LOCAL BREVITIES.

Chas. Curtis, of Plymouth, was in town Sunday.

Nearly 150,000 mortgage exemption is reported in Starke county.

Al Porter and family, of Plymouth, were visiting relatives in Culver Sunday.

Miss Lena Bronson, of Buchanan, Mich., is visiting Miss Maud Hand this week.

When in need of window screens or screens doors, call on J. O. Ferrer, Culver, Ind.

Sailor hats for 25 cents and up at Mrs. Edwards. New Goods arriving every week.

O. R. Porter and wife, of Plymouth, accompanied by relatives from Davenport, Ind., were here last Wednesday, visiting relatives and friends.

Henry Speyer and his mother are visiting relatives in New York City. He will also purchase new goods for Porter & Co. while in that city.

Alvin Mawhorter went to Wawaka, Ind., Wednesday morning to attend the wedding of his cousin, Miss Frona Frick, to a Mr. Marshall.

M. Keen and son Albert are building a 16x22 addition to the building occupied by D. R. Avery, which will be used as a kitchen. Two large windows fronting the lake and one on opposite side will be put in, and with new furniture and fixtures added, the Park Cafe will be one of the best equipped restaurants in town.

Mrs. Peter Keller and son John are visiting her parents at Hamlet, six miles east of Knox. Her brother was struck by lightning a short time ago while braking on a Nickel Plate train, and he has gone insane over the effects of the shock.

Charles Kelly, of the law firm of Koffel & Kelly, Knox, will deliver the oration at the decoration day exercises at Popular Grove, which are to take place there Monday, May 29.

A farmer lets on that owing to the rigorous weather of last winter, which froze the ground to an exceptional depth, most of the potato bugs were killed off.

Two Chicago doctors have made the discovery that the injection of lymph from young goats into the veins of old people will restore youth. The plan is to replace the mineral deposits in human bodies with life from the animals.

Shooting Affray at Toto, Stark County
Toto, Stark county, Ind., is located on the marsh land six miles west of Knox, on the 3-1 R. R. It has a population of about 200 inhabitants, mostly German or their descendants. Dances are of frequent occurrence there, are looked upon as a "thing of beauty and a joy forever," and were it not for the extremely hot weather during the summer months, we are told by a gentleman from Knox, now in Culver, and from whom we obtained this item, that the boys and girls for miles around would go into the little village and dance every night the whole year round. Brawls, skirmishes and miniature battles have attended the wind-ups of many of these festive gatherings, but never, we are told, did their little squabbles—occasioned always through jealousy of some country beauty who may or may not have danced with the "other fellow"—end in a pitched battle, with "firing line" attachment, until last Saturday night. The ball on this particular occasion was well patronized, a number of the young "bloods" in and about Knox went over to have a good time, which they did up to midnight, when a row over one of the female waltzers took place between two young men named respectively Lemke and Gieselman, the former the aggressor and much the larger fellow, who was also assisted by one or two others. Gieselman was repeatedly knocked down and kicked in the body. He finally managed to get up, when he made a hasty exit for the street, followed by Lemke, who again knocked him down. Some sympathizing friend of Gieselman's in the crowd that was watching his unequal struggle with the bully, as Lemke is called in the neighborhood, quietly slipped him a 22-caliber revolver and told him to defend himself. And he did defend himself thereafter by shooting Lemke three times—in the chin, in the hip, and in the abdomen, the latter a dangerous wound, as up to Tuesday morning the physicians in charge of the wounded man had failed to either find or extract the bullet. At Knox, on Sunday, both were reported dead, but this proved untrue. These two pugnacious young men, should they ultimately recover, can congratulate themselves on their narrow escape from an ignominious death.

Decoration Day at Popular Grove.
DECORATION DAY SERVICES will be held at Popular Grove Monday, May 29, 1899. We cordially invite all soldiers of the war of '61 and late war with Spain, and all citizens, to participate. The I. O. O. F. and K. O. T. M. of Maxinkuckee, the Women's Relief Corps and Sons of Veterans of Burr Oak, also the James Clem Post No. 510 will form under the direction of the officer of the day, J. E. Myers, at 1:30 p. m. on the road north of the Popular Grove school house. If the weather is favorable the services will be held in the open air.

PROGRAM.
Music.
Song by choir.
Invocation—Rev. Eli Myers.
Song by choir.
Oration—Chas. Kelly of Knox.
Song by choir.

The column will form under the direction of the officer of the day and march to the Popular Grove cemetery, where the Graves of our honored dead will be strewn with flowers. By order of Committee.

"What can I do to move you in this world of wickedness?" shouted an excited street preacher to a crowd. A steet arab on the instant replied; "Send the hat round, gov'nor; that'll move 'em."

ACADEMY LOCALS.

What the Cadets Are Doing this Week.

Mrs. W. P. Tuttle, of Chicago, is here visiting her son.

Dr. and Mrs. Benepe, of Indianapolis, were here visiting their son, Cadet Wilson D., this week.

Mr. Stoner, of Noblesville, Ind., was here this week visiting his son.

Englewood high school is scheduled for a game here Tuesday, Decoration Day.

The captains spent their two days' vacation in fishing, capturing several fine bass.

Capt. Blumenthal and Cadets Blumenthal and Reitz visited Plymouth, Ind.

Mrs. de Blumenthal, of Bloomington, Ill., is here visiting her husband and son.

The bugle corps should have been here to hear mess call while the battalion was in Terre Haute. It could have gained some valuable points.

Mr. Stillwell, of Dayton, O., was here on Tuesday, looking over the school house with a view to letting his son attend the academy next year.

A mammoth tree that it was necessary to cut down to make way for the new barracks, fell upon the colonel's cottage, partially demolishing the kitchen.

Cadet Bauman is visiting his parents in Fremont, O. One of his eyes was injured in the Notre Dame game and he went home to have it treated.

Last Saturday afternoon the South Side academy from Chicago met our team upon the diamond. For three innings the game was a close one, but after that South Side failed to score, while our boys repeatedly crossed the plate. Mackenzie and Anderson kept up their high reputation as a battery, Mitterdorf made a neat two-bagger, and Bigwood, who is playing in the absence of Bauman, made an excellent showing. The following is the score:

The Boys at Terre Haute.

Tuesday, at 6:30 a. m., the Cadets and "Black Horse Troop" left Culver on a special train bound for Terre Haute, arriving at said city about noon. They at once marched to the Terre Haute House, where dinner was served. In the afternoon the Cadets and "Black Horse Troop" visited the fair grounds, where they saw the sham battle between an army of so-called Spaniards and Americans. Although the affair was "rotten" in every sense of the word, the Americans came out of the affray victorious. The only really interesting feature at the grounds was an exhibition of scientific riding in front of the grand stand by the "Black Horse Troop," which was cheered to a finish by thousands of people. It was estimated that 50,000 people were at the fair grounds.

"On Wednesday afternoon, when the great parade took place, the post of honor in the lead of the procession proper was given to the band from the Culver Military academy, which, twelve in number, marched immediately behind the grand marshal. After this the order of the first division was as follows:

Culver black horse troop, numbering 22.
The Culver infantry company marching in seven platoons of fourteen each, making a total, with officers, of one hundred in line.
Gov. Mount, riding a superb white steed, came next, followed by his staff, all mounted on black horses, 24 in number.

The route of the parade was as follows: West on Ohio to Second, north on Second to Main, east on Main to Ninth, north on Ninth to Chestnut, west on Chestnut to Sixth, south on Sixth to Mulberry, west on Mulberry to Fifth, south on Fifth to Cherry, and east on Cherry to Seventh and disband. In this way the best parts of the city were paraded through, the Normal building was passed and Main street, of course, was thoroughly covered.

Throughout the whole length of this long route the countless throngs of people were crowded thick along the sidewalks. In every window along the route were many faces and even the tops of certain buildings were made use of. Such a crowd, enthusiastic and filled with spirits, was never before seen. Main street was a mass of black heads from end to end. A monster crowd was before the State Normal. About the big reviewing stand thousands upon thousands congregated, for here was a big attraction.

The big feature of the encampment moved off very late, but its worth was manifest as soon as it was seen. The grand marshal gave the signal at last and the long line moved away along Ohio street toward the west. On the north steps of the court house 500 little girls from the public schools were arranged in a monster flag, their dresses all red, white and blue, some being of the one color and some each of the other two. As soon as the veterans of '61 to '65 appeared rounding the corner of the street into Main these 500 little voices broke into a song of triumph, and throughout the whole time the soldiers were passing they sang one patriotic song after another.

On down Main street swept the long blue line of white-haired men, and after them the thousands of men, women and children who had gathered to do them all honor. Between the massed throngs they passed and were met at every point with such cheers as only the bravest of the brave and most loved ever are blessed to hear. They were the boys who once were the pride and glory of the land; they were the boys who saved the country when she most needed help; they were the boys who are now white-haired and feeble and old because they sacrificed youth and health and all that makes life worth living to follow where duty called and led them. Every man and woman and little child who watched these war-scarred veterans as they passed today knew this, they had been told it in song and story and in the pages of history, and they showed by voice and deed today their appreciation of it all. It is needless to ask way a white-haired old man, who walks with bent back and by the help of a cane should call forth applause that a king cannot buy or beg, and which few of them can earn.

Space will not permit us to give a detailed account of every event, but we will simply say that the Cadets were the attractive feature on this occasion, and in the language of the Terre Haute Gazette, "captured the hearts of the Terre Haute girls by storm." The dress parades by the Cadets were well appreciated and their military work was highly complimented by the old veterans. The only incident which happened in the great parade was the breaking of one of Lieut. Floyd's wrists. His horse became frightened at a street car, and, rearing, he fell over backwards, falling upon his rider with the above result. Aside from this lamentable affair the boys arrived at Culver Wednesday night all O. K.

Miraculous Escape from Death.

Last Monday forenoon, about the time the north bound freight train is due at Culver City, the little 3 year old son of J. H. Murray, who lives adjacent to the tracks, in some unaccountable manner, unnoticed, managed to crawl up on to the track and between the rails, where he sat down as happy and contentedly as any little mortal on earth. However, his happiness was to be of short duration, as the 11:00 a. m. train was then due, in fact, was at that very minute tearing along the line at say 30 miles an hour, snorting, puffing, whistling; the child heeds it not, his undeveloped brain not being able to comprehend the immensity or the gravity of the situation. On comes the train nearer and nearer; the child had been seen by both engineer and fireman, but too late to stop ere it would reach the object of their solicitude and anxiety. A happy thought came to the fireman just then; he will run out and down on to the pilot and when the train is about to pass over it will lift it up beside him. And when the supreme moment had arrived he was equal to the emergency, he caught up the child by its little dress, the piece with which he held the little fellow parted from the balance and he dropped back again on to the track and between the rails, eighteen freight cars passing over him. The most phenomenal thing about the episode is that, beyond a little abrasion of the skin, the child wasn't hurt at all. He had a narrow escape, nevertheless, as there were about ten thousand chances to one against his ever coming out from under the train alive.

Dr. Wiseman and Dr. Hollister were called, who assured the horror-stricken mother that her child would live. The brave fireman should be awarded a gold medal.

Fort Wayne Gazette: Corn is king. The grain is good to eat and drunk; the blades make good fodder; the pith is valuable for making cellulose, and cellulose makes good smokeless gunpowder; and now it has been discovered that the outer part of the stalk makes a better quality of paper than straw. Not a particle of the plant need be wasted.

The ancients believed that rheumatism was the work of a demon within a man. Anyone who has had an attack of sciatic or inflammatory rheumatism will agree that the infliction is demoniac enough to warrant the belief. It has never been claimed that Chamberlain's Pain Balm would cast out demons, but it will cure rheumatism and hundreds, bears testimony to the truth of this statement. One application relieves the pain, and this quick relief which it affords is alone worth many times its costs. For sale by T. E. Slattery Druggist. 46t4

Joe Marbaugh, of Monterey, had business in Culver Thursday.

Do You Understand that the persistent use of Beggs Blood Purifier and Blood Maker will drive diseased germs out of your system and life will again be worth living. You cannot cure in one week or in one month, a blood trouble that has been years in getting a foothold. Beggs Little Giant Pills should be taken twice a week with this remedy. We keep it at T. E. Slattery's drug store. 46t1m

Preparations on a scale that have never before been attempted in Culver for the proper observance of Decoration Day have been consummated. The G. A. R. post, the Black Horse Troop and the Cadets from the Academy, visiting comrades and others, headed by the Cadet band, will form in line and march through the principal streets and then to the cemetery, where the graves of our fallen heroes will be strewn with flowers.

A FOLLOWER OF MEASLES.—In many instances a persistent cough follows an attack of measles. In speaking of this Mr. Walter B. Beel, editor of the Elkin (N. C.) Times, says: "Three weeks ago I had an attack of measles which left me with a bad cough. I took several doses of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the cough has entirely disappeared. I considered Chamberlain's medicines the best on the market." For sale by T. E. Slattery, 46t4

An Epidemic of Whooping Cough.

Last winter during an epidemic of whooping cough my children contracted the disease, having severe coughing spells. We had used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy very successfully for croup and naturally turned to it at that time and found it relieved the cough and effected a complete cure.—JOHN E. CLIFFORD, Proprietor Norwood House, Norwood, N. Y. This remedy is for sale by T. E. Slattery, Druggist. 46t4

I consider it not only a pleasure but a duty I owe to my neighbors to tell about the wonderful cure effected in my case by the timely use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I was taken very badly with flux and procured a bottle of this remedy. A few doses of it effected a permanent cure. I take pleasure in recommending it to others suffering from that dreadful disease.—J. W. LYSEN, DORR, W. Va. This remedy is sold by T. E. Slattery, Druggist. 46t4

COMMENCEMENT ORATIONS.

A GOOD NAME.

"There is something that's better than rubies. And nobler than riches and fame."

Do you know what it is? If not, would you like to know? It is a "Good Name."

But what is a good name? Do we mean by that some real pretty up-to-date name or title by which to be distinguished from associates? No. By name we mean character; the sum of qualities which distinguish one person from another. Hence a person having a good name is a person of good character, one who is distinguished for his good qualities. By good is to be understood, possessing moral virtue, that which constitutes merit and value; it is purity; the practice of duty and abstinence from vice.

As we have said, a good name is nobler than riches or fame. True, great riches will sometimes do a great deal, but how much more will a good name do. A person may have any amount of money, but let him have the name of being a cheat, a gambler, and a robber; he will have no friends save those of his own class. But are they friends? No. They pretend to be, but they are the very ones who would take the last cent he had, or maybe his life, if by so doing they could get a little money.

On the other hand notice the person with a good name, if he hasn't only enough money to keep soul and body together, he will be surrounded by friends on every hand. Although there are those who will deride and scorn him, those who will not acknowledge, all right," of an time previously applies for asked is he? W

You are either destroying character or building it; and how much easier it is to destroy a good name than to rebuild it when once destroyed.

Let a person who has always had a spotless character kill somebody, or go into a saloon and get to drinking and gambling, or even let him be caught in a falsehood, or anything of the kind, and how quickly his name drops and he is placed with a lower class of people. And then notice how hard it is for him to regain the confidence and affection he once possessed. It is as if he had been climbing a ladder, and when nearly at the top had taken a false step and fallen to the ground. He could not start from where the false step was taken and go on as if nothing had happened, but must start again from the bottom and climb up.

How important, then, if we have made a misstep, that we begin at once if we wish to regain what was lost.

We also see the advantage of beginning early in life to build this important structure, A Good Name. The foundation of this structure should be laid by parents. Parents, sometimes, make a great mistake in laying this foundation, by allowing their children to take their own course in the most important periods of their lives, childhood and youth, when they ought to see that the foundation of character is properly laid; that it is a solid granite foundation of religious truths and personal responsibility to God. And then, as the child builds it character it will not be continually toppling over on account of poor foundation.

How important, then, if we have made a misstep, that we begin at once if we wish to regain what was lost.

As regards fame; a wise man is more anxious to deserve a fair name than possess it. All men are not wise, in the sense in which the term is here used, therefore, we find persons who are more concerned and anxious about their worldly reputation than their character; they mistake worldly honor for character. But there is a vast difference between the two. The first is what men suppose a person to be; the second, what he really is and what God knows him to be. So just as God's knowledge, understanding, and unerring perception of the truth is greater than man's, just so much also is character superior to fame. The person who sustains a brilliant reputation may be happy but thrice happy is he whose character is unstained, and who merits the good name he possesses. It is plainly seen that, "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches," or fame.

A person might possibly get along peaceably in the world with riches and fame. It might do to live by. Yet I doubt it, for the true character of a person is most sure to be found out sometime. Whitewash will wear off; and fine clothes and fame can not hide a bad name. But one thing is sure, it would never do to die by. Riches or fame will never buy Heaven.

"Good name in man or woman is the immediate jewel of their souls." And, as we said in our definition, it constitutes both value and merit. Remember, you are the architect of your own fate. Nobody can make your character for you. Be your name good or bad, you have made it such. Others may try to influence you for the good or evil, but you have the decision to make as to which name you will choose. Every day you add something to your name, either for the better or for the worse.

Family Reunion.

Last Sunday Sanford Keen and the editor of this paper attended a reunion at the residence of Joseph Bryan, 2½ miles south of Argos, on the Michigan road. There was no one present except the following children of the aged couple, and their families: William M. Bryan, Mrs. Mary Beckner, Margaret Cox, Mrs. Jane Hooker and Sylvester Bryan. There were 15 grand children and one great grand child present. At the noon hour all partook of an excellent repast, after which Culver's noted artist photographed the families in various positions. The reunion was in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bryan, whose ages are 67 and 68. The event will always be cherished by those present.

KNOX LETTER.

A number of our young bloods attended the dance at Toto last Saturday night, but when the shooting affray between Geiselman and Lemke occurred, to get out of range of the bullets, they "struck a bee line" for home. "Doc" Seagraves has been hugging that "bee line" with fearful tenacity ever since.

Great preparations are being made for the appropriate observance of Decoration day. All the civic societies of this and nearby towns, the G. A. R. post, (a very large one), the K. of P., with its 100 members in good standing, headed by the Knox K. of P. band of eighteen pieces, will participate in the exercises.

I venture the assertion that more family jars, quarrels and separations of husbands from wives, and vice versa, to the square inch of territory covered, have occurred here in Knox during the past year, than in any other town of its size in the state, nearly a half dozen, we are told, having occurred during the last week or two. The malignant, evil-tongued gossip has been the cause, in most instances.

It took Knox a long time to discover that the town was about one hundred years behind the times. The old court house that looked as if it had been built about the time Daniel Boone was hunting red skins in Indiana and Kentucky, has been relegated to the rear and one of the finest court house buildings in the state has been erected on the ground where the old building—a disgrace to modern civilization and architecture—once stood. With the erection and completion of this magnificent structure of handsomely chiseled stone and ornamented iron, the people of Knox generally seem to have been suddenly awakened out of their Rip Van Winklean lethargy into a brighter, more prosperous day, and all are now laboring for the betterment of the town, so long neglected. An electric light plant has been put in, telephone exchange organized and in operation, the principal streets are being paved with vitrolized brick, new industries are seeking locations here, new buildings of brick (mostly business blocks) have been erected, besides many new and handsome dwelling houses. Taken altogether, the old town now presents a most prosperous appearance; and all this because its inhabitants took a "tumble to themselves," so to speak, and got in line with the progressive spirit of the age, fully realizing that drones succeed nowhere.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." "This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This Miracle working medicine is a godsend to weakly, sickly, run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by T. E. Slattery, Druggist. 4614

A Citizen's Grievance.

MR. EDITOR: It is said that there is no other town in these United States where home talent, home mechanics and home labor is so little appreciated as in Culver. It is the home men that are expected to keep the ball of commerce rolling, but when help is needed, outside citizens are hired when home mechanics and home laborers could do the work and be glad of the opportunity. There have been several instances lately where home men have been ignored and foreigners employed, and we are laboring under the impression that those citizens who so basely deserted home mechanics, will find out before their fondest hopes are realized that they have made a mistake, and one that will cost them dearly. We most emphatically believe in patronizing home industry when that industry has proven itself capable and trustworthy.

Yours, very truly,
A CITIZEN.

A Battle For Life. You need for perfect health, a plentiful and constant supply of pure new blood. Begg's Blood Purifier AND BLOOD MAKER tones the stomach and assists digestion. We sell it at E. Slattery's, drug store. 4611m
Dr. T. H. SROTTE,
Parkersburg, W Va., Says,
gentleman,—

I found that Begg's Cherry Cough Syrup does the business every time. Not once has it failed to cure my children of cold or croup. Even LaGrippe gives up its holds when tackled with Begg's Cherry Cough Syrup. I would sooner be without life insurance, then not to keep a good supply of this medicine in my house. Sold by T. E. Slattery, drug store. 4611m Begg's Cherry Cough Syrup gives you the essential qualities of the Cherry tree bark from which it derives its names. It cures your stubborn colds, coughs of long standing and cough. It is the best known cure for La Grippe. Sold by T. E. Slattery's, drug store. 4611m.

FARMERS ATTENTION!

The celebrated imported Belgian stallion, whose registered name is "Gaston;" weight 1800; color solid mahogany bay, and the famous 2:18 pacer, whose registered name is Bill Terry, weight 1150, dark bay, stand at Culver every Monday. Great record as the sire of fine colts. Barn near postoffice.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement, that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefited from first dose. She continued its use and after taken six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was. Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at T. E. Slattery's Drug Store. Only 50 cents and $1.00, every bottle guaranteed. 4611m

If you have a cough, throat irritation, weak lungs, pain in the chest, difficult breathing, croup or hoarseness, let us suggest One Minute Cough Cure. Always reliable and safe. For sale at Culver City drug store. 1m will make me poor buying shoes for them!" Did you ever say that? Then it was because you had failed to connect with the right kind of shoes. No strain is so hard on a shoe as the wear given by a healthy, romping boy or girl. Manufacturers have studied the matter for years, and the best results of this study is found in the line of solid, tough leather shoes we have now in stock. There are two solid soles on these shoes; they have sole leather tips; they have an extra stay sewed up the back and the uppers are made of strongest kangaroo calf. There's more wear in these shoes than in any others we know of.
