Sewage Plant Renovated Plans Are Presented

Representatives from the engineering firm of Clyde Williams Associates were present at Monday's town board meeting and presented their plans for the updating of the local sewage plant. The present Town Board has had an injunction filed against them in regard to the present sewage plan and the engineering firm had been contracted for an evaluation of the present facilities. The plan was presented in two phases which could be done all at once or at separate times. Phase one was concerned with the immediate problem of the open top digester and phase two involved sewer plant expansion which would meet state standards. The Board decided to examine the plans further and to schedule another meeting with the engineering firm at a later date.

In other business, it was announced that the town had placed a pier at the Davis Street beach and it was now ready to be put in the lake.

President of the board, Donald Osborn stated that he had been questioned concerning the condition of the street corner by the new water plant. He explained that catch basins were scheduled to be installed there to control the surface drainage problem at that location. When these basins are installed, the complete section of that street will be repaired.

Eather Powers reported that she had been contacted by two parties who were interested in the old water tower. She further stated she would know more regarding this at the next board meeting.

Park Board president, Latham Lawson, was present for a short time to answer questions in regard to the hiring policies of the board and also the condition of the park lawn. He stated that the park would be moved this Saturday, May 24 rain or shine and that the park would be ready for opening on Memorial Day. He informed the Town Board that a park supervisor had been hired. Bill Oechangh, a graduate this spring at Ball State University, has been hired to live at the Beach Lodge this summer and have complete charge of operations there. Mr. Lawson also stated that the beach would operate this year on a 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. schedule and lifeguards would be present during those hours only.

Bill Martin, Bell Telephone representative, was present at the meeting and requested permission to replace the pay booth on main street and to install a slab which would raise the booth four inches. Permission was granted by the Board.

Board member George Becker announced that Nelson Wynn had been hired by the town to replace the vacancy on the town crew.

Race Cars Share Spotlight With Balloons

Drivers who failed to earn starting berths last week-end will have another opportunity Saturday and Sunday to qualify for one of the 33 spots in the lineup for the 53rd annual Indianapolis 500-mile race on May 30.

On both days, gates to the grounds will be opened to race fans at 9 o'clock (Eastern Daylight time), when the track is made available for practice laps. Admission will be $2, with official time trials starting at 11 o'clock on Saturday and at noon on Sunday.

Saturday's program also will include the fourth annual Speedway balloon race involving approximately a dozen colorful entries from all parts of the United States. Defending Champion Don Kersten of Dodge City, Iowa, heads the list of contenders for prize money totalling $2,000.

The huge hot-air balloons will be inflated at 2 o'clock Saturday on the main straightaway and the winner will be the pilot who travels the greatest distance — and lands — in a period of one hour, without exceeding an altitude of 10,000 feet. Peter Krieg and David L. Thiel of Indianapolis will represent Indiana in the race.

Although several prominent veterans will be among the drivers attempting to earn starting positions this week-end, much of the interest will be centered on the rookies who have been increasing their lap speeds steadily in daily practice sessions. Some of them were handicapped during the early part of the month because their cars were not ready.

The usual "bumping" procedure will start as soon as 33 entrants have qualified. Only the 33 fastest qualifiers will form the Race Day lineup behind the Chevrolet Camaro pace car and several of the early qualifiers probably will be eliminated before the conclusion of time trials at 6 o'clock Sunday.

After the field is complete, the track will be closed to the public until 6 o'clock (EDT) on May 30. The race will start at noon.

the afternoon, they are just going to pick a spot in line and get on that track as soon as possible.

SHOULD WEATHER ENTER the picture again, this could be another year when the chief steward, Harlan Fenger, would make an extension. With Indiana now on Eastern Daylight time, the extensions could be for an hour or two in the two set days, but in all probability, the time will be left alone unless things are not going well on Saturday.

THE BAD WEATHER DID have di inate advantages for some drivers. During the past week, before the first scheduled day of time trials, some drivers, and this included some of the top names, were having trouble getting their cars to a competitive speed for the battle for the pole. Gurney, Ruby, Leonard and others were in the class, while other drivers were conflicting with the road race in Europe such as Hill, Hulme and Rindt. This will allow another week for those to get the equipment ready and get set for their 10 mile drive that can make or break a driver and car.

USUALLY THE SECOND week end of qualifications doesn't stir up too much excitement do to the fact that the name drivers and fastest cars are already in the line up front. However, crowds should approach record proportions for the time trials Saturday as not only the pole but basically getting in the race is at stake.

SO FAR, AT THE TIME OF this writing, not much has happened in the line of accidents to stop any drivers or machines from making the race... that is on the track. Al Unser, a top name and fine driver, scheduled to drive Parnelli Jones' car in the race, had a freak accident Saturday during the day that will keep him from the race. He suffered a fall on a motorcycle and broke a leg as he and owner Jones were out riding to break the monotony of waiting and doing nothing. Jones explained in an interview Sunday, that they were driving around a parking lot and Unser reared up crossing a drainage ditch, and flipped the cycle backwards on himself, causing a compound fracture of one leg.

HOWEVER, HERE AGAIN IS a case where a little time is given to find another driver for the car and still have a shot at the spot. It would please many fans if Jones were to drive again himself, but he refused to drive last year in the 500 and at early interviews didn't appear to be willing to do it again this year. He was a winner in 1963 and of course led the race two years again in the famous turbine when gear trouble sidelined him just three laps away from the finish line.

WITH THE DELAY, TENSION and excitement mounts. Now the battle for the pole and front spots will be more highly contested due to the fact more

KNOW YOUR INDIANA LAW

By John J. Dillon,
Attorney at Law

This is a public service article explaining in general terms a portion of Indiana law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law upon their private legal affairs should consult a private attorney.

POWERS OF ATTORNEY

The first thing one should know about a "Power of Attorney" is not to sign one. At last, not to sign one without the advice of your attorney and a full understanding of the consequences that flow from signing a "Power of Attorney."

Generally speaking, a "Power of Attorney" is a formal writing giving another person the power to act in your stead. Within the limitations set out in the "Power," this person becomes your complete agent to act for you and with the same binding results as if you acted personally. Interestingly enough, the act of the agent binds you but not the agent as his actions are yours, not his.

There are two forms of "Powers" currently used. The first is a "Special Power of Attorney" which authorizes the agent to perform only one specific act or type of act and then the "Power" ceases. The other is a "General Power of Attorney" and authorizes the agent to do all things on your behalf. The latter goes on until revoked either by the person giving the "Power" or by his death. A "Power" to convey land in Indiana by an agent must be subscribed, sealed and acknowledged like a deed as required by law.

"Powers of Attorney" came into great vogue during World War II. It was a method whereby people could conduct their business even while away from home great distances. The "Power" was a very useful document for this purpose but it also caused much tragedy by whole states being squandered by irresponsible agents. For these reasons today are very wary of the use of "Powers of Attorney" and counsel their use only under the most stringent guidelines.

"Powers of Attorney" should not be used to take the place of guardianship of an aged person.

"TITLE INSURANCE"
By Attorney Gen. John J. Dillon
Last week I discussed real estate purchases, and explained that a purchaser must protect himself from buying property with a defective title. Some of the common defects I pointed out are: title not in the seller, zoning requirements and unpaid taxes and judgments. I explained one method of securing such protection, obtaining an abstract (a history of the property) and having it examined by an attorney. The purchase of title insurance is another method of protection from defects in title. Its use is currently increasing.

Title insurance is a one premium policy issued by a title insurance company. It guarantees a purchaser that the title to the property he wants to buy is free and clear of any defects except those listed in the policy.

The preliminary policy, or binder, should be examined by the purchaser's attorney. If the attorney advises his client that there are no defects shown in the title, the transaction may be concluded. If the purchaser's attorney finds that there are defects shown, the attorney can take the necessary steps to obtain a title policy which insures the buyer against the defects, or cure the defects.

When a purchaser obtains a title policy with no defects listed, and completes the purchase, he not only has good title to the property, but he has the guarantee of the title insurance company that if any unknown or hidden defect in titles should arise, the company will stand behind the title.

Normally, title is insured in the amount of the market value of the property, which will be paid to the purchaser if some hidden defect causes him to lose the property. The title insurance company undertakes to defend the title against any claims or lawsuits for defects, and to pay the costs of defending the law suits. The title insurance company is required to take the necessary steps to put the title in the purchaser's name, even if an outstanding interest in the property must be purchased by the company.

I am among the many lawyers who now believe that title insurance is a better method of protecting real estate purchasers than abstract examination. Abstracts are costly and cumbersome, and must be continued with each new transaction. The single premium charged by the title insurance company is low, and the policy can be transferred to the next purchaser for a small charge. The homeowners have insurance protection against the great loss which a serious defect in title can cause them.

The lost six-year-old boy ran down the supermarket aisles frantically crying, "Martha, Martha!"

His mother finally approached him chiding: "You should call me

'Mother' not 'Martha.' I'm 'Mother' to you, you know."

"I know," he replied, "but this store is full of mothers."

500 Festival Queen Visits Culver

Miss Janet Lee Farris, 500 Festival Queen

Miss Janet Lee Farris, 21 year old Indiana State University senior, spent Friday, May 9 in Culver for a final fitting of her 24 foot long red velvet mantle valued at $10,000. It will take four pages to carry the train of the 40 pound robe.

Thirty-three points edge the deep border of white mink at the hemline. They stand for the 33 candidates for the queen's crown. Thirty-two silver chains, representing the princesses in the court, lead to a jewel embroidered crown, this representing the queen.

The mantle spreads to nine feet at its widest point and has a 13½ foot sweep. Ten yards of lustrous velvet are in the mantle which is held in place by narrow straps at the shoulders. The lining matches the queen's white satin gown.

The mantle is being furnished by the Chateau de Mink, formerly Chesty's Mink Ranch and Salon. Chesty designed and originated the mantle that is to be worn each year by the Queen. The Queen will give up her royal robe at the end of the ball on the Saturday night of the races.

The leather work was done by Tibar furs in Chicago. Miss Marilee Herrmann, Mrs. William Herrmann, and Miss Diane Koehler did all of the sewing which was mostly done by hand. They have spent 300 hours to date on this robe.

Miss Plymouth To Be Chosen On June 12th

The 12th annual Miss Plymouth contest will be staged June 11-12 at Centennial Auditorium in Plymouth. This year's winner will be crowned by Patricia Gottschalk, reigning Miss Plymouth.

The new Miss Plymouth will receive a trophy, crown, free trip to compete in the Miss Indiana Pageant, a scholarship, a cash award and many other gifts.

Contestants will be judged in four categories: swim suit, evening gown, poise and personality, plus talent competition. Entries may be mailed to Mrs. George Williams, 316 Marlow Place, Plymouth, Ind.

Co-chairman for this year's event are Don Morrison and Mrs. Bruce Van Gilder.

The pageant will be opened with a concert presented by the Plymouth Adult Band.

Miss Indiana will make a personal appearance on June 12.

Miss Patricia McDaniel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McDaniel, Plymouth.

Voice Of The People

Dear Sirs:

Enclosed find check for $6.50. Enter me, an "old timer from Culver" as a subscriber to the Culver Citizen.

Your issue of Feb. 17, 1969 was sent to me by my cousin, Mrs. Wayne Lowry of Madison S.D. and I note the Memories items the one of Grover Pilar installing light plant in mothers home. I even made the wood patterns from which castings were made for engines and I wonder how many old timers remember the following:

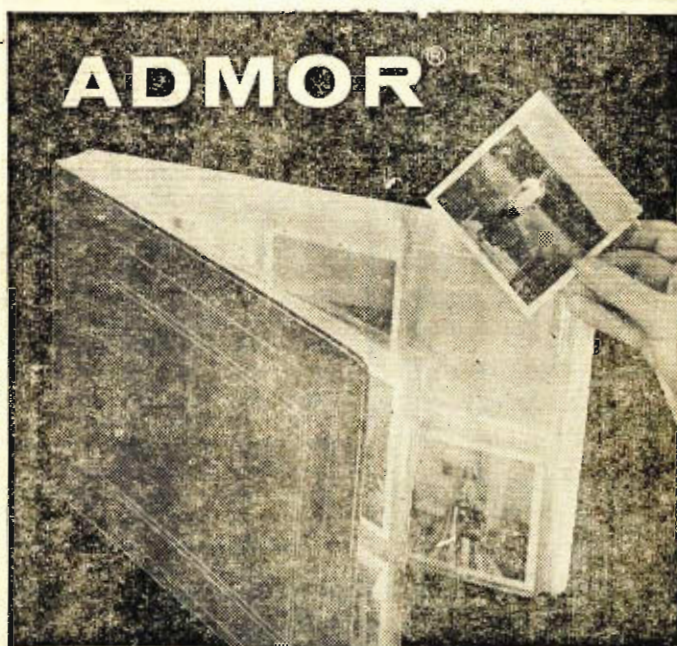

When Culver was Marmont

an the Peru R.R. was the Vandalia R.R. The old steam boats Aubbeenaubbee Fearless and Lloyd McRhea, the latter operated by Capt. Knapp who was a passenger train conductor on the old Vandalia and in summer operated the Arlington Hotel. Nearpass printed the paper on an old style hand press. Henry Kuntz took over and had the first power press I know of there. Dave Smith had the first rural route, Ezra Hawkins also, then Steve Smith west of Burr Oak. I helped build the old town clock and wound it for a number of years free. Could give you much of the old history of Culver but hard to write. My age, 81 years young.

So wish to remain an old timer of Culver.

Alumnus Donates All-Weather Track To Academy

A new all-weather track, the first of its kind, will be dedicated Saturday at Culver Military Academy. George M. Steinbrenner III, of Cleveland, Culver alumnus and president of American Ship Building Inc., donated the $67,000 track which will be named for him. After the dedication ceremony Coach Dave Burke's squad will host South Bend Riley High School in a track meet.

Construction of the rubberized track topped with urethane was completed last month. The facility includes a track oval, straightaway and areas of field events.

The prepared track bed was first covered with a rubberized, hot-mixed asphaltic composition.

Self-propelled paving machines spread the mix in place at a depth of one and one-half inches after first compacting it with tandem steel-wheeled rollers.

A cold blended liquid urethane was later poured in place over the entire black rubberized track. The urethane polymer containing a terra cotta pigment to provide color and resistance to oxidation, was uniformly cast to an average depth of one-quarter inch and required no jointing.

As a further safety factor for the athletes, silica sand was imbedded in the partially cured urethane to obtain a non-skid surface.

This all-weather resilient track surface is safe in all wet or dry conditions, according to Clif Marshall, Culver athletic director. It provides sure footing for smooth soled shoes and is not damaged by cleats, high heel shoes, spikes on track shoes or the traffic of maintenance vehicles.

Uniroyal, Inc., innovators of the all-weather rubberized asphaltic track, helped supervise the construction, plant mix composition and paving procedures.

The track donor, George M. Steinbrenner, was graduated from Culver in 1948. He won Culver varsity letters in both track and football and was also on badminton, basketball, football, rifle, track, volleyball, water polo and swimming in intramural teams.

At Williams College he was the first junior ever elected to the Athletic Council and he won seven major varsity awards in sports. He was the New England collegiate and AAU hurdles champion in 1951 and 1952 and the Eastern AAU low hurdles champion in 1952. He was on the US team which placed third in the low hurdles at the Montreal International Championships in 1951 and first in the 60-yard low hurdles in 1952. His time of 52.8 seconds earned him the Eastern AAU 440 hurdles championship in 1952.

After graduation he was athletic director at Lockbourne Air Force Base and became the USAF champion in the 440-yard hurdles. He holds the armed forces record in the 440-yard hurdles with a time of 53.3 seconds.

Following his Air Force service he was assistant football coach at Northwestern U. and Purdue U. and then president and owner of Cleveland's entry in the National Industrial Basketball League, the Cleveland Pipers.

In the late 1950's he began a distinguished career of service by developing a Junior Olympic program that was so successful it became a model for the entire nation. For this and his direction of the National March of Dimes campaign in 1960 he was chosen both Cleveland's and Ohio's "Young Man of the Year." He has been president of American Ship Building since 1967.

OUTDOOR PAINT JOBS NEED ATTENTION

Consequently, this is a good time to make repairs and paint outdoor furniture, fences, porches, trellises and screens.

In painting, three basic steps are paramount, says John Mentzer, Purdue University agricultural extension engineer. They are selecting the right paint for the surface to be painted, preparing the surface adequately and applying the paint properly.

Mentzer stresses these points: —select paint colors that will blend with the surroundings of the house and also satisfy your preferences.

—paint wood and most metals with either solvent or water base paint, but remember these materials need a primer coat to seal the surface against moisture.

—use a paint with abrasion-resistance on porches, steps, screens, etc. Many paints are specially formulated for this type of surface.

—finish outdoor furniture with exterior enamel or penetrating pigmented stain. Apply an enamel primer to wood furniture or a special metal primer to metal furniture.

—clean all surfaces of dirt, oil, scale and other impurities prior to painting. Then, be sure the surface is dry before commencing.

—use paint in temperature preferably above 50 degrees F or higher. The temperature of the paint should be about 70 degrees F.

—apply any caulking needed after the primer coat.

—put on finish coats of paint immediately after the primer has dried.

—place paint filled rags in a fireproof container or burn immediately after discarding.

Prior to painting metal surfaces, use a wire brush, steel wool or sandpaper to remove rust and rough areas. Purdue University agricultural extension engineers recommend.

Purdue University agricultural extension engineers suggest applying alkali-resistant paints on masonry and asbestos-cement surfaces.

Never use ordinary solvent house paint on outdoor furniture, trellises and fences, caution agricultural Extension engineers at Purdue University, as it will chalk and rub off on clothing.

SKUNKS RABIES RESERVOIR

Skunks accounted for nearly two-thirds of Indiana's 90 reported rabie cases in 1968.

Of the 1968 total — the same number as in 1967 — 56 cases were in skunks. Bats accounted for 10, dogs nine, cats six, cows and foxes four each and opossum one.

Up to mid-March of this year eight cases have been reported; of these five were in skunks.

Five counties currently are under rabies quarantine. These and their quarantine expiration dates are Vigo, April 16; Johnson, Sept. 13; Franklin, Nov. 20; Ripley, Nov. 25, and Marion, Dec. 28.

A rabies quarantine means that dog owners are required to keep their pets on a leash or in a pen.

Dr. Kenneth M. Weinland, Purdue University extension veterinarian, points out that rabies remains a constant threat the year around, although some months have a higher incidence of the disease because of increased activity by wild animals.

He urges citizens to cooperate with local officials in the licensing of all dogs and control of strays. Annual vaccination of all pets is essential to safeguard against human infection. Local or state conservation officials should be notified of suspected rabies-infected wild animals, Weinland emphasizes.

He: "Would you marry a sap just for his money?"

She: "Are you gathering statistics or proposing?"

Graduation- a bright milestone in your march to achievement.

Funds Returned From State Gas Tax To County

A just released report of the Indiana State Highway Commission shows Marshall County and its incorporated cities and towns received a total $757,691.88 in motor vehicle tax funds for road and street construction and repair during 1968.

The summary, which was distributed by the Indiana Motor Truck Association, shows the county was allotted $624,652.26 and the cities and towns received $133,066.62.

Monies distributed through the motor vehicle highway account come mainly from the payment of motor fuel taxes and license plate fees by Indiana's automobile and truck owners. Trucks represented approximately 18% of registered vehicles in Indiana last year, although they paid 38.5% of the motor vehicle taxes according to the Indiana Motor Truck Association.

Amounts representing truck-paid taxes distributed to Marshall County, therefore, were $240,480.73 to the county and $51,230.66 to the cities and towns.

Separate amounts received in 1968 by the various urban areas in Marshall County were: Arcos $11,995.86, Bourbon $12,995.86, Bremen $26,145.40, Culver $13,303.21, LaPaz 4,653.58, Plymouth $4,553.29.

Truck-paid taxes amounted to 33.5% of these figures also.

After numerous expense items are paid, the state distributes 32% of the net motor vehicle tax funds available for distribution to the counties of the population of each cities and town to the population of all cities and towns in Indiana as of the most recent U.S. Census.

During 1968 the counties received $56,906,772.13 with cities and towns receiving $26,758,891.39.

It's The Beginning

Commencement time is here again for thousands of teenagers who will be changing their lives completely upon graduation from high school. Soon to be gone are the days of high school and for many, the days of education at all levels on the textbook basis.

This time brings the biggest change in life a teen ager must face. All of a sudden these people are thrown from the world of a youth into the middle of an adult world that many can accept and others cannot adjust to overnight. For many it will mean the responsibility of family life . . . the responsibility of self-support . . . and generally, the responsibility of making their own way in the world after 18 years of fond, never-before realized parental care.

Putting aside the tools and habits of a youth and accepting the machinery of an adult can be difficult. Decisions must be made for the first time on an important basis and a different outlook on life must accompany these decisions. Despite the fact that parents are always behind their children, now is the time these young men and women must provide for themselves.

Coming out of high school today and 20 years ago is two different things. Family life is different . . . it is a much looser bind than use to be the case. Rapidly vanishing are the days when families did almost everything together. The speeded up world of today has caused this. It is more the case than the exception anymore that a teen has a car of their own to get out and go where they please and when they please. Travel and "easy money" have made individuals out of families. The looser bind is the cause of much of the disturbances and problems that face the young adult age.

Many of the 1969 graduates of high school will go on to further their education and from their move into important positions and professions. Others will seek employment and take on the responsibilities of self support. Still others will face the future of married life and start families of their own, accepting very quickly responsibilities they have only an imagination of the seriousness of at this young age. Making a successful marriage is hard work and many enter into this without true love and devotion that is necessary for this to succeed.

All adults wish the best to the graduates of today. Help is waiting in the form of advise, financial and physical help only many are not willing to accept this. Gone may be the days when parents and teachers are the guiding hand that leads the youth down the paths of life. Finding a path of their own will be a tremendous task for many and for others it will come without much difficulty. One fact that must be accepted is that no one is ever too old to accept help.

The next few months or years are the most important in the lives of this group. Decisions will be made that will affect them the rest of their lives.

Higher education? Employment? Marriage? Service?

These are choices that will be made that will form the mold for the adult years ahead. A right decision may be made or a wrong choice can also be made that will lead to the success or lack of the same for all.

The closing exercise of a graduating class is called commencement. This isn't the finish, but just the start of life for an individual. The start of their adult life is the most important time for an individual as the choice they make will govern them for the many years ahead. The first choice may not be the right one, but with youth on their side and common sense available for them, they have time to form the right pattern in their bid for a successful, happy and profitable life. But, the decision is now theirs and from now on it will be their responsibility to accept and execute.

SODBUSTER SEZ . . .

by Herman Sodbuster

Elvira and I want to take this opportunity to congratulate the seniors. Graduation day brings back the old memories. My class was considerably smaller than this year's batch. When I see the end results of our education, it shore makes me chuckle. Take for instance the award I got "or bein' the best student in English. Then consider that one of the town's leaders wasn't sure he'd graduate 'till the last minute. There was some said they let him graduate just to get rid of him. But look at him now. Shore proves it don't take brains if you got a big mouth.

One of the girls in that class is now a big sassiety matron. Back then she used to put ink on her heels so the holes in her stockings didn't show. If I remind her of that now, she'd deny she knew me.

The black sheep of the class left for the big city soon after graduation and now could buy out most folks. Seems he had brains as well as a big mouth.

Things shore has changed since those days. Back then we only had one town cop and no crime. Now they got a whole platoon and still no crime. Course eventually everyone will be on the polecece force so they won't be anyone left to be arrested.

They's been a lot said about the lowering of morals amongst our teen-agers but I just don't believe it. Kids of today ain't much worse than they was in my day. The only difference is they don't bother to sneak around. They're jist more open about it.

Course I'm not in favor of this here "pot" smoking and most kids don't like it neither. The newspapers jist make it too popular by tryin' to alarm the parents. Pot was growin' in my day but we didn't know about it.

LSD is new and frighten'. If we wanted to take a trip in the old days we could get the same effect by swallowin' a wad of chewin' tobacco.

There has been a change in the English language that brings me up short once in a while. Last week Elvira took care of some of the grandkids and picked up a few new phrases. I came out of the field all tuckered out and in my usual terrible temper. She met me at the door. "Now don't git all uptight, Herman," she said. "Let it all hang out."

"Elvira" I shot back, "you watch what you're sayin' 'round those kids. There's a time and place for everything."

Well enyhow, I wish you kids happiness and success. And jist remember that you can't possibly mess the world up any worse than we did.

STAY AWAKE ITCHING?

Let doctor's formula stop it.

Tri Kappa To Sponsor Summer Reading Program

Tri Kappas voted to continue to sponsor the Summer Reading Program at their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. John Henderson.

Arrangements are being made to start this program in the Elementary School of the Culver Community School Corporation after the close of the current school year.

Mrs. Norman Scruggs, Librarian, will start in two year period to start in September. Approval was voted by the group.

To conclude the business of the evening, it was decided to hold the "Christmas in August" Bazaar the summer of 1970.

Assisting the hostess for the evening were Mrs. Robert Curtis, Mrs. Russell Hippensteel, and Mrs. Fred Lintner.

Monday, June 2 is the starting date for the Summer Reading Club this year. Financed by the local Tri Kappa thru the Culver Public Library, this has been a popular pastime in recent years at the Culver Public Library, is coordinator of this popular summer program which benefits both the student and the school.

The Culver chapter of Tri Kappa has been informed by Council Secretary, Mrs. Milo Mitchell, that Mrs. John Edgell has been named to the State Scholarship committee for an appointment of two years. Mrs. Edgell is past president of Kappa, Kappa, Kappa, Epsilon Nu Chapter, and is at present Province Art Chairman.

Tri Kappa will sponsor a patient at Beatty Memorial Hospital through the Adopt-a-Patient program. Mrs. B. L. Curry, Mental Health Chairman, will handle arrangements.

The nominating committee presented Mrs. Edward Schultz as Corresponding Secretary for a year.

This is an incentive reading program which does not require attendance at meetings or participation in any activities other than a bit of brain power to read books. These books may be from the local public school, CMA, or personal libraries. The purpose is to keep the children in the elementary grades reading for pleasure as well as for knowledge during the summer months. This in turn helps to develop a child's reading for school in the fall with a more alert mind.

There will not be competition between readers, but prizes will be given to two grades showing proof of their students having read the most books.

A few changes for the summer of 1969 have been made, but basically the plan is the same.

Last year several of the booklets listing the books read by the children were not returned to the teachers of the librarians. A written or verbal statement from the parents or guardian will be accepted this summer as proof that the child has read that particular book. Initials or the parent's or guardian's name will be necessary if a written statement is used. For each book read, there will be one point credited to the grade the child will be entering in the fall.

The grades eligible are those students that will be in grades two through six next fall. After the opening of school in the fall the Tri Kappa will present prizes to the two rooms having the highest number of points.

A chart will be displayed at the library listing the readers and a star will be placed after their name for each book read. Parents again may help by reading and having a star added to their child's name for each book reported read.

All books read by the children must be on the child's reading level.

Mr. and Mrs. Stradley are presently living in Norfolk, Virginia.

CMA SPORTS

Three Culver Military Academy fencers will be competing in the Amateur Fencers League of American Midwest Championships in Cleveland Sunday. They advanced to the second round of the national tourney by placing in the divisional championships in Indianapolis last month.

Chris Held, a senior from Birmingham, Mich.; Jon Fatu'a, a senior from Beaver Falls, Pa.; and George Blackburne, a sophomore from Sunnyvale, Calif., will enter the boys' foil championship competition. Boys from the same schools are put into different pools so they will not fence each other.

The fencers will be accompanied by their coach, Capt. Melville K. Short.

SPRING DAYS BRING PET PROBLEMS

Where pets are concerned spring and pleasant days tend to invite problems not as prevalent during the winter months.

As people begin to work outside more, they allow their dogs, cats, or other pets greater freedom. And, the pets themselves enjoy being out more. But neighbors do not always appreciate this, for pets may romp or dig in their yard or flower beds, causing damage.

If you own a pet you have the responsibility of keeping the pet within the confines of your own property, remind Purdue University extension veterinarians. And though most of your neighbors may also be pet owners or lovers, you may have some who are not.

Furthermore, each spring a number of pets simply become lost. For owners give pets more outdoor freedom and then do not watch them closely. Consequently, pets tend to wander or stray.

Pets also are more likely to contract infectious diseases during spring and summer as they associate with other animals. Distemper and hepatitis are two diseases commonly spread among animals in early spring. Vaccination can prevent these diseases in pets. Discuss a gram of disease prevention with your veterinarian and see your pet has the prescribed inoculations before becoming exposed.

Lastly, the incidence of rabies tends to increase during spring and summer as pets come into contact with one another with wildlife. So, above all, be sure that your pet is vaccinated each year for rabies. And remember, all animals are possible subjects of the disease, not just dogs.

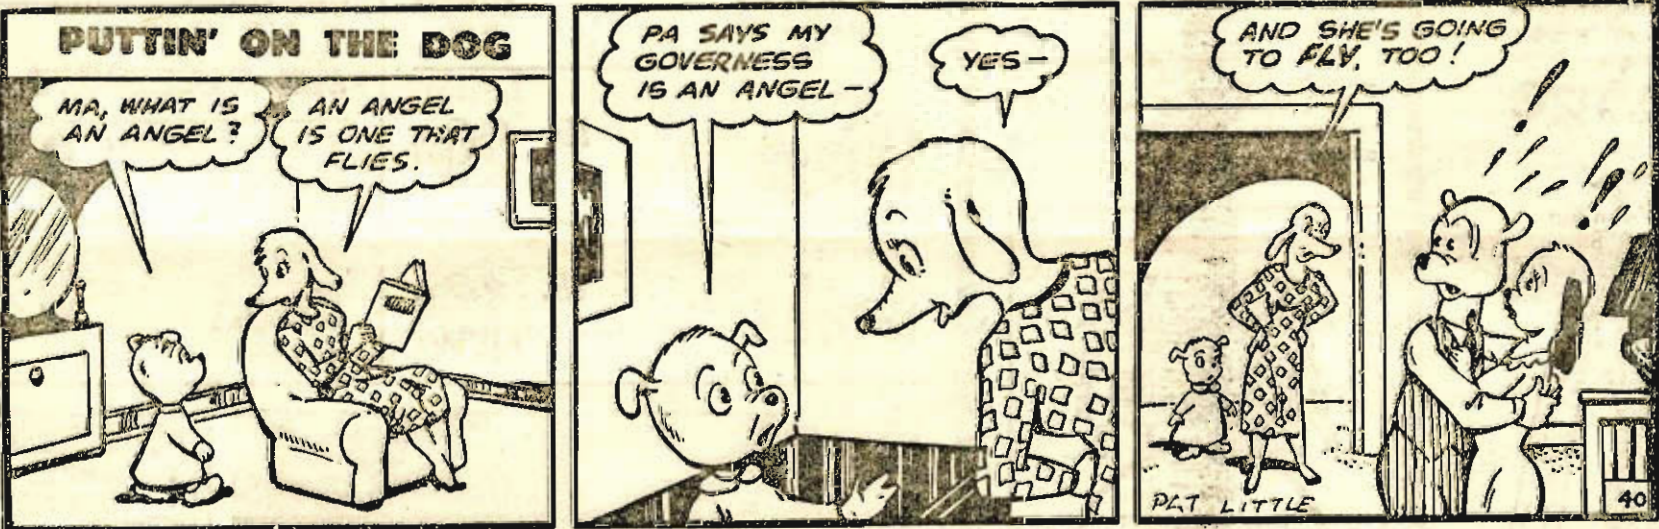

NO SOLUTION

Trying to keep appearances up and expense down is a family's most puzzling problem.

WONDERFUL IDEA: The Lions Club of Longview, Wash., has held a two-day cleanup campaign in which discarded junk cars, rusting refrigerators and water tanks, etc., were picked up from roadside deposit places and hauled away to a rural dump. Trucks and fork-lift trucks were donated.

Most communities are made ugly by junk abandoned by louts. Your civic club can do a tremendous job with a campaign like that of the Longview Lions.

Greatest cleanup in the history of the Longview area came early in World War 2, when I was co-chairman of a scrap metal campaign. Forty trucks and 300 volunteers scoured the area in a great effort to collect all discarded metal objects. The result was a beautiful countryside again and a great supply of scrap for the war effort.

NEWCOMERS

Green Comet broccoli, Stonehead cabbage and Snow King cauliflower are All-America Selections winners of a gold, silver and bronze medal, respectively.

Newcomers to the cabbage family, one to each of the three most popular groups: broccoli, cabbage and cauliflower, are all medalists.

The new broccoli, named Green Comet, won a gold medal; the cabbage, Stonehead, a silver medal, and Snow King, the cauliflower, one of bronze. Imagine what good eating these varieties will make!

All three are hybrids, with the vigorous growth and heavy production that signifies. All three reach edible stage exceptionally early.

Green Comet is easy to grow; produces large-size heads of small, tight buds of excellent quality. These are notable for their tardy opening, thus they remain edible for a long time.

Delicious for fall eating, both the big central heads and the smaller, later side shoots are good sized and of a rich, blue-green color.

Stonehead's characteristics are extra-earliness plus small size heads that are very firm and have small cores. The smaller size permits closer spacing, thus yielding more heads from the same area.

This cabbage is very hardy. The heads, when used on the table, are of good quality and excellent flavor.

The great importance of Snow King cauliflower is its earliness. It is edible from 10 to sometimes 24 days earlier than other varieties of the well-known Snowball type. Not only that, but the uniformly-sized heads mature at one time, for one harvest.

Low, low plants; fair sized, flatish heads and good eating will endear Snow King to many gardeners.

These new varieties have been tested for two years in trial grounds throughout the United States and Canada.

If they had not been found to perform excellently under all of the varying conditions and climates in these trials, they would not be medalists.

GERMAN MEASLES VACCINES TESTED SUCCESSFUL PROTECTION against rubella — German measles — by vaccination seems assured by "fantastic" results from a vaccine test conducted by the University of Cincinnati using 1,200 school children. One of the two vaccines used produced immunity in 98.9 per cent of the children; the other, in 99.2 per cent.

THERE'S A TEAM of water sniffers on the Louisiana State University campus trying to identify the obnoxious odors of the lower Mississippi river waters so that measures can be recommended to eliminate them. After collecting polluted waters from some 30 states in its more-than-2,000-mile journey from northern Minnesota, the mighty Mississippi makes no claim for purity. Nevertheless, well down in Dixieland, where salt water from the Gulf of Mexico has encroached on underground fresh water supplies, the great river is purified for drinking water. But some of its odors remain, say Louisianans who live along it.

VALUABLE DEPOSITS of gold, silver, copper and other metals that are deeply buried beneath soils or alluvium may be spotted by the presence of escaping mercury vapor, reports the U. S. Geological Survey. It says that metallic ore deposits contain mercury, and that tiny amounts of it continuously escape to the earth's surface and enter the atmosphere. This "leaking" mercury can be detected not only in soil gas at the surface but also in the air above the deposit.

NEW TWO-PIECE high-speed tips that will flame-cut most thicknesses of steel plate and can be pulled apart for cleaning have been developed by National Cylinder Gas, Chicago. The company says a ring holds the two-piece tip assembly together, making it easy to insert or remove the tip from the torch. The high-speed machine cutting tips are designed to cut steel plate from 1/8-inch to 10-inch in thickness.

THE FATE OF A DRUG in the body is a personal affair, as peculiar, in a way, as a personality trait, says a Stanford University pharmacologist. Yet physicians today prescribe drugs as if all their patients were the same. As a result patients are subjected to one of the most bizarre types of human experimentation, he said. "Drug therapy should not resemble a plan for nuclear warfare called 'overkill,'" he said. "There are certain cases where we can get away with it. Penicillin is perhaps used in large excess, but only because there is almost no dose-related toxicity. The excess drug is simply wasted."

WHILE MAN is busy lamenting the tragic extinction of many of the world's animal species, he would do well to consider his own prospects of survival. "The human race, at the present time, is in grave danger of becoming extinct. It has until the end of this century to stem the inevitable tide," says evolutionists John T. Robinson of the University of Wisconsin. Unlike other animals, which are dependent on genetic change to adapt to their surroundings, man can to a considerable extent manipulate his environment and adapt directly to it.

MOST AMERICANS pay little or no attention to most international issues, according to a survey published by the University of Michigan. It reports that in the area of foreign affairs, Americans have had little awareness of the nature and purpose of the reciprocal trade program, the Marshall Plan, or various later foreign aid programs. Majorities, often large majorities, of American citizens have been unable to identify such leading international figures as Marshal Tito and the U.S. secretary of state. Likewise, citizens were found to lack information on such domestic issues as tax programs, farm policy, and even race relations. Social researchers have found that people who are knowledgeable about any one major issue or policy, whether foreign or domestic, usually are reasonably informed about most others.

A SPECIFIC PORTION of a molecule that can incite an animal disease called experimental allergic encephalomyelitis (EAE) has been isolated and identified by a team of researchers at The Salk Institute. The researchers are now studying EAE and the molecular fragment for a better understanding of multiple sclerosis.

WELDING isn't the slow, tedious process it once was, reports Alloy Rods Company, York, Pa. New fully automatic gas-shielded, flux-ored processes achieve remarkable fast metal-deposition rates, consuming as much as 34 1/2 feet of wire electrodes a minute on long, continuous welds.

AS OF 1965 the United States was using an average of about 310 billion gallons of water a day for public supplies, commerce and industry, irrigation, and rural domestic and livestock — about 1,600 gallons per day per person, reports the U.S. Department of the Interior.

TINY BALLOON IN AORTA HELPS HEART PATIENTS INFLATABLE AORTIC BALLOONS might save many "critical" heart attack victims, reports the University of Chicago. The cigar-shape balloons promote blood circulation when the heart is in severe failure and cannot generate normal pressure. The balloon is threaded by a catheter through the femoral artery to the aorta, a major artery leading from the heart, and collapses when the heart contracts and expands when it relaxes. When collapsed it reduces aortic pressure; when inflated it helps push blood out connecting arteries.

THE BALANCE - OF - PAYMENTS adjustment process has been likened to a girdle by Frederick L. Deming, Under Secretary of the Treasury for Monetary Affairs. He said that it is designed to remove unsightly bulges and contain the body economic into a smooth and pleasing form; it must be modern in design, with a three-way stretch that provides firm support and permits free movement and flexibility; and most wearers feel much better when they can take it off — when the national body economic is in such good shape that it is unnecessary.

DEPOSITS OF MANGANESE have been found in several locations in Lake Michigan. A University of Michigan research team reports that nodules apparently containing up to 22 per cent manganese oxide were found in Green Bay and in western and northern parts of Lake Michigan. Manganese nodules are commonly found on the ocean floor, but rarely in fresh water.

A SYSTEM for producing dry ice in pellet form has been developed by Cardox, Chicago. It uses liquefied carbon dioxide from low-pressure storage containers and converts it to pellets during manufacturing processes.

BATS are presenting problems to aircraft operators in certain areas where they are present in large concentrations. One such area is San Antonio, Tex. The Federal Aviation Administration regularly picks up and tracks "living clouds" of several million bats on its radar at that city's airport. The bats show up on the radar for from one to three hours in the night and early morning, when they leave and return to caves.

A MOTHER ELEPHANT has a handy baby-sitter from the time it gives birth to a 200-pound baby. Another elephant becomes the baby's "godmother" and acts as an assistant to the mother in caring for the baby.

AN OUT-OF-THIS-WORLD "light meter" — similar in function to the down-to-earth device photographers use — is under development by University of Southern California scientists probing the mysteries of the earth's outer atmosphere. They are working to perfect a filter photometer, an exacting and highly sensitive light detector. It is being designed for use at distances greater than 200 miles above the earth's surface. Its function will be to collect and transmit data on the hitherto unexplored interactions of molecules and particles in the outer atmosphere and their interactions with the sun's radiation.

HEATING OR COOLING thick slurries in the chemical industry is easy if you use a "Votator" scraped-surface heat exchanger. The Louisville company's "Clean-wall" unit is 20 feet long with a 10-inch interior diameter, providing 50 square feet of heat transfer surface. Material pumped through the unit is constantly scraped from its interior walls by fixed blades. This prevents the fouling common with other equipment.

KNOW YOUR INDIANA LAW

By
John J. Dillon, Attorney at Law
(This is a public service article explaining in general terms a provision of Indiana law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law upon their private legal affairs should consult a private attorney.)

LIMITED DIVORCE

This title, limited divorce, is really a misnomer. Indiana law provides for absolute divorce or a legally supervised separation.
The court is permitted to create such a status for only a limited time.

This separation from "bed and board" can be granted for reasons very similar to those for which a divorce can be granted.
That is adultery, desertion, cruelty, drunkenness or wanton neglect. The same general requirements for residence and support of children pertain to this legal separation. The court can make provisions for distribution of property but in so doing must keep in mind that this separation is only of a temporary nature.

It is easy to see that this remedy is one that is difficult to enforce. For this reason the courts in Indiana are reluctant to grant a separation from "bed and board". For all practical purposes the remedy is seldom used in this state. When one party to a marriage brings such a suit, it is the usual procedure for the other party to the marriage to cross-complain for absolute divorce. Faced with these circumstances, the court will usually grant an absolute divorce.

Many times separation suits are prompted by a vindictive mate who has been surprised.
Through this method he can have a separation and prevent the other party from remarrying.

There are nevertheless exceptional cases where limited divorces are indicated. When a person is aged and infirm and who wholly without fault, the courts will sometimes grant a legal separation.

Even when the court grants a legal separation, it does so only for a short time and the judge normally likes to review the conditions from time to time to determine if a reconciliation can be effected or whether an absolute divorce should be granted.

The current thrust of the law in most jurisdictions is to eliminate separation from bed and board and this will undoubtedly be suggested in Indiana.

FUNDAMENTAL RULES SIMPLIFY SAFETY

Confused by detailed boating rules that may differ from one part of the country to the next?
A little common sense in boating and a knowledge of the fundamental rules of the road can be applied almost everywhere, according to the Evinrude News Service.

The basic rule to remember is that a vessel approaching you from any point dead ahead to within a ninety degree angle coming from the right has the right of way.

When two boats approach head on, each should steer to the right or starboard side. When one boat is overtaking another, he must keep clear of the slower moving boat which has the right of way.

HONORS ATTAINED

Hoping you will always achieve what you set out to do!

Chuck's
Standard Service

Boats leaving the dock have no right of way until they are in open water

The vessel having the right of way is called "privileged" but has the obligation to maintain course and speed. The vessel not having the right of way is "burdened" and must take necessary action to avoid the possibility of stopping or reversing.

Sailboats are always privileged over power boats except in a rare situation when they are overtaking boats under power. Fishing boats whether anchored or underway have the right of way.

A good rule to remember when approaching larger vessels such as freighters is that they have the right of way though you may technically be privileged.

In any emergency it is the duty of the boatman to stand by and render all possible assistance.
Common sense and boating courtesy should prevail in all situations.

To all graduates, our very best wishes.

Dots And Dashes From The Health Front

There's an upbeat air of excitement nowadays among public health people in the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

Spurred to action by a tuberculosis case rate that's well above the national average, the Antituberculosis Association of Puerto Rico has joined forces with the commonwealth's health department to launch a task force study of the TB picture throughout the island. Once the study is completed they will be in a better position to organize control measures.

Studies of the TB situation have been carried out in the past, in Puerto Rico as elsewhere. But this one will be different: a self-evaluation by commonwealth people themselves. The task force will be staffed by Puerto Rico's own experts, using its own physicians, nurses, epidemiologists and other health professionals, aided by its own volunteers. And financed, as well by its own funds. In a sense the project parallels Puerto Rico's famous "operation bootstrap" of some years ago in the industrial field.

The main objective will be to see that all persons affected by tuberculosis in any way — as patients, as persons with TB infection but without active disease, or as "contacts" in danger of receiving or spreading the infection — will have needed services available. Another function will be to assess the potentialities for chemoprophylaxis (preventive treatment). This means not just treating the already ill, but finding and dealing with population pockets that are at high risk of disease spread.

In 1967 the TB case rate in Puerto Rico was 44.2 per 100,000, compared to a national rate of 23.1. With new medical and scientific tools, and a new spirited effort put forth by the joint task force, the commonwealth's TB picture may look a lot brighter a few years hence.

LET (DR.) GEORGE DO IT

Except in a few backwoods areas, the days of self-doctoring with herbs and roots prescribed by old Aunt Sairy, or with snake oil obtained from the medicineshow man, are gone.

But rural remedies aren't the only form of do-it-yourself medicine that causes more illness than it cures. Some people have a way of peering into that shallow chamber of ancient drug relics, the medicine cabinet; selecting something with an appealing color, shape, or order; and downing a dose. That can put an end not only to the illness but to the patient. Old medicines should go the way of old illnesses — into the limbo of the past.

Another way of doing something wrong about medical treatment is to confuse the local druggist with your doctor. The druggist has a large variety of patent medicines that can momentarily soothe your cough, your ache, or whatever. But he hasn't the medical knowledge that would enable him to prescribe. A patent remedy can alleviate your symptoms without really affecting your ailment. Bona fide treatment calls for the services of a physician.

Still another self-treatment habit, unfortunately prevalent nowadays, is the taking of handy pills for "nerves". Millions of people beset by anxiety, tension, insomnia, depression or other woes of the nervous system are taking unprescribed drugs that can do them serious harm. This pill-taking often leads to gradually increased doses up to and beyond the danger point.

Self-medication whether with drugs or snake oil is no laughing matter. It's bad for the health and can endanger life. Your Christmas Seal association suggests: for safety's sake and for better health, let a doctor do the doctoring.

VEGETABLE GARDEN MAKES GOOD FAMILY PROJECT

Want a family project this spring and summer that's sure to bring pleasure, satisfaction and recreation? Then tackle a home vegetable garden.

What's more, the garden can supply you fresh vegetables, points out John A. Wott, Purdue University extension home environment horticulturist.

Any garden requires careful planning and planting. Remember to start small. You can always increase the size of the plot next year.

Locate your garden plot in full sun, near a source of water. Cultivate the soil as early as possible in the spring by either plowing, spading or rototilling. A commercial fertilizer such as 12-12-12 applied at the rate of two to three pounds per 100 square feet should be incorporated with the soil.

Peat moss or other organic matter may also be added, depending on the condition of the soil. For areas of the garden where root or fruit crops are to be planted, it is often advisable to sidedress the rows with a commercial fertilizer high in phosphorus and potassium, such as 4-16-16. Do not allow the fertilizer to touch the seeds.

Most vegetables are started from seeds, but some are best purchased as plants in flats or smaller containers. For seedlings follow the directions on the seed packets for the proper planting time, depth of planting, and spacing of rows. Transplant vegetable plants from flats much as you would flowering annuals, sure to allow for the eventual size and height of the plants.

Proper care of your vegetable garden means having and using the necessary materials. Be sure to have stakes, dust and spray water, and garden tools available. Keep weeds pulled, and dust spray to control insects and diseases. Always follow directions on the label as to strength and time of spray or dusting. Water your vegetable garden during periods of dry weather.
