CULVER, INDIANA

VOTE!

Tuesday, November 5, election day 1968. This election, a presidential election year, could set an all time record for voters in this country as one of the most exciting elections and one of the most controversial in many years will unfold across the country when the polls open.

A presidential election usually follows a trend. Across the country, many are swept into power on the shirttails of the presidential candidates due to the fact that many voters almost refuse to split a ticket. This election could be very different.

With a third party candidate that is going to get votes, the voters will have to make a choice for the other offices. In Indiana, much is at stake. A senate seat will be decided this year, a governor is to be named and most of the state offices are up for re-election to further spice up the campaigns. Many county offices are on the ballot and consequently, a very important election will be held on all levels.

Along with the offices at stake, the issues of the election this year are more important than ever. As has been stated before, many key issues must be decided in the coming years and those elected this year will be the ones to start the ball rolling in our country again to return a more peaceful attitude to the United States both in foreign events and domestic as well. It is simple to say that no man can come in and make the decisions that the people want to hear right away, but with the senate seats that need to be filled and of course the entire house to be selected, those who are voted into office this year will have to act on these matters in their term of office.

The important thing at hand now is that you vote. The government of our country is chosen by individuals just like yourself. One vote can be a very big vote even though you are talking of vote totals in the hundreds, thousands and millions over the country, state and federal elections. Take advantage of your greatest governmental privilege, and be sure to vote on Tuesday, November 5.

The Culver band has made arrangements to receive election returns through both Independent and Bell telephones. The band will give a concert and hear returns at the Band Hall.

Clara Rollins and Joseph Artis were married Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Rollins.

John W. Cromley will build two cottages this fall on his lots on South Main Street. One is already under way.

D. W. Marmon is rebuilding his cottage on the East Side, converting it into a two-story building.

The Vandalia will be in all probability, give Culver a freight depot next spring according to the assurance given out by the superintendent.

CULVER COMMENTS

Recently many residents of Culver were called upon and asked to purchase candy for new band uniforms. The students didn't tell what school they were representing unless asked. They were not from Culver but the people who purchased the candy thought they were.

Since the band students of Culver have been working to raise money for new uniforms, this is definitely a "dirty deal." If you are approached for contributions be certain you know whom you are dealing with. You might also check the paper. If it is a local drive it will be announced ahead of time.

We would like to correct an error in last week's Citizen. Mr. Beaver lost his chicken coop in the fire last week - not his cricken coop as reported. It's too bad it wasn't the cricken coop, because hardly anyone raises crickens anymore.

Latest complaint from the townspeople is the cars racing and squealing tires through town late at night. Car 45 - where are you?

Some of you naughty people are burning leaves on the black top again. This is another no-no! Aren't there enough holes in our streets now without creating more?

These last few days before the political announcements. The election TV is swamped with last 5 minutes of hourly programming can become pretty grim. I however, have come up with a fun solution. Just switch back and forth from one channel to another. Between the commercials and politicians, I managed to come up with the following: "Loose dentures bothering you?" - "Vote for Humphrey." "Is there a man in your family with a shaving problem?" - "Nixon's the One." "Cigarettes can be hazardous to your health." - "Wallace will throw them in the Potomac River."

"My fellow Americans, I come to you with a heavy heart" - Try Doanes' Pills"

"The United States is in the worst shape in history" - A Playtex Living Girdle can make you look 5 lbs. slimmer."

"The new Mr. Clean looks the same but" - Has he really changed?"

The Colorado Press Association has released the following definitions that may be useful to you at election time:

Socialism - You have two cows and give one to your neighbor.

Communism - You have two cows, the government takes both and gives you the milk.

Fascism - You have two cows, the government takes both and sells you the milk.

Nazism - You have two cows, the government takes both and shoots you.

New Idealism - You have two cows, the government takes both, shoots one, milks the other and throws the milk away.

Capitalism - You have two cows, you sell one and you buy a bull.

Can't figure out what to buy your wife for her birthday? You might do what John Roos did for his wife, Phyllis. What other women in Culver can boast by 8' sign wishing her a Happy Birthday? Bill Stubbs designed the masterpiece and placed it at the intersection of Roads 10 and 17.

If your husband isn't all that generous. Ron Tusing is. All you lucky girls will receive a free orchid from Mr. T. at his Grand Announcement, Saturday, Nov. 9.

Voice Of The People

Last night when my husband was on his way to work at 10:30 he had to stop for a car going east on College Ave. The car turned out to be the Culver Police car and as it approached the intersection where my husband was waiting the driver of the car turned the spot light on him. This seems a little odd to us. This is not the first time this has happened to us. I have been with my husband when the same thing happened. On talking to other citizens I have been told that this practice is carried out quite often at the corner of 10 & 17.

I would like to know the purpose of this practice and if there is a good reason for this I would be the last to complain. If this is a new way of catching desperate criminals let me be the first to applaud the act. Maybe one of the police force could answer in the paper as to why this practice is being done.

Kiddies-Can-Do-It By Uncle Cobb Shinn

Do You Know The Name Of This Animal?

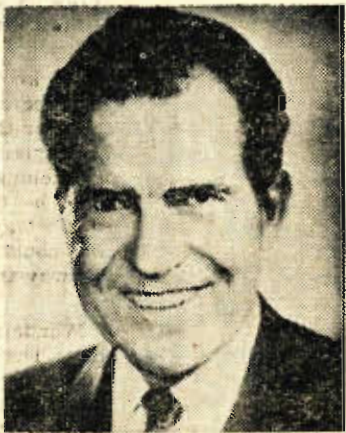

His name is one of the most curious mistakes that you will find in the animal kingdom. In no sense is he a pig nor is he any relation to a guinea, yet we call him a guinea-pig. Down in South America, his native home, he goes by the name of cavy. Study this lot of tangled lines carefully, and see if you can see his picture in them. When you are sure that you have discovered it, take your pencil and try to blot out all the unnecessary lines and have a large picture of a guinea-pig.

VISITORS FROM HOLLAND

"The people of Culver are so friendly and helpful," said Mrs. Dennis Boschee, who has as houseguests her mother, Mrs. Toos Voogd and cousin, Miss Rietze Heijt of Amsterdam, Holland. Mrs. Boschee acted as interpreter for her mother who does not speak English. Mrs. Voogd was pleasantly surprised when shortly after her arrival for a 3½ month stay in Culver, Mrs. Ora Reed entertained at a breakfast in honor of her birthday. "This never happened in Amsterdam" her daughter remarked.

Mrs. Boschee, whose first name is Gerritje (no one can pronounce it. It sounds like Heidi, so everyone calls me Heidi) after conferring with her guests told us some of the differences between the two countries.

Amsterdam is six hours ahead of us and the climate much cooler in the summer. The women of Holland don't watch TV in the afternoon as do their contemporaries over here. TV programming begins at 6:45 p.m. and stops at 11:00 p.m. It's not free either; they receive a bill once a year for both TV and radio service.

... More housing in U.S.A. ... It is quit common in Amsterdam for two families to live together in much smaller homes than we enjoy. A long waiting list attests to the fact that more housing is need. Supermarkets are being built in the needed housing developments that are in the process of being built on the outskirts of the city; but as of now, marketing is done everyday. One shop sells meat, another vegetables and so on. On certain days of the week outdoor markets are opened where one can purchase practically anything from fish to blankets.

Respect President Johnson
We were amazed to learn that if any protestor in Holland carries a sign insulting President Johnson they are arrested and jailed. Because of the N.A.T.O. Alliance, they consider our president their friend and will tolerate no derogatory statements about him. You can imagine their great surprise that we allow our protestors complete freedom to insult the President whenever they feel so inclined. The people of Holland are very much interested in who becomes our next president since they wish to see the N.A.T.O. Alliance continue. They Remember World War II
This Alliance has meant that many servicemen are now stationed in their country. Mrs. Boschee met her husband while he was stationed there. They do not resent this but rather feel more secure with the N.A.T.O. forces there. They remember World War II when the Germans occupied their country. To keep from starving, they ate tulip bulbs and the 8 o'clock curfew meant that if even a dog walked in the streets a ter that hour it was shot. They also have memories of Jewish families dragged from their homes and taken away.

Eager to Observe Christmas Here

One of the reasons Mrs. Voogd and Miss Heijt chose this time of year to visit is that they are eager to see our Christmas customs.

In Holland, Christmas is celebrated on Dec. 24 and 25 and Sinterklaas (Santa Claus) makes his appearance Dec. 5. Santa Claus, to the children of Holland, is a holy man from Spain who arrives on their roof-tops riding a white horse.

His helper is a tall, thin man called Black Piet who walks behind the horse and carries the bag of treats for the children.

Since the heating system in that country consists of a coal stove in the center of the living room, Black Piet must come down the thin stove pipe. That's why he is black.

The children put their shoes next to the stove and leave water and carrots for Santa Claus' horse. Piet supposedly takes the offerings and leaves chocolate and trinkles as a gift for their thoughtfulness.

In this country we warn the little ones to behave or Santa won't come. In Holland if they are bad they risk the chance of being put in Black Piet's bag.

If any of you have the opportunity to meet these women, we can promise you a most rewarding experience.

MAJOR POINTS AND MINOR TOO

It's about time: We did some relating of auto accidents to insurance costs.

The only way to bring down insurance is to reduce the number of claims . . . and we only do this when we have fewer crashes.

There has been a gradual rise in claim costs over the years . . . cars are more expensive to buy and to repair . . . doctor bills are up . . . hospital costs are up . . . glass costs more . . . so it's no wonder that auto coverages have risen, too.

There is a national need for strong safety measures . . . better driver licensing laws . . . action to keep drunk drivers off the road . . . better driver education for both students and adults . . . they'll help keep insurance costs from rising, but more importantly they'll cut the senseless carnage on our streets and highways!

OUR READERS WRITE: Ivan Bunny asks if you've heard about the guy who died from having too much iron in his blood . . . his wife stabbed him! . . . Wilfred Beaver advises that a joint checking account often leads to a no account husband . . . and Don Frankel defines a purse snatcher as a fellow with a gift of grab!

PURELY PERSONAL: I'm surprised that the auto manufacturers get away with putting their names on their products in such prominent display, especially on the tailgates of trucks, which seem to be huge moving billboards . . . many a man who wore a zoot suit when he was young is now alarmed because his son wears long hair and beads . . . I'm a great believer in flu shots and advise them for everyone who doesn't suffer from an allergy they might aggravate . . . pumpkin pie time is here, and that pleases me greatly . . . the waitress with a runny nose spreads cold germs wherever she goes!

MORE FROM READERS: Hal Halborn tells how to keep from leaving the scene of an accident: Wear your seat belt . . . Harry C. Bauer says "Show me a man who cooks his own goose, and I'll show you a man who likes to be asked out for dinner" . . . according to Roman C. Brandt, success is due to two things, luck and pluck; luck is finding the right guy to pluck.

ADVICE TO PARENTS: Never let your youngsters stand free in the car when you're driving. A sudden stop can send head against windshield or door, causing serious injury or death. Keep them belted in, please — Brant Stark.

GENE GEMS: Would you call an opera lover a Carmentist? . . . my wife has her voice insured . . . it's called alto insurance. — Gene Gasiorowski

Riviera Vignette
St. Jaul: This hilltop town, surrounded by a thick stone wall, is one of the interesting places that everyone who visits the French Riviera should explore. It was built centuries ago, when a walled hilltop location offered protection against marauders and invaders. It retains its ancient charm, with narrow winding cobblestoned streets, quaint little shops and homes dating back to the Middle Ages.

Many artists and writers have chosen St. Paul for their home, for it offers a delightful view and atmosphere in a wonderful climate, only a few miles from Cannes, Nice and St. Tropez. Just outside the wall is a fine inn and restaurant, The Golden Door. The walls are covered with wonderful original paintings, including works by Picasso, Duffy and others. And still superintending the establishment is the widow of the man who collected them and helped build the inn into a "must visit" location. — Lenore Lee.

Girl Scout News

Brownie Troop 47 met at the Methodist Church on October 23, with fourteen girls present. The highlight of the afternoon was a surprise visit from our story telling lady who was appropriately dressed in a Halloween costume. She fascinated the girls as she read the story of "The Witch of Hissing Hill." Following the story, she passed out black hats which were similar to her own so that everyone could join in the spirit of Halloween. Each girl was asked to draw her favorite picture of a cat which added to the enjoyment of all.

Mandy Curtis furnished refreshments. The troop is planning a celebration for Juliette Low's birthday, founder of Girl Scouts, at the next meeting.

Christmas Gifts For Mentally Ill Planned Again

The Marshall County Mental Health Association again is sponsoring the Christmas Gift Program for the Mentally Ill. In order to give the hospital personnel ample time to get these gifts ready to be delivered to the patients at their parties on Dec. 18th, they are asking that the gifts be at the hospital by Dec. 2. That means to have them at your local depots by the last of November. Depots are the Van Hilder Furniture Store, corner of Michigan and LaPorte, and the Clifford Lamborn home across the road from Pice Nurseries on No. Michigan. This seems early, but there is a lot to be done before these gifts can be distributed to the patients at their Christmas parties.

Remember there are 500 more men than women at Beatty Memorial Hospital. They especially stress clothing of large or medium sizes, wash and wear type (drip-dry) as there are no cleaning facilities at the hospital. All items must be new and unwrapped. Select a gift that you would like to receive.

The hospital is also asking for new Christmas cards and 6c stamps say that the patients may send Christmas greetings the same as you or I. Other suggestions are: pre-covered Christmas gifts boxes, approximately the size of shoe boxes, skirt, or underwear boxes. You may send along ribbon and bows, and don't forget your large size grocery sacks to send along. We are counting on your help.

If you are giving as an organization, please state the name of the organization, its president, and the president's address.

Gifts may be left at Trone's in Culver or at the home of Mrs. John (Phyllis) Mars, North Shore Lane, C.M.A.

EASTERN STAR AUXILIARY

The Eastern Star Auxiliary met in the home of Mrs. Jerome Zechel, Sr. on Tuesday evening, Oct. 22.

There were 18 members present at the meeting. The assisting hostesses were Mrs. Fred Masten and Mrs. Al Poppe.

Refreshments were served and the remainder of the evening was spent at cards. The Bridge prize was won by Mrs. Wm. Easterday, the Finch prize by Mrs. Merle McCune and the mystery prize went to Mrs. Wm. Easterday.

A WORD OF CAUTION

by Judson Dillon
Guidance Director

The Culver Community High School Guidance Department offers a thought of caution to Seniors and to their parents. As the senior year progresses, students and their parents become more interested in advanced education programs at the post high school level. Several persons will consider only well established academic or technical schools which carry a fine reputation in the field of education and business. These people are most fortunate. Other students may consider schools which are not so well established and are not well regarded by the future employers of the skills which the school supposedly develops in its students.

How can one determine if a training school is really an adequate training institution? First, does the school offer the particular student's interests and abilities? Is the school adequately equipped to fulfill the obligation? Is the teaching staff competent? Is the service being considered in current demand? Is the demand likely to continue? Does the school take an active role in securing jobs for their graduates? Will the school continue its interest in job placement? Is the cost of the programs reasonable? Does the representative of the school encourage you to investigate the school and to visit the school? When you feel that these questions can be answered affirmatively, you may be considering an appropriate training institution.

The Guidance Department can help you answer some of these questions relative to your son or daughter. Also, the Guidance Department can provide reference material to help you choose among satisfactory training schools. The department cautions all parents to consider well before they sign any contracts to pay for a training program. Many of these contracts are enforceable by law even though the students change their intentions to continue in the program. Become informed before you obligate yourself by signing agreements.

KNOW YOUR INDIANA LAW

By Attorney Gen. John J. Dillon
"BUYING A HOME?"
"Caveat Emptor" translated from the Latin means — Let The Buyer Beware!

However, the average person buying a home is less inclined to protect himself in making this major, perhaps once-in-a-lifetime, purchase, than he is when buying an automobile.

A common misconception held by the average buyer is that all that is needed in a real estate transaction is a deed from the owner to the seller. The deed is only evidence of ownership, and certainly does not reflect whether or not the person conveying has all right, title and interest to the property. For a buyer to be assured that he is really getting what he is paying for, he should insist that the abstract (a history of the property) be continued. The abstract should then be examined by the buyer's attorney who can advise whether or not the seller is the title owner of the property, and that it is free of all encumbrances, or if defects do appear whether they can safely be waived.

Some defects which are not always apparent are: title not in the seller, encroachments by other land owners, zoning requirement, a restrictive covenant contained in the deed prohibiting or regulating and restricting the use of the property, conveyed mechanics liens, unpaid taxes and judgements, outstanding life estates.

Of course, once it is determined there are no defects in the title, there is still the manner in which the property is to be conveyed; that is, who must sign the deed to make a proper conveyance. For example, a wife must join in a conveyance by a husband to another of lands owned by the husband individually.

When you decide to purchase the home you have always desired, be sure to seek legal advice. It is always easier for your lawyer to correct a defect before the transaction is completed than afterwards.

LAW "POINTS NOT WANTED IN THIS GAME"

By Attorney Gen. John J. Dillon
Unlike most athletic contests, to protect your driver's license, you must drive safely and not score points. Indeed, hundreds of thousands of safe drivers in the State of Indiana have scored no points at all. The Driver's License Point System is a yardstick for determining driver ability or lack of it. From time to time the Governor, acting on the advice of law enforcement agencies, the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, the Attorney General's Office and private sources, reviews the Point System in the light of recent experiences. Point values for driving offenses are determined, with consideration given to the seriousness of the violation. An offense is considered more serious if it is the kind that has consistently caused accidents in the past. Thus, two (2) points are assessed for speeding ten miles per hour over the speed limit, whereas six (6) points are assessed for reckless driving.

If within a two (2) year period, a driver under twenty-one receives eight (8) points or more, or a driver over twenty-one receives ten (10) points or more, the Bureau of Motor Vehicles orders the driver into a Bureau of Motor Vehicles hearing. The purpose of the hearing is to discuss the driver's habits with an eye toward future improvement. At this interview, the driver may avail himself of the right to counsel. As a result of the hearing, the driver may have his driving privilege suspended for up to one (1) year, be placed on probation or receive strong instructions to improve his driving habits. This determination is subject to review by a court of law.

It is important to remember that the main purpose of the Driver's License Point System is to encourage good driving habits and reduce accidents, not to assess points. Indiana needs drivers who are scoreless and safe. Injuries from automobile accidents are now touching almost every family. So to protect your driver's license, and your family, make a perfect score in this game — zero.

HALLOWEEN SAFETY TIPS

The St. Joseph County Health Department, always conscious of the health and safety of the public, issues the following suggestions to make Halloween a safe one for excited children.

1. Remind your children of basic safety rules: Not to dash between parked cars; not to play in the street; to cross at corners only, and not to cross the street without looking both ways.
2. Do not allow your children to wear flammable costumes.
3. Children should not be allowed to carry candles or torches. If he must have a lantern or light, make sure it is powered by flashlight batteries.
4. Costumes should fit properly, so there is no danger of tripping or catching on fences or bushes.
5. Do not permit children to carry a knife or other sharp instruments.
6. Paint faces on with cosmetics, grease paint or burnt cork, instead of wearing masks. A mask can be dangerous, because it may slide over a child's eyes and obstruct his vision.
7. There are new reflective materials — such as tapes, stripes and arm bands that can be put on costumes to stand out in the dark. You can cut the risk of after-dark walking and cycling by applying the materials to clothes and bikes.

8. If you drive on Halloween, go slowly, keeping in mind there will be many children out that night.

9. Eliminate hazards in your yard.

10. Keep an outside light on so the children will not trip on steps, outdoor furniture or other obstacles.

MIGHT BE IT

"Your husband has a new suit, hasn't he?"

"No, I'm quite sure he hasn't." "Well, something about his appearance is different."

"Oh, now I know what it is! Didn't I tell you I have a new husband?"

ALL DEFENDS

"That depends," said the guide, "on how fast you're carrying it."

A well-loved verse from Psalm 130 — "Let Israel hope in the Lord: for with the Lord there is mercy, and with him is plenteous redemption" — is part of a Bible Lesson-Sermon titled "Everlasting Punishment" to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday. Services at First Church of Christ Scientist, Plymouth will begin at 10 a.m.

Selections to be read from the denominational textbook, Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, include the following: "Divine Love corrects and governs man. Men may pardon, but this divine Principle alone reforms the sinner. God is not separate from the wisdom He bestows. The talents He gives we must improve. Calling on Him to forgive our work badly done or left undone, implies the vain supposition that we have nothing to do but to ask pardon, and that afterwards we shall be free to repeat the offence."

Northern Indiana 1967 Farm Labor Incomes Lower

Average farm labor income of 118 northern Indiana farmers who kept records with Purdue University's Agricultural Economics Department last year was $211, compared with $9,002 in 1966 and $8,542 in 1965. The 1967 earnings were only slightly higher than the most recent low of $151 in 1959.

Farm labor income is the net cash farm income plus changes in inventory values minus the value of unpaid family labor minus five per cent interest on the capital investment. Labor income is the return to the owner-operator or to both the tenant and landlord for labor and management.

The average size of farm units operated by cooperators was larger than the average of all farms in northern Indiana and, in general, cooperators' farms are operated more efficiently than all farms. Therefore, average earnings of co-operators can not be considered as average for all farms in northern Indiana.

F. V. Smith, Purdue extension economist, said the lower earnings last year reflected generally lower prices of farm products, lower yields and higher cash farm expenses than in 1966.

Average cash receipts for these farms in 1967 were about $600 more than in 1966. Cash expenses were about $1200 higher. However, inventory values of feed, grain, livestock, machinery and improvements at the end of the year were $755 lower than at the beginning of the year. In 1966 there was a net inventory increase of $6,606.

The average size of the northern Indiana farm account farms increased from 365 acres in 1966 to 388 acres in 1967, an increase of 23 acres per farm unit. Average capital investment increased from $162,244 to $183,287 per farm unit.

Returns both to labor and to capital on these farms in 1967 were somewhat higher for the medium farms (220 to 230 tillable acres) than for either the small or large farms.

Usually, under average price relationships, the large farms with larger volume of business have somewhat lower production costs per tillable acre than either the medium or small farms and, therefore, show higher returns for both labor and capital. However, large size also can result in losses under adverse conditions such as the price declines and lower yields in 1967. For example, the less profitable large farms had a lower average labor income ($-6,644) than the less profitable small farms ($-4,696).

Although average earnings were low in 1967, there were large differences in average labor incomes between the more profitable and less profitable groups of farms in each size group. These differences were $8,662, $10,034 and $11,511 for the small, medium and large farms respectively.

The major part of the large differences in earnings between the more profitable and less profitable groups of farms of similar size can be accounted for by differences in management, including choice of farm enterprises, efficiency in production of crops, livestock and livestock products, volume of business and the ability to keep operating expenses in proportion with gross income.

Detailed data from the 1967 northern Indiana cooperators' records are available in the following 1967 Indiana Farm Business Summaries:

- EC 241, Northern Area Small Farms
- EC 242, Northern Area Medium Farms
- EC 243, Northern Area Large Farms

These publications are available to Indiana residents without charge from the Agricultural Economics Department, Krannert Building Purdue University, Lafayette, Ind. 47907.

NEW RATES OF POSTAGE ON PARCEL POST

Postmaster Mattox reminded postal customers recently that higher parcel post and catalog rates will go into effect Saturday October 19. The rate increase will average 10.5 per cent and in most cases will mean an additional ten cents postage per parcel.

The higher rates were approved by the interstate commerce commission in July. Under the new rates the minimum charge for local parcel delivery will go from 40 to 50 cents. The minimum charge for parcels destined outside the local delivery area will be raised from 50 cents to 60 cents.

Almost all parcels that are charged up to $1.10 under present rates will go up to 10 cents. This accounts for more than 80 per cent of all parcel post. Postmaster Mattox pointed out.

There will be a 15c hike on most parcels now charged between $1.10 and $4.00, and a 20 cent increase on parcels now over $4.00. Parcel post rates are based on the weight of the package and the distance it is mailed.

Higher rates for the delivery of packages and catalogs are required to bring revenue from this type of mail within four per cent of operating costs, as required by law. Postmaster Mattox explained. The higher rates are designed to put parcels and catalogs, which are fourth class mail, on a break even basis.

Additional revenue is needed from parcel post and catalogs to offset higher costs resulting from pays increases approved last year for postal employees.
