Plymouth.

Prosper N. Mickey, candidate for sheriff, was in town Monday.

John Green and Chas. Medbourn went hunting Thursday morning, result: Ten rabbits, 14 ducks, 19 prairie chickens etc. Pretty good 'Eh.

Several gentlemen laid a sidewalk on the north side of the M. E. church Tuesday. W. S. Easterday, take notice.

In Fochester court house, Fulton county, stands a stalk of corn with seven ears upon the same. The longest being 14 inches and the shortest seven. Two hundred and forty bushels of corn were taken from an acre in the field where said stalk grew. This is no humbug as reliable men have made affidavit relative to its truth and veracity. This corn was grown upon a farm near Kewanna. What's the matter with Marshall county?

Sam Parker, one of the slickest attorneys now practicing law and a man way up in "G" on national affairs, delivered a stirring democratic speech at the Colonnade hotel last Saturday night. As the 16 to 1 theory was a mighty hard dose for for Sam to swallow, we do not know whether he believed all that he said.

The 157th has been mustered out and the boys have returned to their respective homes. Henry Stahl arrived in Culver Wednesday. He is in much better health than he was at home on a furlough.

J. O. Ferrier and family of Logansport moved to Culver this week and now occupy the John Zechiel, Jr. residence on Zechiel avenue. Mr. Ferrier will open a lumber yard at this place and has several car load on the way. He intends to handle first class building material of all kinds and should be liberally patronized.

Next Tuesday is election. Vote for the best and most capable men irrespective of party affiliation. You have known Oscar Porter since his boyhood and know that he is a self-made man. During his life he has never committed an act that would cast the least reflection upon his character. As auditor of Marshall county he has had no superior. Hence, you will regret to place in charge of the auditor's office a "Big I and little u," man, preeminently characteristic in Porter's opponent. Then, according to all fairness, he is entitled to another term. He has served the people well, consequently should be reelected.

We received a letter from Sergeant H. A. Seyferth Thursday. He is now at Ft. Meade South Dakota, and is enjoying very good health. We will publish the letter next week.

Owing to the urgent and continuous solicitation of his host upon hosts of friends, Dr. E. E. Parker has concluded to settle at Maxenkuckee and practice medicine. He is a graduate of the medical college of Indiana and came out at the head of his class. He is thoroughly competent to follow his profession and we bespeak for him a liberal patronage. He is a man of rare culture, having taken a four years literary course at Butler College, department of liberal arts of the University of Indianapolis. Aside from the above courses, he has received special instructions in the surgery department, and is highly recommended by his skilled instructors. Give him a call and you will ever find him on the alert to please by rendering you good service.

Arbor day was observed at Mt. Pleasant school last Friday afternoon and 10 trees were planted. A parexellent program was rendered which reflected great credit upon Miss Elsie Walter the teacher as well as her pupils. The Kaley school was present and was highly pleased at the cordial welcome tendered them by the Mt. Pleasant school.

Miss Alice Saultz left today for extended visit with friends in the southern part of the state.

George Voreis is giving the Nussbaum building now owned by Sam Medbourn and occupied by Vanschojack a coat of paint. Garn Bros. are also painting the elevator.

Please do not lose sight of this request.

It is the intention of the executive committee to promptly call for the services of the Deputy Fish Commissioner whenever it appears necessary, and information on this point is solicited from all interested in Lake Maxenkuckee fishing.

It requires money to do this. Kindly, therefore, remit at once, either direct to the secretary or treasurer, or to the respective assistant above mentioned, the amount of assessment now due, i. e. $8.00, so that the officers will not be hampered with the execution of their work.

OTTO STECHMAN, Pres,

DON'T.

Don't work too hard in trying to avoid hard work.

Don't make fun of a fool unless you are in the same boat.

Don't forget that as instructors actions are superior to words.

Don't expect a man to take water when you invite him to have something.

Don't hang your head if you are guilty. That is what the sheriff's paid for.

Don't think love's young dream will kindle the kitchen fire on a cold morning.

Don't comb your hair over the bald spot on your head and then kick because your grocer puts the big potatoes on top of the measure.

A Long Engagement.

Clara—Are you engaged to Douglass for good?

Gertrude—It looks so. I don't think he'll ever be able to marry me.

Foot Ball.

They were from Greencastle. They are students at the Depauw University. They composed the foot ball team of that noted institution. They were great stalwart fellows and boasted of their skill as foot ball kickers and all-round foot ball manipulators. They came all the way from Greencastle, Saturday with the expressed purpose of making "short work of that small fry" the academy team. Long before the game was called the Depauw fellows made a show of themselves, by performing the wonderful feat "leap the frog" etc. At three o'clock the game was called with the University team in possession of the ball, they looking like giants along-side the C. M. A's. Right from the start the little fellows forced their burly opponents toward the goal and but for a slight mishap would have made a touch-down in the first half. Finally after a most bitter and prolonged struggle, DePauw concluded that it was impossible to make a touch-down, so they tried the place-kick from the field, which they succeeded in making, thereby scoring five points. In the second half the struggle was even more desperate than in the first, and twice when DePauw's right-half-back broke through the line and started for the goal, the game was only saved by Capt. Wickam's sprinting and Anderson's expert tackling. And then the University team fought their way to within eight inches of the goal but lost the ball on downs.

Then came savage and dogged playing on the part of the C. M. A's. They forced their opponents nearly half-way across the field, when Capt. Kiler kicked the ball within a few yards of the goal, and Canfield, Culver's chain lightning left-end, secured the ball after a long run, thereby saving it for Culver. Then the fun commenced. The University giants played like demons, but the Academy team played as if hades itself had turned loose, and sweeping everything before them, they rushed the pig-skin over the line for a touch-down, and the score was tied. The cheering of the cadets over this play was deafening, and a few minutes later, when time was called just as Culver was forcing the ball down the field for a second touch-down, they enthusiastically bore Capt. Wickam and Kiler and Lieut. Floyd to their shoulders and carried them in triumph from the field of battle. Thus is a great victory chronicled, circumstances considered.

TRY NOVEL SUICIDE.

LOVERS WANTED TO DIE IN COMPANY.

Rose Laurer and J. E. Cleckner, of Cleveland, Bind Themselves Together and Jump Into Lake Erie—Abdication of Greece's Ruler Discussed.

Wanted to Die Together. A desperate attempt to commit suicide was made by Rose Laurer, aged 22, and J. E. Cleckner, aged 32, at Cleveland. The couple walked out to the end of the dock of the Cleveland Yacht Club, at the foot of Erie street, and tied themselves together with strips torn from a bed sheet. They then jumped into the lake. Two Lake Shore railroad detectives were in the vicinity and witnessed the act. They at once ran down and dived into the icy waters after the couple. The man and woman were finally rescued after a long struggle on the part of the detectives. Both were taken to a hospital. Cleckner is a conductor on the Cleveland and Pittsburgh road. Beyond saying that they were tired of living, the couple would give no reason for their attempted suicide.

KING GEORGE MAY RETIRE.

Talk of Abdication of Greece's Ruler Is Renewed. King George of Greece may abdicate in the spring in favor of Crown Prince Constantine. This report is persistent at Copenhagen in court circles, but naturally cannot be verified. King George is still visiting there, after attending the funeral of his mother, the Queen of Denmark. The known unpopularity of Prince Constantine with the Greek people, who attribute to him many of the misfortunes of the war with Turkey, tends to discredit the idea of his father's abdicating in his favor. It is well known, however, that King George would like to retire and return to Denmark if he could safely do so without imperiling the future of his children.

WARSHIPS FOR DEWEY.

Request for Light-Draught Vessels Will Be Complied With. Rear Admiral Dewey's request for more light draught war vessels is to be promptly complied with. Following close upon the Buffalo, the gunboat Helena will soon start for Manila by way of the Suez canal. The Yorktown will be ordered from the Pacific coast to the Philippines, and an auxiliary cruiser will probably be sent. The cruiser Brooklyn will sail for Manila with recruits and supplies for Dewey.

NAVAL RECRUITS KILLED.

Special Train Meets with Disaster Near Winnipeg, Manitoba. The special naval train was derailed east of Rat Portage, Man., by a broken rail. The tender, two baggage cars and three colonists' cars went over an embankment ten feet high. Frank Fleckney and William Miller, from the training ship Agincourt of Chatham, England, were killed. Samuel Harrison, stoker, of Edinburgh and Thomas Burns, seaman, were injured.

Too Many Mrs. Browns.

The Rev. Augustus Brown of Nottoway County, Va., is charged with marrying twice more than the law allows. Amanda Gintings of Newport News became the first Mrs. Brown in January, 1895. October of the same year, it is said, found the reverend gentleman again a benedict, Agnes Lynch being the blushing bride. It is further charged that wife No. 3 was acquired by the minister last year, while both his other wives were living. His arrest was effected by a member of the Petersburg police force.

Beggar with a Fortune.

Patrick McKenna dropped dead in the free dispensary of the Baltimore city hospital while begging for medicine. He declared that he was penniless. WIDOW SCARED TO DEATH.

Directed by a Clairvoyant to Make a Midnight Trip for Hidden Money. Mrs. Hannah Burke of Elyria, Ohio, is dead as a result of fright. Three weeks ago a man giving the name of Dr. D. James appeared at Elyria and put out a clairvoyant sign. Mrs. Burke, widow of the late David Burke, became interested in the clairvoyant, and she received a message from him which he claimed was from her dead husband. At one time her husband had met with a heavy financial loss, and this point was taken up by Dr. James. The clairvoyant gave her a message, in which it was stated that it was the desire of the spirit to have her regain the money, and, in order to do this, she must converse with other spirits, who would direct her to a spot on the old farm where the money was to be found. Mrs. Burke was instructed to go to the farm with a companion, between the hours of midnight and 4 in the morning. The trip was made as directed. When the farm was reached Mrs. Burke became so frightened that she collapsed. She was taken to her home and at noon she died. She was 60 years old. Dr. James disappeared.

DUEL BETWEEN MAN AND WOMAN

Jealous Quarrel Leads to a Bloody Contest on a St. Louis Street. A man and woman fought with knives in the open street at St. Louis, Mo. The contestants were James Dowe, aged 26 years, and Miss Mildred Mason. The duel grew out of a jealous quarrel and was witnessed by hundreds of persons passing on their way home from downtown. Had not two police officers arrived on the scene in time and separated the fighters, one or both undoubtedly would have been killed. As it was both were splashed with blood from head to foot when the police interfered. Dowe was wounded in the neck, face and arms. The woman was cut across the breast, left wrist and abdomen, and the blood freely flowed from her wounds. Dowe and the woman were then forwarded to the city hospital as prisoners. Both will probably recover.

KILLED BY A BLIND MAN.

Dan Coughlin, of St. Paul, Shoots His Sister-in-Law and Himself. At St. Paul, Minn., Dan Coughlin, a blind retired railroad engineer, shot and killed his young sister-in-law, Miss Katie Marrinan, and then fatally shot himself. Mrs. Coughlin, a short time afterward, discovered the dead bodies and became nearly crazed over the tragedy. The mother of the two women recently died, leaving her entire estate, about $100,000, to the unmarried daughter. Coughlin several times quarreled with the woman over this fact, which is thought to have led to the tragedy, of which there were no witnesses.

Imprisoned in a Madhouse.

Samuel Nissley, a farmer residing near Unicorn, Pa., disappeared on April 1, 1897, under mysterious circumstances. The other day he returned home with a story of kidnaping. The day he disappeared he went to Lancaster to transact some business, and as he had in his possession a considerable sum of money it was believed after a few days that he had been murdered and robbed. A general search of the surrounding country was made, even the streams being dragged. Some time after his disappearance his farm was sold by the sheriff, his wife buying it in, and it was then concluded that he had fled to escape financial troubles. During his entire absence his family received no news of him, and when he quietly stepped into their midst recently there was great excitement. His story of his disappearance is a strange one. He says that the day he disappeared he went from Lancaster to Harrisburg to attend to some business. When ready to return to Lancaster he took a west-bound train instead of one east bound, and about the time he discovered his error two men claimed that he was in their custody and was being taken to an insane asylum. The people about him took his indignant denials for the ravings of an insane man, and he was taken to an insane asylum, where he cannot tell. He was only released a couple of days before, and he returned home as soon as possible.

Not Cured by Fasting.

A case of fanaticism of the extreme type was discovered at Los Angeles, Cal., when Miss Nell Thompson, colored, died while being taken from the home of Mrs. Minerva Williams, who is said to call herself a representative of Christ, and who has been preaching the doctrine of fasting as a means of grace. The Thompson woman practiced this doctrine, having gone without food for eight days and sleeping in the river bottom on a piece of matting.

Bars One Woman Anarchist.

Catherine Sophia De Giraud d'Agaya, an aged Frenchwoman, who came from Vancouver, B. C., to San Francisco, Cal., on the steamship Walla Walla, has been refused a landing by Commissioner Northrup on the ground that she is liable to become a public charge. From documents found in Mrs. De Giraud's possession the officials of the immigration bureau concluded that she was an anarchist.

Mexican Banker Robbed in St. Louis.

At St. Louis, Ramon Basail, teller of the Mexican National Bank, City of Mexico, was robbed of $4,300 in drafts on American banks, a $1,000 Mexican bill, $80 in American money and a number of railroad tickets by a negro of whom he inquired the direction to the Union station. Mr. Basail is making a tour of the United States inspecting the banking system. He was left without a cent.

FROM THE FAR NORTH

THE YUKON IS FILLED WITH SLUSH ICE.

Travel to Dawson Suspended—Railway from Vancouver to Lake Atlin Gold Fields—American Awarded $40,000 Damages Against Peru.

Copper Discoveries in Alaska. The steamer Cottage City has arrived at Victoria, B. C., from Skaguay, Alaska, with a large number of passengers. They report that the Yukon river is now filled with slush ice and that travel to Dawson is suspended. It is also reported that a new lake has been discovered in the Atlin country. It is fully as large as Lake Atlin. The official gazette gives notice of the intended construction of a railway from North Vancouver to the Lake Atlin gold fields, via Bridge river and Lillooet. There is said to be strong financial backing behind the scheme and work will be pushed immediately. Native float copper has been found on Chitna river, 175 miles from the mouth of the Copper river, and a party of fifteen will remain there over winter to prospect for the main copper deposit. Nichol Knast, chief of the Copper River Indians, claims to know the exact location of a copper deposit, but he refused offers of several hundred dollars to guide people to its location. Indians use copper for making bracelets and other ornaments, as well as for cooking utensils, and the chief claims the whites will limit the supply and thereby deprive many Indians from means of making a livelihood.

MUST PAY MAC CORD.

United States' Controversy with Peru Settled by Arbitration.

The award of the chief justice of Canada, to whose arbitration was submitted the claim of Victor MacCord against the Government of Peru for damages sustained by reason of imprisonment during one of the revolutionary outbreaks. MacCord is awarded $40,000. The payment of this amount will close a diplomatic controversy which has been in progress between the United States and Peru for some years, this Government having heretofore persistently but fruitlessly urged reparation for MacCord. MacCord was the consular agent of the United States at Arequipa, Peru, in 1885, and also superintendent of a railroad. During a revolution he was thrown into prison and his life threatened. His original claim was for $200,000.

DECLINES TO ROB A SOLDIER.

St. Louis Burglar Respects a Patriot and Returns Booty.

"I am a burglar, but a patriot. I may be wicked, but I would not rob anyone who defended my country." This inscription was found on a piece of brown paper in the trousers pocket of Eugene P. Walton, a furloughed member of the First Mississippi volunteers, when he awoke the other morning at his boarding house in St. Louis. The burglar was not so considerate of the other guests in the house, for he took everything in sight belonging to them. He had searched Walton's pockets, but finding papers which showed him to be a soldier replaced the articles and then wrote the foregoing note.

Mrs. Botkin Indicted.

Mrs. Cordelia Botkin must stand trial at San Francisco in the Superior Court on the charge of the murder of Mrs. John P. Dunning of Dover, Del. The grand jury, after a prolonged session, has voted to indict her. The evidence collected there and in Delaware was presented to the grand jury and action was hastened at the request of Detective McVey, who said he was anxious to return home.

Leiter Buys Locomotive Works.

It is stated at Providence, R. I., on authority which appears to be unquestionable that Joseph Leiter, who during the last year startled the world by his extensive wheat dealings, has purchased the famous Rhode Island locomotive works and that it is his purpose to begin the manufacture of locomotives under the patents the concern holds.

Caught 27,865 Seals.

The official statement of the sealing industry for the season just closed shows a total of only 27,865 skins for the fleet of thirty-five schooners, by far the lightest catch in years; also fewer schooners have been employed. The catch is divided thus: Asiatic coast, 440; British Columbia coast, 10,055; Bering Sea, 17,370.

FIVE INDIANS ARE KILLED.

Desperate Fight Between Whites and Redskins in Oregon.

A young man who was a member of the sheriff's posse has returned to Canyon City, Ore., with a report of a desperate fight between the whites and a renegade band of Indians. The nineteen white men and five buck warriors were about forty feet apart when the battle began. George Cuttings, son of David Cuttings, received a ball in the left arm, and it passed through his lungs. He started, in company with M. Mosier, for Izee, near the scene of the trouble. The wounded man became so weak that he was left near the trail propped up against a tree. When a searching party went to look for him they found his dead body near a spring, where he had crawled. The posse continued the pursuit, and after a running battle killed five Indians. Settlers have been sent to Canyon City for more ammunition, stating that the Indians are gathering around Izee in large numbers.

DEVoured BY POLAR BEARS.

Fate That Overtook James Spiers, a Prospector in the Klondike.

News was brought to Vancouver, B. C., by a party of Los Angeles men who went in over the Edmonton trail in an unsuccessful attempt to reach the Klondike of the death of James Spiers of South Carolina, who was killed and eaten by polar bears in the Peace river district. Spiers left camp alone to look for horses that had strayed away. Ten days later human bones were found near a mountain cave. A party camped there during the night and the next morning shot two large bears that were going into the cave. It is practically certain that the bones were those of Spiers. He had no weapons with which to defend himself.

Dead Hands on the Lever.

When night express train No. 12, east-bound, arrived at Susquehanna, Pa., the other night the engineer, Henry Kingsley of Susquehanna, was found dead in the cab with his head badly crushed. After the train left Binghamton, twenty-three miles west of there, trainmen and others noticed that the engineer failed to give the usual signals at crossings and at small stations and that the train was running at an unusual speed. Fireman Cowen noticed that the whistle was not blown for Susquehanna and, going forward into the cab, found the dead engineer. The train had run at a terrific speed for twenty miles without an engineer. Over 200 passengers were on board. It is supposed that the engineer was hit by a water crane at a point just east of Binghamton.

A NATION OF DYSPETPTICS.

From the Mountaineer, Wallalla, N. Dakota.

The remorse of a guilty stomach is what a large majority of the people are suffering with to-day. Dyspepsia is a characteristic American disease, and it is frequently stated that "we are a nation of dyspeptics." Improper food, hurried eating, mental worry, exhaustion; any of these produces a lack of vitality in the system, by causing the blood to lose its life-sustaining elements. The blood is the vital element in our lives, and should be carefully nurtured. Restore the blood to its proper condition and dyspepsia will vanish. For example, in the county of Pembina, North Dakota, a few miles from Wallalla, resides Mr. Earnest Snider, a man of sterling integrity, whose veracity cannot be doubted. He says:

The Doctors Disagree.

"I became seriously ill three years ago. The doctor gave me medicine for indigestion, but I continued to become worse. I had several physicians at intervals who gave me some relief, but nothing permanent. "I read in the newspapers articles regarding the wonderful curative powers of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and finally concluded to try the pills. I purchased six boxes. This was five months ago. The first box gave me much relief. I continued taking the pills, and after using four boxes was cured."

Economy.

"And you are willing to be a farmer's wife?" he faltered. "For reply she threw herself into his arms. "Poverty!" she exclaimed, after a time. "What care I for poverty? We shall manage, even if we have to make over last season's hay! Oh, my Edwin!" In order to succeed, a woman must have confidence in three things, namely, herself, her husband, and the device for holding her skirt and shirt waist together behind.—Detroit Journal.

Dr. Thomas Popham,

Philadelphia: Your Popham's Asthma Specific has nearly cured me. I have been afflicted with asthma since infancy, (20 years). For two years previous to the use of your medicine the disease had become periodical coming on every morning in severe cal. xysms. I used every ing in medipar. I without asthma medicine I heard of, without success. I had become very weak and disheartened; had almost despaired of receiving any benefit from medicine; saw your medicine advertised in the paper and sent for some immediately; used it twice a day for one year, and have had but one paroxysm for the past six months. Yours truly, ADDIE ELLIOTT, Sheridan, Iowa.

An Alarm Padlock.

The latest novelty in padlocks is one with an auxiliary chamber containing an explosive for creating an alarm on the lock being tampered with. The explosive is fired by a hammer inside the lock.

What Do the Children Drink?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing, and takes the place of coffee. The more GRAIN-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. GRAIN-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs about 1/4c as much. All grocers sell it. 15c and 25c.

KING WHEAT.

You may tell of your armored cruisers,
And your great ships of the line;
And swift or slow may steamers go
Across the billowy brine.
Like thunder may the cannon boom
To greet their flags unfurled,
And for an hour they may have power
To rule the frightened world.

From ocean shore to ocean shore
Lie lines of gleaming steel,
And night or day, we hear all way
The ring of rushing wheel:
Though buffalo have left the plain,
And Indian tents are furled,
Nor steam nor hand at wealth's command
Can rule the busy world.

But where the hillside rises fair
In terraces of green,
And on the plain, where wind and rain
Sweep fields of golden sheen,
Where sturdy yellow stalks arise,
With bannered heads unfurled,
Here you may greet the great King
Wheat,
The ruler of the world.

Oh, hills may shake and vales resound
Beneath the flying car,
And driven by steam and winds
a-beam

Our ships ride fast and far;
Cities may crumble 'neath the guns
Which guard our flag unfurled,
Yet all shall greet—at last—King
Wheat,
For hunger rules the world.

panion.

MY SIN.

When I was a young man I fell in love, as young men generally do, with the girl who came handiest. This particular girl happened to be Belle Burton, and I devoted myself to her, rode with her, boated with her (it was a country place where we met), walked with her, talked with her, begged her for the roses she wore in her hair and tried (in vain), for I was no poet, to make sonnets not only to her "eyebrows," but to her hair, her cheeks and her lily white hands. In fact, I went through the pretty dream of first love as most young people do, and it ended, as it generally does, in an unpleasant awakening.

One day a stage arrived at the hotel with a dozen dashing New Yorkers for passengers. The next one of them obtained an introduction to Belle Burton.
There was no doubt whatever that he was handsomer than men usually are,
or that his grace and accomplishments were equal to his personal charms.
Handsome Arnold he was generally called, and girls went into raptures over his large, long-lashed eyes and blonde mustache, and men feared his broad shoulders, deep chest and splendid proportions. For my part, I hated him from the first, for no sooner had he appeared upon the carpet than Belle seemed utterly to forget my very existence.

I suppose she had never cared anything about me, but she had flirted with me while there was no better fun to be had, and I was old enough to know that the man she loves is the one no woman ever flirts with. With Arnold she was rather graver than with most men, but her eyes sparkled as he approached her. She blushed when his name was mentioned, and cared for nothing in which he had not some share. In fact, it was as plain that she was in love with him as that he was devoted to her; and there was no doubt in any one's mind that all this would end in a wedding. It was a good thing, said the old people, for poor Belle Burton "had nothing." For my part, it seemed to me that all the luck was Arnold's.

I had never thought myself very ill-
looking before, but now I was wretchedly conscious of all sorts of deficiencies.
I looked in the glass many times a day. I spent half my time criticising my countenance, and longing vainly for the charms of handsome Arnold.
I could not hope to possess them, even should I use all the hair oil and cosmetics of the advertising columns of the daily paper, and bribe to my aid the tailor who best understood the art of padding shoulders; but next to having a fairy transformation effected for my benefit, I should have been pleased to see Arnold lose his beauty. I hope I've been forgiven for it. I scarcely can forgive myself, but I could have prayed that some ban might fall upon him—that he might break his limbs, or catch the small-pox or somehow spoil his complexion or figure.

I was not a wicked young fiend by nature, but love, which, when it prospers, is the most humanizing emotion of the soul, is most likely to develop all the evil emotions of one's nature
when it comes to grief.

I should have taken my departure and put myself out of the way of hourly torture, but I did not do so wisely. I lingered about the place and did small things to spite the happy pair—intruded on their tete-a-tetes, managed to force the society of some excellent and loquacious matron or some troublesome child upon them,

looked daggers of contempt at him and forgot to pass the butter to her. At last a grand chance for annoying him occurred. He was a good rider and proud of his accomplishment, and he had a restive, nervous animal which he boasted no one could ride but himself. I had heard him declare himself perfect master of the creature, who had never given him serious trouble save once, when suddenly brought into the presence of an artist, who was sketching under a white umbrella.

"That," said handsome Arnold, "was something Prince could not understand and it made him forget who held the bridle."

As he came prancing up to the gate, or rode away with an air, I used to wish for an artist with a white umbrella. I desired to see that fellow unseated and ingloriously turned into the mud. That would have made me happy; and once when he had offended me more than ever by his gallant style of riding, I sauntered out into the fields—cursing him in my inmost soul
—when what should I spy in the middle of the grass, intent upon a bunch of clover, but a fat pre-Raphaelite artist, in a white suit, a flapping hat and a white sketching umbrella that would have frightened the clergyman's gray mare, who was nearly as old as himself, into being a runaway.

I rushed toward this artist with enthusiasm. I took off my hat to him. I said:

"Sir, I rejoice that one of your glorious profession has at last visited us.
You love the minute, I see. Have you noticed the spiderwebs on the blackberry bushes at the turn of the lane,
the dew sparkling on the silvery film,
the delicious fruit glowing beneath—have you seen that, sir?"

The pre-Raphaelite artist scratched
his head with his brush, and said:

"Well, no, I ain't."
"Will you come and see it, sir?" I said. "Will you make it immortal on your canvas?"

The pre-Raphaelite artist replied:
"Well, I wouldn't mind."

I did not care what he said, so that he came. My object was not art, it was the white umbrella. I desired to have him seated where the eyes of handsome Arnold's restive Prince would fall upon him as he turned the corner of the garden walk, and to that very spot I beguiled my artist and there stationed him, and when he had settled with Chinese precision to his spiderwebs and blackberries, hid myself behind a tree to enjoy the comic scene I fully expected would follow.

I heard handsome Arnold bid adieu to the ladies. I heard the patter of his horse's feet upon the road, and in a moment more I saw him come gayly on, a smile upon his handsome face,
a rich color on his cheek—youth,
health, strength and happiness expressed in every curve and outline of his statuesque form. The next instant Prince had seen the white artist and the white umbrella. And then—then, heaven forgive me, not the amusing spectacle of handsome Arnold's discomfiture that I had hoped to see.
He kept his seat, while Prince, rearing and plunging, dashed wildly away with him toward a precipitous path along the cliff side, and vanished like a mad thing, with his rider still upon his back, going straight toward a certain awful precipice which overhung
the rocky river shore below.

I cannot go on. They picked him up just alive, no more, at the foot of the precipice; and they carried him, a mere mass of broken bones and bleeding flesh, back to the great hotel. Late at night I crept softly upstairs on my way to bed, and passing Belle Burton's door, heard those slow, heavy sobs that tell of a breaking heart issuing thence.

"He cannot live," the messenger had said, and I was, perhaps, doubly a murderer. I thought seriously of adding to my crime by committing suicide that awful night.

But poor Arnold did live. He had a wonderful constitution, unbroken, as all the men who knew him knew, by dissipation of any kind, and it is hard to kill such a man. He lived, and strength returned to him at last; but no one would ever call him handsome Arnold any more. He had fallen on his face on the horrible jagged rocks, and during his illness all his bonny brown hair had turned gray. No one would know him, they told me; and so powerfully had his beauty and his sweetness affected even men of coarse natures that they uttered these words for the most part with tears in their eyes. As for myself, I would far rather have seen a ghost.

Yet the sight was forced on me. One day I received a note from him, asking me to come to the hotel, and it was signed—Henry Arnold.

I had no choice. I could not refuse.
I went to him.

As I saw him seated in a great armchair in the room to which the waiter showed me—as he rose and advanced toward me, and I saw that he limped heavily—I wonder that I did not die.
I felt the blood leaving my face, and I saw the hot flush rise to his, as he noticed the shock he gave me.

But he only said:
"Sit down. It is kind of you to come."

I staggered to a chair and I saw nothing for a while; yet through it all, I wondered what he thought of my strange conduct, and hated myself for my weakness.

At last he spoke:
"I see how I—how my appearance affects you," he said, very sadly. "It is a horrible thing that I am trying to grow used to. I wish I had broken my neck. Of course, any man would, under the circumstances. But I did not ask you to come that I might say that to you. I want you to take a note from me to a lady at your aunt's house, if you will be so kind. I choose you because you are, as it were, one of the family, and you will be very careful and—kind, I know. It is Miss Belle Burton. I hoped to marry her one day. Of course all that is over now. No one would—no woman could —overlook my hideous appearance."

His voice broke a little, but he went on bravely:

"So I have written to her. I do not want her to see me, and I shall go abroad in a week or so, and—you'll tell her you've seen me, you know. I have loved her very much. I always shall; and this is terribly hard."

He broke down entirely there, and took a letter from his bosom and put it into my hand.

"Give it to her," he said and turned away.

I took it from his hand and left him.
I went straight to Belle Burton. I found her in the garden, and I told her from whom I came and gave her the missive. She read it through gravely, but without tears. Then she looked at me with eyes that had such a solemn,
holy look in them as one would hope to see in an angel's.

"Edward," she said, "he says he is frightfully altered; is it so?"
"Yes," I answered.

"Do you know what he has written?" she said, softly.

"I guess what it is."
"My poor boy!" said she. "As if any thing would change me but a change in his heart. Will you take me to him, Edward? I must go at once."

"Command me," I said.

She caught up the wide straw hat on the bench beside her and drew on her gloves, and took my arm. I never loved her so well as I did then, but,
for once, it was with a perfectly unselfish love. I knew what she was about to do and I blessed her for it.

And so I took her to him; my hand opened the door of his room for her;
my eyes saw—yes and gladly—that however that changed face might affect others, it only made her love for him more tender. I saw her rush into his arms and hide her head on his shoulders; and then I went softly away and hid myself where no one could see me, and cried like a baby.

Ah! well, that is a good while ago, and they have been very happy. The big fellow is almost as graceful as ever, and as for his face—I do not think it would matter much to me what my face was if any one loved it as well as Belle does his.

I go to see them sometimes, and my mad fancy of kneeling down and confessing my share in the horrible affair of the past is quite abandoned. Besides, Belle's daughter is sixteen now, and if an old fellow of thirty-six—ah!
well, who knows what may happen in the future. Only that would be another story quite, and I need not tell it here. It is written, it is written.

Vegetable Giants.

Imagine a flower nine feet around and with petals strong enough to support a man. This mammoth grows in Africa and has five large, thick petals, surrounding a brilliant center, which is encircled by a wide, high brim, and which would make a bathtub large enough for a child.

There are giants among the grasses more wonderful still. If we walk knee deep in grass we say it is a fine crop, and the times we see it should high are rare. In India there is a species called Dab grass which reaches above the heads of the tallest men, for it is fourteen feet high. And there is grass four times as high in the Indian forests. If trees are near the boughs furnish it support. There is, besides, a grass which grows 100 feet high—it is the giant bamboo, and the tallest in the world.

The Jericho weed in our own country is a unique giant. It is a globular mass of tangled vegetation six feet in diameter. Until fall it behaves like other plants, but when the winds of autumn dry its sap it goes on a vegetable cowboy spree. Its drying up does not make it shrink in size—only makes it lighter. It loosens from the soil, and when a cyclone or tornado comes tearing about these huge balls fly before the wind, bounding and leaping across the plains. Is it any wonder that the cattle and sheep are frightened out of their wits when they see these strange things coming and flee for their lives, more scared of the Jericho balls than
of the approaching storm?—Boston

HOG CHOLERA CURE FOUND.

Departments of Agriculture's Experiments Crowned with Success.

During the past two years the Department of Agriculture has conducted a series of experiments in the use of a serum as a remedy for hogs affected by cholera or swine plague. The experiments were conducted by Dr. D. E. Salmon, chief of the bureau of animal industry, and the results were eminently satisfactory, proving the dreaded disease can be successfully treated, easily and inexpensively.

The losses suffered by the farmers of the United States annually from hog cholera aggregate an enormous sum. In Iowa alone, during 1896, it is estimated the hog raisers lost through the ravages of the disease $15,000,000. Scores of remedies have been tried, but nothing even approximating a specific for the disease has ever been discovered until the Department of Agriculture began its experiments.

Summarizing the results of the experiments, Dr. Salmon said 80 per cent of the hogs treated in droves have been saved, while in the droves affected with cholera and not given the serum treatment quite 80 per cent were lost.

Last year the experiments were conducted in Page County, Iowa, the results showing a loss of only 20 per cent of the affected droves. This year the experiments have been extensive and far-reaching. The bureau treated 922 hogs. Of these 170 died, the number saved being 55 out of every 100. The loss was only 10 per cent. The animals comprised seventeen droves, and of these six droves lost only one hog each. On the other hand, 1,107 hogs in other droves were served and not subjected to the serum treatment.
Of these 879 died, showing a loss of 79.8 hogs out of every 100. Speaking of the treatment, Dr. Salmon said:

"There is no question of the effectiveness of the serum treatment. Our operations have been viewed with skepticism, but the serum treatment for hog cholera is no longer an experiment. It is a proved success and undoubtedly will save to the farmers of the United States millions of dollars every year."

The cholera serum is procured by keeping apart for treatment an animal—a horse or cow—and injecting into its blood a small amount of the blood of a cholera-diseased hog. This will sicken the subject, but he will recover, when another dose will be administered, and so on time after time until finally his blood becomes so impregnated as to render him practically cholera proof. Then his blood is let and the clot drawn off, leaving the thin, yellowish portion, which is the serum. This is used to inject into the diseased hogs and operates to render them likewise cholera proof, or even cures them of the disease after it has developed.

PRESIDENT'S PROCLAMATION.

Fixes Thursday, Nov. 23, for Thanksgiving Day.

President McKinley has issued the following Thanksgiving proclamation:

The approaching November brings to mind the custom of our ancestors, hallowed by time and rooted in our most sacred traditions, of giving thanks to Almighty God for all the blessings he has vouchsafed to us during the last year.

Few years in our history have afforded such cause for thanksgiving. We have been blessed by abundant harvests, our trade and commerce have been wonderfully increased, our public credit has been improved and strengthened, all sections of our common country have been brought together and knitted into closer bonds of national purpose and unity.

The skies have been for a time darkened by the cloud of war, but as we were compelled to take up the sword in the cause of humanity we are permitted to rejoice that the conflict has been of brief duration and the losses we have had to mourn, though grievous and important, have been so few, considering the great results accomplished,
as to inspire us with gratitude and praise to the Lord of Hosts. We may laud and magnify his holy name that the cessation of hostilities came so soon as to spare both sides the countless sorrows and disasters that attend protracted war.

I do therefore invite all my fellow citizens, as well those at home as those who may be at sea or sojourning in foreign lands, to set apart and observe Thursday, the 23d day of November, as a day of national thanksgiving, to come together in their several places of worship for a service of praise and thanks to Almighty God for all the blessings of the year, for the mildness of the seasons and the fruitfulness of the soil,
for the continued prosperity of the people,
for the devotion and valor of our countrymen, for the glory of our victory and the hope of a righteous peace, and to pray that the divine guidance which has brought us heretofore to safety and honor may be gra-tiously continued to the years to come.

RECORD OF THE WEEK

INDIANA INCIDENTS TERSELY TOLD.

Highwaymen Captured at Kokomo—Waldron Depot Burned by an In-cendiarist—Fatal Train Wreck—Sawmill Boiler Explodes.

Late the other night the Kokomo police had a battle with a gang of highwaymen and captured six, one of them getting shot in the hip. They were waylaying shopkeepers en route home. The stolen money was recovered. The men gave their names as William H. Fisher, Frank Fisher and George Cook, 83 Erie street, Cleveland; William Myers, 1014 Pine street, St. Louis; William Boyd, Lima, O.; David Roberts, Oneida, N. Y. William Fisher, the leader, was shot, the others surrendering. They claim to be iron basketmakers recently employed at the Variety iron works, Superior street, Cleveland.

Work of Incendiarist at Waldron.
Fire destroyed the freight and passenger depot at Waldron. The freight department was filled with goods, all of which were consumed, some of them being very valuable. The town has no fire protection except a few hand extinguishers. Citizens turned out and saved other buildings. A tramp had been put off the train there the day before, and threatened to get even with the railroad company.
The fire was undoubtedly of incendiary origin.

Two Men Killed in a Wreck.
A south-bound freight train on the Vandalia was wrecked at Honey creek by the breaking of a coupling pin. When the engine and forward section of the train sloped up at the creek the rear section crashed into it, demolishing five cars and badly wrecking eleven others, killing two men who were riding on the bumpers. The men are supposed to be Albert Gibb of

LOVED HIS SHIPMATES.

He Knew the "Marrys of the Maine" and ought to Avenge Them.

He stood before the magistrate charged with creating a disturbance in a downtown resort, says a Chicago exchange. The prisoner was a strapping fellow of fine physique and intelligent countenance.

He had been in the United States Navy, and wore a good-conduct medal on his left breast. As he stood in the dock waiting to be called before the magistrate his hands nervously unfastened the small bronze medallion, which he slipped into his pocket. His movements were not unnoticed, for when he was called before his honor he was asked what he had taken from his clothes.

Hiram Bogan for the first time in his life stood a criminal before the bar of justice. Two years ago he had received his discharge from the navy after a three-year cruise. With the money he had saved he returned to his prairie home. When he read of the blowing up of the battleship Maine he cast aside the cares of civil life and bade his gray-haired old mother a fond farewell. He came to Chicago to enlist in the navy. He had some messmates on the Maine, and as they had been murdered in their hammocks he wanted to be one of the first to avenge their death. When he arrived in town he found the naval office in the Auditorium closed. He went to a neighboring resort, where he gave vent to his feelings. He soon had many around him, who cheered his words, and Hiram was struck with the idea of forming a small ship company to go with him. His companions became noisy, and when the guardians of the peace and good order were attracted to the resort by the noise Hiram was singled out as the leader and hurried off to the station.

When called before the magistrate in the morning Bogan answered to his name, and in reply to the inquiry as to his guilt straightened himself up and, looking his honor in the face, said: "Not guilty." The officer told his story. Bogan said it was true so far as it went and then, addressing the judge, told his story. The magistrate listened attentively, and when the prisoner had finished asked him what he had taken from his vest. The prisoner pulled the medal from his pocket and submitted it to the magistrate, saying: "Your honor, when I received that good-conduct reward it was for doing my duty as an American sailor. Last night I was doing my duty as an American citizen. For one I received honor, for the other dishonor."

The remark had its weight with the magistrate, who, pinning the badge upon the young man's breast, told him he was discharged. As the young man made a military about-face his honor commanded: "Attention! Forward, march!" and as the man passed the row of officers in the room each blue coat gave the young man a military salute.

Home Sickness.

The victim of extreme homesickness is almost always a resourceless person, one whose life is a routine of trivialities, whose ideas are few and limited, and, such as they are, based upon familiar objects and well-known associates. When such a person is placed in new surroundings no new ideas are created, but there is a gnawing longing for the past, which is the more intense as a return seems possible.

The patient, for such he really is, broods over what he has lost, rejects what is offered to him of it, and becomes apathetic and taciturn. Sleep becomes fitful and is disturbed by vivid dreams of home. The appetite fails, digestion grows poor, and the sufferer becomes thin and haggard. There is headache, with dullness of intellect, and finally, perhaps, a condition of complete indifference to everybody and everything, which may end in death from a failure of the vital organs to perform their functions.

There is little to do for cases of this sort where there is no possibility of a return home, though sometimes a study of the map and the routes by which return can be made, and the birth of a hope that conditions may change and the separation from the loved spot not be final, may bring relief. A return to normal health, especially if the hope is based upon the

IN A GEORGIA CEMETERY

The Inventor of the Famous Springfield Field Now Sleeps.

Few people know that Hiram H. Herrington, the inventor of the famous Springfield rifle and the first breech-loading cannon, lies buried in a Macon (Ga.) cemetery.

Herrington was perhaps the greatest inventor of guns the world has ever known, as nearly all of those now in use in this land and foreign countries, either cannon or small arms, are only improvements on his ideas.

He was born in Springfield, Mass., in 1818, and died suddenly while at work in his shop at Macon, August 26, 1887. When four years of age he moved with his parents to Harper's Ferry. At the age of twelve he entered the United States Armory, located at Harper's Ferry, as an apprentice, and after serving his time made and invented the first and original twist drill machine. He was soon made master mechanic and draughtsman. While holding this important position he was ordered by Governor Floyd, who was at that time Secretary of War, to make from his own plans the first breech-loading cannon in this country. The Secretary had examined Mr. Herrington's plans and models and decided that they were practical and valuable. It was in this gun that the firing pin or plunger, now in use in nearly all the small arms, was first employed, and gun-making was at once practically revolutionized. This was adopted by the United States government, and in 1863 or 1867 the government entered extensively into the manufacture of the present breech-loading muskets and rifles, which it has kept up with improvements ever since. After this first gun had been put to a test and found to be all that was expected of it, Mr. Herrington received orders from the Secretary of War to manufacture a breech-loading brass cannon out of an old field-piece that was sent from Washington. The design and principles of this gun were the same as are now used by the government in the manufacture of all large and small cannon.

In addition to the guns mentioned, Mr. Herrington made many valuable designs for the government, notably the muzzle-loading minie musket, which every soldier in the late war knew as the Springfield rifle. This gun was first invented and built at Harper's Ferry by Mr. Herrington, but the government, recognizing its value, had duplicate drafts made and sent to Springfield, Mass., where the guns were manufactured in much larger numbers, and after the armory at Harper's Ferry was abandoned the manufacture of the guns was continued at Springfield.

When the war broke out Herrington cast his fortunes with the South and started the manufacture of minie muskets for the use of the Southern soldiers.

FAMOUS WAR INDEMNITIES.

Three hundred million rubles was demanded by Russia as the price of peace with Turkey in 1878. A considerable part of this is still due. Russia secured new territory in addition to the money indemnity.

After Prussia defeated Austria in what has been called the "seven weeks' war," she demanded 20,000,000 thalers, or about $15,000,000, besides securing territorial accessions. States which aided Austria were similarly assessed.

Following the example of European nations, Japan demanded a war indemnity of about $100,000,000 at the close of her war with China, and a large sum additional in consideration of surrendering claim to the Liaotung peninsula. Japan also secured the cession of the island of Formosa.

Besides giving up Alsace and Lorraine after her defeat by Germany, France was compelled to pay the enormous indemnity of $1,000,000,000. Payment was to be extended over four years, but the splendid patriotism of France enabled the Government to anticipate payments, and German occupation of the republic ended long before Bismarck had expected such a result to be possible.

Caution the Wrong Papa

A few evenings ago a gentleman stepped from a train at one of the London stations, when a young lady skipped up to him, threw her arms rapturously about her neck, and kissed him many times, saying:

"Oh, papa, I'm so glad you have come!"

The old gentleman threw both arms around her and held her firmly to his breast.

Soon she looked up into his face, and horror stood in her eyes.

"Oh, my! you're not my papa!" she said, trying to free herself from his embrace.

"Yes, I am," insisted the old gentleman, holding her tightly; "you are my long-lost daughter, and I am going to keep you in my arms till I get a policeman."

When the officer came he found the old gentleman's diamond pin in the girl's hand.

Sayings of Bismarck.

Of universal suffrage he said, "It is the government of a house by its nursery."

"If Austria has astonished the world by its ingratitude, England will astonish it by its cowardice."

"Radicals," said he, "are forever wanting the unattainable. Like the Russians, who crave cherries in winter and oysters in summer."

"When I wish to estimate the danger that is likely to accrue to me from an adversary, I first of all subtract the man's vanity from his other qualities."

On one occasion of obedience to his wife, Bismarck remarked, "It is surprising what a man will do to enjoy peace in his own house after having had a thorough taste of war."

Of himself and his relations with Frederick William Bismarck once said:

"The king regarded me as a kind of egg out of which he might be able some day to hatch a minister. It was a long time before my poor mother could be persuaded that in hatching me she had not produced a goose."—New York World.

Tin is a Precious Metal.

Tin is the most sparingly distributed of all the metals in common use. While the known gold fields of the world cover more than 1,500,000 square miles, the tin fields have an area of less than 12,500 square miles. There are seven tin districts in Europe, producing about 8,300 tons yearly, of which the Cornish mines yield about 8,000 tons. Asia has two tin areas—Hunan, in China, estimated by some of the best authorities to produce 10,000 to 20,000 tons yearly, but proved by official figures to yield less than 2,500 tons, and the Straits settlement and adjoining principalities, yielding 58,000 tons yearly, the richest yield in the world. Africa has no known tin mine; North America has no paying mine; South America only one tin area, Bolivia and Peru, yielding less than 4,000 tons a year. Australasia, the youngest, contributes about 6,000 tons a year.

German Soldiers Carry Light Weight

German army equipments of every description are being made of aluminum, so that the German soldier now carries much less weight in the march than the soldier of any other army. Everything metallic except swords, guns and ammunition is to be aluminum. The cavalry carry aluminum horse shoes which can be set without heat, and even the nails in the infantry shoes are of the same light metal.

The will of Catherine Harrison, of Philadelphia, devises $10,000 to the Home for Incurables in that city, and bequeaths $4,000 to other charities.

Demetrius Koromilas, an Athenian well known in Paris, died there recently. Though only 47 years of age, he had written twenty-five plays, fifteen of which had been published.

Mrs. Katherine L. Haddock, of Philadelphia, bequeathed her home in that city for an orphanage, endowing it with $125,000. She also enriched several charitable institutions in Philadelphia and Pennsylvania with gifts of $46,000.

Vienna has lost one of its best-known women authors by the death of Marbarthe Halm. Her most popular works are the novels "Frau Holdings Heart" and "A Feminine Prometheus." She was twice married, but was soon divorced from her second husband.

The coincident deaths of Eugene Boudin, the marine painter, and Charles Garnier, the architect of the Opera House in Paris, recall the fact that both men started life as poor boys. The former was originally a sailor, and the son of a Honfleur pilot; the mother of the latter was a vender of vegetables.

Jules Verne, the indefatigable French author, has achieved the probably unique feat of having written six more books than the number of years he has lived. Perhaps Miss Braddon, among English writers, with fifty-five novels to her name in thirty-seven years, most nearly approaches this marvelous record of industry.

The Duke of York has an interesting collection of quaint baby pictures. Mechanical toys are also very interesting to the Duke of York and many quaint and comical novelties of this kind are bought by him for little Prince Eddy.

FRANCE IN FERMENT.

PARIS DISRUPTED OVER THE DREYFUS CASE.

Minister of War Resigns in a Fit of Passion—Angry Mob Burns Kiosks—Days of the Third Republic Believed to Be Numbered.

The world has been treated to a new illustration of the fickle, volatile character of the French nation in the sudden dissolution of the Brisson ministry after an existence of only a few months. The result was precipitated by the spectacular performance of Gen. Chanoine in resigning the portfolio of minister of war, which was placed in his hands as the successor of Gen. Zurlinden only a few weeks ago.

The situation is all the more surprising in view of the pressing nature of the controversy with England over the Fashoda affair. This seems to have been completely lost sight of in the excitement over the Dreyfus case, for which the army is chiefly if not wholly responsible. The sudden act of Chanoine is attributed to the hounding to which he has been subjected by army officials, who are apparently more eager to carry on an anti-Semitic war in the streets of Paris than to meet a foreign enemy in central Africa.

As the downfall of the Brisson ministry is apparently traceable directly to the hostility of the army to the steps which have been taken looking to a revision of the Dreyfus case, the natural effect will be to undo what has been done in that direction, as it is not in the nature of a French court to do anything distasteful to both the Government and the army. For the present army influence is superior to justice and the people, and if the forms of re-

PREMIER BRISSON.

STORM ON THE LAKES.

Wild Wind and Waves Work Terrible Havoc.

From all over the great lakes Wednesday came tales of wrecks, dangers and narrow escapes in the terrific gale of Tuesday night. The storm was defined by the weather authorities as a cyclone, with its center between Chicago and Grand Haven, Mich. Tales of numerous wrecks and dangers came from all points in the southern portion of Lake Michigan. It will be several days before all the story of the storm can be learned.

So far as Chicago is concerned, the storm was the most disastrous of recent years, not excepting the great gale of May, 1894. Old tugmen say that the waves were higher than at any time since 1880, when the lake shore road and a part of Lincoln Park were washed away. Lincoln Park Commissioners estimate the damage done by the storm at $30,000.

Fisk Hall, the large new building of the Northwestern University, was for a time in great danger of serious injury from the high waves. The wall that was built out into the lake to protect the building from just such storms was washed away at a loss of $5,000. The steamer H. A. Tuttle, laden with grain from Chicago, went down off Michigan City, the crew being taken off by life savers.

COMING ELECTIONS.

Officers Who Are to Be Chosen in the Various States.

The elections will be held Tuesday, Nov. 8. The elections for Representatives in Congress will be held in all States but three, namely, Maine, Vermont and Oregon, which have elected their Representatives. In some of the States the elections will have more significance, because of their bearing upon the selection of United States Senators. Reference to some of the most important elections follows:

New York will elect Governor and Legislature. A successor to Senator Murphy is to be elected by the Legislature.

Pennsylvania will elect Governor, Legislature, and the latter a successor to Senator Quay.

West Virginia will elect a Legislature to find a successor to Senator Faulkner.

THE MAN OF THE HOUR

SIR HERBERT KITCHENER.

Sir Horatio Herbert Kitchener, the sirdar of the Egyptian army and the new hero of the Soudan, is a young man—being but 47—for the high place he has won by merit in the military service of his country. He was born in Ireland, and at 20 was a lieutenant. By 1888 he had been advanced to the rank of colonel. He spent eight years surveying in the Holy Land, during which he picked up a very fair knowledge of colloquial Arabic. This, together with his knowledge of the native character, went far toward his success in the Soudan.

An adequate story of the sirdar's life would read like one of Scott's romances of the East. His wanderings in Palestine, the Soudan, Erzeroum, Africa and

TOTAKE PHILIPPINES

UNITED STATES DEMANDS THE ENTIRE GROUP.

This Country Will Assume All Obligations Incurred in the Improvement of Islands and Not a Cent More—Spain Must Pay the War Debt.

The American peace commissioners during the session in Paris Monday presented to the Spanish commissioners a written expression of the purpose of the United States to take the entire group of Philippine Islands, and to assume such proportion of the Philippine debt as has been spent for the benefit of the islands or their inhabitants, in public works, improvements and permanent betterments. It was also set forth that the United States would not assume any part of the Philippine debt which had been incurred by Spain for the furtherance of military or naval operations to quell insurrection of the natives. The session was adjourned until Friday, in order to give the Spaniards time to prepare a reply.

The news that the American peace commissioners had presented the United States Government's demand for the entire Philippine group caused no surprise in Washington, according to dispatches. It was well known that that such would be the outcome and that the $40,000,000 debt would not be guaranteed. Such portion only of the debt as was incurred for the benefit of the islands will be carried by this country. This has been long settled, though as a feeler a story that the entire $40,000,000 would be assumed was sent out. As anticipated, it brought forth violent protests from all parts of the country. Spain must now show how much of the $40,000,000 she spent in improving the islands.

It is said that the President's recent trip to Chicago and Omaha convinced him that the country is in favor of retaining all of the territory taken during the war. Up to that time, it is said, he personally favored expansion, but was in doubt as to what stand to take.

BRITAIN IS WARLIKE.

Naval Preparations Are Being Pushed with Great Activity.

England is preparing to strike France at all of her vulnerable spots simultaneously in the event of war being declared, and from the great activity displayed at all of the arsenals and dry docks it is evident that a peaceful way out of the Fashoda water is not yet clear to the Government.

Under orders from the British war office the cruiser Amphion left the North Pacific naval station at Esquimaux, B. C., for the Society Islands, France's possession in the South Sea. A British warship also left Vancouver for Tahiti, another French colony, and it is expected that similar orders will be issued to other vessels.

At Devonport, the site of the largest arsenal in England, the Government is hurriedly assembling a powerful emergency squadron which it is understood will be sent to Gibraltar to await developments. Warships are constantly arriving, and 200,000 tons of coal has been ordered for their supply. The North Pacific fleet has been assembled at Esquimaux, and the vessels are all being put on a full war footing.

REVISION IS ORDERED.

Court of Cassation Reaches Decision in Dreyfus Case.

The court of cassation at Paris has granted the application for revision of the Dreyfus court martial, but refused to order the release of the prisoner pending the result of the revision. Dreyfus will be taken to Paris from Devil's Island, off the coast of French Guiana, where he is now in prison. Emotion among the spectators in the court followed the reading of a pathetic letter from Dreyfus.

A significant point was the revelation of the fact that Gen. de Boisdeffre gave orders, after the Dreyfus case was supposed closed, for the dossier, containing the bordereau, to be burned, and expressed surprise afterward to find that his orders had not been executed.

Judge Day and Senator Gray of the United States peace commission visited the court upon an official order. Upon their entrance the fifteen judges constituting the court bowed a dignified greeting, without verbal welcome.

LIVES LOST IN THE WAR.

Commissioner of Pensions Says Exact Number Was 2,906.

Two thousand nine hundred and six lives were lost in the late war with Spain, according to Pension Commissioner H. Clay Evans. Of this number 2,600 died in camps. The statistics of his office, he also says, show that the percentage of death in camps from disease was much less than during the civil war. He says that during the rebellion 40,000 men were killed in battle and 360,000 perished in camps and prisons.

From May 1 to Sept. 30, 1898, the total deaths were 2,906, of which 107 were officers. At Santiago the loss of life was 222 privates and twenty-two officers. At Cardenas one officer was killed, and since the first battle on Cuban soil sixty-one men have died of wounds received while in service. The loss of life resulting from the destruction of the battleship Maine will be placed on the same basis as mortality in battle.

CHILDREN GIVE LIBERALLY.

Subscribe More than Asked For to the Monument Fund.

Contributions by the school children to the fund for erecting a monument to Gen. Lafayette in Paris have exceeded all expectations. The amount desired was $250,000, and it was estimated that one cent from every child would be sufficient.

Several schools in Iowa have sent in more than one cent for every resident in the town in which they are located. So far contributions average $5 a school.

No Microbes on Mountains.

A scientist looking for microbes says there are absolutely none on the Swiss mountains at an altitude of two thousand feet. Here is the place for the purity party, and scaremongers, who are for ever horrifying the public with the dismal fear of microbes, would have to take their supply with them, most of which are useful to man. It is pleasing to observe that the microbe does not give himself lofty airs, but as a fellow-creature comes down to our level and dwells cheerily in our midst.

It is safe to say that this will be the inevitable outcome should the new cabinet be of the character foreshadowed by the tumultuous proceedings in the Chamber of Deputies on Tuesday, when the rallying cry was "Vive l'armee" and "Down with the Jews."

Gen. Chanoine, in announcing his resignation, repeated the declaration of his predecessor, Gen. Zurlinden, that Dreyfus was guilty. Premier Brisson then took the tribune and in a forcible speech appealed to the chamber for support in maintaining the supremacy of the civil power. M. Brisson protested against the manner of Gen. Chanoine's resignation, declaring it to be contrary to all precedent. He then demanded an adjournment of the chamber in order to enable him to consult with his colleagues, and the sitting was suspended amid great excitement.

Later in the day vast crowds gathered in the Place de la Concorde and began a violent demonstration. The mob burned several kiosks on the Place de la Concorde. A fight occurred on the Boulevard Montmartre between the police and the anti-Jewish rioters and several of the mob had their heads broken. Another serious conflict resulted from a demonstration made by a number of royalists, who assembled in front of the military club. The royalist flag was snatched from the hands of the man carrying it and a violent tussle followed. The excitement in the streets continued throughout the evening, the mob deliciously "downing" waiters, Jews and M. Brisson.

BEGS FOR MERCY.

Spain Abandons Claims to Concessions on Cuban Debt.

The cable announces that Spain has at last abandoned her attitude of claiming any concessions in Cuba and Porto Rico as a matter of right, and has now simply thrown herself on the mercy of her conqueror. The Spanish representatives did this at Wednesday's session of the joint peace commission in Paris, acting under instructions from Madrid.

They pointed out that only by some relief from the Cuban debt could the complete ruin of Spain be averted, and submitted facts and figures in proof of their declaration. The cable containing this information was received in Washington while the President was in Philadelphia attending the peace jubilee, and Secretary Hay immediately sent the cablegram by his executive clerk on a special train.

ACCEPTS THE TERMS.

SPAIN AGREES TO ASSUME THE CUBAN DEBT.

Washington News Have Hoped to Your Uncle Sam and It is Now Believed that Peace Negotiations Will Proceed More Rapidly.

It was announced in Washington Friday morning that the peace negotiations in Paris were proceeding satisfactorily, and that Spain had accepted the terms of the United States in regard to the Cuban debt, and all matters within the province of the joint commission accepting the disposition of the Philippines.

The articles of the protocol signed were: 1. The cession of Puerto Rico to the United States.

2. The relinquishment of all sovereignty over Guam and dependent islands, and the cession of Cuba to the United States for its pacification and the establishment of a stable government.

3. The treaty assuming no portion of the Cuban debt.

4. The cession to the United States of all naval stations in the Ladrones group.

5. The withdrawal of Spanish troops from the western hemisphere now garrisoned.

The one article to be decided is that providing that the United States shall occupy and hold the best and city of Manila and Sulu bay until a peace commission determines the rights of both Spain and the United States in the Philippines.

The negotiations were easily wrecked on the Cuban debt issue. The Americans were negotiating in their refusal to assume a single dollar of that debt, despite the threats of the Spaniards to break off the proceedings. Finally, the Americans remaining obstinate, Señor Montero Rios, head of the Spanish commission, proffered his resignation to Madrid and affairs became extremely critical. Had his resignation been accepted, the other Spanish commissioners would have followed suit, and the peace negotiations would have come to an abrupt end. This result was averted by the action of the Queen Regent in begging Rios to continue.

As a last resort, the Spanish commissioners begged for mercy, assuring that should Spain be compelled to assume the whole of the Cuban debt, it would mean her utter financial ruin. This appeal was sent to President McKinley, and resulted in the midnight cabinet meeting in Philadelphia, Wednesday night. The president and his advisers decided to admit that Spain must assume the debt, and the Spanish commissioners were forced to accept the inevitable.
