BRILLIANT CLOSING OF THE MOST Successful Year of Culver Military Academy.

Hundreds of Visitors Witness the Carrying out of the Most Elaborate Program Ever Planned by a Military School.

The commendable exercises of Culver Military Academy opened Sunday morning June 4th, with a review of the battalion of cadets under command of Major Gignilliat by Col. Fleet accompanied by Captains Glascock, Greiner, Duval, DeBlumenthal, Campbell, Wickham, Kiler, Hawkins and Floyd, also Dr. A. C. Hirst, honorary chaplain of the academy.

The cadets were in splendid form and their perfect lines both in quick and double time elicited abundant applause from the appreciative spectators.

At 11 o'clock the sermon before the cadet corps was delivered by the Rev. A. C. Hirst, D. D., the eloquent pastor of the Centenary Methodist church of Chicago. For three years Dr. Hirst has delivered the sermon under similar circumstances, and always to the delight of the cadets and their friends.

The subject of his discourse was "Choosing the Right Side." He said in part:

"The whole scene, connected with the text and context is a beautiful picture enshrining sublime lessons for ordinary life. On the shore of every failure walks the living Christ, to prove that on the other side of the boat in which we have failed is splendid victory. He challenges us concerning our life, that the grandeur of a noble manhood may be obtained. He reproves a sham life, tenderly teaching us how to succeed. It is not another set of faculties nor another series of opportunities that we need to achieve the chief purpose in life, but to obey the command of the Master to cast the net upon the right side of the boat, then the valueless life becomes grand and effective. The great success of the fisherman in gathering the multitude of fishes is not to be compared to their great discovery that he who made them cast their net on the right side was their risen Lord. That is more than all the conquests, all the successes. God moves in a mysterious way to develop human character. He leads the weary traveler to high and noble achievement."

The exercises for the day concluded with battalion parade at 5 p. m.

The exercises on Monday morning opened with an exhibition by the cavalry cadets in the great riding hall. Visitors had been coming in on every train since Friday and a surprisingly large number of spectators were present for so early in commencement week. The exhibition was a revelation to the visitors who had never dreamed of such wonderful riding outside of a Buffalo Bill performance, and compliments of the highest order were showered upon the cadets and their efficient and modest instructor, Lieut. J. Q. A. Floyd. The exhibition opened with running at heads and other sabre exercises in which the cadets exhibited great dexterity. This was followed by an exhibition of Cossack riding, the cadets standing in their saddles with crossed stirrups and dashing over the great floor of the hall and over hurdles singly and by fours and performing many difficult feats of horsemanship. Immediately after this the cadets gave as unique and wonderfully executed exhibition of rough riding as was ever witnessed. The spectators expressed their wonder and delight by unremitted and enthusiastic applause. In this feature saddles were removed, and at a stiff gallop the cadets would spring nimbly from the ground to their horses' backs, over their horses, over one horse and on to another at the same time turning in the air so as to face his tail and finally still at a swift gallop from the ground entirely over two horses still retaining his hold on the reins and galloping with and managing the animals. It was truly a wonderful sight.

Then the hurdles were put in place and the riding continued. Over the hurdles the cadets dashed, sometimes jumping to the ground just before the hurdle was reached and jumping the hurdle with the horse, or jumping to the horse's back as he went over.

Then came the order to stand up, and every cadet stood erect on his horse's back, at the trot, gallop, and over the hurdles. Then pyramids of youthful riders were formed on the horses' backs. After this riding at will, and gymnastics, in which cadets jumped over their horses, on to their horses over their croups, summer saulted over them, dived over them, and lifted themselves over their horses merely by the strength of their arms and a grip on the mane. Horses were thrown in some cases by the mere twisting of the rein while the riders stood upon their backs, and hats were picked up from the ground at the swift gallop. The exercises closed with a Græco-Roman race between cadets Runyan, Wilson D., and Woodward J., each cadet standing on two horses with a foot on either, and attired in old Roman costumes, making a very picturesque and exciting scene.

Immediately following the cavalry exercises, detachments threw military bridges across the lagoon, single and double lock of about 30 foot span, made without a nail or screw, by simply lashing together spars. The signal corps also gave an exhibition with flags and a flying field telegraph outfit while on the long range the constant cracking of a rifle told that some of the cadets were hard at work completing their year's shooting record. Captain Greiner had this feature in charge and reports some good records.

The afternoon exercises opened with battalion drill, in which the cadets did splendid work executing with wonderful precision the most difficult movements of the school of the battalion. This was followed by battalion parade, the cadets presenting a splendid appearance, with their soldierly bearing and beautiful summer uniforms. At sound off, as the band marched down the battalion front, playing some catchy air, with drum major Barton, resplendent in gold and grey, scarlet and white-duck and patent leather and black bear skin, in the lead, a round of applause burst from the spectators, and thereafter the band never appeared without a similar demonstration. Cadet Wilson, the band instructor, deserves much credit and should feel very proud of the success of his work.

NEW BARRACKS UNDER CONSTRUCTION.

In the evening a large audience assembled at the gymnasium to witness the declamatory contest and dramatic entertainment. The elocution contest was won by Cadet Homer L. Nearpass, son of the editor of the HERALD, who recited in a most finished and artistic style, the well known selection, "The Polish Boy."

The dramatic entertainment consisted of scenes of short sketches and was much enjoyed. Regret was expressed that Capt. de Blumenthal did not appear as heretofore in his role of lightning sketch artist.

The viola solo by Cadet Wilson M., was rendered with the touch of a master and was enjoyed by all and deeply appreciated by the music lovers in the audience.

forces and the remainder of the battalion under Major Gignilliat representing the Americans. The tactics on both sides were excellent, though of course the American side came out victorious.

The cotillion in the evening was a most delightful affair and most pleasing to the eye. The figures were very pretty and unique and the favors consisted of various pieces of jewelry such as hat pins, glove buttons, and bracelets made from the various cadet buttons. In one figure a facsimile of a brick wall was placed on the floor. The men were then provided with immense straw hats and so arranged that these would just show over the top. The ladies were led out and told to choose a hat. The wall was then removed and all joined in with the partners they had thus chosen in some of the figures of the merry, "Old Dan Tucker." There were quite a number of these chance figures all very unique and interesting. The prize contest on the target range at two hundred yards occurred Tuesday afternoon and was won by Cadet Tindal by a score of 24 out of a possible 25.

The afternoon exercises, Wednesday, opened with a snappy competition drill in the Manual of Arms, won by Cadet Bernheimer, who may well be proud of being the best drilled cadet of a battalion as well drilled as the Culver cadets. This was followed by an exhibition of the physical exercise with arms recently adopted for use in the U. S. army. The movements being executed to music and consisting of a series of graceful lunges and varied manipulations of the rifle, the effect of which was most pleasing.

After a few battalion movements, a sham battle was given, declared by military authorities present to be the most realistic and complete in its details of anything of the sort they had ever witnessed. Intrenchments had been constructed over which floated the Spanish flag. Nearby a battery of artillery, also intrenched, and a block house completed the details. The cadet battery opened the battle, their fire being answered by the sharpshooters of the attacking party. Under fire a bridge was constructed by the advancing party, a cadet occasionally pitching forward pierced by an imaginary Spanish bullet. The bridge was crossed under cover of a heavy fire from the supports, and then came the advance by rushes, the cadets, though excited, exhibiting absolutely perfect fire discipline. Then followed all the roar and din of battle, thrilling and complete in every detail, even to the staggering, reeling, and falling of the wounded. Then came rapid fire, the reserves were brought up, cease firing, and the clear notes of the trumpet sounded the stirring charge. With a deafening yell the cadets rushed forward, on and over the intrenchments, many making a wild dash for the Spanish flag, which was torn to shreds, every cadet struggling for a fragment as a souvenir of their last drill.

The parade which followed was as beautiful as the drill had been thrilling, and many a boy's eyes dimmed with tears as he realized that it was the last time he was to stand shoulder to shoulder with his comrades. The evening gun boomed upon the air, and the colors floated slowly down their staff to the strains of the "Star Spangled Banner," while the long line of grey and gold and white and crimson, stood motionless at parade rest, rivalling in the beauty of its colors those of the setting sun which cast its softening glow over the scene. As the officers advanced to the center, Major Gignilliat dismounted from his spirited black, and as they halted in front of him he made to them a few farewell remarks, congratulating them on their efficiency and thanking them for their co-operation. He then handed to each, a commission bearing the official academy seal and the date of the appointment. The cadet officers commissioned are cadets Middendorf, Grover, VanVleck, Voris, Moller, McMillan, Cunningham, Bigwood, Canfield, Fleet H., Barton, Pollard, Reitz, Smith C., and Wilson M.

The farewell ball given to the graduating class Wednesday evening by the corps of cadets, was a most brilliant affair. The ball room was decorated elaborately in red and white, the academy colors, while stacks of rifles, crossed sabres, standards, and other martial paraphernalia, gave a military air to the scene, while pieces of tapestry and electric light effects added to its richness.

The ball was opened by Cadet McMillan with Miss Laughlin, of St. Louis. At ten o'clock the cannon announcing the opening figure was fired by Miss Laughlin, and the eight Cadet Marshals with their partners waltzed slowly around the room, passing under the national colors, to which the Marshals uncovered, and then formed in columns for the opening figure. This was most graceful and intricate, the clashing swords, brilliant uniforms, and handsome evening gowns of the ladies making a scene of beauty that will long be remembered by those who witnessed it. The ball closed with the firing of the sunrise gun Thursday morning.

The Marshals of the ball were: Cadet McMillan with Miss Laughlin, of St. Louis, blue satin trimmed with blue chiffon.

Cadet Fleet with Miss Rodgers, of Logansport, white organdie trimmed with valencienne lace and blue ribbons.

Cadet Voris with Miss Bruner, of Terre Haute, white point desprit.

Cadet Thomas with Miss Duenweg, of Terre Haute, Paris creation of pink.

Cadet Cunningham with Miss Foreman, blue silk with lace flechu.

The final week exercises concluded Thursday with the graduation of the first class, and the award of medals and honors. The address to the graduates was delivered by Rev. W. A. Quayle D. D., of Indianapolis, his subject being, "The Fine Art of Being a Man." The medals were presented after a few appropriate remarks by Rev. A. C. Hirst D. D., of Chicago.

Plymouth Will Celebrate.

The committee of citizens having in charge the arrangements for the celebration of Independence Day at Plymouth, including the soldiers' reunion on the 3rd and 4th, announce that matters have progressed so satisfactorily that they are able to say to the people of this and surrounding counties that the celebration promises to eclipse anything ever attempted in towns much larger than Plymouth. There will be two days' reunion of the 157th Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry who will pitch their tents and go into encampment on the fair grounds. Assurances indicating an attendance of 1,000 have been received. It will be the first opportunity the people of this part of the state have had to give a hearty greeting to the gallant "Studebaker Tigers." Prominent speakers are sure to be there, among whom are Congressman Landis, Hon. Benjamin F. Shively, and the congressman from this district Hon. Abram L. Brick. Numerous other attractions including a balloon ascension with performing aeronaut, mammoth industrial, military and civic parade, sports and expensive fireworks will also be provided, more particular announcement of which will be made later and by poster, programs, etc. It is designed to make the affair general, and the people of Plymouth in extending a cordial invitation to all their neighbors to come they want them to feel that on that occasion everybody within the city will "be at home."

May Have to Enlarge.

Owing to the fact that the Ross House has been taxed to its utmost capacity during the past two months the genial proprietor, John Bowell, may be compelled to build a large addition to the same. The traveling public and citizens in general fully realize that John conducts an up to date house and knows just how to accomplish that desirable feat. The house has been thoroughly overhauled, and today is supplied with all modern conveniences, including steam heat, bath rooms etc. The HERALD wishes the proprietor continued success.

OUR BABY.

Such a little break in the sod!
 So tiny to be a grave,
 Oh! how can we render so soon to God,
 The beautiful gift he gave?
 How shall we know his voice,
 Or the greeting of his eyes,
 'Mid the countless cherubs that rejoice,
 In the garden of paradise?
 How shall we know our own,
 Where the air is white with wings,
 Our baby, so soon from our home has flown,
 To the angels' musterings.
 Yet over his little head,
 Lying so still in the grave,
 We thank our God for the bliss of the dead,
 For the joy of the soul set free.
 Escaped are its thorns and harms;
 The only path he has trod,
 Is that which leads from the mother's arms
 Into the arms of God. E. F.

The following extract is from the speech of Editor Gordon, of the Richmond Item, at the meeting of Republican leagues, at Fort Wayne recently. It speaks our sentiments exactly:
 "The paper that winks at official evil because it is committed by men of its faith, or which grimacingly swallows nostrums because prescribed by its own party is not a paper whose influence is lasting, or which cuts any figure in politics or anywhere else. Parties have ceased to act as a shield to men who are recreant to their trust. Current legislation exemplifies it. It is the duty of every paper of whatever political faith to fearlessly and fairly condemn folly and corruption in its own party. By so doing it not only serves the public and fulfills its legitimate function, but renders its own party the highest service, for it is better that individuals be turned out of powers in the party, than the party be turned out of power in the nation."

 Judge Capron has appointed the following able men to serve on the county advisory board:

Attention.
 Our readers were no doubt surprised that they did not receive the HERALD last week, hence this explanation. It became necessary for us to make certain repairs upon our press and besides the fact that the editor was entirely without assistance, he was sick. But hereafter the HERALD will float to the breeze every week, improved locally and otherwise. We have demonstrated in the past that we can issue a newspaper which was a credit to the town and we can do it in the future if our citizens consider our efforts worthy of patronage. No man can issue a newspaper on wind, hence as it is one of the greatest factors in a town, should be heartily supported.

Council Proceedings.
 The Common Council met in special session Monday evening and transacted the following business:
 The plat of the proposed Duddleson addition was read and unanimously accepted. The deed giving to the town a plot of land fronting on Main St., and made by Henry Zechiel and wife, was accepted with a proviso relating to recording the same. A bill for $15.60 presented by Henry Zechiel for 156 loads of gravel, was accepted after some consideration of the price designated. A petition and proposition relating to the purchase of chemical engines was presented and was laid over to the next regular session on the 19th. The Marshal was ordered to remove the numerous stone on Main St. The board designated 8:00 a. m. Tuesday to meet and view the new street running from Scott St. to Mrs. Lord's residence.

J. O. FERRIER, Culver, Ind.

Wednesday, Mr. H. J. Meredith and wife left for Oswego, Ind., where they attended the wedding of Clarence Ayer and Miss Belle Metz who were united in the holy bonds of wedlock, Thursday, June 14th. Mr. Ayer is well known here, he being formerly a clerk for Mr. Meredith.

Last year Robert Rea of Culver, won a scholarship medal at the Culver Military academy and a scholarship from the Chicago University. This year William Alexander Fleet, of this city carried off the same honors. Thus it is plain to see that Culver talent wins its share of glory.

The graduating exercises of the Aubeenaubee township, Fulton Co., Public schools will be held in the M. E. church at Luter's Ford Saturday evening July 1st. An excellent program has been arranged principally by local talent. Prof. Banta of Rocheser Normal University will deliver the address.

Rochester, Ind., June 14.

Mr. Editor. We are authoratively informed that the permanent establishment of the summer Chataugua Assembly at Culver, depends upon the moral tone and conduct of your people and public policy. The management of the institution feel that a community which will allow unbridled debauchery and wilful violation of the statutes of the state, is not a condition conducive to the establishment of a Christian institution. What is your duty, and how do you stand? "One Interested."

Mr. T. H. STROUT, Parkersburg, W Va., Says, Gentlemen,

I found that Beggs Cherry Cough Syrup does the business every time. Not once has it failed to cure my children of cold or croup. Even Lattippe gives up its holds when tackled with Beggs Cherry Cough Syrup. I would sooner be without life insurance, then not to keep a good supply of this medicine in my house. Sold by T. E. Slattery, drug store. 46tin

Never in the history of Culver have the railroad grounds been so artistically beautified as at the present time. A large force of men have been at work upon the grounds under the management of a master, hence they present a magnificent appearance. A large pole has been raised upon the banks of the lake, from the top of which wave the Stars and Stripes. In fact the grounds are admired by all lovers of the beautiful.
