New Public Relations Head At Academy

A congressional relations officer from Washington, D. C., has been appointed director of development and public relations at Culver Military Academy. He is Frank L. Hutson, an executive in the Small Business Administration.

In announcing the selection, Brig. Gen. John W. Dobson, Academy superintendent, said that a reorganization in administrative structure would combine relations functions under Hutson's directorship.

Hutson joined the Small Business Administration in 1966 after an 18 year career in fund raising, public relations and sales promotion work. As congressional relations officer, he provided members of Congress with information on legislative proposals designed to assist small businesses.

He has served as spokesman for the Small Business Administration during meetings of congressional committees at which administration viewpoints were sought on legislative proposals or national problems relating to small business.

He has also represented the SBA at meetings of state governors, industry groups and non-governmental organizations to explain SBA policies and programs, and he has recommended policy changes on the basis of current attitudes, trends and opinions of congressional committees.

He received the SBA's National Honor Award in August in recognition of his achievement in public contact and congressional relations.

Prior to going to Washington, Hutson served as executive director in charge of fund raising and public relations for the Ohio Democratic State Committees from 1962 and 1966. In this period he planned and promoted yearly fund raising campaigns.

From 1959 to 1962 he handled consular and customs negotiations as a public relations representative for the Haitian Rhum Company in Mexico and was engaged in new market feasibility studies involved in introducing a foreign product to a new market.

Hutson worked in public relations and sales promotions from 1948 to 1958 for the Investment Corporation of Florida, as a broker in Washington Court House, Ohio, and for Hallmark Productions and Columbia Pictures in Hollywood.

He attended the Culver Summer Schools and the University of Miami in Coral Gables, Fla. He is graduate of Staunton (Va.) Military Academy and Rollins College in Winter Park, Fla. During War II he was an Army infantry officer in Europe.

Hutson, his wife, Marjorie, and children, Kathryn 10, and David 7, will move to Culver by Nov. 4. Two other children, Frank L. III, 18, and Patricia, 17, are students at the Academy and started classes Sept. 17.

Hutson succeeds W. Robert Matson, former development director, who was appointed to supervise public relations for the six institutions under the sponsorship of the Cranbrook Foundation in Bloomfield Hills, Mich., and Robert A. Reichley, former public relations director and magazine editor who was chosen to edit the Brown University monthly alumni magazine.

David H. Gaskill, Academy public relations representative was promoted in the reorganization to become assistant director of development for public rela-

The Singing Hoosiers of Indiana University will replace Los Paraguayos on Culver Military Academy's Concert Theater Series in a performance Saturday (Oct. 12) at 7:30 p.m.

The Latin-American folk singing group cut short its American tour in order to begin filling engagements in Greece. The Hoosiers were added to the series as a replacement for Culver's Homecoming variety show. General admission tickets will be on sale to non-series subscribers.

Verstability is the trademark of the Hoosiers, who have shared programs with such veteran performers as Bob Hope, Duke Ellington, Vic Damone, Fete Fountain, Allan Sherman, Red Buttons and Indiana's own Hoagy Carmichael.

Since 1952, under the sponsorship of the USO and Department of Defense, the Hoosiers have toured Europe, the Far East and the Caribbean to entertain men in uniform.

Requests for the group's services are received almost daily at I.U. The Hoosiers have sung for conventions, banquet and concert audiences and were frequent entertainers during 1968 Rose Bowl activities in South California when Indiana's Fightin' Hoosiers football team met the

The Hoosiers give fast paced, fulfilled, variety shows. The group specializes in Broadway show tunes, with special choreography, and also presents folk songs, jazz numbers and classical music a la the Swingle Singers.

About 120 I. U. students make up the Singing Hoosiers, although that number is reduced when the group takes to the road. Members of the group are drawn from every school and department in the University, including the world-famous School of Music.

Director Robert E. Stoll, an instructor in music at I. U., has developed a variety of special acts for the Hoosiers so that their shows include solos, duets, trios and small group numbers. ### Dates For Hunting And Trapping Set Dates for hunting and trapping were announced by the Indiana Department of Natural Resources for the 1968 1969 season.

Archers may hunt deer between October 19 and November 16, and again from December 10 through December 15. Only one deer may be of either sex and any age if taken in the first part of the split season, but it must be a buck with at least one antler three inches in length if taken in the December season.

A gun hunter may take one buck with an antler at least three inches in length between November 23 and December 9.

Deer hunting is legal in Indiana between sunrise and sunset. The long bow is legal for archers but it must have at least a 35-pound pull and the arrows must be metal or a metal-edged broadhead type. Guns are limited to 20, 16 or 12-gauge shotguns, loaded with rifle slugs, or a muzzle loading rifle, flintlock or percussion cap, of 45 caliber or over and loaded with a round ball bullet.

The ruffed grouse season this year is October 26 through November 16. Two grouse may be taken daily, with four in possession after the second day. Grouse hunting will be limited to Bartholomew, Brown, Jackson, Monroe and Morgan Counties and that part of Johnson County west of U.S. Highway 31 and south of State Highway 252.

Raccoon and opossum hunting will be from noon November 8 to noon January 31.

Raccoon, opossum, skunk, mink and muskrat trapping will be from noon November 15 to noon January 31.

Beaver may be taken from noon November 15 to noon February 15.

There are no daily bag or possession limits on fur bearing this year in Indiana.

Rabbit, pheasant, quail and Hungarian partridge hunting will be divided into two zones by U.S.

Highway 40 east of Indianapolis and U.S. Highway 36 west of Indianapolis. There will be a 9 a.m. opening on the first day in each zone.

Rabbit seasons will be November 11 through January 22 north, and November 20 through January 31 south. The 1968 1969 season has been extended 11 days in each zone as the result of findings that the breeding population will not be thus endangered.

Pheasant may be hunted from November 11 through December 22 north, and November 20 through December 31 south. Two cock pheasants may be taken daily, with a possession limit of four. Because of experimental releases the following counties are closed to pheasant hunting: Carroll, Clinton, Johnson, Knox, Shelby, Sullivan, Tipton and Vigo.

Quail seasons will be November 11 through December 22 north, and November 20 through December 31 south. Limits will be 10 daily and possession 20 after the second day. Previously a three-day possession limit was permissible.

Hungarian partridge seasons will be November 11 through December 22 north, and November 20 through December 31 south. Limits will be five daily and 10 in possession.

Species presently in season in Indiana are squirrel, sora and Virginia rails, and gallinules.

The dog running season for raccoon and other fur bearers is also open at this time but wild animals may not be shot or otherwise taken while dog running.

INDIANA FARM

PRICES LOWER

Ending a two-month rise, prices received by Indiana farmers for their products and Hoosier farm purchasing power declined two and one per cent, respectively, from mid-July to mid-August.

Purdue University agricultural economists and state-federal agricultural statisticians pointed out that at mid-August the Index of Indiana Farm Purchasing Power stood at 73 per cent of its 1910 14 average and was five per cent lower than at mid-August 1967.

Grain prices fell sharply, pushing that index down four per cent to a level of 174, which is 12 per cent below the mid-August 1967 level. Commodity prices declining: corn, seven per cent; wheat, nine per cent; oats, 10 per cent, and soybeans, one per cent.

The Indiana Livestock Price Index dropped two per cent. Contributing to this decline were lower prices for hogs, down nine per cent, and lambs, down five per cent. Partly offsetting were two per cent higher prices for cattle and five per cent higher prices for whole milk.

Farm price of Indiana eggs increased slightly to 30.3 cents per dozen. Turkey prices were

He's Way Out From Down Under

Everybody has a reason for the alleged decline in the morals of our young people. The problem is not limited to any one nation. It is world-wide, and the dilemma grows more severe with the passage of time. We have heard some theorists hold forth with beliefs that have appeared to be worthy of further study. Others have generated our skepticism.

Some have blamed violence and sex on TV or in the movies. The availability of pornographic books and photographs has been cited. Comic books have been brought into the debate by a number of people. The blame has been placed on our schools, our churches and the parents of the offenders.

Recently an Australian psychiatrist has placed a large portion of the blame on fairy tales for longer than most children believe them. He has devoted ten years to investigating Red Riding Hood, Goldilocks and Jack of beanstalk fame.

Now he suffers great apprehension over the influence these fantasies have on young minds. He has concluded that Little Red Riding Hood is a sexually-tempted young girl, with the warning of her mother not to stray from the straight and narrow path ringing in her ears. The big, bad wolf does not need much interpretation."

Well, after reading his theory one wonders why more Peyton Place fans don't open their copies of Mother Goose, instead of wasting money on more expensive hard-cover novels.

The doctor sees Jack as a one man crime wave in the beanstalk affair, and even Goldilocks stole the bear's porridge. He fails to explain why the world was not already beyond redemption from these lurid tales. It has, after all, been more than 150 years since the brothers Grimm authored the "horrifying and frightening" tales for which they have become famous.

Perhaps the good doctor will grow up himself soon and realize the difference between the adult mind and the imagination of the young ones.

Meantime, we wonder what he thinks of Santa Claus? Claus?

An additional doorway has been built into the west wall of the town hall and the township fire truck placed next to its big brother, the pumper. The chemical truck has been housed in a shed in back of the town hall but with the clearing of the land to make room for the new water tower it was necessary to find a new home for the township's fire apparatus.

At 3:30 Sunday afternoon Culver had an opportunity to see the first airplanes that have passed over town. There were two machines flying from South Bend to Lafayette. It was estimated that they were flying at a height of 2,000 feet, but the noise of their motors was loud enough to attract the attention of persons in the house.

CULVER COMMENTS

It took some doing, but we found the Democratic Headquarters, by golly. They have set up shop in the Crabb Bldg. This can mean only one thing — more bumper stickers. Now we are hard at work trying to ferret out the Wallace Headquarters. Newspaper work can be so exciting!

I'm relieved to announce that we have moved back to Culver for the winter. My husband did all the packing and moving while I was working. This definitely was above, and beyond what one expects from husbands and I am very grateful and all that. But to my dying day I'll never figure out his method. When I started unpacking, I found my nightgowns in the dutch oven, my makeup in the bread box and the toothpaste in the coffee pot.

SPECIAL NOTE — Saturday afternoon Town Marshall Sam Madonna was honored at a surprise birthday party at the Pizza Prince. Delicious birthday cake was served to the guests. Present were most of his auxiliary police. Belated Happy Birthday, Sam.

One of our most vocal amateur psychologists has me on his list of people with "psychological problems." I'm flattered. Some of the nicest people in town are on that list.

CAMPAIGN COMMENTS — Wallace really dropped a bombshell when he named Gen. LeMay as his V.P. His opponents jumped on this complication with gusto. Just to get things rolling, the Humphrey forces have hinted that if their man makes it, George Ball will be the next Secy. of State. Bounce that one around for awhile. Nixon has proposed an academy to teach local police how to do their job and to instruct them in "the social sciences and community relations." (I wouldn't touch that line with a ten foot pole).

According to Marilyn Kelly some wise shoppers are doing their Christmas shopping early. Apple

If you would eat one a day You will keep the doctor away

FIRST you draw a circle for the apple then sketch in the stem and leaves. Just use a lead pencil for this work. Then take your water color and wash in your sketch. If you have no water colors you can thin some ink which will make an attractive sketch in gray. Work fast, keeping the wash wet and running and don't try to work over. Wherever the white patches happen to be, let them remain.

KNOW YOUR INDIANA LAW

UNINSURED MOTORIST PROVISIONS

With thousands of persons dying, thousands more being injured, and billions of dollars of property being damaged in highway accidents, it is very important that all automobile owners protect themselves and their families by purchasing adequate automobile insurance. The responsible automobile owner will have liability insurance that will pay all persons injured as a result of his negligence and carelessness on the highway. But while the responsible person carries insurance to protect not only himself but the driving public, there are a number of drivers on the roads who are both uninsured and "judgement proof" — that is, do not have adequate financial resources to compensate the victims of their carelessness.

In 1965, our legislature passed an important law requiring that all insurance policies have an "Uninsured Motorist" Clause. This provision is for the protection of persons insured under liability policies who are legally entitled to recover damages from owners and operators of uninsured vehicles because of bodily injury or death. This provision in an automobile liability policy may only be rejected in writing by the policy holder.

An example may be helpful in understanding the operation of the "Uninsured Motorist" Clause of your liability insurance policy. If you and your family are injured in an accident caused by another running a red light, you and your family have the legal right to recover for your injuries from that driver. However, if that driver has no insurance and no money to pay your damages, you may recover your losses under the "Uninsured Motorist" provision of your own automobile liability insurance policy. Subject to specified qualifications, a policy holder injured in a "hit and run" accident might also collect from his own insurance company under the "Uninsured Motorist" Clause.

Since the effective date of this law was January 1, 1966, if you have purchased automobile insurance after this date your policy must automatically include this "Uninsured Motorist" provision, unless you have specifically rejected such coverage in writing.

Considering the soaring costs of medical services and automatic repair, any citizen would be well advised to review his automobile insurance policy to verify that his valuable protection is included. If it is not, write your insurance agent today. It is excellent coverage for a very small increase in your premium.

John Mars To Help Prepare Achievement Tests

John R. Mars, language department chairman at Culver Military, has been selected to serve on the committee that prepares Spanish Achievement Tests for the College Entrance Examination Board under the direction of the Educational Testing Service.

Three college professors, a high school language director and Mars, representing independent college preparatory schools, met recently in Princeton, N. J., with the chairman of the foreign language division of the Educational Testing Service. The team prepared an examination that will be given to high school age students during the academic year 1969-70.

In addition to serving as department chairman, Mars teaches three classes of advanced placement Spanish. A member of the Culver faculty since 1941, he has received the A.B. degree from Brown University and the MAT and MA degrees from Harvard.

Conscience gets a lot of credit that belongs to cold feet.

Three Culver Students Receive NMSQT Honors

Letters of Commendation honoring them for their high performance on the 1968 National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (NMSQT) have been awarded to three (3) students at Culver Community High School. Principal John R. Hayes has announced.

Those named Commended students are Bonita Albert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vance Albert Steven McCombs, son of Mr. and Mrs. James McCombs; and Carl Strang, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Strang.

They are among 39,000 students in the United States who have scored in the upper 2 per cent of those who will graduate from high school in 1969. The Commended students rank just below the 15,000 Semifinalists announced in September by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation (NMSC).

John M. Stalnaker, president of NMSC, said: "Although Commended students advance no further in the Merit Scholarship competition, their outstanding record in a nationwide program deserves public recognition. Their significant academic attainment gives promise of continued success in college.

"The Commended students should be encouraged to pursue their education since their intellectual talent represents an important and much needed natural resource. Our nation will benefit from their continuing educational development."

The Commended students' names are reported to other scholarship - granting agencies and to the colleges they named as their first and second choices when they took the NMQST in February 1968. The reports include home addresses, test scores, and anticipated college majors and career intentions of the Commended students. NMSC encourages these students to make every effort to continue their education.

The Predictor has had an unusually high percentage of "on the nose" prognostications during the past eight months, but he has fallen down on two. He predicted that Senator McCarthy's campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination would fall flat; well, it failed, but it didn't fall flat. Dublin — At the suggestion of the helpful folks at Aer Lingus (the highly-regarded Irish International Airline) I went visiting one day this week at Phoenix Park and the Dublin Zoo. I was impressed, truly. The park is one of the finest in any city, and the zoo is outstanding, particularly its lion department.

There are so many things to do in this beautiful, friendly Irish capital city! I literally had to tear myself away from shopping on Grafton St. to make the trip, for I was intrigued there by the beautiful displays of Irish tweeds, woollens and glassware, all of which are genuine bargains.

"And Abram said unto Lot, Let there be no strife, I pray thee, between me and thee, and between my herdmen and thy herdmen, for we be brethren." "The law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death." This verse from Romans is the Golden Text of the Bible Lesson-Sermon titled "Are Sin, Disease, and Death Real?" that will be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday. At First Church of Christ, Scientist, 428 South Michigan St., Plymouth, services will begin at 10:30 a.m.

Among related passages to be read from the Christian Science textbook, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by the denomination's Founder, Mary Baker Eddy, is the following: "Be watchful, sober, and vigilant. The way is straight and narrow, which leads to the understanding that God is the only Life. It is a warfare with the flesh, in which we must conquer sin, sickness, and death, either here or hereafter, — certainly before we can reach the goal of Spirit, or life in God."

CORN HARVEST FIELD LOSSES

Corn harvesting field losses may cost Indiana farmers about $25 million a year, estimates Sam Parsons, Purdue University extension agricultural engineer.

While field losses can never be eliminated completely, they can be cut to a minimum by doing a better job of harvesting, he points out.

One loss that can't be measured by the number of kernels on the ground results from harvesting before the corn has reached maximum growth and yield. If you field shell, the optimum moisture content for minimum field loss is about 26 per cent. If you use an ear corn picker, the moisture content may be about four to five per cent less to minimize losses.

Parsons says whole ear loss is a problem with all types of harvesters, but particularly with the corn combine. The corn head is designed mainly to harvest corn that is standing well and whole ear loss may be extremely high in down corn, he explains.

Speed is a major factor influencing whole ear loss.

For instance, whole ear loss with the corn combine may be about three times greater at three miles an hour than at two and a quarter miles an hour, than at two and a quarter miles an hour. Conversely, whole ear losses are less at a higher speed when the harvesting is done with an ear corn picker. At higher speeds, Parsons says, the ears are snapped farther back on the picker rolls where they are more easily saved.

To keep whole ear loss at a minimum, the engineer says to adjust forward speed for prevailing crop conditions and make sure the harvester is matched to the row width and to the number rows planted.

Shelled corn loss also is a problem with all types of harvesters. It can occur at the snapping unit on all machines, the husking bed on picker-shellers and corn combines.

Shelling at the snapping rolls usually will be greater on units which do not use stripper plates or bars, Parsons says. Open snapping rolls should be run as close together as possible, but not close enough to hamper a smooth stalk flow. Stripping devices should be set just enough to keep ears off the rolls.

While shelling losses at the husking bed and in the separation and cleaning operation are normally small in comparison with other losses, Parsons recommends careful and frequent adjustments as crop conditions change.

Moisture content influences two other types of losses which take place in field shelling. These are kernel damage and whole kernels or kernel tips left on the cob.

Parsons offers these rules of thumb for measuring field losses: Pace off 140 feet along the row in 38-inch rows — each whole ear found in this distance represents one bushel per acre loss. For 30 inch rows pace off 175 feet.

Construct a wire or light wooden frame in the shape of a square. Center this over the corn row and count the kernels within it. For 38 inch this over the corn row and count the kernels within it. For 38-inch rows use a 38 x 38 inch frame and figure each 18 kernels as one bushel per acre loss. Use a 30 x 30 inch frame for 30-inch rows and count 11 kernels as one bushel an acre loss.

FIRST SIX MONTHS CRITICAL FOR PERSON IN HOME FOR AGED

THE MAJOR CRISIS for a person in a home for the aged comes within the first six months of entering the institution, reports a psychiatrist at the University of Chicago. He said a recent study showed that 24 per cent of institutionalized persons died within the first six months, whereas only 10 per cent of those awaiting entrance but still living in a community setting died during the same period. In addition to those who died, approximately 25 per cent of the other recently admitted persons had serious physiological or psychological problems. Old people who pass the six month mark, he said, appear to be as well adjusted as the elderly who live in the general community.

FOOTBALL SEASON regularly brings on an increase in acne problems for the players, report dermatologists at the University of Michigan. Football uniforms, perspiration, the dirt of the field and the lack of sunlight on the skin all contribute to this seasonal increase. They say that football players may show a worsening of an acne condition if they play, but only if the condition was already present. By itself football equipment does not cause acne. It can, however, aggravate an existing condition — particularly of the pustular type of acne — in the upper torso.

BRAIN RESEARCHERS at the University of Pennsylvania are about to begin work on a project they hope will lead to a better understanding of stroke — a disease that hits 400,000 Americans every year and kills 200,000. They hope to produce an experimental model of a stroke in monkeys by blocking a brain artery so that they can study the changes in cerebral blood flow and metabolism that occur under this condition.

WIRE ELECTRODES as small as .025 (1/40) inch in diameter are revolutionizing the arc welding industry. The continuous bare wires are used with carbon dioxide, argon or gas mixture that shield the weld zone from the contaminating effects of air. The Alloy Rods Company, York, Pa., says the slender electrodes are faster than stick-electrode processes and produce less metal spatter.

THE FISHER does not fish. The 12 pound animal is a tree-hoing creature. Its favorite prey is the procupine.

LOUD AND CLEAR

People would be better off if an amplifier was attached to the voice of conscience.

WET JOB . . . Building bridges in Vietnam is a wet job for Navy Seabees. Positioning piles for driving can be pretty sloppy, but it's necessary to get them started right.

HEALTH HINTS

National Association Of Blue Shield Plans

HICCUPS

Practically everyone experiences an attack of hiccups at one time or another. While ordinary hiccups are not considered a medical problem and usually subside of their own accord, you may obtain faster relief with such remedies as sipping water, breathing deeply, holding your breath, or deep exhaling and inhaling into a paper bag. If hiccups persist for protracted periods of time, consult your physician.

FOOTBALL

Although football is considered an excellent "character builder" for youths, it can result in bodily impairment if a boy is not in good physical condition. Secure a medical clearance from your doctor before allowing your child to engage in this rough contact sport. Also, make certain he has the necessary equipment — helmet, shoulder, hip, thigh, and knee pads, and shoes — to afford maximum protection. Boys engaging in this sport should play in groups of similar size and age.

SCHOOL SAFETY

Impress upon your child — especially smaller children — the importance of observing all safety precautions during the school year. Parents should instruct their children on the proper crossing of streets and intersections. Crossing guards are stationed there for the child's protection and should be obeyed. Other safety reminders should cover proper deportment on the school bus and the rules of bicycle safety.

Then, there's that once a month when a girl could use a good old-fashioned medicine.

Maybe you feel just plain bad then. Or maybe a little lonely and sad, like you could use a pair of arms around you.

Well, we have just the thing for this once a month time. Lydia E. Pinkham Tablets. They're made with gentle, natural ingredients, including one that works to help relax tightened muscles that give you cramps. Plus a little iron that a girl could use at a time like this. And, you don't run any chance of the kind of unpleasant side effects you could get from some of the newer drugs.

With an old-fashioned problem like this, couldn't you take an old-fashioned medicine?
