Dr. Wiseman attended the funeral of Prof. Miller of the Commercial college at Laporte, Monday.

Mrs. A. C. Shepherd and daughter, of Highland View, Long Point, spent a few days in Laporte.

Fourteen row boats were smashed to kindling wood during the great storm from Vagen's to Vonnegut's.

Miss Mary Coffin, who has been stopping on Long Point, returned to her home in Laporte last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Black and son, of Terre Haute, arrived Monday at the Colonade Hotel to spend a few weeks around the lake.

Talk about cheap excursions, but when a man can go from Huntington, Ind., to Chicago and return for $1, its pretty near all right.

Among the new arrivals at the Bay View are Mrs. Frank Bird and daughter Jessica, Mrs. Alexander, Miss Alice Wilson, Messers Sam and Robt. Moore.

F. T. Neal, of St. Louis, Mo., is in town taking in the scenery at the lake. We understand he will be connected with the military academy the ensuing year.

The young men who wear duck trousers and are to be found in promiscuous places along the lake banks should not forget that the "Aubbe-naubbee" carries a search light.

Griff Stevenson, one of the members of the "D. B." Club camping on Long Point received a telegram Saturday stating that his aunt had died, and he immediately left for Noblesville.

Miss Alice Young of Louisville, Miss Juliette Bryan, Mr. John Walick and Mr. E. B. Martindale Jr. have returned to Indianapolis after a pleasant two weeks visit with Miss Laura Huey.

The Bay View Hotel is now crowded with guests to its utmost capacity. It has been from the first commencement of the season liberally patronized which is evidence of the popularity of landlord John Booth.

Prof. Mawhorter, son of our worthy tinner, arrived in Culver City Saturday night to spend Sunday with his parents. He is a high-class all-around musician, and is at present engaged with a travelling troupe at a remunerative salary.

W. F. Eulitt drove over to Rochester Friday evening to visit his wife and baby, and also her parents, returning home at noon Saturday.

It is quite a usual thing now to see our old townsman, Mr. N. Gandy, sitting in front of his residence enjoying the fresh air. We hope to see his pleasant countenance at the door of our sanctum very shortly.

Wm. Taplin, an old resident of this place, and who has charge of the paint department of the St. Louis Wrought Iron Works, is in town shaking hands with his many friends. He will remain a few days at the lake.

Camp "Tahlequah" is probably the model camp of Long Point. It is composed of five jolly Terre Haute boys who are experienced in camp life. They get their camp name from the old Indian chief, "Tahlequah."

Rev. Ogden, presiding elder of the M. E. Church of this district, was in Culver City Monday, and conducted the baptizing which took place at the lake in the afternoon. Sixteen persons were immersed, and fourteen baptised by sprinkling.

E. E. Anderson, the bicyclist, rode a mile recently at St. Louis, paced by a locomotive in one minute and three seconds. This is the fastest mile ever ridden by any person on a bicycle. He will try to lower his record Thursday and it is hoped he will succeed.

Mr. Walter Culver of St. Louis, is spending a few days with his family at his father's cottage on the east side of the lake. He is traveling manager of his father's extensive Wrought Iron Range Works of St. Louis, and has traveled over 50,000 miles the past year.

The guests of the "Aubbe-naubbee" were treated to some of the sweetest music last Sunday afternoon it has ever been their lot to hear. Steinhart's Orchestra played several of their high-class pieces, and the audience was held spell-bound on each occasion.

W. E. Brainard, the photographer, whose gallery is back of the Vandalia depot, is kept pretty busy these times, having calls from people all around the lake to photograph their cottages. He has already taken nearly all of the business houses down town, and expects to have every thing of any prominence reproduced on paper by his elegant new out-door instrument.

Remember that next Tuesday the Maxenkuckee Fair commences. It should be the especial duty of every citizen in this section of the state to be in attendance. The race meeting promises to be the best ever held in Marmont, as the string of fast steppers have gained an enviable reputation as being very fast. Then you should not fail to see the baloon ascension Thursday and Friday, the 18th and 19th.

Last Saturday the Macabees of Northern Indiana gave a picnic at Tyner City, and a large and enthusiastic concourse of Marshall County citizens were present. There were also present numerous candidates, including our own Dr. Rea, of Marmont, who expects to frame laws for the State at Indianapolis next winter. Several delightful speeches were made by the candidates, both republicans and democrats, but mostly in regard to the order of Macabees.

Maxenkuckee Lake has upon its banks several fine hotels, but there are very few houses in northern Indiana that have reached that stage of popularity accorded the Arlington hotel at Long Point. This excellent house is now crowded to its utmost capacity by the bon ton society of Logansport, Indianapolis, Terre Haute and elsewhere. The fact that Mr. Knapp and wife are thoroughly qualified to conduct a first class hostelry, and leave nothing undone that would add to the pleasure of their guests is prime facie evidence of their popularity. The dining-room appointments are conducted upon the Parisian style, the menu comparing favorably with any of the noted houses found abroad. The chef, Lou Bowman, is undoubtedly without a peer in Indiana, and has few equals.

The French bicycle manufacturers propose to test each wheel and mark upon it the weight of the rider which it will bear without injury. This is an excellent suggestion, and could be adopted with profit in the United States. The city of Copenhagen, where the world's championships are to be held this month, has probably the largest proportion of cyclists to the population of any large city in the world. In a total population of 450,000 there are 30,000 riders.

C. B. Wedborn of Logansport, Ind., 14 years ago in a western state 1000 miles away gave a little girl 25 cts. with his initials engraved on it, as a memento. The piece of money was coined in the year in which she was born—1876. Saturday he came into D. A. Bradley's Restaurant for a lunch and to his surprise was given the identical piece of money in change. It had evidently been worn on a pin and was likely lost and someone finding it started it in circulation, and by some chance it came again into the hands of the original owner.

Last Saturday evening the steamers landed a host of people at the piers of the Bay View hotel, the occasion being a "swell ball", given by the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Booth, of that popular hostelry. The program contained several of the most popular numbers in the dancing feature and was participated in by a large bevy of the elite and expert dancers. Steinhart's favorite and excellent orchestra of Logansport, furnished the music for the occasion, and dancing was indulged in until about 12 o'clock, when all retired to their separate homes, having enjoyed the pleasers of the ball room in a great measure.

Monday the severest storm that has visited this county for years raged west of Plymouth. Orchards were swept away, wind-mills were blown down and considerable damage done to buildings. The roof of George Lemner's house was torn off and the side of his barn blown in. At Plymouth the awnings of Williamson & Ryan's store, the First National bank, Lewis' grocery store and Fuller's fruit store were badly damaged. At J. C. Kuhn & Son's clothing store the plate glass in large front door was broken. It is also reported that several trees in the north part of the town were blown down, and minor other damage done. The rain fell in torrents for some time, and was accompanied by a thunder storm, the severest portion of which passed to the southeast.

One of the severest storms that ever visited Lake Maxenkuckee, occurred last Thursday. The weather had been oppressively hot for several days which naturally caused the air to be thoroughly charged with electricity which culminated in a storm which raged with terrific fury for over one hour. The thunder roared, the lightning flashed, and the wind blew a 60 mile an hour gait. Lake Maxenkuckee in less than ten minutes was turned into a raging, seething sea, and the waves rolled mountain high, taking sail-boats, row-boats and piers and tossing them high and dry upon the shores. The Aubbe-naubbee was caught right in the center of the lake with Jonas Smith in command, and though but a boy, kept his ship headed toward the storm and although it looked mighty serious, the boat was safely moored alongside her dock. Nearly every pier upon the east side of the lake was washed out, and many boats damaged. Fortunately no one was out upon the lake in small boats and no lives were lost.

Last Sunday the regular excursion train on the Vandalia, arriving here at 11.17 a. m., brought in the largest crowd that has visited our lake on a Sunday up to the present time. After stepping from the train they separated, some going aboard the swift little steamers for a pleasant trip around the lake, others took a row boat for a spin on the rippling waters while a great many took possession of the banks to enjoy whatever breeze might be wafted to them. What with bathers, rowers, sailors, and those who lounged indolently in the shade with no thought of the morrow, made quite interesting outdoor pictures for the man with the camera, and he seemed to be kept quite busy, both inside of his gallery and out. About 7-00 p. m. all got aboard, and were carried speedily to their several homes on the route between here and Terre Haute, and judging from their contented faces as they looked out of the car windows, we should say they enjoyed themselves hugely.

Why He Made the Change.

Sometime since, Enoch Mow owned an interest in a livery barn here, which he disposed of and moved to Plymouth. At Plymouth he established one of the best equipped barns in the city and for several weeks did a rushing business, and everything seemed to be coming his way. But to the astonishment of his friends and patrons, Enoch suddenly settled up all his business transactions in Plymouth, closed up his barn and moved his stock to Rochester, one of the most flourishing towns in the northwest. A reporter for the HERALD made said town a visit Monday and found Enoch in his new quarters, as happy as a fish in high water. He escorted the scribe through his barn and showed him a string of fine horses and over a score of excellent carriages of every description. From this barn he escorted the pencil pusher about a block distant when he entered another livery establishment even better equipped than the first. In one department were a superb line of carriages, and in another were to be found a handsome array of horses, every animal being carefully selected for livery work. Every nook and corner of the barns were clean and tastily arranged, the harness rooms being the embodiment of order in its appointments. The firm is known as Brackett & Mow, and we wish them abundant success.

DEPLORABLE ACCIDENT.

Miss Hattie Platt Burned in a Horrible Manner.

Last Friday, about 11 o'clock a. m., Miss Hattie Platt, a resident of this city, was horribly burned from the result of which she may die. It seems that the family was using a gasoline stove, one of the old fashioned kind with a stationary tank. The victim had been ironing and the tank needing to be replenished with gasoline, she thoughtlessly undertook to fill it without turning out the fire. In an instant there was an explosion, the burning oil literally covering the unfortunate girl all over. Before the fire could be extinguished she was burned in a most shocking manner across the bowels, chest and hands, the flesh across the bowels being actually cooked. Dr. Wiseman was called who applied remedies and rendered all relief possible. The unfortunate girl should have the sympathy of the entire community.

Death of Norman Thayer.

1. Name class in which animal is entered.
2. State color, sex, and name of animal.
3. Give the name of sire and dam. If the same are not known, the fact must be stated when the entry is made.
4. If the animal has trotted under another name within two years, the former name must be given also.
5. Entrance fee five per cent. of purse, to accompany the nomination, and the winners of races to pay five per cent. more before drawing money won. Horses declared out on account of fraudulent entry will not receive their five per cent. back, paid by them on entering. In all races five must enter and three to start. But the Board reserves the privilege to change the number to "enter" and to "start," in case the entry would not be complete.
6. Name and residence of owner as well as the party making the entry "must always be given" with the nomination.
7. All entries not actually received at the hour of closing shall be ineligible, except entries by letter, bearing postmark not later than the day of closing, or "entries notified by telegraph," the telegram to be actually received at the office of sending at or before the hour of closing, such telegram to state the color, sex, and name of the horse, and the class to be entered; also to give the name and residence of party making the entry.
8. Horses will be called at 1 p. m., and races start at 1:30 p. m., local time.
9. The purses for running to be one-half mile heats, best three in five, without regard to weight.
10. If, owing to bad weather or accident, any one entered shall be unable to start in the race for which he had entered, his entrance money shall be refunded upon proper proof.
11. Entries will close at 9 a. m. on day the race is to take place.
12. All purses for trotting and pacing to be mile heats, best three in five, to harness, and conducted under Rules and Regulations of the American Trotting Association, in force at the time of meeting (in running races the Lexington Rules to govern). A horse distancing the field, or any part thereof, will receive but one premium.

CONDITION OF CROPS.

EXCESSIVE HEAT AND LACK OF RAIN IN THE SOUTH.

Wheat and Oats in Illinois Injured by Wet Weather—Hot Winds in Oklahoma—Cotton Suffers Much—General Reports by States.

Hurt by Heat.

Reports received by the Department of Agriculture show that owing to excessive heat and lack of rainfall over the greater part of the Southern States the week just ended was less favorable than the preceding week. The general condition of cotton is not as good as was reported in the bulletin of the previous week, the intense heat having caused much shedding and premature opening of bolls. The general condition of corn in the principal corn States continues excellent. In southern Missouri, however, corn is suffering for rain, and the droughty conditions of the previous week in Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi have become more serious. Hot winds, with temperatures over 100 degrees, prevailed in Oklahoma, causing serious injury to late corn. The reports indicate that grain in shock and stack has been much injured by excessive rains of previous weeks. Spring wheat harvest is well advanced in southern portions of spring wheat regions, and the early sown 's being cut in the northern portion. North Dakota reports fair yields of early wheat, but much of the late sown will not be cut. In Minnesota, spring wheat has been injured by insects. Tobacco continues in good condition, except in the Carolinas. Some cutting has been done as far north as Pennsylvania. State reports follow:

Illinois—Last week was one of great heat, the average temperature exceeded the normal from 2 to 8 degrees daily, while the maximum exceeded 90 degrees throughout the week in some counties of the State. Showers were very light. It was a favorable week for farm work, and thrashing was generally resumed. Considerable grain in central and southern counties is reported to be in an unmarketable condition. Plowing for fall seeding is well under way.

Missouri—The week has been the warmest of the season. In most counties corn continues to make good progress. Gardens have suffered more or less and pastures are getting short. Fall plowing is in progress in nearly all sections. Grapes and late peaches are ripening.

Wisconsin—The heavy rains in southern and middle sections were of great benefit to corn, buckwheat, pastures and new seeding, but slightly injurious to grain in the shock, which is reported sprouting in some localities. Harvesting is about completed and some thrashing is being done. The army worm is disappearing. Fall plowing has commenced.

Minnesota—Week favorable, being warm and showery. Corn is making excellent progress. Small grain harvest is well advanced. Late crops generally need more rain.

South Dakota—Copious, well distributed rains greatly benefited corn and other late crops, but retarded small grain harvest, which is nearly completed in southern, far advanced in central and progressing in northern counties. Considerable crops ruined by hail in several counties.

Nebraska—The showery week has hindered thrashing and stacking of small grain and caused some damage to grain in shock and stack. Corn continues in unusually fine condition, except in a few southwestern counties, where it is below average in condition.

Kansas—Hot, dry week, except fine rains in central northern counties. Conditions generally favorable.

Iowa—Continued wet and cloudy weather retarded stacking and thrashing. Many reports of oats rotting and sprouting, with considerable damage to spring wheat in shock. Corn generally very promising. Potatoes, pastures and second-crop clover making luxuriant growth.

Indiana—Corn on uplands throughout the State continues in magnificent condition, but on low lands is still submerged. The potato crop is large, though much rotting, because of wet weather. Melons are ripening, peaches are abundant and the apple crop in northern part of State is very large. Thrashing of wheat and oats proceeds but slowly, much in shock being ruined by the wet weather, sprouting and rotting. Fall plowing is going nicely, with soil in excellent condition, and the pasturage exceedingly good.

Ohio—Unusually warm, with numerous heavy storms. Crops on well drained lands made good progress, but those on river bottoms suffered badly, and farm work greatly interfered with. Grapes are ripening and peaches are plenty.

Michigan—Still droughty over northern Michigan, while excessive rains over southern counties have damaged oats and wheat in shock and stack and delayed farm work. Weather has been favorable for good growth of corn, beans and potatoes. Pastures in southern counties are good, but in northern part of State they are brown and poor.

FALL OF THE MOORES.

Diamond Match and Biscuit Deals Come to a Sudden End.

Like a thunderbolt out of a clear sky came the announcement from Chicago Tuesday that the Moore brothers, the giants behind the great Diamond Match and New York Biscuit deals, had failed. The sensation produced in "the street"—that indefinite term used to describe the banks, brokers' offices and the business places of the big men in finance without regard to their location—was most profound.

While the effects of the failure will be far-reaching and widespread, a Chicago paper asserts that there will be no panic. The Chicago Stock Exchange did not open Tuesday, and it will remain closed until arrangements shall have been completed to settle the trades outstanding. This action was decided upon at a meeting of the governing committee. The action of closing the exchange was commended on all sides. It was admitted that if an attempt had been made to carry on trading under present circumstances serious trouble would surely have followed in which all stocks would have suffered materially. Operators cite the fact that during the panic of 1873, when banks were failing all over the country, the New York exchange closed its doors and remained closed from Saturday, Sept. 21, for ten days, resuming on Tuesday, the 30th. For some time thereafter there was very little business transacted. The exchange was also closed in 1869, when Gould cornered the gold, and Black Friday made it absolutely necessary to stop the wheels of business.

The speculative deal, of which the failure of the Moore brothers is the beginning of the end, began early in this year. The head and front of the speculative movement were the Moore brothers, but they were ably seconded by the most

FORTY-FOUR WERE KILLED.

Terrible Results of the Railroad Disaster at Atlantic City, N. J.

ALLISON ON SILVER.

Iowa Senator Favors Bimetallism by Agreement.

Senator William B. Allison, in reply to a request for his views touching bimetallism by international agreement, has writ-place of silver, even if they were inclined to do so. Hence the necessity of a common ratio between the metals, embracing the leading commercial nations. France, Belgium, Holland, Germany and Spain have large amounts of silver in circulation full legal tender, coined at the old ratio of 15½ of silver to 1 of gold. To melt these coins, or sell them at their bullion value, would involve great loss, which they cannot afford to bear. Other countries in Europe have, in the aggregate, a large amount of silver in circulation and are in like situation.

"In England there is a growing sentiment for international bimetallism, embracing her political economists, her professors of universities, as also her manufacturers, agriculturists, ship owners engaged in foreign trade, and many of her leading bankers, and those especially trading with her dependencies, chiefly with India, embracing all classes. These are united into a formidable organization to promote bimetallism. On the continent the States of the Latin union, except Switzerland, are practically united. There is a strong sentiment in Germany in the same direction. The international bimetallists are thoroughly organized in France, Germany, Belgium and Holland. They have the full sympathy of their governments—in France, Belgium and Holland—and largely the support of the public representative men in both Germany and England.

"The Brussels conference met at an inopportune time and without sufficient preparation and consultation with governments invited to participate. Such a conference, when held, should be preceded by a carefully digested plan for discussion prepared in advance by the leading governments. Thus it was at Brussels that Germany and Austria and some of the smaller States were not permitted to act and vote in the conference, and therefore it was a failure as respects immediate results, but it accomplished one thing of great value, namely, a general recognition of a serious evil that required a practical remedy.

RESULT IN ALABAMA.

Democrats Claim the Governor by 40,000 Majority.

According to an Associated Press dispatch sent out on the night following the Alabama election, Johnston, the Democratic candidate, won with a majority of about 40,000. Elections in the State of Alabama are conducted on the Australian plan, and no definite figures as to the result can be given until the official count is completed.

The Populists kept a close watch on the proceedings, one of the "spotters" placed to count the number of voters who went into the polls used peas, transferring them from one pocket to another. At another polling place the Populist "spotter" marked Democrats entering to vote by white peas and Populists by black beans. He ty-eight were so far recovered two days later as to be able to go to their homes. Of the fifteen persons remaining in the hospital several are suffering from terrible injuries, the nature of which makes their recovery doubtful. There are still people who contend that the Reading train was racing with a train on the parallel track of the Camden and Atlantic, and that the Reading train was going at such a terrific rate of speed that it could not be stopped when the danger signal was suddenly shown. The story that the Reading train was racing when the accident occurred continues to be repeated, but it cannot be substantiated. If two trains were racing the engineers were violating one of the strictest rules of their roads, and were liable to instant dismissal, if discovered. On the other hand, a man whose name is withheld, and who witnessed the accident, says the trains were not racing.

No verification of the racing between the two trains can be obtained from the railroad people, as they either refuse to talk or flatly deny that the engineers could have been racing. Nevertheless, people who daily use the two roads, assert that races occur frequently on the level stretches, where the tracks are parallel, and bets among the passengers would be made over the result. Two of the wounded at the sanitarium are in a very serious state. These are Mrs. Fralinger, of Bridgeton, whose leg was amputated, and the unknown woman with the fractured skull. The latter recovered consciousness Saturday morning, but could only talk incoherently, giving no explanation of herself. It is probable her skull will be rephined in the effort to save her life. The terrible event has cast a gloom over the city and sobered the gay throngs of summer pleasure seekers. Besides the death and suffering entailed by the collision, it is likely to seriously affect the business of the city for the rest of the summer. The fear is expressed among hotel men that the accident will make people timid about traveling on the lightning expresses, and as this has been a poor season so far, the outlook is viewed with anything but cheerful minds by business people.

A little incident that is not without pathos is connected with the sufferers in the sanitarium. Directly across the street from the hospital is the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Ascension. Every Sunday morning the chimes in the belfry are rung. Saturday Rev. J. H. Townsend, rector of the church, came to the hospital and inquired if the ringing of the chimes would affect the patients. Each of the wounded was asked if he would rather that the church chimes would not ring, and each replied in the negative. Strongly enough several ask-

INTERNAL REVENUE RECEIPTS.

Total Amount Collected the Last Fiscal Year $146,830,615.

The commissioner of internal revenue has just submitted to Secretary Carlisle a preliminary report of the operations of his bureau for the fiscal year ended June 30. It shows that the receipts from all sources of internal revenue for the year aggregated $146,830,615, an increase of $3,584,537 over the receipts of the preceding fiscal year. The expense approximated $4,044,351 and the percentage of cost of collection will be 2.70, a reduction of .18, as compared with the preceding fiscal year. The exact cost cannot be definitely stated until the accounts have been received.

From spirits the receipts were $80,670,070, an increase of $807,443. The largest item of increase under this head was from fruit spirits, the receipts of $1,584,879, being $488,863 in excess of last year. Retail liquor taxes increased by $221,106; rectifiers' taxes, $49,458, and the wholesale liquor dealers' special taxes, $46,243. The only decreases noted were trifling.

Tobacco brought in a revenue of $30,711,629, or $1,000,721 more than was derived from this source in the preceding year. There was a general increase in all the items under this head, the largest being in cigarettes under three pounds per thousand, where the receipts were $2,021,195, or $357,493 more than in the preceding year. Chewing and smoking tobacco brought in $15,220,028, $323,849 more than in the preceding year. Cigars and cheroots over three pounds per thousand realized $12,713,267, an increase of $221,300, and snuff afforded a revenue of $752,915, an increase of $103,027.

From fermented liquors there was derived taxes aggregating $33,784,235, or $2,143,617 more than during the preceding year. Ale, beers and similar liquors brought in $33,139,141, an increase of $2,094,826.

There was a falling off of $189,778 in the taxes realized from oleomargarine, the revenue from which amounted to $1,219,432. The decrease was general in all the items under this head, the largest item being $112,817 in the direct tax on oleomargarine, while retail dealers' taxes shrunk $57,215, and wholesale dealers' taxes $26,520.

The miscellaneous receipts diminished $182,600 during the year, the largest item being $122,458 decrease in the receipts from playing cards, which were only $259,853.

During the year 67,039,910 gallons of spirits distilled from other material than fruit were withdrawn for consumption, a decrease of 7,413,119 gallons as compared with the preceding year. Cigarettes to the number of 4,042,391,640 were drawn out, which was 714,987,860 more than were consumed during the preceding year. The number of cigars and cheroots withdrawn was 4,237,755,943, an increase of 73,783,503. Chewing and smoking tobacco was taken out to the amount of 253,667,137 pounds, an increase of 5,397,499 pounds.

Illinois returned more internal revenue taxes than any other State, the total collections being $31,973,133. New York came next in order with $21,620,470. Kentucky stood third with $14,903,110. Ohio and Pennsylvania were close together with $11,947,724 and $11,145,548 respectively. Indiana had $7,693,154; Missouri, $6,959,911; Maryland, $5,968,895, and Wisconsin, $5,012,077. None of the remaining States reached the $5,000,000 mark in the returns.

A conference of Nebraska gold-standard Democrats will be held in the near future.

Four thousand people attended a Republican ratification meeting in the Boston Music Hall.

At Topeka, the Kansas non-partisan silver convention instructed delegates to vote for the indorsement of Bryan.

The Vermont Populist convention indorsed the work of the St. Louis convention and nominated Joseph Battle of Middlebury for Governor.

Senator Hill upon his arrival in New York in company with Major Hinckley, chairman of the State Democratic Committee, went to the home of William C. Whitney as a guest.

The California Populist State executive committee has issued a manifesto to voters. The nomination of Bryan is indorsed, but Sewall is opposed, and Watson is favored for Vice-President.

Henry George, the single tax leader, says that he is neither a gold nor a silver man, and that the present currency system and both systems advocated by the two leading candidates are bad.

MY SICK SISTERS.

"I want to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. For twenty years I had suffered with loss of appetite, nausea, constipation, palpitation of the heart, headache and pains in nearly all parts of my body. My physician said it was only indigestion, but his medicine did not help me any. I began the use of the Pinkham Remedies, particularly Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have taken four bottles, and now those troubles are cured.

"I cannot praise it enough, and our druggist says the medicine is doing a world of good among his customers."

NEW PARTY FORMED

GOLD STANDARD DEMOCRATS ORGANIZE.

Thirty-three States Represented at Indianapolis—It Is Decided to Hold a Convention in September and to Name a National Ticket.

Palmer the Leader.

Under the name of the National Democratic party of the United States the gold standard Democrats will hold a national convention in Indianapolis Wednesday, Sept. 2, and nominate candidates for President and Vice President. This was decided upon at the meeting of the committee in the Indiana capital. Senator John M. Palmer, of Illinois, was made the chairman of the permanent national committee, and to him will be left the selection of the Executive Committee which is to perfect the details of the convention.

Thirty-three States were personally represented when the permanent committee of the sound money Democrats was organized, but three more States were added to the roll because they had already appointed committeemen, who, however, had been unable to get to the conference in time. The movement for a third ticket was considered national and the decisive step in the warfare against free silver was taken.

The national committee of the new party will exert its influence to have every State send delegates to the convention. The committee to prepare the call reported the following:

Call for the Convention.

"To the Democrats of the United States: A political party has always been defined to be an association of voters to promote the success of political principles held in common. The Democratic party, during its whole history, has been pledged to promote the liberty of the individual, the security of private rights and property, and the supremacy of the law. It has always insisted upon a safe and stable money for the people's use. It has insisted upon the maintenance of the financial honor of the nation, as well as upon the preservation inviolate of the institutions established by the Constitution.

"These, its principles, were abandoned by the supposed representatives of the party at a national convention recently assembled at Chicago. The Democratic party will therefore cease to exist unless it be preserved by the voluntary action of such of its members as still adhere to the fundamental principles. No majority of the members of that convention, however large, had any right or power to surrender those principles. When they undertook to do so that assemblage ceased to be a Democratic convention.

"The action taken, the irregular proceedings and the platform enunciated by that body were and are so utterly and indefensibly revolutionary and constitute such radical departures from the principles of true democracy, which should characterize a sound and patriotic administration of our country's affairs, that its results are not entitled to the confidence or support of true Democrats.

"For the first time since national parties were formed there is not before the American people a platform declaring the principles of the Democratic party as recognized and most courageously and consistently administered by Jefferson, Jackson, and Cleveland, nor are there nominees for the offices of President and Vice President of the United States pledged to carry those principles into practical effect. The faithful and true Democrats of the United States are determined that their principles shall not be ruthlessly surrendered, nor the people be deprived of an opportunity to vote for candidates in accord therewith.

"Therefore the National Democratic party of the United States, through its regularly constituted committee, hereby calls a national convention of that party for the announcement of its platform and the nomination of candidates for the offices of President and Vice President of the United States and the transaction of such business as is incidental thereto, to be held at Indianapolis, Wednesday, the 2d day of September, 1896, at noon, and hereby requests that the members of the party in the several States who believe in sound money and the preservation of law and order and who are unalterably opposed to the platform adopted and candidates nominated at Chicago, will select in such manner as to them shall seem best a number of delegates to the same equal to twice the number of electoral votes to which such States are respectively entitled.

"Such delegates shall be duly accredited according to the usages of the Democratic party. Their credentials shall be forwarded or delivered to the secretary of this committee with all convenient speed, and this committee will make up and announce the roll of the delegates entitled to participate in the preliminary organization of the convention."

By Steamer, Train or Boat?

Which of these have you selected as a means of travel? No matter. Whichever it is, recollect that for seasickness, disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, engendered by rough locomotion and bad food or water, and for malarial troubles, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the most useful specific you can take with you. It is invaluable also for rheumatism, kidney complaints and nervous trouble.

She Knew One Spanish Word.

"I shall never forget my first visit to Madrid," said a woman the other evening. "I was the only member of our party who knew any Spanish, and I knew but one word, that one being 'Teche'—milk—but by means of gestures we managed to get along until breakfast was served. Then, as luck would have it, the maid brought my coffee without any milk, and, also as luck would have it, I promptly forgot the one word of Spanish that I knew, and which of all words was the one most wanted at that moment. This time neither gestures nor yelling were of any avail, so at last in desperation I seized a piece of paper and a pencil and drew a picture of a cow. Whereupon the maid tripped off and came back with three tickets to the bull fight."—New York Evening Sun.

Summer Homes

Is the title of a publication just issued by the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railway, and contains a list of pleasant places on this line situated in the lake region of northern Indiana, southern Michigan and along the south shore of Lake Erie, where one may pass the heated term in camping out or boarding at the summer hotels or pleasant farm houses. The region traversed by the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railway contains a great number of suitable locations for passing the annual vacation, or indeed the entire summer, at an expense which is but nominal. Copy of "Summer Homes" will be sent to any address on application to C. K. Wilber, A. G. P. A., Chicago, or can be secured by calling at City Ticket Office, 180 Clark street.

Never Out of Season.

By lighting his hot houses at night with electric lights of 5,000 candle-power Dr. Werner von Siemens ripens raspberries in seventy-five days, grapes in two months and a half, etc. The expression "in season" may soon lose its significance in this connection, since by the application of electricity, fruits, vegetables, etc., can be had at any time of the year. The fruits thus produced are remarkable for brilliant color and fine aroma, but are not as sweet as those ripened by the sun.

The South is destined to be, and is rapidly becoming, the garden of the United States. Here life is easier to live, the rigorous winters do not eat up the fruits of the toil of summer, nor are the summers so trying as many Northern people have supposed. "I used to live only half the year," said a Northern farmer recently settled in the South, "and I used to work all the time then. Now I work half the time and live all the year through."

Homeseekers' excursion tickets will be sold over the Monon Route to nearly all points in the South at the rate of one first-class fare (one way); tickets good returning on any Tuesday or Friday within thirty-one days from date of sale. Liberal stop-overs are allowed. These excursions start (and tickets are sold) Aug. 17, 18 and 31; Sept. 1, 14, 15; Oct. 5, 6, 19 and 20. Call on Frank J. Reed, agent of the Monon Route, for further information.

IF SILVER WINS and if farm produce, labor and labor products double in price, then metals must also double in price, as they are 95% labor. If labor doubles in cost and the product of the mine doubles in cost, Aermotors, Pumps, Spiral Pipe, Fittings, Cylinders, Tanks and Substructures, being the product of the mine and labor, must also double in cost, and price; therefore, your $1 now will buy as much as 2 of the same dollars if silver wins, or if people think it will win. IT IS 2 TO 1 in favor of buying now. The advance may come in a month or in a week. Aermotor prices will not advance unless compelled by an advance in labor and material. We had the pleasure of being at Culver City on the Sunday of the big excursion and it was certainly a magnificent crowd of people and the grounds were fine, the lovely and everything seemed to pass off quietly and pleasantly but it was a sorry sight to see the multitudes of thirsty people crowding around the fountain where there was one little old rusty tin cup chained up to accommodate about two thousand people. We hope as the R. R. Co. have been so well patronized this season that they will be able to get another cup by the time of the next big excursion.

It is rumored that Mrs. R. K. Lord is about to make a trip to Dakota, and if she likes the country will settle upon a claim and go to raising wheat and stock. Having lots of self-reliance, coupled with grit, and being a great financier she will be successful.

Judging from the yelling and hooting in the vicinity of the Winfield cottage someone must have been in sore distress at a late hour Wednesday evening. Yes, the yelling was terrific and it is a fact that certain young ladies need not fear death on account of weak lungs.

For every quarter in a man's pocket there are a dozen uses; and to use each one in such a way as to derive the greatest benefit is a question every one must solve for himself. We believe, however, that no better use could be made of one of these quarters than to exchange it for a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, a medicine that every family should be provided with. For sale at Culver City Drug Store.

"One of the Finest."

While speaking of hotels, we desire to mention that there is no house upon the lake shore which has become more popular than the Colonnade. Under the management of C. C. Postlethwaite, the house has been transformed into a splendid hostelry, which delights the elite society that visits this popular resort. This house has been newly furnished throughout with elegant new suites, and the parlor is a room of exquisite beauty, containing the best of upholstered furniture, magnificent oil paintings on the walls and one of the best made pianos. The dining-room is large and spacious, and if necessary could easily seat 400 guests. In the center of this artistically arranged room is an ever-flowing fountain, which casts its silvery sprays, and is a great factor toward keeping the room cool and comfortable even in the hottest weather. The kitchen is scrupulously clean and is presided over by a chef who has few equals. A large number of distinguished guests are registered at this house, and Tuesday we noticed the names upon the register of Lillian Russell, Sol Smith Russell, DeWolf Hopper, Della Fox and Ada Rehan, of silver statue fame at the World's Fair. We did not learn the destination of these famous actors in the dramatic firmament.

United They Stand.

At no time in the history of Maxenkuckee has there been a club upon its shores that can compare with the "Dough Belly Club," which is camping at Long Point. The club numbers 14, and hails from Noblesville, Ind., and are as orderly and jolly a lot of young men as one could find in a year's travel. The camp is conducted upon the first-class order and everything is kept clean as a band-box. Several fine musicians are among the members, and they can produce upon various instruments music that would charm the soul and knock out the blues from the most despondent heart. As sociable gentlemen, the boys are pre-eminently successful, and a visitor is at once made right at home. The boys have one of the best all-round cooks in Indiana with them, and consequently the bill of fare is simply immense. One notable fact is also worth mentioning, they are all Republicans but one, and he is a "gold-bug" democrat.

Welch rare bits and chicken lunches seem to be in vogue this season more than ever before. Not an evening passes but what some one who has been previously entertained, desires to reciprocate, and in consequence each party tries to out-do the other. One of the most enjoyable occasions of recent evenings occurred last Tuesday evening when Mr. Griffith invited his numerous friends to join him in a chicken lunch upon the Steamer Aubbehaubbee. It occurred after the last train had arrived, and the good time will long be remembered. Forty-two people participated, and when at a late hour Capt. Crook blew the whistle three times three, accompanied by the old Bay View yell, each couple departed with the inward satisfaction of knowing they had spent a glorious evening

And never do my spirits flag,
With Lydia on the wheel.

I care not what ill luck may bring In Summer, Autumn, Winter, Spring!
All of life's troubles off we ding,
With Lydia on the wheel!

And now that we are pledged to go
On Hymen's tandem, weal or woe,
More happy moments shall I know,
With Lydia on the wheel!

—HANS YORKEL.

A DOG NAMED DIMPLE

If ever there was a case in which the intentions of nature were quite set at naught, it was when my cousin Eugenia began to bring herself up after her own pattern without the slightest regard to the cutting of the cloth. Nature had meant her for a kitten-girl, or a dove-girl, anything that was made up of curves or softness, while she preferred to be a composition of angles.

Therefore, in place of dancing, flirting and enjoying life after the manner of a girl with big blue, contending eyes, whose dimples and freckles seemed made for kissing, she propped up a book to read as she swallowed her hasty meals, apart from the family if possible, studied from morning till night, frightened the men by her erudition, despised pets, played tennis simply for exercise, rode a bicycle so as to get quickly from one place to another, and made all girlkind feel themselves mere puppets and dolls.

But now had the mighty fallen. Eugenia had purchased a dog and given it the name of—Dimple. No wonder that, not daring to jeer, we were silent.

However, when the dog arrived, we were obliged to admit that he justified his name. Of all the dear roly-poly little dog-babies that ever I saw, Dimple was the most fascinating, and the very first wag of his tail excused Eugenia's backsliding. Not that she realized her lapse from the intellectual; she held and petted and caressed the small object as if it had been her daily occupation ever since the day of her leaving school—that time at which girls are apt to develop their weaknesses—and was sublimely unconscious of our smiles and jibes. Eugenia, flushed and intent, her pretty, yellow hair twisting itself into thousands of tiny rings, her brows knitted, one hand smoothing the fur of the four-footed baby, the other busily engaged in writing out her paper on meditative political economy, was a sight for the gods.

"When Dimple grows up," aunty had foolishly said one day, apropos of nothing, and Eugenia had turned upon her with lofty scorn and informed her that the engaging morsel, at that moment busy in the demolition of one of my newest and longest evening gloves, "would never grow any more," the man from whom she bought him having assured her that he had quite completed that part of his education. Which doubting, we were nevertheless silent.

Two or three days after this mistake of aunty's, Dan came out to dinner and deeply annoyed Eugenia by picking up the soft mass of fur by his neck and remarking:

"When this fellow gets over being a puppy, he'll be quite a dog, Eugenia."
"He is not a puppy, Dan, he is full grown," our cousin responded icily, and then added with some asperity, "I have no sort of tolerance for puppies—of any kind."

My brother threw back his handsome head and laughed low but heartily.

"May I inquire the age of your full-grown dog, my cousin?"

"He was six months old when I bought him, two months ago."

"Eight months old! you dear little goose, if he is one-half that, I shall be astonished. He was probably just weaned when you got him, and these mastiffs!"

"He isn't a mastiff."
"Indeed, and what is he?"
"A Sicilian poodle."
"O-o-oh!"

The peal of laughter which greeted this dignified response was quite too much for Eugenia. She picked up her dog and departed, red with indignation, leaving Dan, the only person in the world who ever dared to tease her, to apologize to aunty, to be by her forgiven, and I fear, encouraged to repeat his offence.

From that time, we noticed that Eugenia was more or less uneasy. Once I caught her holding aunty's yard measure suspiciously near Dimple, but she dropped it at once upon my approach. After a few weeks there was no use disguising the fact; that full-grown dog was rapidly increasing in size, indeed he seemed to enlarge during his slumbers, and wake up a full size bigger than when he went to sleep.

It began with his legs, which so extended themselves that, had you seen him in a collection of freaks, you would have suspected him of being on stilts; then the little round body, so absurdly mounted on its thin supports, began to swell out.

Eugenia grew very grave. She would sit for hours over her books, glancing furtively from time to time at Dimple, dozing by her side—for he had grown much too large for her lap—as if they had never been introduced. One day she forgot to go to her lecture at the proper hour, so busy was she trying to induce Dimple to crowd himself into a sumptuous basket which had been purchased for his babyhood. So careworn did she become, indeed, that we never alluded to the dog's growth; he was fed—and how he did eat!—he was watered, to the extent of several gallons a day, he was housed at night—in a kennel, alas! for he scorned the larger basket that had been quietly provided—but no one ever spoke of his size.

As the months rolled on, the singular inaptness of Dimple's name became positively embarrassing, for though aunty and I could have laughed over it, and made it a perfect godsend in the way of a spur to languishing conversation, Eugenia, feeling that she had been duped, regarded it as so keen a mortification that we avoided the subject with terror.

"What has become of your pretty little puppy, Miss Eugenia?" asked one unwary swain, and, as if in answer, the door was pushed open and in stalked a great, lean, long-legged, big-bodied, solemn dog, wagging his tail slowly. He walked up to Eugenia, laid his head on her knee, then turned and winked at the questioner. Oh, yes, he did, he winked deliberately, then raised one huge paw and put it down on Eugenia's shoulder with an aid of patronizing proprietorship that was positively maddening. It was too much for my cousin; she fled precipitately, but not in time to avoid the astonishing exclamation:

"You don't mean to say that—monster—is Dimple!"

That moment settled Eugenia's fate. The masculine nature had asserted itself, and Dimple—that absurd name!—had practically said, mildly, but firmly, "Come, Eugenia, I have had enough of this nonsense. You bought me, you took me, for better, for worse; if you meant to have a plaything and have found a master, so much the better—or worse—for you. One thing you may understand, I do not mean to be ignored any longer." And he wasn't; from that public claiming of her intention dated her subjugation.

Eugenia would shut herself up in her room to study. Dimple would come to the door and knock with his tail; Eugenia would take no notice of him. Then Dimple would scratch, not a gentle, pleading little scratch, but a deep, determined gouging of aunty's pretty woodwork. Then Dimple would howl, such a howl—long and loud and oft repeated, and Eugenia would fly to let him in, a tragic expression in her pretty, despairing face.

After a week of these proceedings, on one of the daily walks, on which her keeper conducted her, she bought a whip, which she smuggled home, hid among her laces and produced next morning when her door was being torn to pieces. From my room I saw her plunge desperately out, seize the dog's collar and lift the whip, but it never descended. Dimple lifted his head, caught the weapon in his powerful jaws, closed them upon it, dropped the pieces to the ground, smiled indulgently up into Eugenia's face, took her dress in his teeth, and led her down stairs to make ready for a walk—which they took.

When Dan came home from Europe, aunty and I met him at the steamer, and on the way home we told him the story of Eugenia's fall. How she had been obliged to give up her college work—to the great improvement of her health and temper—how she had grown brown and rosy from long, aimless walks with her guide, philosopher and friend. How we had sold him, sent him off to board, given him away, and how, after each banishment, he returned so promptly and unfaithfully that Eugenia had accepted the inevitable and begged us not to interfere again between them. Dan laughed till there were tears in his eyes, and exclaimed, "Poor little girl!" more than once; but he readily promised that he would not tease Eugenia about her Old Man of the Sea, as he at once dubbed the dog.

Dan and Dimple were friends at once. When the dog first appeared, Eugenia paled and flushed and paled again, glancing rather apprehensively at my brother; but he seemed quite oblivious, spoke cheerily to the big fellow, patted his head, looked deep into the intelligent brown eyes, and man and beast understood each other perfectly. Such good times as we had that summer—aunty, Eugenia, Dimple, Dan and I! In previous years we had been obliged to count my cousin out of everything, for the resting time of summer had for her been full of work; but now she lounged and played and joined in all sports, as she never had before in all her sweet, self-willed young life, was among us, and of us, for the first time.

There had been three days of steady rain, and tired of seclusion, on the afternoon of the third day, I wrapped myself in my mackintosh and went out for a walk, leaving Eugenia, housed with a slight coal, to look after Dan, aunty having gone into town for the day. As I came home, the sun broke through scattering clouds, lighting up the world with rosy glory. The storm was at an end, the fair promise of the morrow was in the soft air, in the twitter of the birds, in the fresh perfume of leaf and flower, in the golden beauty of sunset.

Eugenia and Dan had come out of doors to enjoy the loveliness of earth and sky, and stood with Dimple on the veranda. Suddenly the dog stretched himself to twice his natural length, took my cousin's skirt in his teeth and nodded to her that she was to come with him.

"No, Dimple, no dear," she coaxed, bending over him. "Don't make me come out to-night. I've had a cold, you know, I really ought not to go; you will have to wait, doggie dear." But Doggie Dear did not intend to wait. He shook his head and her dress and growled softly. I walked slowly toward the house and watched the conflict. Dimple ordering, Eugenia pleading for mercy, my brother smiling at the two beneath his mustache. At last Dan spoke.

"Dimple!" the dog raised his eyes but kept the skirt between his teeth. "Let that go, do you hear me, sir?" Then as Eugenia put her hand out quickly: "No, I am not going to hurt him; he will understand in a moment; he has plenty of sense. Your mistress is not going with you, Dimple, she is not going now or at any other time, with you or any one else, unless I give her permission. She is going to be my slave now, old dog, you've had your day."

Eugenia had lifted an astonished, startled glance to his face as he spoke, but dropped her head low over the dog as he went on without break or pause:

"She loves you very much, Dimple, we all do; you have trained her well, and we are very much obliged to you, but you needn't worry yourself about her any more—I'll take the engagement. You don't believe me, sir? See here," and right there, in the face of me and all the world—if it had been there to see—nursie always said he was "a bold one" when we were children—Dan drew my cousin to him, lifted and kissed her sweet, blushing face.

There was a long pause. Then Dimple loosen the skirt, rose to his feet, and with a reproachful glance at Eugenia and a submissive wag of his tail toward Dan, walked slowly away, while Dan led Eugenia into the house.

"Oh, dear," she murmured, her bright face lovely with blushes, "from one slavery to another! Am I never to be free again?"
"Never," calmly answered my brother.—New York Tribune.

Dyspepsia-Proof.

Much is said about American dyspepsia, but there is one native race of America that is certainly not greatly troubled by the modern curse. The sturdy little Eskimo, like the ordinary dweller in America, eats until he is satisfied, but there is this difference, that he is never satisfied while a shred of the feast remains unconsumed. His capacity is limited by the supply, and by that only. He cannot make any mistake about the manner of cooking his food, for as a rule he does not cook it—nor, so far as the blubber or fat of the Arctic animal is concerned, about his method of eating it, for he simply does not eat it; he cuts it into long strips an inch wide and an inch thick, and then lowers the strip down his throat as one might lower a rope into a well.

And after all that, he does not suffer from indigestion. He can make a good meal of the flesh and skin of the walrus, provision so hard and gritty that in cutting up the animal the knife must be continually sharpened.

The teeth of a little Eskimo child will meet in a bit of walrus skin as the teeth of an American child would meet in the flesh of an apple. And that when the hide of the walrus is from half an inch to an inch and a half in thickness, and bears considerable resemblance to the skin of an elephant. The Eskimo child will bite it and digest it, too, and never know what dyspepsia means.

Feathers Changing Color.

Witmer Stone refuses to accept the idea of Gatte that feathers can actually change their color without molting, unless they are bleached or worn off. He also concludes that the annual molting at the end of the breeding season is a physiological necessity and is common to all birds; whereas the spring moult and striking changes of plumage effected by abrasion are not physiological necessities, but depend in extent upon the height of development of coloration in the adult plumage, and do not necessarily bear any relation to the systematic position of the species.

Home Weaving.

The good old fashion of home weaving threatens to become a fad since the Princess of Wales and her daughters have turned their attention that way. Woollen home spun, cotton and silk are not only more durable, but more satisfactory from an aesthetic point of view, when hand woven.

A $7,000,000 HEIRESS.

Miss Edith Collins Is Worth Her Weight in $100 Bills.

Miss Edith Collins, of New York, has just fallen heir to $7,000,000. The news started an interesting conversation in an up-town club the other evening.

"A young woman worth $7,000,000 is a modern product," said one man. "Such an heiress would have been practically impossible a century ago. Do you remember the story of the 'Pine Tree Shillings'—how a New York rich man—he live on Lighthouse street, then a fashionable thoroughfare—gave his daughter her weight in silver as her wedding portion? The gift created a sensation, but probably more because of the dramatic way of giving than because of the amount. If Miss Collins should be placed in one side of a pair of scales, in the other side of which her $7,000,000 were piled, in pure gold, the old 'Pine Tree Shillings' story would be discounted. Miss Collins weighs about 162 pounds, or 2,592 ounces. An ounce of pure gold is worth $20, an ounce of coin gold $18.605. We will assume that her fortune is pure gold. It would weigh 350,000 ounces, or more than 138 times as much as the woman who has fallen heir to it. She could gather on to the scales almost all her living relatives and still not form a group heavy enough to weigh down her fortune. Why, I fancy that in paper money it would weigh more than she does."

Some one brought a tiny pair of letter scales, and enough bills were piled on it to weigh an ounce. It was found that there were just twenty of them. Thus an ounce of $1 bills is worth exactly as much as an ounce of pure gold.

"Why, if the scales were piled with $100 bills, $5,184,000 would weigh as much as Miss Collins does," continued the speaker. "That would leave $2,816,000 still to be accounted for after Miss Collins had taken her weight in $100 bills."

ENDED IN DIRE DISASTER.

Whaleship from Which Great Results Were Expected Now Abandoned.

In the Brooklyn navy-yard lies the hulk of what is known as the Intelligent Whale. It has lain there so many years among the nautical junk which the department from time to time has acquired that not a person in the yard can tell to-day the name of the inventor. Yet the United States paid him quite a sum on account for the purchase of its whaleship, and expected to acquire a vessel which would be a terror to the warships of all other nations.

The Intelligent Whale was constructed to hold a crew of thirteen persons. Its motive power was a propeller turned by a crank manipulated by four men. Its idea was to sink under warships, and being directed against their hulls, the crew would fasten a torpedo thereon, the whale would back off and walsh, bang—good-by to Mr. Warship. One day a test of the wonderful invention was made in the Hackensack and the men who manned the queer craft were drowned. This settled the enthusiasm over the Intelligent Whale and it was laid away on the shelf of the government's old curiosity shop.

"Now, an altruist is one who is willing to subjugate his own interest to the interest of his fellow-men. Does any little boy here understand what an altruist is?" The Kid—"Yes'm. A altruist is a feller that makes a sacrifice hit."—Indianapolis Journal.

"Once for all, girl," he hissed, "once for all, will you marry me?" "Yes," she said, "I'll marry you, but I don't know about the once for all part of it. I guess you haven't lived here long enough to catch the spirit of our enterprising city."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

If men were put on counters like calico, and the women given a choice, there would be fewer unhappy marriages.

RECORD OF THE WEEK

INDIANA INCIDENTS TERSELY TOLD.

Indiana Man Enlisting Colored Troops to Aid Cuban Insurgents—Expired Suddenly at a Spiritualistic Meeting—Fight Over a Love Affair.

Will Take Negroes to Cuba.
Truman Stewart, of Muncie, will sail in October from Key West, Fla., for Cuba with over 1,000 colored recruits for the Cuban army from the States of Georgia and Florida. Mr. Stewart has personally interested himself in the cause of the Cuban insurgents, and has made all necessary arrangements for transportation of his soldiers to that island, and spent a great deal of time in the South the past winter and spring perfecting his plans. For the benefit of his cause he will have a grand Cuban festival and band concert at Selma Aug. 22. Charles L. Henry, Major C. T. Doxey, Theodore Shockey, Joseph G. Leffler and Ezra N. Cranor will address the meeting.

Use Pistol and Brickbats.
John Krupp and Charles Halfenberger, two well-known south side young men of Indianapolis, have been enemies for several months past, owing, it is claimed, to rivalry in a love affair. Sunday afternoon Halfenberger was passing along the street when Krupp applied several epithets to him and when Halfenberger did not respond Krupp called him a thief. A fight ensued, in which both of the young men were more or less bruised with fists and brickbats. Halfenberger went home, but soon returned, and the fight was renewed. After passing a few rocks at each other, Halfenberger drew a pistol and fired at Krupp, the ball taking effect in the right shoulder and ranging downward and producing a dangerous wound. Halfenberger was struck in the head with a brick and sustained a fracture of the skull.

Professor Davis Falls Dead.
A gloom was cast Sunday on the Indiana spiritualists' State camp meeting at Anderson by the death of Prof. F. M. Davis of New York, one of the best known spiritualist workers and musical directors in the cause. His death was tragic. He had just closed his day's work and gone to his cottage. The friend staying with him followed, and saw him fall across the bed dead. Heart failure was the cause. Prof. Davis was well known among all spiritualists. He was at the time of his death making a circuit of the different State meetings, doing the work to which he had been assigned. His people in New York were notified and came to take charge of the body.

All Over the State.
The Howe Pump and Engine Company of Indianapolis made an assignment for the benefit of creditors. The company builds water works and takes city bonds, which it sells through a Chicago agency. The agency notified the company that it could not dispose of its bonds and the assignment followed. The indebtedness is placed at $60,000 and the assets at $100,000.

At Franklin, Wednesday morning the young son of John Walters fell from a stable loft in which he was playing and received fatal injuries. The father of the child was working near by, and in his hurry to get a physician he became overheated from exertion in capturing a horse and riding to the city, and his recovery is impossible. The injured boy was 2 years old. The horse Walters rode dropped dead in his tracks.

The preliminary trial of Jap Williams on a charge of attempted murder, set for Saturday in Justice Poe's court at Rushville, did not materialize. Williams escaped through a hole in the stone floor of the jail and is still at large. The hole was chiseled out by another prisoner, who escaped two months ago, but the county commissioners, for the sake of economy, did not repair the break, as they will begin work on a new jail next week.

Prof. Arthur Jaillet, until recently connected with the Indianapolis schools, and a well-known instructor in French, was publicly cowed by Mrs. Olive Headlund, a neighbor, who claimed that the professor had spoken in a derogatory manner of her and had attempted to influence her husband against her. Prof. Jaillet had difficulty in escaping, but he sought safety in flight, and Tuesday caused the lady to be prosecuted. She was assessed a small fine, protesting against the payment because she claimed that the assault was justifiable.

Roy Bannister, a youth living near Greensburg, drove his grandfather's horse the other day, and when the old gentleman went to the stable next morning the animal gave evidence of very hard usage. The beast was a favorite with Mr. Bannister, who threatened not to loan the horse to Roy again. The boy answered in an impertinent tone and the old gentleman replied with some heat. Before he was aware of the boy's purpose the latter drew a pocketknife, and, advancing upon him, struck him a vicious blow, the blade entering just below the heart and producing what is believed to be a fatal wound. Mr. Bannister is 74 years old and his grandson 17.

Just as the Joel Menefee thrashing crew was finishing thrashing on the farm of William Wynant, near Anderson, Wednesday night, the traction engine was completely wrecked by the boiler exploding. David Wynant was killed outright, and others, whose names cannot be learned, were injured. The meager reports indicate that two of the cases will be fatal. It seems that the engine had been considered unsafe for several days. The old engineer gave up his position two weeks ago on account of the boiler being frail. He warned Menefee then about continuing with it. Young Wynant had taken his place. He did not give it close enough attention, and the steam got too high.

Watch the Babies.

THE INDEPENDENT takes this most appropriate occasion to warn mothers and those who have the care of children to use every safe guard against the ill to which the little folks are subject at this season. Early August has particularly taxed the strength and vitality of children in this vicinity this year. The weather has been very hot and the humidity, extraordinary. The result is that the atmospheric conditions have been more than ordinarily oppressive even to adults. The children therefore require special attention this year, during the season when a nursing or a two year old is likely to sicken and die within a brief 24 or 48 hours.

Over-ripe or under-ripe fruit should be especially prohibited and the choicest of ripe fruit should be given to little ones in moderate quantities only. Upon the slightest indication of childish ill every symptom should be carefully considered and proper precaution should be taken and remedies applied. "A stitch in time saves nine." With intelligent precaution the children cannot be considered in any special danger even during this weather.

Sanitary measures should be observed in the home and that "cleanliness is next to godliness" should be observed as a cardinal law of the household. Intelligent precaution in the maladies of children will save much sickness and is certain therefore to prevent some deaths.—Plymouth Independent.
