GLORIOUS AND RENOWNED

Were the Closing Exercises at the Culver Military Academy.

Over 100 Distinguished Persons From Abroad Witnessed the 6 and Panorama of Events During the Six Days.

On Saturday the 5th inst., occurred the commencement of the greatest events ever chronicled in the history of Marshall county, viz., the closing exercises of the Culver Military Academy. It has called together men of distinction from all over this broad land, and the performance of the cadets has elicited the admiration of some of the distinguished military men of the U. S. A., which bespeaks volumes in praise of the skill of Commandant L. R. Gignilliat, as a teacher of military tactics. The events of the last week have certainly marked a great epoch in the career of the Academy, as it is evidence of a greater future. It is gratifying to us to hear the remarks made by men of note upon the beauties of Lake Maxenuckee and its surroundings, and the positive assertions that Culver Military Academy will yet rank second to no other similar institution in this country. It is universally acknowledged to the Herald reporter who interviewed many distinguished guests from abroad, that the environments of the academy for natural beauty of scenery surpasses anything in the line of nature they ever saw, and that the lake is the most charming body of water they ever gazed upon. Only one thing occurred to sadden the proceedings, and that was the absence of the founder of this glorious institution, Hon. H. B. Culver, who was absent owing to illness, but the knowledge that nothing was left undone by Cul. Fleet, to make it the great success it was, will be a balm to his soul, and convince him that all the great sacrifices he has made has not been in vain.

The battalion of cadets went into camp of instruction Friday, June 6th, to remain until the end of the final exercises. The camp is named "Camp Mount" in honor of the Governor. The final exercises of the Academy began Saturday morning with Guard Mounting at 8:30, followed at 9:30 by General Inspection of 1000 men. Three Practice Drills and a Cavalry Drill at 11:00 Cavalry Drill, to be followed in the afternoon at 4:00 Drills Parade and at 7:00 in the evening Drills Parade and 7:00 the contest for Beckham's Medal which had been announced for Saturday evening, was postponed until Monday. On Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock, the Baccalaureate Service was held in the First Methodist Church of D. C. Hulse, of the Cemetery M. E. Church, Chicago. Dr. Bustz took his text from St. Mark 5, 44, "And whosoever of you will be chief shall be servant of all." In the evening at 8:00 o'clock, he again addressed the cadets and their friends. The gymnasium was highly decorated for the occasion with flags and banners.

A Brief Synopsis of That Baccalaureate Service.

The Baccalaureate sermon of the Culver Military Academy was delivered last Saturday by the Rev. Dr. A. C. Hirst of Chicago. His theme was "The New Christianity" founded on the text, "And whatsoever ye will be the chief, shall be servant of all." —Mark 10—44.

A large and most appreciative and attentive audience greeted the preacher. He introduced his subject with two vivid word pictures, the one of a beautiful day in California, the other of a day at the galley of Napoleon and Josephine. The pictures were to show the fading power and grandeur of human greatness and worldly honors. Then by a quick and intense transition of thought, the speaker introduced his hearers to the world's greatest teacher, Christ, who gave to humanity, through his disciples, the elements of true greatness of character and life in the splendid teachings of the text. He gave them the best thing he knew in the best way he could, that the law of service was the law of a true life and noble character. Christ, the peerless teacher, set his truths like a sword thrust into the heart of society's wrongs and injustice. He instituted a new order of nobility among men. And it has taken nearly nineteen hundred years for the world to see the exalting truth of the text and to give it the full sway of its real meaning.

According to the world's standard of greatness, the great man was the one who wielded power, commanded wealth, seized glowing honors, not so, with this sublime philosophy of life. He is only great, who gives his sympathy, helpfulness and love, to be copied into daily use and service. This is the most revolutionary doctrine that was ever uttered; it will, under its full sway, revolutionize society, our homes, our schools, our trade, our commerce, yes, the whole world, for it is the index finger of glorious promise, pointing to the era of universal brotherhood, when prejudice shall be conquered by reason, when the arrow, mean spirit of selfishness shall be driven from the world, by the exalting spirit of sympathy and loving service. This will realize the vision of the poet, "In the federation of the world."

It is impossible to give a full synopsis of this sermon of Dr. Hirst or even a correct view of the profound impression it produced upon the audience that listened in rapt attention. He enforced the truth of the text, by logic, keen and incisive, by philosophy clear and convincing, and by illustrations, most apt and tender, frequently bringing tears to many eyes. He finished his eloquent oration with the beautiful poem entitled, "A step of the Stein."

The teachers and cadets of the Culver Military Academy and their friends who were present, will ever remember last Sunday and the preacher of the day.

Charged With Abortion.

Thomas O'Donnell, Jr., and Drs. Vietz and Lindquist were arrested yesterday charged with an abortion. Mrs. Kate Scherer. They were taken before Justice Reeves, and Agent, Prosecutor, L. A. appeared for State, assisted by C. P. Draymond. Messrs. Samuel Parker, Martindale & Stevens and Charles Kohlman appeared for the defendant. The condition of Miss Scherer was such that she could not appear and the preliminary examination was by agreement of attorneys postponed until June 21. The bonds of the defendants were placed at $1000 each and they went to jail until bailment can be secured. Dr. Lindquist gave bond and was released on a promise.

The charge is a serious one. O'Donnell and Miss Scherer have been keeping company for years and it is said he seduced her under pretense of marriage. Miss Scherer makes her home at the residence of Peter J. Krueger and it is charged that the defendants committed the crime Monday evening, while Mr. Krueger was attending the festival at St. Michael's church. Miss Scherer's condition is quite serious, but she was somewhat improved yesterday and will probably recover.—Plymouth Republican.

Horse Thief Caught.

Marshall Myers, of Plymouth, passed through Culver Monday, upon his way to Marion, Ind., where he took charge of a horse-thief and returned to Plymouth and lodged him in jail. It seems that sometime ago, a young man by the name of Faulkner, whose home is at Marion, engaged to work for John Kline, who lives upon the east side of Lake Maxenuckee, a certain length of time for a horse, signing a written contract. After working a short time the young fellow must have conceived the idea that the animal belonged to him in reality for Thursday, June 5, he took the horse and skipped for his home at Marion. It is a clear case against him and unless a settlement is effected the fellow will go to the pen for a term of years, where he can reflect upon the adage, that "honesty is the best policy."

An Excursion.

To day, Friday, there will be an excursion from Ft. Wayne to Culver. The livery men will bring the excursionists from Buer Oak, via wagons. What a burlesque upon the great Nickel Plate road. What a disgrace to our citizens, who, if they worked for it and insisted upon it, could in the very near future have a spur from said road running into Culver. The Nickel Plate is a dandy and its officials are hustlers, and why they don't see the necessity of connecting this place with their road is a mystery. That the Nickel Plate could carry thousands of citizens from Chicago, Ft. Wayne and other cities and towns along the line every season is a foregone conclusion. Even Lake Maxenuckee, is like-need unto a frogpond and the purest fountain, is to have connection with an east and west line from Chiago. Why do we sleep and let these inferior places secure the "goose" that lays the golden egg?

Mrs. Mary Smith, who lives near Burr Oak, left at this office to dry a magnificent lot of strawberries, all very large and clean, and of an excellent variety. We understand she raises strawberries extensively, and judging from those she brought to this office she understands her business.

Rev. Barber made friends in Payne, Ohio, a short visit this week.

Plans are being drawn for a riding hall and gymnasium at Culver Park which will be for winter use at the academy. It is to be positively the best of its kind in the world. On one side will be stalls for at least 50 horses.

One of the picturesque sights at the closing ball at the Academy was the stacking of arms in a circle around the great tabernacle hall, with beautiful white and blue streamers stretched from each stack, which was greatly embellished by a panorama of beautiful ladies and uniformed cadets dancing within the circle, the music being furnished by a celebrated orchestra from Logansport.

Last Monday, Albert Overmyer and Thomas Medbourn, his attorney, appeared before Justice Oliver Morris, and Samuel Ulery, Deputy Prosecutor, and filed affidavit that said Overmyer did provoke Isaac Reed in Nov. 1896, whereupon Justice Morris fined him $1, and costs, amounting to $100, which was paid. The peculiarity of the case is this: Said Reed was arrested by Overmyer in Nov. 1896, for assault and battery, and was fined. Said Reed took an appeal to the higher courts, which reversed the decision; whereupon said Reed ordered the arrest of Overmyer for provoke. Overmyer, learning of this, went to Justice Morris' court, pled guilty, and paid his fine like a man. This is a model for all who come under the law. Go and do likewise.

Still Waters.

Here, dreamily, with soft deceits,
The pool repeats
A summer sky; bright clouds that pass
On this brown glass.

Hero inaged is the phantom moon
Of afternoon
And a swift bird that dips its wing,
Home hastening.

Soon, yonder, where the path is laid
In hush of shade,
A glimmering gown, a dusky tress.
My sight will bless;
I'll lean above an olive cheek,
So cool and slick,
And eyes where veiled reflections shine
Of love in mine.

Little Heroine-Cat.

BY LEANDER S. KEYSER.

They were "thrashing" over at Neighbor Shanewalter's that afternoon. The Shanewalters lived only half a mile from the Bensons as the crow or the bee flies; but around by the road, as men walk or ride, it was more than three-quarters of a mile.

As Katie Benson stood on the portico, looking across the intervening valley along the crow-and-bee line, she could see the straw-carrier of the thrashing machine pointing obliquely upward out of the back door of the barn, while the straw floated in ragged-edge clouds of yellow from its upper end and then dropped airily upon the great round stack where three or four men were laboriously trudging about to trample down the straw.

Now and then a cloud of dust and chaff would pour out of the door, driven by the fresh breeze, and completely enveloped the workmen on the stack. At intervals the hum of the machine would reach Katie's ears. One of the men was her father—he was building the stack—and she wished that she was over there herself, jumping about on the springy straw.

But it was Katie's duty to stay at home that afternoon with her sister Liza, two years older than she, and Neddie, the "baby" of the family, 4 years of age. Shortly after dinner Mrs. Benson had said:

"Now, girls, I must go over and help Mrs. Shanewalter to cook supper for the thrashing hands. Stay close to the house all the afternoon. Don't go away for anything. And take good care of Neddie."

"Yes, of course, you can play anywhere about the house."

"And mayn't we haul Neddie in his little wagon out in the road?" persisted Liza. "You promise not to go more than a few rods from the gate."

"Oh, we promise, don't we, Katie?"

Katie nodded her promise readily enough, but there was a strained expression on her pale little face as if she were trying to suppress some agitating emotion.

"What's the matter, Katie?" her mother queried. "You're not afraid to stay with Liza and Neddie, are you?"

A little red rose-bud suddenly blossomed out on each of Katie's pale cheeks and her eyes scrutinized a crevice in the floor into which she was trying to thrust her bare little toes.

"No—I guess not—just a little," she stammered, in a self-contradictory way.

"You needn't be afraid at all, Katie," said Mrs. Benson, putting all the assurance she could into her tones. "There isn't anything to harm you."

"Oh, Katie's such a 'fraidy-cat,'" scoffed Liza. "She'd be scared at a mouse's shadow, so she would, if she was alone. The other day she saw a little snake in the yard, two rods away from her, and what do you think she did? She just stood in her tracks and screamed as loud as ever she could, till I got a stick an' killed the snake. Pooh! It wouldn't have hurt her."

"I can't help being afraid of things," Katie sobbed.

"What's the use to be afraid!" boasted Liza. "I'm not at all afraid of anything. I wouldn't be such a 'fraidy-cat as Katie is! I'd have more spunk!"

Liza's lofty way of putting her own heroism in contrast with Katie's timidity stung her little sister to the quick, bringing hot tears to her eyes. She knew she was a "'fraidy-cat," and that was just what made her sensitive to her sister's jibes.

For awhile after her mother had gone, Katie could not revive her courage. She stood on the portico, and gazed longingly across the valley at the thrashers. Every sound about the house and barn startled her, and she had visions of tramps and robbers galore, if not of wild and savage beasts pouncing down upon the unprotected children left alone in charge of the large, rambling farm-house. Liza guyed her for awhile, making her weep still more.

But presently a game of hide-and-seek in the large, bushy yard drove all the little "'fraidy-cat's" fears out of her mind. A jolly afternoon they were spending, sometimes putting Neddie into his small wagon and pulling him back and forth along the road in front of the house. The wagon was an old-fashioned, home-made one, with a rough box and pole and heavy little wheels hewn out of a thick board; but it was strong and serviceable, and no doubt pleased the children fully as well as the trig express-wagons of today please our own boys and girls.

At about half-past three they were playing with the wagon in the road. Katie began to feel a little tired with her vigorous romping, and presently she said to Liza:

"I'm going to sit on our post and rest awhile."

She opened the gate and stepped into the yard, and then followed a little path winding through a thick clump of rose bushes and berry stalks to one corner of the yard, where a couple of steps enabled her to climb to the top of a large fence-post. This was a favorite perch for the children when wearied with their play. The tall, sharp pickets prevented their climbing down on the outside into the road, but made a convenient support for a tired back. Perched on top of the post, Katie watched Liza and Neddie playing in the road, her cheery laugh often ringing out at the roly poly little fellow's comical looks and conduct.

But suddenly there seemed to be a change in all their surroundings. A strange obscurity was falling over the landscape, wrapping everything in gloom.

"Oh! oh!" cried Liza, "it's getting dark!"

Such really seemed to be the case. A kind of flickering twilight enveloped the earth, filling the children's hearts with dismay. The chickens began to fly up into the trees, intending to go to roost, as if they thought the evening had come. Brindle and Spot, the two gentle milk-cows standing at the bars of their pasture-field, began to low.

"Look, look at the sun!" screamed Liza, growing pale with terror.

Sure enough, the sun had turned almost red, and—oh! oh!—a huge black sphere was slowly creeping over its disk and blotting out its light.

The children had often read and talked about the end of the world and the Judgment Day, and such thoughts had always filled them with awe and terror.

"The world's coming to an end! The world's—coming—to an end!" cried Liza. "Oh! oh! o-o-h! Come, come, Katie, let's run over to Shanewalter's and find papa and mamma."

Panic-stricken, Liza seized the pole of the wagon, in the box of which sat Neddie too much frightened to cry, and then she ran, as fast as her nimble feet could carry her, down the road in the direction of the neighboring farm. She did not wait for her little sister perched on the fence-post.

Katie was almost paralyzed with fright as the darkness gathered about her. She could dimly see Liza and Neddie and the wagon speeding down the slope, but the high palings, sharpened at the top, made it impossible for her to climb over into the road. By the time she had clambered from her perch into the yard, and had shouldered her way through the bushes, her brave little sister was scampering far away.

Her first impulse was to dash out of the gate and follow; but, with all her cowardice, Katie was an obedient child, and even in her intense agitation she remembered that her mother had bidden her and Liza in no case to leave the house.

How she wished she were a brave girl—brave and fearless like Liza, and not such a "fraidy-cat!" Still, she would do as her mother had bidden her, and if the great Judge came, he would find her at her post, as the preacher had said last Sunday in his sermon. This resolve infused new courage into her palpitating heart, and slipping back from the gate, she found a cosy hiding-place among the bushes, where she sat and tremblingly kept watch in the shadows. She lisped a prayer to God to make her brave and forgive all her wrong-doings.

"I believe its getting lighter," she whispered to herself a few moments later.

Looking up, she saw that the shadow on the sun was gradually moving across it, exposing a part of its red disk. A few more moments of breathless waiting, and then the twilight was succeeded by sunlight almost as radiant as it had been before the eclipse came. For, of course, it was only an eclipse of the sun, although Katie did not know at the time what the strange phenomenon meant.

"Maybe it wasn't the Judgment Day, for all," she thought. "Well, if 'twasn't, I'm glad I stayed at home, any way, and didn't run away from the house. I'm glad I obeyed mamma."

The chickens began to crane their necks in wonder, and, finding that daylight had come again, they flew down to the ground, and resumed their picking and scratching. Katie was bravely recovering from her fright, when she saw something that almost made her pulse stop beating. A rough-looking man in seedy clothing came stealthily through the front gate, and looking suspiciously this way and that, walked along the path to the front door. Through the aperture in the screening bushes Katie saw him glance around narrowly, then turn the door-knob, and slip into the house, closing the door quietly behind him.

For the timid girl this was the climax. What in the world should she do? The man was, no doubt, a robber. He might steal something valuable from the house—one of the best suits in the closet, her mother's silver spoons just bought a week ago or her father's gold watch, which she had heard him say he would leave at home lest it might be broken at the rough work of the afternoon.

Should she run over to neighbor Shanewalter's and give the alarm? Before she could do that, she reflected, the thief would have ransacked the house. Couldn't she—her pulses beat quickly at the thought—in some way prevent him from carrying out his thieving purpose? It frightened her half to death to think of it; and yet if she could not foil him in some way, no one else could. Everything depended on her coolness and courage. She knew that.

She half started to her feet; then dropped behind the bushes again, the prey of the most terrible panic, her heart leaping into her throat. But presently she rallied her courage, for great heroic resolve had taken possession of her frail frame. She would be a "fraidy-cat" no longer. She would prove herself a heroine. Now was her chance.

On her hands and knees she crept along the edge of the bushes, keeping herself well screened, until she reached the kitchen door. Slipping through it, she stood still and listened breathlessly, but could hear no sound. Evidently the robber was in a distant part of the house.

With trembling hands she pushed open the door leading into the sitting-room, and then stood still again, listening intently. A moment later she almost screamed out with terror, for she could hear the muffled sound of a脚步声 in the next room, which was the spare bedroom, and then the creak of an opening drawer reached her ear.

"He's getting at the bureau," she thought. "Papa's watch is in one of the drawers, I think. The robber mustn't find it; I'll not let him!" she added, a wave of heroism sweeping through her bosom.

She hesitated no longer. Her whole being was mastered by one supreme purpose—to save her father's gold watch. Swiftly and noiselessly she glided into the hallway, on the wall of which hung her father's shot-gun on two stout wooden hooks. She knew that it was loaded. Under the circumstances she felt justified in touching it, although she had never dared to touch it before. She sprang upon a chair standing beneath the weapon, whose muzzle pointed directly over the top of the door of the room in which burglar was plying his business.

Yes, she could reach the gun. It took but a moment to cock the hammer, as she had often seen her father do; then, bracing her nerves by a supreme mental effort, she placed her slender forefinger against the trigger, closed her eyes, and pressed with all her might. There followed a deafening explosion and a blinding flash, and the load of shot was buried in the opposite wall. The concussion almost stunned the girl, but she had self-possession enough to spring from the chair and dodge into a dark corner for safety, should the robber come into the hall.

A moment of silence ensued, and then she heard a few heavy footfalls in the next room, followed by a loud crash of broken glass, and she knew that the terror-stricken robber had leaped through the window and made his escape. Her plan, which had been simply to frighten him away, had succeeded, and her heart bounded with exultation.

Through one of the windows she saw the bold robber scampering across the meadow toward a tract of woods. Then she rushed out of the front door and dived in among the bushes, where she lay trembling with excitement and fright for half an hour. Then her father, mother, Liza and little Neddie returned, her parents having become uneasy about her.

"Oh, papa! mamma!" she cried, laughing and crying hysterically, as she sprang from her hiding-place, "I scared him away! I scared him away!"

"What do you mean, Katie?" they asked in surprise.

"I scared the robber away;" and she quickly sketched her adventure.

Her father hastened into the house, and examined the dismantled bureaus.

"You dear, brave girl!" he said, pressing her to his bosom; "you frightened the rascal away just in time. He had almost found the watch. See, it was under the pile of clothes that he was tumbling aside when you scared him by firing off the old gun. You're a genuine heroine, Katie."

Her mother, too, had to kiss and hug her.

"And nobody'll call me 'fraidy-cat' any more, will they?" she asked demurely.

"No, indeed," declared her father, his face beaming with smiles. "You're a soldier—as brave a soldier as ever fought on a battlefield; and, more than that, you know how to obey orders when—when other people run from the post of duty."

As he spoke he looked slyly at Liza.

SMEDLEY IS THE VICTOR.

Wins the Chicago Road Race of the Associated Cycling Clubs.

William D. Smedley, picked by the experts as the slowest rider among 498 contestants in the eleventh Chicago road race, won with a mile of daylight between him and his closest pursuer. Time, 1:07:04 2-5. He ran so far in advance of the flying host that he robbed even the second and third men of much of their honors. Henry O'Brien captured the time prize, his figure being 1:03:08. He broke the record for the Wheeling course, which is a fraction under twenty-five miles. Smedley is 51 years old. His training has been going on for only two weeks. He worked so hard during the race that he was dead—physically—at the end, and had barely enough breath left to tell the jam which brought him congratulations to carry the good news to his wife.

There have been eleven Chicago road races. They have all been well contested, and some of them have produced wonderful performances. The race grew out of a hare and hound chase on the old style high, or ordinary, wheels back in 1886. That was on Thanksgiving Day, however, instead of Memorial Day, which has been the date of the race every year since. In the next year, 1887, cycling interest in Chicago grew marvelously. There were several fellows in the hare and hound chase of the year before who had speed ambitions. They came together early in the spring and talked about a repetition of the chase, but decided that a genuine road race would be better sport. The first Pullman road race, as the event was then called, was the result. It was run on Memorial Day over the Pullman course every year after 1889. Then it was transferred to the North Side and changed in name to the Chicago road race.

It almost invariably happens that the rider who wins the race is an unknown. He is usually some fleet fellow whose speed is underrated by the handicapper and who has the luck in not being thrown in any of the many collisions that occur along the course. With the winner of the time prize, however, it is different. He is usually a rider of experience whose speed is known and has often been proved.

EARTH IN A QUAKE.

Slight but Distinct Shock Causes Alarm in Many States.

A distinct but slight earthquake was experienced Monday throughout the South Atlantic and Middle Southern States. It is stated at the Weather Bureau at Washington that the direction of the wave was from south to north, but reports received from various sections are conflicting. Savannah, Ga., was the furthest point south at which the tremor was felt, while the northern boundary of the wave was middle Maryland. West it was felt as far as Knoxville, Tenn. The disturbance seems to have been most severe in the Appalachian Mountain region.

The shock was felt in Cincinnati and suburbs. The printers ran out of the Times-Star office. Occupants of other buildings were alarmed and at Coney Island, Chester Park, the Zoological Gardens and elsewhere there was consternation among the holiday crowds. At the lagoon on the Kentucky side there was a panic among several thousand people on the grounds. The waters in the lagoon were so rough that the life-saving crew went to the relief of those out in the electric pleasure boats. At Knoxville, Tenn., two distinct shocks were felt. Several large buildings were badly shaken and two chimneys fell. In Charleston, W. Va., the earthquake was felt all over the city. In many buildings the furniture was moved by the vibrations. The people were panic-stricken and many ran out of the large business houses thinking the buildings were about to tumble down. The vibrations were from north to south and lasted fifteen seconds.

A distinct shock was felt in Louisville, Ky., but no damage was done. The shock perceptibly shook Asheville, N. C. Hundreds of occupants of buildings ran into the streets. At Indianapolis many persons felt the shock. Visitors to the court house tower thought the building was falling and hurried down.

A Veil of Mist.

Rising at morning or evening from some lowland often carries in its folds the seeds of malaria. Where malarial fever prevails no one is safe, unless protected by some efficient medicinal safeguard. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is both a protection and a remedy. No person who inhabits or sojourns in a miasmic region or country should omit to procure this fortifying agent, which is also the finest known remedy for dyspepsia, constipation, kidney trouble and rheumatism.

The Japanese language is said to contain 60,000 words, a symbol for each being required. A well-educated Japanese is familiar with about 10,000 of these symbols.

The Next Thing to It.

The coffee habit is not as bad as the liquor habit, but it is the next thing to it. Coffee and tea drunkards are getting to be a noticeable type. These beverages injure both the nerves and the digestion. Nervous diseases are often produced, and always aggravated, by indulgence in coffee and tea. Yet people fancy they can't get along without these drinks. Perhaps you think so. Try Grain-O for a change. It tastes like coffee. It is a new food drink, made from pure grains. It is full of cheer, warmth and nourishment, without a particle of narcotic stimulant. The old, the middle-aged and the children can drink Grain-O freely, day or night. Use it awhile and you will want no more coffee. And it costs only a quarter as much. Ask your grocer for it. Sold in 15c. and 25c. packages.

The stargazers of the Mount Hamilton Observatory say that there are five hundred million burning suns in the milky way.

Are Particular Buyers.

The leading steel men agree that the most particular buyers in the country are the Winchester Repeating Arms Co., New Haven, Ct. This company will only accept the most perfect of selected lots. Such information is not surprising to any one who owns a Winchester gun, for its strength and fine finish is very apparent. The Winchester are just as particular about everything that is used in making guns and ammunition as they are about steel. For this reason when you buy Winchester goods you can be sure of getting the best in the world. They cost no more than poor makes. Send for a large illustrated catalogue free.

New Fork Crown

In the 1897 Columbia models a feature of special importance is the double fork. It is a special crown construction which we have tried and found to be the strongest. The crown is encased in nickel-plate escutcheons, excluding dust or dirt, and giving a rich, distinctive finish, so that at a glance the fact that the wheel is the Columbia is apparent.

BRAN NEW.

The Palmer.

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever," hence when we say that the Palmer is a beautiful hotel, and situated upon one of the most desirable spots on the banks of Lake Maxenkuckee, we make an assertion which is a well known fact all over the country, especially by those who have had the pleasure of visiting our beautiful resort. Some time since, this popular house changed hands, and came under the entire control of Frank Lampson, one of the "peer" hotel managers in the state. He has been a familiar figure in the business at the lake the past 10 or 12 years, having conducted the Palmer for two or three years and the Lake View for several seasons, hence his being at the head of an establishment means an extensive patronage of the bon ton element who visit the lake. Being endowed by nature with those elements which constitutes the man and gentleman, he has the happy faculty, through knowledge of his business, to draw a most desirable class of patrons. As proprietor of this peerless hostelry, he has made many remarkable changes, which gives better accommodations to guests and otherwise adds to the popularity of the house. Franks method of conducting the culinary department is so well known, that it is unnecessary for us to eulogize upon the department, suffice it to say, that he believes the true way to reach man, is through supplying his stomach with all the delicacies of the season and the substantial and plenty of it. Situated upon the north shore of the lake it is of easy access to all trains, as guests can take a short delightful ride upon all steamboats to the house. Every room in the house is handsomely furnished with everything upon the modern order, and the magnificent parlor seems a veritable fairy-land, as it is beautifully furnished, besides being resplendent with orange-blossoms and flowers. You can also find a corps of well trained waiters, and a courteous landlady, who with her husband is ever on the alert to entertain and look after the comfort of the guests. Among the most prominent people registered at the Palmer this week, are Dr. Grayden and family, of Cincinnati. Mrs. Chas. McCulloch and daughter, of Ft. Wayne. Ex-Governor Jackson and wife, of Des Moines, Iowa. O. M. Packard and wife of Plymouth, Miss Lydia Mayer, of Covington, Ind., Wm. H. Clopton, United States District Attorney, of Missouri and Gov. John A. Mount and staff, of Indianapolis. Members of the Governors staff were C. E. Wilson, Private secretary; J. K. Gore, Adj't, general; B. A. Richardson, Quartermaster general; H. C. McGraw, Inspector general; Chas. Kala, Assistant Inspector; Col. A. R. Beardsey, Col. Wm. J. Robey and Col. W. W. Rider, who were here Thursday witnessing the closing exercises of the Culver Military Academy.

The Epworth League will give a lawn social in front of Dr. Wiseman's residence to-night for the benefit of the M. E. church. All are invited.

That Great Excursion.

Last Sunday was the banner day of the season thus far. There was an excursion from Terre Haute and one from Anderson. It was estimated that there were at least 2,500 strangers here who were highly delighted at the appearance of the lake and its surroundings. In the forenoon the weather was fine, but in the afternoon it rained for about four hours steady which not only dampened the ardor of the excursionists, but dampened their exterior to a dampened extent. Although the crowd was large everybody was orderly. The restaurants and hotels did a rushing business, especially the Colonade, and Avery's and Vornee's restaurants. Andy served about 300 meals and lunches gaiore, while Avery after feeding four or five hundred was unable to supply the demand and had to turn the hungry away. Of course this will give the restaurant keepers an idea of preparation in the future. 45w5.

Resolution of Thanks.

RESOLVED That the pastor of this charge, bear our expression of appreciation, from Classis, to the owner of the boat, for the ride on the lake given the delegates of Classis.

RESOLVED That we thank the pastor, and the members and friends of the Marmont Charge, for the kindness shown the members of Classis and the hospitality with which they have entertained the same. May the God of all grace keep these kind brethren, and prosper them in every good work.

The Facts in the Case.

A careful perusal of the Map of Wisconsin will convince you that the WISCONSIN CENTRAL LINES running from Chicago and Milwaukee, to St. Paul, Minneapolis, Ashland, Hurley, Ironwood, Bessemer, and Duluth, touch a greater number of important cities than any line running through Wisconsin. Elegantly equipped trains, leaving at convenient hours, make these cities easy of access. Any ticket agent can give you full information and ticket you through.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with urine and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates a diseased condition of the kidneys. When urine stains linen it is positive evidence of kidney trouble. Too frequent desire to urinate or pain in the back, is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in relieving pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effect following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to get up many times during the night to urinate. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists; price fifty cents and one dollar. For a sample bottle and pamphlet, both sent free by mail, mention CULVER CITY HERALD and send your full postoffice address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The proprietor of this paper guarantees the genuineness of this offer.

A clean town adds to the comfort and convenience of its citizens. It is an advertisement for the place worth much more than the cost of cleaning. It creates a favorable impression upon strangers; it attracts population and adds to the taxable wealth of the place. A clean town pays the biggest kind of dividends because it prevents disease and promotes business.

An eastern editor says a man in New York got himself into trouble by marrying two wives. A western editor replies that a good many have done the same thing by marrying one. A northern editor says that quite a number of his acquaintances found trouble through barely promising to marry and not going any farther. A southern editor says a friend of his was bothered enough when he was simply in company with another man's wife.

Mr. A. W. Jones who was a resident of this city some twenty-eight years ago, and popularly known as "Wash" Jones was in this city Monday calling on the Medbourn's, Duddleson's, Wiseman's and other old citizens. He is a resident of Dunkirk, Ohio, in the employ of the Pennsylvania R'y Co., at that place and was much surprised at the changes which the years have wrought in this city and its surroundings. The Editor did not have the pleasure of meeting Mr. J. personally but is informed by the few old residents still living here that he is the same old "Wash," only changed in those things for which the lapse of years and the mutations of time are responsible. He returned to his home in Ohio, Tuesday.

FRUIT GOES TO WASTE

STRAWBERRIES ARE SO CHEAP GROWERS QUIT PICKING.

Farmers Stop Picking the Berries Because of Low Prices—Lose Money on Their Shipments—Confederate Address Slaps at Grand Army Men.

50 Cents a Crate in Chicago.

A Chicago paper is authority for the statement that there are tons of choice berries going to waste. Strawberry raising this season has been the most expensive luxury a fruit grower ever indulged in. The bigger crop a man had, the more bountiful nature had been to him, the worse he was off. Gentlemen who could look out in the morning at a ton of great, red strawberries, plump and sound, and colored in the marvelous pigments of that most luscious of fruits, fairly groaned at the immensity of their adversity. Berries that sold Decoration Day, 1896, for $1.50 a crate have gone begging this first of June, 1897, at 50 cents. They have sold as high as $3 a crate; and they never were better than those now being brought to Chicago. "The farmer should have $1 a crate to make any money," said a Water street commission man. "And the strawberries wouldn't begin to bring it. We have had to sell any quantity at 50 cents a crate. One man lost $300. Look at it. Here is the expense bill for the farmer:

Cents. Cents.
Picking ..... 48 Freight ..... 15
Case ..... 18
Cartage ..... 2 Total ..... 91
Commission ..... 8

"That leaves him little enough at $1. But he has had to take 50 cents, and add to it the 41 cents a crate before he got out at all. He gave up everything, and put up about as much more in cash. Of course the farmers quit picking. They couldn't stand it."

GIVES GRAND ARMY MEN A SLAP.

Confederate Veterans Asked to Ignore Them During the Reunion.

A lively breeze has been created at Montgomery, Ala., by the passage by Camp Pelham, United Confederate Veterans, at Anniston, Ala., of resolutions calling on Confederates in the South to ignore Federal veterans during the Confederate reunion at Nashville. The manifesto was introduced and championed by Mayor Hight. It asserts that the custom of having persons received at Confederate reunions as visitors from the Grand Army of the Republic amidst much gush and hypocritical cheering is a matter of supreme disgust to a vast majority of the Confederates present. The address charges that the Grand Army has had prepared, through the labors of a Northern so-called historian, a school history which teaches that the Southern soldiers were traitors and rebels, and is more partisan, untruthful and denunciatory of the South than any of the multitude of untruthful histories that have been printed. The address continues: "We are too old to be controlled by policy; we are too stiff in our joints to bend the pregnant hinges of the knee that thrift may follow fawning; all that we need will soon be given us by our own people—a shroud and decent burial. Let us be honest and let us not bring our organization into disrepute by indulging in a false sentimentalism which can be fitly characterized only by the epithet—abominable gush."

STRUNG UP BY A MOB.

Ravisher Miller Lynched by Furious Urbana, Ohio, Citizens.

A mob at Urbana, O., took "Glick" Mitchell, a colored man, from jail and lynched him Friday morning. An attempt to do this at 1:30 in the morning had been repelled by the sheriff and the local militia company, only after two men had been killed and nine wounded. The sheriff then telephoned the Governor for more troops, and Company B was sent from Springfield, arriving at 7:10. Though the jail was surrounded by 2,000 angry, bloodthirsty men, the Mayor assured the commanding officers that no assistance was needed, and the troops were withdrawn. No sooner had this been done than the mob made a resistless attack upon the jail, overpowered the guard and secured their victim. Mitchell had confessed to criminal assault, and was under sentence of twenty years in the penitentiary.

New York correspondence:

JUST at this time the best indication to be had of what is to be stylish in dressy gowns for summer comes in the costumes of those fashionable women who have already deserted the town. To most women it would seem like forcing the season to get away to country or shore by the first of May, but it is not so to those who do it, and so the millions who cannot have an outing much before July have a good chance to profit by the fashions set by more fortunate ones. It is noticeable in the fine array of gowns already provided for these lucky women that the pretty dancing gowns are made with the neck cut out very slightly, or if greater cut-out is wanted there the shoulders are bared, but the line is kept modestly high at the neck. When the time comes for receptions at the swell yacht and country clubs it will be found that this rule holds good, though the variety of gowns worn at costumes of these advanced fashionables will not be easy of accomplishment, for they are only birds of gay plumage, but the feathers come high. They are taking to silks to a greater extent than the winter prophets allowed, perhaps because tailor gowns were so plentiful in the early spring. The artist puts in the second illustration a sample of the outdoor gowns they'll don. Skirt and sleeves were mouse-gray silk poplin, and the blouse waist was plaid taffeta showing a gray ground with stripes of black, cerise and steel blue. Cream satin gave collar and belt, being appliqued with black in the former, and the ruffles on skirt and waist were of wide cream satin ribbon striped with black and cerise. Fancy buttons were put at the left side of the blouse, and white chiffon ruffles finished neck and wrists. Completing the costume were a rakish black straw hat trimmed with gray plumes, cerise ribbon and red poppies, and a parasol of the dress goods finished with a deep ruffle of white chiffon and lace.

Cashmere is unquestionably stylish for outdoor wear, and it has a greater attraction for women of moderate means than silks have, but there's small comfort in the way well-to-do women employ it. Evidence of this fact comes in the next sketch, for in this gown only the skirt was cashmere, in a silver-gray shade, the dainty such functions is considerable. Many of the swagger women make the trip to the yacht clubhouse in private launch or yacht, and such will appear in yachting dress, white flannel, serge or broadcloth made according to some distinctly sailor man fashion. Other women, landing in such a rig, will shift to a more or less elaborate reception rig, appearing as daintily dressed as do the women spending the summer at the resort centering about the club, silks, satins, organdies, etc., being all right.

In to-day's first picture there is seen a handsome dress for one of these receptions, and though of bright colored satin and made with considerable elaboration, it will not signify that its wearer did not take off a simple blue bodice being white liberty silk covered with white mousseline de soie. This was gathered at neck and waist and trimmed with a narrow and a wide ruffle of delicate white lace, the seam hidden by arabesques of gray velvet.

Though the fourth pictured gown was taken from as elaborate a wardrobe as those previously described, it offers a good degree of encouragement to those who would take instruction from it. It was in a bright red silk and wool material, the modified bell skirt slightly trained, and the bodice finished with a yoke and collar of white satin appliqued in gilt with which the sleeve caps were one. Tight in back, the bodice was gathered full in front, the deep pleats coming to a point at the yoke. An accordion-pleated lace ruching finished the neck, and lace ruchings trimmed the slashed cuffs. Though the red of this fabric was bright, it was not of the shrieking sorts that are often seen nowadays. These terrifying shades are permitted, but their license won't last long, for new reds are appearing that are to be strongly commended.

INDIANA INCIDENTS.

RECORD OF EVENTS OF THE PAST WEEK.

Bloomfield Greatly Exercised Over the Mysterious Death of Grant Heath—Love-sick Boy Takes His Own Life—Wheeler Too Numerous at Fires.

DARK MYSTERY AT BLOOMFIELD.

The little town of Bloomfield, the county seat of Greene County, is excited over the mysterious death of Grant Heath, a business man of that place. Saturday morning Mr. Heath was at his store and told his partner, Mr. Lehman, that he had been ill all the night before and felt very badly. He died Saturday night in great agony, saying that he had been poisoned. Mrs. Heath, wife of the deceased, was taken violently ill Sunday. Heath was a healthy and vigorous man of 27 years. He sat down to dinner Friday, and after drinking a cup of coffee complained of its bitterness, whereupon he was given another cupful by his wife, but no one else drank of it. The body of Heath has been exhumed and traces of arsenic have been found in the stomach. Neighbors of the Heaths entertain strong suspicions against certain persons, and officers fear that developments in the case may lead to a lynching.

Fire Alarms Abandoned.

As a measure of safety the Indianapolis Fire Commissioners were compelled to shut off the ringing of bells and sounding of fire alarms, and hereafter dependence will be placed upon gongs in the several fire houses. The cause lay in the habit of bicyclists, who have been making a mad plunge for the scene of activity every time a fire alarm was sounded, endangering not only themselves, but seriously interfering with the firemen in the quick answering of calls. Early the other evening fully 1,000 bicyclists, male and female, clustered on a street leading to a fire, and there were numerous minor casualties.

SEEKS RELIEF IN SUICIDE.

Harry Phillips, of Indianapolis, 20 years old, having been teased and tormented by his associates, who pretended that a rival had supplanted him in the esteem of Miss Nettie Huffman, placed her photograph by his own Friday, and after looking at both intently suddenly shot himself through his lung near the heart. The wound is mortal. The shooting was done in his room, almost in the presence of his mother. The young man was a general favorite, the son of H. B. Phillips.

ALL OVER THE STATE.

Charles McDowell, aged 16 years, has disappeared from his Elkhart home and foul play is suspected.

At Brazil, Frank Clary, aged 28, was instantly killed while out hunting. In climbing a fence his gun was discharged.

James Six, of Logansport, has been arrested for having seven wives. And they actually propose to punish him further.

Miss Ola Brown has brought suit against Grier F. Gemmill of Pennville for $25,000 damages for breach of marriage contract.

At South Bend Jacob Reyniers, aged 61, made three unsuccessful attempts at suicide owing to despondency over being unemployed.

The Pennsylvania Railroad depot at Center has disappeared. Three years ago fire destroyed the station, postoffice, express offices, telegraph office and all the business houses of the village. The depot was not rebuilt, the company having used a box car for a ticket office ever since. The residents objected to the old car for a depot, and a few nights ago the old shack disappeared altogether from sight. To emphasize their indignation the villagers filed an affidavit against the company for failing to provide accommodations for waiting passengers. The magistrate fined the corporation $20 and costs.

The Rowland Zeigler Oil Company has disposed of its heavy holdings in the Indiana oil field to the Standard Oil Company, the consideration being close to a quarter of a million dollars. The holdings of the company selling out consisted of a thousand acres of leases, over one hundred producing wells, and a large amount of valuable drilling machinery. The Rowland company was one of the earliest operators in the field. It began poor, but persevered despite low prices and made many lucky strikes, taking 90,000 barrels of oil from one pool. The Standard is after the holdings of several other large producers operating in the Indiana territory.

Muncie officers are notified by responsible persons that a party of gypsies fed the remains of one of their infant children to a pet bear near Daleville. The informant says such deeds are commonly practiced by the gypsies.

Adam Crissie, an Anderson veteran, has been granted a small pension. It comes too late. He died two weeks ago in poverty, being physically disabled by war service. He lived in hopes of getting this recognition from the Government.

Fifteen years ago Sarah Bass, the wife of Leonard Bass, a prosperous farmer near Shelbyville, was taken suddenly and violently insane. Her relatives had her taken to an asylum, with the hopes that she would soon be restored, but her case seemed hopeless. A few days ago the husband was taken suddenly ill and died. Friends who went to town for an undertaker and to bring home the family mail found in the postoffice a letter from the long-absent mother, who wrote to her husband and children that she was authorized to say she would be released and return home that day. Not until she arrived home and was surrounded by her three children, a son and two daughters, was the news of her husband's death imparted. The blow was more than the unfortunate woman could endure and she again became unmanageable and will have to be returned to the asylum.

THEY HEAR M'KINLEY.

Merchants of Two Continents Listen to the President.

The commercial museums were formally opened at Philadelphia Wednesday by President McKinley, who presided during the attending exercises at the American Academy of Music. He delivered a speech in response to Mayor Warwick's address of welcome, and then at night, in a notable banquet held at the Bourse, which celebrated the tenth anniversary of the Manufacturers' Club of Philadelphia, as well as the opening of the commercial museums, the President delivered an impromptu address.

The ceremonies, which were most impressive and interesting, were given an added importance by the distinguished character of the assemblage. Besides the President and his party, including the members of his cabinet and the foreign ministers, the guests included the delegates attending as representatives of their countries from South America, Central America, Mexico and even more distant points.

The banquet was probably the most notable ever given on this continent. It was notable not only in point of numbers, nearly 1,500 persons participating, but in the distinction of the chief guests. Besides President McKinley there were seated at the table of honor Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, Attorney General McKenna, Congressman Dingley, Dalzell, Grosvenor, Heatwole and Tawney; the ministers from Mexico, Brazil, Chili, Argentina, Venezuela and other South American governments; the Chinese minister, and a number of other eminent officials from the capital.

The hall in which the dinner was held covers an entire block in area. It was gorgeous with light and color. Enclosed in a compartment formed by walls of flags at one end of the hall was the Marine Band, under Director Fanciulli, which alternated with the Germania Orchestra, stationed at the other end. To avoid undue delay in reaching the toasts, the serving of the banquet was promptly begun.

GOVERNMENT CROP BULLETIN.

Week Generally Cool and Conditions Unfavorable.

The following crop and climate bulletin for the week has been issued from the Chicago office of the weather bureau:

Illinois—Week generally unfavorable, but no material damage by light frosts. Some corn still being planted, also little replanting, but cultivation general, although too cold for good germination and growth. Wheat heading short and much cheat; oats, pastures and meadows generally good; clover cutting this week in southern section. Fruits generally very promising. Strawberries still being marketed in large quantities.

Wisconsin—Week cold and dry, with heavy frosts. Ice formed in central and west counties, but special reports indicate damage to fruit and other crops comparatively slight. Corn planting about completed. Oats, barley and spring wheat fair. Winter rye heading and promising well.

Michigan—Weather favorable for rye, meadows, pastures and field work, but too cold for much growth of other vegetation and germination of corn. Cold, wet ground has rotted some corn, causing considerable replanting, while oats come up slow and look yellow. Severe frosts, but damage light. Corn planting nearing completion. Potato planting well started.

Minnesota—Cool weather and deficient rainfall have retarded grass and truck. Early sown wheat stooling well; late sown small grains need rain. Irregular stand of corn caused by defective seed. Hay prospects good. Insects injuring plums and apples. Damage by frosts slight.

Iowa—Week cool and cloudy, with deficient rainfall, except scattering localities. Corn planting practically completed and cultivation general. More replanting necessitated than earlier reports indicated. Conditions more favorable for grass, oats and wheat.

Indiana—Little rain fell and continued cool weather, with light frost; too cool for corn, which comes up yellow. Wheat, rye, oats and clover continue in promising condition. Meadows promise large hay crops. Tobacco plants are being set out.

Nebraska—Cold weather has caused corn to germinate and grow slowly, but has been favorable for grass, rye, wheat and oats. Rye in bloom. Winter wheat heading. Small grain in southwestern counties suffering from drought. Some damage from frosts in northern counties.

Oklahoma—Several frosty nights; no special damage. Wheat, oats, rye, pastures, clover, timothy, potatoes and tobacco on drained soil made some progress, but cool, cloudy weather checked proper growth of all vegetation. Corn slow, some yellowing, many fields to be replanted. Rye heading. Strawberries ripening; some picked. Blackberries blossoming. Tree fruits are dropping badly. Potato bugs plentiful.

ALTGELD IS ACCUSED.

Former Illinois Governor Blamed for Globe Bank Crash.

Startling assertions in regard to former Governor Altgeld are made in the report of the special Senate committee which investigated the misappropriation of the University of Illinois funds by Charles W. Spalding, late of the Globe Savings Bank of Chicago.

The charge is made that Mr. Altgeld was a very large borrower from the bank at the time Spalding became the university treasurer, and that he was a large borrower during his entire term as Governor. When the bank went down Mr. Altgeld, the report charges, was in debt to it, while his Unity Building collateral was worth only 50 cents on the dollar and his Ogden Gas stock collateral had no commercial value.

The declaration is made that the bank was practically insolvent in 1892 and that this must have been known to Mr. Altgeld as well as to Mr. Spalding. Further, it is found that Mr. Altgeld, when elected Governor, was both a stockholder and director in the Globe Bank, and as such should have had knowledge of its precarious condition. Then the report adds, "the committee believes he was acquainted with its condition."

FULTON LOSES THE WOODMEN.

Head Camp at Dubuque Orders Headquarters to Rock Island.

At the national convention of Modern Woodmen in Dubuque, the headquarters were ordered removed from Fulton to Rock Island in sixty-days. It was decided to hold the next head camp at Kansas City. Charges of the misappropriation of funds made against the head officers were not considered by the convention. The law prohibiting membership to liquor dealers was so amended as not to affect those in the order before such legislation was enacted.

SETTLERS IN DANGER.

CHEYENNE INDIANS START ON THE WARPATH.

Rumors that at Least a Dozen White Men Have Been Killed — Further Slaughter Likely to Follow if Troops Do Not Interfere.

Cheyennes in Revolt.

The Cheyenne Indians have gone on the war path in Montana and are said to have killed almost a dozen men, including five United States soldiers. The Indians have no reservation, but roam over the southern part of the State. The white settlers are up in arms and the women and children are being sent into the northern towns for safety.

The Cheyennes make the Lame Deer agency their headquarters. Hoover, a sheep herder, was recently shot by Indians while herding sheep. He was killed because he caught several Indians killing sheep.

This so incensed the stockmen that they have armed themselves and will fight to protect their homes, help and stock. Two companies of colored cavalry from Custer were ordered to the agency Wednesday, and Saturday a courier arrived from the agency with the information that George Walters, the postmaster, and Lou Alderson, a stockman, had been shot and killed; also that the Indians had shot into the cavalry and killed five men and had sixty armed cowboys surrounded. The cavalry from Fort Keough and Company E of the infantry left for the scene. There are certainly grounds for fear. The Cheyennes are determined and they are being re-enforced by renegade Crows. Rosebud ranchers received a consignment of rifles and ammunition at this point. Settlers have moved all their families from near the reservation.

Ranchmen and stockmen have organized at Cheyenne agency and demand the Indians who killed Hoover. The names of the Indians are known and they are protected by fifty bucks. Sheriff Gibbs and Coroner Bateman have returned from Barringer's ranch, in the neighborhood of which the inquest was held on the body of Hoover. The verdict was that he came to his death by two shots fired by Cheyenne.

While the inquest was proceeding sixty men under Legislator James Brown arrived on their way to the agency. The Sheriff pleaded with them to return and told them sixty of them against 400 or 500 Indians armed and such fighters as the Cheyennes would be helpless. The Sheriff learned that the crime was committed by three of the band led by White Bull, who said a day or so previous that his heart was bad; that he wanted to eat white man's heart. The agent said that he knew one of the murderers, and thought with a little time they could find the others, would arrest them, and turn them over to the civil authorities with what evidence they had. He had requested a sufficient force of soldiers to surround the Indians, and said he would cut off rations till the murderers were turned over. The Sheriff and committee went back to the main body, which had been augmented by twenty men from the Rosebud, and made report. Though there was much dissatisfaction at the turn affairs had taken, they agreed to disperse for two weeks to allow the agent time to make the arrest. If not then done the original plan of attacking the Indians is to be carried out. The women have been gathered at several ranches for protection under a guard of ten or twelve men in each instance.

COLDEST MAY ON RECORD.

Month Just Closed Sets a New Mark for the Weather Bureau.

Last month will go down as the coldest May on record. In the records for the last twenty-six years, beyond which time the Weather Bureau can tell us nothing, no May can be found which gave an average temperature by two degrees as the month just ended. The lowest record on the weather man's books for May was in 1875, when the thermometer went down to 25 degrees, but this was an exception rather than the rule. In Chicago May 1 showed a temperature of 33 degrees and the following day went only one better. These were the coldest days of the month, and May 19, when the mercury ran up to 81 degrees, was the warmest.
