Indiana is sixth on the list. The following additional facts of local interest to Indiana are also gleaned from the commissioner's report: Number of barrels of fermented liquor produced in Indiana during the year, Mr. Partee has served every meal 34,198, Bourbon whisky, gallons, 122,028, rye whisky 31,707, alcohol 17,457, gin 34,281, high wines 4,568, pure, neutral or cologne When Mr. "Minnie-Haha," who spirits 459,130, making an aggregate of attempted to be smart through 8,650,979 gallons. #### THAT ELECTIC ROAD.

"Minnie-Haha," in the Argos Reflector,

"Maxenkuckee citizens are fully awake to the opportunity offered to become a center of attraction and prominence through the building of the electric railroad around their way, and are going to give Culver a hard fight for it. Aside from this they offer the company another great incentive in having connection with the Vandalia at this place. "Minnie-Haha" says that owing to the fact that the Vandalia "runs in close proximity to the lake, the electric road would have to keep a distance form

This only shows the ignorance of the writer relative to the route. As has already been stated in the HERALD, the electric road can find easy access to the lake, and not run upon the Vandalia election of S. N. Stevens as county either, as will be demonstrated when the preliminary survey is made.

"The HERALD says: Passing near by in easy access to the great ice plant owned by Sterling R. Holt, of Indianapolis, who is the ice king of Indianapolis, and has proven himself a successful competitor at Logansport and South Bend. What incentive is this to any railroad except the Vandalia?" The above only goes to show the gross ignorance of the capacity of the Maxenkuckee Ice Company. Sure it ships all its ice over the Vandalia at present, but let a new field open for its ice and it will ply 10,000 cities with ice if necessary.

How a man can be such a "rotten liar" is beyond our comprehension. Culver is surrounded by a splendid farming country. Extending right from the city limits north for miles and miles there exists no better farming country in the state, and in a very short time west of this city will not be excelled, as the great ditches now in course of construction will make thousands of acres of the most fertile land in the state, and south, running right up to the city, is a most desirable farming country, while extending northeast of the lake to Argos is a magnificent farming country. "Barren," indeed; why this Mr. "Minne-Haha" must have been loaded with tanglefoot when he wrote the above jarbled falsehoods, or else he is terrible ignorant of the situation.

Christmas Festivities.

At the Reformed church Sabbath school last Sunday all arrangements were completed to have a grand Christmas entertainment. Committees were appointed, and it was decided to have a ship instead of a Christmas tree. It was also decided to give anyone the privilege of bringing in presents and placing them upon the boat for friends, and that the entertainment would be held on Christmas eve. At this church the program will be very interesting, and great pains will be taken to have

The M. E. church Christmas cantata promises to be a superb affair, and undoubtedly will be one of the very best entertainments ever witnessed in this city. Voval music will constitute the whole program, and as Dr. Wiseman has the whole matter in charge the voices will be trained to perfection. No admission most cordially invited.

An Open Letter,

GRAND LEDGE, Mich , ) Dec. 12, 1897.

MR. EDITOR: I understand through private parties that certain citizens of Culver are kicking because I left Andy Vorhees in Charge of my saloon while I returned to Michigan to transact important business. My license is not up until May and my county and state licenses are O. K. Hence I have just as much right to leave Mr. Vorhees in charge of my saloon as Mr. Kreuzberger has Wm. Kneoble, or any other man. The question of my not coming back is all humbug, as my relations with the man I rent the building of, Mr. Wolford, has always been agreeable, consequently I expect, nothing preventing, to conduct the saloon another season.

Yours very truly, J. K. T.

ONE MAN ROUTS FIVE.

TRAIN ROBBERS GIVEN A HOT WELCOME.

Sunset Limited Held Up Near the Arizona State Line-The Robbers Driven Off-New York Man Has Made a Fortune from Life Insurance.

One Robber Shot Dead.

Meager particulars have been received in El Paso, Texas, from San Simon, a small station just east of Willcox, A. T., on the Southern Pacific, of a train holdup. Train No. 20, the sunset limited, had just left Steins Pass, N. M., near the Arizona line, when the engineer noticed a danger signal in front and immediately applied the air brakes. No sooner was the train brought to a stop than five men stepped out from their hiding places near the track, all heavily armed. One covered the engineer and fireman with his Winchester, while the others gave their attention to the train proper, more especially to the express car, firing their guns in the air and otherwise frightening the passengers. At this point the guards in the express car took a hand in the fusillade. Thirty or forty shots are said to have been fired by both sides. One Wells-Fargo guard, Jennings by name, succeeded in killing Robber Cullen, who was nearest to the car and who was evidently the leader, for as soon as the other robbers noticed his body lying on the ground they lost courage and made a break for their horses, but another bullet from Jennings' Winchester evidently struck one of the fleeing robbers, as he was seen to fall and was assisted out of range by his comrades. No express money was stolen and none of the passengers was hurt.

BETTER PRICES FOR FARMERS.

Comparative Statement Issued by the Agricultural Department.

The Agricultural Department at Wash ington has issued the following, signed by John Hyde: "The department's final esti mates of the production of the principal crops are based largely on the December returns. The only information now available relates to the average farm price of certain products on the first day of the present month. The farm price of corn, as indicated, averages 26.5 cents per bushel, against 21.5 cents last year; that of oats, 21.5 cents, against 18.7 cents last year; that of barley, 37.7 cents, against 32.3 cents last year; that of rye, 44.7 cents, against 40.9 cents last year; that of buckwheat, 42.1 cents, against 39.2 cents last year; that of hay, $6.65 per ton, against $6.55 last year. The averages for the products not given are withheld for revision, as are also the estimates od for acreage of winter whihe estimates of the condition of these wheat and rye and the condition of these products."

During the last few years several of Zanoli's wives, all insured in his favor, have died. So have his mothers-in-law, and a few children. ## LOVERING'S PUNISHMENT.

Text of General Alger's Order Reprimanding Captain Lovering.

Secretary Alger has made public the order reprimanding Capt. Lovering of the Fourth infantry at Fort Sheridan, who was recently court martialed for his alleged ill-treatment of Private Hammond. It reads as follows: "By order of the President the proceedings, findings and sentence in the case of Capt. Leonard A. Lovering, Fourth infantry, are approved. It is, however, disappointing that an offense so grave and as an example so far-reaching as this should have been visited with so light a penalty. There is no question but that Private Hammond deserved punishment for his conduct, but he should have received it in a lawful way. The military laws governing the army are explicit. They prescribe the duties of officers and enlisted men, with the penalties for their violation. Under them both have rights and obligations. When, therefore, an officer, with the intelligence and experience with which Capt. Lovering is credited not only violates these laws, but shown in this case, he should receive a more severe sentence than a mere reprimand. Committing such acts degrades the officer more than the soldier he punishes and shows unfitness for the care and command of men. Under excitement men frequently do things which in cooler moments they recall with sorrow and regret, but this case is aggravated by the fact that after weeks of deliberation this officer evinces no regret for his wrongful acts."

TO CLOSE DYEA ROUTE.

Tacoma Company Will Assist in Abol-

ishing Subport of Entry. A letter has been received by the Chamber of Commerce of San Francisco from the Citizens' Klondike Company of Tacoma, expressing a willingness to assist in any movement looking to the closing of Dyea as a subport of entry. The energetic methods of the Canadian Government to capture the bulk of the Klondike travel is dwelt upon at length, and figures are given to show what an immense revenue may be derived from the tax on the outfits of the prospectors alone, if some means is not taken to retaliate. Alaska trade bureau of San Francisco has received a letter from ex-Governor Joseph Hoadly, who is associated with the ship-building firm of William Cramp & Sons of Philadelphia in the States Steamship Company, stating that five steamships of over 3,000 tons each are to be placed on the ocean route and will connect with a small fleet of river boats, reaching all parts of Alaska. The company is capitalized at $7,000,000.

A Brighter Outlook. R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: "The monthly report of failures shows defaulted liabilities of $11,-610,195 in November, against $12,700, 856 last year. Because of three large failures for $3,250,000, not due to present ures for a the aggregate in November conditions, the aggr less than last year, was only $1,100,000 . would have smaller than in August, September of October. Failures for the week have been 306 in the United States, against 379 last year, and 28 in Canada, against 55 last year." Bradstreet's says: "General trade throughout the country has presented rather more animation, owing to colder weather and the approaching holidays. While clothing, dry goods, hats, shoes and notions, hardware and fancy groceries, have been in a little better demand from both jobbers and at retail in the region tributary to Chicago, St. Louis, Omaha, St. Joseph, St. Paul and Kansas City, the tendency of business has been to slacken. This is noticeable in iron and steel and in further depression in cotton goods, print cloths having made a new low record in price. The total exports of wheat (flour included as wheat) from both coasts of the United States and from Montreal this week aggregate 6,699,960 bushels, 1,300,000 bushels larger than last week. Corn exports show a heavy gain over last week, aggregating 4,585,806 bushels, against 2,869,000 bushels last of our cereal exports during the week just closed promises to be fully $9,000,-

The Tennessee Medical College as Knoxville was destroyed by fire. The college was one of the best institutions in the South and is well attended. The building cost $25,000 and was comparatively new. The owners say the contents were worth $12,000. Insurance carried was only $10,000.

BATTLE ON IN CHINA.

GERMANS TAKE A CITY AND A FEW VILLAGES.

Opening of Hostilities on the Soil of the Celestial Kingdom-Chinese General Captured but Afterward Liberated-Dodge the Exclusion Act.

Guns Roar in China.

Shanghai says: "On Friday last Capt. Becker, with 310 German marines, left Kaio-Chou bay to occupy the surrounding villages, whence they proceeded to capture the city. The Chinese forts opened fire and the Germans replied, killing three of the garrison, which thereupon fled in disorder. The Chinese general in command was captured, but afterward liberated. Several German sailors were injured by stones flung by the inhabitants exhibits such a lack of humanity as is of the villages. In return for this the head men of these villages were beaten with bamboo sticks by order of the German commander. It is reported in London that China is willing to pay an indemnity of 1,000,000 taels (about $785,250) and to grant all the German demands, including the temporary cession of Kaio-Chou bay New York since Oct. 2, has returned and adjoining territory." According to a special dispatch just received from Paris, the French cruisers Jean Bart, Isely, Alger, have been ordered to be prepared for immediate dispatch to China.

DODGE THE EXCLUSION ACT.

Wholesale Traffic in Bogus Naturalization Papers in Italy. Commissioner of Immigration Fitchie at New York has been notified by Commissioner General Powderly that the State Department at Washington has been informed by the United States ambassador at Rome that a wholesale traffic in fraudulent naturalization papers is being carried on in Italy. The object of these fraudulent methods, Mr. Powderly said, is to effect the entry into the United States, under cloak of American citizenship, of aliens who otherwise would be subject to exclusion. In view of these facts Commissioner Fitchie is ordered to particularly investigate all naturalization papers of immigrants, and especially those from Italy. Commissioner Fitchie said the task was an extremely difficult one. From the large number of immigrants recently landed he believed there were agents in Europe who, in furtherance of this fraudulent scheme, had secured steerage passengers under the threat that unless they came at once they would not be admitted at all, as Congress was about to pass a restricting law.

FRANCE ACCEPTS SITUATION.

Great Britain Does Not Expect Trouble on Upper Nile.

The St. James' Gazette of London announces authoritatively that the British Government does not expect trouble with France regarding the upper Nile regions, France having agreed to accept the situation. Advices received at Lagos, West Africa, from the interior say the French troops had five engagements with the natives before effectively occupying Nikki, the capital of Borgu. The king of the country fled to the bush. Both France and Great Britain claim that the Borgu territory is within the sphere of their influence. Great Britain claims the whole country of Borgu under the Anglo-French convention of 1890. Captain Lugard, for Great Britain outdistanced Commander Decoeur in making a treaty with the King of Borgu, but the French hold that such a treaty is null and void from the fact that France has effectively occupied Dahomey, and is therefore entitled to its Hinterland, in accordance with the spirit and letter of the treaty of Berlin.

Steam Is Now Too Slow.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company is thinking of converting the power used on all the branch lines, which connect with the main line of the Amboy branch, from steam to electricity. For two years a test of the new motor has been tried between Mount Holly, N. J., and East Burlington. The test has proved eminently satisfactory. A final one of speed was made, when the motors attained a speed of 74 miles an hour.

Gasoline Boat Wrecked.

News has been received at Empire City. Ore., of the wreck of the gasoline boat More, bound from San Francisco to Alza. When off the Coquille bar the boat's machinery became disabled, and while attempting to put into Coquille river she struck and lost her rudder and was left to the mercy of the waves. She drifted on the beach and will probably be a total wreck. All lives were saved.

Shipping Data Burned Up.

Twelve-Year-Old New York Girl Gets $1,700 from Her Father.

A remarkable case of swindling by a child of abnormal development of the imaginative faculty is found in the case of Gertrude Turecek, 12 years old, of New York. She has in six months obtained $1,700 from her father on the statement that the money was wanted by President McKinley and other distinguished men. One day Gertie told him that a company had been formed, composed of the President, McKinley, Superintendent of Schools Jasper and other distinguished A special dispatch to London from men, and had selected herself and a few other pupils from the public schools for special instruction. One day she said the President had asked her to get $100 to help the company along, and her father gave it to her as quickly as he could get a check cashed. So it has gone on until he has given the girl $1,700 and has but little left. He is now trying to learn what she did with the money, and is one moment overcome with grief by the deceitfulness of his idolized little daughter and the next overwhelmed with admiration for the magnitude and cleverness of her lies.

Vast Forests Charred.

At the coming session of the Ontario, Canada, Legislature, it is said, some steps will be taken to bring before the House, in a forcible manner, the destruction by fire of the wooded lands of the provinces that has been going on steadily for years, and which, unless checked, will in a few years more leave the province (and Quebec as well, but not to such an extent) stripped of its woodlands. Dr. Bell of the geological survey at Ottawa last year published a pamphlet enumerating the vast tracts of land that have been burned over during the past twenty years. Dr. Bell claims that once Canada loses its forests, it will also lose, to a large extent, its present beneficent rainfalls, and drought will be frequent and extensive. The doctor states more miles of lumber have been burned in the last 100 years than have come under the lumbermen's axes. Certain it is that every year many miles of splendid forests are being charred and blackened by bush fires. Recently, near Ottawa, three villages, Casselman, South Indian and Cheney, were destroyed, and 1,200 people made home-

Toru Hoshi Gives the Mikado's Position Regarding Hawaii.

Toru Hoshi, Japanese minister to the United States, admitted in an interview with a representative of the Associated Press that the object of his mission to Japan, from whence he has just returned, was to ascertain the views of his Government on the proposed annexation of Hawaii and to procure instructions from the mikado relative to the course he was expected to pursue in case the treaty shall be ratified by Congress. Mr. Hoshi said: "The impression has gone out to the American people that we propose to recall the protest entered by Japan against the acquisition of the Sandwich Islands by the United States Government. This is misleading and untrue. Japan has always maintained amicable relations with the United States, and it is not our purpose now to take any steps that would lead to a breach of mutual good will, but at the same time Japan will stand firmly in the maintenance of its rights and privileges acquired under treaty with the Hawaiian Government. If the United States decided to annex Hawaii, we hope to be able to enforce our demands for indemnity for the violation of treaty rights in the expulsion of Japanese immigrants from the island and their exclusion from the rights acquired under our treaty."

The bladder was created for one purposes namely, a receptacle for the urine, and as such it is not liable to any form of disease except by one of two ways. The first way is from imperfect action of the kidneys. The second way is from careless local treatmens of other diseases.

CHIEF CAUSE.

Unhealthy urine from unhealthy kidneys is the chief cause of bladder troubles. So the womb, like the bladder, was created for one purpose, and if not doctored too much is not liable to weakness or disease, except in rare cases. It is situated back of and very close to the bladder, therefore any pain, disease or inconvenience maifested in the In effect Dec. 5, 1897, trains will leave kidneys, back, bladder or urinary passage is often, by mistake, attributed to female weakness or womb trouble of some. # THE WAIF O' FOLEY'S HEART.

HROUGHthe sighing boughs of cypress forest there came drifting the hum as of a million bees set in rhythmic tone and tune. It was the great saw at Foley's mill flashing its merciless disc of steel through the green, sweet heart of the cypress logs. Foley himself sat on a low bench, his swart throat bare, his head leaned against a tree, watching through a narrow rift in his lids the swift, mechanical movements of the men at the saw and the shingle pile. The girl who came up noiselessly behind him thrust her small fingers over his forehead and opened the lids of his eyes.

"Wake up, Dave, and take me out in the boat for a ride in the shade. The house is hotter than a furnace."

"How did you get here?" said Foley, indolently.

"I walked across the logs."

"I wish you wouldn't do that, Lize," said Foley, with a frown. "Some day you'll get on a loose one and go under and the logs will hold you fast."

"I'm sure-footed as a kildie," laughed Lize, thrusting out a coquettish, slippered foot. "Come on, Dave."

"Oh, it's u. . s too warm for such exercise. Ask Langham to go with you. Yonder he comes." Foley looked up in time to see the curious sidewise glance from the girl's eye.

"What did you look at me like that for, Lize?" he said, suddenly.

"Like what?" she said. Without waiting for an answer she tripped to meet Langham.

"Dave is lazy and contrary," she said, pouting her pretty lips. "He says won't you take me down the river for a boat ride?"

Langham lifted his hat to her. His dark eyes glanced from Foley to the girl with a cynical light that melted into something tender as it rested upon Lize's primrose face.

"With pleasure, Mrs. Foley. Good afternoon to you both. Foley, did you ever feel such a heat in the forest?"

"Not often," said Foley, shifting his straw hat over his eyes to shut out the glare. "There'll be a storm, a regular scorcher in a day or two."

"No sign of it now," said Lize glancing at the yellow sky. Her eyes, in shadow, were a golden brown. When the light flashed into them they were like pools of deep-sea water.

"Where is the boat?" queried Langham.

"Down there," he said. "Lize will show you." Through motionless lids he watched them as they rowed away. His wife blew him a kiss from the tips of her dainty fingers. Far down the blue lake her white dress gleamed like a darting heron under the arched and weeping boughs.

The sun had dropped behind the bluffs of the Mississippi ere the mill shut down for the night, and the men crossed the floating bridge to the other side, where the frail "box" houses constituted the "camp." Two "hands," lingering to light their pipes, were gossiping noisily.

"Foley's gone, I guess. Didn't wait for Lize." "Foley's a fool. Ketch me sendin' my wife out for boat rides with a fellow like that Langham. City folks don't often hunt out solitary places like this less there's a hotter climate behind 'em. Did you see him, how he looked at her?" "Soft on her, hey?"

"No softer'n she is on him," said the other, shrugging his shoulders. They passed on, oblivious of Foley's white face staring at them from the engineroom.

Had Lize been wise or observant she would have caught the ominous calm in Foley's voice as he laid his hand on her shoulder that night. "See here, Lize, I've been thinking it | your lawful wife. I won't bother you-don't look exactly right, your going so often with that fellow."

"Indeed!" said Lize, her lips curling. "Gentleman is a better word than fellow, Mr. Foley." "I don't know," said Foley slowly.

"Gentlemen don't fall in love with other men's wives." "Who said he was in love with me?"

Her face grew suddenly white. Foley's hand tightened its grasp. "You'd better be careful, Lize. I'll have my way in this. I forbid you to go on the lake with Langham again." "You were the one who sent me!

Take your hand off-it hurts! I don't know whether I'll obey such a tyrant

She fled into the little parlor and Foley heard the bolt slip in the door.

* * * Two days of sultry weather burnt the ground in wide, deep cracks along the hickory ridge. Lize pouted and avoided Dave, who watched her with eyes grown sullen and suspicious. But the boat remained tied to its tree, the rope swaying in the water undisturbed. Langham, whose vagrant fancy had led him to fit up a rude hut on the south end of the lake, did not come down to the camp. Foley hoped he would stay away. There was a feeling in the tips of Foley's fingers that could have found rest upon Langham's white throat.

The heavens had grown coppery with clouds that Saturday eve. The billows rolled in thunderous mutterings, and through the cypress trees and cane there came the sonorous breath of the storm. The men had left the mill, and Foley, standing midway the unsteady bridge, swept the heavens with his huntsman's glass. He lowered it to lowl. A cry broke from his lips; he keen with fury. It was there that Langham, far down the lake, drew Lize's head upon his breast and their lips met in one passionate caress.

Foley went leaping to the shore like a madman. On, on, up to his house and into the tiny sitting-room. A pearlhandled bit of steel lay upon the mantel; he snatched it up and thrust it into his pocket; the cold steel chilled his blood, and the face of Lize looked at him from its celluloid frame. Foley fell upon his knees and threw the weapon from him.

"Oh, my God! my God!" he cried * * * The storm that had been brewing all the day at twilight fell with fury. Langham in his cozy cabin heard the outside tempest as in a dream. There was a tempest in his heart—his brain, and the touch of her lips lingering in all its delicious thrill within his veins. He knew it was a guilty love, but in his soul he could not think of her but as a fair, little April's ladynever as Foley's wife. He was a man of the world, and knew what the world would say of him, the dilettante student of men and letters. But the waif tossed to Foley's door by the flood of fornia. the great yellow river was the waif who had crept into Langham's heart.

And when the door flew open in a burst of rain and he saw a drenched figure coming swiftly to him he only smiled and held out his arms. She sank into them, sobbing and shivering upon his breast.

"Oh, Geoffrey, take me, take me away from here! Dave struck me—he called me a fearful name! He saw you kiss me and he will not forgive me any more." Loo Langham's face blanched, but he stroked her wet hair tenderly.

"You are safe with me now, Lize, and my own!" he said. His own-but how! She was yet Foley's wife.

"I wish I had not gone with you," she sobbed, still clinging to him. "I am se cold, Geoffrey!" Langham placed her in a chair and found a great shawl to wrap around her; he knelt before her and began to chafe her hands. The September rain was chill and her blue little face was quivering like a child's.

Not until he heard her cry did Langham look up to see Foley standing in the room, his great arms folded upon his breast. Langham sprang to the shelf where his pistol lay, but Foley had a powerful hand upon his arm. "Not that. If I had wanted to shoot you I would not have given you a chance for life. I've come to talk with you about Lize. What are you going to do with her? I gave her choice of you and me and she chose you."

Langham's face burned dull scarlet, but Foley's eyes were like steady steel. "She's been an honorable womanmy wife. I don't know how far your love-making his gone, but I want no woman that don't want me. But I can't see her go to the devil. I'll kill her first. She was a baby in a basket cradle when the river floated her to my cabin door. She's been all the world to me ever since. I haven't been so soft-spoken or so 'oving, but I gave her my name, my love, my respect. Can her at all?" It was a curious, pathetic scene. The girl in the chair stared at Foley, but Langham's face was troubled.

you do that for her? Or do you want

"I love her," he said slowly. "I am willing to make her my wife if it is possible. She is innocent now of all but folly. I swear to you, Foley (with a sudden passion), there is no sin between

"So much the better if you love each other. Now, listen. I am going away this night-no matter where. She can get her freedom in a little while and be unless you cast her off or break her heart! Then, by God, I'll follow you and kill you inch by inch!"

For one moment Foley's eyes blazed their threat into Langham's heart. Then he was gone into the night without one word for Lize.

Foley's wife looked at Langham dully.

"He is gone," she said.

Langham bent and kissed her face, an agony of thoughts in his brain. But Lize pushed him back from her.

"I shall never be his wife. I shall never see him any more!" she said.

"No, no. You are all mine now. You shall be my wife and we shall forget how love began."

Lize sprang to her feet; her eyes flashed a strange, amber light upon him.

"Oh, I don't love you. I hate you! I know how I love Dave. I want Dave; I am his wife, not yours! I am sorry I kissed you and came to you. Oh, forgive me! I must go to Dave-"

* * * Langham picked up a bit of ribbon that had fallen from her hair. He kissed it with a bitter smile and put it next his heart. * * *

Foley, working like a madman at his trunk, heard a light step upon the little porch. His heart leaped in a sickening throb as Lize crept into the room and stood trembling by the hearth.

"Well?" he said, sternly, through his teeth, "has Langham driven you from him?"

"Dave, Dave! Oh, will you please to let me stay with you? I will not ask to be your wife; only let me say how I did not know I loved you till to-night. You were not like a lover, Dave. You treated me like a child, and I was a watch a snipe in combat with a fellow woman, who wanted love and sweet words. I hate him! I told him so, and looked through the glass with an eye | he tried to keep me back, but I had to come to you. I have been wicked-I let him kiss me!"

> Her voice died in her throat. Foley caught her by the arms. "I struck you!" he said, hoarsely. "Can you forget that?"

"Oh, yes!" she sobbed, her lips touching his rough hand. Foley caught her in his arms and turned her face toward the lamp. In her eyes he saw the "light that never was on sea or land." In his long, silent kiss the past was buried. and a lovely future dawned for the Waif o' Foley's Heart.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

HYMN OF THE REPUBLIC.

Opinion Formed by a Passenger on Potomac River Boat.

"Do you know what the national hymn of this country should be?" inquired a visitor to the capital of a reporter.

The gentleman propounding the question had traveled extensively in foreign lands and has been in all parts of his own country, from Florida to Alaska and between Maine and Cali-

The reporter studied a little and then answered, "I suppose you mean 'Down Upon the Suwannee River?"

The visitor rubbed his hands delightedly. "You have struck it exactly," he declared, "and I'll tell you why I am more convinced of it than ever. I went down the Potomac, the other night, on one of the excursion steamers. There was a large crowd aboard, all good-natured and happy at the idea of having an outing. I sized the crowd up going down, and I made up my mind that it was pretty cosmopolitancontaining people from all sections of the country. "On the return trip I sat with a friend, a native of New Hampshire, and a Northerner throughout. We were on the deek just below the pilot house. After we had ridden a little time some young people began singing. They rang in the old-time favorites, 'Old Black Joe,' 'Dixie,' 'Maryland, My Maryland,' which, by the way, caused some emotion, and other songs, including 'My Bonnie,' 'How Con I Bear to Leave Thee,' and others. Each one caused a few to chime in, but there was no special enthusiasm.

"At last the singers struck up 'Down Upon the Suwannee River.' The effect was magical. In an instant it seemed to me that everybody on the boat, including my reserved companion, had joined in. The plaintive air floated over the water to the Maryland and Virginia shores, and was wafted upward in the starlight. When it was finished there was complete silence for a little time. I am not an emotional man, but I felt my breath catch and the tears came into my eyes.

"My friend put his hand on my knee. I always feel a truer patriot when I hear that song,' was all he said."-New York Telegram.

An Old Story.

CHICAGO'S ITALIAN "QUEEN."

Tells Her Countrymen How to Vote and Aids Them When in Trouble. The Italians of Chicago bave a "queen." Her castle is a weatherbeaten house of faded brick, hung about with vines and creeping flowers, and is located in the dust and smoke and turmoil of Pacific avenue, the heart of the Italian colony.

Annie Carlo is the "queen's" real name. She is young, just nearing 26. She has the smooth, oily black hair so typical of the Italian woman, which she plaits in tiny braids and pins close to her head. The eyes are large and clear, and at times animated and sparkling. To say that her complexion is dazzling is using an adjective both inadequate and incomplete. It is ideal -a creamy white of velvety softness, touched faintly on either cheek with just a dash of crimson. She dresses passably well, and has an air of superior knowing. Some idea of her power is derived from the following statement she recently made to a Chicago reporter:

"A-ah, yes, they call me queen of Italians," she said. "I know them all -here on Pacific avenue-North Side-West Side-everywhere! They come to me, morning, night, all times. To-day I go with man who buy fruit stand. see he is not cheated. I sign leases; I tell him what to do. To-morrow I go to court. Some Italian man fights. 1 sign bond, and be his lawyer. The judge, the bailiff—the—the clerkthey all know me. I rent houses-five -six-seven here on Pacific avenue. I am-what-you-call-agent, for Mrs. Bagley's tenements. I keep grocery: I keep saloon-no, that not place for me. I busy-busy all the time. I get up sometimes 4 o'clock. 1 go to bed at 12. Always so much to do. . The people come. I got them work. I go with girls to candy factories. I find them places. I get men work; I know the bosses. Hundreds men I get work for. When man loses job he comes to me. I find place for him."

"And do they pay you for that?" was asked.

"No, no! Only sometimes. I not want pay. I glad always to help my people." "It is said that you have a wide influence with the Italian voters," was remarked.

"Yes, that es so," she answered. "They ask me how to vote. The men they know not how to vote. They cannot read; they cannot write. I tell them."

A Curious Pocket-Piece.

A Union Pacific engineer has a fashion of making unique pocket pieces for his friends. He runs a passenger engine west, says the Tacoma Ledger, and when oiling previous to a run he drops a nickel five-cent piece into the brass oil cup on the crosshead of the piston-rod. His run is 300 miles. When he reaches his destination he unscrews the top of the oil cup and takes the nickel out. It has been metamorphosed into a curious little button with an evenly turned rim, within which, on the one side, is the countersunk head of Liberty, divested of her stars, and on the other side the V and the wreath. The edge of the crown is as perfect as if it had been pounded on an anvil by an expert silversmith.

The perfection of this is due to the even vibration the coin has been subjected to. The motion of the piston is horizontal, and it travels forty-eight inches, back and forth, with every revolution of the wheels. The interior of the oil cup is round and the edges of the nickel as it travels back and forth in the oil, striking the sides of the cup, are turned over and pounded into perfect roundness. Sometimes a nickel is left in the cup during the round trip, or 600 miles. When taken out it is a nickel bullet, a perfect polished sphere Who discovered this unique method of turning the edges of a nickel is not known, but many engineers know of it.

A Huge Freight Bill.

I do not know that many are aware that the annual freight bill of this country amounts to more than $800,-000,000 a year. It is a tax, and the most burdensome tax which this country knows, upon our industries and upon production. Its meaning, brought home, is that each family in the United States pays on the average $60 a year for freight alone. If Commissioner Wright's statistics are correct—that the average income of each laborer in this country is not more than $500 a year-then each head of a family must set aside on the average the results bell.

of a month and a half of toil to pay his share of the freight.

The people of the West have learned this economic lesson well. They have seen their wheat carried over the great lakes at an average charge of less than 1 mill per ton per mile, when the railroad rate from their farms to lake transportation or to market was from 1 cent to 11/2 cents per ton per mile. They know that if all the freight in the United States could be carried as cheaply as is wheat from Duluth to Buffalo this burden would be cut down to one-tenth of what it now is.

Such considerations as these ought to make it plain, even to a wayfarer or a Congressman, that the freight question is worth a little attention .-Review of Reviews.

THE TOMBSTONE LIES.

How Hogan's Plan for His Burial Miscarried.

"Here lies the body of Martin Hogan," reads an inscription on a curious old tomb in the Catholic cemetery on State street, Auburn. Through a hole near the bars of the shaft one may view the interior, which contains a heavy, worm-eaten casket-empty, except for a grave-digger's spade and a collection of old whisky bottles. The body of Martin Hogan is not visible, nor any part of its remains. Instead, they occupy a very humble grave in another part of the old cemetery. Martin Hogan was the first instructor of the Catholic children of Auburn, long before the parochial schools were introduced. He was prominent in his church and in his profession, and as he grew old the desire for a magnificent and splendid tomb became his great passion. The last years of his life were spent in preparations for this end. He visited the marble dealers in the large cities, but could find nothing to suit his purpose, so he constructed a shaft of masonry, covered with sheet iron and finished in white. Heavy marble slabs were set in each side, and one of them opened into a compartment large erough to receive the massive oaken box which Hogan had placd in readiness for his casket. His name was inscribed on every side of the tomb, and that opening into his compartment bore the legend quoted at the beginning. Martin took great pride in his arrangements, planting rose trees and flowering bushes all about the monument. He spent hours at the place, and his mind was satisfied with the contemplation of his last resting place. When the old school master died the parish made a vigorous protest against placing his body in the tomb, because it was above ground, and, to the great disappointment of his family, feet of mains were buried under six earth in another part with its moulder-and the old tomb with its moulderscription, remains as Hogan left it fifty years ago, serving only as a tool house for the workmen.

Fortunes Awaiting Claimants.

By order of Parliament a report has just been made out and published concerning the unclaimed funds in the keeping of the various English government departments at the present moment. The chancery division of the Supreme Court of Judicature has in its possession over $300,000,000, after paying during the last two years $85,000,000 to successful claimants. The Irish Court of Chancery holds some $50,-000,000 of unclaimed moneys, while the unclaimed Government stocks and accumulated dividends retained by the treasury department amount to $28,-000,000. Unclaimed dividends in bankruptcy are figured at $50,000,000, while unclaimed army and navy prize money and accumulations of pay exceed $3,000,000. All these funds are used by the British Government until claims thereto have been satisfactorily proved. An endeavor will be made to transfer to the state the custody of unclaimed funds in the hands of bankers and others. These funds are known to amount to a colossal sum, far exceeding the total amount of unclaimed money now in the keeping of the Government.—Boston Transcript.

French Army Discipline. Discipline is evidently a factor in the French army, as two incidents which have just occurred during a single sitting of a court-martial at Tunis go to prove. A soldier belonging to one of the African battalions, brought up on a charge of disobedience, when asked what he had to say in his defense, shouted, "You are a lot of swine and drinkers of blood," and was promptly sentenced to ten years' hard labor. The man who was introduced after him was accused of a similar offense, and the usual questions with a view to establishing his identity had scarcely been addressed to him when he tore a button off his tunic and flung it at the face of the president. For this offense he was condemned to death.-Boston Transcript.

RED LETTER SALE

ERE we are again in the last month of the year-the month of all months—the holiday month, in which everybody tries to make everybody else happy by giving Christmas presents. We call this our RED LETTER MONTH—the month in which we want to contribute to the happiness of all our customers. We propose to again do this in our usual way, which others try to immitate but without success.

Our way is not to give a Christmas present of a handkerchief or some other cheap item, but to make a GENERAL REDUCTION ON ALL GOODS IN THE STORE. This is the way we serve all alike.

We inaugurate our RED LETTER SALE by a grand sacrifice on all merchandise in our mammoth store. We cannot advertise all our bargains, as this paper would not be large enough, but will quote only a few leader in various departments.

Red Letter Sale of

NOTIONS

Our Notion Department is, as usual, complete in every detail. All kinds of small wear, such as you expect to find in a well regulated Notion Department, can be found with us.

Corsets-in all the latest shapes and models. Fit guaranteed. In Handkerchiefs we show the best lot for Christmas that you have ever seen, ranging in prices from 1c to $1 each-for ladies or gents. Feather Boas and Collarettes at prime cost.

Our Cloak and Skirt Department anounces that every garment must go, the very bottom has been pulled from underneath them in the way of prices. Remember, we have no old stock, no garments made before 1897. All of this new lot must go at some price so we concluded to give our customers the benefit of a cloak bargain now. Will not mention prices now for we want to surpise you when you come to see us. The same can be said of our Shals; all will go this month regardless of cost. This is your chance to buy these goods.

SUMMING IT ALL UP-We can't see why you should fool away your time in one of the small stores when The Big Store is offering such inducements as only a large store can offer. For the more of any kind of merchandise we buy the cheaper we can sell, as we get discounts that small dealers cannot obtain.

In conclusion we would suggest an early inspection and purchase for several reasons. First, early purchasers have first choice; many good things will not be here in the last week before Christmas. Secondly, you avoid the great holiday rush of the last few days.

The Big Store will be closed all day on Christmas. Don't forget this. Do your trading before that day.
