Seniors Begin Annual Magazine Drive Sept. 9

Culver Citizen Also Included

Culver High School's Senior Class of 1967 opens their busy senior year with their annual magazine drive which gets underway on Friday, Sept. 9.

Subscriptions for The Culver Citizen will also be sold along with a wide selection of magazines.

A chance will be offered to Culverites to subscribe to their favorite publications when members of the Senior Class will make personal calls to the homes of Culver and rural homes in the area surrounding Culver.

This annual magazine project helps stimulate a spirit of cooperation among the members of the faculty and the student leaders and their fellow classmates. It also serves to give the seniors, through their sales efforts, an opportunity to develop and increase self-confidence in their own abilities.

This magazine drive is one of the final financial projects for the 1967 Senior Class and one of the most important of their high school fund raising efforts. All of the proceeds from the drive help pay for the educational trip which the class will take during Spring vacation.

The faculty and seniors will appreciate your support of this annual subscription drive.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Mrs. Blanche Wooldridge was admitted to Memorial Hospital, where she was scheduled to undergo surgery on Tuesday morning.

Harry Schall, 611 Church St., Culver, was taken to Parkview Hospital at Plymouth Monday morning for observation and treatment.

SAVINGS BONDS REPORT

Harold E. Rose, chairman of The Marshall County U. S. Savings Bond's Committee, has received a report revealing that the County's Savings Bonds sales for July were $47,696 compared with $94,846 for the corresponding period of last year. The State's sales for July were $11,686,544 which is a gain of 5.17 per cent compared with last July.

Fifty-four of the State's 92 counties reported sales gains for the month compared with sales of July 1965.

Graduates From Nursing School

MISS KATHRYN TEACH

Miss Kathryn Marie Teach, daughter of A. R. Teach of Keenan Road, Florissant, Mo., and Mrs. Ellen Teach of Rochester, Ind., former Culver residents, was graduated from Barnes Hospital School of Nursing, St. Louis, Mo., during the graduation program Thursday night, Aug. 25, at St. John's Methodist Church in St. Louis.

Miss Teach was given the award for outstanding achievement in nursing theory which is sponsored by the Barnes Hospital Women's Auxiliary and is a cash award of $50.

Pam White Wins State 4-H Grand Champion Honors

Pam White, the Starke County Fair 4-H Horse and Rider Grand Champion, went to the State Fair and garnered the State 4-H Grand Champion Western Pleasure Horse Plaque against 42 other County Champions. The State Finals were held in the Fair Coliseum at Indianapolis Friday afternoon and Friday night Aug. 26, and was reported to be the largest 4-H Horse and Pony turnout in State Fair history.

Pam is a member of the Starke County 4-H Horse and Pony Club and was in her first year of 4-H competition. She was riding her quarter horse, Kim Rea, which she trained from a two-year-old.

Two weeks before the State Fair, Pam fell from a pony and broke her collar bone and was supposed to keep her arm in a sling. She worked her horse for just a week before the Show and refused to carry her arm in the sling during the State Fair showing.

Pam resides at the Lightning Dude Ranch at Bass Lake with her parents, Ced and Rosemary White. Pam is 12 years old.

CONTRACTS LET FOR BOILER REHABILITATION OF CULVER SCHOOLS

The Board of Trustees of the Culver Community School Corporation met Monday evening, Aug. 29, to take action on bids for the boiler rehabilitation of the Culver Schools.

The Valparaiso Plumbing Co. was awarded an actual contract for the boiler rehabilitation for a sum of $29,864.00.

Contract for the roof of the boiler plant went to Culver's Russell Easterday Construction Co. for a total of $985.00.

Contract for the chimney work went to the Chimney Engineering Service of St. Louis, Mo., in the amount of $1,480.00.

NOTICE

The Culver Citizen will not be published next week, Sept. 8, as The Culver Press, Inc. will be closed for vacation from Sept. 3 to Sept. 10.

Named Academic Dean At Academy

JOHN F. EDGELL

John F. Edgell, a member of the faculty since 1939, has been appointed an academic dean at Culver Military Academy, Major General Delmar T. Spivey, USAF (ret.), superintendent, has announced today.

Edgell will serve as one of two assistant deans in the academic office under the direction of Dean of the Academy Ernest B. Benson, General Spivey said. He replaces the late Walter G. Roberts, who served in that capacity until his unexpected death April 9.

In his new position, Edgell's major area of responsibility will be to assist in the college counseling of the senior and junior classes. He is expected to be involved in other academic matters, however.

Edgell is a master instructor in English and has been a classroom teacher since his appointment to the faculty in 1939. In 1957 he was named a counselor of Company B, an organization of about 70 students. He is also president-elect of Northern Indiana Chapter of the American Personnel and Guidance Association.

Along with Winter School duties, Edgell has served since 1955 as director of studies for the Culver Summer Schools at a time when an increased number of students took academic subjects while enrolled in the recreational summer program. During the past summer, more than 90 percent of Culver's enrollment of 1,781 boys and girls took part in the academic program under Edgell's supervision.

A native of Brooklyn, Edgell majored in English and history as an undergraduate at Amherst (Mass.) College. He has a master's degree from Columbia University, and has done graduate work at Teachers College, Columbia; Harvard University, The University of Birmingham, England; Indiana and Indiana State universities.

DOG STRIKES IT RICH

In Finland, a German shepherd dog has been trained to smell out ore deposits, reports American Machinist, McGraw-Hill publication. In a competition between the dog and the human prospector, the dog found almost five times as many rocks of interest as the man. The Finnish government has awarded the talented dog $2,240.

Large Crowd Participated Sunday In Fish & Game Club's Fish Derby

Shown above is Lu Ann Bydalek, first place winner in the nine to 11-year age group, who was awarded the pictured bicycle for her catch of the largest fish, a 20-inch carp.

The Maxinkuckee Fish & Game Club held their Fish Derby Sunday, Aug. 28, at the Fish Hatchery located on State Road 10, west of Culver.

Approximately 80 young fishermen enjoyed the event. They were divided into two classes of four to eight year-old and nine to 11 years of age. Each group was given 15 minutes to fish, and the fishermen were also permitted to take their "catch" home with them.

The winners of the four to eight year-olds were: 1. Largest fish: Tony Wakefield, 9¼-inch perch; 2. Most caught: Sandy Wakefield, 12 fish; 3. Largest bluegill: Tim Osborn, 8¾-inch; 4. Largest perch: Keith Eskridge, 8½-inch; and 5. Smallest fish: Jackie Sanders, 2¼-inch bluegill.

Winners in the nine to 11-year age group were: 1. Largest fish: Lu Ann Bydalek, 20-inch carp; 2. Most caught: Barbara Spencer, 6 fish; 3. Largest bass: Bob Ervin, 16¾-inch; and 4. Largest bluegill: Charles Wakefield, 7¾-inch.

Many Culver and Burr Oak merchants donated prizes or money to buy prizes. Donations totaled enough to fill two long picnic tables and it was a pleasure to watch the young fishermen "window shopping" before the Derby began. Prizes included rods, reels, watches, footballs, wagons, cameras, a bicycle, candy bars, etc.

All boys and girls present went home with a prize whether they landed a fish or not.

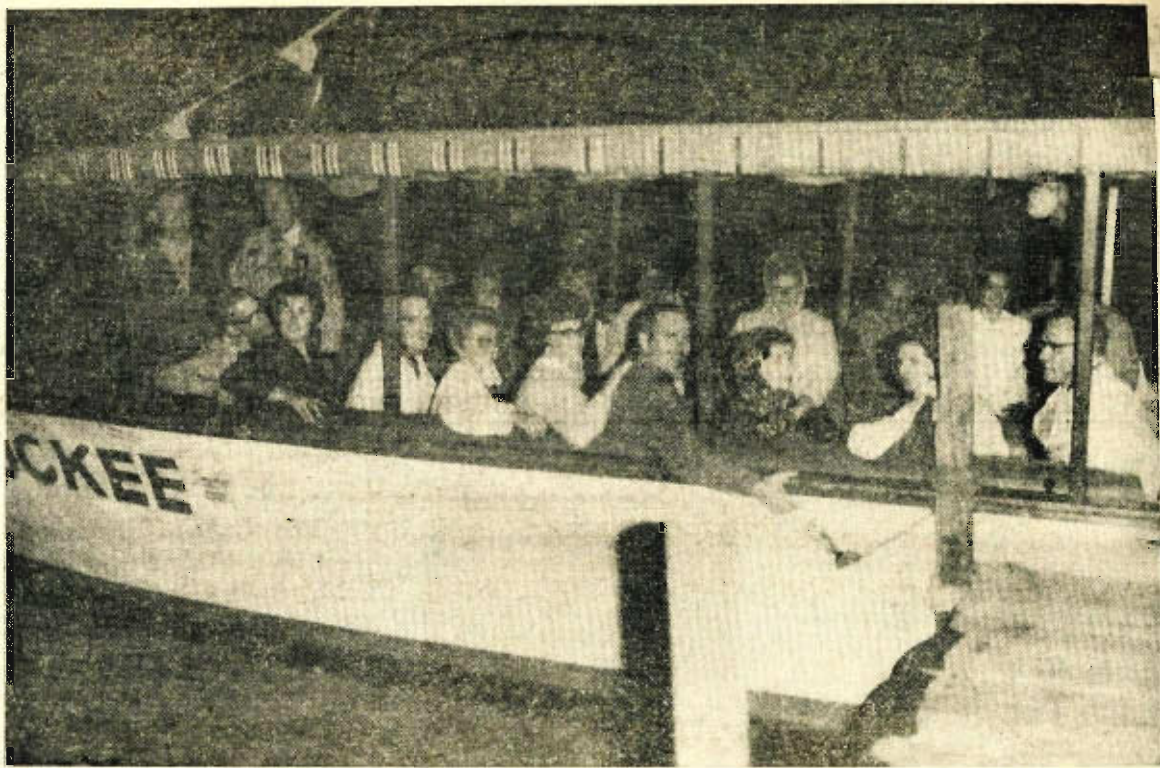

The Coca Cola Bottling Company donated cokes for everyone to enjoy.

ATTENDS FRATERNITY GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Larry R. Linhart, Route 2, Culver, was among the nearly 500 persons attending the General Assembly of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity which opened Saturday at French Lick, Ind.

The four-day convention brought together Lambda Chi members representing 168 chapters and colonies from college and university campuses in the United States and Canada, according to Cyril F. Flad, Indianapolis, executive director of the organization.

Highlighting the convention was a banquet talk by Little Rock, Ark., Juvenile Judge Mary Burt Nash. Other speakers included Dr. Lee F. Tuttle, Lake Junaluska,

N.C., national president of Lambda Chi and secretary of the World Methodist Council, and Dr. W. Charles Redding, Lafayette, Ind., professor of speech and director of the Communications Research Center, Purdue University.

for the program in which Rayna Reinholt and Diane Davis told of their Alaskan Mission trip and showed their slides. Several from the Poplar Grove and Santa Anna churches were present.

Twelve men, eight women and five children gathered at the church Tuesday for a general work meeting. The exterior of the church and fence posts surrounding it were painted and all floors were cleaned and waxed and general house cleaning done to the interior. A potluck dinner was enjoyed at noon. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Stotler treated the group to ice cream after the completion of the work in the afternoon. Not only was the work done but good fellowship was enjoyed.

store in the back country. While his car was being serviced, he noticed an old-timer basking in the sun and holding a short piece of rope. The tourist walked over to him and asked, "What have you there?"

"This is a weather gauge, sonny."

"How can you possibly tell the weather with a piece of rope," the tourist asked.

"It's simple, sonny," was the droll answer. "When the rope swings back and forth, it's windy, and when it gets wet, it's raining."

NORTHERN INDIANA Public Service COMPANY

Lady Aeronautical Engineer Is Graduate Of C.H.S.

(Editor's Note: The following is a reprint from The Press-Courier of Camarillo, Calif., concerning Mrs. Irene Hofer, the former Irene Tasch of Culver. Mrs. Hofer, a 1949 graduate of Culver High School, is the daughter of Mrs. Charlotte Tasch of Culver.

"Mrs. Irene Hofer of Camarillo probably has more trouble keeping her ironing caught up than she does plotting safe trajectories and impact areas for many of the U.S. military missiles launched at Point Mugu.

A graduate of Purdue University with a BS in aeronautical engineering, Mrs. Hofer went to work at Point Mugu right after completing her 4 1/2 year course of study. After a couple of years she became a missile flight safety analyst.

"I am concerned with what can go wrong with missiles," Mrs. Hofer said. "Right from the time we are informed that a missile will be launched, our office must figure out all the things that could possibly fail on a missile during flight and then decide what to do with a missile should it fail, to prevent hazards to property and personnel."

When she and other members of the range safety office determine possible malfunctions and safe criteria for missile launchings and flights, they must take into consideration many outside conditions that will affect missiles in flight. This includes weather conditions, wind currents, shipping density and innate characteristics of various missiles.

IT'S COMPUTERS NOW

Before a missile is launched a massive amount of information must be calculated to make sure a missile is completely safe. Most of the information on how the missile will fly is calculated with computers but Mrs. Hofer can remember the time she had to figure it by hand.

Once, it took her nearly two weeks to calculate the trajectory of a missile for 20 seconds of flight. Now, after a flight is programmed, 300 seconds of flight can be calculated and printed out in less than three minutes.

Mrs. Hofer's job needs a wealth of background knowledge in many areas. Included are flight mechanics to figure the stability of the missile; gas dynamics which includes the affect of the atmosphere on missiles; astrodynamics or determination of orbits; propulsion systems or make-up of rocket engines; oceanography to know what affect water has on missiles launched under the sea, plus probability, statistics, numerical analysis, computer methods and programming.

CONSTANTLY BONES UP

To keep up with this demand of expanding knowledge, Mrs. Hofer has to take courses continually.

A cross section of some of these courses she has taken recently are astrodynamics and determination of orbits which consists of methods to predict satellite orbits from tracking information; fluid mechanics which is reaction of bodies in gaseous and fluid flow; plus advanced calculus and probability and stochastic processes.

Most of these courses are given at night by the UCLA extension school. However, the government sponsors some of the courses at Point Mugu which she and other engineers occasionally take during their regular work week.

"I must say that my work is varied, and constantly changing. We must keep ahead of the contractors to understand what they are doing," Mrs. Hofer said.

The Pacific Missile Range at Point Mugu also used its facilities in the past for rockets and missiles launched from Vandenberg Air Force Base. Mrs. Hofer was a member of the team that set up and monitored the destruct criteria for ICBM's and various satellite vehicles.

ONLY GIRL GRADUATE

In her daily job Mrs. Hofer deals mainly with men, but that is nothing new for her. As a freshmen there were only ten girls in a class of about 3,000 engineering students. Of those students, 1,600 graduated and she was the only girl.

"I'm always asked the routine question: 'Why did I become an engineer?'" Mrs. Hofer added. "I was from a small town in Indiana and probably was too naive to know that some professions were mainly for men. But I was interested in missiles and felt I just wanted to be an engineer."

"And it is exciting — interesting. And no matter what men think, I feel it is glamorous and exciting and more women should become engineers," she added. "It certainly has many advantages for young women, an interesting career, travel and lots of young men."

"On my job, I'm considered as any other engineer, but receive a little more politeness. After all, it would be difficult for men not to notice that I'm a woman," she continued.

Most of the problems about being a woman come when she attends seminars and symposiums. "Many times the engineers there think I'm the secretary and hand me all the material for notes," Mrs. Hofer said.

'TYPICAL WORKING WIFE'

The mother of a five-year-old daughter, Aldebaran, and the wife of a high school science teacher, Irene Hofer considers herself as typical as any other working and married woman. "Some people are surprised to hear that I'm an engineer, but like all housewives I'm never caught up with my housework."

She is also active in community affairs and is a member of the Camarillo High Faculty Wives Club, the Conejo Symphony Guild and the secretary and board member of the Camarillo Heights Improvement Association.

Her professional organizations include membership in the American Association of University Women and secretary-treasurer of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics, Pacific Missile Range Section for three years.

She and her husband are currently building their home on top of a hill on Oceanview drive in Camarillo. And building is used literally. George, her husband, has been working seven days a week on the construction. Irene did the engineering design for the retaining walls, foundations and structural members for their hill side home."

Social Security

Charles E. Burke, District Manager of the South Bend Social Security Office, announced today that a recent change in the social security law has brought many questions about a new benefit. In March 1966, a change was made to provide for a special cash monthly benefit payment to those 72 or over who could not qualify for a benefit under the regular provision. A person 72 or over before 1966, may receive the benefit even though they have never worked under social security. A person becoming 72 in 1966 or later will need some work under social security.

There is a restriction on those who are already receiving a pension, retirement pay, annuity or similar payment from a federal, state or local governmental pension system. The special benefit will be reduced or precluded depending on the amount of the other governmental pension. Some Veterans Administration compensations and workmen's compensations are excluded.

Mr. Burke said that a person receiving cash public assistance payments cannot receive the special benefit for a month in which he receives an assistance payment.

If a person is 72 or over in October 1966, and has already applied for hospital insurance, the social security office will get in touch with them. But, if the person is 72 or over and is one of the few who did not sign up for hospital insurance, it is advisable for them to get in touch with the social security office now.

The benefit will be $35.00 a month for single persons and in the case of married couples the man will receive $35.00 and his wife $17.50 if both are 72 or over. The benefit starts with the month of October 1966, with the checks being mailed in November.

If you want more information, write for pamphlet OASI 1966-1, "Special Benefits for People 72 or over." The address of the South Bend Social Security Office is 125 S. Lafayette Blvd. The telephone number is 234-4001.

LIFE-SAVING FOAM

In the future, if an airliner crashes and bursts into flames, the passenger cabin may be instantly flooded with fire-suppressing foam. According to International Management, McGraw-Hill publication, researchers have sat for five minutes in a cabin mockup full of foam, with hands of handkerchiefs over their noses and mouths. Oxygen in the foam bubbles ensured that they didn't choke.

AT GREENFIELD VILLAGE

Motoring History Comes To Life

The colorful panorama of the early days of motoring in America will be reborn at Greenfield Village during the Old Car Festival Sept. 10-11.

More than 300 automobiles, all built before 1927, will be brought to the Village from 17 states, the District of Columbia and Canada. Almost every make and description of car from the pioneer years of motoring will be judged for authenticity and beauty of restoration.

Visitors to the Village, and camera fans in particular, will have a field day snapping pictures and filming movies of the oldtimers in action. Steam, electricity and gasoline will provide the power for the cars, many of whose drivers will be dressed in period costume reflective of the era of the cars. Bustles, corsets, hat boxes, gloves, and gaiters will reappear with the revival of authentic names of the past like White, Pinesville, Dunder, Franklin and many others.

The picturesque setting of the 260-acre outdoor museum with its many historic homes and shops lends itself ideally to this biggest of all antique automobile events.

The two days of the Festival will be filled with competition between the entrants. Tests of skill in such art as cranking, starting, stopping, slow-driving, and balloon breaking will challenge the owners of the antiques.

A special feature of the Festival will be performed by a group of London, Ontario, Canada, car enthusiasts in an amazing graphic display of the simplicity of some early cars — they will assemble, in less than 12 minutes, an old Model T right on the field and drive it away.

The entire Old Car Festival program is included in the regular admission charge to Greenfield Village. Special events are scheduled on the field both days between noon and 5 p.m. The Village and adjoining Henry Ford Museum are open daily from 9 a.m. until 6:30 p.m.

Greenfield Village is located at Dearborn, Michigan

By BEVERLY SUVERKRUP

Certainly one of the highlights of the season was the winning of the Bliss Memorial Trophy Race by Fritz Muehlhausen. This is the first season that Fritz has competed as a skipper in the C Scow races. Fritz served as crew for Rupert Esser previously and undoubtedly acquired some of his sailing know-how from that fine sailor. John Kniesly was the crew on the winning boat. They sail in T122.

Bill Ferry, who is a consistently good skipper, placed second in Sunday's C Scow race. He sails T22 and his crew is Allen Becker.

Jerome Zechele and his crew, Gene Benedict, placed third in this race in T21.

Jerome Zechele and Gene Benedict won the Saturday race and first place in the Saturday series.

Dave Washburn, sailing in T101, placed second in the Saturday race. Bill Studebaker was his crew.

Rupert Esser was skipper of the third place boat. His boat is T26. Joe Kaspar, Mr. Esser's son-in-law, was imported all the way from Arizona especially to crew in this race. He did a really superior job.

The Junior Fleet race had to be cancelled due to lack of wind. Steve Speer won every race of this series this season.

The moonlight race was won by Bill Washburn in T12. There was an after race party at the Suverkup home.

The annual Awards Banquet will be held Sunday, Sept. 4, at The Culver Inn.

September Events in Indiana

September, a delightful month to tour Indiana, has a calendar filled with colorful festivals and exciting events as the fall season begins, reports the Indiana Department of Commerce, which is directed by Lieutenant Governor Robert L. Rock.

Would you believe... gondola rides on the Wabash? That's one of the features of "The Little Italy Festival" Sept. 3-5 at Clinton, well-known for the excellent Italian food served in its restaurants. Continuous entertainment, Roman games such as "Boecia Ball," and plenty of spaghetti for hungry visitors are listed on the 3-day program.

The great Indiana State Fair, which continues through Sept. 5 in Indianapolis and the Madison Regatta Sept. 3-4, when the nation's fastest hydroplanes literally skim the waters of the Ohio River, are two of the state's biggest events.

The National Fall Shoot of the National Muzzle Loading Rifle Association at Friendship from Aug. 20 through Sept. 5 is especially colorful and as much fun for tourists as for the participants who come from throughout the U.S. and Canada. About 75 booths displaying antiques, guns, Indian items, and Americana will interest visitors to the 360-acre range in beautiful Laughery Valley, on State Road 62 south of Versailles.

From Lake Michigan to the Ohio River, sports fans have a wide choice, with the National Hot Rod Association and National Drag Championship in Indianapolis Sept. 1-5; the Tri State Boat Races on Lake Michigan Labor Day Weekend at Michigan City; the Hoosier Hundred Auto Race at the State Fairgrounds in Indianapolis Sept. 10; and a 100-mile Sprint Car Race at Winchester, Sept. 18.

"Strawberry Valley Day," one of the biggest Labor Day festivals is held at Ligonier and begins with free breakfast, features a Jonah Fish Fry in the afternoon, and is the scene of a big parade in the evening. The event has received international publicity. Muncie also has a Labor Day celebration, following a Sesquicentennial theme in its parade.

Ferdinand's big "Turtle Soup Picnic" near Ferdinand State Forest, with chicken dinners, too, is set for Sept. 4, and Rising Sun will have a chicken barbecue on Sept. 10. Among the festivals are the Fall Festival at Milford Sept. 14-17; the Monroe County Harvest Festival at Ellettsville Sept. 15-17; the Colonial Village Festival at Zionsville, Sept. 16-17; the Pumpkin Show at Versailles, Sept. 22-24; A Fall Festival at Edinburg, Sept. 23-25, and the famous Persimmon Festival at Mitchell Sept. 25 to Oct. 1.

Lafayette's Home Hospital Fair at the Tippecanoe County Fairgrounds Sept. 16-18 this year has the theme, "Indiana Ancestors to Astronauts." Open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. the huge hospital benefit features continuous entertainment and excellent food, with a part of the Fair made-to-order for children. Profits buy hospital equipment.

East Chicago adds a Mexican flavor to September in Indiana. Its Mexican Independence Day Parade is set for Sept. 11. Official date in Mexico is Sept. 16.

Descriptions of the September events are included in Hoosier Holiday Highlights, a calendar of Indiana events. The revised August-December listing of events is available free from the Tourist Division, Indiana Department of Commerce, 334 State House, Indianapolis, Indiana 46204.

WATER TANK SCUBAS

Two deep sea divers are taking a new sort of plunge-into water tanks. They're the latest word in water tank inspectors, according to Engineering News-Record, McGraw-Hill publication. The divers, in complete scuba regalia, swim around inside the tank taking pictures of any slime, rust, fungus, etc., and measure the damaged areas. When they emerge they have a thorough record of the extent and kind of damage which must then be repaired.

TRACES
Immigrants into Indiana in the very early days came in on buffalo trails. There was no other way unless they came by boat, and not too many penetrated the wilderness in that manner.

Just as today, there were main highways, feeder routes and "backwoods" trails all over the place and most were made by the buffalo. Indians had used them for centuries and Indians could get just as lost in the deep forest as white men, so of necessity they stuck to buffalo traces. There was really no other way to travel.

George R. Wilson wrote an excellent little book on such things back in 1919 and named it "EARLY INDIANA TRAILS AND SURVEYS." For those interested in such things it's well worth reading.

The main highway across southern Indiana was the old Buffalo Trace, running from the Ohio falls to Vincennes and then as the "Illinois Trace," across Illinois to St. Louis. Almost all the other main trails of southern Indiana joined or crossed the Buffalo Trace or were branches of it.

Among the better known southern traces were:

The Saline or Salt, which ran from Vincennes south, crossed White River near Hazelton and the Patoka River about three miles north of Princeton, turned southwest toward the mouth of the Little Wabash River, then went on to the Salt Springs near Shawneetown, Ill.

The Red Banks Trace which started at Henderson, Ky., (once known as Red Banks), came through Evansville, and just west of present Fort Branch and Haubstadt, through Princeton and crossed the river at Patoka, then on into Vincennes.

The Yellow Banks Trace which started at Owensboro, Ky., (once known as Yellow Banks), went north through Rockport to Chrisney, Gentryville and northwestward through Warrick and Pike Counties to the old Delaware Indian village at the forks of White River, near Rogers. A fork of the Yellow Banks Trace ran north from Gentryville through Dale, then on into Dubois County, near Portersville and northward into Daviess County. The Valonia Trace which ran southeast from that area through Washington and Scott Counties (near the Pigeon Roost settlement), possibly on to the old Clark County seat, Springville, and then to the falls of the Ohio.

Another southern Indiana trail was called the Buck Creek Trace, leading up from the Ohio in Harrison County. It crossed Buck Creek about two miles above its mouth, went northward through Corydon and on to the Buffalo Trace.

It is interesting to note that the majority of trails in southern and central Indiana eventually led to Vincennes! That must have once been a most important place for prehistoric men of this region.

The Ft. Wayne area had many ancient trails leading to it. One important one was the route leading in from the Wabash, called the Portage Trail, or as the Indians knew it, the portage to the Paw-kam-sipi, or Little River. Another was the Eel River portage trail, northwest from Fort Wayne to the Eel River and westward toward Chicago. Another ran east and north to Detroit.

An old trail ran from Connerville to Muncie. It branched off near New Castle and went over to Anderson, across Hamilton County to Thorntown, then west across Montgomery County (near Linden) and northwestward across Benton County into Illinois where it joined a large trace into Chicago.

The Pottawatomie Trail circled southern Lake Michigan from Chicago to Niles, Michigan. The Wea Trail was between Terre Haute and Thorntown.

Almost every county of Indiana has had Indian (or buffalo) trails through it. Most are no longer known and were never named. Early surveyors were instructed to note every trail that crossed their paths as they marked the section, range and township lines of Indiana. From their notes, Mr. Wilson's "Early Indiana Trails And Surveys" points out that it is possible to reconstruct all of the main trails by noting where they crossed various survey lines.

The first trail laid out by white men across Indiana was called Kibbey's Road, blazed by a Captain E. Kibbey, who started it about 1799. It ran from Cincinnati to Vincennes and Kibbey almost lost his life while making the road. He got lost from his party and found his way back to Cincinnati, almost a skeleton, after days of wandering in the woods trying to get his bearings. In 1820 Kibbey's Road was known to have run from Cincinnati 15 miles to Burlington (Kentucky), 10 miles to Rising Sun, 20 miles to Judge Cotton's (in Switzerland County), 20 miles to Madison, 17 miles to New Lexington (Scott County), 32 miles to Salem, 34 miles to French Lick, 17 miles to the east fork of White River, 20 miles to the north fork of White River and 16 miles in to Vincennes.

four main traces were opened across Indiana east and west and were patrolled (to warn settlers of Indian attacks). He referred to them as the Buffalo, Patoka River, Haubstadt and Rome traces. North and south over southern Indiana Harrison said were four patrolled traces joining the Ohio River and the Buffalo Trace and named these as the Blue River, Yellow Banks (with two branches), Red Banks and Salt Traces.

Jacob Whetzel's famous trace from Laurel to Waverly was laid out by Whetzel and his friends in 1817-18.

By 1826 a stage line was operating over the old Buffalo Trace, or parts of it. On some runs, the drivers went through Washington, Mt. Pleasant, Hindostan and Paoli.

Robert Ehlers, District Congressional Candidate, Speaks At Plymouth

Robert A. Ehlers, Republican, 3rd District Congressional Candidate, expressed his concern for the preservation of the effectiveness of Congress last week to the monthly meeting of the Plymouth Junior Chamber of Commerce. In his address, Ehlers, a former St. Joseph County Commissioner, said "Our freedoms are endangered by one-man, one-party government."

Ehlers went on to say that he wishes to represent the people instead of being Washington's man in the Third District. Then he discussed major issues with the audience. Mr. Ehlers asked about his audience's concern for the "run-away cost of living" as evidenced in this week's release of new figures showing a three percent increase in the consumer price index over the past year.

Mr. Ehlers also inquired into his listeners' feelings on the Viet Nam war in order to assist him on his fact finding mission to that Southeast Asian trouble spot in September. Other topics included in the discussion were the War on Poverty, the development of a deep water port for Indiana on Lake Michigan, and the relations of the Johnson Administration with the farmer.

The meeting held at the Warana Motel in Plymouth was attended by William Gee, Chairman of the Marshall County Republican Central Committee, Mr. Ehlers, a South Bend insulation contractor, is a former member of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Grant To Support Education Course Developed At CMA

The Danforth Foundation, St. Louis, has made a grant of $3,954 in support of a course in civic education being developed at Culver Military Academy.

The course is entitled "America's Democratic Heritage" and is part of a 15-year program in which Culver has attempted to prepare its students for effective citizenship.

Said Dr. Manning M. Pattillo, associate director:

"The Danforth Foundation is happy to be associated with Culver in what we consider to be a significant project in secondary education. If the Academy can develop a model course of the type envisaged, this should serve as encouragement to many other schools, independent and public, to redouble their efforts in the training of young people for responsible citizenship."

The Danforth Foundation was created in 1927 by the late Mr. and Mrs. William H. Danforth of St. Louis. Its purpose is to strengthen education, through its own program and through grants to schools, colleges, and universities, and other educational agencies.

While the Academy pioneered a senior-level course in America's Democratic Heritage as early as 1951, the Danforth Foundation grant supports a drastically revised program to begin in September. The revisions are the result of a study by Dr. John Gibson, acting director of the Lincoln Filene Center for Citizenship and Public Affairs at Tufts University, Boston. Because of recent studies indicating that attitudes are formed at an early age, Dr. Gibson recommended a full-year, full credit course at the ninth-grade level to be integrated into a completely revised four-year history program at Culver.

Commenting on the need for a course in American heritage, Dr. Gibson stated:

"Irrespective of courses in American history, I feel the evolution of democracy as a way of life and of governing should be presented and also a relationship between public attitudes and opinions to the shaping of national policy within a democracy. Other areas that need to be included are the rise of the Soviet view of peaceful co-existence, the Sino-Soviet ideological conflict and implications for the world Communist movement, and how people in the democracies might respond in a more positive manner to the threat of communism at home and abroad."

The goal of the new course will be the same as the one which led to the establishment of the program in 1951: a clear understanding of America's challenge in the contemporary world. The Academy has appointed L. Kingsley Moore, a history teacher with 14 years experience on the Culver faculty, to write the new course based on Dr. Gibson's recommendations. Moore is a graduate of Tufts and Boston universities and has done recent graduate work in Russian history and culture and international affairs at Indiana and Notre Dame universities.

Moore has spent the summer reviewing what he terms a "fantastic amount of resources" available for the course. He has visited with Dr. Gibson at Tufts and also consulted with John Fisher, director of the Institute of American Strategy, an organization of business and military leaders concerned about the threat of communism.

"To make the course more vital and interesting to the student," says Moore, "we will use discovery, problem-solving, and inquiry methods to put the student through the same process as the historian in arriving at his conclusions. We will draw on the disciplines of geography, history, and political science, but the focus will be the modern ideological systems -- totalitarianism, authoritarianism and democracy.

"Finally," adds Moore, "students will study the contemporary struggle between totalitarian -- communism in particular -- and democracy along with analyzing and discussing responses to the challenge."

Moore says students will use a basic textbook written by Dr. Gibson and will see films, hear prominent lecturers and use other resources including propaganda in many forms.

"In many communist countries," says Moore, "a course like this one is taught on a hate-your-enemy basis. But our new course will offer students a discussion of all of the aspects of our heritage and the forces impinging upon it. Unlike other systems, we will read and discuss propaganda in many forms because we believe that in considering communism, fascism, and others that we can better study the contemporary world in the context of its ideologies."

Along with the establishment of the revised course in America's Democratic Heritage, Culver will gradually introduce more elective courses at the upper levels to include such subjects as Far Eastern history, additional courses in Russian history, the ancient and Medieval period, and the Renaissance and Reformation.

 God's use of man as His witness will be a major theme of the Bible Lesson on "Man" at Christian Science church this Sunday.

The Golden Text is from Job -- "God exalteth by his power: . . . Remember that thou magnify his work which men behold."
 Passages to be read from the denominational textbook will include these lines: "God will heal the sick through man, whenever man is governed by God . . . The highest earthly representative of God, speaking of human ability to reflect divine power, prophetically said to his disciples, speaking not for their day only but for all time: 'He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also;' and 'These signs shall follow them that believe'" ("Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy).

SHOW-OFF

Harry is "showing-off"—and he certainly has a most appreciative audience!

We all "show-off" sometimes, in one way or another. It's a natural human tendency, and we can't be blamed for expressing it occasionally. And we are not apt to overdo it if we discover the need for humility.

Church is one place where this lesson can be learned. In God's House, we know instinctively how small we really are, which makes us more thankful for both His love and compassion.

We need this sense of coming down to size. We need to look with humble eyes at ourselves, at our fellow men, and at the miracles of God's creations.

Yes — we need to go to church.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL. ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four essential reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the church itself, which needs his vocal and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The Monterey Tippecanoe Public Library will be closed on Monday, Sept. 3 - Labor Day.

The "Vacation Readers go Everywhere" Summer Reading Program of 1966 came to a close at the Monterey Tippecanoe Public Library on Saturday with a small get-together at a circus party on the lawn of the Library. With clowns, fortune tellers, weight guessers, fish pond, ring toss games and many other games for all, over 110 children were in attendance. This circus party was truly a community sponsored affair by the parents and friends of the Library children. Roll call was taken for the Story Hour children at the same time. Each child was given a name tag in the form of "Clown" with his name on and an Indian hat, along with many other prizes at the various game booths.

Boys Life Magazine To Feature CMA

Culver Military Academy will be featured in a cover story in the September issue of Boys Life magazine, official publication of the Boy Scouts of America.

The article is essentially a Winter School story and will go out to a readership of 2,400,000 boys who subscribe to the magazine. The issue is expected to be available late this month but will not be sold on the newsstands.

Boys Life executive editor, Walter Babson and John Launois, of the New York photographic agency Black Star, worked with members of the Public Relations Department here during five days last May to research and photograph the article. The story line is keyed to what life is like at the nation's largest college preparatory school as told through three students who are attending Culver on Boy Scout scholarships. The students, all underclassmen, are Lewis Erwin, Bourbon, Ind.; Dennis Patton, Armada, Mich., and Mark Hawk, Brownstown, Ind.

The Boy Scout scholarship program began last year as part of the overall scholarship funds of $238,000 made available to qualified and needy youngsters. With the cooperation of Boy Scout officials in Region Seven, largest Scouting area in the world, Cadets Erwin, Patton, and Hawk were the first to attend the Academy under the program, which is being expanded to other Scouting areas this fall.

Babson, who was a professional Scout executive before joining the Boys Life staff, has written the story especially for his young audience. It stresses the many activities of the three cadets and gives their viewpoints of Culver life.

Launois, who is one of the best known photo-journalists in the U.S. at the present time, formerly spent eight years in Southeast Asia for Time, Inc. Most of his pictures during that period appeared in Life. He has since become a free-lance photographer working with the Black Star agency but is also a member of the Saturday Evening Post photography staff. Recent assignments for the Post include a story published last month on The New-Nuns and a forthcoming article devoted to the Pennsylvania Amish.

The Boys Life cover will carry a full color picture of bugler Terry O'Hara, Wellsville, Ohio. Inside are color and black-and-white pictures of the Winter School band, the Academy's 13 football teams, sports pictures of canoeing and track, several military shots, and various illustrations depicting academic life at Culver.

publication. It permits safe landings, without a pilot's hand on the controls, in weather down to a 100-foot ceiling with only 1,200-foot forward visibility. When landings can be made routinely under such minimal conditions, the airlines hope they can substantially reduce delays and diversions due to poor visibility.
