AT THE LAKE MAXINKUCKEE.

VOL. III.

CULVER CITY, MARMONT P. O., IND., FRIDAY, OCT. 9, 1896.

NO. 14

A ROYAL RECEPTION.

SPECIAL TRAIN ARRIVES WITH CADETS MONDAY.

Col. Fleet and His Sixty-One Boys Met at the Depot by a Large Concurrence of People.

All day Monday the citizens of Culver City were in a flurry of excitement over the fact that a special train would arrive at five o'clock p. m., having on board Col. Fleet and a large number of cadets, who will at once become members of the Culver Military Academy. This important event transpired owing to the fact that the Missouri Military Academy, situated at Mexico, Mo., burned recently and thereby at once left the Colonel land about 100 cadets, as it were, homeless. Mr. Culver, with his usual business sagacity, at once saw that here was a chance for perpetuating forever the name of Culver Military Academy, if he could secure this eminent military man and profound scholar, who had for years conducted the Missouri school, at the head of the Culver school, it would place the academy among the best. Once the idea conceived, Mr. Culver let no "grass grow under his feet" till the great work was consummated. Consequently, he not only secured Mr. Fleet, but also about seventy-five cadets, who followed their beloved commander and instructor to his new field of labor, where he and his boys can defy the fire fiend beneath the roof of an absolute fireproof building.

When the train arrived, at the hour mentioned, the citizens of Culver City, the band and the cadets of the academy were at the depot, bent upon giving the new arrivals a royal reception.

The steamers Aubbeenaubee, Peerless, and Lloyd McSheehy were moored at the dock, and when the train pulled in the band played a welcoming piece, bombs were exploded, the cadets shouted and the boats whistled, and for a few moments it seemed as though the very inhabitants of the lower regions were let loose. We do not think any fault can be found on account of lack of enthusiasm and noise over the glorious event. So enthusiastic were the citizens of Culver City, that all business houses were closed and two or three hours of genuine jollification was participated in by all.

Col Fleet is a manly looking man, and by appearance, is especially adapted for the task of directing the footsteps of a lot of wild boys into the path of true manhood, and instill into them the principles, that honor and integrity constitute the man, no matter what condition in life he occupies.

Mr Culver deserves the highest encomiums of the citizens of the surrounding country and of this city, as the Culver Military Academy is destined to be a great advertising card for this place, which will result in building up the interests of the lake as a resort, all of which will be a permanent and lasting benefit to the community.

In conclusion we say, hurrah for Mr. Culver and may his shadow never grow less.

Iona Dell Castleman, youngest sister of Mr. James Castleman, of this city, died at her home near Baxter, Iowa, Sept. 28, 1896, aged 23 years and 8 months. She left a husband, three little children, father, mother, and four brothers and three sisters to mourn their loss.

A Pleasant Trip to Petoskey, Mich.

Mrs. Bradley and I left Marmont, Sept. 1st for a sojourn of ten days at Petoskey, hoping that the fresh air of Lake Michigan would be beneficial for my wife's health, which has been failing for some time back. We left Marmont on the fast line at 5:30, changed cars at St. Joe and Grand Rapids, and arrived at Petoskey at 6:30 a. m. the next day. After locating a good place to board, we took in a few of the sights. In the evening I went to Masonic lodge—they have a fine hall and the membership is large. On Thursday we took the steamer Hazel and crossed Traverse Bay, five miles, to Harbor Point resort, a beautiful spot situated in a shady grove, with smooth sidewalks and elegant drives, and has one of the largest club houses I ever saw. Then we visited Harbor Springs, a lovely little town, where we had the pleasure of seeing an Indian school and church. As we steamed into the harbor the large and beautiful steamer Manitou, of Chicago, was steaming out. We took the steamer Adrienne and went to Bay View, a summer resort of 500 cottages one mile up the Bay from Petoskey, and which has the finest cottages to be found anywhere and some of them cost in the neighborhood of $7,000 and $8,000. On arriving at Petoskey on our return trip we had the pleasure of seeing the magnificent steamer City of Charlevoix coming into the harbor and unloading her burden of freight, among which were some very valuable horses. Petoskey is 308 miles north of St. Joe, and has about 5,000 inhabitants, but in the summer this number is increased to 8,000. It is a healthy point and there are hundreds from this state go there for the relief of hay fever, asthma, etc. We also had the pleasure of taking a trip on the steamer Friant to Charlevoix, 18 miles through Little Traverse Bay and into Lake Michigan. Charlevoix is a beautiful town and summer resort. Its business district is situated on a narrow strip of bluffs which separate Round Lake from Lake Michigan, through the center of which flows Pine River. We visited Bear Lake, a distance of twelve miles back in the timbers, where there is good fishing. We returned home well pleased with our trip.

D. A. BRADLEY.

Worthy of Mention.

We had the pleasure recently of going through Mr. M. V. Reeder's broom factory, and of watching the process of manufacture, and was surprised at the large amount of work in the broom line that is being turned out daily. Mr. Reeder states that the field is widening out more than ever, and that he has to work like a Turk early and late to supply the fast increasing demand. Wherever he has established sales for his different grades of brooms, which are all first-class and durable, he has yet to hear of any dissatisfaction concerning them from his far and near customers. Culver City ought to try and retain and also to encourage this industry, as we have no doubt that it will at no distant day branch out into large proportions.

In the capacity of salesman for this institution we must not forget to mention the name of "Bill Nye" (W. F. Eulitt), who is a hustler both inside and out, and is away above the A1 mark in his line of business.

Mr. Reeder is a gentleman whom it is a pleasure to meet, and as a business man there is none better, and the HERALD bespeaks for him the prosperity he justly deserves.

Lake Maxenkuckee and Her Yachts (From the Logansport Chronicle.)

Concerning the Maxenkuckee yacht races, announced for next season, another Logansport merchant said he would donate a cup for second-class sloops or catboats, on the same conditions as the one mentioned in last week's Chronicle. Now, then, let the Marmont merchants speak out and let the boys know what they desire in furthering this grand sport. Some excellent racing is on the tapis for next season within a few miles of Logansport.

In speaking of the Maxenkuckee yachts, it may not be amiss to state that during the past summer, but two escaped being capsized—Judge Winfield's and H. J. McSheehy's. It has truthfully been said that it is absurd to criticize the judgment or the conduct of men who get into trouble on the water, without knowing all the facts. The greatest watermen, of course, are always on shore, and it often happens that a boat, viewed from the land appears to be badly managed when in reality he is doing the best that can be done in the position in which he is placed. There is only one point of view from which a man can judge of the skill or the stupidity of the man in charge, and that is on board the boat itself. There are a hundred and one trifling little accidents or pieces of downright hard luck which can account for an apparently foolish move on the part of a skillful boatman.

Never trust a squall. The Ben-Hur tried it and went over twice. Glenn Forgy tried it with the Fat Rascal and the Iris. Harry Adams' Fleetwing went over, with Captain Judy at the helm, while Will T. Wilson managed to receive a ducking in Frank Cleaver's catboat. An amateur should guard against carrying sail too long. In the general understanding of the phrase, "hanging too long to canvass," it means simply carrying too much sail in a strong breeze. But on the approach of a squall its meaning is rather the reverse, for then the time to take in sail and drop the anchor is when the wind, advancing against the black cloud, begins to slack noticeably. The dying out of the breeze is the warning that the enemy is near at hand. Even with the anchor down, it is not always safe for the skipper to abandon the wheel or tiller. He should be at his post to help the boat to hold her head to the wind, and prevent her from swinging.

It is reported that the Indiana Oil Company has purchased ten acres at Ora, Starke county, to establish a mammoth oil refinery. Ora is near the supposed Watah oil field and it seems to be the belief that a new field is about to be developed.

George Welsh attempted suicide Sunday at the home of his brother Charles, living five miles from Plymouth, on the Laporte road, by shooting himself. The bullet entered the left breast about an inch below the heart and lodged in the back about half an inch from the spine. Dr. Holtzendorff was called, and Monday morning succeeded in removing the bullet. George will not tell the cause that led to his attempting his life, but his friends think that he had become despondent over the death of his mother, which occurred a short time ago. The doctor thinks he will recover.—Plymouth Independent.

It seems that our subscribers, or a great portion of them, do not understand the policy of this paper relative to subscriptions as laid down at its foundation, viz., that the subscription price is $1.00 per year in advance, or $1.25 if compelled to wait six months or a year for our pay. Hoping this will be sufficient explanation, we cordially invite you to call early and settle.

There is reported a good deal of hostility between the two wings of the prohibition ticket in this state. The national faction is working for silver and the "straights" are advocating prohibition, pure and simple. Neither wing is showing much vitality, but the managers of each branch declare that effective work is being done. Each charges the other with laying claim to more strength than it has. The other day McWhirter declared that the prohibition wing (straight) would command 8,000 votes in the state. The managers of the other wings when they read the statement said it would be nearer correct if it were divided by ten.

Attorney L. Martindale, of Plymouth, gave an address upon the silver question Saturday evening to a well-filled house, in this city, and made an awful attack upon the repealers of the Sherman law, and also a historical account of the monetary system of our government for the past hundred years. He was very positive that Bryan would be elected, and following his election the country would be submerged into a deluge of prosperity, and with those mighty silver dollars flying through the air, this nation would once more cut a wide swath among the progressive nations of the earth.

Prof. Clark's Colored Jubilee Singers gave a show in town Monday evening, which was pronounced a roaring success by those in attendance. The professor is a whole band wagon within himself. As he is a cripple and his wife is totally blind, the public gave them a liberal patronage, and they in return give an entertainment worth double the price of admission.

A large number of Culver City citizens attended the great republican meeting at Plymouth Saturday to hear Hon J. A. Mount, candidate for governor, discourse upon the important political questions which are so agitating the minds of the people today. About 3,000 people heard the able speaker, who seemed to be loaded for "bear." The Saturday's speech made the 96th speech he has delivered so far this year. The Culver City band was present and discoursed some excellent music. The boys were dressed in their splendid new uniforms and looked immense; and, by the way, the Culver City band did not have to take a back seat for any band present, but to the contrary, if the Plymouth band continues to practice, in the course of time, may stand some show with our band.

Not Satisfied With Liberia.

Six of the colored colonists who went out to Liberia early last spring on the Laurada have returned to this country. They tell of horrible tales of sufferings from disease and destitution by the unfortunate people who gave up their homes in this country to journey to that distant republic on what appeared to be liberal offers of the authorities there.

Forty members of the Laurada's expedition, consisting of 315 people, are already dead, while the entire number taken out previously on the Danish steamship Horsa, have been carried off by what is known as John Bull fever.

They say the country is unfit for civilization and that those who went on the Laurada are now penniless and almost naked. They have not sufficient money to get back to the states and certain death awaits them.

The fever is carrying them off rapidly. Several times they joined together and called on the president of the republican state for help, but he gave them none. When this expedition was made up it was represented that each married man would be given a plot of ground and a house, and other grants were to be given the single men. Strips of land were given them, but no houses, and they had no shelter for months after their arrival. Provisions command high prices and they cannot be secured, and there is absolutely no way to earn a living.

Married.

SPANGLER—KNOUR—At the residence of the bride's mother, Mrs. Catherine B. Knour, near Otterbein, Warren county, Ind., Maggie, to George M. Spangler, Rev. Stanley officiating.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of a few friends. Mr. and Mrs. Spangler will reside at his home in Maxenkuckee.

The HERALD wishes the young man and wife a happy, prosperous and useful life.

Laporte's Grand Tournament.

The city of Laporte has done some hard work and a great deal of advertising for the firemen and band tournament, which was held in that city on Oct. 7 and 8.

The events took place at the fair grounds and consisted of nine horse races, two grand band contests, and a bicycle race in which 150 wheelmen entered.

The band contest was the grandest event of its kind ever held in this part of the state.

Great Damage Done to Buildings, Wharves and Shipping. A very severe gale from the northeast prevailed along the English coast and caused much damage. The hurricane swept the coast all night and the seas were terrific.

Weyler Is Idle.

The great floods which have occurred in Pinar del Rio and along the western trocha are not alone paralyzing the Spanish military movements in the west of Cuba, but may also retard for some weeks more the carrying into effect of Capt. Gen. Weyler's plans for personal operations against Antonio Maceo.

Improvement More Marked.

R. G. Dun & Co's weekly review of trade says: "A very moderate and yet distinct improvement is seen, no longer only in the buying of materials, which continues and stiffens prices, but also in orders for products of some industries, in money markets, and in exports of staples. It is as yet little more than a step toward better things, but has already started some important works and prompted a few considerable contracts."

Buyers Garments of Small Size.

Gen. Harrison and his wife, formerly Mrs. Dinmick, who were married last April, spent much time shopping in New York last week. Mrs. Harrison devoted her time to selecting and buying a lot of fluffy garments, which are very, very much too small for her, and they certainly are not for the General.

Killed by a 7-Year-Old Boy.

Thomas Kidd, aged 14, was murdered at Dalton, Ohio, by Carl Mellhiney, aged 7. The boys were left together and quarreled. Kidd struck Carl with his crutch. The latter procured his father's gun and shot Kidd.

Many Vessels in Peril.

Of all the storms that have visited Lake Michigan during the present season, the one that raged Tuesday night was the worst from a mariner's standpoint. Half a dozen vessels were sunk, as many more are badly damaged, and the fate of a number of others is unknown.

LAKE'S PREY.

Barge Sumatra Founders in the Storm Off Milwaukee. The barge Sumatra, consort of the B. W. Arnold, bound down from Chicago, foundered off the government pier at Milwaukee at 2:40 Wednesday morning. Four sailors were drowned.

SCORES ARE DEAD.

Hurricane Works Havoc in the State of Florida. The West Indian hurricane which entered Florida at Cedar Keys Tuesday morning and swept through the southern part of the State in a northeasterly direction left death and destruction in its path.

THREE TRAINS IN A WRECK.

Brakeman Killed and Engineer Hurt on the Lehigh Valley Road. By a wreck on the Lehigh Valley about a mile and a half east of Batavia, N. Y., one man was killed and another fatally injured. East-bound freight train No. 540 stopped on the main line at Niagara Junction, where the Lehigh connects with the "Peanut" branch of the New York Central, probably to cool a hot journal.

Flattened the Bullet.

At Chattanooga, Tenn., Manuel Gregory, colored, was shot while attempting to rob the house of Ernest Nail, a well-known citizen. The bullet, fired at a distance of twelve feet, struck Gregory in the head and flattened out as if it had been made of paste.

Killed the Wrong One.

At St. Louis, Jennie Love was shot in the head and instantly killed by William Swanson. The testimony of several witnesses goes to show that the bullet which ended the woman's life was intended for William Lee, a negro, with whom Swanson had been quarreling.

STORM IN THE EAST.

Telegraphic and Rail Communication Nearly Suspended.

Tuesday night's storm did great damage in Pennsylvania. The greatest single loss is that of the Pennsylvania Railroad bridge across the Susquehanna at Columbia, nothing being left of it but the piers, the iron span in the middle and the first span at each end.

MEXICAN COAST STORM-SWEPT.

Cities of Altata, Culiacan, and Mazatlan Inundated by Water. The west coast of Mexico has been visited by a tremendous storm, which has caused great damage. Altata, port of the State of Cinaloa, is inundated and the capital city, Culiacan, has suffered severely.

Ex-Cabinet Official Marries.

DEATH NEAR TO THEM

MANY DISTINGUISHED MEN ARE HURT.

Vice President Stevenson and Others Injured in the Collapse of a Reviewing Stand at Burlington—Fair Wreck Near Philson, Pa.

Down with a Crash.

Vice President Stevenson, Gov. Drake and his official staff, and a score or more of prominent Burlington city and county officials had a hairbreadth escape from death Thursday morning during the festivities attending the celebration of Iowa's semicentennial anniversary at Burlington. A flimsily constructed platform, from which the distinguished visitors were reviewing the parade, collapsed and pitched the entire party a distance of fifteen feet to the ground.

B. & O. WRECK.

One Man Dead, Two Dying, Several Missing.

Two freight trains collided at Philson, Pa., on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, 124 miles east of Pittsburg, making one of the worst wrecks in the history of the road. One man is dead and two probably fatally injured. Fast freight east, No. 74, was scheduled to meet west-bound freight, No. 95, at Philson.

OHIO MINERS WIN.

They Go Back to Work on a Basis of 68 1/2 Cents Per Ton. The coal operators and striking miners in the Palmyra district, a few miles north of Alliance, O., succeeded in forcing a settlement of their differences on a basis of 68 1/2 cents per ton for mining, and work was resumed Wednesday morning.

One of Cupid's Freaks.

In Judge Brown's court at Perry, O. T., A. H. and Mrs. M. A. Drake, of Cloud Chief, O. T., were married for the third time. In 1870 they were married in Missouri, but the high temper of each caused a separation and divorce. Six years ago, near El Reno, they were again married, but two years later they separated and were again divorced. They have a daughter 12 years old who witnessed the third ceremony.

Faith Christ's Held.

James Wood, Mrs. Charles Maynard, and Mrs. David McKee, all faith curists, of Scranton, Pa., are charged by a coroner's jury with causing the death of James Wood Jr., aged 12 years, by criminally neglecting him. The child died from diphtheria and had no medical attention, the prayers of Christian Science healers being offered for his recovery.

Texans Threaten All Yale.

The latest incident in the recent bit of fun that the students of Yale had with William J. Bryan is the following telegram from Burnett, Texas: "To the Yale Hoodlums, New Haven, Conn.: Your mothers should spank you. If they can't, six Texans can corral your whole 'dog-gone' outfit and learn you politeness. 'BRYAN AND SEWALL TEXANS.'"

Four Children Bitten by a Dog.

At Maryville, Mo., a vicious St. Bernard dog attacked a party of school children. Laura Baumann, aged 7 years, will probably die. Baby Kuchs cannot recover. Albert Kuchs was bitten through the wrist; will recover unless rabies follow. Evan Hawkins was bitten in the leg; will recover.

Fewer Strikes.

At the session of the International Cigar-makers' Union in Detroit President Perkins read his report giving statistics of the organization. The average number of strikes decreased during the last two years. The President commends the six-hour day or eight hours a day and a five-day week.

Both Were Killed.

Thomas Newkirk and Henry Ashcraft fought a duel with Winchester in Shelby County, Kentucky. They were both suitors of Mary Dean. Both men were killed.

New Orleans Men Indicted.

At New Orleans the grand jury found seven indictments against W. P. Nicholls, president, and John B. De Blanc, cashier of the Bank of Commerce, for embezzlement. Seven sums of money are mentioned in the indictment. The men gave bail each for $24,500.

It is a conservative estimate to say that fifty people have lost their lives from the Florida hurricane, and the number may run much higher. News from that portion of the State where the storm first struck is very slow in coming, for wires are down and railroads are impassable. The hurricane struck Florida at Cedar Keys, a village of 1,500 inhabitants, and reports show that it passed in its path of destruction over twenty towns and villages, and that between thirty and forty persons have certainly been killed. Cedar Keys is about 100 miles southwest of Jacksonville. Moving northeasterly, the storm struck Willistown, a small town, where eleven houses were blown down. One person was killed and several so badly hurt that it is expected they will die.

Near Jacksonville is a large turpentine farm, where State convicts are employed. Twenty of these were huddled together in a cabin. A heavy tree was blown across the cabin and six of the convicts were crushed to death. In Alachua County the storm did frightful work. In Gainesville the Methodist church and about twenty residences and business houses were destroyed, and while a number of people were hurt no fatalities are reported. At La Crosse fifteen buildings were destroyed. The Rev. W. A. Barr, Mrs. F. F. McIntosh and her baby are reported killed. Near three laborers, who were in a cabin at a turpentine farm, were crushed by falling trees. Newberry, in West Alachua, is totally wrecked. C. J. Eastlin, Mrs. Nancy Moss, Frank Olmstead and David Jones were killed.

At High Springs, Melissa Harden, Jane Morris and Sallie Nobles, colored women, are reported to have been killed. At this place a number of people took refuge in a box car, which was in the path of the cyclone. It was blown along the track, and then off it a distance of fifty feet, and every person in it was badly injured. Steve Mason and Geo. Johnson have since died. At Gracy, a small place, twelve houses were blown down; a woman was killed, but a babe at her breast was unhurt, although it had been carried some distance by the force of the wind. At Lake Butler, Bradford County, Mr. C. H. Harkey, Mrs. J. M. Fitch and her infant were fatally hurt. Many buildings were blown down. At this place the wind blew to pieces two cars loaded with bricks, and a negro, Henry Sullivan, who was 200 yards away, was killed by being struck by one of the flying bricks. At Live Oak the destruction is complete, but no loss of life is reported. Near Welborn the house of Amos White was destroyed and two of his children were killed. At Lake City eight business houses and thirteen residences were destroyed. Mrs. Sarah Fletcher and two boys were killed and Dora Jennings, Samuel Hudson and Jonas Mabrey were fatally injured. Six persons are reported killed at Fort White, in Columbia County.

The hurricane passed over Duval County, striking the edges of Jacksonville, but doing very little damage. Just north, however, in Nassau County, considerable destruction is reported. Five children were killed in the wreck of a schoolhouse. Miss Stewart, the teacher, had her arm broken. Lila Rails, a 12-year-old girl, was killed at her home, her mother being fatally injured. Harry Johnson was also killed. At Hillyards, another schoolhouse was wrecked and four children were killed. At Kings Ferry, Andy Johnson, Moses Lasiter, Simon Henderson, May Jones and a child were killed. Mrs. Fisher was nursing a sick child and the infant died as the house fell. The mother was hurt, but will recover. Three sailors were killed on schooners that were loading lumber at Kings Ferry.

There is no way to estimate the property loss in Florida. The losses may seem heavier now than they will when more closely examined, but talk with insurance men is that Florida losses will foot up $2,000,000. This seems, however, an excessive estimate.

Storm Enters Georgia.

Across the line into Georgia the devastation was continued. At Folkston, which is near the Okefinokee swamp, the schoolhouse was wrecked and four children killed. Several casualties are reported in Camden County, Georgia. The storm then continued on its way to Brunswick and Savannah. The hurricane in Savannah cost nearly a dozen lives and entailed a financial loss of nearly $1,000,000. Each report that is received is worse than at first. It was thought only one death would be the result of the hurricane, but the number has increased until there are eleven persons reported dead. Among prominent buildings damaged by the storm are City Exchange, Duffy Street Baptist Church, St. Philip's African Methodist Church, Central Railway warehouses, St. Patrick's school, Georgia hussars' armory, Henley Hall, city market, electric railway power house, Vale Royal mills, Comer, Hull & Co.'s guano factory, Commercial Guano Company's factory, Jones' Marine Railway, Fawcett Bros.' wholesale grocery building, Henry Solomon & Son's wholesale grocery, and M. J. Doyle's retail grocery. Hundreds of residences are damaged and the most beautiful trees in the city are down. The loss to shipping will amount to over $100,000.

Reports from the coast are meager. The sea islands along the coast of Georgia and South Carolina had almost a repetition of the storm of 1893. Almost every cottage and cabin in the wake of the storm was destroyed, but the water was not piled upon them as in 1893, consequently the suffering was not near so severe. The number of fatalities on the sea islands is not known, but it is not believed it will go over 100.

Havoc in Pennsylvania.

The cast house of the Temple furnace, at Temple Station, five miles above Reading, Pa., was blown down by the wind and nearly a dozen workmen were buried in the ruins. Two were killed. Heavy washouts are reported on the Pennsylvania Railroad east of Huntington. The greatest single loss is that of the Pennsylvania Railroad bridge across the Susquehanna at Columbia, nothing being left of it but the piers, the iron span in the middle and the first span at each end. The bridge was a mile and a quarter long, and was said to be the longest covered bridge in the world. It is reported that two men went down with the bridge, but no trace of them can be found. The bridge cost about $1,000,000. Columbia appears to have suffered more than any other section of the county. The damage in the borough is estimated at $500,000. The storm destroyed the coal breaker at Natalie, belonging to the Pennsylvania Anthracite Coal Company. Six tenement houses belonging to the camp were destroyed by fire, and six children, inmates, lost their lives. The fire originated from a stove overturning in one of the summer kitchens from the shaking by the wind. The damage at Shamokin will reach $350,000. The Paterson breaker is almost a total wreck, but the debris was saved from the flames by the downpour of rain that followed the wind. Superintendent Vincent places the damage to the colliery at $40,000. Fourteen of the dwelling houses and twenty board hanties occupied by the mine-workers were also blown down, and five of the former were consumed by flames. Two of the tenants were killed, several injured and eleven cattle were crushed to death beneath the dismantled barn.

The windstorm, though furious in New York City and vicinity, as elsewhere in the East, did but little damage ashore, and thus far no disasters on the Long Island, New Jersey or New England coast have been reported. The greatest damage sustained is by the prostration of telegraph and telephone wires. The storm was severe throughout New Jersey. In Buffalo the wind raged at a velocity of fifty-eight miles an hour, and at Syracuse thousands of dollars' worth of damage was done. The big grand stand at Kirk Driving Park was completely demolished. The Yates Hotel was badly damaged by a falling cornice, and the immense plate glass windows forced outward by the suction of the air.

Storm Around Washington.

Reports received from the suburban towns about Washington, D. C., show that great damage was done throughout the surrounding country by the storm. On the outskirts of the city few localities escaped. In Washington the Papal legation was unroofed and the Chinese legation was damaged about $1,500. Communication by telegraph and telephone with the outside world was absolutely stopped. The White House was slightly injured by the storm, a portion of the copper roofing being stripped off and other damage done. The tall flagstaff, from which the signal is given to the city that the President is in town, disappeared completely. In the beautiful grounds surrounding the house twenty-five of the splendid trees, elms, sycamores, walnuts and magnolias, some of great age and of historical associations, were completely leveled, while fully fifty of the surviving trees suffered the loss of their tops and principal branches, and are permanently defaced.

Crew Drowns at Milwaukee.

The barge Sumatra, consort of the B. W. Arnold, bound down from Chicago, foundered off the Government pier at Milwaukee. Four sailors were drowned. The captain, mate and cook were rescued by the life-saving crew. The Sumatra was bound for Milwaukee loaded with railroad iron. The record of the wind's fury in Chicago harbor was that of a storm almost equalling in fury the great hurricane of 1894. Half a dozen vessels were sunk, and as many more badly damaged. The schooner Seaman broke from her moorings and raced back and forth, pounding the docks and smashing the smaller craft on every side, while their crews were helpless. Capt. McCreary, of the Seaman, two of his men and several men on board other boats moored in the slip had narrow escapes. Three or four sailors were thrown into the water, and were forced to battle for their lives.

Miss Carrie Horner, daughter of Chas. Horner, committed suicide at Westminster, Md., by taking strychnine. She was to have been married at 1 o'clock the day before to William Brock, a grocer, but he had jilted her.

WHEAT ON THE JUMP

SPECULATORS SAY IT WILL GO TO A DOLLAR.

Corn and Oats Also Advance—Gain to the Farmers of $150,000,000 Value in Three Weeks—Britishers Do Big Buying.

Rise Is Based on Real Demand.
All farm products ..... $150,000,000
Wheat ..... 52,000,000
Corn ..... 3,000,000

This represents the gain to farmers advances in the price of farm products have made in three weeks. Wheat is racing for the dollar mark. The price passed 70 cents in Chicago Thursday. On the Board of Trade there was growling of the bears, and mad rushes by the bulls. Small traders were trying to find the bottom of the market, but kites were attached to all prices. A single feature was that wheat, in its upward flight, carried other products with it. Corn and oats joined the general advance. So did pork. Into the West went the news that within the last three weeks and including Thursday's gain $52,000,000 has been added to the value of the wheat crop held by the farmers. Four million dollars alone was their gain Thursday. They are that much richer than they were Sept. 8, when the rise began. With the cost of producing wheat 35 cents a bushel they find in October a change in selling price from 53 cents to more than 70 cents. Twice the cost of production is at their command.

Wild Scene in Pit.

Wiseacres on the board, madly gesticulating at their fellows, declared that the end was at hand. The pit was a scene of pandemonium. But there was no weakening in prices. On the contrary, amid a closing scene somewhat similar to the famous ones in the days of Hutchinson, prices remained firm, with every indication of continuing upward for days to come. Every farm product has advanced in value millions of dollars during the last fortnight. Wheat has advanced 13½ cents in three weeks, flaxseed 17 cents, while pork gained 50 cents Thursday over the previous day's prices, and retained most of its advantage to the close. The gain in dollars and cents to the farmer, as near as can be estimated, is all of $150,000,000 for his products. One-third of this advantage is in wheat alone. If corn continues to increase it is almost impossible to estimate how much will be added to the agriculturist's wealth. With a corn crop of nearly 2,000,000,000 bushels each 1 cent advance in price means a gain to the producers of $20,000,000. The price gained Thursday was 1½ cents, or more than $3,000,000. The advance in lard and ribs was great enough to reach an enormous sum when calculated on the visible supply, and the same was true of rye and the minor products of the farm.

Wheat was the inspiration which put life into all other farm products, and England wanted wheat and corn badly. The Britishers were apparently afraid of the future of wheat, and their bullish enthusiasm passed to corn. Commission firms had heavy buying orders from the Britishers all day.

"THE HOLY OF HOLIES."

The Room in Which Cleveland Will Hear Election Returns.

Some repairs have been made at the White House this summer during the absence of the Cleverlands. The room where President Cleveland will await the election news, his library, has been freshly decorated and it is now the fairest and daintiest apartment in the executive mansion. The walls, with their colonial rounded corners, have been hung with a new style wall paper, which is most quaint and picturesque. The background is a faint, greenish cream tint, and great golden roses clamber over its surface. These are so exquisitely designed it seems as though the odorous breath of the queen of flowers fills the air in the handsome den.

This room is termed in a laughing manner by the White House employes, the "holy of holies," because no one ever dares venture across its threshold without the President in a decidedly audible voice has given his consent.

The room is encircled by a row of low mahogany book cases, and these have been repolished until now they gleam like—well, like polished mahogany; a rare old table, large and round, and exquisitely inlaid with gold, holds the President's favorite reading matter, and this shines also with a cheerful glow.

Leaning against the mantel is a large white satin banner, on which is printed in gold letters the musical program for the inaugural band concert of the President's first administration. Already the satin is yellowed by time. Another treasure is a portrait in pastel by Joe Jefferson, of Gen. Jackson. The frame is very artistic and reminds one of Buzzard's Bay, for it is covered with roughly spread cream paint, in which are sunken bits of wreckage from the sea, pieces of old rope, small anchors, queer shells and quaint old coins. This is the most homelike apartment in the old mansion, yet it is not at all a gorgeous retreat.

With her usual delicate taste, Mrs. Cleveland has selected for the new carpet those quiet, restful colors, the lichen grays and russet browns, which suggest the touch that age imparts to shingles, and the walls hung full of yellow roses blend so harmoniously that one wonders if the honey bees and humming birds out in the garden won't be attracted in by these pretty evidences of her taste.

The office of the President is filled with scaffolding and dust. The walls are being refrescoed and the room will be changed into an ideal office for the new President to enjoy. The stairs and corridors leading up to this room from below will all be newly carpeted this month with plush velvet carpets, of rich scarlet, ready for the steady tramp of the army of office-seekers that never fails to take place each new administration.

ELEVEN PERSONS ARE HURT.

Reviewing Stand at Burlington, Iowa, Goes to Pieces.

Eleven persons received injuries and the big Iowa semicentennial crowd present in Burlington was thrown into a serious panic at noon Thursday. The reviewing stand near the Union depot, from which Vice President Stevenson and Gov. Drake were reviewing the parade, collapsed suddenly, throwing the distinguished party in a confused struggling mass of humanity into a depression in the ground fifteen feet below the surface of the platform. The stand which collapsed was a flimsy affair, hastily constructed of light timbers. It was erected to accommodate Vice President Stevenson for the review. The officers near it warned the people not to crowd it, as they considered it unsafe.

It was about noon when the accident occurred. The morning parade had passed through the principal streets of the city, and the Governor and his staff, escorting Vice President Stevenson, had just left the line of march and entered the stand to review the procession. The heavy rains had so softened the soil on which the stand was constructed that the supports sank into the earth and carried the structure to the ground. Vice President Stevenson was almost in the center of the stand, and was thrown pell mell into a wildly struggling mass of people. Gov. Drake was near him and grasped his arm, and both the distinguished men assisted each other in extricating themselves from the ruins. Much excitement ensued, and there was danger for a few moments of a general panic, but a number of cool heads managed to still the fears of those standing by, and the work of rescue of the unfortunate ones was quickly begun.

Vice President Stevenson was dazed for a moment by the force of his fall and struggle, but was soon able to enter his carriage and be driven to the Hotel Delano, where after a short rest he completely recovered his equanimity. He took the accident good naturedly, and only seemed concerned about the injuries of those who fell about him. Gov. Drake was not injured in the least, and after the excitement had subsided he and the uninjured members of his staff and friends reviewed the procession, which had halted at the collapse. He was then driven to the hotel and had dinner, after which he proceeded to Crapo Park, where the celebration was held in the big Coliseum, and took part in the exercises assigned him as if nothing had happened.

USE CORN FOR FUEL.

States of Northwest Will Not Pay Tribute to the Combine.

For the first time in their history Minnesota and South Dakota will consume corn for fuel the coming winter, says a Minneapolis correspondent. The high prices for coal, averaging about $2 a ton more than a year ago, are responsible for this action. A medium grade of soft coal now costs from $4.75 to $5.25 a ton, while anthracite is held at anywhere from $9.50 to $11, according to the freights and the distance from competing coal companies. It is claimed that corn, selling at about 11 cents a bushel on the farms, is much cheaper than either variety of fuel, besides being handier and keeping the money at home.

Neither Minnesota nor Dakota have been corn growing States for more than four or five years, the climate having been considered too cold. That they are now actually arranging to burn their surplus supply is one of the evidences of a change in Northwestern conditions. Another evidence is the fact that Minnesota is this fall supplying a large share of the home market with apples. Up to five years ago the State was supposed to be too cold to grow anything but the crab variety. Now some of the finest apples to be found in the Northern markets are home grown.

In North Dakota, it is claimed, the extortions of the coal trust have given a great boom to the lignite fuel industry, and more home coal will be mined in the Missouri counties than ever before, high prices having widened the area it can be profitably carried by rail. Some of the railroads are reducing lignite freights and making every effort to assist in the use of the fuel. It is safe to say, in a general way, that no Eastern mined coal will this winter find its way west of the Red River Valley, and that Dakota fuel will be used extensively in Minnesota also.

Though Du Maurier now stands at the head of the English novelists, it must not be forgotten that his greatest success was achieved by beginning at the foot.

A New York preacher has discovered that "the Sunday saunter is a sinful sport." This may induce many a wavering wanderer to take to the wheel.

That Illinois girl who sued for $15,000 for a stolen kiss and received a verdict for $250 probably might quote still lower figures for carlots delivered on the spot.

Mr. Hearst has begun the publication of an evening issue of his New York Journal. This imparts a kind of glad-I-don't-it-jucks aspect to his newspaper venture.

Frank Coopler, an Indiana farmer, perpetrated a terrible revenge on a young woman who rejected his suit. He locked himself in a room, wrote of his unfortunate love affair to the coroner, saying that life had lost all charms for him, and then proceeded to eat three bars of soap! Usually the caliber and make of suicide's revolvers are mentioned, but in this case we have no clew to the brand of soap used by Mr. Coopler in his rash act. At any rate, the plan failed, and he is alive and well again. The "soap route" is not successful as a short cut to the hereafter.

RECORD OF THE WEEK

INDIANA INCIDENTS TERSELY TOLD.

White and Black Baby Brothers Interest Michigan City People—Ingenious Boy Has Lots of Fun at Kokomo—Burglars Make Double Profit.

Phenomenal Indiana Twins.

The Chicago Chronicle has the following to say concerning a Michigan City novelty: The most extraordinary twins on record are the baby boys recently added to the Gibbert family of Michigan City, Ind. They are extraordinary because of the fact that one is white, while the other is black. The mother is white and the father is a negro. The child which is now black was born with a white skin. The change in color did not take place until two days after birth, at which time the child's body began to turn black. The white twin is facially not unlike his black brother. The white babe has the flat, broad nose, curly hair and thick, protruding lips of the typical African, and were it not for its color there would be no distinguishing feature. The mother is a comely woman of 40 and has reared a large family of children. The other Gibbert children are black as coal, and the white babe is an object of great curiosity to them and of solicitude to the parents. Hundreds of people have seen the twins at the Gibbert home, the white infant receiving the greatest attention. Mr. Gibbert has received several offers to exhibit the freaks in dime museums, but has refused them all. He is an educated negro of the pronounced African type.

Runs a Railway of His Own.

Robbie Murden, the 9-year-old son of E. F. Murden, a pattern-maker of Kokomo, has constructed a novel railway train and track that is the wonder of all who see it. The train operates on a circular track covering an acre of ground. The engine in appearance and form conforms to the modern railway locomotive, with whistle, bell and every necessary attachment. The train is propelled by the little boy, who sits in the cab, with his feet on pedals similar to those used in propelling bicycles. The small amount of power required to operate the train is surprising, the little fellow carrying four passengers around the track with ease. Robbie is earning good money in the passenger traffic, charging a penny a trip. The depot is provided with ticket office, waiting-room and all modern conveniences.

Burglars Are Thrifty.

A peculiar case of double burglary has just come to light at Rushville. Thursday afternoon burglars stole a big lot of silverware valued at several hundred dollars from the home of Trainer Joseph Christmas, of the Brookside stock farm. The same evening four men sold some silver plate to Christian Fox, a local saloon-keeper, for whisky and pin money. Fox deposited his purchase in his house back of the saloon, where it was found and again stolen by one of the men engaged in robbing the premises while his companions were talking to the saloon-keeper. From the description given by Christmas it was found that the silverware bought by Fox was the stuff stolen from the former.

All Over the State.

A wire on the electric light circuit at Madison broke during a heavy rainstorm, striking Charles Maurer, aged 15, and killing him instantly.

A carriage team driven by the wife of County Treasurer Mayfield and Mrs. Robert H. Wood and daughter ran away at Madison. Miss Nellie Wood was instantly killed and her sister's thigh was broken.

Frank Schumacker, a tailor of Decatur, was thrown into the river Tuesday night by a mob and kept there until almost dead. He went home in the evening in a state of intoxication, it is alleged, and drove his family from the house with an ax. His neighbors went to the house, placed a rope around his neck, dragged him to the river and threw him in. Officers arrived in time to save his life.

The quail shooting season, now open in Illinois, and which opens in Indiana on Nov. 10, promises well for the sportsmen. Reports from every section of the States indicate that quail are more plentiful this season than for many years. This is due to several causes, the chief of which is the better respect shown in the past two years for the game laws. The Illinois State Sportsmen's Association, with its members scattered all over the State, has been able to keep in close touch with the pot hunter, who has no regard for the rights of others nor respect for the laws made for the protection and preservation of game. The association, by its persistent prosecution of offenders, has made the laws of value, and there is no longer the promiscuous killing of game birds in and out of season. The farmer, too, has of recent years been glad to assist the associations in the protection of game. Last winter was favorable for the birds, and the springtime found "Bob White" piping out his merry song in every field. The hatching season was generally favorable and the rank growth of weeds has given protection to the young birds from his arch enemy, the hawk. The southern portions of the State furnish the most favorable resorts for the sportsmen. The northern counties are not so well suited to quail as those of the south. In many sections birds are too scarce to warrant a trip afield. In others good sport may be had so long as the season is open.

Sunday School Convention.

The Sunday schools of Union township, Marshall county, Ind., met in convention in the Methodist church at Culver City, Saturday Oct. 3, where the following programme was carried out:

Convention was called to order by Acting President Henry Zechiel. Dr. B. W. S. Wiseman and his choir sang from the Revivalists, page 128, "Say is your lamp trimmed and burning." Rev. W. G. Sholty, pastor of the M. E. church, Leiter's, lead the convention in prayer. Miss Gertrude Wiseman sang a solo, "Nearer My God to Thee." This was followed by a discourse on "Does Sunday School Work Pay?" which was opened by F. G. Howard, of Culver City. He placed before the minds of the convention the fact, that the greatness of a nation was in proportion to their knowledge of God, and that the Sunday school was a good place to get acquainted with him and his word.

An excellent paper was read by Miss Ella Kline, of Rutland, on "Encouragement of Sunday School Work in the Country," in which she set forth the fact that the best men of our country were country boys, who attended the country Sunday school, and that as we look back on our work we have been greatly rewarded.

The paper was discussed by Miss Edith Shireman, of Washington Evangelical, in a very able and impressive manner.

The convention then adjourned until 1:30. The visiting delegates were distributed among the home of Culver City and had a general good time until the ringing of the bell called them to the church.

Convention was called to order by the chairman announcing "Old Coronation." After the song Rev. Fonce, of Maxenkuckee, lead the devotions.

The chairman called for nominations for president to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Bro. Eli Parker. Mr. Hess, of Burr Oak, was nominated by a member of his school, and was unanimously elected. In him the convention has now at its head a man that is willing to work for the good of the Sunday school cause and asks the ardent support of the members of the association, especially the executive committee.

Miss Brownlee, of Maxenkuckee read an excellent paper on the subject, "How Can We Make Our Sunday School More Attractive?"

A male quartet sang a song that was appreciated by all.

"Relation of Parents to the Sunday School," was discussed by F. G. Howard and L. Zechiel, and the "Qualifications of the Superintendent" caused quite a discussion by Mr. Ulery, L. Zechiel, Rev. Fonce, Will Mathews, F. G. Howard and others. It was agreed that he must be a Christian man who loved his work and was willing to work at it.

On motion by Mr. Ulery it was voted to hold quarterly instead of annual conventions in the future. Maxenkuckee church was named as the next place of meeting on the second Saturday in January, 1897. Convention adjourned.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Whereas, It has pleased the all wise Creator in His infinite wisdom, to move from us, by the hand of death, our beloved brother, Eli Parker. Therefore be it

Resolved, That in his death we have lost a devoted, earnest, and energetic Sabbath school worker, and an exemplary Christian, who at all times, willingly responded to the call of his Master to work in His vineyard; Be it further

Resolved, That we commend his bereaved companion, children and relatives to Him who doeth all things well, and who alone can soothe the sorrowing heart, for consolation in this their hour of grief; Be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be placed upon the records of the Union Township Sabbath School Association, and that a copy be furnished the HERALD and the Awakener for publication.

George Spangler was married on Wednesday of last week near Lafayette, Ind., and himself and bride arrived here Saturday noon, having drove through with a horse and buggy. They are stopping with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Spangler.

Hon. Chas. Hudson, of Mentone, delivered a stirring free silver speech to a fair sized audience Thursday evening in the Kreuzberger building.

A letter received by Ed. Grubb states that U. S. Fish Commissioner Dr. J. T. Scovell will place 200,000 young black bass in our lake this fall.

Mr. Wm. Jones, who lives two miles southwest of this city, has an apple tree which has growing on it a second crop of apples, and which are in an apparently health condition. The apples are in clusters of from five to seven and are growing on the upper limbs, the lower ones bearing but very few.

Many political speakers, clergy men, singers and others who use the voice excessively, rely upon One Minute Cough Cure to prevent huskiness and laryngitis. Its value as a preventive is only equaled by its power to afford instantaneous relief. Culver City Drug Store.

A grand concert is to be given in the opera house, Plymouth, this Friday evening, Oct. 9, by the Clara Schumann Ladies' Orchestra, 15 performers, on various musical instruments, each an artist in the musical profession. Full houses and requests to "come again" attest their merits and popularity in every place. Admittance 25, 35 and 50 cents. All lovers of first-class entertainment will be pleased to attend.

For every quarter in a man's pocket there are a dozen uses; and to use each one in such a way as to derive the greatest benefit is a question every one must solve for himself. We believe, however, that no better use could be made of one of these quarters than to exchange it for a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, a medicine that every family should be provided with. For sale at Culver City Drug Store.

The District Stewards of the South Bend district, northwestern Indiana Conference met at the Methodist parsonage in Culver City, Wednesday, to fix the salary of the presiding elder, Rev. Horatio N. Ogden. The amount was placed at seventeen hundred dollars as it had been for four years previous, and was distributed between the twenty-nine (29) different charges as equitably as possible, on a basis of eight per cent. of the pastor's salary. All who know Bro. Ogden know that his experience in traveling is great for he spares no expense in going where he is needed in his work, and that he is liberal to the church in his gifts and donations. After the business session of the board they enjoyed a trip with Capt. Knapp, stopping at the Culver Military Academy where they met Mr. Culver, Col. Fleet, Dr. Jaeger and others connected with the school. A number of the brethren who had not been at Culver City for some time were greatly surprised at its growth, and pleased to know that we had the coming school of our country. Those going from town north went on the special at 6:10 a. m. and those going south on the 7:52 p. m. Mrs. Howard and Mrs. S. E. Medbourn served supper for the entire company at the home of Mrs. Howard.

And it came to pass, that in the year of our Lord, 1896, that a certain young man who belongs to the tribe of Maxenkuckeeites, took unto himself a wife. And the young men of the nation marveled much, saying unto one another, "Now that George, whose surname is Spangler, has departed from us and has become a benedict, we ought to do something great in acknowledgment that we appreciate the fact that he has taken a step toward replenishing the earth, so that our tribe becometh not extinct. And it came to pass that a great number of them gathered a lot of tin pans, L. O. S. G. S., etc., whereby they could make a noise. And it came to pass that George, whose surname is Spangler, did bring his wife and dwelt onth his father, and upon the tenth month and 5th day in the evening, the young men gathered at the residence of Peter, whose surname is Spangler, and did everlastingly toot their horns, pound their pans, and otherwise make a horrible racket, but although they remained for many an hour, the groom and bride appeared not. Finally it was learned that the groom and bonny bride were in the land of Culver City and knew not that the young men of their tribe were having a ghost dance for something they did not get. Yum! yum!!

Bryan at Logansport.

Wednesday, William Jennings Bryan was at Logansport. A special train was run from South Bend. When it arrived at this place about fifteen or twenty of the faithful boarded the train; which already contained about 150 people. All along the line the crowd was replenished and when the train arrived at Logan there were between 400 and 500 people on board the majority of them yelling for Bryan. It was estimated that about 8000 people from other towns were present.

Mr. Bryan made three speeches in the city, each being very short and to the point.

The city people were out and greeted their visitor with a degree of enthusiasm for which Indiana towns are noted. In fact it was a "red hot" Bryan day. Everything passed off pleasantly however, the McKinley followers, with few exceptions, taking no part in political argument, and in no wise interfering with the proceedings of the day.

The city was handsomely decorated.

DICK'S DONALD.

"Will I take a cigar? Well, yes, I rather think I will, and thank yer, sir!" exclaimed Dick, the busdriver, an expansive grin illuminating his good-humored countenance, as he picked out the finest smoke in my proffered case without hesitation. "Pon my word, guv'nor," he continued, "you're one of the right sort, an' make no mistake. I've druv this old bus a matter o' six years came next Benk 'Ooliday, an' you tek it from me, there ain't many o' your sort come my way. The larst cigar I had was from a soldier chap larst Monday week; but ther—I could spin yer a nice little yarn about the incidents wot led up that smoke if yer cared to listen."

"Nothing would give me a greater pleasure," I hastened to assure him.

"Well, sir," he began, "I dessay as you've noticed as 'ow all my pals on the road 'ave got a bit o' ribbon stuck on their whips, an' we'n they passes me they all laughs—but I'll tell yer the yarn from the beginnin'."

"I remember well the time as I first set my eyes on Rosie—a Friday it was, the day as Barmpt won the Oaks. She was a-sittin' on the seat b'ind yer theer, sir, and she looked so killin' that I couldn't resist the temptation to enter into conversation wiv 'er so I ventured to express the opinion as 'ow I 'oped she'd find 'im a-waitin' for 'er."

"Ho!" says she, wiv a toss of 'er pretty 'ead, 'there's no 'im a-waitin' for this child. I'm a-goin' straight 'ome to ma.' Arter a similation of surpris that such a sweet young lady 'adn't got a sweet 'eart, an' a few personal allusions on both sides, the conversation got quite confidential, an' she told me as she'd just obtained a situation as a 'ousemaid at a gentleman's 'ouse, an' she would be a-ridin' on the bus ther every mornin' an' comin' 'ome at night. Under the circumstances I ventured to express the perlit 'ope as 'ow she'd favor me wiv 'er company on the box seat, as the presence of her sweet face would 'elp to relieve the monotony of a lonely man's existence, an' arter a lot o' persuasion I 'ad at larst get her to mount up 'alongside o' me. Well, that was the beginnin' of it all."

"'Very mornin', fust bus down, she'd be waitin', an' it soon became quite a recognized thing to see 'Dick's Donald,' as the boys called 'er, seated by my side. I was the object of envy all along the road. I stood all their chaff an' jokin' good humoredly, 'owever, knowin' as they'd give their bloom'n' boots to be in my shoes. It was all right I tell ye. The recollection of 'er bright smile and cheery talk 'elped to liven me up many a dreary day."

"One mornin' she didn't turn up as usual. I 'ung around as long as ever I could afore startin', till my conductor begun to use langwige, and the folks in the bus got restless, but still she didn't come, an' I 'ad to do the journey wivout 'er. Comin' back, you can just imagine my disgust, when I sees 'er a-sittin' 'alongside o' Sam Flynn. There they was a-chattin' away as haffable as you please, an' as I passed 'em she smiles a sort o' laugh, an' Sam does a sarcastic sort of grin an' addresses some remark to 'er about me evidently, at which she laughs back. I never returned 'er greetin' of 'Good mornin', Dick,' I was too mad."

"I thought the bloom'n' day would never be over, an' everything seemed to go wrong. The little gel wot alwus brought my dinner never turned up as usual. The coppers seemed as contrary as they could be, and their continual 'igher up, ther!' got my ire up, I can tell yer. It's a puzzler to me 'ow I kept away from the drink. I believe I must 'ave give way, if the thought o' meetin' 'er at night for a full explanation 'adn't kept me orf it. I wanted to be cool n' calm."

"At larst, arter wot seemed like an age, I sees 'er approachin', an' nerves meself for the interview. I 'elped 'er perlitely up by my side, an' as soon as she got settled she says, 'Well, Dick, you do look black, an' no mistake. Who's been a-rubbin' yer the wrong road?'"

"You'll pardon me, miss, I reports sarcastically, tryin' to control my injured feelin's, 'but I never allows anyone to rub me the wrong road, or any road at all for that matter. If ther's any rubbin' to be done I does it myself. See?"

"She looks up at me artfully, an' says: 'Now you're in a temper. Well, tell your little Rosie wot's give yer the 'ump, like a good boy.'"

"You know well wot's the matter, I jerked out, my temper at larst gettin' the best on me. 'I want to know the reason of your unladylike conduct o' this mornin'. Now don't yer try yer prevaricatin' dodges wiv me. I saw yer along o' that miserable, sneakin' idiot, Sam Flynn. I kept the bus waitin' fer yer ten minits over time, an' yer never came. You'll understand me, wunce an' fer all. I'm not the bloke as you can play wiv any road; if you try them tricks wiv me, it's orf, right orf. D'yer 'ear?'"

"Well, I never!" she exclaimed, wiv 'er pretty eyes opened wide in astonishment; 'well, you are a silly kid. Why, I was just a-goin' ter tell yer, muvver 'ad one of 'er bad turns this mornin', an' I couldn't leave 'er till she got all right, an' that't wot frowned me late, an' just becos Mr. Flynn perlitely asked me to sit on the box wiv 'im comin' up, 'ere you flies out in a beastly temper. W'y I've a good mind never to speak to yer agen. Anybody would think as I couldn't do jus' wot I've a mind to. Well, wot next I should like to know? An' she turned 'er artful 'ead away an' begun to look in the shop winders."

"'Er muvver bad! That was the reason she didn't turn up—an' then it struck me as I was a fool, a bloom'n' jealous fool, as didn't ought ter 'ave the privilege of a woman's company; so I murmured, shame-facedly, 'Rosie, I'm an idiot. I arks yer pardon, but I've been nearly druv orf me nut ter-day. Will yer please forgive me?' an' the arm wot was disengaged—she was a-sittin' wheer you are now, sir—was gently passed round 'er waist, an' I gives 'er a nice little 'ug. She looks up at my face wiv 'er laughin' eyes, an' says, 'Corse I fergives yer, Dick!' an' she snuggles up a bit closer to my side."

"Just as luck would 'ave it, at this moment, up comes Sam Flynn on 'is bus, an' we wus both stopped to drop passengers wivin five yards of each other."

"Strike me, pink," yelled Sam, insultingly, 'theer's a face. It's a good job you're behind them old 'osses, or ther'd be a big danger o' their droppin' down dead,' an' 'e winked meaningly at Rosie by my side."

"Hullo, 929!" I retorts, coolly; 'ave they let you out agen? Thought a course o' grindin' the mill would 'ave knocked that all out o' yer. Breakin' stones suits yer a lot better than tryin' to drive a bus. W'y don't yer 'old 'em up, man?'"

"Go 'ome and play wiv the cat,' he shouted angrily; 'an' get yer poor old muvver to come out o' the work'us to drive fer yer.'"

"Give me none of yer bloom'n' persiflage, I returned. 'I'd drive yer out o' yer mind any day.'"

"Sorey 'ound!" ejaculated Rosie, an' just then we separated."

"The sound of 'er sweet voice arounin' on Sam fairly sent me into the seventh 'eaven of delight, an' I promised to get a night orf an' take 'er to the play as soon as ever I could."

"Well, things went on all right for about another three weeks, an' durin' that time Sam never lost an opportunity to get the larf agen me w'en 'e could. I 'eard casually as 'ow 'e'd been a-runnin' me down to the fellows in the yard, an' wunce or twice w'en 'e was a bit on 'e'd threatened wot 'e'd do for me. Then it gradually dawned on as me 'e was jealous. 'E tried 'is 'ardest to get Rosie up wiv 'im on the subsecent occasions w'en she was late, but she wouldn't 'ave no truck wiv 'im at any price, preferrin' to ride inside, an' that made 'im fairly wild. Every day I thought we should 'ave a rum-pus, an' determined if 'e started any of 'is 'ank to give 'im beans."

"At larst, one night, w'en I draws into the yard, I found 'im a-waitin' for me wiv a crowd o' fellows, who scented a mill. I'd put everything straight, an' was just goin' orf 'ome to my supper, w'en 'e slouches up to me an' thrusting 'is face inter mine, 'e 'issed:

"'Alf a minit, my fine feller, my Gentleman Dick, I've stood yer kid long enuf, now we're goin' to see who's the best man, an' 'e began to roll up 'is shirt 'leeves determinedly."

"Go way," I says sarcastic like. 'I don't want to 'urt a drunken man.'"

"Who's drunk?" 'e shouted, wiv a lot o' warn langwige, an' 'e struck me a blow on the chest."

"Well!" says I coolly, 'if you will 'ave it, you shall, an' I proceeded to peel my coat an' weskit."

"I didn't anticipate any trouble wiv 'im, as I'd 'ad a few sparrin' lessons in my younger days orf old Alf Beinfeld—I dessay you've 'eard on 'is name—so I thought I'd 'ave a bit o' game wiv 'im."

"As soon as we stood up, 'e immediately makes a mad rush at me wiv the intention o' settlin' me orf hand, but I was ready for 'im, as 'e came in, I shot out my fist an' landed it fair on 'is chest, fairly knockin' 'im orf 'is pins. The blow seemed to sober 'im a bit, for w'en 'e stood up agen, 'e sparrer round warily. I waited for 'im to come on, the fellers meanwhile encouragin' us wiv cries of 'Go on, Sam! Bang him! Out 'im, Dick!'"

"Suddenly 'e thought 'e saw an openin', an' feintin' wiv 'is left, 'e got one 'ome on my face. 'Bravo, Sammie!' they shouted, excitedly. Their cries an' the smart of the blow made me mad, an' we went at it 'ammer an' tongs. My 'and was soon covered with the crimson fluid from Sammie's boko, an' one o' my eyes 'ad gone to sleep, an' ceased to be o' any use to me. I found 'e could use his dooks, an' that it would take me all my time to polish 'im orf, but at last came the opportunity."

"Rushin' in, 'e lands me a quick right an' left on the chest, but, follerin' 'im up, I swung round wiv my right, an' suddenly brought up my left wiv all the force I could, and caught 'im under the jaw. Down 'e went like a ninepin, an' didn't stir for two or three minits. I went an' bathed my lovely black eye, an' goes 'ome."

"Next mornin' w'en I showed up at the yard—a pretty face I'd got on me—the boss toid me as I could take a 'oliday for a week. Sammie wus in bed, they said, not able to show up. I thought the week's rest would give my features a chance to resume their normal situations, so I steps in the 'ouse. I daren't go out to see Rosie wiv a face on me like I'd got, so I 'ad to curb my impatience as best I could. It was a weary week, but at last it wus over, an' wiv eager 'eart I returned to my daily duties. As soon as I got in the yard Bill—that's my conductor—ands me a note wiv the remark: 'She gave it to me Toosday to give to yer. I ain't seen 'er since.'"

"I don't know 'ow it was, but something seemed to tell me that all wus not right, an' I 'urriedly tore the letter open."

"'Dear Dick,' she wrote, 'my brother in Australiyer 'as arsked muvver an' me to go over to 'im, an' we start on Friday. I 'eard about 'ow you knocked Sam Flynn out o' time. God bless yer, my brave old Dick. Cheer up, I shall see yer agen soon. Your lovin' sweet-art—Rosie.'"

"Gone! I couldn't realize it. Gone wivout a chance of a word. It must be impossible—surely she must 'ave known wot my life would be wivout 'er; an' a mist swam before my eyes, as I gazed at 'er words, 'God bless yer, my brave old Dick,' an' I at length understood she 'ad indeed gone away, maybe forever."

"Well, arter that things went on as usual until one day larst week I was driving the up journey, w'en a soldier chap and a young gal who I didn't particularly notice gets on the top. My thoughts were far away, thinkin' o' the splendid helpmate Rosie would 'a' been to me, if she'd never gone away. Try as I would I found it impossible to forget 'er. 'Er sweet face wus allus in my mind, an' the words in that little note which I carried in my weskit continually gave me 'ope. 'Cheer up, Dick, I shall see yer agen soon.'"

"It wus nearly three years since she'd gone an' never a word 'ad I 'eard from 'er at all. Suddenly, in the midst of my wandering thoughts a larf struck on my ear—the silvery larf I 'adn't 'eard for such a time. I turned round excitedly, my 'eart beatin' thir-teen to the dozen, and ther, sittin' by the soldier chap, wus—Rosie, my Rosie, just as she used to be. 'Er eyes met mine."

"'Dick!' she gasped, an' 'er face turned pale."

"'Rosie!' I cried, 'ardly able to believe my eyes; and neither of us could add another word for a full minit."

"'You'll excuse me,' remarked the soldier, 'but I'm in the dark. What?'"

"'W'y, Jim,' she exclaimed at larst, 'this is Dick—'im wot you've 'eard me speak on so often—my Dick.'"

"'Er Dick!' Then she 'ad not forgotten me. It took me all my time to stop from jumpin' up an' claspin' 'er to me, but just then the wheel copped the curbstone, an' I 'ad to resume my control of the 'osses."

"'Ah! I've 'eard o' you a good bit,' says Jim; 'in fact, we ain't 'ad much else. But I forgot, you don't know me. I'm 'er brother Jim, on furlough, just back from India. 'Ave a cigar?'"

"Next day Rosie wus in 'er usual place by my side, an' she told me as 'ow she'd left 'er muvver in Australiyer wiv 'er brother Jack as 'ad got on splendid—got a great farm over ther, but she 'erself couldn't rest; some'ow she didn't feel at 'ome, an' she decided to come back to the old country. The artful mix arterwards toid me as it wus me she come back for. Before she started, 'er brother 'ad said, 'Remember, Rosie, if yer find 'im not married, an' he's still true to yer, tell 'im from me that if 'e likes to come 'ere, I'll drop 'im into a job as'll larst 'im for a lifetime.'"

"'Well, Dick,' she says, smiling up in the old way, 'wot shall I write an' tell 'im?'"

"But, 'ere we are, sir, an' ther's Sammie; that chap wiv the bunch o' ribbon on 'is whip. Wot's the ribbons all mean? W'y, only that Rosie became M's. Dick Ginx yesterday, an' tomorrow's my larst day on the old bus. Yes, we've decided to go to Australiyer. The boys all clubbed together, an' they've give me this good watch. It's a beauty, ain't it? 'Pon my word I feel that proud—wot say? Will I? Well, I think ther's time. 'Ere, Bill, keep yer eye on the copper—this gentleman's agoing to drink our wery good 'ealths.'—Tit-Bits."

An Expensive Novel

The largest sum paid for a single novel is said to have been $25,000, paid to Alphonse Daudet for "Sapho," published in 1884. Twenty thousand pounds was received by Victor Hugo for "Les Miserables," which was published in ten languages.

The largest bee ranch in the world is said to be in California. There are 6,000 hives, yielding 187,000 pounds of honey a year, valued at $40,000. The total yield of honey in America and Europe is estimated to be about 200,000,000 pounds a year.

STYLES FOR SPORTS.

PRETTY COSTUMES FOR ATHLETIC WOMEN.

Proper Garb for the Woman Who Indulges in Recreative Sports—Costumes for Those Who Hunt, Play Tennis, Climb Mountains, Etc.

Gotham Fashion Gossip. New York correspondence:

PORT is abundant and attractive in the country during October, and it is quite the style to prolong the outing till the first of November. So you won't catch your fashionable young women back in the horrid city for another month. Shooting is now on, and though they have been too busy flirting, swimming and dancing in August and September to bother about any game except man, who is always in season for their guns, by September and October all their interests change. The folks who are obliged to go back to town for sordid money reasons, or because little brother has to go to school, or something of the sort, are all cleared out. The particular, attached man remains, of course, and out of Miss Diana's trunk come dresses not touched all season till now. They are stunning rigs, and if shooting be her especial excuse for spending the autumn at the mountains, she will have at least two of them. One gets wet or soiled and besides it is nice to make a new effect once or twice a week.

A pretty tailor rig 's put in this first picture. It is of smooth brown cloth, so closely woven and so soft that it seems more like suede leather than cloth, and the brown is leather colored. The jacket is big waisted, fits close and buttons all the way down with just a show of linen collar and tie, or pique guimpe at the neck. A bretelle finish of genuine leather, in a lovely soft golden shade, makes a collar effect and a loose-edged panel down the front. Pockets are to match. A little leather visor cap is wound about just above the visor with a scarf of the dress material, so that there is no suggestion of yachtmanship about it. Leather gaiters reach the skirt, which comes below the knee.

In this she is as trim and demure as can be. It is just the sort of a rig to wear for long days in the hills, and even if she doesn't hit anything with the gun, the bow and arrow sure to be about cannot miss their mark. But when there is a regular "meet," when the whole party is going, when the other "him" is to be there, too, when your best friend is also invited, then is the time for a really stunning rig. This the second picture shows. Its jacket is hunter's green, of the "leather cloth" so much favored for out-door use, which has the texture and softness of fine leather and the superior hygienic qualities of cloth. A pique guimpe surmounted by a high linen collar is at the throat and the merest thread of a scarlet tie. A close fitting scarlet leather vest shows under the coat, but the really stunning part of the rig is the skirt. This is a small-check mixed cheviot, scarlet barred closely wiv hunter's green and softened here and there with brown squares. It is cut without fullness in front, is just short of the knee and is lined with bright green silk. Dark hunter's green knickerbockers bag a little over the brown leather "cuffs" that end in the golf stockings. The sailor hat is highly polished brown enamel, with scarlet band, and she wears heavy dark red kid gloves, with black stitching. The sleeves of the jacket are entirely new. They are padded at the shoulder like a man's and are blocked stiffly to a size larger than the arm above the elbow, but the effect of this is not at all like a puff. A rig of this sort ought to go on a girl of bronze skin, with scarlet lips, eyes blue as October sky and hair of a bright red. Then that handy bow and arrow would score a string of bull's-eyes.

But the October girl isn't going to hunt, shoot and fish all the time; if so, would she have saved from July and August wear the prettiest dress in the world for tennis? It is mohair of just the scarlet of the frost leaves on the maples. It was made with sleeves much reduced and with the folded sash belt that aids the wide waist effect. A row of crisp tucks is put about the foot of the skirt, a trick that helps get rid of stiffening and yet not be reduced to slimpiness at the angles. A smart row of tucks or a close array of braiding will crisp the foot of a skirt almost as well as a wire improver. Sash and ruffled blouse are white silk, and the sailor hat with its side lift of ribbon is all white.

This is shown in the third sketch, and all! but it brings out the bronze of her skin, while the scarlet of the dress sets the blood even more brightly under the brown at the cheeks. It is as well the other girls are mostly gone back to town, they would have no chance at all. A rig of this sort serves for the hammock, too. Oh! the August and September girl did not exhaust the hammock, by any means. These are the days of the field corn and potato roasts, when the hammock is hung just in the circle of the warm firelight, and flirtations, all in a blend of cold moonlight and warm roast, give the potatoes and the corn a chance to cook—to burn to a crisp sometimes—in the hot ashes of the big fire. What more suitable then, than a scarlet gown a-swing in the hammock, with a flash of white silk petticoats to match the sash and a dainty scarlet shod foot in the midst like a wild strawberry in a saucer of whipped cream? The Gordian Knot.

The Gordian knot is said to have been made of the thongs that served as harness to the wagon of Gordius, a husbandman, afterwards King of Phrygia. Whosoever loosed this knot, the ends of which were not discoverable, the oracle declared should be ruler of Persia. Alexander the Great cut away the knot with his sword until he found the ends of it, and thus—in a military sense at least—interpreted the oracle 320 B. C.

A Lumberman's Experience.

Thrown a Great Distance and Unconscious for Twenty-four Hours.

From the Breeze, Bellaire, Mich.
James F. Rose, a gentleman 43 years of age, and one of the oldest settlers of Helena Township, in Antrim County, Michigan, tells the following story: "I was working with some large logging wheels, lumbering some eighteen years ago, and was seriously injured. I was thrown a long distance, striking on some logs, and I broke my left hip, fractured three ribs, and injured my left shoulder. I was unconscious twenty-four hours, and it was a long time before I could walk at all. Finally I got so I could hobble around a little, but always suffered great pain while moving about. I could sit in a chair quite comfortably, but could only get up after great difficulty and by helping myself with my hands or with other assistance. I had consulted physicians and tried a good many remedies, but with no satisfactory results.

"We read of the Marshall case, of Hamilton, Ont., a wonderful cure attributed to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I sent for a box of them, and was helped at once, and by the time I had taken one box I could get up out of a chair as spry as any one, and could run, and do any kind of work I ever could.

"Since taking Pink Pills I have been able to work at such work as sawing wood—rolling logs; in fact, I have no occasion to favor myself on account of my injury. Why, last summer I dug a ditch eighty rods long and two feet deep. I attribute my freedom from pains entirely to Pink Pills. It is a wonderful medicine. I think my wife's cure from creeping paralysis was even greater than mine."

Mr. Rose desired to put the above in the form of an affidavit, and did so as follows: State of Michigan, County of Antrim, ss.: James F. Rose, being duly sworn on his oath says that the foregoing statement is true.
JAMES F. ROSE.

Sworn and subscribed to before me this 29th day of February, 1896.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effect of a gripe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, all forms of weakness, either in male or female. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Cornstarch as Good as an Egg.

It is sometimes useful for housewives to know that a teaspoonful of cornstarch is equal to one egg, and may be substituted in case of a scarcity of eggs for part of the eggs in custards or other dishes where milk and eggs are called for.

BRAVE SPIRITS BROKEN.

How often women wake up in the morning cheerful and happy, determined to do so much before the day ends, and yet:—

Before the morning is very old, the dreadful BACK-ACHE appears, the brave spirit sinks back in affright; no matter how hard she struggles, the "clutch" is upon her, she falls upon the couch, crying:—"Why should I suffer so? What can I do?"

Lydia E. Pinkham's "Vegetable Compound" will stop the torture and restore courage.

All such pains come from a deranged uterus. Trouble in the womb blots out the light of the sun at midday to a vast number of women.

Be advised—do as many others have done and are doing—procure Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and commence without delay to realize the relief it is sure to bring you.

SAVANNAH IN RUINS.

AWFUL STORM SWEEPS OVER GEORGIA CITIES.

Scarcely a House Escapes Damage and Seven Persons Lose Their Lives—Property Loss Exceeds a Million—Destruction Along the Coast.

Fury of the Winds.

Seven lives lost and a million dollars' worth of property destroyed is the record of the storm which swept Savannah, Ga., from 11:30 a. m. until 12:15 p. m. Tuesday. Hardly a house escaped without more or less damage. Reports from Brunswick, Ga., state that the storm was very severe there and at adjacent points. A number of lives were lost, and the property loss will exceed $1,000,000.

Disaster at Brunswick.

Wind and water worked destruction at Brunswick; the streets were filled with debris, wires, telephone and telegraph poles and parts of buildings blown down and carried away. People were injured by flying objects, and one lady was killed at Everett, a small station a few miles distant. H. M. Merrill, of the Atlanta Telephone Company, reached Atlanta late at night from Brunswick and states that the city of Brunswick is badly damaged and that three big vessels were sunk in the Brunswick harbor. The latter were blown away from their moorings. Mr. Merrill says that the famous old gunboat, the Monitor, was blown away from her pier and that she was floating helplessly in the harbor in danger of going to the bottom. A part of the Oglethorpe Hotel, the leading hostelry of Brunswick, was blown away and other big buildings were totally or partially wrecked. Many houses in the suburbs were blown away, and the water rushed through the streets in torrents, carrying property, household furniture and valuables toward the harbor.

Dead in Brunswick.

Four persons were killed outright in Brunswick, as follows: William Daniels. Able Davis. John Jefferson and baby. A careful estimate places the damage at $500,000. Many persons were dangerously injured.

Savannah is a port of entry of Georgia. It is the capital of Chatham County and one of the most important commercial cities of the State. It was founded by Gen. Oglethorpe in 1733 and chartered as a city in 1789. Its population is in the neighborhood of 45,000.

The site of the city is a sandy plain, elevated about forty feet above low water mark. It is regularly laid out, with wide streets, closely shaded with trees of many varieties. The city is built mostly of brick and many of the private dwellings are handsome specimens of architecture. Among the public buildings the custom house, theater, court house, City Exchange, Cotton Exchange, Masonic Temple, Metropolitan Hall, Hodgson Hall (library and headquarters of the Georgia Historical Society), Armory Hall and St. Andrew's Hall are the most important.

Handsome Church Edifices.

There are a number of handsome church edifices in the city, chief among which are the Independent Presbyterian, St. John's (Episcopal), Cathedral of Our Lady of Perpetual Help (Roman Catholic), and the Jewish synagogue of Mickva Israel.

The public schools are many and afford liberal provision for the education of the poor. The private schools are also numerous and stand high in the estimation of the citizens.

Among the charitable institutions may be mentioned the Savannah Hospital, St. Joseph's Infirmary, Orphan Asylum, Episcopal Orphans' Home, Hibernian Society and Port Society. Two monuments, one in Johnson Square to Gen. Nathaniel Greene and the other in Monterey Square to Count Pulaski, are points of interest.

One of the Best Southern Harbors.

The harbor of Savannah is one of the best on the southern coast, and the river is navigable for steamers to Augusta. The depth of water on the bar is twenty-two feet at mean lower water, and vessels drawing nineteen feet can come up to the wharves. Steamers run regularly to New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and other ports.

Savannah is the terminus of the Central Railroad of Georgia, the Atlantic and Gulf and the Savannah and Charleston Railroads. The chief articles of export are cotton, rice, lumber and naval stores. As a cotton port that city ranks second in the United States.

The city has gas works, water works, street railroads, cotton factories, paper mills, several foundries and planing mills.

Telegraphic Brevities.

Lieut. Duff, U. S. A., retired, died at Port Haron, Mich., of apoplexy, aged 65 years.

The next convention of the German Catholic societies will be held at Columbus, Ohio.

C. H. Enos, a prominent business man and several times Mayor of Lead City, S. D., died at Hot Springs after a lingering illness.

Austin B. Crary, famous "Hey Rube" and donkey and cart clown of Barnum's circus and other shows, is insane at Cincinnati, Ohio.

The Dublin Express says that the police have discovered a large quantity of dynamite and detonators at Mablin Park, two miles from Galway.

Telegrams received at Ottawa, Can., by the Minister of Marine, report that the sealing vessel Viva was seized in Behring Sea by the cruiser Rush for infraction of article 1 of the Paris award.

A band of Bulgarian brigands armed with dynamite bombs near Seres, in Macedonia, have carried off the brother of the Austrian consul at that place and also a wealthy Greek landed proprietor.

A Bird Story.

A few years ago a lady living in the Via Voltorno, in Rome, had some pet canaries, which she every day hung out on a balcony in front of her kitchen window. She observed a sparrow frequently come and perch on one of the cages, and one evening when she brought in her birds, she unawares brought in also the little wild visitor perched on its favorite cage. It showed no fear, and pecked the crumbs she offered it. Evening after evening the same bird continued to come in with its imprisoned friend. An empty cage with food was left near, and in this it made its abode at night, the door always being left open.

Spring came, and the sparrow flew away; then the summer passed, and with the shortening days she returned, boldly entering the kitchen, surrounded by a brood of four or five little sparrows. She had come, it seemed, to greet her old friend, and introduce her treasures to her. They all confidently ate the crumbs scattered for them on the kitchen floor. Soon winter came, and with it the sparrow again as an established lodger "with board." Again the soft breeze of a Southern spring whispered of new nests and broods, and the sparrows flew away, but this time, alas! to return no more.

Magnets for Lifting Purposes.

An interesting use of magnetism is being made in England. Electric cranes are operated from the electric power and lighting circuits, along with electro-magnets, which permit the ready lifting of pieces of iron or steel weighing up to two tons. The magnets constructed for lifting purposes are attached to a crane. One magnet takes five and a half amperes at one hundred and ten volts to excite it, at which energy it will support a weight of two tons of iron or steel. A switch controls the supply of current delivered to the magnet.

By its use three men do the work in one-quarter of an hour which previously took six men one hour and a half to perform.

Peace on Earth.

This is once more enjoyed by the rheumatic wise enough to counteract their progressive malady with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. No testimony is stronger than that which indicates it as a source of relief in this complaint. It is also eminently effective as a treatment for kidney trouble, dyspepsia, debility, liver complaint and constipation. Use it with persistence for the above.

Oil.

The oily character of the menhaden is familiar; it is caught for its oil, which is dried out in factories. Menhaden fishermen use purse nets, which are tarred to preserve them. To keep their hands from sticking to the tarred nets they rub them on a freshly caught menhaden, handling it something as they would a cake of soap. So oily is the menhaden that the simple pressure thus applied is enough to bring through the scales oil sufficient for the purpose.

Shredding Corn Fodder.

During the past few years unusual interest has been taken by farmers in the subject of shredding fodder. Many have hesitated to shred thinking that the shredded corn would not keep well in the mow or stack. When shredding was first practiced, more or less fodder was shredded in a somewhat damp condition. When such corn was used, it invariably heated in the mow, became musty and gave unsatisfactory results. A knowledge of such unsatisfactory preservation has restrained some people from shredding their fodder, although had the crop been properly handled, there is little doubt but what these same persons would have become endorsers of the process. Fodder that is shredded, should not be run through the machine until it is entirely dry and well cured. It would be better over dry than not dry enough. Last season at the Indiana experiment station we shredded all of our corn fodder (stover) and with the most satisfactory results. It kept well in the mow, and was free from mustiness. The cattle ate it freely and it was used well into the spring with the stock. This fall we will shred nearly all of our 1896 crop.

Shredded fodder presents several points in its favor.

1st—It is more economical to feed than the uncut corn. 2nd—It is eaten up cleaner by the stock than most cut fodder is, there being less waste, due to the absence of the hard sharp-edged, short butt pieces of stalks usually found in cut fodder. 3rd—The refuse makes better material for bedding than does whole stalks or cut pieces, being finer and softer. 4th—It handles far better in the manure pile than does the entire stalk. 5th—It does not make the mouths of cattle sore, while that of the coarsely cut fodder oftentimes does. 6th—It packs more economically in the mow than does uncut fodder.

The feeding value of shredded and cut fodder is practically the same.

Shredding is coming more and more into general practice, and many farmers are making use of the process. Shredders and huskers combined are made, or the shredders may be bought separately. Baled shredded corn hay may now be found in the hay markets and it furnishes a valuable class of coarse food for horses, cattle and sheep. A ton of shredded fodder contains over three-fourths of a ton of digestible food for the animal body. In these times of low prices, the farmers cannot afford to allow their fodder or corn crop to go to waste, so long as it can be used instead of other rough stuff. Shredded, it may be handled and fed to the greatest advantage.—Purdue Experiment Bulletin.

Church Dedicated At Bremen.

The Evangelical Lutheran church at Bremen celebrated the 50th anniversary of its founding last Sunday. The congregation numbers 520 members, owns the largest and most beautiful church building in Bremen, a fine parsonage and a spacious school house. There were three services—10:00 a. m., 2:30 and 7:30 p. m., the latter service in the English language. The preachers for the day were the Rev. C. Gross, of Fort Wayne, vice-president of the Evangelical Lutheran synod of Missouri, Rev. Geo. Link, of Laporte, and Rev. J. A. Rimbach, of Avilla.

Any enterprising town or city in this country are more or less indebted to its newspaper for every real progressive move made. No merchant can afford to neglect tendering the paper that represents their interest and possible financially and otherwise. Hence a man that cuts down his advertisement, or in any other way retrenches his support of the home paper, only dyes a nail in the coffin which is sure to receive it sooner or later. No editor can conduct a newspaper on wind, neither can he with any degree of success on promises, or where business men of the town write business letters upon blank paper, and in fact continue in every way possible to save paying a newspaper a cent, thinking that it is a useless expense. Such towns deserve no paper, and such business men deserve to amble along in the old rut with spider webs hanging over their doors for the want of patronage. A live newspaper is the life and backbone of any municipality and can speak of its virtues to more people in the world in one week than all agencies combined.

A Lumberman's Experience.

Thrown a Great Distance and Unconscious for Twenty-four Hours.

From the Breeze, Belleaire, Mich.
James F. Rose, a gentleman 63 years of age, and one of the oldest settlers of Helena Township, in Antrim County, Michigan, tells the following story:
"I was working with some large logging wheels, lumbering some eighteen years ago, and was seriously injured. I was thrown a long distance, striking on some logs, and I broke my left hip, fractured three ribs, and injured my left shoulder. I was unconscious twenty-four hours, and it was a long time before I could walk at all. Finally I got so I could hobble around a little, but always suffered great pain while moving about. I could sit in a chair quite comfortably, but could only get up after great difficulty and by helping myself with my hands or with other assistance. I had consulted physicians and tried a good many remedies, but with no satisfactory results.

"We read of the Marshall case, of Hamilton, Ont., a wonderful cure attributed to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I sent for a box of them, and was helped at once, and by the time I had taken one box I could get up out of a chair as spry as any one, and could run, and do any kind of work I ever could.

"Since taking Pink Pills I have been able to work at such work as sawing wood—rolling logs; in fact, I have no occasion to favor myself on account of my injury. Why, last summer I dug a ditch eighty rods long and two feet deep. I attribute my freedom from pains entirely to Pink Pills. It is a wonderful medicine. I think my wife's cure from creeping paralysis was even greater than mine."

Mr. Rose desired to put the above in the form of an affidavit, and did so as follows: State of Michigan, County of Antrim, ss.:

James F. Rose, being duly sworn on his oath says that the foregoing statement is true.

JAMES F. ROSE.
Sworn and subscribed to before me this 29th day of February, 1896.

C. E. DENSMORE, Notary Public.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effect of the grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, all forms of weakness, either in male or female. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Cornstarch as Good as an Egg.
It is sometimes useful for housewives to know that a teaspoonful of cornstarch is equal to one egg, and may be substituted in case of a scarcity of eggs for part of the eggs in custards or other dishes where milk and eggs are called for.

BRAVE SPIRITS BROKEN.

How often women wake up in the morning cheerful and happy, determined to do so much before the day ends, and yet—

Before the morning is very old, the dreadful BACK-ACHE appears, the bravespirit sinks back in affright; no matter how hard she struggles, the "clutch" is upon her, she falls upon the couch, crying:—"Why should I suffer so? What can I do?"

Lycia E. Pinkham's "Vegetable Compound" will stop the torture and restore courage.

All such pains come from a deranged uterus. Trouble in the womb blots out the light of the sun at midday to a vast number of women.

Be advised—do as many others have done and are doing—procure Lycia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and commence without delay to realize the relief it is sure to bring you.

SAVANNAH IN RUINS.

AWFUL STORM SWEEPS OVER GEORGIA CITIES.

Scarcely a House Escapes Damage and Seven Persons Lose Their Lives—Property Loss Exceeds a Million—Destruction Along the Coast.

Fury of the Winds.
Seven lives lost and a million dollars' worth of property destroyed is the record of the storm which swept Savannah, Ga., from 11:30 a. m. until 12:15 p. m. Tuesday. Hardly a house escaped without more or less damage. Reports from Brunswick, Ga., state that the storm was very severe there and at adjacent points. A number of lives were lost, and the property loss will exceed $1,000,000.

At Savannah the Plant system depot was demolished and a number of churches leveled to the ground. All the shipping in the harbor suffered severely.

Disaster at Brunswick.
Wind and water worked destruction at Brunswick; the streets were filled with debris, wires, telephone and telegraph poles and parts of buildings blown down and carried away. People were injured by flying objects, and one lady was killed at Everett, a small station a few miles distant. H. M. Merrill, of the Atlanta Telephone Company, reached Atlanta late at night from Brunswick and states that the city of Brunswick is badly damaged and that three big vessels were sunk in the Brunswick harbor. The latter were blown away from their moorings. Mr. Merrill says that the famous old gunboat, the Monitor, was blown away from her pier and that she was floating helplessly in the harbor in danger of going to the bottom. A part of the Oglethorpe Hotel, the leading hostelry of Brunswick, was blown away and other big buildings were totally or partially wrecked. Many houses in the suburbs were blown away, and the water rushed through the streets in torrents, carrying property, household furniture and valuables toward the harbor.

Dead in Brunswick.
Four persons were killed outright in Brunswick, as follows:
William Daniels.
Able Davis.
John Jefferson and baby.

A careful estimate places the damage at $500,000. Many persons were dangerously injured.

Savannah is a port of entry of Georgia. It is the capital of Chatham County and one of the most important commercial cities of the State. It was founded by Gen. Oglethorpe in 1733 and chartered as a city in 1789. Its population is in the neighborhood of 45,000.

The site of the city is a sandy plain, elevated about forty feet above low water mark. It is regularly laid out, with wide streets, closely shaded with trees of many varieties. The city is built mostly of brick and many of the private dwellings are handsome specimens of architecture.

Among the public buildings the custom house, theater, court house, City Exchange, Cotton Exchange, Masonic Temple, Metropolitan Hall, Hodgson Hall (library and headquarters of the Georgia Historical Society), Armory Hall and St. Andrew's Hall are the most important.

Handsome Church Edifices.
There are a number of handsome church edifices in the city, chief among which are the Independent Presbyterian, St. John's (Episcopal), Cathedral of Our Lady of Perpetual Help (Roman Catholic), and the Jewish synagogue of Mickva Israel.

The public schools are many and afford liberal provision for the education of the poor. The private schools are also numerous and stand high in the estimation of the citizens.

Among the charitable institutions may be mentioned the Savannah Hospital, St. Joseph's Infirmary, Orphan Asylum, Episcopal Orphans' Home, Hibernian Society and Port Society. Two monuments, one in Johnson Square to Gen. Nathaniel Greene and the other in Monterey Square to Count Pulaski, are points of interest.

One of the Best Southern Harbors.
The harbor of Savannah is one of the best on the southern coast, and the river is navigable for steamers to Augusta. The depth of water on the bar is twenty-two feet at mean lower water, and vessels drawing nineteen feet can come up to the wharves. Steamers run regularly to New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore and other ports.

Savannah is the terminus of the Central Railroad of Georgia, the Atlantic and Gulf and the Savannah and Charleston Railroads. The chief articles of export are cotton, rice, lumber and naval stores. As a cotton port that city ranks second in the United States.

The city has gas works, water works, street railroads, cotton factories, paper mills, several foundries and planing mills.

Telegraphic Brevities.
Lieut. Duff, U. S. A., retired, died at Port Huron, Mich., of apoplexy, aged 65 years.

The next convention of the German Catholic societies will be held at Columbus, Ohio.

C. H. Ehos, a prominent business man and several times Mayor of Lead City, S. D., died at Hot Springs after a lingering illness.

Austin B. Cray, famous "Hey Rube" and donkey and cart clown of Barnum's circus and other shows, is insane at Cincinnati, Ohio.

The Dublin Express says that the police have discovered a large quantity of dynamite and detonators at Mahlin Park, two miles from Galway.

Telegrams received at Ottawa, Can., by the Minister of Marine, report that the sealing vessel Vira was seized in Behring Sea by the cruiser Rush for infraction of article 1 of the Paris award.

A band of Bulgarian brigands armed with dynamite bombs near Seres, in Macedonia, have carried off the brother of the Austrian consul at that place and also a wealthy Greek landed proprietor.

A Bird Story.

A few years ago a lady living in the Via Volturno, in Rome, had some pet canaries, which she every day hung out on a balcony in front of her kitchen window. She observed a sparrow frequently come and perch on one of the cages, and one evening when she brought in her birds, she unawares brought in also the little wild visitor perched on its favorite cage. It showed no fear, and pecked the crumbs she offered it. Evening after evening it came in with its imprisoned friend. An empty cage with food was left near, and in this it made its abode at night, the door always being left open.

Spring came, and the sparrow flew away; then the summer passed, and with the shortening days she returned, boldly entering the kitchen, surrounded by a brood of four or five little sparrows. She had come, it seemed, to greet her old friend, and introduce her treasures to her. They all confidently ate the crumbs scattered for them on the kitchen floor. Soon winter came, and with it the sparrow again as an established lodger "with board." Again the soft breeze of a Southern spring whispered of new nests and broods, and the sparrows flew away, but this time, alas! to return no more.

Magnets for Lifting Purposes.

An interesting use of magnetism is being made in England. Electric cranes are operated from the electric power and lighting circuits, along with electro-magnets, which permit the ready lifting of pieces of iron or steel weighing up to two tons. The magnets constructed for lifting purposes are attached to a crane. One magnet takes five and a half amperes at one hundred and ten volts to excite it, at which energy it will support a weight of two tons of iron or steel. A switch controls the supply of current delivered to the magnet.

By its use three men do the work in one-quarter of an hour which previously took six men one hour and a half to perform.

Peace on Earth.

This is once more enjoyed by the rheumatic wise enough to counteract their progressive malady with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. No testimony is stronger than that which indicates it as a source of relief in this complaint. It is also eminently effective as a treatment for kidney trouble, dyspepsia, debility, liver complaint and constipation. Use it with persistence for the above.

Oil.

The oily character of the menhaden is familiar; it is caught for its oil, which is dried out in factories. Menhaden fishermen use purse nets, which are tarred to preserve them. To keep their hands from sticking to the tarred nets they rub them on a freshly caught menhaden, handling it something as they would a cake of soap. So oily is the menhaden that the simple pressure thus applied is enough to bring through the scales oil sufficient for the purpose.
