the year, or else have been a full time student for some part of each of 5 months during the year.

Q — When a husband and wife file separately can the husband ever claim his wife as a dependent?

A — No. Under the law husbands and wives are not considered each other's dependents. On a separate return you may claim the exemption for your wife, however, if she had no gross income and was not the dependent of another taxpayer.

E.U.B. Larger Parish Sponsors Spiritual Crusade February 20-27

EDNA B. HUGHES

The Burr Oak, Hibbard and Culver Emmanuel Evangelical United Brethren Churches which are the Culver E.U.B. Larger Parish will sponsor a parish wide Spiritual Crusade beginning Sunday evening, Feb. 20 and continuing each evening through Sunday, Feb. 27, at 7:30 p.m. at the Emmanuel Church in Culver.

Edna B. Hughes, an ordained elder in the Southeast Ohio Conference of the Evangelical United Brethren Church, will be the evangelist. She will direct an unusual Bible Study each evening at 7 and will conduct Children's Meetings for boys and girls of school age and up to 12 years of age.

Rev. Hughes had been a very successful evangelist in E.U.B. Churches located in northern Indiana as well as in many other parts of the country. At least five ministers of Indiana Conference North were converted or felt called to the ministry through her ministry.

On Saturday evening, Feb. 19, at 6:30 all members and friends of the three churches are to meet together for a fellowship meeting and potluck supper. Members will have opportunity to get acquainted with Mrs. Hughes and will make final plans for the week of meetings which will begin on Sunday. "FAMILY-TAILORED HOMES" NOW AVAILABLE LOCALLY FROM MAXINKUCKEE HOMES

Charles E. Edgington of Maxinkuckee Homes has signed a contract to participate as a "Family-Tailored Homes" dealer in the Culver area.

Edgington and James R. Price, chairman of the board of National Homes Corporation, are shown signing the contract in the two-column ad of Maxinkuckee Homes found elsewhere in this issue of The Citizen.

"Stand-in" Johnny Carson will soon advertise these new homes on his NBC-TV network show.

As a "Family-Tailored Homes" dealer, Maxinkuckee Homes becomes one of a select group of builders in 42 states who will sell these homes.

The brand name program was developed following extensive research to determine housing features most desired by consumers.

The program creates the first brand name in the housing industry and each home has a five-year written warranty on components supplied by National Homes Corporation.

FEDERAL TAX

Q - I just sold my home. What should we include when working out the cost basis and the sales price?

A - The cost of the house to you would be the initial purchase price plus the cost of permanent improvements you have made, purchase commissions, title fees and the like less any deferred gain on a home previously sold. From your selling price you can deduct selling commissions, advertising fees and similar costs incurred in transferring the property.

Form 2119, "Statement Concerning Sale or Exchange of Personal Residence," will be of great help to you in calculating any tax liability. Write your District Director for a copy. Also, ask for a copy of Document No. 5017 - "Selling Your Home."

The February story hour birthdays were celebrated. Nancy Bauer and Barney Smart were the birthday children. Two stories were read and sound effects were made by the group, the stories were "Big ball of string" and "Let Papa sleep". "Little Red Riding Hood" was acted out by volunteers from the group. The characters were as follows: Red Riding Hood, Mary Lou Langenbahn; Grandmother, Nancy Bauer; Wolf, Donnie Zehner; Woodchopper, Craig Winter; The group enjoyed this type of participation and more is planned for future story hours. Heart candy and cookies were served as a gift of Mrs. Bernard Smith and Mrs. Karl Master. Valentine exchange concluded the activities. 59 children attended. Also, Abe Lincoln and George Washington were discussed and their special days were noted.

Mr. Franklin accompanied the 5th and 6th grade to the library on Monday but their lesson was canceled due to illness of many of the group. They plan to attend again soon to study the Dewey Decimal system.

On Tuesday, Feb. 8, Mrs. Claire Zehner, Mrs. Sarah Baker, and Mrs. Mabel Kupka attended the Northern Indiana Administrator's meeting at South Bend.

A long, hard winter can do a lot of damage to streets and highways, according to the Chicago Motor Club. Watch out for the rough spots. A break in the pavement can be dangerous.
