A St. Joseph, Mich., dispatch says: Jos Omslicker, a farmer, found $10,000 while digging a cellar for a new house. The money was in a rusty iron box and consisted mostly of gold coin. Omslicker kept his find a secret for some time, but finally sold his farm and moved to Chicago. It is said the money was buried by an Indian chief thirty-five years ago, to prevent it being stolen by a rival tribe. The Indian's son came here twenty-five years ago, to find the money, which, he said, had been buried on the bank of a stream, near a pine tree, but was unsuccessful. Omslicker was more successful.

One of Mrs. Pinkham's Talks

Concerning a Mother's Duty to Her Young Daughter. Together with a Chat with Miss Marie Johnson.

The balance wheel of a woman's life is menstruation. On the proper performance of this function depends her health. Irregularity lays the foundation of many diseases, and is in itself symptom of disease. It is of the greatest importance that regularity be accomplished as soon as possible after the flow is an established fact.

Disturbance of the menstrual function poisons the blood. In young girls suppression develops latent inherited tendencies to scrofula or consumption, and no time must be lost in restoring regularity. Many a young girl goes to her grave because this difficulty has been thought lightly of, and mother has said, "Time will bring about a cure; she is young, I don't worry about her."

Mother, when you see your daughter languid and indifferent to things that usually interest a young girl, when you note that flush on her cheek, that glassy appearance in her eyes; when your daughter tells you that even the weight of her dress waists oppresses her, and that she has terrible pains in her stomach shortly after eating, don't ignore these signs! If you do, you will be following your daughter to the grave, for she will die!

This is gospel truth—she is developing consumption of the bowels! Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the greatest regulator known to medicine. Make haste to use it on the first appearance of the tell-tale symptoms; it will restore all the female organs to their normal condition. Miss Marie Johnson's letter to Mrs. Pinkham, which follows, should interest all mothers and young ladies. She says:

"My health became so poor that I had to leave school. I was tired all the time, and had dreadful pains in my side and back. I would have the headache so badly that everything would appear black before my eyes, and I could not go on with my studies. I was also troubled with irregularity of menses. I was very weak, and lost so much flesh that my friends became alarmed. My mother, who is a firm believer in your remedies from experience, thought perhaps they might benefit me, and wrote you for advice. I followed the advice you gave, and used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills as you directed, and am now as well as I ever was. I have gained flesh and have a good color. I am completely cured of irregularity. Words cannot express my gratitude, and I cannot thank you enough for your kind advice and medicine."—MISS MARIE F. JOHNSON, Centralia, Pa.

BILLS THAT FAILED.

WORK FOR THE EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS.

Chicago and Illinois Affected by the Delay in Usual Legislation—Sundry Civil Bill Was Pocket-Vetoed—Rivers and Harbors Left Out.

For Immediate Attention.

Washington correspondence:—When the sundry civil bill was pocketed by President Cleveland most of the important Government appropriations in Illinois for the next fiscal year fell to the ground, and if Congress should fail to pass a new bill before the 1st of July some people now in the employ of the Government will have to go out of business or take their compensation on tick.

This big appropriation bill is the catch-all for things not regularly included under the departments, and it provides the money for an infinite variety of things which have no apparent relation to each other. President McKinley himself would be personally affected, for one of the items vetoed by his predecessor is that which provides for heating and lighting the executive mansion and its grounds, and it is to be presumed the family of the new President will not care to go to bed in the dark after the 1st of July. Col. Bill Morrison of the Interstate Commerce Commission would find himself without a salary, and the Government would be unable to print any more greenbacks if a new law were not enacted.

The appropriation in which Chicago is most interested is that of $113,000 for the improvement of the river. More important than the amount of the money itself is the paragraph which was inserted in the Senate, and only accepted by the House after a hard fight, construing the item in the river and harbor bill so that the money to be expended on the Chicago river can be paid for other work than dredging, as is now held to be the law.

All of the river and harbor items fail, and among the number are $1,000,000 for the Hennepin canal, $673,333 for the improvement of the Mississippi from the mouth of the Ohio to the mouth of the Missouri, and $826,666 from the Missouri to St. Paul, in both of which Illinois is deeply interested. Rock Island would suffer severely because items of $12,500 for the bridge and $48,000 for the arsenal are involved.

The Chicago public building is not affected, because, under the original appropriation contracts may be entered into, and there is money enough to keep up the construction until the regular session.

Unless a new law is enacted there will be no money to pay the keepers of the lighthouses or the life-saving stations at Chicago and Evanston or elsewhere on the lakes. The appropriation of $200,000 for the completion of the two new revenue cutters has also gone by the board. There is now no provision for paying the rental of the Government offices in the Rand-McNally building after July 1, although the annual rental is $19,345. Wash Hesing would find things uncomfortable at the postoffice if Congress did not step in to help him, because the appropriation for fuel, lights and water for public buildings concerns the temporary structure on the lake front, and it has failed with the other items. The Federal Court in Chicago will be without money after July 1, and the marshal, district attorney, commissioners, clerks and their subordinates will become the creditors of the Government unless Uncle Joe Cannon starts the ball rolling once more and pushes through another appropriation bill sufficiently free from jobs to secure the approval of the President.

The new soldiers' home at Danville, for which $200,000 was appropriated in the House and the amount cut down to $150,000 in the Senate, also went by the board.

One of the important items which failed to be enacted into law was the appropriation of $150,000 for making the preliminary surveys looking toward the creation of a deep waterway from Chicago and Duluth to the Atlantic seaboard, as recommended by the commission of which Engineer Cooley was the expert member. The work of improving the channels of the great lakes from Chicago to Buffalo is now in progress, and to continue this the sum of $1,000,000 was provided by the bill which failed to become a law.

Such of these items as are deserving will, of course, be included in the new appropriation bill, and there is not much ground to fear that the Government employes will not get their money.

There is, however, a much more pressing urgency in regard to the appropriations carried by the deficiency bill. This measure was hung up in conference. President Cleveland did not veto this measure, but undoubtedly would have done so if it had been presented to him. It carries among other things a lump appropriation, $1,200,000, which is a deficiency in the amount previously provided for collecting the customs revenues. If immediate action is not taken every employe of the custom house in Chicago will find his salary withheld after April 1 until July 1, for the treasury has no money to pay ordinary customs expenses after that time.

There is no doubt that speedy action will be taken to re-enact all the appropriation bills which failed to become laws. For instance, the agricultural bill, which President Cleveland pocketed because of its seed appropriations, which he has always refused to approve of, carries with it the salary of the secretary of the department, and, of course, "Tama Jim" Wilson of Iowa would hardly care to keep up his end in Washington social life without his expected stipend of $8,000 per annum.

President McKinley is particularly anxious that the passage of the belated appropriation bills shall not interfere with the tariff measure which he hopes to have enacted into law at an early date.

The new annex to the Culver Military Academy is completed and is ready for occupancy. Mr. D. G. Walter, of this place, had the contract for the wood work, and it has been most satisfactorily carried out. The mechanical part has been perfected in so substantial a manner that it will not need repairs for a long time to come. The building is up-to-date in its appointments, being lighted by electricity and provided with baths, etc. The dormitories are as convenient as the most fastidious could wish. The school rooms are spacious, well lighted and ventilated and are every way calculated to meet the demands of a modern school room. The substantial manner in which the work has been done is noticeable when contrasted with the main building. The building is heated by steam and is fire proof. The management is to be congratulated for their added facilities for the accommodation of its numerous patrons.

Under the direct supervision of Col. Fleet, and a personnel of excellent instructors, this school has been wonderfully improved the past year. Every department is conducted upon a principle of discipline, that will have a lasting effect upon the characters and lives of the cadets in attendance, which will ultimately fit them for lives of usefulness, not only to themselves, but as a factor to better the condition of society in general. The military department is presided over by men of experience, and no school has better facilities for training in this line. The large and spacious gymnasium is fitted up with everything calculated for use in such an institution. Col. Fleet, the head of the school has had years of experience in schools of this character and is preeminently fitted for the place. He is a man of commanding appearance, yet gentle and affable, mingled with wonderful force of character which commands respect from all who approach him. Without doubt this school will go on and on until its greatness will be heralded from ocean to ocean.

DANGERS OF THE GRIP.

The greatest danger from La Grippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe, we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia, which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventative of that dread disease. It will effect a permanent cure in less time than any other treatment. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale at Culver City Drug Store.

GEN. GRANT'S BREAKFAST.

Fought All Day on a Cup of Coffee and a Dish of Cucumbers.

In the December Century Gen. Horace Porter says of the entrance of Grant's army into the Wilderness: After the officers at headquarters had obtained what sleep they could get, they arose about daylight, feeling that in all probability they would witness before night either a fight or a foot race—a fight if the armies encountered each other, a foot race to secure good positions if the armies remained apart.

Gen. Meade had started south at dawn, moving along the Germania road. Gen. Grant intended to remain in his present camp till Burnside arrived, in order to give him some directions in person regarding his movements. The general sat down to the breakfast table after nearly all the staff officers had finished their morning meal. While he was slowly sipping his coffee a young newspaper reporter, whose appetite, combined with his spirit of enterprise, had gained a substantial victory over his modesty, slipped up to the table, took a seat at the farther end, and remarked: "Well, I wouldn't mind taking a cup of something warm myself, if there's no objection." Thereupon seizing a coffee pot he poured out a full ration of that soothing beverage, and, after helping himself to some of the other dishes, proceeded to eat breakfast with an appetite which had evidently been stimulated by long hours of fasting. The general paid no more attention to this occurrence than he would have paid to the flight of a bird across his path. He scarcely looked at the intruder, did not utter a word at the time, and made no mention of it afterward. It was a fair example of the imperturbability of his nature as to trivial matters taking place about him. The following is an incident of the next morning: The members of the headquarters mess soon after assembled to partake of a nasty breakfast. The general made rather a singular meal preparatory to so exhausting a day as that which was to follow. He took a cucumber, sliced it, poured some vinegar over it, and partook of nothing else except a cup of strong coffee. The first thing he did after rising from the table was to call for a fresh supply of cigars. His colored servant "Bill" brought him two dozen. After lighting one of them, he filled his pockets with the rest. He then went over to the knoll, and began to walk back and forth slowly upon the cleared portion of the ridge.

The Craze for Tweeds Revived.

The attention of all fashionable Londoners is now directed to the conspicuous revival of the craze for tweeds. Those of the present season are of fine texture and cost a handy sum. Canvas materials, too, of the thickest and coarsest qualities are putting in appearance, most of them displaying at least two colors, violet, dark blue and green making favorite combinations. The short, loose black coat is trying valiantly to make its appearance, but most of the tailor suits still adhere to the close, tight styles, the skirts growing narrower, and the coats being cut in the style of a man's morning coat. For street and out-of-door sport the Norfolk jacket is being seen frequently, but this is a trying fashion. A gown was recently seen at a Scotch country house, which combined the rare attractions of a tea gown and a dinner gown. It was made of black mousseline de soie, striped with narrow lines of fine jet, and falling from a square yoke of fine lace, with tight sleeves of the same, surmounted by double frills of kilt-plaited mousseline. This was always worn with the hair arranged in the latest French fashion, which consists of a waved fringe in front and waved hair at the back of the neck, with a small tignon knob on the extreme top of the head. Another attractive evening dress seen at the same country house had a moire silk skirt, shot with green and blue, completed with a pale green chiffon bodice high in the neck and formed entirely of tucks running crosswise. This has a yoke hanging in points to the waist of cream-color lace, studded with heads and jewels matching the three colors of the skirt.

Jules Verne.

Except when he brings out one of his marvelous books we hear little of M. Jules Verne, but the fact is that he is leading a very quiet life at Amiens. Although 68 years of age and wearing the appearance of a retired general, he is full of energy and as hard working as of yore. He is now busy in the execution of his plan for publishing a series of stories bearing on different countries. Before beginning a particular work M. Jules Verne reads up a number of geographical, historical and other books treating of that part of the world, and as he goes on the plot gradually germinates in his mind. He is indeed an active and laborious toiler. He rises regularly at 4 o'clock in the morning, and writes steadily until noon. He retires to rest at 8, except on two evenings in the week, when he accompanies his wife to the Grand theater dining before at a restaurant.

Completed.

The new annex to the Culver Military Academy is completed and is ready for occupancy. Mr. D. G. Walter, of this place, had the contract for the wood work, and it has been most satisfactorily carried out. The mechanical part has been perfected in so substantial a manner that it will not need repairs for a long time to come. The building is up-to-date in its appointments, being lighted by electricity and provided with baths, etc. The dormitories are as convenient as the most fastidious could wish. The school rooms are spacious, well lighted and ventilated and are every way calculated to meet the demands of a modern school room. The substantial manner in which the work has been done is noticeable when contrasted with the main building. The building is heated by steam and is fire proof. The management is to be congratulated for their added facilities for the accommodation of its numerous patrons.

Under the direct supervision of Col. Fleet, and a personnel of excellent instructors, this school has been wonderfully improved the past year. Every department is conducted upon a principle of discipline, that will have a lasting effect upon the characters and lives of the cadets in attendance, which will ultimately fit them for lives of usefulness, not only to themselves, but as a factor to better the condition of society in general. The military department is presided over by men of experience, and no school has better facilities for training in this line. The large and spacious gymnasium is fitted up with everything calculated for use in such an institution. Col. Fleet, the head of the school has had years of experience in schools of this character and is preeminently fitted for the place. He is a man of commanding appearance, yet gentle and affable, mingled with wonderful force of character which commands respect from all who approach him. Without doubt this school will go on and on until its greatness will be heralded from ocean to ocean.

GEN. GRANT'S BREAKFAST.

Fought All Day on a Cup of Coffee and a Dish of Cucumbers.

In the December Century Gen. Horace Porter says of the entrance of Grant's army into the Wilderness: After the officers at headquarters had obtained what sleep they could get, they arose about daylight, feeling that in all probability they would witness before night either a fight or a foot race—a fight if the armies encountered each other, a foot race to secure good positions if the armies remained apart.

Gen. Meade had started south at dawn, moving along the Germania road. Gen. Grant intended to remain in his present camp till Burnside arrived, in order to give him some directions in person regarding his movements. The general sat down to the breakfast table after nearly all the staff officers had finished their morning meal. While he was slowly sipping his coffee a young newspaper reporter, whose appetite, combined with his spirit of enterprise, had gained a substantial victory over his modesty, slipped up to the table, took a seat at the farther end, and remarked: "Well, I wouldn't mind taking a cup of something warm myself, if there's no objection." Thereupon seizing a coffee pot he poured out a full ration of that soothing beverage, and, after helping himself to some of the other dishes, proceeded to eat breakfast with an appetite which had evidently been stimulated by long hours of fasting. The general paid no more attention to this occurrence than he would have paid to the flight of a bird across his path. He scarcely looked at the intruder, did not utter a word at the time, and made no mention of it afterward. It was a fair example of the imperturbability of his nature as to trivial matters taking place about him. The following is an incident of the next morning: The members of the headquarters mess soon after assembled to partake of a nasty breakfast. The general made rather a singular meal preparatory to so exhausting a day as that which was to follow. He took a cucumber, sliced it, poured some vinegar over it, and partook of nothing else except a cup of strong coffee. The first thing he did after rising from the table was to call for a fresh supply of cigars. His colored servant "Bill" brought him two dozen. After lighting one of them, he filled his pockets with the rest. He then went over to the knoll, and began to walk back and forth slowly upon the cleared portion of the ridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter very pleasantly entertained a company of friends at their home Friday evening. Progressive pedro was the amusement of the evening. Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Lord were even, having the greatest number of games, and in drawing cuts to decide the winner, Mrs. Lord proved the fortunate one. Mrs. Slattery, Mrs. Postlethwaite and Mrs. Meredith had the least number, and on drawing cuts Mrs. Slattery carried off the prize. We are sorry to say Mrs. Slattery has been bawling ever since. Messrs. Carl, Slattery and Osborn were a tie for the gentleman's first prize, and in cutting the cards Mr. Carl won. Fred does nothing but crow now. Attempted Suicide.

Sunday afternoon the neighborhood about 3 miles south-east of Twin Lake in the north-east part of Union township, were startled and surprised to learn that Thomas Thornburg, an old gentleman of about 65 years of age, had attempted to commit suicide. The old man has for some time past been making his home with his son-in-law, Wilson Wenino, who lives on the farm formerly owned by Mr. Thornburg.

Sunday morning, Mr. Wenino and wife, prepared to go to church and upon requesting Mr. Thornburg to go with them, he replied in the negative, saying he would rather remain at home as the roads were so extremely rough. Seeing nothing unusual in this or his manners, Mr. and Mrs. Wenino left him at home. Upon their return they were surprised to find the house cold, the fire having about gone out. They supposed Mr. Thornburg had gone out on the farm but found that his coat and shoes were still in the house. Mr. Wenino found a note on a small piece of paper, saying if they wished to find him they could do so by looking in the barn. Mr. Wenino repaired to the barn and found Thornburg lying on some straw in the stable, his throat cut from one side to the other and evidence of a great amount of blood having flowed from the wound. Supposing him to be dead Mr. Wenino called in the assistance of his neighbors Messrs. Lidecker and Sarber, who assisted in arousing the wounded man out of his stupor and helping him in the house. He was very weak, but by assistance he was able to walk to the house. On examining the wound it was found the deed was committed with a razor, and that the wind-pipe was cut and his breathing was through the aperture cut in the trachea, instead of his nostrils. He was unable to talk and only answered questions by signs. The motive of the deed is not clear, but the presumption is that it is because of domestic troubles, having parted with his wife not long ago. This is the second time he has attempted suicide, having on a former occasion shot himself in the forehead but the bullet failed to penetrate the skull.

At last accounts he was still alive with little hopes of recovery.

Rates via the Nickel Plate Road are lower than via other lines. [6] 39

The meeting of the Epworth League on the evening of March 3rd, closed a series of entertainments, the plan of which was an imaginary tour of the league and its friends through the southern and eastern states. After spending a pleasant hour at the church, all present were invited to repair to the parsonage where, in event of the supposed return of the travelers, Mrs. Howard gave them a very pleasant reception. After being entertained for a few hours by the genial host and hostess the party returned to their home each feeling that these meetings had been the means by which he had learned some new and interesting feature of this glorious country of ours.

A Letter From North Dakota.
GRAND HARBOR, N. D.,
 March 2, 1897.
MR. EDITOR,
 Marmont, Ind.

DEAR SIR: I arrived safe in Grand Harbor on the 19th of February and found the people in good health and everything all right. We have had two feet of snow since my arrival home, and it has been very cold, the thermometer registering 40 degrees below zero. Farmers are cleaning seed wheat and waiting patiently for the snow to leave, and as soon as the soil is in proper condition seeding will begin. There will be a large acreage seeded this year and everybody feels sure of a good crop, as there will be plenty of moisture in the ground in the spring.

Yours respectfully,
ABE STOTTS.

The Facts in the Case.

A careful perusal of the Map of Wisconsin will convince you that the WISCONSIN CENTRAL LINES running from Chicago and Milwaukee to St. Paul, Minneapolis, Ashland, Hurley, Ironwood, Bessemer, and Duluth, touch a greater number of important cities than any line running through Wisconsin. Spectacles.

One of the great drawing cards at Klopfer's New York Store, Plymouth, is his fine line of gold-plated spectacles. These glasses are of the very finest make in the land and warranted. They can be purchased for one dollar. Do not fail to call and see them if you are in need of glasses.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates a diseased condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effect following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists; price fifty cents and one dollar. For a sample bottle and pamphlet, both sent free by mail, mention CULVER CITY HERALD and send your full postoffice address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The proprietor of this paper guarantees the genuineness of this offer.

Fishing is good and many large fish are being caught. They are not all bass, but a great many are suckers, and two-legged ones at that. There are some people who cannot be caught by a cold, because they use Dr. Agnew's celebrated Cold Capsules that cure the worst cold in head in one day. They sell for 15c. a box at the Culver City Drug Store.
