CMA To Host Independent Schools Assn.

More than 200 educators will attend the fifty-eighth conference of the Independent Schools Association of the Central States to be held Thursday through Saturday (April 4-6) at Culver Military Academy.

This year marks the fifth time Culver has been host to the meeting of top administrative officers of 87 independent elementary and secondary schools in 14 midwestern states.

The meetings will center on the theme of the conference "Man and His Physical Environment" and will feature speeches and discussion groups led by college and secondary school educators.

The conference will open with a 7:30 p.m. dinner Thursday when Joseph Clark, assistant director of the Indiana State Department of Public Instruction division for teacher training and certification speaks on the subject "The Public View of Independent Schools."

Among the key speakers who will address the conference during a full day of sessions Friday are St. Louis Dr. Bruce Merrifield, whose topic will be "The Shape of Things to Come;" Dr. Lamont Cole, chairman of the zoology department at Cornell University, who will discuss "Nature's Reaction to Man" based on his feature article published in Sunday's New York Times magazine; Dr. Paul Klinge, dean at Indiana University, whose topic will be "Human Ecology in the Secondary School;" and Dr. Willard Thorp, professor emeritus in English at Princeton University, who will speak on "Ethics for Seniors."

ISACS President Corbin and Culver Superintendent General John W. Dobson will officially welcome delegates to the meeting Thursday night. In other sessions, educators will discuss such areas of interest as admissions, school publications, career planning for teachers, college guidance, fund-raising, and programs for disadvantaged students.

A morning session Saturday will be devoted to ISACS business with adjournment scheduled for noon.

Good Friday Services Set For EUB Church

The Culver Community Council of Churches will hold Good Friday Services in the Evangelical-United Brethren Church at 12:45, April 12. The speaker for the service will be Rev. Carl Q. Baker, pastor of the Culver Methodist Church and president of the Council of Churches. Rev. Arthur Givens, pastor of the host church, will conduct the liturgy of the service. The Council invites all persons in our area to attend the worship service.

APRIL 8th IS LAST DAY TO REGISTER

Mrs. Ruth Lennen, town clerk, wishes to remind everyone that Monday, April 8 is the last day they can register to vote. If you cannot get to her office during the time it is open, Mrs. Lennen will be happy to make an appointment with you to register after hours. You may call her at 842-3140.

State Sen. Will Erwin, Republican candidate for the nomination for Congressman from the Third district, expressed opinions on the main issues of the current campaign at the Culver Chamber of Commerce meeting held Monday at the Culver Inn.

Sen. Erwin considers crime the most appalling of these issues because of the many people who are hurt by it and because of the moral decay that the increasing crime rate points toward. Strict law enforcement is favored by Sen. Erwin and he said he would work to cultivate and encourage those forces that develop moral consciousness.

"We've heard over and over," continued Sen. Erwin, "that a certain political party is for the 'little guy' and it seems we have had eight years of keeping the little guy 'little' because of a paternalistic approach to the problem of poverty. Paternalism erodes self-confidence."

Sen. Erwin summarized the poverty program by saying it is tragically inadequate and that it has eroded self-confidence. He said public housing development will work only when citizens learn the concept of ownership of property.

Erwin said he would support obedience to the laws of economics. "You can't run a family if you spend more than you make and you can't run government that way. If you violate those laws, they will brake you."

Sen. Erwin said other nations of the world now look to the United States and say, "We no longer have faith in you to manage your own financial matters." In discussing the recent gold crisis, Sen. Erwin said that because of inflation in the United States short term profits can be realized by some businessmen at the cost of other people if they choose to take advantage of the situation.

Regarding the Vietnam war, Sen. Erwin said, "a total of 20,000 American men have been killed with little evidence of any construction gain and little hope of a victory soon."

In his conclusion, the senator said he will support policies promoting more and more faith in the people: faith in self; faith in the other guy; faith in the nation; and faith in God.

Town Board News

The meeting Monday evening of the Culver Town Board was called to order by Donald Osborn, president, with quite a few Culver Citizens in attendance.

The board has taken under advisement a request by the School Board concerning the extension of the sidewalk from the Methodist Church to the side of the new high school. Three property owners are involved in this area on School St.

The existing policies of the police dept. were discussed.

Surface drainage problems in some areas of Culver were also raised and the Board will set up a meeting with property owners to try and solve this continuing problem.

Mrs. James McCombs was appointed to the Park and Recreation Board for a four year term. She replaces Mrs. James Pierson whose term has expired. There was a resignation from the Park and Recreation Board that will be filled at a later date.

Mr. Osborn also announced that the Clerk Treasurer's Office will soon be completed in the Culver Town Hall. The Police Dept. has been moved to the old town hall and is located in the former council room.

Sports Corner

BASEBALL IS SET TO OPEN next Monday with a couple of lid-lifters on that day and the rest of the teams get underway basically on Tuesday. It seems awful early, but when baseball starts it is a sure sign that the real weather of spring and summer is just around the corner. The balmy days of last week made this more obvious, but if the usual transpires, some very inclement weather for baseball will still visit us.

AT ANY RATE, 20 TEAMS will set out to gain the title of World's Champion and only one will get it. The St. Louis Cardinals are the defending champs and many give them a good chance to be back in that spot come the middle of October of this year. This will be the last year for the set-up of the American League as it now stands and the future of the National League is just a little cloudy as the plans for that league just haven't been announced to date.

HOWEVER, EXPANSION IS a definite thing in the American League this year as the league will expand to 12 teams for 1969. This might seem just a trifle early after the last expansion as it seems many times that there isn't enough good players to go around today, let alone trying to fill two more rosters. The National League has had their two newest clubs, New York and Houston, basically dead or on the bottom ever since the expansion came about while in the American League the California Angels have finished in the first division a couple of times and even the Washington Senators have escaped the basement on several occasions.

THIS IS NEXT YEAR'S plan and right now the center of attention will be put on the 1968 pennant races. Each year almost every sports magazine, wire service and newspaper makes their selections for the races. Usually, many mistakes follow as predicting the future of 162 game schedules is a hard thing to do and a lot of things can happen in that six month period.

LAST YEAR IT WAS THE Cardinals in the National and in the American after a real dog fight, Boston edged out Detroit and Minnesota by a single game on the final day of the season. Crowded closely behind yet was the greatest race in years in the American League while the Cardinals had it considerably easier in the senior circuit.

LET'S LOOK AT THE TWO Leagues a little closer. The Cards as still the choice of most in the National. They point to a great team balance and a very fine pitching staff. However, the Cards got a lot of pleasant surprises last year, especially from some young pitchers who really came through and a very fine year from Orlando Cepeda. They will need more of the same for a repeat. The San Francisco Giants are a team that is very highly regarded and with a couple of performers like Willie Mays, even though the years are catching up with him, and Juan Marachial, who had a lot of injury problem last year, it is still a good pair to build both a team and pitching staff around.

CINCINNATI IS RATED AS a very strong contender again this year. They have a lot of team balance after some trades the past few years and pitching staff that could carry the load. The Cubs bounced from the depths of the second division to a lofty third place finish last year and have a good young pitching staff to head a group of hitters that will score runs. They might have over shot their real capabilities last year, but some breaks, they will be right back in the fight. Los Angeles was down, but they don't seem to know how to stay down. Last season facing the world without Sandy Koufax for the first time was quite a shock, but this year they have solidified a couple of positions and certainly have a pitching staff that can pick up a lot of the slack. They should be ready to become a contender again.

ATLANTA HAS A REAL good ball club and just haven't jelled too well the past couple of seasons. They have always had a very good streak, but never been able to get the job done in recent years. Their personal has to give them a chance. Then there is Pittsburgh. The Pirates have hitters galore and a very strong combination through the middle. The acquisition of Jim Running to better their pitching staff in that big park should help a lot and a healthy Pittsburgh could be a healthy situation for the Pennsylvania fans. Philadelphia has a lot of question marks.

Richie Allen has to have come back from his hand injury and the Phillies need more solid play from a lot of veterans to challenge this year. Houston has a good team on a defensive and pitching basis, but the Astros have found out the hard way you still have to score runs to win. New York definitely is improving each year, but the Mets aren't about to offer a serious challenge to anyone yet.

IN THE AMERICAN league it, seems unlikely that Boston will repeat although they fouled everyone last year in jumping from ninth to first. It would take two more fantastic years from at least two or three performers to put them back in the world series. Detroit has stood pat this winter, getting only Dennis Ribant in a trade. A couple of young players that will move up, might challenge for a sport here and there, but all-in-all, it will be up to good years by a healthy Willie Horton, Al Kaline, Norm Cash and possibly Eddie Mathews for them to do the job. Their relief pitching has left a lot to be desired in recent years.

MINNESOTA HAS THREE great stars on their team in Harmon Killebrew, Dean Chance and Tony Oliva. These three must carry the bulk of the load with the rest of the team giving a good performance for them to advance to first. Baltimore appears to have what is needed, but after an easy year at the top, they slipped last year on the basis of pitching failures and the costly injury to Frank Robinson.

THE CHICAGO WHITE SOX, who have a definite Milwaukee flavor, have another one of those low-scoring teams that will battle you with everything but a base hit. A lot we expected of two new arrivals, Luis Aparicio and Tommy Davis, who certainly can't hurt their offensive team. However, once again the load will be on the pitching staff to keep them in contention. The Angels have received a lot of spring support, but here is another place of needing a little better balance on the club to make it a serious contender. They have the best defensive and possibly offensive second base combination in the league in Jim Fergosi and Bobby Knoop.

FROM THIS SPOT ON, IT will be the Yankees heading the list of the lower division teams. They still have a good ball club with good pitching, but the same team that used to knock the ball all over the place, now has a lot of trouble scoring runs. If they could get a couple of hot years from a few ball players, they could be ready to start back up the ladder. Cleveland, a team that appears to have enough to challenge but usually folds early from the top of the heap, again has an interesting entry. They have fine pitching and some real strong ball players, but haven't jelled in years and the city of Cleveland is no longer a real help to the team.

WASHINGTON HAS A MUCH not a team to be a serious challenge all year long, is one that can really hurt you in any brief series. They have been on the upgrade since their forming several years back. Oakland, Charlie Finley's Athletics, might find a new and more agreeable home in the west coast city, but Charlie Finley will have to let the manager run the ball club and keep his big promotional nose out of player affairs to make this a satisfied club once again. They have a raft of young talent, especially on the mound, but an unsatisfied player will not give the performance they need. The addition of another team on the coast is welcome and will make the trip to California better for the entire league.

WE WILL TRY FROM TIME to time to look over the baseball situation as it progresses. Each year some new names pop into the spotlight and injuries and slumps put others in the headlines as well. Everything such as this effects a baseball season and team and helps to keep it the unpredictable and entertaining sport that it is.

MARRIAGES
Shenefield — Wharton
In an impressive ceremony Saturday, Mar. 23 at 6:30 pm. in the Argos Methodist Church, Miss Mary Shenefield of Argos was joined in marriage to Timothy Wharton of Culver. Mr. and Mrs. Grant Shenefield of Argos are the parents of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Norris Wharton of Culver are the bridegroom's parents.

Rev. Stanywack performed the double ring ceremony in the church decorated with candles and baskets of pink gladioli and white Fuji mums and trimmed with blue ribbons. The organist was Mrs. Guy Thayer.

The bride who was given in marriage by her father, chose a white lace over satin gown with long pointed sleeves and a short train. A crown of seed pearls held her veil. She carried a bouquet of white Fuji mums centered with two blue orchids. She wore a pearl necklace that was a gift of the bridegroom.

Attending the bride was the maid of honor, Miss Frances Thomas of Argos, who wore a gown of blue voile over blue satin and carried white daisies and an orchid.

Attending the groom as best man was his brother, James Wharton of South Bend. Ushers were John Wharton and Gary Shenefield.

The bride's mother wore a pink dress with white accessories and a white orchid; the groom's mother wore gold with black accessories and a white orchid.

One hundred and twenty-five guests attended the wedding and reception held at the church. The four-tiered cake was decorated with daisies and served by the Misses Deloris Warner and Rosie Thomas.

The bride's going away ensemble was a pink silk suit, which the groom had ordered made for her while he was stationed in Korea. She wore a corsage of white and lavender orchids.

Canyon and after April 1, will be at home at Nellis Air Force Base in Nevada.

The bride is a graduate of the Argos Community School and was employed as a nurses aid at Parkview Hospital Plymouth. The groom graduated from Culver High School and the South Bend Business College. He is presently a sergeant in the Air Force.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were from Rochester, Lafayette, South Bend, Fort Wayne, Plymouth, and Ill.

Something Good Derived

Culver has just had one of those unfortunate situations that once in a while hits small towns, cities, even states and national governments. But, in a small town, people can get involved to the point of doing damage.

However, when one of these situations arise, usually there is two results, one good and one bad. Often such is excused as "learning by experience." Even though this is just a figure of speech, it can be a very truthful statement.

On the first page of today's edition, we are carrying a statement concerning the resignation of Charles Groce, the town marshal of Culver. What I have to say on this situation, is my thought entirely and no reflection against Mr. Groce or any other individual. The statement concerning the resignation of Mr. Groce is his own and explains the action taken by him and the Town Board.

However, the by-products and talk of this situation could be most harmful.

For some time apparently, this situation with the Police Department, inter-conflicts, has been getting worse and worse. Finally, it came to a head and now the conflicts should be resolved.

From this we can see the following situations that must be set and obeyed: First, Culver is a small town and their government is similar to many small towns across the country. The town board is elected by the people and they have the responsibility of running the town to the best of their ability for the chosen term. Conflicts and hard feelings among board members or between board members and the employees they hire must not be present. For a smooth running town, these must be erased as far as the work is concerned, the same as any other person on any other job. The corner gossip and coffee shop talk should not be allowed to replace facts and influence anyone in making decisions.

Second, a good police force, regardless of the size, is necessary. This is especially true in a town where people have a tendency to gather and the youth of other areas are inclined to congregate. Efficient protection and enforcement of the laws and ordinances are necessary. Disagreement and hard feelings can enter in to the point that the job is not being done properly.

Third, the situation of the town board as an employer is clear. They must make it known they are the boss and that they are running the town as opposed to many small towns where the employees have a tendency to try and run things their own way. If they will not stand behind their responsibility and expect the cooperation of those who work for the town operation on January 1, 1968, evidently made their requests clear in a good business fashion. It is up to them to stand behind these requests and their employees as long as they do as ordered.

From this situation we can see these results:

First, the town board is truly acting in a business fashion, making decisions and standing behind them. Whether they might be the right ones in the mind of all the individuals is one thing, but in the board members minds, if they are doing the right thing, they are 100 per cent correct in standing behind their decisions. This board is all business when it comes to running the town and the people of Culver can be thankful for this. The board clearly investigated this situation rather than make hasty decisions on hearsay talk.

Second, Mr. Groce has acted the part of a gentleman, admitting that under the present expectations set by the town board, he feels that he can no longer serve in the capacity expected. Rather than continue in a questionable fashion, he resigned his position. Both members of the police department are capable men, but the conflicts that arose was not good for the town.

Third, the final result, although it may be some time in coming, will be that once again the proper police protection as set forth by the needs of the community will be met. As long as any person is hired by the town and they know what is expected of them, they will give a better effort and have the support of the town board and the public alike.

Fourth, it is also good to see that the people of Culver are interested in their town and how it is run. Many similar towns have the usual grippers and complainers, but have no doors. The people are in their right for expressing their views and feelings as they are the ones the town board members represent. The knowledge that both the public and the town officials are interested in Culver, should give a vote of confidence to everyone concerned. This is the primary step in getting the job done properly.

I was asked not to write of this at this time, but it is also my feelings that this is current and being more of an outsider, I feel that I can look at this situation from a more neutral standpoint than most of you. In the long run, I sincerely hope that everthing turns out well for Mr. Groce for his decision and for the town board for their decisions and convictions. It should work out well for everyone in the long run.

They Come With Warm Weather

It's funny, but last week we had a series of days when the weather was really indicative of spring for the first time this year. This is always looked forward to in Indiana as many people say that the days of spring make it worth while to live through the winter.

With all the goodness of spring comes other things as well, some not quite so good. One of these more undesired things on a local basis has already hit some areas and in all probabilities, has started to hit many other towns and cities.

This is the door to door solicitation of out-of-town people with their various gimmicks.

In Culver, there are restrictions on such acts. A person soliciting anything is required to have posted a $500 bond as well as paid a fee for going door-to-door. This still doesn't completely do the job however as it is still up to the public to really finish what the town councils have started. Why people accept this type of thing and why they continually support these various drives and solicitations is unknown to many.

A big magazine drive was made in one town with the young ladies doing the work using the story of working for a nursing scholarship through these sales. Yet, when questioned about this, they became rather indignant and their stories just didn't coincide with the facts. It is possible that magazine companies could make such offers, but possibly the credentials and reputation of such a drive would be a little more creditable and the girls a little more polite and dignified in their work.

This is just one of the many such gimmicks of door-to-door solicitation that is done and usually, the only one hurt is the person that falls for the stunts and pays for whatever is being sold. There is a sound to trust and established business. Local business people have to live with the people they are doing business with and cannot afford tricks and gimmicks. The door-to-door solicitors are here today tomorrow. They could care less about your town than how much they can milk out of it in their one or two day drives.

Another thing that people are very lax on in this respect, is this respect is thinking they are getting a real deal. Most of these people are just like the old pitch man at a carnival. They have a story to tell and what you hear isn't always what you should believe. They either use a story to pry on your sympathy or a big line about how much you can save due to their operations. No overhead, no middle man and all this old stuff is just another gimmick. Name brand merchandise just isn't found in this type of sales and the fact that all the money is gone from the town just that quick, hurts as much as anything.

Spring brings a lot of good, but it brings the gimmicks and solicitations right with it. Anyone having such a promotion presented, simply for credentials, see if they have registered in the local town and if a fee is charged for this type of drive, see if this has been paid. Certainly indignant and impolite people that resist a refusal and make a scene leave a lot to desired and the best thing they can leave is our home town.

CHILD MAY STEAL TO 'BUY' FRIEND

MANY CHILDREN steal once or twice in the process of growing up, but a University of Michigan psychiatrist says repeated stealing means something is wrong with the emotional atmosphere in the family. He says stealing is more common among boys than girls and believes it stems from anger and resentment or loneliness. He said that a child may steal to "buy friends, to gain symbolic gratification or to produce an emotional response in his parents. Often he wants most of these episodes of stealing to make them feel hurt, because most of these episodes of stealing follow an incident in which the child feels he has been rejected.

DOCTORS may soon be correcting hereditary defects and curing diseases by introducing new genes into patients' bodies, says a Nobel Prize-winning biochemist. Dr. Arthur Kornberg speculates that it might be possible to use harmless viruses as vehicles for delivering genetic information into cells where it is needed.

AN INGENUOUSLY DESIGNED MACHINE manufactured by The Allbright-Nell Company, Chicago, automatically injects curing ingredients into hams that still have a bone in them. It can process up to 7,500 pounds of ham an hour.

SCIENTISTS using germ-free animals in research may have to take a new look at their findings, a Pennsylvania State University pathologist says. Some commercially produced germ-free mice used widely in studies of disease and the effects of drugs, vaccines, radiation, etc., have been found to be seriously undernourished. He said that because the use of these animals affects many scientific investigations, users of such animals should consider the impact of undernutrition on their data.

SOME DAY foresters won't be able to see woods for the people, reports a University of Wisconsin naturalist. He says that foresters must learn how to meet the recreation demands of a growing urban population while maintaining or improving efficiency in timber production.

SEA WATER is about 220 times saltier than fresh lake water, reports the U.S. Department of the Interior. When one cubic foot of sea water evaporates, it yields about 2.2 pounds of salt. One cubic foot of fresh water from Lake Michigan contains only 0.01 pounds of salt, or about one-sixth of an ounce.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS Big Decorating For A Small Room

Think big in decorating a small room.

Too often a small room prompts the use of quite small furniture and accessories. While heavy looking pieces should be avoided, the room need not take on the appearance of a doll house. A few large items create an almost spacious look.

This advice applies equally well to wall decor, according to the Picture and Frame Institute. Wall accessories should harmonize with furnishings in size as color and style, and balanced effect is easily achieved with the use of an arrangement of varying sizes of framed pictures and mirrors. A single small picture looks like a postage stamp if it stands alone in either a large or small room.

If your choice for a small room is a single, large picture or mirror, you're still on the right track. Hung in close proximity to a piece of furniture or a grouping, it is an integral part of the decor.

Aim for a light look in a small room. Darkness of course, tends to make things look smaller than they are. If you choose dark-toned wood in furniture, keep walls, carpets, drapes, and wall accessories in lighter tones. A picture frame, for example, might be finished in the color of a chair couch, or carpet. A custom frame shop or frame department is a good source of help in selecting the right style and color.

With careful attention to decoration details, a small room is sure to yield a large measure of comfort and enjoyment.

Relate Picture To Furniture
 Framed pictures or mirrors are too often hung on the wall where they are removed from the furniture grouping of which they should be a part, according to the Picture and Frame Institute. It is a common decorating error and one that is easily corrected by viewing wall accessories and furnishings as related units. A good rule: hang pictures about six or eight inches above a couch or buffet.

AN ANIMAL EXTRACT that stimulates nerve growth is being purified by New York University scientists. The nerve growth factor is an extract from the subaxillary glands of mice and is of interest because it stimulates neurons, or nerve cells, to produce neurites — tiny fibers that are the communication links between neurons and the sense organs, muscles and other neurons. If the nerve factor and its activity can be understood, it might lead to drugs helpful in the repair or possible regeneration of injured or diseased nerve fibers.

A RADAR MAP of Venus that shows for the first time the exact locations of unusually rough areas that may be mountains has been prepared by Cornell University astronomers using the world's largest radio-radar telescope at Arecibo, Puerto Rico. The astronomers report that the resolution of the map is about equivalent to what would be possible with the largest optical telescope on earth if it were not for the hick cloud hat obscures the Venusian surface.

HAPPINESS IS HELPING
 "Happiness is helping someone who needs help" is the slogan of the 1968 Indiana Easter Seal Campaign, and from March 1 to April 14, thousands of Hoosier volunteers will put these words into action to raise funds for the handicapped.

The campaign goal is to continue the steady increase in funds available to help finance the direct care and treatment services for some 15,000 Hoosier handicapped children and adults. Millions of Easter Seals were placed in the mail to encourage contributions. The sheets of seals achieve a "tree of life" effect with each seal featuring an Easter Lily, tied together by a single stem and branches winding through the entire sheet. The unusual design appears on a brilliant blue background. The 1968 Easter Seals were designed by Don Marrs, Chicago artist.

"IF IT SEEMS TO YOU THAT THE WORLD HAS GONE MAD AND NOTHING WHATSOEVER CAN BE DONE ABOUT IT? HELP A CRIPPLED KID."

The person with no aim in life can never show progress.

Use the present to plan the future or you won't have one.

CMA Plans Unique Fox Hunt

Culver Military Academy is planning its own unique brand of fox hunt. A senior will take the place of the fox and lead the field on a merry chase.

The Academy's first invitational fox hunt of the season will leave the riding hall April 7 at 2 p.m. Only about 40 students who have qualified in horsemanship and honorary hunt officers from the faculty will make up the field. Culver had two similar hunts in the fall.

Tim Warrick, an Elkhart, Ind., senior, will take the fox-eye-view of the hunt. He will be accompanied by honorary fox, Capt. McCord Sollenberger, the Academy's jumping coach who conceived the idea.

Culver's hounds and students staff are members of the famed Black Horse Troop. The hounds are John Austin, Atlanta, Ga.; Perry Bass, Hillsboro, Ill.; Rodrigo Fernandez, San Jose, Costa Rica; Reed Oppenheimer, Oceanside, Calif.; Shelton Rogers, Newlano, La.; and Jim Vlasic, Grosse Pointe Shores, Mich.

The student staff will be Paul Much, master of the fox hounds from Elgin, Ill.; Phil Gates, fieldmaster from Fort Pierce, Fla.; Bob Neimann, huntsman from Tiffin, Ohio; and whippers-in Jim Aubele, Seven Hills, Ohio, and Carl Gordon, Omaha, Neb.

Academy faculty members will be the hunt's honorary staff. Brig. Gen. John W. Dobson, superintendent, will be honorary master of the fox hounds; Col. Floyd W. Townsley, honorary fieldmaster; Col. Gerald J. Graham, honorary huntsman; Col. Donald W. Griffin and Maj. Raymond K. Walmoth, honorary whippers-in.

Mrs. John W. Dobson will ser a hunt breakfast for the fi after the event to help mark t opening of the season.
