Rayna Reinholt Chosen Queen Of Leiters Ford Strawberry Festival

Saturday evening Leiters Ford held its annual Strawberry Festival, proceeds of which went to the Leiters Ford Fire Dept. The very warm balmy weather brought thousands of hungry people to enjoy the delicious food and Captain Stubby's homespun brand of humor.

Prizes in the parade included: Best float, the Scrabble Club of Leiters Ford, whose entry carried out the theme of the festival; second prize, The Methodist Youth Fellowship, whose float featured "Charlie Brown" characters; and third prize went to the Fulton Co. Rural Youth float. The Culver High School band received the award for the best marching unit.

One of the highlights of the evening was the crowning of the festival queen. Of the contestants, Laura Davidson was 2nd runner-up, 1st runner-up went to Margaret Nelson, and the one chosen as Festival Queen was Rayna Reinholt. Receiving trophies along with the winners were Julie Van Horn, Denise Kline, Cathy Reinholt, Sandra Messer, Debbie Severns, and Marjorie Ann Reichard. Captain Stubby who crowned the queen, presented her with flowers and a big kiss.

The many people who attended this yearly event, some from miles around, remarked that the festival was the biggest and best yet, and they are certain that this event will grow in quality and quantity in the years to come.

Questions Need An Answer

Everyone was shocked last Wednesday upon rising to find the Senator Robert Kennedy had been shot and even though they realized the seriousness of his injuries, were set back again on Thursday to find that he had died. The story of his assassination and the days that followed is known by everyone.

One disturbing thing after you consider this, is just what can be done to stop this? This question could have as many answers as there are people.

Another question that arises when you consider this, the assassination of the late John F. Kennedy, Martin Luther King Jr., the nurses in Chicago a few years ago and one after another of the brutal slayings and butcherings that our country has witnessed plus the arson, looting and all the other crimes in our country is, where is our justice department in the wrong?

Several times we have heard on television that the killer of Kennedy has not yet admitted this crime or made any comments about it. The man was caught in a room at the time of the shooting, gun in hand and the fact is it took two strong athletes to subdue the man. It is true there could have been a conspiracy, but after watching the Dallas fiasco some four and a half years ago, reading about Richard Speck and the possibility of a mis-trial, plus other cases of guilty people turned loose due to unfair intergration at the time or their arrest or a jury that has been swayed because of the comments in newspapers and on TV it makes one wonder.

It is true that a person is innocent until proven guilty and that everyone is entitled to a fair trial. However, in our mind it is also true that a guilty party is still guilty and should have to accept his punishment whether he is asked a wrong question by the law officers that apprehend him or not or whether the newspapers might say something that "might" influence a jury. When you consider it, in a case like this past week, how could a jury be selected that hasn't formed some kind of opinion as to the guilt of his assassination.

It isn't so much this case that bothers as you can be assured that this man is being protected to the greatest degree until his trial comes up. He has no connection with the outside world at this point. But the many cases you hear about where an outright guilty party is released due to these "unfair" questions or publicity. Are we picking on hard-bolled criminals and making the public the guilty party?

Thursday evening on one of the networks the discussion came up that our society was guilty party?

Thursday evening on one of the networks the discussion came up that our society was guilty in the death of Kennedy. They were placing the blame on the people of the country in addition to the man who pulled the trigger. This comment is one I cannot agree with at all. Maybe one percent of our society is guilty, maybe it is only one-tenth or one-hundredth per cent of our society that is guilty, but not our whole society.

I believe strongly that almost everyone I know would not and could not sanction such violence as this. I also believe that these same people would not loot stores, burn buildings, etc. because they are not getting their way, and I also believe that these same people expect an officer of the law in any level be allowed to do his job in protecting person and property. No, you and I have no guilt to share. We didn't make the laws that is almost proving the guilty more innocent than the innocent and we cannot sanction all the decisions with their highly technical points that supports the murderer, the arsonists, the thief, etc.

Our country does have some serious problem and perhaps someone will look into these one of these days. It is true that buying a gun is perhaps too easy for just anybody, but again where do you draw the line. It is still true that if someone wants a gun they will get it. Our country will continue to let foreigners pour into this country whose political views of this kind, violence and other trouble is caused by people who have come to America with definite different political views. They are given just as much freedom as anyone and on many occasions have used their privileges against our country and the American citizen that support and respect the country's laws.

This and gun control laws and everything else necessary to stop such brutal slayings and acts as our country has is a very touchy and hard-to-prove situation. The answers are not in our mind or in the minds of others like us, but sometime and preferably soon, something will have to be done to make this a safe place again for any public person. As it stands now, no one, whether in politics, entertainment or any other form of public is safe from that one unknown person who is deranged enough to commit an act. If the situation doesn't improve and things like this should continue, it will force a much stronger government control and possible government take-over to stop such things. This also is not wanted, but until the nation can find an answer to some of these questions, we live in a world that should not be shocked by what could happen at any given time and place.

CULVER COMMENTS

By Alienor Osborn

To pool or not to pool that is the question. The town of Culver is definitely divided on this earth-shaking question.

Recently rumor has it that a group of pro-pool pickets laid siege to the town hall. Our crack fuzz dept. called in the local riot squad armed with billy clubs and one aerosol can of mace. It was immediately ascertained that this was not a communist inspired protest but merely representatives of the P.S.O.P.T. (Please Save Our Pool Tables) who were exercising their rights to protest. They asked to see the Town Board but were refused.

It seems that the town, in its unending quest to make Culver free of organized crime, has ordained that the friendish pool table must go. What can the fun-seeking juveniles do now to while away their time? I would like to suggest Tiddly-wink tournaments (under strict supervision), ice cream socials, and chaperoned sack races. Let's just pray they don't start shooting craps in the water main ditches.

Of course the adults have of late kept themselves amused by watching flying saucers. There were reports of several sightings of these elusive brightly flashing little visitors from outer space. This seems to be the time of year when they start visiting our fair city. Some of you believe in them and others don't. I personally think the report of a small, cigarshaped U. F. O. flying low over Lake Maxinkuckee towing little green water skiers is rather hard to swallow.

Coming down to earth, it might pay to keep your eyes on the ground, because a few people are still finding mushrooms, keeping our famed mushroom contest alive. Just last week Mrs. Max Geiger countered our other contestants with five large sponge mushrooms averaging 8 inches in height. To my knowledge this is about the latest finding of mushrooms of this type that I have heard of in this area.

From what I hear the wind must have been in the wrong direction when a neighboring institution of learning held an after-the-prom dance. The next morning dawned on plenty of baggy eyed Culverites who maintained that rock and roll is not conducive to sleep.

When the first water bills were sent out most people received them in a state of shock. Everyone expected an increase but at the going rate milk baths might be cheaper. Some families are threatening to return to the old Saturday night bath which, if carried out, should delight the kids and increase the sales of Ban. As for the laundry - well there is the old method of beating the clothes on rocks since we do have a lake handy.

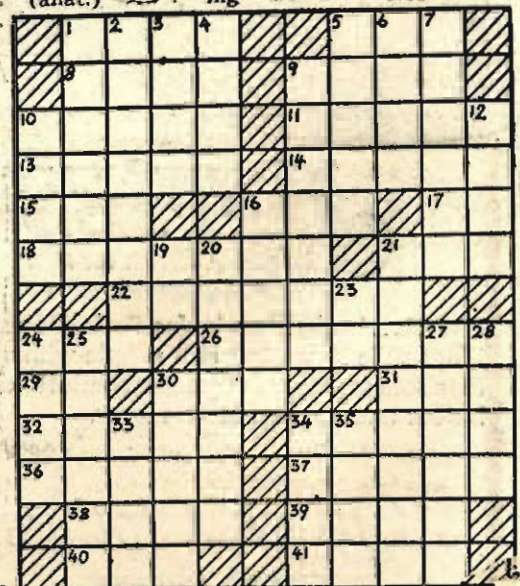

Remember our motto down here "Don't believe anything you read in the newspaper."

Girl Scout News

What is a Girl Scout volunteer? She is the busy housewife who in spite of husband, home and children still has some free time at the end of her week . . . she's the photographer who was approached by girls eager to learn about the mystery of a camera . . . she's the social worker who understands that juvenile delinquency is better prevented than trying to rehabilitate later . . . she's the woman who loves to sing and the girls catch on so quickly . . . and he's discovered that the girls admiration, as he showed them how to pitch a tent, meant more to him than a missed golf game. Right now there are over 7000,000 men and women working voluntarily to bring Girl Scouting to nearly three million girls.

Why do people work as volunteers for Girl Scouting? Perhaps they volunteer in order to stay young. It is said that we do not grow old, we become old by not growing. Service in Girl Scouting taxes all our resources, all our imagination, all our faith, all our courage, and all our humor, and we grow. And as we grow, we become better human beings.

How does a volunteer become a better human being? Thanks to the girls, they must learn more about the world around them; they meet with many different people, involving a variety of personalities, vision is stretched, patience is extended, diplomacy is increased. A volunteer develops even more confidence, purpose, understanding, enthusiasm, curiosity, faith and a greater connection with his fellowman.

These things in Girl Scouting are for all of us. What must be in us for Girl Scouting? Perhaps it is essentially the capacity for growth. If we serve a real need in a positive way, we grow. Yes, we have something for the girls and for ourselves. Ibsen said, "There is no way to benefit society more than by coining the metal in yourself." Girl Scouting is a veritable mint!

Parents, clergymen, teachers, and civic groups everywhere support Girl Scouting because they know it is a positive force that can give girls the moral courage they will need if our free society is to survive. Only with increased support can Girl Scouting make room for all girls who will be bringing up the next generation.

Growing up has never been easy. And the challenges of today — and tomorrow make it harder than ever. That is why Girl Scouting exists . . . to give to our children the confidence that stems from increased abilities, the warmth of friendships, the sense of belonging, and the practice of putting ideals into action.

The Northern Indiana Girl Scout Council is presently conducting an adult recruitment drive. Why not contact MISS GREEN and show that you do have the capacity for growth. Call MISS GREEN today! 842-2423

Troop 290 Spring Camporee

On June 7th and 8th, troop 290 of Culver went to the Myer's Lake Scout Reservation, where they attended the 1968 spring camporee.

They back-packed one and a half miles into camp, then pitched their tents and set to improvising bulletin boards, tables, pool racks, etc., which would bring points toward the best campsite award. After the tents were pitched, firewood gathered, and water carried to camp, the troop marched to the council bowl to witness the Order of the Arrow Tap Out ceremony, where scouts became members of the Order of the Arrow. Among scouts tapped out were: Bruce Snyder, Paul Hughes, Gary Strang, Doug Snyder, and scout leader, Mr. Bob McFarland all of troop 290. Then all Camporee members marched back to their respective campsites.

Saturday morning started early with breakfast over at 7:45 a.m. First call to gather at the flagpole was at 8:15. The Skills contest in which all scouts participated involved compass work and nature study.

After a brief lunch, all skills tests were completed and the troop fell to breaking camp. As dinner ended, the campsite was clean and ready for final inspection.

When 8 o'clock arrived, the troop went to the closing campfire and awards ceremony.

All three patrols of troop 290 (Panthers, Beavers, and Flaming Arrows) received blue ribbons in the skills contest. As a grand finale, Mike McFarland, patrol leader of the Panthers, was called forward to receive the best campsite award for this patrol.

All members of the troop were home by 10 o'clock that evening. Camporee patches and back-packing awards were issued the following Monday evening.

Please have all papers and magazines for the Boy Scout paper drive on sidewalks by 9:00 a.m., Saturday, June 15. Thank you.

"God the Only Cause and Creator" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday. The service is open to the public.

The Golden Text, which states the theme of the Lesson, is from Isaiah: "Lord, thou wilt ordain peace for us: for thou also hast wrought all our works in us."

Also included are selections from the denominational textbook "Science and Meath with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. Among these is the following: "It should be thoroughly understood that all men have one Mind, one God and Father, one Life, Truth, and Love. Mankind will become perfect in proportion as this fact becomes apparent, war will cease and the true brotherhood of man will be established."

GIVE BABY A PINCH, HE MAY GROW AN INCH

BABIES subjected to painful experiences grow up to be taller adults, reports Stanford University. Two psychologists there studied records of children from birth to age 18, checking the annual stature of vaccinated infants against those who were not. Those vaccinated became a half-inch to more than an inch taller than the others. Inoculation may be presumed to be stressful on several accounts, say the investigators. First, it is painful, and an infant who has been inoculated for smallpox ordinarily shows symptoms of distress for up to two weeks. Other researchers have noted the same growth acceleration phenomenon in rats which as babies received rough handling, mild electric shocks or chilling.

BEFORE MOST SICK PEOPLE can relax they need the sanction of a doctor or must at least carry some visible sign of illness, says a University of Wisconsin social work professor. Casts, crutches and bandages are partial explanation for most people when they are unable to carry on their usual routines, he reports, but people with invisible ailments such as internal disorders need validations, too. They need details about their illness so they can substantiate the special consideration they will need from others and can justify the time and money devoted to getting well.

A HIGH INCIDENCE of chromosome damage in uranium miners exposed to heavy dose or radiation while working in underground mines is reported by a University of Utah physician and geneticist. He says the possibility of future genetic abnormalities in the miner's progeny is just one more of a number of hazards this group was unknowingly exposed to during the uranium boom after World War II when ore was removed from hastily dug, unventilated mines.

EFFECTS ranging from the needle-flame required to repair jewelry to the broad heat distribution needed to join three-inch pipes can be produced by new soldering, heating and brazing equipment. National Cylinder Gas, Chicago, says the flame is produced by acetylene or propane gas.

CHOLERA has spread from Southeast Asia to the Middle East and is now near Europe, says a microbiologist at the University of Chicago. He says that although sufferers can be treated, massive treatment is not practical in overpopulated countries. In addition, the anticholera vaccine now in use is not really effective because it offers protection for only four months.

PLAN NOW FOR HIGH SILAGE YIELDS

A full-season, high yielding corn hybrid will usually qualify as a top silage producer, notes Howell Wheaton, Purdue University extension agronomist.

Many so-called silage varieties are simply tall growing, long season hybrids. A new development in silage varieties has been the release of varieties that do not produce ears. Instead of storing sugars in the kernels, the sugars remain in the stalk and leaves. If planted adjacent to regular corn, this high sugar-no ear corn will produce ears if pollen blows across.

In most research trails, the high sugar-no ear varieties have produced from 10 to 30 per cent less dry matter tonnage than regular corn. However, in some cases these varieties nearly equaled regular ear corn silage in total dry matter.

Feeding trials have failed to reveal any animal preference for high sugar-no ear silage over eared corn silage. Calves fed eared corn silage gained faster and produced 10 per cent more beef per acre than calves fed high sugar-no ear corn silage.

Wheaton points out that high sugar-no ear corn silage is vastly superior to silage made from sorghum-Sudan grass crosses. In recent trails, the high sugar-no ear silage was 20 per cent greater in feeding value than sorghum-Sudan grass silage.

LOW FORMS OF LIFE MAY BE FOOD SOURCE

A NEW FOOD SOURCE that may help stave off mass starvation may be available as early as 1980, reports a University of Pennsylvania chemical engineer. He is currently studying bio-engineering problems involved in the production of single cell protein. The protein material is derived from the lowest forms of life — single-cell yeast, bacteria and algae — and can be used in creating new food forms to replace meat and dairy products in the human diet. Other nations, he says, including Russia, Czechoslovakia, India and Nationalist China, already have pilot SCP plants under way, as do several major U.S. oil companies.

PULSARS — those mysterious bursts of radio signals far out in space — don't seem to be doing "a blinking thing." Astrophysicists at the University of Rochester, who have taken the first optical look at a star recently pinpointed by radio astronomers as the most likely source of one pulsar, have found no evidence that corresponding light flashes are being emitted. Their conclusion — either the star has been wrongly identified as a source, or the pulsation mechanism does not give out appreciable light.

AN IMPORTANT PART is played by nickel catalysts in the hydrogenation of margarine. Hydrogenation, says Girdler Catalysts, Louisville, involves mixing the nickel catalysts in pellet form with soybean oil and then subjecting the material to hydrogen gas under exact pressure and temperature. The catalyst triggers a chemical reaction that causes the oil to harden.

RULES governing rights of way in the air are similar to those in effect on the high seas, where sail generally takes precedence over steam. Under Federal Aviation Administration regulations, a balloon has the right of way over every other category of aircraft. Next in the order of precedence are the glider and airship directable lighter-than-air craft. In addition, an aircraft towing or refueling another has the right of way over all other engine-driven craft.

THE SALTIER sea water (40 parts per thousand) occurs in the Red Sea and the Persian Gulf, where evaporation rates are very high. Of the major oceans, the North Atlantic is the saltiest, its salinity averaging about 38 parts per thousand. Low salinities occur in polar seas, where the salt water is diluted by melting ice and continued precipitation. Partly land-locked seas or coastal inlets also may have low salinities because they receive substantial runoff from precipitation falling on land.

COOKING AFTER 5 PM

Play It Cool With Salads

A working woman with a family is smart to make suppertime salad time on evenings when an oven dinner is just too much to face. It is well to keep the larder stocked with "the makings."

These could include fish, meat, fruits, vegetables, canned and frozen; condiments; several kinds of cheese; fruit flavor gelatin; fresh greens and mayonnaise, and an assortment of salad dressing mixes.

A salad supper menu might feature a shrimp and celery salad with a simplified version of Green Goddess Salad Dressing, the pride of San Francisco's Palace Hotel.

Green Goddess Salad Dressing
 1 envelope Good Seasons Garlic Salad Dressing Mix
 1 1/2 cups sour cream
 1/2 cup chopped parsley
 2 tablespoons cider vinegar
 2 tablespoons anchovy paste
 2 1/2 cups mayonnaise.
 Combine all ingredients except mayonnaise in blender. Blend at high speed for 1 minute or until parsley is very finely chopped. Stir mixture into mayonnaise. Makes about 4 cups.
 Note: If blender is not available, use minced parsley and blend all ingredients in a bowl. To halve recipe, use 2 1/2 teaspoon salad dressing mix.

Patrol boat officer, Jim Rinesmith

Lake patrol officer, Dave Ulrich

The Lake Maxinkuckee Association, through the officers and directors, wishes to take this opportunity to welcome all their members and friends back to the lake for another summer of fun and relaxation.

For your safety and protection, they have purchased a new patrol car complete with two-way radio, citizens band radio, flasher lights, and a siren. They are now able to communicate with the Sheriff's department in Plymouth, the patrol boat, and Jack's taxi in case of emergencies. The officer in charge is Dave Ulrich.

On the water, patrol boat is back for another summer completely refinished and equipped for any emergency. Jim Rinesmith is the officer in charge.

In addition to safety, they are chartered to perform all services in connection with sanitation. Contamination of rivers and lakes is a national scandal. Please do not take the attitude that it cannot happen here. They solicit your co-operation in helping keep this lake clean.

Officers and directors for 1968 are president, Floyd L. Sparling; vice-pres., Rear Admiral John W. Bays; sec'y-treas., Donalson G. Trone; directors, Dr. Kenneth K. Kraning, Frank M. ## Billy Graham Crusade To Be Seen On TV

If today's young people — often accused of being the "rebellious generation" — are seeking a defender, they've found one in Evangelist Billy Graham.

The famed religious leader, in his most recent crusade in Portland, Oregon, held from May 17 thru 26, enlisted on the side of the young. He declared: "This generation of young people is far more religious-minded than the young people of 18 years ago when I was in Portland the last time. They are among the most religious young people in history... I've just given up on the older people, however."

Three of the ten Portland Crusade meetings were taped for telecasting by more than 300 television stations throughout the United States in prime time. The three programs will be telecast beginning the week of June 17th by Station WSET-TV, Channel 22.

The Crusade, which took place just before Oregon's Presidential primary on Tuesday, May 28, drew crowds far in excess of those which gathered to hear speeches by the major candidates.

Total attendance for the ten meetings was 227,797. More than 38,500 persons turned out on Sunday afternoon May 26, breaking a 42-year-old attendance record at Memorial Coliseum. About 7,000 decisions were recorded in the Crusade.

Throughout the meetings the emphasis was on youth and its opportunities and problems. At one of the meetings, while addressing an audience largely made up of young people on the subject of "God and the Youthquake", the Rev. Dr. Graham, reminding them that 41 per cent of Americans are under 25 years of age, said: "There is a tremendous revolt among the young against the Establishment which is completely materialistic. You can give them all the material things in the world and they will still grow up to hate you."

Today's young people, he added, are being driven in a desperate search for pleasure, purpose, a moral code, hope, security and a "meaningful experience." He declared: "All of these things are obtainable only through an experience with Jesus Christ."

Portland's fabulous rainfall (average: more than 40 inches a year) was much in evidence during the Crusade. It fell on almost all of the ten days. On one night in the Stadium, the Rev. Dr. Graham preacher for 47 minutes in a driving rain to more than 25,000 persons huddled under raincoats and umbrellas.

At one youth night service, more than 75 per cent of the audience was made up of the under-25 age group. In the audience were Julie Nixon, 19, daughter of Presidential Candidate Richard Nixon, and her fiance, David Eisenhower, 20, grandson of the former President. The evangelist introduced them to the audience.

Many notables attended or were involved in the Crusade itself. Oregon's Republican Senator Mark Hatfield was honorary chairman of the Crusade and flew to Portland from Washington to participate.

For the final meeting Oregon's Governor Tom McCall was on hand to read the Scripture.

At the opening service Portland's Mayor Terry Schunk presented the Rev. Dr. Graham with a key to the city and said: "The tremendous challenge Billy Graham brings can only make each of us a lot better."

At the close of the opening service about a thousand persons walked to an area directly in front of the platform from which the evangelist spoke after he had urged all to "come forward and accept Christ."

The outstanding musical talent for which the Graham crusades have become famous is much in evidence in the forthcoming telecasts.

Baritone George Veverly Shearings, Cliff Barrows directs a mammoth choir drawn from hundreds of participating churches.

In addition the Portland Crusade featured Norma Zimmer, "America's First Lady of Song" on the Lawrence Welk show; and Ray Hildebrand, writer of 3 million record hit, "Hey Paula," and well-known folk and pop singer.

At one meeting thirteen of Portland's Rose Festival Princesses were platform guests.

The evangelist not only called young people to Christ but asked them to enroll in a great campaign to "make democracy work." He declared: "Is there anything better than American democracy? With all of its weaknesses and failings, with all of its injustices, is there anything better?" He declared that only a small minority of its injustices, is there anything better?" He declared that only a small minority of young people want to destroy the present system in the United States.

Completely recovered from the illness that caused him to cancel several crusades during last winter, the Rev. Dr. Graham, in the Portland meetings, displayed the same dynamic appeal that has brought him and his message to the attention of all the world.

As Washington columnist, Marianne Means, put it in speaking of the Crusade "The impact of Graham upon this religiously diverse and deeply moralistic state could well be far more profound than that of the men who would like to be President."

Good work speaks for itself, but lazy men prefer arguments.

The high point of yesterday's achievement should be your starting point for today.

Salmon, Steelhead And Lake Trout Is Open Season

The open season for salmon, steelhead and lake trout fishing in the Indiana waters of southern Lake Michigan is now in effect, it is pointed out by the Indiana Department of Natural Resources.

Revised discretionary order No. 137, which enables a year-round open season for such fishing, also has established a research permit system for the taking and selling of a limited number of these fish by certain commercial fishermen. The purpose is to carry out scientific research on growth rates, food habits, depth distribution and migration patterns of these fish. This information will then be used to promote the sport fishery in southern Lake Michigan.

Eventually sport fisherman will have available considerable information regarding location and depth of salmon concentrations.

The limited commercial take this year will be monitored closely by personnel of the Fish and Game Division of the Indiana Department of Natural Resources. All information will be made available to states surrounding Lake Michigan so that distribution and migration patterns may be better understood.

Service News

John E. Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Taylor, was promoted to Airman Machinist Specialist 1st Class at Whiting Field in Fla. He was also awarded his second good conduct medal.

4 Fishing Records Broken In 1967 In Indiana Waters

Four Hoosier fishing records were broken during 1967, in the "Fish of the Year" contest conducted by the Indiana Department of Natural Resources.

This is rather remarkable, it is pointed out by the Division of Fish and Game, because present-day anglers are up against the catches of all of their predecessors.

Peter Jack Walters of Evansville caught a 10 pound 13 ounce bowfin (dogfish) in the Wabash River in Posey County. It exceeded all previous reported dogfish catches in Indiana by 2 pounds 11 ounces.

Frank J. Drost of Hammond caught a 38 pound 1 ounce carp in Lake County that bettered previous reported catches by 8 pounds 1 ounce.

Walter Balka caught a 7 pound steelhead trout in Indiana's only steelhead water — Lake Michigan. This category had not been previously contested.

Another new category was posted by Nash of Clinton, who landed a 15 pound 4 ounce blue catfish in a Vermillion County pond.

The third new category established last year was for coho salmon. No entry was received.

Winners of other 1967 "Fish of the Year" awards as recognized by the Department of Natural Resources were:

Largemouth bass, 9 lbs. 8 oz., Robert L. Chambon, Bicknell.
Smallmouth bass, 4 lb. 2 oz.,

M. E. Starrett, Tipton.
Northern pike, 20 lbs., William Brower, Pierceton.
Redear, 1 lb. 14½ oz., William Butler, Sullivan.
Bluegill, 1 lb. 8 oz., Wayne Hancher, Columbus.
Sauger, 2 lb. 6 oz., G. L. Hoffman, Rosedale.
Crappie, 2 lb. 8 oz., Gary Hall, Eminence.

4-H Leadership Program Trains Teens For Future

Scholarships worth $6,000 will be awarded again this year by The Sears-Roebuck Foundation to 12 of the nation's most outstanding 4-H Club members. They will be the 1968 national 4-H Leadership program award winners, and will be guests of the Foundation at the National 4-H Congress held in Chicago the first week in December.

Learning how to be a leader is an opportunity 4-H offers any youngster who is willing to assume responsibilities and has the time to carry them out, says Emmie Nelson, program services associate, the National 4-H Service Committee.

Miss Nelson, in cooperation with the Extension Service, has developed many leader training techniques. She recently presented a paper entitled "New Concepts for 4-H Teen Leaders" at a meeting of the Southern Agricultural Workers in Louisville.

She said that the 4-H Leadership program helps members "assume real-life, adult-like roles."

Where the situation permits, the members 16 to 19 years of age have a more sophisticated program, and are called "4-H teen leaders," she stated. The younger members are "junior leaders." Early training revolves around 4-H Club and school activities. The potential leader may help plan the club's program, lead a small project, assist with exhibits, rallies, visit parents and participate in public speaking projects, Miss Nelson suggested.

Older teens may do similar things, but also assume the major responsibilities in whatever they undertake. Adult leaders working with these members encourage them to choose their own group projects, work towards future educational goal or job and recruit and help younger leaders. Their progress is reviewed by Extension personnel who conduct the 4-H Leadership program, and annual merit awards are given to highest ranking members.

The county blue award group (up to four members) receives gold-filled honor medals; the state winner gets an expense paid trip to the National 4-H Congress and $500 scholarships go to 12 national champions. More information about enrolling in the leadership program or becoming a volunteer adult leader, can be obtained from the county Extension Agent in charge of 4-H work.

Care Of Roses

Roses demand your tender, loving care now and into the summer.

Attention to mulching or cultivation, fertilization, watering, disbudding and, of course, cutting of fresh flowers and removal of wilted ones need consideration, says E. R. Honeywell, Purdue University extension horticulturist.

Cultivate your roses frequently and carefully to keep weeds in check and the soil in good physical condition. But remember, deep cultivation is harmful.

Time to apply fertilizers to established roses is during early spring, but it is to continue light applications at monthly intervals until Aug. 1. Fertilizer should be well mixed with the surface soil or watered in.

Roses require considerable water. Evening or night watering promotes the best growth. Make sure you water them thoroughly . . . but not more than once weekly.

Certain types of roses, such as the Hybrid Tea, are grown for exhibition blooms. To limit each stem to a single large, beautiful bloom, remove any or all of the lateral buds on the stem so that the terminal bud may grow more vigorously. This is called disbudding, and the job should be done with great care when the flower buds are small.

Proper cutting of flowers is an art that most can learn. Always use a sharp knife or shears. Make a slanting cut and place the flower stem in water immediately. Flowers from newly planted roses should be cut with very short stems, thus leaving most of the foliage for more favorable growth. Cut other roses back just above a node bearing a leaf with five leaflets.

GROUND MYRTLE OR VINCA WILT

Ground myrtle or vinca wilt can occur any time during the late spring or summer.

A popular ground cover plant, myrtle — also called vinca — often shows spots or patches of plants in the beds that wilt and die suddenly at this time of year.

The disease will continue to spread, especially if the weather is wet, Ralph J. Green Jr., Purdue University plant pathologist notes.

To control this disease, the bed or planting should be vigorously raked to remove all dead plants and debris should be clipped and burned. The bed should then be drenched with a fungicide solution, such as tribasic copper sulfate, bordeaux mixture, C.O.C.S. or with Pano-Drench, according to the manufacturer's directions.

Sufficient fungicide solution should be used to wet the top inch or so of the soil and the plant crowns and roots.

Beds should be fertilized and the addition of sulfur to the soil to make the soil more acid is also helpful.
