Highway speedsters always meet reverses sooner or later.

FROM ONE TO ANOTHER is the case as the revolving world of sports continues its cycle. Now it is baseball time! Yes, even though snow was very obvious just a few days ago, next Tuesday in Chicago and many other cities, play will begin. The traditional opening games will be played on Monday in Washington and Cincinnati, but when you figure such cities as Chicago (the Cubs open at home), Minnesota, Detroit and Cleveland, just to mention the midwest area, baseball weather is some distance away.

BUT NEVERTHELESS, THE season is starting. Baseball, as is the case with all major sports, is big business and the action must continue to keep the "long green" flowing in. The start of the season conflicts greatly with several others, right in the midst of the playoffs, but they also have the same thing in reverse at the end of the baseball season when in particular, the football is grabbing the headlines.

THE 1969 BASEBALL SEASON will be one to long to remember. Several "key" changes will be taking place that will completely change the make-up of the game. First and foremost, the divisional play in the two leagues. Expansion has hit again and hit the hardest ever at one whack, four new teams in one year. When previous steps were taken along the expansion line, each league added two teams but did so a year apart. This year four brand new franchises will be put in operation, thus making 100 more major league ball players all at one time. It is very questionable that these clubs can provide a lot of talent when many clubs giving players to help stock the new teams can't afford to give any away.

HOWEVER, A NEW CITY IS usually enthusiastic enough about having the major leagues come into their area that they will support them well enough for a few years. However, everyone likes a winner and win is not the key word in the cities that expanded some years ago.

Another element that enters in the picture is the source of talent. In the post World War II years there was at one time 56 minor leagues, each boasting at least four on up to eight teams. Plenty of young players were involved directly in the game and talent was being supplied through this complex system of farm clubs. Then along came TV, certainly a must for the major leagues of any sport, but the nail that secured the lid on the casket for the "minor" league teams.

EVERYONE WANTS TO SEE the best so expanded television entertained the baseball fan instead of going out to the minor league parks. Consequently the minor leagues began to disappear to the low point of today, when very few are left, thus cutting the number of boys and men playing the game severely. Also on the picture since the end of World War II, came the "Bonus Baby." This also caused a problem. A promising youngster was offered higher and higher salaries and eventual legislation to keep this somewhat in line, never eliminated the big offers to swing a player towards the big money deal.

THE TWO BASEBALL leagues will move into the expansion and divisional play different type schedule, also six game shorter than the National League. They will meet each team in their own division 18 times, the same as before, while they will play the teams of their own division only 11 times. The National will balance it out better, just basically leaving the two divisions separate by stand-

SEVERAL DIFFERENT things could happen. In the American League for example, territory determines the division into an east and west basis. This just so happens to put the first five teams of last year, Detroit, Baltimore, Boston, Cleveland and New York in one division along with Washington, Oakland and New York in the standings, but led all the clubs in their division. It just so happened that Oakland and Detroit split 18 games last season and easily enough they could have topped the Tigers in a best of five play-off, thus making them the American League's representative in the World Series.

IN THE NATIONAL League, it wasn't so reputed as to division, but it also could have featured San Francisco, under the new split as they had only an 8-10 record against the Redbirds, but also have such a Juan Marichal who could beat any team in a short play-off. It is conceivable that teams with losing records could be in the series. This would take some edge from the play of the fall classic.

OTHER LEGISLATION HAS been designed to help the hitter. Remember not too long ago when all headlines were about hitting and not pitching, well the tide has changed and now it is the hitters they are trying to help. The home run is largely responsible for this. Almost gone forever is the "hitter" as opposed to the swinger. A .240 batting average with 35 home runs will draw a lot more money than a .315 average with four round trippers. Everyone wants the home run, consequently the art of hitting has suffered. Most of the experts feel this is the only thing wrong with the hitting.

IT IS PROBABLY EASIER to find good young pitchers than it is good young hitters. Expansion will force some into starting jobs that couldn't hit enough to play regularly in the majors. But, due to the fact that 23 more players will be starting will make it necessary for more week hitters to be playing. Even legislation can't offset this.

THE BATTLE IS ABOUT to begin. Monday starts it out and weather permitting, Tuesday finds all teams seeing action. The divisional play can revolutionize the game or could hurt it. Only time will really tell whether the fans will accept it or reject it. Four races going should create more enthusiasm late in the season when it usually falls off. Whether the make-up can offset the competition from football remains to be seen, but this season will write a big chapter in the volume of baseball history.

EASTER

Sunday is Easter Sunday. Remembering that this is the season when the prophecies of old have been fulfilled and the hopes of mankind are proved to be not in vain, it is our hope that all of you may share the great joy and happiness of the Easter Season.

This is one of the most loved seasons in all Christendom. It is the time when Christians all over the world celebrate the resurrection of Jesus Christ as the redeemer of mankind. Christians celebrate this coming Easter amidst trying times, what with world tension and domestic problems as it is, more people than ever will be attending churches this year than ever before in the church's history.

There is more to Easter than a new outfit and the traditional Easter bonnet, it is the time when Jesus Christ rose from the dead as the redeemer of all mankind.

Have a Happy Easter.

TIMELY PROBLEM!

There is an old saying that a political plank must be wide enough for some side-stopping and it appears that Indiana's governor, Edgar Whitcomb, is doing just a little bit of the old soft shoe right now. After his now-famous veto of the time act a couple of weeks ago, he has now "suggested" that communities can "get around" moving to what is known as double fast time or properly Eastern Daylight Time this summer.

He has referred to a law that specifies that the official clocks must be on the set time, that simply meaning that the government clocks must show the EDT this summer. This will leave the various communities the right to agree on the time they want to operate their areas on and once again will leave the state possibly very confused. Of course, confusion on the time issue has been the order of the day for many years, but at least in the six months from the end of April to the end of October, Indiana has had at least in the six months from the end of April to the end of October, Indiana has had their clocks together.

Huntingburg was the first community to state a couple of weeks ago that they wouldn't go on double fast time. Vincennes later made the statement and now one after another is declaring their intentions. The great decision to be made locally seems to stem between Plymouth and South Bend. Mayor Allen of South Bend, has used the most recent law to fall back on the past couple of years and until this most recent line was set by the Department of Transportation, Plymouth has sided with their neighbors to the east in the past two winters, making the time situation ridiculous on a local level.

It is really a shame that such a problem has to arise. If the powers that be in Washington only had enough common sense to make the time line a state line instead of a child's scribble right through a state, much of the confusion would have been long eliminated.

The time will continue to be a problem until a definite law is set down and with it some means of enforcement. Until then, only time will tell what time we will tell this summer.

Films Available Thru The Culver Public Library

1. ABRAHAM LINCOLN -53-c- Sketches a sweeping picture of Lincoln's life from his youth in Kentucky and Indiana, through a manhood of leadership in Illinois, to President of the United States during the Civil War. (Francis Raymond Line)

2. ALLEN IS MY BROTHER -11-c- Allen indulges in several pranks which demand mother's attention. His sister finds helping can be fun after reluctantly accepting her duties of taking care of Allen. (Churchill)

3. AUTO-BIOGRAPH Y-27-b-w- The story of the development of the horseless carriage from the days when Henry Ford tries out his Model T at night so the scoffers wouldn't see, to today when electronically controlled highways are within the foreseeable future. (McGraw-Hill)

4. CASCADE MOUNTAINS -20-c- The Cascade range is used as a sample study of mountain formation, of sedimentation and uplift, of volcanic flows and eruption, and of water, wind, and glacial erosion. Authentic mountain sounds provide a natural background for the peaks and valleys, streams and glaciers seen on the screen. (Martin Moyer)

5. DANGEROUS RIVER -16-c- A party from the Smithsonian Institution explores the Big Horn River in Wyoming and Montana, to study the wild life, Indian relics, and shooting the rapids. (Bailey Films)

6. FREEDOM TO SPEAK—PEOPLE OF NEW YORK VS. IRVING FEINER -23-c- Based on the case of Feiner vs. New York, this case study examines and investigates the basic freedom of expression. 7. GANDHI -27-b-w- This film is the story of the man who devoted his life to making India a free nation, the man who advocated the doctrine of non-violence and the man whose final victory was tempered with defeat. (McGraw-Hill)

8. THE GENERAL 27-b-w- Made in 1927, this is considered by film historians to be the last truly classic comedy of the silent era. A one-man show—it was directed by as well as starring Buster Keaton—it is a proof on

Civil War espionage, combining some spectacular war action with Keaton's celebrated wit. (Sterling)

9. GREECE-THE NEW AGE -17-c- Greece, past and present, is highlighted in this study of a modern nation shown against the backdrop of its own rich history when Greece was unrivaled in intellectual accomplishment. (United World Films)

10. GREENWICH VILLAGE SUNDAY -13-c- Though somewhat removed from the day of the Indians and the separate Colonial Village it once was, Greenwich Village in New York City is still a "happy hunting ground," a place of the spirit. For more than fifty years it has been home and studio to non-conformist artists, writers, actors. Bohemian, beat of just plain citizen, the Village is dear to its loyal residents. (Contemporary)

11. HOLIDAY HIGHLANDS -14-c- A U.S. family is shown asking questions on tourist attractions and as they receive answers the film shows pictures of each region of Ontario mentioned. (Loaned by CTFI)

13. MICHELANGELO AND HIS ART -16-c- Michelangelo Buonarroti was one of the greatest artists of the Italian renaissance. Through skillful use of close-ups and careful selection of the camera angles, the film reveals details of Michelangelo's architecture, sculpture and painting much as a highly trained guide would do if he were conducting a tour. (Coronet)

14. MIRACLES FROM AGRICULTURE -13-b-w- The story of high-quality foods, when, where, and in the forms we want them—the result of efficient production and marketing; of farm products with new qualities for consumer and industry. Reports on today's farming and ranching, marketing, processing, storing, transporting and merchandising of food and other agricultural services. (Loaned by USDA)

15. NETHERLANDS, PAST AND PRESENT -11-c- This film presents the Netherlands as it is today—a blend of historic tradition and modern development. Both rural and urban life are shown as well as many of the traditional occupations of the people. (Coronet)

16. OUTDOOR COUNTRY -21-c- The film has views of fishing in clear northern lakes—lake trout, muskellungs, walleye—game fighters all, awaiting your hook. If you want a lake all to yourself an expert bush pilot will set you down where the fish really bite, and not too far from a rustic lodge, or, if you prefer, a luxury hotel with every convenience. (Loaned by CTFI)

17. THE PILGRIMS -19-b-w- Depicts the forces of conflict and persecution which led the Pilgrims to the New World. Includes the drawing of the Mayflower Compact, the first terrible winter, the ways the "savage Indians" taught the colonist to survive and ends with the observance of the first Thanksgiving. (EBEC) honored Miss Stevenson with an original song.

The assembly closed with repeating the Lord's Prayer in unison.

Distinguished guests seated in the East were Mrs. Al Drews, mother advisor of Walkerton Assembly and grand district deputy of District 26; Lore Mullett, grand drill leader; and Linda Williamson, grand prompter. Other distinguished guests were Mr. Al Drews, grand lecturer of District 1-26; Karen Thorton, grand representative to Canada; and Linda Kitchell, grand representative to Pennsylvania. Out of town assemblies represented were Union Mills, Plymouth, Bremer, Walkerton, Fulton and Roy Center.

Refreshments were served from a table decorated with low spray of yellow and white carnations and yellow tapes. Connie Kelly presided at the punch bowl, and was assisted by Nancy Overmyer, Debbie Tripp and Mary Ann Easterday.

KNOW YOUR INDIANA LAW

By John J. Dillon
 Attorney at Law

(This is a public service article explaining in general terms a provision of Indiana law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law upon their private legal affairs should consult a private attorney.)

GUARDIANSHIPS

Where an individual is incapable of managing his own affairs, the courts may, upon proper application, appoint a guardian to take charge of the ward's person or estate. Once appointed the guardian has plenary power to act in the place of his ward in almost every way. He can collect money, pay bills, even make out the tax returns for his ward. Such guardian is bonded by the court and required to file an accurate accounting relating to his service as guardian. He may only do such acts as are authorized by the court.

When the guardianship is terminated, either by death of the ward, or because the ward now can take care of his or her own affairs, the guardian must then file a final account, and on approval by the court, turn the assets over to the person entitled to the same.

The most common need for a guardianship is when, due to old age or infirmities, one can no longer transact ordinary business affairs. No approbation is attached to a person having a guardian because of old age and many people who are unable to handle their affairs should look favorably on having a guardian manage their affairs. As a matter of fact, in this manner many estates are preserved from charlatans who prey upon older people. Guardians are also appointed for minors, the mentally ill, and habitual drunkards. To be under a guardianship does not mean the ward is insane, and carries no legal stigma.

Many times a "power of attorney" is used instead of a court appointed guardianship. I'll write later about "powers of attorney" but, suffice to say, like dynamite they should be handled very carefully.

A guardianship is therefore a very useful legal method of managing a person's estate. If you feel some of your family could benefit from a guardianship, contact your attorney for more explicit advice.

INDIANA INHERITANCE TAX

There is a common saying that, "only two things in life are certain, Death and Taxes." Unfortunately, this is not only true, but in addition, the happening of the former generally triggers the occurrence of the latter, that is, death is the cause still an additional tax being imposed, generally called an Inheritance Tax.

The State of Indiana taxes the transfer of property occasioned by death. The tax is actually imposed on the person who receives the property, and the rate of tax depends upon the relationship of the heir to the decedent. Thus for a widow or child, the maximum rate of tax up to a $200,000.00 inheritance is 3%. Property of the same value willed to a non-relative would have a maximum tax of 10%. In addition, a surviving spouse, for example, receives the first $15,000.00 of her inheritance tax free. The non-relative heir pays tax on everything he receives in excess of $100.00.

Requests to a charity, or to an educational or religious organization, are not subject to the tax. One may also make gifts during his lifetime or create an irrevocable trust would avoid the inheritance tax. However, gifts made or trusts created two years of death are still taxed at the time of the donor's death, unless it can be shown that such transfer was not made in contemplation of death.

Indiana does not tax insurance proceeds paid directly to beneficiaries, nor does it tax real estate owned by a husband and wife jointly when the first spouse dies.

Every person who owns property should anticipate that there will be some tax problems on his death. Your attorney can be of much help in advising on the best way to avoid death taxes or to make sure such taxes are kept at a minimum in your estate. If you do not have an attorney, contact your local bar association to be referred to one. As I have said before, a good estate plan is the best investment a person can make in legal services.

TAX CREDITS FOR GIFTS TO INDIANA COLLEGES

In 1957, the Indiana Legislature passed a bill which gives Indiana tax payers a tax credit for contributions to Indiana colleges and universities. This credit is to be applied to your Indiana income tax.

The law allows a credit in an amount equal to fifty percent of all contributions you have made to Indiana colleges and universities during the taxable year.

It should be noted that this is a tax credit rather than a tax deduction. A deduction would allow you to reduce your taxable income by a certain amount before computing your tax, and a twenty-five dollar deduction would result in lowering your taxes by only two percent of that amount, or fifty cents. A credit of twenty-five dollars, in contrast, is subtracted from the tax you otherwise owe, and would actually reduce the amount of tax you owe by twenty-five dollars.

However, you as an individual, are not permitted to claim a credit larger than twenty percent of your total Indiana income tax, or fifty dollars, whichever is less. In most cases, fifty dollars will be the limit. Only a taxpayer with a taxable income of more than $12,500.00 per year after all deductions need be concerned about the twenty percent limit.

A corporation is not permitted to claim a credit larger than five percent of its total Indiana income tax, or five hundred dollars, whichever is less.

If you desire to obtain the credit, you should claim it on your annual Indiana income tax return. The booklet containing your tax return will also contain a schedule and instructions for claiming the credit.

Those tax payers who itemize their personal deductions on their Indiana income tax return, rather than take the standard deduction, are, of course, entitled to the normal deduction for contributions of this type on their federal return. This deduction provided by the federal government and the tax credit provided by the State of Indiana add up to a substantial tax saving for the contributor to Indiana colleges and universities.

The net result of all of this is, that the average Indiana taxpayer can make a $100 contribution to an Indiana college of his choice for less than $20.00. As a trustee of Marian College in Indianapolis, I can tell you that this type of contribution is the hope of the small private college in this state.

MAXINKUCKEE LODGE HOLDS MEETING

The Maxinkuckee Rebekah Lodge 844 met in regular session Monday with Mary Martin, noble grand, presiding. Under the good of the order Mary Powers gave a reading.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Helen Crow, Cora Calhoun, Florence Gibbons, Letha Murley and Delmon Harmsen. Games were enjoyed the remainder of the evening.

It's still the old force of habit that prevents us from keeping our good resolutions.

Deaf Man Perfects Tiny Hearing Aid
OFFERS FREE MODEL
A remarkable tiny hearing aid has been perfected by a man who has been hard of hearing for nearly ten years. This small device has no dangling cords or separate transmitting units and represents a new unusual design idea in a product to restore natural hearing. It was developed especially for those persons who can hear but can't understand. This new hearing instrument provides "ear-level" hearing with the wearer picking up speech, sounds, television and radio at his ear. Due to the use of transistors, the user cost is extremely low.

A true life actual size replica of the smallest all-in-the-ear hearing aid ever made will be given absolutely free to anyone while supply lasts. So we suggest you write for yours now. No obligation whatsoever. Write to
