Culver Cavaliers Win Opener Over Argos

By Earl Mishler

Culver Community High School opened its initial varsity basketball season on a victorious note Saturday night, bouncing Argos, 70-62, in the shiny new CCHS gymnasium.

A large crowd watched the new Cavaliers assume the lead late in the first quarter and lead the visiting Dragons the rest of the way by margins that varied from narrow to comfortable.

Culver unveiled the new gym, a new coach in Dave Huffman and new uniforms — but its finest article on display was a 6'3" senior forward named John Szponar. The former Aubbeenaubee star scored 28 points, hauled down 20 rebounds, blocked five shots, intimidated many others and generally dominated the game particularly in the second half.

Szponar teamed with classmate Rick Pugh for 50 of the 70 Culver points and 32 rebounds. Pugh, 6' forward, scored 22 points and used good positioning to snare 12 rebounds before fouling out with 2:47 left in the game.

Junior guard John Bauer scored 12 points for the winners and senior running mate Steve McCombs added six. The fifth Culver starter, center John Wamsley, scored only two points but turned in an excellent defensive job on 6'4" center Keith Hardesty, Argos' chief scoring threat. The 6'5" Cavalier senior held Hardesty to two points in the first half before encountering foul troubles in the third quarter.

While the victory was certainly a fine team effort by the Cavaliers, it was the high-jumping Szponar who caught the fans' imagination. The big blond hit 12 of 20 shots from the floor and added four free throws in six tries. His statistical totals would have been even more impressive had he not missed four minutes, 33 seconds of action in the second quarter in foul trouble.

Nineteen of John's points and 17 of his rebounds came when he returned to action in the second half.

Pugh, showing fine moves out of the corners, hit eight of 16 shots from the field and six of 10 at the line, scoring 13 points in the first half, including 10 in the second quarter.

Argos, a winner over Wanatah in its opener Friday night, jumped to a 3-0 lead on a free throw by Jerry Nolin and Bill Beam's basket. The Dragons led for the first six minutes, 45 seconds, their biggest margin being four points at 11-7.

Wamsley's tip-in at the 1:15 mark of the opening period tied the score at 12-12 and the Cavaliers assumed the lead at 15-14 on McCombs' free throw with 20 seconds left in the quarter. That was the score at the break, and the hosts never trailed again.

Leading 20-16, Culver ran off 10 straight points midway in the second period for its biggest lead of the night at 30-16. Pugh tallied six of those points.

But the black-clad Dragons stormed back, aided by a series of Cavalier errors. Nine straight AHS points trimmed the margin to 34-27 at halftime.

Culver led by margins ranging from six to 11 points throughout the entire second half. Szponar's return to the lineup resulted in an amazing flurry of rebounds, more than offsetting the Cavaliers' inability to stop Hardesty without Wamsley in the game. Argos reserve Rick

Deer Meets Volkswagon

A beautiful seven-point buck deer met a sad fate last Wednesday afternoon when it sprinted into the path of Mrs. R. K. Walmoth's Volkswagen.

Mrs. Walmoth was headed south on state road 17, just north of the city limits, when the animal suddenly darted in front of her car. The deer had to be destroyed and the Volkswagen received serious injury.

The accident was investigated by Officer Sam Madonna and Jim Watson, game warden.

Mr. Watson noted that a total of 44 deer had been killed by cars this year in Marshall County.

PTA Mee's

The Culver P.T.A. met on Tuesday evening, November 19 in the Junior High study hall. Following the business meeting, the President, Mr. Edward Terek introduced Mrs. C.W. Epley, who presented the program entitled, "How a Child Learns to Read."

Mr. Epley illustrated through group participation, pictures, charts, and cards, the process by which children are taught to read. She explained that through the use of phonics and context clues, the children learn by way of auditory and visual discrimination, and through repetition. In conclusion, Mrs. Epley stressed the need to understand that children do not learn at the same rate of speed.

Following the program, refreshments were served in the Home Economics room by Mrs. Gerald Thomas, Mrs. Paul Winn, Mrs. Eugene Riester, Mrs. Gene Crosley, Mrs. George DePoy, and Mrs. Jerome Zechiel, Jr.

No friend can advise you as well as your own conscience.

CULVER TOWN BOARD NEWS

Donald P. Osborn, town board president, announced that after close inspection the board purchased a second hand street sweeper from the town of Bremen. They entered into an agreement over price with Bremen and complete payment will be made after the first of the year.

The Board has also checked into the sewage department request for tools and has agreed to purchase them.

Arrangements were made for a special meeting between the board members, Mrs. Downer, the town attorney and the East-erday Co. concerning the surface drainage problem.

Plans were also made to meet with Williams and Associated to deal with pending problems at the sewage plant.

Verl McFeely reported that the snow plow on the new truck could not be used at night since the plow covered the headlights. A possible solution would be to remove the spot light from the old sewage truck and mount it on the new truck. George Becker will check with the garage that sold them the truck.

McFeely also told the Board that the new gas heating unit recently installed in the new pump house was not working. Although this had been reported and an attempt to repair it had been made, it still was not working.

Civic students from the Culver School system were present for the meeting.

Well I Swan!

That was Frank Setzler's expression last Sunday morning when he came around the north east corner of the new Academy boat house. There, not more than 100 yards ahead of him, was a beautiful pair of Whistling Swans and their immature cygnet, swimming gracefully among hundreds of black coots. Maybe this is one of his rewards for walking six miles to town and back for his newspaper.

Carol Anderson Weds Randal Wakefield

A candlelight ceremony united Miss Carol Lynn Anderson and Randall Ruby Wakefield in marriage Saturday, November 2. The even o'clock double ring service was officiated by Rev. Carl Q. Baker in the Culver Wesley United Methodist Church.

Miss Loretta Berger played the nuptial music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Edwin Anderson who sang, "One Hand One Heart" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Anderson of Knox and the parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Wakefield of Culver.

The altar was decorated with baskets of white mums, and the white carpeted aisle was lighted with hurricane pew labras.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her father, wearing a white silk peau de soie floor length gown, featuring a jewel neckline on a high raised bodice rosted with reembordered Alen-on lace and tiny pearls on English net, the long sleeves had a soft ruffle and bow at the waist. The skimmer skirt flowing into a chapel length train completed her gown. A half-hat of velvet leaves and soft braid loops held the bride's short bouffant illusion veil. She carried a bridal cascade of pink and white carnations.

Miss Diann Anderson of Muncie attended her sister as maid of honor, and Miss Loretta Demons of South Bend and Miss Penny Wakefield of Culver served as bridesmaids. Ruffled ice encircled the jewel necklines and long sleeves of the attendants' gowns, and formed abots on the front of the lace empire bodice. The floor length skirts of deep pink shantung rimmed with matching back bow and streamers. Each attendant wore a half-hat of bell shape lowers with a short full veil in pale pink to match the bodice of her gown. They carried a cascade of pink and white carnations with light pink streamers. Traci

Dee Ross, cousin of the bride served as flower girl wearing a floor length light pink crepe dress with a deep pink belt at the empire waist. Her head piece was a soft pink bow matching her dress. She carried a small nosegay of pink carnations encircled with white miniature carnations and deep pink streamers.

Charles Wakefield, brother of the groom served as best man. Ushering the guests were Danny Haenes of Culver and Tim Heilman of Greencastle. Terry Wakefield, brother of the groom was ring bearer.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the Moose Lodge, Knox. The bride is a 1968 graduate of Knox High School and the groom graduated from Culver High School and attended I.U. Extension at South Bend and is now employed at McGills of Culver. The couple resides at Culver.

Sabel - Snyder Married In Maryland

A November 9 ceremony united Miss Lee Hoover Sabel of Laurel, Md., and Allen Lee Snyder. The one o'clock ceremony was performed in the First United Presbyterian Church, Fairmont, Md., by the Rev. James M. Armstrong II in a setting of palms, lighted candles in candelabra, and standards of large white chrysanthemum and pompons. White satin ribbons and white pompons marked the family pews.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Sabel of Fairmont Farms, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul T. Snyder of Culver are the parents of the bridegroom. Mrs. Myrtle Crabb, Culver, is the maternal grandmother of the groom.

Dr. Clyde English, organist, played several appropriate selections.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of white imported silk. The A-line skirt featured a scalloped hemline with an applique of hand-cut lace centered with bridal pearls. Her bouffant chapel train fell gracefully from the shoulders and was held in place by hand-cut lace rosettes. She wore an elbow-length imported illusion veil topped with a forward petal cluster headpiece edged with pearls and enhanced with pearlized orange blossoms and sequins. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis, yellow sweetheart roses centered with white cattelya orchids with yellow throats, maline and springeri.

She was attended by Miss Katherine Christman of Laurel, Md., as maid of honor, Mrs. William G. Ketterer of Laurel, as matron of honor, and Elizabeth Sabel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Burke Sabel II of Miami, niece of the bride, as flower girl.

Miss Christman and Mrs. Ketterer wore matching full-length, sleeved dresses of gold and ivory brocade in empire style with a pattern of gold and ivory interlocking rings. They wore matching veils, brocade bows with yellow netting, and carried cascade bouquets of tropical roses, yellow pompons and velvet ribbon.

The flower girl was dressed in white lace over shell pink and carried a nosegay of pink sweetheart roses and white split carnations.

Serving as best man was Frederick William Snyder of Culver, brother of the bridegroom; and ushers were J. Burke Sabel of Miami, Fla., the bride's brother; Virgil McCann of Plymouth, Ind., brother-in-law of the bridegroom; and William G. Ketterer of Laurel, Md., husband of the matron of honor.

She is a provisional member of the Junior League of Fairmont, Md., and is employed by the U.S. Department of Defense at Fort George G. Meade, Md.

Hoosier Hysteria

Hoosier Hysteria is a disease that makes the rounds in Indiana each year and last about four months, with intensities being strong in some parts and a little milder in others. The annual disease is catching, but usually more so when things go right and not wrong. The fever that results can make a person do funny things, leave home on regular basis, often come down with loss of voice and sometimes puts one right out of their minds. It often requires strange cures to remedy this annual disease in Indiana.

This is the time of year the cases are first noted. They will slack off around Christmas get more severe in mid January and really rage on week ends comes the last of February and first of March. It is a disease that catches both the young and old and shows no pity on its victims.

Yes, basketball has started again in Indiana schools. Despite the fact that the larger schools have a well rounded sports program, there is still something that makes basketball stand alone at the top of the list.

Basketball is a fine spectator sport and one that everyone can enjoy. It gives the youth the chance to compete... first among themselves as friends and teammates and then they mold together to compete as a team against other schools.

The spirit of the competition is something that can't be compared. A most serious rival on the court can be a close friend off the floor. A school that is an opponent one week can be a strong favorite the next in determining a conference or a tourney outcome. And yet as it is all completed, friendships have been made and memories etched that will live for a long time.

Basketball is king again in Indiana and with the schedules now in full swing, it wouldn't hurt anyone, from that young student through the aunts and uncles and friends as well to go out and be exposed to this annual Indiana disease. Your favorite team will be in action all winter for you to enjoy.

The end of the war came Monday with the signing of the Armistice articles. The school closed for a parade and business came to a standstill here as the community joined in a celebration. In the evening the Academy corps, headed by the band, came to town for a more elaborate observance. Gathering around the community flag, the huge crowd heard Maj. Yates, S. C. Shilling, and Capt. Hunt give speeches, and the girls quartet sing. By that time a raw east wind had cooled the ardor of the throng and the celebration broke up. The Liberty Guards then held a dance in the drill hall. Burr Oak also had a big blowout with a bonfire and speeches.

All those called under the draft or had been accepted for officer's training camp have been notified not to report.

CULVER COMMENTS

Someone in this town deserves a lot of credit for purchasing our unique stop light. Not only do we boast a beautiful lake and a world famous academy to attract tourists, but by golly, we now have an upside down street light. Such ingenuity and imagination! Amateur photographers will flock to us soon just to catch on film the astonished look as the innocent driver first glimpses this phenomenon.

All drivers' manuals teach us that the red light is always on the top. But as you can witness at the intersection of Main and Jefferson you can't believe anything you read anymore. If you miss the question on where the red light is when you take your drivers test, you know who to blame.

If you happen to be color blind — you are in a pickle. To avoid being arrested for running the red light, I can only suggest you stay clear of that particular intersection. After all, it won't take you long to go around it.

Last week we received an unsigned fan letter pointing out the mistakes in this paper. Our helpful friend suggested we purchase a book on elemental grammar and a dictionary to help us with our spelling. We thought that everyone knew that we cut out the mistakes and send them to magazines. The magazines are so happy to receive them that they pay us. (Other people moonlight so why shouldn't we?) By the way, does anyone know how to spell crithanthamum?

The younger set is highly elated after seeing the performance of their basketball team. The entire coaching staff is certainly to be congratulated. It was difficult to believe that the Cavaliers hadn't been playing together for years. Let's hope they can give more of the same to Bremen.

Naturally I was in the crowd at the new gym last Saturday night. We ended up somewhere near the top of the bleachers and I thought you might be interested in some of the remarks made by the adults around me: "Did anyone bring the oxygen?"

"This is the first time I ever watched a game from outer-space. They ought to call the spectators the Astronauts."

"I could use a parachute."

"For heavens sake, don't look down."

One enthusiastic booster when told to quiet down retorted, "I'm not making the noise, it's my mouth."

"I think I came up too fast, I've got the bends."

"You need to be a pole-vaulter to make that first step."

Let's all try and get our Christmas cards mailed early this year. The load on the post office employees the last two weeks before the 25th is frightening. Our postmaster, Wayne Mattox does his bit to lighten the load - sends out New Years greetings instead of Christmas cards.

Why is the town equipment parked out in the cold - isn't there room in the old fire station for it? What's in there anyhow?

— C C —

Some of you have asked where the school page disappeared to? We, like so many of you, always looked forward to the articles written by the students. We are sorry to say the Schoolbell has been discontinued and so far a teacher to sponsor a newspaper staff has not been found.

I would like to suggest that the NO U TURN sign at the corner of Main and Madison streets be removed. It's getting in the way of the cars making U turns.

The road to success can't be found on any road map, and people who have traveled it know there's plenty of detours.

Pilgrims Planned For Thanksgiving At Culver Military Academy

Miss Debbie Triplet of Culver giving day. Others who will join in the fun of welcoming the welcome guests at the holiday public to dinner are Miss Kathy buffet at the Culver Inn Thanks-Tasch and Miss Pam Scott, also of Culver.

The public is invited to join Culver Military Academy in celebrating Thanksgiving on campus. This is the first time in recent years the Fall Festival has been scheduled for the Thanksgiving Holidays and several special programs are planned.

One highlight of the traditional family holiday will be a buffet dinner at the Culver Inn Thanksgiving Day from 12:30 to 7:30 p.m. Costumed young lady pilgrims will welcome guests and invite them to a cup of mulled cider in the lounge before dinner.

Several times during the day, The Blue Notes, a student vocal group directed by Robert Kamrow, will sing in the dining room and the Jarrett String Ensemble from South Bend will be performing at the tables.

Mrs. Polly Paine, manager of the Culver Inn, has announced this traditional menu which will be served buffet style: iced tomato juice, roast turkey with dressing and giblet gravy or smoked sugar cured ham with raisin sauce, whipped potatoes, creamed onions, hot popovers, cranberry salad, pumpkin pie with cinnamon, whipped cream, mincemeat pie with rum sauce and chilled fruit bowl. The cost will be $4.50 per person.

Friday evening there will be another show in the Academy's concert-theater series. Moliere's famous comedy "Tartuffe" will be presented at 8:15 p.m. in Epley Auditorium. Tickets will be available at the door for this performance by Indiana University's touring Indiana Theater Company.

Saturday afternoon there will be exhibitions in the Riding Hall beginning at 2:30 p.m. In addition to these events which are open to the public, other special programs have been arranged for cadets and their visiting families. These include a reception for the parents, a talent show, movie, drills, chapel service and a formal Thanksgiving Ball.

Have You Donated To United Fund?

With some returns incomplete at this time it is anticipated the Culver-Union Township United fund will meet its 1968 Goal of $6552. It is only through the splendid generosity of the people and firms of the community and the fine efforts of the captains and workers contributing of their time that puts the goal within reach. The contributions from the few areas not completed, plus a response from any people who were not at home or for some other reason have not made a contribution will ensure the complete success for the year.

Late contributions may be mailed to Donald P. Osborn, United Fund Board Chairman, P.O. Box 108, Culver, Ind. or they may be left with Larry Davis, Cashier, at the State Exchange Bank, Culver.

CMA To Be Lead Units In Holiday Parade

Culver Military Academy's marching band and a contingent of the nationally-known Black Horse Troop will be lead units this year in South Bend's Holiday Parade, Nov. 23 at 9:30 a.m. CST.

Sponsored by the Downtown South Bend Council, the annual civic event will feature Culver's 91-member band under the direction of Capt. Gilbert M. Fernandes, bandmaster, and the 40-member Lancer Platoon. The Lancers, a select group of riders from the 165-member Black Horse Troop, are supervised by Col. Floyd W. Townsley and Maj. Raymond K. Walmoth. Culver will be represented in the holiday parade for the first time this year.

Culver's band was organized when the Academy was founded 75 years ago, and the Black Horse Troop was formed in 1897. Culver's troop of cavalry is the largest registered mounted military organization in the United States.

The history of the Black Troop included appearances in five Presidential Inaugural Parades: Woodrow Wilson in 1914 and 1917, Dwight Eisenhower in 1957, John F. Kennedy in 1961 and Lyndon B. Johnson in 1965. The Troop has also escorted such dignitaries as the King and Queen of Denmark and has appeared in special performers at the American Royal Horse Show in Kansas City.

Christmas Gifts Needed For Beatty Patients

The deadline for Christmas gifts for patients at Beatty Memorial Hospital is almost here.

So that we will have a successful drive and there will be no forgotten patients, please leave your gifts, which must be new, at Trone's in Culver. Clothing is especially suitable, particularly men's, in large sizes.

Money will be most welcome. All of it is used for gifts as this is a completely volunteer program. Canteen checks are purchased for the patients and for a good many patients this is the one time a year they have a dollar or two to buy something they want.

Checks may be made out to Christmas Gift Program, Beatty Hospital and mailed to Mrs. John Mars, CMA, Culver, or checks or cash may be left at Trone's.

Please help make Christmas happy for a mental patient by leaving your gift at Trone's Shop in the next few days.

CMA Wrestlers Open Tuesday

Co-captains of the Culver Military Academy wrestling team, Jack Scharff and Roger Bird, talk over plans for their first meet of the season with Coach Colin W. Stetson. The team, undefeated in eight dual meets last year, opens the season at home Tuesday at 4:15 against East Chicago Washington.

MAJOR POINTS AND MINOR, TOO

LAS CROABAS, Puerto Rico: The Caribbean sun is bright, the trade winds warmly caressing, the waters blue at this quaint fishing village. But, actually, Las Croabas is more than a fishing village, for it has become the home of the largest and most luxurious "out on the island" resort hotel in this Caribbean vacationland, the El Conquistador.

The beautifully appointed hotel is situated on a bluff overlooking the Caribbean, from each of its 392 rooms the view takes in the Virgin Islands in the distance, as well as the small offshore isles. Although 30 miles away from the crowds and noise of the populated San Juan area, El Conquistador is reached easily by limousine or helicopter. And here you have the true serenity and beauty of the Caribbean.

This intrigued reporter finds available an 18-hole golf course, tennis courts, three swimming pools, sailing, fishing and snorkeling, the latter a sport I always have wanted to try. I only hope that time and energy permit full enjoyment of the fine facilities, as well as a few hours practicing my Spanish with the warm and friendly Las Croabas villagers. I need practice, indeed, for their speech is so rapid I have to say "mas despacio" over and over to get them to slow down a little.

This is one of the cogent comments of Sidney J. Harris, columnist for the Chicago Daily News.

The three hardest tasks in the world are neither physical feats nor intellectual achievements, but simply acts of the will: to return love for hate, to include, the excluded and to say, "I was wrong."

Have you insurance to value on your home? Make sure the protection equals the cost of home and furnishings, the Allstate Homeowners Crusade advises. A fire or other loss could prove disastrous if your coverage is down. And this applies to those living in apartments, too!

GENE GEMS: Safety belt: When you belt the other guy before he belts you . . . German hippie: Flower kraut.

HAL'S HELPINGS: The pickled driver causes more crashes than the traffic jam . . . men still die with their boots on, one pressed down on the accelerator.

EAGER BEAVER: A bore grabs your kugel instead of your interest . . . many gals get married because they don't like to spend their evenings alone, and then get a divorce for the same reason.

INTERVAL is one of the best ways to avoid rear-end crashes the Allstate Motor Club urges constant attention to the danger that rides with tailgating . . . keep plenty of space between your car and that ahead, or behind!

Recommended paperback reading: Eric Hoffer's "The Passionate State of Mind," thought provoking essays of San Francisco's longshoreman philosopher, and Irving Stone's "They Also Ran," history of presidential candidates who finished second . . . another paperback of value is "Money — How to Save It, Spend It and Make It," by B. C. Coleman . . . and a splendid new "show and tell" book by Arthur Rothstein, photographer, and William Saroyan, writer, is "Look at Us" . . . since it sells for $12.50, you might want to examine it at your library before deciding on a purchase . . . Rothstein's photography is magnificent.

Sooner or later, that day comes, the day when a woman feels she's changing. It's not a good feeling either. And she could use a good old-fashioned medicine then.

Could be you feel a little edgy, or maybe cross. You might even have what we call hot flashes and feel sad and slightly off-balance.

Whatever you feel, we have something for the day you need a little comforting. Lydia E. Pinkham Tablets. They're made with gentle, natural ingredients that work to give you a better sense of well-being.

With an old-fashioned problem like this, couldn't you take an old-fashioned medicine?

It is the policy of the Federal Highway Administration to require that all prospective Federal-aid highway construction contractors, with regard to contracts which are expected to amount to $500,000, or more, shall be prequalified prior to the time established for the opening of bids, or negotiation for a contract, as to their ability, (1) to undertake the affirmative action required by the equal employment opportunity clause set forth in all Federal-aid construction contracts to the end that any and all discrimination in employment because of race, color, religion, sex or national origin shall be eliminated, and (2) to promote the full realization of equal employment opportunity through a positive and continuing program.

In addition, all Federal-aid highway construction subcontractors, with regard to subcontracts in the amount of $500,000, or more, must similarly prequalify prior to the time the subcontract is executed.

The Federal Highway Administration will not concur in the award of any Federal-aid highway construction contract to any contractor who has not been prequalified in accordance with the above policy.

Contractors and subcontractors who intend to submit bids on any future Federal-aid highway construction projects in the State of Indiana may secure Prequalification Statement guideline forms from the Director of the State Highway Department. All such contractors and subcontractors are encouraged to become prequalified under the Equal Employment Opportunity Program at the earliest possible time so that the future awards of Federal-aid highway construction contracts to such contractors and subcontractors will not be jeopardized.

Contractors and subcontractors who have previously prequalified in another State, may submit a copy of their approved Prequalification Statement for consideration in this State. A form to facilitate such a submittal is available from the Director of the State Highway Department.

A Brief Outline Of Indiana Law

By J P Hafert

The court system of Indiana is not basically different in its broad outlines from the systems of most civilized states. Judicial action in criminal cases actually takes three forms: the handling of preliminary matters (issuance of warrants, determination of whether a citizen shall face trial setting bond or bail, etc) trial of the case, and review of that case by a higher authority. Carrying out these different duties requires at least two types of courts, trial and appellate. Trial courts handle preliminary proceedings and the trial themselves. Appellate courts review these proceeding of the trial courts.

Any person who believes there has been a mistake in the handling of his case should have the right to an independent judgement on his belief. This is given by an appellant court. This is the final judgement or court of last resort. The Indiana Supreme Court is that court and its jurisdiction extends to appeals in all criminal cases, from the circuit, superior, and criminal courts of Indiana, which are the basic trial courts. In rare instances the case may go to the U.S. Supreme court. The Indiana Supreme Court is composed of five judges, one of whom acts as Chief Judge.

Because the work load of the Indiana Supreme Court very early became too great for one set of judges, another appellate court has been established the Indiana Court of Appeals. This court today does not ordinarily have jurisdiction over appeals in criminal cases. It reviews only the trial of civil cases.

The trial courts of Indiana involve the functions of the judge and jury in a trial. In settling any dispute under the law, there are two matters to be decided. First what actually happened must be determined and then the legal relationships brought about by these established facts must be fixed. Generally speaking, it is the duty of the jury to decide what actually happened, to find the facts.

When this has been done, the judge instructs the jury as to what the law is and how it should be applied to the facts. The jury then applies that law to the facts. This is a simplified explanation. When there is no jury the judge acts as both judge and jury. On appeal, only errors of law are considered.

In Indiana, as in most states the basic trial court is county or circuit court. The circuit courts of Indiana are technically district courts, but in the vast majority of districts there is but one county. Marshall County is the 72nd judicial district. In the few districts in which there are more than one county, the district court sits in turn in each of the county seats of the districts. Indiana has eighty-five circuit courts serving ninety-two counties. This means that a circuit court actually sits in every county in the state. As in most states, it was recognized from the very beginning that this basic trial court could not handle all the cases that needed to be in the county, so it was given help by splitting its work among other types of courts. The oldest court assisting the circuit courts in Indiana are the Justice of the Peace courts, having been established by the state constitution. We now have also, city courts, municipal courts, magistrate courts, juvenile courts, probate courts, criminal courts and superior courts. These are all trial courts which handle some of the work of the basic county court, the circuit court.

This division of the work load of the circuit courts in Indiana has been of two different types. In some cases, an entire type of case has been spilt away from the jurisdiction of the circuit court and vested in another county court. In other cases, the less important cases of all types have been put under the jurisdiction of other assisting courts. Although in both of these situations, while the other courts are assisting the circuit court, they are not under the general supervision of the circuit court judge, although they may be for some matters.

In the first type of assisting courts those to whom whole blocks of the jurisdiction of the circuit courts have been given, we find the superior courts, the criminal courts, the probate courts and the juvenile courts. Superior courts are found in fifteen of the ninety-two counties. There are juvenile courts in all counties with a population in excess of 250,000. In all others the circuit judge. One exception to this is where there is a superior court located in a city in the county other than the county seat. In such counties the judge of the superior court has jurisdiction over juveniles concurrent with the circuit court judge. A second exception is made for St. Joseph and Madison County No. 2 Superior Courts, which have juvenile jurisdiction exclusive of the circuit courts of those counties. Three counties have separate probate courts and a few have separate criminal courts. This means that the general trial jurisdiction in criminal cases in Indiana may be in a circuit court, superior or criminal court depending on the county.

If the subject involved is a juvenile, the case may go to a separate juvenile court. Indianapolis has a juvenile court with its own judge, having jurisdiction over all cases relating to children, except those involving traffic cases. Incidentally, a juvenile is by definition a "youthful person" and a minor is one who has not attained his maturity.

Indiana has only one municipal court, that of Marion Co., Indianapolis. In addition to extensive civil action this court has jurisdiction over criminal cases involving petty offenses, misdemeanors and violations of municipal ordinances.

Magistrate courts are provided for under Indiana law in counties with a population in excess of 40,000. These courts have jurisdiction over offenses carrying a penalty of $500 or less or of imprisonment not exceeding six months. They also hear cases involving laws and ordinances.

In setting out the powers of the city court judge, it is sufficient to say they generally have the powers and jurisdiction conferred on the justices of peace and of the magistrate courts, and also that he can hold a prisoner to bail to a proper court if he finds the punishment he is authorized to assess not adequate to the offense.

Material for the above was taken from the writings of Richard A. Myren, Associate Prof., Dept. of Police Administration, Indiana University.

Joe A. Hafert, Justice of the Peace Union Twp.

The next article will cover powers and jurisdiction of the Justice of Peace Courts.

Hite, a burly 6'2" senior, scored 11 of his 12 points in the final period to keep the visitors in the game.

Nolin, a tough 6' senior, led the losers with 15 points, while Hardesty added 14 and Hite 12.

Culver shot well from the field for a season opener, making 41.3 per cent on 26 of 63, compared to Argos' 34.4 per cent on 21 of 61. Both teams committed numerous personal fouls, largely a result of loss of position in man-to-man defending. The Cavaliers made only 18 of 33 gift tosses, missing eight times on the first of a one-and-one situation, while the Argos made 20 of 32.

The rebound battle was a virtual standoff, Argos grabbing 49 to Culver's 47. Hardesty picked off 15 and Nolan 10.

Another key factor in the CCHS victory was Argos' total of 23 turnovers, while Culver committed 16.

Coach Gene Crosley's B-Team was smothered in the preliminary, 36-18, due mainly to 27 turnovers and 22 per cent shooting. Hank Barrabes paced the losers with nine points.

Culver will play at Bremen this Friday night. The Lions were defeated last week in their opener by LaVillie.
