Hotel Kellison, at Plymouth, seems to have been playing in hard luck since its advent into this world of sorrows and woes. Several landlords, we understand have sunk money in the concern and now Kellison is taking a hand at the hotel business himself, in hopes of resurrecting its shattered nerves. However with that prince of hotels, the Ross House, as an opponent, it looks as though the effort on the part of Kellison is hopeless.

Jacob Zechiel and wife celebrated their golden wedding last Wednesday at their home two miles southwest of Culver. Nine children were present to help celebrate the happy event; besides a host of friends and relatives. We have a lengthy account of the affair, but owing to the lateness of the hour we are compelled to omit it. At any rate, the occasion will be remembered as long as life lasts by those present. The gifts were many and beautiful.

Thanks to Our Friends.

We hold in grateful remembrance our many friends and the old veterans, who so kindly assisted us in offering the last sad rites to our beloved father. We thank you for the aid extended and the sympathy expressed.

The above title formed lecture given by Dr. P. R. Henson, of Chicago, at the C. M. A. last Friday evening. He classified fools under the following heads:

Educated fools, Drunken fools, Fashionable fools, Rich fools, and now Religious fools. The lecture was full of wit and humor and the physical and facial portrayals by the lecturer made them to be well appreciated. Fundamental error of each class was pointed out in a masterly way. The cadets and others appreciated the lecture and doubtless hope that the Doctor will make a second visit in the near future.

LOVED HIS SHIPMATES.

He Knew the "Martyrs of the Maine" and ought to Avenge Them.

He stood before the magistrate charged with creating a disturbance in a downtown resort, says a Chicago exchange. The prisoner was a strapping fellow of fine physique and intelligent countenance.

He had been in the United States Navy, and wore a good-conduct medal on his left breast. As he stood in the dock waiting to be called before the magistrate his hands nervously unfasted the small bronze medallion, which he slipped into his pocket. His movements were not unnoticed, for when he was called before his honor he was asked what he had taken from his clothes.

Hiram Bogan for the first time in his life stood a criminal before the bar of justice. Two years ago he had received his discharge from the navy after a three-year cruise. With the money he had saved he returned to his prairie home. When he read of the blowing up of the battleship Maine he cast aside the cares of civil life and bade his gray-haired old mother a fond farewell. He came to Chicago to enlist in the navy. He had some messmates on the Maine, and as they had been murdered in their hammocks he wanted to be one of the first to avenge their death. When he arrived in town he found the naval office in the Auditorium closed. He went to a neighboring resort, where he gave vent to his feelings. He soon had many around him, who cheered his words, and Hiram was struck with the idea of forming a small ship company to go with him. His companions became noisy, and when the guardians of the peace and good order were attracted to the resort by the noise Hiram was singled out as the leader and hurried off to the station.

When called before the magistrate in the morning Bogan answered to his name, and in reply to the inquiry as to his guilt straightened himself up and, looking his honor in the face, said: "Not guilty." The officer told his story. Bogan said it was true so far as it went and then, addressing the judge, told his story. The magistrate listened attentively, and when the prisoner had finished asked him what he had taken from his vest. The prisoner pulled the medal from his pocket and submitted it to the magistrate, saying: "Your honor, when I received that good-conduct reward it was for doing my duty as an American sailor. Last night I was doing my duty as an American citizen. For one I received honor, for the other dishonor."

The remark had its weight with the magistrate, who, pinning the badge upon the young man's breast, told him he was discharged. As the young man made a military about-face his honor commanded: "Attention! Forward, march!" and as the man passed the row of officers in the room each blue coat gave the young man a military salute.

Home Sickness.

The victim of extreme homesickness is almost always a resourceless person, one whose life is a routine of trivialities, whose ideas are few and limited, and, such as they are, based upon familiar objects and well-known associates. When such a person is placed in new surroundings no new ideas are created, but there is a gnawing longing for the past, which is the more intense as a return seems possible.

The patient, for such he really is, broods over what he has lost, rejects what is offered to him of it, and becomes apathetic and taciturn. Sleep becomes fitful and is disturbed by vivid dreams of home. The appetite fails, digestion grows poor, and the sufferer becomes thin and haggard. There is headache, with dullness of intellect, and finally, perhaps, a condition of complete indifference to everybody and everything, which may end in death from a failure of the vital organs to perform their functions.

There is little to do for cases of this sort where there is no possibility of a return home, though sometimes a study of the map and the routes by which return can be made, and the birth of a hope that conditions may change and the separation from the beloved spot not be final, may bring about a restoration of mental health, especially if the hope is based upon the sufferer's own efforts to that end.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger from La Grippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. It will cure la grippe in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by Culver City Drug Store. 35tim.

OBITUARY.

Wednesday March 15th, the Spirit of Jacob Koontz passed over the river and joined the great majority that had preceded him to that land from whence no traveler ever returns. There is probably no man that ever lived in Culver, that will be missed more than the deceased, as he was a familiar figure upon the streets of our town for many years, and the fact that he keenly relished a joke, though severely afflicted with physical ailments, made him a conspicuous figure and a delightful associate. There was probably no man ever lived that desired to do just what was right to any greater extent than Mr. Koontz, who was strictly honest and upright in all of his transactions. He was a most radical temperance man and had no use for saloons, and never let an opportunity pass when he could advocate his principles, and in a decided and emphatic manner. He was a member of the M. E. church and a conscientious christian and informed the writer the evening before his death, that he had run nearly to the end of his journey and was more than anxious to meet his loved ones upon the other shore. He was a thorough patriotic man, and loves his country, stars and stripes with all the power of his strong nature.

Funeral services were conducted at the M. E. church Friday afternoon, the church being crowded to its utmost capacity with sympathizing friends and neighbors, Rev. Fraley officiating. The large number of old veterans present who had charge of the burial services, reminded us that one by one the old heroes are passing away, and soon the decorating of their graves with flowers will be the only tokens that reminds us that they were once a living reality, who saved this country from disgrace and ruin. A number of relatives and friends from abroad were present who paid the last tribute to the father, brother and friend.

Jacob Koontz was born Dec. 10th, 1824, at Dossenheim, Alsace, and was the oldest of four brothers and one sister, being 74 years, 3 months and 5 days old. He was married to Salome Snyder, near Bremen, Ind., where he lived until 1868, when he moved to Tennessee, and in 1885 to Marmont. He enlisted as a private in the 15th Indiana Battery, March 2nd 1862, and was taken prisoner by Stonewall Jackson at the battle of Harper's Ferry, was discharged for disability. Re-enlisted and was finally mustered out June 30th, 1865. He was a member of Miles H. Tibbets' Post from June 18th, 1888 to July 18th, 1898, when he withdrew from said Post and joined his comrades in organizing a Post at Culver.

An Interesting Letter from One of Our Soldier Boys.

SAGUA LA GRANDE, March 2 1899.

I am on guard, went on at 11 o'clock and will be on until 3. It is just past midnight, we have pretty heavy guard duty as there is but one company here. We go on duty about every other day so that we loose a good deal of sleep but then that is all we have to do except for the last two or three days we have been drilling a little in the evening. It pleases the natives wonderfully to see us drill as they have never seen anything of the kind before. I think the Spaniards never done much in the way of drilling, at least I never saw them drill any at Cienfuegos when we there.

There are no Spanish soldiers here now. I have to go around the guard line every little while and am writing between trips.

The colored Cubans are having a dance just a little ways from our camp. It is some kind of a church holiday. There is no Protestant church here as the Spanish rule did not allow freedom of religion. The Cuban general Maximo Gomez was expected here this evening but I do not know whether he came or not. Bige's health is good and has been ever since we came here, Billy Eisenhart is also well.

I guess nearly every Cuban in Sagua is learning to talk English and I know every soldier in our company is trying to learn to talk Spanish, and you would laugh to see a group of us together trying to talk.

Our Spring Goods are Coming in, bought at the Right Price If you want goods at the Right Prices call on us.

PORTER & COMPANY.

I am learning some and can make them understand most anything I want to tell them.

They had a citizen in our guard house this afternoon but they put him in the prison this evening. I do not know what he did that he was arrested for. I haven't been away from the city yet to take any photographs but expect to go tomorrow after I come off guard.

We have three little Cubans come to our tent to talk with us, they are learning English and we Spanish. They are coming tomorrow afternoon, and I am a going to take their pictures. They are bright little fellows and learn fast.

I received a letter from Matt Schultz yesterday, the man I boarded with in Dayton, and he said the foreman at Brownell's was still keeping my time-check so I could go to work when I got back if I wanted to.

I believe there is a good chance down here if this becomes American territory, as the better class of Cubans want the U. S. to keep it, especially those who have been to the U. S. and seen how we live there and the privileges we enjoy. It makes me appreciate the worth of country to see how the people live down here. I talked with a Cuban the other day whose family was in the U. S. and who has three houses here that cost $100,000, and he was getting $40 a month from all of them. There is one lady who has a plantation here worth over a million dollars. The U. S. government has a commissary store here from which they issue provisions to the poor class of Cubans. I think the country is getting in better shape every day as they seem to be cultivating the land more now but it will take lots of work to get it all under cultivation as it has grown up to grass and weeds. I guess I will stop for tonight as it is 2:30 and will finish tomorrow.

Well I will try and finish my letter this morning. It is very cool and pleasant today, it was cold last night and I had my overcoat on all the time I was on guard, but it will be hot during the middle of the day. I finished up some pictures the other day, the first I have finished since we have been here and they look pretty well. I wish father would send me some supplies as there are good many of the boys who want pictures that I have taken and are afraid they cannot get them after we get home, and if I had paper and mounts I could make them here. Well must close with love to all.

An Honest Medicine for La Grippe.

George W. Waitt, of South Gardner, Me., says: "I have had the worst cough, cold, chills and grip and have taken lots of trash of no account but profit to the vendor. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the only thing that has done any good whatever. I have used one 50-cent bottle and the chills, cold and grip have all left me. I congratulate the manufacturers of an honest medicine." For sale by Culver City Drug Store.

For La Grippe.

Thomas Whitfield & Co., 240 Wash-av., corner Jackson-st., one of Chicago's oldest and most prominent druggists, recommends Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for la grippe, as it not only gives a prompt and complete relief, but also counteracts any tendency of la grippe to result in pneumonia. Aggressively honest they fear no foe and have won the friendship of more feet than any other shoes. It costs nothing extra to wear a SELZ, although you get lots of extra wear out of them.

ETIQUETTE OF THE DESERT.

Bedouins Are Very Touchy About the Observance of Social Forms.

Social etiquette among the Arabs is a factor in life to be considered seriously if you wish to live among them without friction. Its obligations are not to be completely mastered in a few months. Sometimes when I have had companions with me presumably thoroughly familiar with all things Mohammedan, the harmony of the occasion has been seriously threatened by some thoughtlessness or ignorance on their part which to the Moslem could appear only as a contemptuous want of consideration, says a writer. Thus no greater insult could be offered to an Arab than a friendly inquiry as to the welfare of his wife—to us a natural civility, but to him a gross impertinence bitterly resented. On one occasion I nearly made a singular blunder. I was invited by a neighboring sheik to go over and see him, and was on the point of riding up to his tent door and dismounting there. Fortunately, however, I recollected in time that etiquette demanded that I should halt fifty yards off and call in a loud voice: "Have I your permission to approach?" This gives time to bundle off any of their womenkind who may be about, preparatory to the admission of the stranger. It is curious also to notice that, in spite of the real affection existing between father and son, the sense of respect dominates all other feelings, and the sons will never sit at meat with their father in the presence of a guest, but will wait upon both until the father, rising, allows them the opportunity of breaking bread with their visitor.

Provided, however, that you recognize their social customs, my experience has proved the Bedouins to be genuine, warm-hearted friends; and they really become greatly attached to those whom they know and who know them.

The Prosperous Netherlands.

Though Holland no longer is "mistress of the seas," as it was in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, when the Netherlands constituted the wealthiest commercial nation of Europe, it would be difficult to find a more contented and prosperous people than the Hollanders. Upon the 12,648 square miles of Holland there lived at the close of 1896 not less than 4,928,658 people, or 406 people to the square mile, and not less than twenty cities had from 25,628 inhabitants up to the population of Amsterdam, 494,189 souls. But the colonial possessions of the Netherlands in the East and West Indies embrace an area of about 783,000 square miles. The total population of these colonies, according to the last returns, was approximately 35,000,000, or about seven times as large as that of the mother country. The East Indian colonies include such fertile islands as Java and Madura, Sumatra, Borneo, Celebes and the Moluccas, while the West Indian possessions include Surinam and the Curacao Islands, all famous for their almost inexhaustible tropical products.

Porto Ricans Astonished.

The Porto Ricans cannot understand how the American soldiers can have money to spend.

"You are an officer?" asked one of them of a private when the latter showed three $5 gold pieces in his purse.

"No, only a private soldier," said the soldier.

"And your pay?" came the second question. "How much is it?"

"Just $15.00 per month," the private made answer.

"And you got it?" asked the Porto Rican, used to the ways of the bankrupt Spaniard. "Your government pays you?"

"You bet it does," said the soldier, whereupon the Porto Rican stood off and gazed admiringly upon the American volunteer as upon a man who was peculiarly blessed of the gods.

The Kaiser's Insignia.

A Berlin paper says that the orders of decoration borne by the Emperor of Germany are worth over 1,000,000 marks (a little over $230,000). His principal and most valuable decorations are the insignia of the Black Eagle, the Order of St. John, of the Garter, and of the Tioson d'Or. In all he has over 200 crosses, stars, badges, and other insignia. In is said that he takes them with him on all his journeys and voyages, his hunting expeditions excepted. The coffer containing the decorations is in the constant care of an officer of the court, who accompanies the Kaiser everywhere. On returning to Berlin the coffer is locked up with the crown jewels in the treasury.

She Favored Annexation.

He—There seems to be no question that divides public opinion more than annexation. Are you in favor of it? She—It is rather sudden, but if you're willing, I am.

A Veteran Elephant.

An elephant eighty years of age is to be added to the Berlin Zoological Gardens. It came from India, where for many years it was the public executioner.

Cheese-Making in Canada.

The fact that Canada sends 58 per cent. of the cheese imported by Great Britain while the United States send only 24 per cent., is explained by the thorough organization of the Canadian dairymen, who are united in an endeavor to produce a uniformly high grade suited to the demands of the English market. In the province of Ontario alone there are eighteen associations of cheesemakers, representing 1,206 factories, with an annual output of 100,000,000 pounds.

Mohammedans and Bells.

The whole Moslem race despise and hate the sound of bells, which they say cause the evil spirits to assemble together. In consequence, they are never used on Mohammedan mosques.

You may as well have the devil to preach to a congregation as a man who is afraid to declare the whole truth.

LaGrippe is again epidemic. Every precaution should be taken to avoid it. Its specific cure is One Minute Cough Cure. A. J.
