The wife of William Sutherland has applied for a divorce and Sutherland came here Saturday to testify in the same case. He has been convicted of manslaughter and is confined in the penitentiary at Michigan City. He says his wife is not a proper person to have the custody of his children and he will try to have them placed in the orphans' home or in the custody of some one who will take care of them. This we understand is Sutherland's side of the case. —Plymouth Republican.

This man knows what he is talking about and is evidently not a tenderfoot in the newspaper business. "Send your items of news when they are fresh. We don't like to publish a birth after the child is weaned, a marriage after the widow is married again, nor the notice of an entertainment when the job work is done elsewhere and the editor is charged for admission.

QUICK WORK.

Rev. J. V. Coombs commenced the construction of a cottage in the Gould Grove last week, and to-day he and his family are occupants of the same. We call this quick work.

A CORRECTION.

In last week's paper it was announced that the Christian church had established the Assembly here. This statement is incorrect. The Christian church no doubt will have headquarters here if the Assembly becomes a permanent encampment, but at present it is managed by private parties. Prof. Huston, the musical director, will arrive here July 13th. On the 14th, he will begin drilling for the Assembly. It is our desire to secure a chorus of 100 voices. All singers are invited to meet on the 14th. Young ladies and gentlemen from the country and neighboring villages are urged to come. J. V. COOMBS.

HORRIBLE ACCIDENT.

Prof. M. H. Phillips Collides With the Colonnade Hotel and Falls 30 Feet.

Last Sunday will be a memorable day for Culver, as it was an exciting one from more than one incident of an unusual character. The fact that there would be a balloon ascension as advertised in the HERALD brought a large crowd of country people to the city. The balloon was stationed between the Beeber saloon and the Colonnade Hotel. Scores of men informed the aeronaut that with the wind blowing from the south-west he could not clear the hotel, but that distinguished gentleman assured them that he could sail over that hotel all right. In the meantime the hour drew near when the aeronaut should depart for a short time from mother earth. The vast crowd held its breath in expectancy, as every one predicted that an accident was inevitable. Finally at about 4:00 o'clock the word was given and like a rocket the balloon shot heavenward with the aeronaut hanging by the hands to a trapeze. The balloon majestically cleared the hotel, but when the aeronaut had nearly reached the cornice of the hotel, he saw that he could not clear it and threw out his feet in an effort to push himself away from the building. He struck with such velocity, however, that he shattered the cornice edge. The shock three feet along the edge tore his hands lose from the bar, and he returned to the ground a distance of about thirty feet, striking with awful force upon his hands, face and one hip. He was picked up and carried into the hotel, where Drs. Hollister and Wiseman and a doctor from Plymouth examined the injured man and found that his right thigh bone was broken and both wrists dislocated. He was otherwise bruised but not very seriously. He was placed upon the South Bend excursion train and taken as far as Plymouth, where he was placed in charge of Dr. Stevens of that place. Monday he was taken to the Epworth Hospital in South Bend.

This accident was exceedingly bad for the aeronaut, as he was to have made one ascension in Plymouth Monday and two on Tuesday. It seems to us that it was a gross piece of carelessness on the part of a man who claims to have had years of experience in the balloon ascension business, as a half-witted individual would have known better than to have attempted to ascend from between the narrow confines of two buildings. However, the physicians have reasons to believe that the man will recover, but it will be some time before he will perform upon a trapeze hanging from a balloon.

There were two excursion trains in Culver Sunday but they were not overloaded, hence the crowd was not so large as it was the Sunday previous. The visitors in general were very orderly, but as usual there was a tough gang present, whose delight is to create a disturbance, and one or two brutal scraps was the result, one man being fined $5.50 for dislocating a man's eye. By the way, we have not been in the habit of expressing our opinion of such disgraceful proceedings as were enacted here Sunday, consequently we say that when it comes to pass that

Fourth of July at Plymouth.

So far as an immense crowd is concerned, we are safe in saying that no city in the northern portion of the state could show half the number of visitors at their celebration, as Plymouth did upon Monday and Tuesday, July 3rd and 4th. It is estimated that at least 15,000 people were entertained during the two days, and most royally at that. On the 4th, the parade was magnificent, tongue being unable to express the magnitude and beauty of the affair. In the afternoon, it rained, which necessitated the withdrawing several interesting events from the program. In the evening the fire works surpassed anything of the kind ever attempted in this section.

The hotels, restaurants and livery stables did a tremendous business, as usual the peerless Ross House taking the lead. On Monday over 800 persons were provided with provender and on the 4th over 900 people had the inner man supplied. There were several cornet bands present and scores upon scores of select parties, congressmen and other high moguls from abroad who were satisfactorily provided for at this immense caravansary. Although the house was taxed to its utmost capacity, its urbane landlord, John Howell, was ever on the alert to meet every want of his guests, and upon every hand you could hear flattering praise of the hostelry and its management. This only goes to prove the utter foolhardiness of any one without great hotel experience, let alone any one without any experience whatever attempting to conduct a hotel in opposition to the Ross, which some individuals have found out to their bitter cost.

The business men of Plymouth as a whole, did a rushing business, and during the evening had their stores handsomely decorated with various patriotic colors, but the magic Chinese lantern decoration which adorned Kubn & Son's store eclipsed any thing in the decorating line in Plymouth. With strong electric light illuminating this wonderful production of artistic decoration, made a beautiful and fascinating scene. Our friend Allman, the clothier, came to the front with an odium in his mammoth show window, which caused hundreds of people to pause and look at it. The curiosity was a handsome mother duck, surrounded by fifteen or sixteen young ducklings, which were sporting in a large tank of water.

Several speeches were made during the two days' program, the encampment of the 157th Volunteers at the Fair grounds and other attractions, gave the visitors ample entertainment. All in all it was a grand success, for which the citizens of Plymouth deserve much praise.

Lake Maxenkuckee to be Studied by the U. S. Fish Commission.

The U. S. Fish Commission is undertaking to make a thorough physical and biological survey of Lake Maxenkuckee. A party of representatives of the Commission has rented the Duenweg cottage just south of the Arlington Hotel and will remain during the entire season. The party is in charge of Dr. Barton Warren Evermann, the ichthyologist of the Commission. The other members of the party are: Dr. J. T. Scovell, teacher of Biology, Terre Haute High School; Mr. Thos. Large and Mr. T. Bronte Evermann of Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.

It is the intention to make a very careful physical survey of the lake which will enable them to make a much better map than has ever been made before. They will take hundreds of soundings, so that the topography and character of the bottom may be fully known. Bottom temperatures will be taken in all parts of the lake and at regular intervals. The temperature of the air and of the surface of the water will be taken three times a day, at 6 a. m., at noon and at 6 p. m., and regular daily observations regarding winds, rainfall, and sky will be recorded.

Then the animals and plants of the lake are to be thoroughly studied. By means of various kinds of collecting apparatus, study collections will be made of all the different species of fishes, mollusks, crustaceans, turtles, frogs and all other animals found in the lake. The plants growing in the water and those upon the immediate shores will be studied and catalogued, for it is upon these that the animal life of the lake depends. Indeed, if there were no plants in the lake animal life could not exist in it.

In making the survey of the lake, it will be necessary to place a number of bouys at various places in the lake. Steamboat captains and all others observing these bouys are requested not to interfere with them in any way. Lake Maxenkuckee is a meandered lake and no one has the right to disturb any such objects placed in it by the U. S. Government.

Dr. Evermann's party is also equipped for photographing, and the report, when published, will doubtless contain many fine illustrations, of the beautiful scenery which surrounds this beautiful lake.

IS IT RIGHT

For an Editor to Recommend Patent Medicines?

(From Sylvan Valley News, Brevard, N. C.) It may be a question whether the editor of a newspaper has the right to publish and recommend any of the various proprietary medicines which flood the market, yet preventative of suffering we feel it a duty to say a good word for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Have known and used this medicine in family for twenty years and have always found it reliable. In many cases a dose of this remedy would save hours of suffering while a physician is awaited. We do believe in depending implicitly on medicine for a cure, but we do believe if a bottle of Chamberlain's Diarrhoea Remedy were kept on hand and administered at the inception of an attack such suffering might be avoided and in many cases the presence of a physician would be avoided and in very many cases the assistance of a physician would not be required. At least this has been our experience during the past twenty years. For sale by T. E. Slattery, druggist.
