C. O. Ryan, editor of the Geneva Herald says: "Perhaps the most strikingly profligate being that exists in scoundrelism is the mongrel dead-beat in human form who takes a newspaper for a number of years and then, when he is reminded of the debt, refuses to pay the same. The newspaper deadbeat, the chap who would pilfer the pennies from his dead mother's eyes, and the one who would murder his sister for the rare fillings in her teeth, are all consanguineous."

A Correction.

After a careful investigation, the editor of this paper is satisfied that the correspondent in last week's HERALD erred in his statement that an official of a church who occupies a municipal office, charged the police to "close their eyes" against "open saloon, etc.," as no official of any church made any such assertion, although our correspondent cited to us good authority or the item would not have been published. The HERALD has no desire to besmirch anyone's good name, hence this voluntary correction.

Forgot Himself.

Absent-minded persons are not infrequently met among the medical profession, who of all men should always have their wits about them.

It is related that a well-known doctor was once present in a public place when an accident occurred, and seeing a wounded man, went about calling: "A doctor! A doctor! Somebody go and fetch a doctor!"

A friend who was by his side ventured to inquire, "Well, what about yourself?"

"Oh, dear," answered the doctor, suddenly recalling the fact that he belonged to the medical profession, "I didn't think of that!"

Beautiful Women

Should have beauty and vigor of health. A strong stomach is the first essential to beauty. Nine-tenths of the sickness comes from weak digestion. Thousands of people have tried Hostetter's Stomach Bitters and regained their health. There is nothing like it. See that a private revenue stamp covers the neck of the bottle.

The Worm Turns.

"The doctor says you must not take anything that doesn't agree with you," said Mrs. Peck to her invalid husband.

"It's lucky for you," replied the sufferer, "that he didn't give me that advice fifteen years ago."

"Why is it," she asked.

"Because the chances are you would be an old maid to-day," answered the sick man with a peculiar smile.

And just to prove that she could agree with him if she wanted to she made no reply.

AFRAID OF THE BOERS

WITH ALL HER STRENGTH, ENGLAND SHRINKS FROM WAR.

Well She May, for the South Africans Are Magnificent Fighters—in the Event of War, the Boers Will Be Led by an American.

Should the difficulties between the Transvaal republic, South Africa, and Great Britain lead to war, the conflict will be exceedingly bitter and sanguinary. In the end, by exercising her supreme strength, Great Britain will conquer; but the effort will cost her heavily in life and money. English officers are well aware of this and have no hesitancy in so expressing themselves. One of them, Lord Cecil Douglass Compton, now in this country, and who has seen service in South Africa and knows the Boers well, thus discusses the situation:

"The Boers of the Transvaal," he says, "are magnificent guerrilla soldiers. Their history has proved it, and they are fully up to their standard to-day. They are expert marksmen, born rough riders, such as your own cowboys, and their courage and tenacity is undeniable. Individually they are as good military stuff as the world possesses. They also are thoroughly convinced of the justice of their cause and would die to a man at the word of Oom Paul.

"But aside from their morale and their fitness, the Transvaal country is one admirably adapted for the purposes of defense. It is inland, with large uninhabited spaces. An army invading it must have a distant base, and its supplies must be brought up through a semi-tropical country under the most disadvantageous conditions. Cape Town is a thousand miles from the Vaal river, and if an attack were to be made from Natal there would be mountains to work through and such tropical growth.

"The question of transportation would be serious. We would need thousands of mules, which must be brought from South America. The ocean distance and the adverse climate would kill the animals off by the hundreds, and the actual work would entail even greater losses.

Will Need 60,000 Men.

"There is a question of strategy as well. The Boers would be difficult to hit in a mass. Indeed, they might not be mobilized in a European sense at all. In an arid, rocky country, filled with splendid shots, with no real objective point to capture, with a disaffected or actively hostile population on your flank or rear, the conquest of the Transvaal would be one of the most arduous undertakings we ever entered upon. In my opinion no less than 60,000 men would be required. Your own Philippine war is not so difficult. Indeed, it is folly to underestimate the military strength of the Transvaal, which proceeds not alone from the material character of the population but also from the nature of the country itself.

"And the Boers are armed to the teeth. The money raised by taxation of the Uitlanders has been spent in arms and artillery, so that the republic repeats on a small scale the military camp which the continental powers exhibit on a great scale."

How excellent a marksman the Boer may be inferred from England's past experience with him. In one engagement in the '80's out of a total English force of between 600 and 700 the loss in a few hours was 283 killed and wounded—nearly half the force. It is a literal fact that the great majority of the dead soldiers were found to have been shot through the head, a hole in the helmet of each of the fallen showing the mark at which the farmer rifleman had aimed.

The commander of the Boers in the event of hostilities will be Gen. P. J. Joubert, who has successfully measured swords before with the English. Gen. Joubert is an American, having been born to Uniontown, Pa., in 1841.

SEEKS BAN ON CANAL.

City of St. Louis Will Ask Issue of an Injunction.

Proceedings will be instituted soon in the Federal Court at Chicago to prevent the operation of the Chicago drainage canal. The city of St. Louis will be the plaintiff, represented by City Counselor Schnurmacher. This was decided at the meeting of the joint committee of the St. Louis City Council and house of delegates which was appointed several weeks ago to investigate the drainage canal enterprise and recommend steps to protect the city's interest.

Various plans were discussed for preventing the pollution of the city's water supply, proceedings by injunction being regarded as the most feasible. Afterward the committee asked Mr. Schnurmacher for a written opinion as to the standing the city would have in the courts. The committee met to consider Mr. Schnurmacher's advice. This was to the effect that the city or any resident of St. Louis could enjoin the operation of the canal if it could be shown that any interest would be threatened by the pollution of the water. Resort should be had to the United States Court at Chicago, in Mr. Schnurmacher's opinion. The committee discussed the matter for an hour and a half, and then drafted a joint resolution directing the city counselor to institute such legal proceedings as might be necessary. The action of the committee following directly on the visit to St. Louis of the State inspectors from Chicago is considered significant.

RURAL DELIVERY IS GROWING.

Western Headquarters Fixed at Indianapolis.

The Western headquarters of the rural free delivery of mail has been established at Indianapolis, and the following special agents met with Frank M. Dice, general superintendent: Henry Casten, Madison, Wis.; Charles Lynn, Chicago; W. F. Conger and George Olsen, Wisconsin; Thomas Howard, St. Paul; W. V. Annin, Phoenix, Ariz.; S. B. Rathbone, Wheeling, W. Va.; E. H. Hathaway, Indiana. The agents made reports concerning the growth of the movement. They said that while the undertaking was largely in its preliminary stages, it was growing rapidly and was the "coming" department of the United States postoffice business. A new year began July 1, and there is now $300,000 available for the service this year. Indiana heads the list of States in the demand for the service and Iowa is second.

MEETING OF TEACHERS.

National Association Convention at Los Angeles, Cal.

The thirty-eighth annual convention of the National Educational Association was formally opened at Los Angeles Tuesday. The address of welcome on behalf of the State was delivered by Gov. Gage, Mayor Eaton tendered the hospitality and freedom of the municipality and superintendent of instruction and spoke on behalf of the educational interests. The Newman disaster cast a gloom over the delegates and much sympathy was expressed for the injured and the families of the dead. All during the night and early morning hours section after section rolled into the city until the attendance was estimated at 10,000.

The opening session was called to order by F. Q. Storey of the local executive committee. The pavilion was crowded in every part and a large number of the visitors failed to gain admittance. After an invocation by Rev. C. Clark Pierce the Woman's orchestra rendered the National Educational Association march, a rather unique piece of music composed for the occasion. Gov. Henry T. Gage was presented and bade the delegates a hearty welcome in behalf of the State.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Kirk in behalf of the educational interests of the State followed. He told of the growth of secondary and higher education in California. Including professional colleges located in San Francisco, the State university has now a total enrollment of 2,438. In 1889 there were but sixty-two high schools in the State, but to-day there are 125 and with increase of numbers the standard of work has been raised.

Dr. Elmer E. Brown of the University of California on behalf of the management also welcomed the visiting educators, and then Mayor Eaton, on behalf of the municipality, told the visitors they had the freedom of the city during their stay. On behalf of the city schools Superintendent Forsyth outlined the educational system there and paid tribute to the educators in charge of the 28,000 children.

Responses to the welcoming addresses were made by N. C. Dougherty, superintendent of schools of Peoria, Ill.; Dr. Emerson E. White of Columbus, Ohio, and J. H. Phillips, superintendent of schools of Birmingham, Ala. After the orchestra had played Mozart's overture to "Don Juan" President Eliphaz Cram Lyle of Millersville, Pa., delivered his address.

The evening's session was as largely attended as had been the one in the afternoon. In addition to the Woman's orchestra, the Eolian Club, under the direction of Mrs. G. B. Parsons, superintendent of music in the public schools, ended the proceedings by rendering several selections. Dr. W. T. Harris, United States commissioner of education, delivered a decidedly interesting address on "An Educational Policy for Our New Possessions." Henry S. Townsend, inspector general of schools of Hawaii, made a thoughtfully conceived address on the subject, "The Educational Problem in Hawaii."

At the closing session of the national council of education Prof. Louis Soldan of St. Louis was elected president for the following year; Prof. Elmer Brown of California, vice-president, and Miss Belle A. Dutton of Cleveland, Ohio, re-elected secretary.

At the annual meeting of the board of directors of the National Educational Association the treasurer's report showed a total amount during the year of $28,561.10, including a cash balance of $2,201. The expenditures amounted to $26,010.20, including $10,000 transferred to the permanent fund. The available cash on hand is $2,556.10. Treasurer McNeill also reported that between $8,000 and $10,000 in addition was available this year for transfer to the permanent fund.

RUMOR OF ALGER'S RETIRING.

Secretary of War Said to Have Decided to Quit the Cabinet.

Washington dispatches on Wednesday asserted that the resignation of Secretary of War Russell A. Alger was in the hands of President McKinley, but that the fact would not be made public for some weeks. Several different reasons are surmised for this move of Secretary Alger, the principal one remarked by politicians being the combined action brought to bear upon President McKinley by leading Republicans to ask for the resignation of Secretary of War Alger ever since the formal announcement of the Alger-Pingree alliance and the latter's denunciation of President McKinley.

Secretary Alger denied the report that he is to resign. When told of the rumor that he had tendered his resignation he said: "I have received no direct or indirect intimation from the President that he desires me to leave the cabinet. I have noticed no treatment that makes my position personally or officially uncomfortable. I have caused no third party to learn for me if it would be acceptable that I retire later on, and, furthermore, there is nothing to warrant the assertion that I am to retire."

One reason given by friends of Secretary Alger for his resignation so far ahead is that he is anxious to sign the full report of the war in Congress in December. It is said that in the event the President is willing to retain him until that time, Secretary Alger will go on a long vacation and the President will conduct the affairs of the office himself.

INDIANS DEFY THE NATION.

Walla Tonka Is Put to Death in Spite of Court's Order.

William Goings, the Choctaw Indian, known also by the name of "Walla Tonka," was executed at Alkiki, I. T., for the murder of his uncle, Mason Goings. The execution took place at 2 o'clock, and was a sickening sight. A quilt was spread on the ground near the court house, and near it four Indians placed a coffin. A few minutes later the prisoner, in charge of Sheriff Watson and a deputy, and escorted by twenty light horsemen, marched down the line of spectators. Goings bade them good-by, and knelt on the quilt blindfolded. The sheriff bared his breast and painted a spot over the heart; he then stepped back four paces, rested a rifle over a bench and fired, but missed the painted spot. Goings fell back and moaned an hour before expiring. Water was poured down his throat a number of times to hasten his death by strangulation.

A writ of habeas corpus was granted by Federal Judge John R. Thomas, but when it was delivered by two deputy marshals the sheriff refused to receive it. While the execution was proceeding District Attorney Clay remarked: "We are making history." It remains to be seen what action the United States Government will take for defiance of the writ.

Walla Tonka was a full-blooded Choctaw. He was born in the Indian Territory twenty-four years ago. In his 18th year he stabbed and killed his uncle, Jacob Lewis, and shortly after engaged in a saloon fight in which he shot and killed Bull Henderson. He was tried on both charges and acquitted, but was convicted of murder of another uncle, Mason Goings, in 1896, and was sentenced to be shot on Aug. 25, 1897. Tonka was a member of the Choctaw baseball club, and was respited in order to finish the season without the loss of so valuable a player.

"Fighting Joe" Wheeler Is Now Bound for the Philippines.

Gen. Joseph E. Wheeler stopped in Chicago a few hours en route from Washington to the Philippines on a mission the exact nature of which he says is unknown even to himself. "I am ordered merely to report to Gen. Otis and do not know what I shall have to do when I get there."

In answer to a direct question Gen. Wheeler stated that he did not know the strength of Aguinaldo's forces and that the published reports of our officers in Manila did not state them. He said that no doubt these officers and officials in Washington are well informed, but he had never had a conversation with any official in Washington on the subject and was quite ignorant as to the extent of their information.

Gen. Wheeler was accompanied by his daughter, Miss Annie Wheeler, who goes to the Philippines as a Red Cross nurse without pay.

LIE FREELY PASSED.

United States Senators Gallinger and Chandler Have Hot Tilt.

At Concord, N. H., the investigation of charges against United States Senator Gallinger by the civil service commission came near resulting in a fight. When several witnesses were called and failed to respond, Senator Chandler made the statement that the defendant had influenced witnesses to stay away from the investigation.

Senator Gallinger, pale with rage, challenged his accuser to make the charge outside the room. The challenge was accepted at once, and both men started for the door, but were prevented from leaving the room by newspaper men and the commissioners. Several contradictory statements followed, when Attorney General Eastman, believing he had been accused, rose to his feet, and shaking his fist at Senator Chandler, said: "You are a liar if you are a United States Senator."

Quiet was finally restored and the investigation proceeded, but the episode set the political pot of New Hampshire to boiling.

DEWEY AT PORT SAID.

Is Quite Well and Anxious to Reach the United States.

Admiral Dewey, on board the United States cruiser Olympia, arrived at Port Said Thursday evening. The admiral is reported looking hale and hearty and is anxious to get to New York as early as possible. He was therefore obliged to decline the invitation of Minister Straus at Constantinople to stay with him on the Bosphorus. He has decided to proceed with the Olympia to Trieste, where he expects to make a short stay for the benefit of a change of air. From Trieste he will proceed to America.

At the State Department it was denied that any official information had been received of the intention of the Canadian Government to send mounted police to the Porcupine region in Alaska. The Canadians would not, of course, officially notify this Government of their intention in the matter, but if the policemen could have been sent without publicity there is no doubt they would have gone to the disputed region. The intimation received was considered as a threat, and this Government promptly said troops would be sent to Pyramid harbor, which undoubtedly will cause the Canadians to abandon their intention of ordering armed men into the disputed territory, and force a denial from both governments. There is considerable confusion as to the location of the Porcupine region, and the general impression is that it is in the vicinity of the Porcupine river, near the arctic circle, 1,500 miles from Lynn canal. This is erroneous, for the Porcupine region is located south of the Klabeena river, east of the Porcupine creek and west of Kluckwan, an Indian village a few miles from the Lynn canal. The extreme western point of the Porcupine region is only twelve miles from Lynn canal. This region is rich in gold, and 2,000 American miners have located there. The territory is claimed by and is in the possession of this Government, which does not propose to turn it over to the Canadians.

It has been found advisable, on account of information received by the Washington authorities, to arm Government transports used in the carrying of troops to the Philippines. These ships have not carried any means of defense and are at the mercy of the smallest craft equipped with one rapid-fire gun. The latter would be able to sink the largest of the transports, which is nothing but a shipload of people, whose weapons would avail nothing in an attack at sea. The authorities decline to confirm the rumor that the War Department has had advice of a plan of the Filipinos to establish a small navy for depredation purposes, as a means of getting materials of war landed at convenient ports, and as a system of attack upon our army transports. They admit the transports are to be armed at once, and the equipment will be furnished with such promptness that the navy will be called upon to supply the guns and ammunition. It is planned to place one or two six-pounders on each transport, and these will serve to resist the attack of anything the Filipinos are likely to bring against the ships.

Commissioner Evans has been vindicated of the charges made against him by the investigation of his bureau by the pension committee of the Grand Army. Everything in the nature of a complaint has been inquired into and the committee found that the commissioner had not only executed the laws relating to his bureau, but had been liberal in doing so. While the committee is entirely satisfied with the work of the commissioner, it makes no concealment of the fact that it will endeavor to have the Secretary of the Interior change some of his rulings and amend the rules of practice.

All the diplomats are quietly laughing at the State Department and a ludicrous blunder it made. Ambassador Tower at St. Petersburg notified the department of the death of the Grand Duke George by cable, and it devolved upon the State Department to send a reply in the name of the President of the United States. This was done, and a cable to "His Imperial Highness Alexander III," instead of Nicholas II, the reigning sovereign of all the Russias, Alexander III, as every schoolboy knows, has been dead several years, and how the State Department came to make such a blunder is beyond the ken of ordinary mortals.

President McKinley has decided to postpone his Western trip until the early part of October, unless Mrs. McKinley's health permits him to leave earlier. The President has made a positive engagement to visit Chicago to attend the ceremonies attending the corner stone laying of the public building, which will take place Oct. 9. As his Western trip is postponed until fall he will simply extend his journey from Chicago to St. Paul and Minneapolis, where he will welcome the returning volunteers. If he should be able to leave for the West in August, he might go to the coast, but there is little likelihood he will start during the heat of the summer.

An old soldier whose patriotism has not dimmed with age wants to help reimburse Uncle Sam for the $20,000,000 paid to Spain on account of the Philippines. He draws a pension of $72 a month and desires to contribute 25 per cent of it for that purpose. Secretary Gage received a letter from the old soldier in which was enclosed a check for 25 per cent of his last quarter's pension. The check was returned to the soldier with a personal letter of thanks from the Secretary of the Treasury.

There will be two sons of former Presidents fighting for the flag in the Philippines, for in addition to Brig. Gen. Grant there will now be Lieut. Col. Hayes of the Thirty-first infantry. Webb C. Hayes, son of Grant's successor, has already won his spurs in the Spanish-American war. He began as major of the First Ohio infantry, and went with Shafter to Cuba. He was wounded during the fighting of July 1, and his horse was killed,

LAYING OF THE CORNER STONE.

Impressive Ceremonies at the New M. E. Church.

Last Tuesday at 4 o'clock p. m., the laying of the corner stone of the new M. E. church was consummated, a large concourse of people being present to witness the to be historical event. Presiding Elder Dale of South Bend was present and conducted the services, assisted by Revs. Fraley, Barber and Newman of this city and Rev. L. S. Smith of Plymouth. After singing by the choir, Rev. Dale made a few appropriate remarks, followed by remarks from all the ministers present, whose subject was unity. The corner stone is a very handsome piece of mechanism and had the following handsomely engraved inscription: "M. E. church, built 1868, rebuilt, 1899."

A copy of the Methodist year book, a photograph of little Helen, the pastor's baby, a copy of the Culver City Herald and Plymouth Republican, a list of the church membership, a hand bill advertising the occasion, a photograph of the Presiding Elders of the state, a copy of the Western Christian Advocate, a photograph of the old church, circulars of DaPauw University and Culver Military Academy, and New Testament Scriptures were placed in the stone.

At the close of the services the audience was invited to the parsonage where ice cream was served.

Against the World.

Last Sunday was the "king bee" day for Culver in the excursion line. There were three sections from Terre Haute loaded to their fullest capacity, and one train from Indianapolis composed of 12 cars, which were loaded with passengers inside and out upon the platforms. Aside from this the regular train from Logansport brought nearly 400 pleasure seekers while the train from South Bend and Plymouth contained two or three hundred. It was estimated that five thousand people were upon the railroad park and scattered around the lake. The hotels, restaurants etc., did a rushing business, while the steamboats were taxed to their utmost to supply the demands of those desiring to ride upon the crystal waters of Lake Maxenkuckee. Darlington's famous Cornet Band furnished excellent music upon the magnificent steamer Aubbeenaubee. It was certainly a fine band and a great credit to the city from whence it came. Notwithstanding the vast crowds, everything passed off pleasantly.

Opening of the Assembly.

The Maxinkuckee Assembly opened Thursday evening with the large tent packed by our citizens and cottagers to witness the great Passion Play by John L. Brandt. The audience was completely captivated, fascinated, and dumbfounded at the marvelous exhibition of moving figures representing Christ, his disciples, and followers from his birth to resurrection and ascension. The whole scene was very pathetic and extremely realistic. In that two hours, those present learned more of the goodness of Christ, and what he suffered for humanity, than they could learn in a life time from any other source. No one witnessed this great drama but what felt in every pulse of the body extreme pity and exalted veneration toward the greatest of all, Christ. Pen and tongue cannot depict to humanity the awful reality of Christ's sufferings as pictured to the audience on canvass, hence those failing to be present, lost the greatest treat of their lives. Every night until next Wednesday evening which will be the closing of the Assembly, you will be treated to rare entertainments, for the small sum of 10 cents.

UNSTINTED PRAISE.

The New York Sun's Review of the Forepaugh-Sells Agregation.

The New York Sun, in reviewing the inaugural performance of the combined Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers circuses said: "Last night set the circus ball a-rolling. The united Forepaugh and Sells circus took possession of the Garden, and for two hours and a half three rings and a platform did all in their power to make the audience cross-eyed in three directions at once."

"From time immemorial the Forepaugh show has been noted for the surpassing excellence of its trained animals. Last night the circus lived up to its reputation. From the trained seals to the educated elephants the animals seemed clever enough to be college graduates. In this respect, at least, the Forepaugh is far ahead of the Barnum show. The grand triumphal entree was more gorgeous than usual, and the hippodrome events were cleverly sandwiched in between acts in the rings, making a very welcome break in the succession of "stunts."

"Another feature which was far above the average was the clown contingent. Some of them were really comical last night and they worked with an enthusiasm and dash that was really effective. The Hanlons, in their trapeze act was the most thrilling feature of the programme, but there were a number of other mid-air feats which ran them close for first honors."

"For many the most interesting act of all was William Gorman's feat of driving thirty-five Kentucky thoroughbreds three times around the ring at a gallop. The riders are unusually fine and include Oscar Lounde, Stick Davenport, William DeMott, Sam Bennett, the Coress and the Davenes."

"In order to size up the Sells Brothers-Forepaugh shows in a readily comprehensible way, it may be said that it employs fully as many experts as Barnum and Bailey shows ever did. The present entertainment is a circus, first, last and all the time." At Logansport, Saturday July 22, at South Bend Saturday Aug. 12.

A Condensed Novel.

He was immured in the darkest dungeon beneath the castle moat. "If I had only a saw, a file, anything," he moaned as he looked at the solid bars across the solitary window. Then an idea struck him.

His face brightened up like a warehouse conflagration.

Rapidly running over his supply of collars, which had just come from the laundry, he selected one fitted for his purpose.

Five minutes later the great middle bar of the window, dexterously severed by the saw-like edges of the laundered collar, fell apart.

He was free!

A Forceful Speech.

When the Orange Free State Volksraad were considering an appropriation for better army barracks, one named Fouchee rose and said: "When I was a young man I slept in the open without shirt or socks and was never ill. Now I indulge in those luxuries and am never well." The appropriation was defeated.

If sin is ugly, it at least understands the art of beauty culture.

Over the Way.

Over the way of your dreams, my boy,
Are wondrous things for your eyes to see,
And wonderful paths to a world of joy
And the marvelous land of the Ought to Be.

There is gold in the dust that your feet will tread,
And diamonds gleam on the wayside
grass,

And wreaths of laurel to grace your head
Hang waiting to crown you as you pass.

There are marble castles and broad estates,
And servants to every wish fulfill,
And armored hosts at the castle gates Stand ready and eager to do your will.

There are living springs to renew your youth,
And dreamful shades for your least repose,
And breezes to fan you with love and
truth,
And gardens that blossom like the rose.

There are wildwoods ringing with songs of birds;
There are sumptuous feasts where friends are men
To greet you with tender and honest words,
And never a theme that you might regret.

Ah! over the way of your dream it lies—

This land of the Ought-to-Be, so fair;
This paradise of the countless skies,
Where the Best and Right are everywhere.

Your childhood lives in this happy
land,
And the loved ones lost in the years ago

In the glow of its glorious sunlight stand
And tenderly beckon you there, I know.

What care if your present path is bleak

And the shadows clutch at your garment's hem?

It's over the way that your soul must seek

For the light that will ever banish them.

Just over the way of your dreams, my boy,

Are wondrous things for your eyes
to see,

And wonderful paths to a world of joy
And the marvelous land of the Ought

HOW NO. 99 WON THE RECORD

By George Ethelbert Walsh.

"I don't believe in record-breakin' runs with steamships or steam engines. It's dangerous work, and some day there'll be such big explosions on land or sea that'll cure people of this craze."

Dan Martin, the old engineer, rubbed the shining brass connecting rods of
No. 99 vigorously, until they looked like a strong reflecting mirror.

"I've al'us refused to run my engines at a dangerous pace just to make a record for the company," he continued after a pause. "I have the name of bein' the most careful engineer in the West, an' I consider that a bigger honor than if I had the reputation of bein' the one that could drive his engine the fastest. The superintendent has hinted to me more 'n once that he'd like to see me break the record with old 99, but I al'us shrugged my shoulders,
and told 'em that I war'n' goin' to risk the lives of the passengers for any foolish advertisin' of the road. No, sir, I wouldn't do it."

Another vigorous rub of the polished brass rod.

"Yes, No. 99 holds the record now," he added in reply to a query, "an' she will for some time, too, I guess. But I was speakin' of things before she made that big run from Ellinwood to Great Bend in Middle Kansas.

"Was I the engineer at that time? Of course I was, an' No. 99 never put in better work. I didn't believe in record smashin' then any more than now, but I had to break the record that time or lose my life and 99 too. It was a forced trip that I took, an' I don't want to make it ag'in. No, sir, once is enough for me.

"I was ordered to take No. 99 from McPherson to Great Bend one mornin' to meet the superintendent of the road, an' he wired me to hurry up a bit. He wanted to make a quick trip down to Dodge City, where there was some trouble with railroad robbers.
After he finished the orders he added over the wires: 'You'll be alone, and will have a good chance to make 99 break the record.' I smiled at this,
but didn't intend to push her beyond the safety point one bit. My life and reputation was just as important whether I was alone or with a whole train load of people behind me.

"I started out of McPherson on a gentle trot, so to speak, and when I was clear of everything I put on more speed. I love to ride rapidly across the country when there ain't no cars danglin' behind, an' I just let old 99

skip lively. I was goin' as fast as I thought she ought to go without runnin' any risk. It was midsummer then, and the day was pretty warm and sultry. We hardly made a breeze in our rapid flight. Jim Watson, my fireman, said he thought the air was feverish hot, an' that's just what it was. The sun seemed to glare at us like a ball of fire, and the heat appeared to be risin' from the landscape all around. There wasn't a cloud in the sky, an' it just hurt our eyes to look outside of the caboose. The long stretch of rails ahead glistened like silver.

"We'll have a storm or somethin' before long," Jim says as he looks at the sky. "This heat won't last."

"I thought so, too, but I didn't give words to my ideas. We were approachin' Lyons at a swingin' gait when a few clouds suddenly rose up in the east. They looked black in the centre, and seemed to increase in size as they approached. In a short time they were joined by others, and their looks were threatenin'. They were wind clouds, and probably the begin-nin' of a bad wind storm. When we rushed through Lyons the flagman waved his hands at us and pointed toward the east.

"The clouds had now become more threatenin' than ever, and Jim muttered, 'A tornado, I'll bet.'"

"Shouldn't wonder," was all the reply I made.

"We swept on a little faster. I thought we might be safer to get into port before the storm struck us.
Then it occurred to me that we would be better off probably runnin' than standin' still. So I slackened speed a little an' watched the sky anxiously.

"Suddenly from the very middle of the black cloud somethin' seemed to extend way down to the earth. It looked as if the cloud had burst, an'
was trailin' along the track right behind us. I knew that sight only too well. It was rushin' down upon us like a fiend. The sun was still shinin', but the fleecy clouds around it made it flood the landscape with a sickly glare.

"Say, Jim, that fellow is after us," I said as quietly as possible.

"Yes, an' it's a reg'lar twister."

"Now when a tornado is rushin' down upon you at the rate of eighty or ninety miles an hour you forget all about the danger there is in record-smashin'. At least I did. There was that big, ugly-lookin' cloud followin' us with a fearful noise. It was so close that we could hear the rush and roar of it. I gave one frightened glance at its terrible centre, an' then I opened the throttle of old 99. Jim began to pile coal on, and shake up the fires. We were directly in the road of the tornado, and unless it veered to one side or the other, or we could succeed in outrunnin' it, we were doomed.
"But 99 responded to my touch like a horse. She snorted and puffed away as if aware of the danger behind. The wheels revolved so fast that it seemed as if they could not keep on the track.
In another moment we were speedin' along at a rate that would have made me sick at any other time. But we weren't goin' fast enough yet. The horrible cloud was still gainin' on us.
"More coal, Jim, more coal!" I shouted. "We must go faster."

"Well, he knew the danger, too, an'
he perspired like a porpoise as he tried to get up more steam. Faster an' faster we flew. The strain on the engine was severe, but I never thought of that. I just put on all the steam we could get. We were now holdin' our own with the tornado, but it was still a race for life or death. If anything should give way the storm would be down upon us in an instant. We were really balanced between two great dangers.

"If we can reach Great Bend we'll be all right," I said to Jim, as we both looked anxiously at the pursuin' cloud. "There's a turn in the road, an'
we'll get out of the path of the tornado."

"But we must cross the bridge first," Jim said in reply.

"Yes, but we can't slacken our speed."

"I knew what he was thinkin' of.
The bridge across the large arm of the Arkansas was only a wooden structure then, and it was not over-strong. To rush across it at our tremendous speed might cause a catastrophe. But the bend in the road did not occur until after the bridge was crossed. Until we reached that point the road was as straight as a bee-line.

"Neither one spoke after that. We alternately watched the pursuin' tornado and the track ahead. We just held our own and had no time to spare. If we lost one minute the horrible fiend would be down upon us."

"The bridge! the bridge is ahead!"
suddenly shouted Jim, and I thought his face turned a shade paler.

"I could not believe it at first. I thought that the bridge was miles beyond, and it was hard work to realize the distance we had covered since the tornado first alarmed us.

"Now for it," I muttered to Jim.
"Here goes!"

"I opened the throttle. Then No. 99 gave a loud, prolonged, shrill screech, that might have been her death knell.
The next instant she reached the wooden bridge, and thundered upon it like the rumblin' of thunder. The structure swayed and trembled under the weight. When we reached the middle it creaked and cracked, and seemed ready to give way at any moment. But we passed the middle safely, and the other shore was almost reached.

"See! see!" Jim shouted.

"I looked behind and shuddered at the sight. The tornado had reached the other end of the bridge, and as if angered at the prospect of our escape the mighty wind was rippin' and tear-in' up the wooden structure as if it was made of straw. We touched the other side none too soon, for the whole bridge began to sway, and then toppled over before the furious onslaught of the wind.

"But in another moment we reached the bend in the road, and rushed out of the path of the tornado. We slowed up a little then, and watched the baffled fiend hurry past us, carryin' death and destruction with it. We both gave a sigh of relief, and then turned to check the terrible speed of our iron horse.

"We brought her to a standstill at Great Bend station with difficulty. It seemed as if she hated to stop, and she puffed and panted like a living creature. On the platform stood the superintendent.

"Why, hurray, Martin, you've broken the record all to pieces," he said, slappin' me on the shoulder. "Since the agent reported you at Lyons, why, you have averaged eighty-two and a half miles. Great Scott! man, that's a wonderful run!"

"Yes, it was, I said.

"I was too tired and nervous to explain then. I was satisfied to think that we were home safe. It was the most wonderful run I ever made, and that's how old 99 holds the record."

SILKWORMS IN IOWA.

The Experiment of An Italian at Des Moines Successful So Far.

Mark Chiesa, an Italian, is successfully raising silkworms at Des Moines, Iowa. The eggs were brought from Italy by a relative. Two years ago he made the experiment first, but the person who brought the eggs carried them in his pocket and they hatched on shipboard, so the worms had to be thrown into the sea. This time the person to whom the eggs were entrusted suspended them on a string so that they got cool air on the ocean and on the railway trains. Arriving at Des Moines, they were put into cold storage until the mulberry leaves were ready for them. Then, upon being put into a warm room, they hatched in one day.

Of the supposed 8,000 eggs from ten silk moths about 4,000 hatched, which result, Mr. Chiesa says, is better than the average in Italy. The greatest difficulty has been to find mulberry leaves for the worms. They eat about three wagonloads a day, and never stop eating for a minute, but eat all the time, day and night. They must be fed about fifteen times a day and several times during the night. The worms, in devouring the mulberry leaves, make a noise like rain on the roof. By lively hunting the food for the worms has been provided, and they are well developed and healthy, about three inches long, and are just beginning to weave their cocoons.
There seems to be no reason why the industry should not succeed. Mr.
Chiesa has brought a woman from Italy who has had thirty years' experience with silkworms and she says they are doing as well as any she ever saw.

The experiment is the first that is known to have been made in the West, and is certainly the first that has been successful. It has attracted as much attention as a circus in Des Moines, and the number of visitors is very large. The owner is a good-natured man and he cheerfully and proudly shows the industrious 4,000 to all who care to see them.

If they turn out as well as they promise to, Mr. Chiesa will buy a large farm, plant it to mulberry trees and go into the business of raising silkworms and producing silk on a large scale. From the experience he has had in America and Italy, where his father is a silk producer, he sees no reason why the industry should not be entirely successful in Iowa.

Pieric Acid Found the Thief.

A rich American residing in the St.
George's quarter of Paris, France, had been for some little time past the victim of systematic thefts. Banknotes and money not left under lock and key disappeared regularly. M. Cornette, the Commissary of Police, was informed of the robberies. He found it would be impossible to keep an effective watch on the bedroom where the thefts occurred, but he adopted a stratagem which turned out successfully. A small vial containing a mixture of pieric acid and fuschine was placed in a metal case for holding gold, and a few Napoleons were placed on top. In order to get out the gold, the metal case had to be held upside down, and then, of course, the chemical preparation would run out and stain the thief's hands a bright and indelible yellow. As soon as some of the gold was missed M. Cornette summoned all the servants to his presence.
The valet's fingers betrayed him. Realizing the usefulness of denying when caught yellow-handed, he confessed, and was duly locked up.

INDIANA INCIDENTS.

RECORD OF EVENTS OF THE PAST WEEK.

Fine Prospect for Crops—Prohibition-ists Fear for the Nicholson Law—Birth of Curious Twins—Sisters Reunited After Forty-seven Years.

Reports received from all sections of the corn districts in the State indicate that the outlook for a record-breaking crop this year eclipses anything of the last few years. The recent rains have done wonders. Reports from the Benton, Tippecanoe and White County district indicate that never in the history of Indiana has such a yield marked any one season.
It is claimed by reliable persons that there are fields in Benton County that will run eighty bushels to the acre. It is now thought that the corn and the oats production, together with the marvelous berry crops just harvested and the wonderful watermelon crop just coming on,
will more than make up for the shortage in wheat and will keep the total valuation of Indiana's crops up to last year's top notch—$300,000,000.

Nicholson Law Ineffectual.

The commissioners at the present term of court at Windfall held that the voters could not delegate to one attorney power to sign remonstrances against the granting of liquor licenses, and granted licenses to three applicants, and Windfall now has three licensed saloons. The temperance people will appeal all three cases, and carry them to the Supreme Court, if necessary, to win their cases. This decision in the power of attorney question, which is being raised in different localities of the State, if upheld, will make the Nicholson law ineffectual, as the temperance workers cannot afford to canvass the township for signatures every month.

Twins Born as One.

Mrs. James Huffman, residing near Jeffersville, gave birth to twins that far excel in curiosity the famous Siamese twins that caused such a furor through the country many years ago. The offspring are girls and are joined together by a link of flesh eight inches long and between three and four inches in diameter. The babes are face to face, and with one or two exceptions, all the organs of their respective bodies are perfect.

Long-Lost Sister Is Found.

Forty-seven years ago Mrs. George Hadley of Brazil and her sister, Mrs.
Barton of Chattanooga, Tenn., were left orphans in Hamilton County, Ohio, and each was adopted by a different family and separated. Mrs. Hadley heard nothing further from her sister until the other day, when she received a letter from Mrs.
Barton, giving information to prove that they were sisters.

Steamer Strikes the Rocks.

The steamer Fowler, which plies between Evansville and Paducah, Ky., ran into Highland rocks and forty timbers were broken. The boat began to sink rapidly and it was with difficulty that she reached the shore. George Mariable, a deck hand, was scalded from head to foot and will die.

Within Our Borders.

Town of Oolitic will incorporate.
Goshen is investigating oiled streets.
Mrs. Henry Barnard, 23, Martinsville, is dead.
Terre Haute is running under her new charter.
South Bend militia company has been

Louisville and St. Louis air-line will put up a $3,500 freight depot in New Albany.

Charles Sybel, Porter County, dropped a match in a can of powder. Both eyes gone.

Four of the Mercer family who live in Seymour are of the set that claims it was defrauded out of a $200,000 estate in New York.

Brakeman James Merrit, Erie road, fell from an engine under the train at the Spencerville water tank and was killed.

The colony of Klondikers that went from Anderson has given up the hunt for gold as a bad job, and will return home.

Postmaster Barton Conoway, Morristown, was found $600 short by Inspector Fletcher. His bondsmen made good the deficit.

Large quantity of stolen goods was found at the home of Henry Johnson, colored, Jeffersville. Johnson was arrested.

William Benedict, Wabash, says he was blacklisted by the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad and wants $10,000 damages.

Ira Sanders, 22, Loogootee, was struck by a B. & O. S. W. fast train and instantly killed. Nearly every bone in his body was broken.

At Shoals, in a row between Raymond Salmon, runner for the Commercial House, and Harry Love, operator for the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern Railroad, Love was stabbed five times and seriously injured.

New Dreyfus Crisis.

Revision is progressing splendidly; and,
if only it can be saved from its friends,
it will certainly win.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

So, Dreyfus is to be tried again, thereby "keeping the story alive," as the newspapers say, for another year, at least.— Janesville Gazette.

Dreyfus is to be retried. But justice demands the trial and conviction of the forgers and perjurers who tried him the first time.—Atlanta Constitution.

There is little or no question that Dreyfus will be brought home for a new trial.
It will have to be fairly and openly conducted, and then a great load of shame, fear and conscious evil-doing will be lifted off the French nation.—Cleveland Leader.

The interest in the court's judgment is great. That in the general staff offset to it is greater. But greater than all is that in the finally underlying motive for this vast villainy. Mere anti-Semitism, the motive assigned by Dreyfus himself, seems hardly definite enough to warrant such an elaborate scheme of individual persecution.—New York Press.

Dreyfus may be innocent, but if he is,
it will not be the first time that a man has had the misfortune to be punished for something he was not guilty of, and it must be admitted that most of the persons who have interested themselves in the work of procuring justice for Dreyfus have been far more deeply concerned with the political aspects of the case than with the moral aspects.—Detroit Tribune.

The army is to be given a chance to redeem itself. It must try Dreyfus again.
The officers dare not resort to the tactics which have been so thoroughly exposed,
and there is reason to believe that there will be no case at all. In the eyes of an American the army will still be a long way from having proved its worthiness, but it is likely that the French people will accept this action of undoing a wrong as a sacrifice which atones for all the wrong-doing of the past.—Denver Republican.

The Alaskan Boundary.

In the matter of the Alaskan boundary dispute, England seems to be one of Canada's colonies.—Indianapolis News.

That Alaskan boundary question may be settled by the time all the gold is taken out of the country.—Cleveland Leader.

Canada, it seems, clings tightly to her old role of mischief maker between the United States and England.—Boston Journal.

The Dominion's idea of arbitration is akin to the form of compromise that obtained in the home of the meek-natured husband, who explained that when he wanted a green carpet put down in the parlor and his wife wanted a red carpet, they always compromised on red.—Detroit Free Press.

There is but one course for the United States to pursue, and that is to stand firmly on its rights. We once compromised away several degrees of Pacific sea coast, and we have no more to squander.
It is within the power of this country to soon bring Canada to terms, and that without war.—Denver News.

The difficulty unquestionably exists in the greed of the Canadian Government, which is inordinate and unreasonable,
and the best that we may hope is that the British foreign office at London and Ambassador Choate may take the matter out of the hands of the commission and settle it reasonably.—Boston Post.

Fickle France.

A French crisis would seem to be a more serious thing if it were not so frequent.—Evening Wisconsin.

The ease with which a French cabinet can be upset is the admiration and despair of the American people.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The French ministry whisks in and out with all the pensive grace and celerity of a cow's tail in fly time, and with little more significance as a rule.—Buffalo Courier.

Somebody ought to take a hatchet and a gourd full of nails and make a cabinet for the French republic that will hold the cigars and decanters.—Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

In France, now it is different. There alleged police outrages cause a cabinet to resign. Here they merely result in Mazet committees and a whole lot of amusement to the public.—Albany Argus.

President Loubet may belong to the bourgeois, but it is quite evident that he has a two-line pica cinch. Even if a bourgeois Loubet looms up like a 72-point letter among the agate aristocracy of France.—Omaha World-Herald.

The rumor that the French Government will in paying Dreyfus his arrears of salary deduct 1,597 francs for "lodging expenses at one franc per day," his lodging being a cell on Devil's Island, is incredible. A people that would tolerate this is lost beyond recall.—Nashville American.

Kissing Bug's Exploits.

The kissing bug is much talked about these days, but happily it is not at the end of everybody's tongue.—St. Paul Dispatch.

It seems to be a well-developed fact that the girls who are used to kissing bees exhibit not the least fear of the kissing bug.—New York Press.

There is generally believed to be some intimate connection between the Melano-lestes picipes and the Bacillus prevaciar-torus.—Sioux City Journal.

* There is one redeeming feature about the kissing bug. He never makes a contact with her rubby lips and all that sort of thing.—Central Illinois Democrat.

UNDEVELOPED TALENT.

The Man in the Mountain Cabin Knew How to Cook.

A writer in Forest and Stream tells how he went trout-fishing, years ago, in California, and there made a pleasant discovery. After seeking long for trout streams, he and his companion came upon a lone shanty, where a Frenchman was swinging in a hammock and smoking his pipe. He was a very much surprised man, for as he told them, no one had intruded on his solitude for three months.

"Plenty of fish!" he promised them, and they betook themselves to the creek. There they soon filled their baskets, and then, having dressed as many as two hungry men could eat, adjourned to the shanty.

On inquiring of our landlord if he had such a thing as a frying-pan he produced one, and my friend, who prided himself on being a camp expert, remarked, "Of course this tramp doesn't know how to cook a trout. I'll show him."

The tramp looked on, smoking his pipe, but being rather the worse for our day's travel, it was suggested that before eating we should have a bath; so, adjourning to the creek, we took a refreshing dip. When we returned to the house, we were surprised at seeing a little rude table set out under the trees; on it were casters, china plates, a white cloth and napkins. Where they all came from was a mystery, but they were there.

"Now for the trout," said my friend. "I'll show you how trout should be cooked."

But then appeared our landlord, bearing a platter filled with nicely browned fish. It was followed by small cups of delicious black coffee. Then we rolled up in our blankets, and slept as only tired hunters and fishermen can do. Our breakfast was the supper repeated, with an addition of fine, white rolls.

We lost no time in refilling our baskets, and prepared to depart. Our landlord would accept no pay, only a few flies, and a line and pocket-knife. Then one of us said, with some patronage and a desire to please:

"My friend, there is the making of a good cook in you. Why don't you go to San Francisco and hire out? No doubt you could get a good situation."

There was a twinkle in the Frenchman's eye as he replied, carelessly:

"Yes, I can cook a leetle. I was Delmonico's chef for ten years, and I get what you call tired, and come to California to find a leetle rest."

UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME,

Notre Dame, Indiana.

We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Notre Dame University, one of the great educational institutions of the West, which appears in another column of this paper. Those of our readers who may have occasion to look up a college for their sons during the coming year would do well to correspond with the President, who will send them a catalogue free of charge, as well as all particulars regarding terms, courses of studies, etc.

There is a thorough preparatory school in connection with the University, in which students of all grades will have every opportunity of preparing themselves for higher studies. The Commercial Course intended for young men preparing for business may be finished in one or two years, according to the ability of the student. St. Edward's Hall, for boys under thirteen, is an unique department of the institution. The higher courses are thorough in every respect and students will find every opportunity of perfecting themselves in any line of work they may choose to select. Thoroughness in class work, exactness in the care of students, and devotion to the best interests of all, are the distinguishing characteristics of Notre Dame University.

Fifty-five years of active work in the cause of education have made this institution famous all over the country.

BIG ENDEAVOR MEETING ENDS.

Detroit Convention Is Closed and the Delegates Depart.

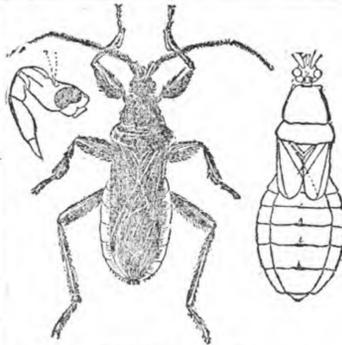

The eighteenth international convention of Christian Endeavorers closed at Detroit Monday night amid scenes of impressive solemnity attending the utterances of "The Last Word" by the president and secretary in each of the great tents respectively, following responses from each State and country represented, and last exhortations from Bishop Vincent of Kansas and Evangelist Chapman of New York. A number of telegrams and cablegrams read in both tents were portions of correspondence between officers of the convention and Commissioner Andrew D. White, member of the peace conference at Hague; President McKinley, Lord Minto, governor general of Canada, and Queen Victoria.

President Clark's last words to the delegates were as follows: "Take this convention home with you. New responsibilities are yours. You have now more to account for before the throne of God. Unless you Endeavorers who came to this convention are more faithful, more loyal to your church, better supporters of your pastors, more inspired with missionary enthusiasm you have lost your opportunity and God will hold you responsible. Take this meeting home with you—you cannot keep it to yourselves and remain guiltless. Take it to your church, your city, your home. Make this country a better country because we have held our eighteenth international convention of Christian Endeavorers."

WATKINS OWNS HIS FAULT.

Captain of the Paris Takes Blame for Its Stranding.

The report of Captain Watkins on the stranding of the American line steamship Paris was made public Monday by the New York board of steamboat inspectors. Captain Watkins makes no attempt to evade responsibility for the accident, but, on the contrary, says frankly that the stranding of the ship was the result of an unaccountable error on his part.

CAPT. WATKINS.

The accident, he says, was not due to any want of thought or anxiety about his vessel, but resulted from a mistake he made in calculating the position of the ship.

The inspectors suspended Captain Watkins' license as master of ocean steamers for two years. Captain Watkins is still in charge of the Paris and is acting in the interests of the underwriters, to whom the ship was turned over by the American line officials. Captain Watkins has followed the sea as his profession since the year 1851, and has held a British master's certificate since the year 1896, and an American master's certificate since the year 1893, in which year he became an American citizen.

STEAMER GOES ON THE ROCKS

Portia Mired by Foghorn on Nova Scotia Coast.

During Monday night the steamer Portia was mired by a foghorn and ran on to the rocks of Big Fish Shoals, off Sambro Island, fifteen miles east of Halifax. Great confusion prevailed, but the captain and his crew were perfectly cool and soon restored order.

The Portia sustained considerable injury and through a dozen great gaps the water poured into her hold. The panic-stricken passengers rushed for the boats. Captain Farrell and crew drove the frightened people back and restored order in some degree, in the lowering of the boats and taking off the passengers. A landing was made at Inner Sambro Island, where the seventy-five passengers and forty-one members of the crew found temporary shelter in the fishermen's huts.

BROTHER OF THE CZAR IS DEAD.

Grand Duke George Has Succumbed to Consumption.

Grand Duke George, brother of the Czar, and heir apparent to the Russian throne, died at Abbas Touman, in the Caucasus, from a sudden and violent hemorrhage resulting from phthisis, which for years had rendered his life most precarious. He had for a long time resided at Abbas Touman, his disease preventing him from living anywhere but in the pure air of the Caucasus, and occasionally, for a short time, on the shores of the Mediterranean.

Woman's Dread

The terror of many women's lives is menstruation.

Such women wear themselves out with suffering and seem to think there is no relief from the monthly pains.

Miss Emily F. Hass, of 148 Freeman Street, Greenpoint, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I wish to state that I used your Vegetable Compound with the greatest success. I was very sick for nearly a year with hysteria, was down-hearted and nervous; also suffered with painful menstruation and pain in back and limbs. I often wished for death, thinking nothing would cure me. I had doctors, but their medicines did me no good. At last, by the advice of a friend, I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with very little hope of its doing me any good, but I am happy to say I am entirely cured. Thanking you for the good your medicine has done me, I am sending you my testimonial, hoping it will help others."

Special advice for every suffering woman can be secured free of cost by writing to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for it

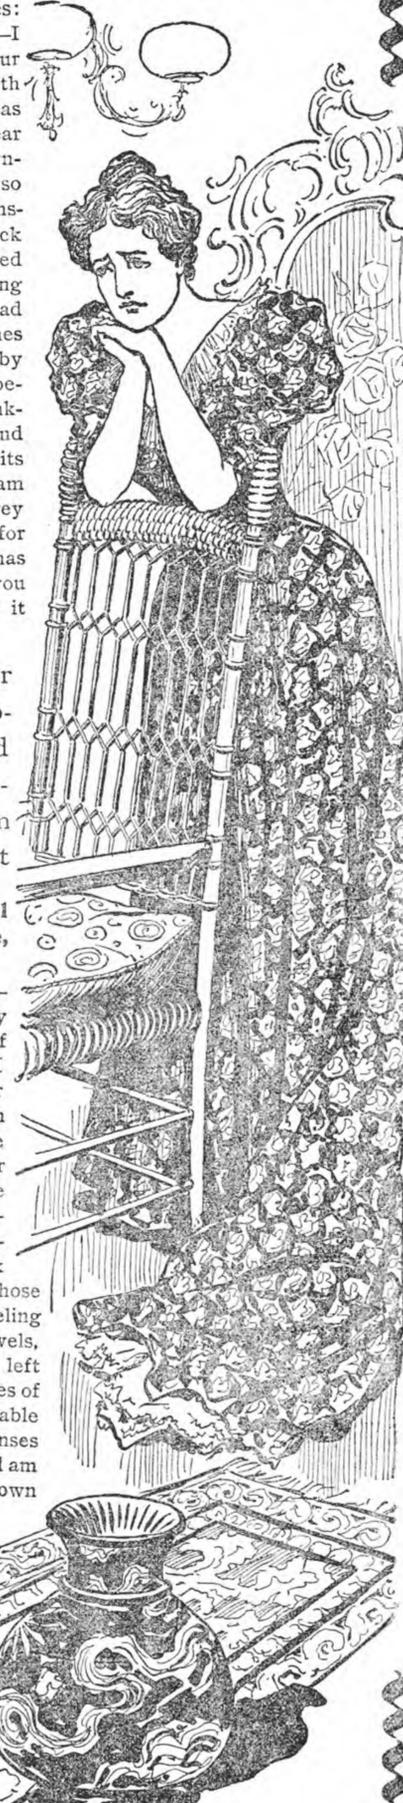

Mrs. C. D. Smith, 221 Eleventh St., Racine, Wis., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I gladly give you my testimonial in favor of your remedies. When I first commenced your treatment I had been suffering from female troubles and weakness for some time. Menses were irregular, coming too often, and were very painful. I could not walk a great distance, had those terrible bearing-down feeling in the lower part of bowels, backache, and pain in left ovary. I used five bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and my menses have become regular, and am cured of that bearing-down feeling after walking. I consider your Compound one of the best medicines there is for those complaints peculiar to women. I thank you for the good advice you gave me. I will gladly recommend your medicine, and hope that every one who suffers as I did will give it a trial."

Mrs. Van Cleft Advises Women.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—For several years my health was miserable. I suffered the most dreadful pains, and was almost on the verge of insanity. I consulted one of the best physicians in New York, and he pronounced my disease a fibroid tumor, advising an operation without delay, saying that it was my only chance for life. Other doctors prescribed strong and violent medicine, and he said I was incurable, another told me my only salvation was galvanic batteries, which I tried, but nothing relieved me. One day a friend called and begged me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I began its use and took several bottles. From the very first bottle there was a wonderful change for the better. The tumor has disappeared entirely and my old spirits have returned. I heartily recommend your medicine to all suffering women."—Mrs. Van Cleft, 416 Saunders Ave., Jersey City Heights, N. J.

Go West Young Man.

About two years ago, a young man by the name of Chas. Hutchins left this place for Burr Oak, where he took an emigrant train via the Nickel Plate, which was bound for North Dakota. When he left, the universal expression was that he would soon return to his home and mother, but in spite of these predictions, the young man remained in the great north-west, and his success from a business point of view has been phenomenal. The first year he worked for an elevator company, and the past year he has had charge of a pumping station for the Great Northern Railway. Aside from the fact that he has been steadily employed, he kept his eyes open and entered and proved up a claim for 160 acres of as good land as can be found in the state, and is erecting a house upon the same and making other improvements. He cut 160 tons of good hay from his land. It is said that Charlie will send for his parents soon, who will occupy his new home. We wish him continued success.

Logansport Races.

The promise of one of the most interesting race meetings in the history of the Logansport Driving Association during the first week in August increases as the days go by. This meeting will be held on Aug. 1, 2, and 3 and it is a happy coincidence that the annual encampment of the Eight Regiment, Uniformed Rank, Knights of Pythias, will be held at Spencer park, adjoining the Driving Park, at the same time. This will make a great double attraction for visitors out of town, and as reduced rates have been secured on all roads leading into the city by the Driving association the promise of an unusual large attendance on the part of out of town people is very encouraging. In fact, assurances have already been received from many of the neighboring towns that large delegations of horsemen and others interested in fine races will be in attendance during the meeting. The fact that this is the only race meet at this particular season in this part of the State makes all the more certain a full attendance.

Postage Stamps.

About fifty-two years ago (July, 1847) we issued our first postage stamps. Some years before that time, one Rowland Hill, the father of the "penny post," introduced into England the "sticking plaster," as the adhesive stamps were then contemptuously called. At that time, our Postmaster-General vainly endeavored to get Congress to authorize the use of the adhesive postage-stamp in the United States; but his good work was not lost. His successor had the pleasure and distinction of being Postmaster-General when the desired bill was passed and approved, March 3, 1847. The stamps were not issued, however, before the following August, although the time specified was July 1, 1847. Only two kinds of stamps were made ready and issued that year—five cent and ten cent stamps, bearing respectively, the portrait of Franklin in bronze tint, and that of Washington in black-tint. The first purchaser of United States postage stamps was Henry Shaw, the father of Henry Wheeler Shaw, (better known as "Josh Billings.") Mr. Shaw happened to be in the office of the Postmaster-General on August 6, 1847, when the Postmaster-General came in with the printer, from whom he had just received sheets of the new stamps; and Mr. Shaw was given a sheet for inspection. After giving the stamps a hasty glance, Mr. Shaw appreciating the historical importance of the time and occasion, took out his "wallet," counted out 15 cents, and purchased one of each denomination. But wonderful advances have been made in postal matter since that day and time; for there is now practically a system of universal postage which has been developed through the good offices of a postal union, embracing nearly all civilized countries in the world.—Collier's Weekly.

SLOWEST PEOPLE ON EARTH.

A Strange North Africa Tribe that Live in Holes in the Ground.

If you want to be introduced to the slowest people in the world you must visit North Africa and make your way across the scorching desert that separates from the rest of the inhabitants of Africa the race known to the ancients as the Troglodytes, from the Greek "troglolis," a hole. They were given this name on account of the habit of living in holes in the ground, a habit that probably owes its origin to the fact that Old Sol in that quarter is a very merciless old-tyrant, and life above ground is scarcely bearable except when the sun has retired for the night.

The Troglodytes are in the line of caravan travel, and are visited by these freight trains of the African desert. No outside influence has been able, however, to wean them from their ancient habits, their antique garb and their peculiar manner of living. So far as is known, the manners and customs of the Troglodytes have not changed since Bible times.

A Troglodyte city is the most curious dwelling place in the world. From the exterior it presents the aspect of a Roman circus. The habitations are built in layers, one above the other, and form a circular wall with a single entrance from the outside. All the floors of the houses open on the interior of the circular city.

Besides affording protection from their enemy, the sun, the circular habitations with the dead walls outside form a strong fortress to guard the inhabitants from the attacks of neighboring tribes. In these more peaceful days, however, they have no such fear before them, and so they use the walled city mostly for the storing of crops, while they live in holes dug in the ground within the walls and frequently change their position in search of pasture for the animals.

The people are peaceably disposed, intelligent and hard working, tending their flocks and farming their land with patient energy. Now that archaeologists are turning their attention to the ancient people, something more is being learned of them than was known heretofore.

Blaine's Grave.

Although against the expressed wishes of James G. Blaine, his last resting-place in Oak Hill cemetery, Washington, has been marked by a simple marble shaft. In 1890, when Walker Blaine died, the magnetic statesman from Maine went to this cemetery with a friend to select a site for the burial, and in the center of the lot chosen the Plumed Knight noticed a gnarled and twisted hickory tree, which was blasted and dead. As Blaine looked at the tree he remarked to his friend that it aptly represented his blasted and disappointed life, and requested that nothing should mark his grave but the dead tree. His wishes in this matter were respected, and for several years it was the only mark by which the last resting-place of the great statesman could be distinguished. A few months ago the tree was blown down during a cyclone, and Mrs. Blaine decided to have the grave suitably marked, and selected a monument exactly like the one over Walker Blaine's tomb. It is a marble shaft about eight feet high, without any inscription except the name of Mr. Blaine and the date of his birth and death.

An Interesting Bank Note.

One of the most interesting notes in possession of the Bank of England is one for £1,000, which was given by Alexander Cochrane, afterward Lord Dundonald, in payment of a fine inflicted upon him some time before the battle of Waterloo. Cochrane, after destroying the French fleet in the Aix roads, was accused and convicted of a stock-jobbing fraud, and part of his sentence was the payment of a fine of £1,000. Cochrane, whose sentence was years afterward annulled, bitterly resented his punishment, and when, in July, 1815, he tendered the note in payment of the fine he made the following pathetic indorsement upon it: "My health having suffered from long and close confinement, and my oppressors having resolved to deprive me of my property or life, I submit to robbery to protect myself from murder, in the hope that I shall live to bring the delinquents to justice."

Barnum Knew How to Advertise.

A story of the late George Augustus Sala and Barnum is told by Tid-Bits. A reception was given the American on the occasion of the last visit of the famous showman in England. Mr. Sala presided. In the reception room, where all were waiting to welcome the guest of the evening, Mr. Barnum came in beaming, and shaking hands with the chairman, said with a strongly marked Yankee accent: "This is, indeed, a surprise to me." "Did you hear that?" Mr. Sala whispered. "Why, he arranged for the dinner himself!"

IS IT RIGHT

For an Editor to Recommend Patent Medicines?

(From Sylvan Valley News, Brevard, N.C.) It may be a question whether the editor of a newspaper has the right to publicly recommend any of the various proprietary medicines which flood the market, yet as preventative of suffering we feel it a duty to say a good word for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. We have known and used this medicine in our family for twenty years and have always found it reliable. In many cases a dose of this remedy would save hours of suffering while a physician is awaited. We do not believe in depending implicitly on any medicine for a cure, but we do believe that if a bottle of Chamberlain's Diarrhoea Remedy were kept on hand and administered at the inception of an attack much suffering might be avoided and in many cases the presence of a physician would not be avoided and in very many cases the presence of a physician would not be required. At least this has been our experience during the past twenty years. For sale by T. E. Slattery, druggist.
