In 1900, politically speaking, there will occur one of the greatest struggles this country ever witnessed between the great parties for supremacy. Cornet bands will be in great demand, hence, it would be a move in the right direction if the Culver City Columbian Band prepared itself for future emergencies.

Wm. Wilson and wife, and Mrs. John W. Osborn, of Culver, and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brown of Delaware county, made Chicago a visit Sunday, while there hearing Dr. Dowie, the "faith cure" apostle preach.

Sunday evening while our citizens were at church, some person or persons, with malice aforethought, went to Henry Zechel's residence and decorated the same with rotten eggs. From there they visited the residence of Prof. I. S. Hahn and served it in a like manner. Up to date there is no clue as to who committed the "fowl" deed.

We received an invitation to attend the Alumni Banquet at Valparaiso Wednesday evening, Aug. 9th, from our old friend, H. B. Brown, President Northern Indiana Normal School, and regret that circumstances compelled us to remain at home. We also received a beautiful program of the commencement exercises, which were held Thursday Aug. 10.

The following are the new text books to be used in the common schools next fall, and the conditions for exchanging the old ones for new ones. For Fry's Introductory Geography, your old book and 23 cents in cash; for Fry's Complete Geography, your old book and 55 cents in cash; for new Elementary Arithmetics, your old book and 25 cents in cash; for new Advanced Arithmetics, your old book and 35 cents in cash. This exchange privilege will end March 1, 1900.

E. Lee Graham, who at one time was a compositor in this office, and who established a paper at Monterey—is dead. He was fatally injured last week at New Paris, Ind., where was conducting a newspaper. He was working his edition off on his Washington hand press, when the belt broke, and he fell, striking his head against the press, and the injury received caused his death in less than three hours. He leaves a wife and one child.

If the Culver City Columbian Band would get a move on itself, it could monopolize two or three nights during the week, around the lake, with profit to the great horn blowers. The hotels would be delighted to secure the services of the band. Other resorts have spent large sums of money to make them attractive for the people in every way possible by way of music and other attractions. Culver will have to follow suit if it expects to remain anywhere near the head of the procession. Waiting for something to turn up never accomplished anything. Every citizen in Culver should work earnestly for the upbuilding of the town, by making this one of the most interesting resorts in America.

A SONG OF THE ROAD.

O I will walk with you, my lad, whichever way you fare,
You'll have me, too, the side of you,
with heart as light as air;
No care for where the road you take's
a-leading—anywhere,—
It can but be a joyful jaunt the whilst you journey there,
The road you take's the path of love,
an' that's the brith of two—
And I will walk with you, my lad,—O,
I will walk with you.

Ho! I will walk with you, my lad,
Be weather black or blue,
Or roadsides frost or dew, my lad—
O I will walk with you.

Aye, glad, my lad, I walk with you,
whatever winds may blow,
Or summer blossoms stay our steps, or blinding drifts of snow,
The way that you set face and foot's
the way that I will go,
And brave I'll be, abreast of you, the Saints and Angels know.
With loyal hand in loyal hand, and one heart made of two,
Through summer's gold, or winter's cold, it's I will walk with you.

Sure, I will walk with you, my lad,
As love ordains me to,—
To Heaven's door, and through, my lad,
O I will walk with you.
—James Whitcomb Riley, in Lippincott's.

THE MANIAC GUIDE OF MOUNT VESUVIUS.

I have in my possession an old copper coin, all fused and twisted out of shape, and every time I look at it it causes a shiver to run through me, as if suddenly plunging into a sea of ice. Now it is not the manner in which I came by the coin that occasions this unpleasant feeling, but the way in which it became fused and—
But here is the tale, and after perusing it you can see if I am justified in the disagreeable feelings caused by the remembrance of the scene I am about to describe.

It was a beautiful, calm morning in August, 1860.

We—that is to say, myself, three other gentlemen and two guides, six in all, were slowly clambering up the rough, uneven sides of Mount Vesuvius on our way to explore its crater.

No one but those who have been in a volcanic ravaged region can form the slightest idea of its desolate, dreary appearance.

Not a shrub or blade of grass relieves the monotonous extent of black, broken scoria, which lies in all positions, resembling somewhat the broken surface of a storm-lashed sea.

Half way up the view was sublime, and again and again we would stop and allow our eyes to wander out over one of the most beautiful prospects that I have ever had the pleasure to behold.

The bay of Naples gently rippled and kissed the shore at our feet, the islands of Capri and Ischia dotting its placid bosom, like twin emeralds in a casket of silver, while further westward stretched the blue waters of the Mediterranean until the mild horizon and its glassy surface were softly shaded into one by the master hand of nature; nearer reposes the city, with its matchless palaces, its turreted towers. While farther inland the eye could roam for miles and miles over the fairy-like panorama of vineyards, villages, fields and villas, until even it would be dazed by the brilliant hues and relieved when again turned upon the arid waste through which we were toiling.

At last we reached the verge of the crater and looked over.

The sights we saw and the sounds we heard will never be erased from my memory. Looking down into the immense basin, we could see the smoking, fiery cone situated in the center, sending up momentarily discharges of seething red hot matter.

Our guides informed us that there was no danger, but it seemed almost like courting death to venture into the yawning abyss, which appeared like the entrance to Dante's Inferno itself.

But at last, after some hesitation, we determined to "do the mountain" properly or die in the attempt.

So we commenced the descent. And it was a descent with a vengeance; hands and feet were at a premium, and I'm not positive to this day whether I did not use my teeth.

Crawling here, hanging there, where a misstep would send you a thousand feet down a shapeless mass, holding by projecting rocks so hot as to cause pain, sulphurous smoke and jets of flame burst out here and there into your very face, making breathing almost an impossibility.

Well, at last we reached the bottom. The scene was terrifying.

The ground we stood on trembled above the awe-like motion of the boiling, hissing mass beneath.

Upon getting more accustomed to the fearful surroundings, we could distinguish that everything in this great laboratory of nature worked with clock-like precision.

The deep, heavy, piston-like thud of the immense internal engine could be heard at regular intervals, and then from the valve, or more properly speaking, from the mouth of the cone, would dart chunks of fiery scoria, and rise fifty or sixty feet and then descend, requiring in some cases the greatest agility in avoiding being crushed to death beneath them.

It seemed as if this was the breathing spot of all the dragons and monsters chronicled in fabulous history.

I noticed that from the moment we started one of the guides took more than ordinary trouble in pointing out and explaining different things to me, and I mentally determined to double his fee for his attention, but if I had known his object I would in all probability have shot him on the spot.

Well, at last we had seen all we wished and prepared to ascend.

The rest of the party were already some distance up, and I was preparing to follow, when my guide said:

"Sir, you have taken nothing as a memento of your visit to our mountain."

He was right. So I walked back toward the center of the basin to procure something to carry away which would in after years remind me of my visit.

"Have you any copper coins with you?" he asked.

I felt in my pockets. Yes, I had one, just one, an old, well-worn United States coin. This I handed to him. He waited another discharge of scoria, and when it fell he ran up and dropped the cent into a small piece of the hot compound.

We had now to wait until it cooled, and when it did, I picked it up and placed it in my pocket.

The same instant the guide gave a wild yell and came rushing toward me, his face distorted, his mouth open and his eyes flaming, and of that disagreeable greenish color.

I stood looking at him, not knowing the cause of his strange actions.

Was the volcano about to commence another eruption and crisp us to a cinder, or had some freak of nature changed the volcanic surroundings so as to render our exit impassable and entomb us alive.

These were the thoughts which rushed through my brain.

By this time he had reached my side and before I knew it he had grasped me by the throat and bore me down.

"Another sacrifice to offer to my charming Queen," he cried, as he commenced dragging me toward the steep, smoking cone.

It was some time before I recovered from the surprise which this unexpected maneuver occasioned.

But at last I did and struggled to my feet.

"Come," I said, "you have carried this joke far enough."

"Ha, ha, ha!" he laughed, fighting desperately to force me up to the cone.

"My pet thinks it is a capital joke; don't you hear them growling for food; come, it is your flesh, and it alone, that will appease their hunger."

His fiendish eyes glared into mine, flakes of foam dropping from his livid lips.

I saw it in an instant. I was in the hands of a raving maniac.

To plead or argue would amount to naught; nothing but strength and agility could save me from a most horrible death; for it was his intention to throw me into the mouth of the cone, there falling into the seething, boiling ocean of fire and flame beneath. I should be burnt to a crisp in a second of time.

I struggled desperately, shouting the while in hope of calling back my friends to my aid.

But all my shouting was useless—lost in the mighty surroundings and the ever-shifting clouds of smoke and mist, rendered their seeing me an impossibility.

My only hope was to overpower my assailant.

We were now within a few yards of the base of the cone, and the heat was almost insufferable.

Clouds of smoke and flame, followed by huge pieces of blood-red scoria, were vomited from the black funnel-like peak.

I was gradually forced nearer and nearer.

The perspiration started from every pore, and I became conscious that I was growing weaker, and would soon have to succumb; my physical strength being no match for his—urged on by a fiendish purpose, the product of a diseased intellect.

The earth was quaking beneath our feet, the air was stifling and impregnated with the fumes of gas.

My face and hands had already commenced to blister under the intense heat.

And while I was slowly losing my strength he appeared to have his augmented at every step.

I could not fight much longer. Death, in one of its most horrible forms, would in a few minutes be my fate.

My sight grew dim; my brain seemed to be pierced by hot irons; my limbs refused to move.

"God help me!" I murmured.

The prayer had hardly left my lips when I felt a sudden flash of intense heat, and the same instant the hold of the maniac guide was loosened.

I opened my eyes; a mass of red hot scoria had in its descent crushed him (a charred, shapeless heap) to the earth.

By a great effort of will I regained sufficient strength to stagger off and reach the precipitous side of the basin, when all became a black, impenetrable void.

When again I opened my eyes I found myself lying in bed, with my friends bending anxiously over me.

They informed me that they did not miss me until they had reached the top of the crater and there my non-appearance was attributed to my exploring propensities, and, as I had (as they supposed) an excellent guide, they felt no fear as to my arrival in due season to accompany them back to the city.

But as hour after hour rolled by, and me still absent, an undefined, vague feeling for my safety ran through them and they determined to once more descend the ugly pit in quest of me.

Which they did, at the risk of their lives, for it was late in the afternoon, when they started.

Upon reaching the bottom they, after a long search, found me lying in a deathlike swoon near one side and my guide crushed to a jelly beneath the mass of scoria at the base of the cone.

They let him lie where he was, and after the greatest difficulty and danger conveyed me up and brought me to the city.

It was some weeks before I was able to leave my room, but, thanks to a good constitution and the indefatigable attention of my kind friends, I did at last.

And now, kind reader, can you wonder that even here, thousands of miles distant from the scene of my trying ordeal, that a blood-chilling thrill runs through me when I look at the old coin imbedded in its covering of scoria.

MOVING PICTURES OF A TREE.

Agricultural Bureau Has Machine to Photograph Growth of Plants.

The Agricultural Department, Washington, has pressed the moving picture machine into the service of science. The division of vegetable pathology now has a device of this sort in operation in one of its greenhouses, photographing the growth of a small oak tree. The machine works automatically, taking a picture each hour. At night an electric light is thrown into circuit as the exposure is made. The machine has been running about two weeks and will be kept going about two weeks longer on its present subject. When the series of pictures is completed it will be possible to reproduce with the stereopticon the growth of the plant from the time the first shoot appeared above ground till the tree is in full leaf and a foot or more high.

While the oak tree pictures are purely experimental to develop the capacity of the machine it is intended to use the serial photographs in watching the progress of plant diseases, blights, insect parasites and the like. The department hopes in the near future to be able to lend to the agricultural colleges and experiment stations rolls of lantern slide films to illustrate certain of the department's bulletins on these subjects.

It is pointed out that a lecture before a class of students could show in five minutes the growth and seed distribution of any noxious plant, such as the Canadian thistle, or the life history of an insect pest so that it could be readily recognized and combated on its first appearance in a region, even though the workers there had never seen it in actual life.

In addition to the straight photographic work expected of the new machine, its designer intends to adapt it to use with the X-ray so as to take pictures of certain objects that otherwise would be invisible. It is thought by the department that a series of pictures of this sort taken in the period of gestation would be of value to stock raisers, and might be adapted to the use of the medical profession in certain lines of research.

An Economical Woman.

"Why do you carry your purse in your hand instead of in your pocket?" he asked.
"For economy," she replied. "If a pickpocket ever got into my pocket he'd more than likely tear my gown, while if he grabs the purse out of my hand the loss would be only three cents, some samples and a postage stamp."—Chicago Post.

A Cure for Blues.

"When I get utterly low spirited," said the nervous man, "I find a spin on my wheel does me a world of good."
"It is the exercise," said his friend.
"I think not. I am so glad to get home alive that I feel good all the rest of the day."—Indianapolis Journal.

THREE TOWNS IN RUINS.

Widespread Destruction by the Storm in Florida.

First reports sent out of the terrible destruction wrought by the terrific hurricane that swept up from the Gulf of Mexico and raged along the coast of Florida appear to have been very conservative. Three towns were entirely destroyed and others partially wrecked. Carrabelle, Ashmore and McIntyre were the towns practically annihilated. The towns partially wrecked were Lanark, St. Teresa and Panama Springs.

A passenger train on the Carrabelle, Tallahassee and Gulf Railroad thirty-five miles below Tallahassee was badly wrecked, but no one is reported killed or injured. The turpentine interests of the section are greatly damaged and much injury has been done to crops. It is generally believed that fifteen persons were drowned at St. Marks.

It was more than twelve hours after the storm had swept the coast before the news of its devastation reached the outside world. Only one railroad extends to the coast south of Tallahassee, and only one telegraph line. The wires were blown down, and the railroad could not be traversed, because the track was covered with fallen trees and washed out in many places. The bridges along the road have been blown from the abutments or washed away by the floods that followed the storm.

A storm unequalled in terrific energy by any tornado remembered by the oldest inhabitants swept over Elizabeth, N. J., in a path 1,000 feet wide. In so far as is known no one was injured. All manner of mischief was done to houses, churches, theaters and church yards. The total amount of damage is estimated at $150,000. Three church steeples were knocked down and two theater roofs lifted. Graves were exhumed by the uprooting of trees above them and the bones of the dead were left uncovered.

HOTTEST OF THE YEAR.

Cities in Several States Suffered from the Heat Thursday.

According to telegraphic reports from many of the cities surrounding Chicago, Thursday was the hottest day of the year. The warm wave was not confined to Illinois alone, but extended over Nebraska, Indiana, Iowa and Ohio. In Springfield, Ill., the maximum temperature was 97 degrees, while thermometers on the street registered as high as 102 degrees, making it the warmest day of the year. Bloomington also suffered, with the thermometer at the 100 mark, and at Alhambra it was 103 in the shade. At Omaha the mercury reached the 92 mark and higher temperature is reported from the southern part of the State. Like reports come from Anderson, Ind., where there were several prostrations. At Cincinnati it was so warm citizens were leaving the city for a cooler climate. It took ten trains to transport the people who left that city Thursday for the north on account of the heat. Chicagoans suffered from the humidity of the atmosphere. Although the temperature ranged only from 68 to 78, the humidity during the afternoon reached 87 per cent, making the air muggy and oppressive.

HER LAST MESSAGE.

It Brought Golden News to This Illinois Telegraph Operator.

Miss Adela Wright, a telegraph operator in the employ of the Western Union Company, was taking down messages at Evanston, Ill., the other day. While thus engaged her companions in the office were startled to see her leap from her seat, whistle and dance. The cause for this demonstration appeared in a message which she had just received for her father and which said that the courts of England had decided that her father was the legal heir to $50,000,000 left by his aunt, who died in London a few years ago. Before she went home that night Miss Wright resigned her position as telegraph operator and will devote herself to study and pleasure, as becomes the heiress to her father's immense and easily acquired fortune.

HOW HE MANAGED THE BANK.

Ex-Receiver William Plankinton Examined at Milwaukee.

William Plankinton, ex-receiver for the defunct Plankinton Bank of Milwaukee, was examined Thursday before Court Commissioner Schreiber relative to his management of the bank's affairs. The shrinkage of over $500,000 from the face value of the bank's assets could not be accounted for by Plankinton, who claimed to be ignorant of many of the important details of the bank, as he did not give personal attention to the work.

The ex-receiver had also credited himself with $20,000 fees as assignee without notifying the court or creditors until after he had paid himself. He could not decipher his report made as assignee on July 1, 1898. No attempt was made by the assignee to realize on various securities or collect numerous accounts due the bank.

WOULD DEPORT NEGROES.

Southern African M. E. Church Will Call Upon Congress.

At the annual conference of the presiding elders of the African Methodist Episcopal council of Georgia and Alabama at Birmingham, a resolution was adopted calling upon Congress to appropriate $100,000,000 to deport the negroes from this country to whatever place or places it may be deemed best. Bishop Turner of Georgia in supporting the resolution declared he did not share in the belief of some that a truce could be patched up through Christian influence, but regards separation of the races as the only solution of the race problem.

RECORD OF THE WEEK

INDIANA INCIDENTS TERSELY TOLD.

Double Tragedy at Clarksburg—Fatal Row at the Breakfast Table—Convicts Escape from Reformatory—Crushed Between Cars.

The village of Clarksburg was the scene of a double tragedy the other day. During a family quarrel Wesley Bockover was fatally shot by his stepson, William Frondolph, aged 18 years, who afterward committed suicide by shooting himself. Bockover was shot below the left shoulder and died two hours later, bleeding internally. Frondolph shot himself in the right temple, the ball passing entirely through his head. Death came almost instantly. Frequent family quarrels have existed.

Looks Like a Murder.

The coroner's inquest held at Brazil developed facts which lead to the belief that Robert Currie, who was found on the Vandalia road, had been murdered and robbed and his body placed on the track to hide the crime. No blood was found on the track or on the ground where the remains lay, indicating that circulation had ceased some time before the body was run over.

Quarrel Ends Fatally.

Joseph Bagwell fatally shot Joseph Robinson at Point township. They became involved in an altercation at the breakfast table. Angry words were exchanged, until Robinson drew his revolver and fired at Bagwell, the bullet missing its mark. Bagwell returned the fire twice, one bullet striking Robinson in the breast and causing his death soon after.

Convicts Make Their Escape.

William Otterbach and Albert Spall, convicts confined in the Jeffersonville reformatory, escaped recently. The prisoners were employed on the prison farm and took advantage of Keeper Kinkel's absence during dinner hour. Otterbach and Spall were sent from Jackson County for burglary and had but a few days to serve.

Railroad Clerk Crushed by Cars.

Charles Jossick, assistant in the clerical department of the Lake Shore freight offices at Mishawaka, was instantly killed. Jossick was passing between two freight cars while switching was in progress. The bumpers caught him, crushing his body above the hips.

Within Our Borders.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

What does it do?
It causes the oil glands in the skin to become more active, making the hair soft and glossy, precisely as nature intended.

It cleanses the scalp from dandruff and thus removes one of the great causes of baldness.

It makes a better circulation in the scalp and stops the hair from coming out.

It Prevents and It Cures Baldness

Ayer's Hair Vigor will surely make hair grow on bald heads, provided only there is any life remaining in the hair bulbs.

It restores color to gray or white hair. It does not do this in a moment, as will a hair dye; but in a short time the gray color of age gradually disappears and the darker color of youth takes its place.

Would you like a copy of our book on the Hair and Scalp? It is free.

If you do not obtain all the benefits you expect from the use of the Vigor write the Doctor about it.

Dear Sirs—I have been sick for nearly two years, and have been doctoring with some of the most expert doctors of the United States. I have been bathing in and drinking hot water at the Hot Springs, Arkansas, but it seemed everything failed to do me good. After I saw your advertisement I thought I would try your pills and have nearly used two boxes; been taking two at bedtime and one after breakfast, and they have done me more good than anything else I have used. My trouble has been with the liver. My skin and eyes were all yellow; I had sleepy, drowsy feelings; felt like a drunk man; pain right above the navel, like as if it was bile on top of the stomach. My bowels were very constipated. My mouth and tongue sore most of the time. Appetite fair, but food would not digest, but settle heavy on my stomach, and some few mouthfuls of food come up again. ## CROPS LAID WASTE.

DEVASTATING STORMS SWEEP FIELDS OF GRAIN.

Loss Throughout the Northwest Will Reach the Millions—Growing Grain Beaten Into the Earth by Torrents of Hail and Heavy Winds.

Reports received from nearly all of the grain-growing States in the western Mississippi valley indicate that immeasurable and widespread damage to crops has been done by hail and wind. The States that have suffered the most are Minnesota, South Dakota, Iowa and Nebraska. In Iowa Monday night a terrific storm of drenching rain, accompanied by a furious and devastating wind, mowed down the grain, and where the damage did not amount to a total loss it left the fields in such condition that the farmers in many sections have practically given up hope of saving half of the crop they planned on. The storm took on frigidly and the accompanying element of disaster as it spread over Minnesota and South Dakota. The rain was turned to sharp-edged hail in many places and to sleet that cut the grain with almost as evil results in others.

No accurate figures on the total damage can be made, but it is conservative enough to say that fully half a million acres of richly fruited crops have been leveled by the storm. Not only one cereal, but all of the various kinds that are particularly easy prey to wind and hail met injury. Corn was crushed or torn up altogether; unharvested wheat was flattened, and wide strips of country cut down as if by a mighty, all-powerful clipper of an angry god.

Dispatches indicate that the storm was central in Iowa, where it seemed to gather and to leap along on its northerly and westerly course. Not only damage to crops is reported, but many farmers have the added loss of barns and sheds that were overturned or unroofed by the furious gusts of wind. Northwestern Iowa was among the first sections visited by the gale. Plymouth and O'Brien counties tell of the most serious loss there. Hail fell in pelting showers and the only comfort the farmers got from the storm was the subsequent rain, which fell in torrents, over one and one-half inches of water being precipitated in Sioux City.

From Marshalltown, Iowa, is wired in a story of exceptional damage. Thousands of dollars' damage was done to crops by the wind. Corn was injured here as much as grain, and many farm buildings were also blown down and windmills

THE RICH MAN'S BURDEN.

Some Chicago Millionaires Hard Hit by the Tax Gatherer.

The Cook County board of review has been inquiring after the heretofore undertaxed fortunes of some of Chicago's struggling millionaires, and the figures set opposite the names of some of the rich men have been turned upside down. The reviewers did not stop with sweeping off the records values fixed by the MARSHALL FIELD. Board of Assessors in cases where schedules were not filed. They proceeded to demonstrate that the assessors who had turned in sworn statements were equally deficient as guessers, and raises ranging all the way from 10 to 3,000 per cent tell the story in convincing figures.

In point of aggregate of increase the hardest blow was dealt to Marshall Field, who must pay personal property taxes on a full value of $2,500,000, instead of the $1,250,000 at which the assessors had rated him. This means that the dry goods merchant's assessed valuation for 1899 is $500,000, as against $21,000 last year.

After landing on Mr. Field, the reviewers developed reserve power by jumping the return of Otto Young of Otto Young & Co. from $15,000 to $500,000. This constituted the greatest percentage of increase, though it was nearly equalled in the case of Harlow N. Higinbotham of Marshall Field & Co., whose sworn schedule of $24,485 read $500,000 when the "O. K." stamp of the review board decorated its face. Mr. Young's new assessed valuation is $100,000. It was $1,500 in 1898. Mr. Higinbotham's for 1899 amounts to $100,000 also. When he paid taxes a year ago it was on the basis of $2,000.

Philip D. Armour was not so heavily punished as his fellow-millionaires. The reviewers only added $450,000 to the assessors' estimate of $300,000 in his case, explaining afterward that they regarded $750,000 a fair valuation of the packer-philanthropist's personal wealth, on the ground that the great bulk of his moneyed capital is invested in the firm of Armour & Co. and its various allied interests. Nevertheless, Mr. Armour will

DROPS OF WATER.

A Student's Experiment Which Proved to Be Very Painful.

To learn just how much pain would be caused by the constant dripping of water on the body, several students at Wichita, Kan., have tried it.

A gallon of water was to be loosed drop by drop from a height of three feet, two drops falling at intervals of about two seconds. A gallon of water contains about 61,440 drops, and at this rate it would take over thirty-four hours to complete the task.

One of the students was seated at a table and allowed his left hand to be fixed immovably to the table, so as to insure every drop striking the same spot on the back of the hand. The apparatus for dripping the water was adjusted and the experiment began. For the first forty-five minutes he experienced no inconvenience, save his hand becoming uncomfortable from being wet constantly with the cold water. Arrangements were then made to keep the water at blood heat, and it soon became more comfortable. In about two hours a slight redness began to appear, which gradually got as big as a quarter. The third half hour the drops were scarcely felt at all, the hand being apparently numb to the water, although sensitive to the touch of anything else. The red spot increased until it was larger than a silver half dollar, and the dripping of the water began to become slightly painful. It was noticed that if any one told a story or did anything to divert the student's attention from his hand he did not notice any pain at all, but concentration of thought upon his hand made the pain grow. The water was kept steadily at close to 96 degrees.

After about six hours and a half the red spot, which had been first a bright red, slowly turned to purple, and a blister began to rise. The pain had increased gradually up to this stage, and the young man said he felt as though every falling drop came with the force of a hammer, the pain reaching the shoulder, and even a little beyond. After the blister had raised the blows from the drops were not so severe, but he said they were bad enough, being a dull feeling like slowly pushing down upon it.

After about eight hours and twenty minutes the water was shut off. About 15,900 drops had been let fall, the rate being a little above the schedule, only one quart two ounces of water having been used.—Philadelphia Times.

wrecked, the whole loss being beyond estimate.

Corn and uncut grain in Nebraska were knocked flat by the wind and then drenched and thrown into soddy heaps by a heavy rain. A number of buildings were also demolished. These reports are duplicated in a thousand others from all parts of the States which fell under the aim of the storm.

Farmers generally were anxious for a little rain, but most of all they dreaded wind and hail. Coming at this season of the year, which is high tide in harvesting, the damage is necessarily much greater than it would have been had the storm been timed differently and of a different nature. The storm was very severe over the northern part of Nebraska.

WITH TATTERED FLAGS.

Nebraska and Utah Volunteers Parade in San Francisco.

Two hundred thousand persons is a conservative estimate of the crowd which gathered along Market street, Golden Gate and Van Ness avenues, San Francisco, and gave the Nebraska volunteers a welcome home which the men will remember as long as they live. The sight of their once spotless silk flag, which was presented to them by the people of Nebraska, coming home with only the blue field and a few tattered ribbons of stripes left, set the people along the line of march wild with enthusiasm. Another feature that made the thousands mingle tears and cheers was eight ambulances filled with the sick and wounded at the end of the procession. Many of the sick were consumptive, going home to die, and all bore the stamp of hardship and suffering. The spectators showed the poor fellows with flowers and cheered them from the time they left the dock until they turned into the Presidio military reservation. The volunteers and the Utah light artillery were in heavy marching order.

The parade was led by a detachment of police and the Nebraska band, with a detachment of regulars.

The Fishes of Lake Maxenkuckee.
The U. S. Fish Commission party located on Long Point is carrying on several series of very interesting investigations regarding the physical and biologic features of Lake Maxenkuckee. The study of the fishes is proving particularly interesting. Collections are made of examples of the species of fishes which occur in the lake and observations are being made to determine the abundance, distribution and condition of each. Seining has been done entirely around the lake; also in the three or four small inlets and in Lost Lake. The total number of different species of fishes obtained thus far is 41, which is eight more than were previously known from this lake. Later in the season Dr. Evermann, who is in charge of the investigations, will furnish us a complete list of Maxenkuckee fishes for publication in the Herald.

The young of both species of black bass have been found to be very abundant in the shallow water around the lake, particularly among the rushes. The young of the small-mouth black bass appear to be more abundant than the other species. One or more specimens of each were taken at each haul of the seine. Those taken the first week in July, averaged 1 1/2 inches long, while those taken a month later had grown to more than two inches. These of course, are the young of the present year. Last year's young are much larger. The blue-gill sun fish is one of the most abundant species, as many as four hundred having been taken at a single haul of the seine.

Both species of gar are quite common, more than 35 large examples having been taken at one haul. These were all promptly destroyed.

In the seining operations a record is kept of the number of individuals of each species caught, and thus the relative abundance of each is determined. A few specimens of each species are preserved for identification, and all the others are returned to the water.

It would be of interest and value to know as definitely as possible the number of each species caught by the anglers visiting the lake, and Dr. Evermann would be very glad if each angler would keep a record of his daily catch, indicating the number of each species, the bait used, the size of unusually large fish, and the date.

Next week we hope to give more information regarding the microscopic fish-food of the lake.

IS IT RIGHT For an Editor to Recommend Patent Medicines?

(From Sylvan Valley News, Brevard, N.C.) It may be a question whether the editor of a newspaper has the right to publicly recommend any of the various proprietary medicines which flood the market, yet as a preventative of suffering we feel it a duty to say a good word for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. We have known and used this medicine in our family for twenty years and have always found it reliable. In many cases a dose of this remedy would save hours of suffering while a physician is awaited. We do not believe in depending implicitly on any medicine for a cure, but we do believe that if a bottle of Chamberlain's Diarrhoea Remedy were kept on hand and administered at the inception of an attack much suffering might be avoided and in many cases the presence of a physician would not be avoided and in very many cases the presence of a physician would not be required. At least this has been our experience during the past twenty years. For sale by T. E. Slattery, druggist.

Last Wednesday, Charles Medbourn was 19 years of age, and a number of his young friends had planned a surprise, but he had a previous engagement—in fact it is rumored that upon this eventful evening he hid himself across the lake to call upon his best girl—hence his friends adjourned the surprise business until Thursday evening, when 30 or more called at his home and celebrated the event. The young man was completely surprised, but in his usual courteous manner made them welcome, and a glorious social evening was passed. Refreshments were served, and one and all departed wishing their young friend scores upon scores of such enjoyable birthdays.

Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Everts of Indianapolis are at the lake on their wedding tour. The groom is a promising young dentist, and the bride one of the belles of the capital city. They were met at the train by their friends, who received them with a liberal supply of rice. After the greetings were over, Lieut. Floyd, of the C. M. A. faculty, presented the happy couple with a basket of choice fruit. Their trunk was artistically decorated with red and white ribbon. The handsome young couple can be found at the Palmer House, where their friends are doing all in their power to make them enjoy their honey-moon.

The following guests are registered at the Palmer House: Mrs. W. B. Bassett and daughter of Indianapolis, John Aber of Logansport, Jas. L. Wilson and wife of Flora, Wm. ## OWNS HIS OLD HOME.

PRESIDENT BUYS THE M'KINLEY COTTAGE AT CANTON.

It Is the House Where He Took His Wife Immediately After Their Marriage—Illicit Distilleries Raided by United States Revenue Officers.

President McKinley has purchased the famous "McKinley cottage," at the corner of North Market street and Louis avenue, Canton, Ohio. The consideration was $14,500. The papers have passed. He will secure possession under the contract and deed in October next. The property was not in the market. It was endeared to President and Mrs. McKinley as their first home, where they began housekeeping, and by tender memories of sorrows there. The front veranda shows the most wear from the historic campaign of 1896, when the noted home was the political Mecca for nearly 1,000,000 people. Before leaving Canton for the inauguration President McKinley tried to buy the home made doubly dear to him. It is not believed that Mrs. Hartes would have sold the place to anyone else. It is believed to be the President's intention to spend a part of each summer in Canton.

BIG RAID ON MOONSHINERS.

Revenue Men Destroy Two Illicit Still Near Chickamauga Park.

United States revenue officers raided three illicit distilleries, operated within three miles of Chickamauga Park, Tenn. Both establishments did a land-office business last year in supplying whisky to soldiers at Chickamauga Park and had defied arrest, the soldiers aiding the moonshiners in keeping the officers off the track. Both stills were in active operation when raided. The first distillery raided was conducted by Moses Long. Twelve hundred gallons of beer and thirty gallons of low wine were found and destroyed. The second still was about a mile away, operated by G. W. Lanham.

YOUNG MAN SAVED.

He Attempts Suicide by Hanging, but His Sister Cuts the Rope.

While temporarily insane Robert Law, a young farmer near Yankton, S. D., took a clothes line and walked into a wooded ravine near the house. His sister Ellen followed shortly after and was horrified to see her brother hanging from a limb and apparently dead. Terror lent bravery and power to the young girl, and she secured a knife from her brother's pocket and cut the rope. He was nearly strangled to death, but owing to the prompt treatment he received he will recover.

CASE OF VENGEFUL ARSON.

Ranchman on the Cheyenne River Victim of a Malignant Relative.

A. E. Rich, a ranchman on the Cheyenne river, about fifty miles northwest of Pierre, S. D., has lost over $5,000 the past ten days from incendiary fires. He had just completed and moved into a fine dwelling, when it was burned, and later a large barn and contents went up in smoke. The incendiary is alleged to be a relative who has a grudge to settle with Rich.

Collision at Tekamah, Neb.

A north-bound passenger train on the St. Paul and Omaha road was wrecked at Tekamah, Neb. A switch had been left open and the train collided with a gravel train standing on the side track. E. C. Olesen of Sioux City, fireman of the gravel train, was fatally injured and two traveling men were slightly hurt.

Lightning Burns a Towboat.

During a heavy thunderstorm the Pittsburg towboat Advance, which had undergone extensive repairs at Middleport docks, Pomeroy, Ohio, was struck by lightning and consumed by fire. The crew of five escaped with great difficulty.

Fatal Fight with a Moonshiner.

Deputy United States Marshal J. A. Blair was shot and fatally wounded in Morgan County, Ky., while trying to arrest L. F. Lewis, an alleged moonshiner. Blair killed Lewis after receiving his own desperate wound.

James Baker Is Acquitted.

At Barboursville, Ky., the jury in the case against James Baker for the murder of Wilson Howard returned a verdict of not guilty on the first ballot. The Bakers say the feud is over on their part.

Millionaire's Dive Is Fatal.

Walter B. Duryea, the only son of a New York millionaire, hazarded a dive into shallow water at Oyster bay and was paralyzed from the neck down.

FIRST REVOLT A FAILURE.

Dominican Revolutionists Did Not Intend to Kill Heureaux.

Owing to the efforts of the Government of Santo Domingo to suppress news and information about the recent assassination of President Heureaux and the reported revolution in Santo Domingo, the facts in the case are difficult to obtain. But a dispatch received by a messenger who has passed through Hayti indicates that the assassination of President Heureaux was not on the program, the purpose of the revolutionists being to capture Moca with the president, thus decapitating the Dominican Government at the first blow, the insurgents not possessing the means of prosecuting a protracted conflict. The premature departure of President Heureaux threatened to frustrate this scheme, whereupon an enthusiast, who was watching the president's movements, committed the act. A subsequent attack on Moca being repulsed, the insurgents withdrew into the fastnesses between Moca and Porta Plata, hoping to secure sufficient accessions of men and arms to attack Porto Plata and prosecute the movement in spite of its initial failure.

SAYS BOUNDARY IS MARKED.

Miner Says Russian Line Is Defined by Monuments.

John Zachert, a mining expert of San Francisco, claims to possess information which he believes will have an important bearing on the Alaskan boundary dispute. Zachert declares that the old Russian boundary is defined by monuments placed at short intervals, and that inclosed in each is a chart of the Russian possessions. He is of the belief that the duplicates of the charts are on file at St. Petersburg. Zachert says that an expedition would have little trouble in finding and following up this boundary line of monuments, and that the charts would prove of inestimable value in settling the dispute between this country and Canada.

TOWN BEING DEPOPULATED.

Court Refuses to Enjoin Movement of Buildings to Rival Village.

In a fight for prestige between the towns of Miller and St. Lawrence, on the Northwestern road in Hand County, S. D., Miller was victor, and so many buildings were bought and moved from St. Lawrence to Miller the former town is about wiped out. To prevent any further removals an injunction was sought on the ground that the value of obligations incurred by St. Lawrence was being impaired by this reducing of taxable property. Judge Gaffy held this not to be good grounds for action and denied the relief asked.

GIVES POISON TO HER BABES.

Then Mrs. M. Stevenson Tries Suicide—Six-Year-Old Daughter Dead.

Mrs. Mary Stevenson, aged 25 years, of Detroit, gave morphine to her two daughters—Ella, aged 6 years, and Emma, aged 3—and then took a dose herself, with suicidal intent. The mother and both children were found together in one bed. Ella was dead and the mother and younger daughter were unconscious. Sol Stevenson, the woman's husband, left her last spring, after some domestic trouble, and it is understood he is living in Chicago. It is thought she was driven to desperation on account of her inability to support herself.

Umatilla Squatters Must Move.

Special Agent A. D. Thorpe of the Interior Department at Spokane, Wash., has received orders from Washington to visit the old Umatilla Indian reservation and take such steps as may be necessary to remove squatters. The reservation was ceded back to the Government and most of it has since been patented. Some of the undesirable land was not sold and this has been squatted upon.

Copper Discovery in Alaska.

C. G. Anderson of Fulton, Ill., leading a party of twelve prospectors, has arrived at Dawson, Alaska, with sensational news regarding a copper find at the headwaters of the White river in American territory. Anderson and his companions are said to have found chunks of pure copper, ranging from the size of a hen's egg to pieces weighing twenty-five pounds.

Tramps Defy a Whole Town.

Fifty tramps took possession of the little town of Poseyville, Ind., and for three hours the officers were unable to do anything. They marched through the main streets of the town terrorizing the inhabitants and looting the residence of Mrs. Florence Duff.

Jamestown Chautauqua Anniversary.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the Chautauqua assembly at Jamestown, N. Y., was celebrated the other night, and an anniversary ode by Miss Mary A. Lathbury was read by Prof. S. N. Clark of the University of Chicago.

Buys Coking Coal Land.

The Federal Steel Company, which recently sold over 1,100 acres of Fayette County, Pa., coal land to William J. Rainey of Cleveland, has purchased nearly 6,000 acres of coking coal land in the same county at a price approximating $2,500,000.

Big Purchase of Coal Land.

Pittsburg and Eastern capitalists have just purchased 4,000 acres of coal land in Westmoreland County, Pa., the consideration, it is reported, being $1,400,000. It is the intention of the new company to make coke of the coal and to begin operations at once.

Funeral Cortege in a Wreck.

Two carriages filled with mourners in the funeral cortege of Mrs. Harry Smith were struck by a Consolidated Traction car in Pittsburg and nine persons were severely hurt.

Root Takes Alger's Place.

At Washington, Elihu Root was sworn in as Secretary of War. Two hours later Gen. Alger, the retiring Secretary, was en route to his home at Detroit by way of Philadelphia.

FOR A CUBAN CENSUS

PREPARATIONS ARE NOW BEING MADE IN WASHINGTON.

It Is Intended to Complete the Work Prior to the Assembling of the Next Congress—Disguised Cattlemen Kill Colorado Sheep.

The President has directed that the census of Cuba be taken as soon as possible. The matter has been energetically taken up by the War Department with the expectation of completing the results and furnishing the principal results to Congress at the opening of the next session. Gen. Brooke, commanding the department of Cuba, has appointed five superintending enumerators, who are now on their way to Washington to receive instructions and to familiarize themselves with American methods of insuring accuracy in the data to be obtained. The last Spanish census of Cuba was taken in 1887. While its accuracy was in many respects doubtful, as a whole it was conceded to give a fair idea of the conditions then existing. The population was said to be 1,631,687, of whom nearly 65 per cent were white. Army officers who have been connected with the Cuban administration since the American occupation began estimate that this total has fallen to about 1,300,000.

SHEEP WAR IN COLORADO.

Disguised Cattlemen Kill 150 Animals and Cripple Others.

Northeastern Colorado is the scene of a war between sheep and cattle men. Four horsemen, carefully disguised, rode into some large flocks of sheep belonging to the Warren Live Stock Company of Cheyenne, which were being grazed along Two Mile creek, about twenty-four miles from Sterling. The men were well armed, and shot and killed 150 sheep and badly crippled twenty-five more. It is reported also that two sheep herders were badly beaten.

Inventor Called to Washington.

J. W. Batcheller, a gunsmith of St. Joseph, Mo., has been summoned to Washington by the War Department officials, who desire to make experiments with a new device invented by him for boring out guns. The device will be tested at the navy yard. It is for choke-boring gun barrels, large and small cannon, and for cleaning guns when they are rusty.

Drowned While Fishing.

Walter Carr, a painter, was drowned in Lake Michigan off Jackson Park, Chicago, while two companions, Samuel Dingman and William Johnson, were rescued by the life-saving crew. The men were fishing from a small boat when Johnson and Dingman attempted to change places, with the result that the boat was upset.

Aeronaut Falls into a Lake.

E. M. East, an aeronaut, made an ascension at Walker, Minn. The wind blew him into the south arm of Leech lake. A steamer went out after him, but failed to find him. It is supposed that the parachute did not work and in attempting to cut himself loose he became excited and fell into the lake.

Discover They Are Brothers.

Two men named Connors, sojourning in Kingston, Ont., learned the other day that they were brothers. One was from Belleville, Ont., and the other from Syracuse, N. Y. One, a chiroprapist, showed his patient a picture of his mother, which the other promptly recognized, and the identification was complete.

Hebrew Cadet Forced Out.

Sigmund S. Albert, son of a prominent Hebrew merchant of Lancaster, Pa., has resigned from West Point military academy, having literally been driven from it by the persecution to which he was subjected by the cadets on account of his religious faith.

Kills Three Children and Himself.

Charles Yager, aged 40 years, of Brandt, Pa., murdered his three small children by cutting their throats and then committed suicide by the same means. There seems to be no doubt that the father had gone insane during the night.

So Canal Traffic Breaks Record.

July freight traffic through the Soo canal at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., exceeded 4,000,000 tons, smashing all previous records, and surprising every one by its magnitude.

Another Car Is Blown Up.

Rioters resumed their disturbances at Cleveland by blowing up a car with nitroglycerin in Jennings avenue. None of the passengers was injured. The car was badly damaged.

Child Paralyzed by Cocaine.

Frederick W. Pope, the 14-year-old son of Charles A. Pope of Columbus, N. J., is paralyzed as the result of an application of cocaine by a dentist. He has also lost the power of speech.

Double Tragedy in Cleveland.

In Cleveland, a teamster named John Schlenker shot his wife four times and then sent a bullet through his heart. The woman died an hour later. The tragedy was prompted by jealousy.

Found Dead in a Bath Tub.

Charles F. Autenrieth, a wealthy retired Philadelphia banker, was found dead in a bath tub in his house. He had shot himself. No motive is known for the suicide.

Fire Started by Lightning.

The power house and car sheds of the North Jersey Railway Company in Newark, N. J., were destroyed by fire, causing a loss of $300,000. Nearly eighty cars were destroyed.

Abductor Jones Is Arrested.

Clyde Jones, alias Clyde Johnson, the abductor of Miss Nellie Berger of Seymour, was captured near Freetown, Ind.

MAY EMPTY NEBRASKA PRISON.

Legal Technicality Expected to Free a Majority of Convicts.

The State of Nebraska has been cited to appear before the United States Supreme Court and show cause why one Henry Boll should not be released from the penitentiary on a writ of error. Boll is serving a nineteen years' sentence for embezzling city funds as treasurer of Omaha. He was prosecuted on an information. The attorneys for Boll in their brief set out that to prosecute without a grand jury indictment is illegal and in support of the proposition quote from the enabling act, under which Nebraska was admitted to the Union, as follows: "No person shall be held to answer for a criminal offense unless on presentation to a grand jury." In 1885, in spite of the above, the Legislature of the State provided for prosecution by information. This is the first time that it has been tested and many other criminals are said to be prepared to sue for their liberty in the State if Boll's contention is sustained.

MOBBED BY MINERS.

Coeur D'Alene Labor Agent Fatally Wounded at Cripple Creek.

David Connell, formerly a deputy marshal at Gold Field, Colo., was shot and probably fatally wounded by an unknown man at the Florence and Cripple Creek Railroad depot at Cripple Creek, Colo. Connell had been soliciting miners to work in the Coeur D'Alene country, and seven recruits whom he had secured were with him when he was shot. They were surrounded, hooted and stoned by a large number of men, and it is said they drew their guns and threatened to shoot. At this some one in the crowd fired two shots, one taking effect in Connell's side and the other taking off a portion of a thumb of one of Connell's companions. No arrests were made. Connell had been warned to leave the camp by a committee said to represent the miners' union.

ESCAPE FROM FEDERAL PRISON.

Three Inmates of Fort Leavenworth Gain Their Liberty

Jack Holly, L. Priest and Will Bobo, prisoners at the Federal penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., ferociously assaulted with shovels Guard F. Knief, and after beating him over the head and neck, almost severing his head from his body with the crude weapons, made their escape. Jack Holly, the leader of the trio, attempted to board a fast-flying Santa Fe train, missed his foothold and was cut in two.

Slays His Former Partner.

M. J. Real was shot in his saloon at Keokuk, Iowa, by Ald. Timothy Hickey. There were no known witnesses. Hickey went to police headquarters and gave himself up. Real died from his wounds later in the day. He was married and had a family.

PLUNGED TO DEATH.

TROLLEY CAR DISASTER NEAR BRIDGEPORT, CONN.

Hurled from a Trestle and Fifty Feet Down a Ravine—Thirty-five Persons Killed and Twelve Injured—No One on Board Escapes.

Forty-three passengers on a trolley car on the Shelton street railway were dashed down a ravine at Peck's mill stream, five miles from Bridgeport, Conn., at 3:13 Sunday afternoon. Twenty-six were killed outright and two died at the hospital.

Over Peck's mill stream is an iron bridge 650 feet long. The distance from the top of the structure to the bed of the stream is fifty feet. All of the water was drawn off a few months ago to permit the buttresses for the bridge to be laid. The street railway line was opened to the public the previous Thursday for the first time.

The car jumped the rails on the trestle over the stream and plunged down the embankment fifty feet below, where it was buried in the mud. The motorman, George Hamilton, saved himself from death by jumping on the trestle as the car plunged into the abyss.

The alarm was given and hundreds of farmers from the vicinity were soon on the scene. Other cars that were following the fatal one arrived, and in a short time hundreds of volunteers were at work. The work was retarded owing to the difficulty of gaining a secure foot passage in the narrow ravine. Farmers and their wives and daughters came with blankets and woollens, and all of the physicians in Bridgeport and Stratford who were available were summoned.

The car was soon separated, the bottom portion being lifted off. The top was buried several feet in the mud and the bodies of the dead and dying were strewn about. The seats were smashed to splinters. Strange to say, few of the bodies were badly mangled. All of the persons killed sustained fractured skulls.

John and Daniel Galvin of Ansonia, as far as is known at present, were the only ones except Motorman Hamilton who escaped being hurled into the ravine. They were on the rear end of the car, and when it left the rails they took no chances, but jumped and landed safely on the trestle.

The cause of the accident is uncertain. The car is too badly wrecked to give an indication of possible defects of its wheels. South of the trestle is quite an incline, on which the car ran down at a very high rate of speed. After it ran on to the trestle for about ten feet the trucks left the rails and the car continued on the ties for about seventy-five feet, when it went off the trestle and dropped into the ravine below, overturning completely and up-ending. When the car struck, the motor, which weighed four tons, and the heavy trucks crushed into it, instantly killing many of the passengers.

SCORE ARE DEAD.

Maine Excursionists Near Bar Harbor Drowned by Collapse of a Pier.

Twenty or more excursionists from various parts of Maine were drowned and forty-one others were injured at Mount Desert ferry, eight miles from Bar Harbor, Me., Sunday morning by the breaking of an old and weak slip.

The Maine Central Railroad ran excursion trains from all over its line in Maine to permit of people visiting the warships of the North Atlantic squadron, which had arrived in the harbor from Newport, R. I. The trains were switched off the Boston and Maine road to the short line of the Maine Central, which at Mount Desert ferry connects with the small steamer Sappho, which plies between that point and Bar Harbor.

The first train brought 1,300 persons, and as the crowd had been told by train hands that the steamer could not accommodate one-fourth of the number there was a rush for the ferry slip as soon as the train stopped. About 200 gained the decks of the steamer and as many more were on the slip, when with a crash that sounded like the explosion of a boiler the weakened structure broke in two in the center and the people were swept off each end into the water.

It was High tide at the time and the 200 people were penned into a box-like area of 20 by 30 feet and beyond the assistance from the people high above them on the wharf. Their only means of escape was by diving down five feet under the side wall planking and swimming to the shore. Few could do this, for the crowd was panic-stricken, and the members of it fought like wild animals for their lives.

The people on shore for several minutes kept crowding forward, forcing some fifty more upon the struggling mass of humanity in the water below.

Forty-one of the rescued were so seriously injured that they required immediate medical and surgical attention, and they were removed to a hotel close by.

FACE DEATH IN LAKE.

Passengers Spend a Night of Terror on Lake Michigan.

Two hundred passengers on the steamer City of Grand Rapids, which left South Haven, Mich., for Milwaukee Saturday night, faced death through the long hours of the night in a violent northeast, which caused the leaking boat to nearly founder and which threatened to rend the vessel from stern to bow at any moment. With the water in the hold within two inches of the fires the captain put about for South Haven and after a desperate struggle with the waves and water the steamer reached that port at 6 o'clock Sunday morning almost in a sinking condition. One force pump of all on board was serviceable and this lone pump alone saved the passengers from what seemed certain doom.

DREYFUS TRIAL IS ON

FAMOUS PRISONER BEFORE THE COURT MARTIAL

Accused Officer Declares His Innocence and Dramatic Situations Follow—Answers Questions in a Clear Voice—Face Pallid and Hair Gray.

Promptly at 7 o'clock Monday morning the trial of Captain Dreyfus began at Rennes, France. Soon after the prisoner entered the court room former Ministers Hanotaux and Lebon, General Mercier and Paul Cavaignac came in, followed by other prominent witnesses. The seats were filled with ticket holders long before the opening of the court. Thus was the opening of one of the greatest trials of history, and the detailed events will be recorded, to be handed down to posterity among the pages of records of national history of the nineteenth century.

Although the features of Captain Dreyfus were noticeably pallid he entered the court room with a firm step and answered the questions of the judge as to name, age, etc., with a clear, determined voice. Dreyfus has become partly bald since he was sent to Devil's Island, and his hair is gray and closely cropped. He took a seat with perfect composure, facing the judges with hands resting on his knees.

The officers of the court took their places on the stage, which occupies one end of the hall. The judges looked much in earnest and a trifle nervous. Dreyfus, who was sitting to the right of the court, was ordered to stand, and the act accusing him of betraying the French military secrets to a foreign power was read. At the conclusion of this the prisoner gave his name, age and grade, and said: "I am Captain Alfred Dreyfus, who is named in this accusation." His voice was firm as of one who answered a familiar question. As Dreyfus spoke the audience strained forward breathlessly.

The recorder of the court then called the roll of witnesses. At the conclusion of the roll call physicians' certificates, etc., were presented explaining the absence of Du Paty de Clam and others. Major Carriere, government prosecutor, then told the witnesses that possibly four days would be spent in the examination of the secret dossier and that they must retire until called. Colonel Jouast, president of the court, read a decision that, inasmuch as the defense offered no objection, the trial would proceed without the absentees.

Dreyfus was brought in from the anteroom under guard. The reading of the act of accusation, which is identical with the charge of the first court martial, took half an hour.

At the conclusion the prisoner was ordered to stand and Colonel Jouast said: "Captain Dreyfus, you have heard the accusation. Do you recognize this?" (handing him the bordereau).

Dreyfus—I do not.
Jouast—Is that your work?
Dreyfus—It is not. I am innocent.

As the prisoner said this he trembled palpably, and in a voice throbbing with emotion he repeated: "I am innocent; upon my honor and everything I hold dear—my country, my children, I am innocent."

An examination of the prisoner followed.

Dreyfus answered the questions promptly, emphatically and distinctly, without that reputed impediment in his speech due to his long isolated imprisonment. His replies to questions relating to different documents which concerned the treason were always of the same tenor: "I had no knowledge of it," or simply "Never." Again there would be a detailed explanation of how he knew certain things under innocent circumstances.

After ten minutes' questioning the tone became conversational, and it was difficult to hear what passed between the president and Dreyfus. To the question: "Have you ever (naming several dates) visited Germany or Italy?" the answers were "No" and "Never," with a burst of indignation which sounded through the hall.

The question was repeated: "Did you cross into Italy carrying documents for a foreign power?"

The answer came with intense emphasis: "No; absolutely never!"

This caused a buzz of comment from the officers present, and the court cried: "Silence!"

After a short secret session the court announced that it would deliberate on the dossier behind closed doors. The court then adjourned for the time, thus ending the first scene in the final act of a drama of extraordinary human interest.

INDIANS ARE ROUTED.

Revolt of the Yaqui Warriors Is Practically Crushed.

Dispatches received from Mexico show that the revolt of the Yaqui Indians has been practically crushed and that from now on the military authorities will conduct a war of extermination, so as to remove all danger of other uprisings in the future. It is also known now that Gen. Torres was not killed by the Indians in battle, as at first reported, but only wounded.

When the treaty of May, 1897, was signed the Government agreed to provide each Yaqui with a portion of land and supply them with corn until their farms were under cultivation. The Indians were also allowed to retain their arms. Since that time the Government has fed the Indians, but they refused to work their farms, and as a consequence the supplies were stopped. This was the primary motive for the present war.

Capt. Moldonado, who as chief tatabate had led the Yaqui forces, had sworn allegiance to the Government and had been made a captain under Gen. Torres. With an escort he was sent to confer with the Indians. The natives deceived him. On the 21st Moldonado was decoyed into the woods by his tribesmen and there surprised and attacked by a large number of the Yaqui. His escort was routed and the captain was murdered by the very men he formerly commanded. On the same day the Indians attacked a detachment of the Twelfth battalion of infantry in the city of Bacum, but were repulsed.

Gen. Torres immediately led a column of soldiers into the district to punish the warriors. After a forced march he came up with the Indians, and the battle commenced. The Indians were routed and driven into the woods, leaving forty dead on the field, while there were many wounded. The Government lost one killed and had ten wounded. Gen. Torres followed them up, and in the next engagement killed forty-three, among them four chiefs, Jopo, Slaunmavana, Fierros and Dionisco.

GOES MILE IN 1:22 2-5.

Major Taylor Beats the World's Records on a Bicycle.

In the presence of a yelling, frenzied crowd Major Taylor, the swift colored professional cyclist, rode a mile behind his steam motor at the Garfield Park track in Chicago Thursday in the phenomenal time of 1:22 2-5, thereby beating the world's record by 5 3-5 seconds.

There can be absolutely no doubt about the authenticity of the performance. At least five watches caught the blur of yellow and black as it sped across the crack abreast of the pacing machine, and all were under 1:23.

Taylor's performance is the more remarkable in that it was not aided by wind shields or any other device; it was simply a straightaway, paced race. McDuffie's record of 1:28 was made with the aid of a wind shield which protected him from all currents and so fashioned him from a his machine practically a as to make on wheels, tapered before light wedge and behind.

WARNING TO CENSUS TAKERS.

Director Merriam Notifies Them of Things to Be Avoided.

Census Director Merriam has completed the preparation of his official instructions to supervisors, and each of the 250 appointees will receive a copy. The circular of instructions will accompany the commission of the supervisor and his oath of office form, which he is expected to fill out and return to Director Merriam.

Merriam wishes the supervisors to impress upon the minds of their enumerators that there is to be no "backing down" after they accept the tasks assigned to them. After taking up the work they must go through with it, whether they like it or not. Census enumerators who tell what they learn in the performance of their duties are liable to a fine of $500, the director warns them, and if they are caught making oath to untruths they are liable to go to prison for three years for perjury and to pay a fine of $800.

Congregational Church circles are considerably stirred up in the West over the alleged heretical writings of Rev. Dr. G. H. Gilbert of the Chicago Theological Seminary faculty.

Dr. Gilbert is esteemed most highly as an earnest, scholarly and high-minded Christian gentleman. He occupies a chair at the seminary and draws a salary from the church as a professor of New Testament Greek. Dr. Gilbert sets aside the authority of the Old Testament, and claims that its writers were imperfect men, incapable of reflecting the divine mind. He claims that we have, by our acceptance of their writings, reflected their views, and that, as a consequence, we now have a religion of reflection.

Boston has a new crusader and a new crusader in Miss Lillian Jewett, who is 24, rather above the medium height and of very magnetically attractive ways. She is fighting against Judge Lynch. She has been referred to in Boston as the new Harriet Beecher Stowe, sent by heaven in answer to the prayers of the colored race. The colored people of Boston simply adore her. They think she is the first person who has taken up the cause who is gifted with the divine inspiration. The Rev. Mr. Ferris of the church in which a mass meeting was held, in introducing Miss Jewett, said that when God had some great work to perform he touched the heart of a woman.

One year ago Mrs. Bloodgood, a noted contralto and stage beauty, the wife of W. D. Bloodgood, an aristocratic broker of New York, startled society by appearing at a children's fair in St. Louis and with an avowed charitable intention, selling her kisses to the highest bidder. The prices ranged from $100 to $500. Her husband remonstrated with his wife and the numerous quarrels that resulted culminated in a suit for divorce in the New York courts. Mr. Bloodgood was, however, unsuccessful in his suit, the complaint that his wife sold kisses in public being deemed too trivial. But the South Dakota judges have taken a different view of the matter.

FAST MAIL WRECKED.

Northwestern Train from Chicago Ditched Near Boone, Iowa.

As the Chicago and Northwestern's famous fast mail from Chicago was rounding the "Kate Shelley" curve just west of Boone, Iowa, Tuesday morning the engine and four cars comprising the train left the track, plunged over the steep embankment and were dashed to pieces against the side of a small hill. Four men were killed and seven others were injured. Although the cause of the derailment is unknown, it is thought to have been the result of a heavy rain which fell at 3 o'clock—two hours before the wreck.

Less than an hour before the fast mail made its fatal jump the Overland Limited, carrying hundreds of sleeping passengers, sped around the curve in safety. Had the rails weakened under its wheels the hospitals and undertaking establishments at Boone would have cared for scores instead of ten victims. A heavy fruit train also made the curve safely less than twenty minutes before the wreck.

The front truck of the engine was torn from its fastening and was hurled over the slope into a corn field 150 feet away. The driving wheels were twisted under the front part and the boiler and cab were smashed. Masterton and Schmidt, their crushed bodies scalded with steam and burned with coals from the fire box, were found dead under the wrecked remnants of the cab.

The express and postal cars were likewise dismantled. Messenger O'Brien was pinned under his safe, and Figarfoos, his helper, was found under a mass of wreckage. The first three cars were shattered the worst. Conductor Rose and Brakemen Dornan and McVarnes were in the rear car and were unhurt save for bruises.

After a separation of six years, Mrs. Ethel Fredler of Louisville found her husband recently through the agency of a tombstone.

About seven years ago Miss Ethel Treaner of St. Louis, daughter of E. T. Treaner, fell in love with Charles Fredler. The young man was making only a small salary, and for this reason the parents of the girl objected to the match. A secret marriage resulted. Afterward Fredler told the firm of his secret, with the result that his compensation was sufficiently increased for the couple to inform their parents of their matrimonial venture.

When the panic came the firm in which Fredler was employed assigned. Fredler suddenly left St. Louis, leaving a note to his wife to the effect that he would not return until he had acquired wealth.

A few weeks ago Mrs. Fredler and her mother were driving in Louisville when she saw a stone bearing an inscription of the birth and death of Chith the date. They learned that the stone was to be sent to St. Louis, and found out the name of the consignee. Taking the next train for St. Louis, they visited the store, where Mrs. Fredler was confronted by her husband.

FAILED TO RETAKE CALAMBA.

Filipinos Repulsed by Americans, Who Lose One Killed.

The Filipino insurgents Sunday made an attempt to recapture Calamba, which was taken by the Americans on Wednesday. A force of 2,400 rebels attacked the town simultaneously on the north and south. In repulsing the attack the Americans did not even require all their force. Two companies of the Twenty-first regulars, some cavalry and one gun were sufficient to repulse the attack on the north, while 400 men from the Washington Volunteers drove the enemy back on the south. The American loss was one killed and seven wounded.

They were displeased as he glorified the history of the party. Finally, he came to the climax. As he named Walter Q. Gresham a chill seemed to fall on the audience. Ingersoll stood with a smile on his face to watch the effect of his words. Gradually it faded away. The entire Indiana delegation got up and left the house in a body. There was no applause. In some way the great orator had entirely spoiled the chances of his favorite. Finally he put on his hat and went out, a thoroughly disappointed man.

Though the late Robert Ingersoll had many oratorical triumphs he is charged with at least one disastrous failure. It occurred at an evening meeting of the delegates to the Republican National convention in 1888. Before the convention met there had been much favorable mention of the name of Walter Q. Gresham as a candidate. Indiana had, however, instructed for Harrison. Ingersoll favored Gresham and he took the first opportunity to make a speech in his favor. The delegates who sat and listened to the famous orator had no idea what his object was. They heard him describe in eloquent terms the qualities to be desired in a candidate. They were displeased as he glorified the history of the party. Finally, he came to the climax. As he named Walter Q. Gresham a chill seemed to fall on the audience. Ingersoll stood with a smile on his face to watch the effect of his words. Gradually it faded away. The entire Indiana delegation got up and left the house in a body. There was no applause. In some way the great orator had entirely spoiled the chances of his favorite. Finally he put on his hat and went out, a thoroughly disappointed man.

NEWS FROM THE COLONIES.

Philippine Islands.

Filipino women never wear hats. American compositors earn good wages. Sale of liquors on Sunday is strictly forbidden.

Freedom has an editorial calling for the arrest of bicycle "scorchers." The children of the peasants usually run nude till they are from 8 to 10 years old.

Since the beginning of the war Manila's foreign population has increased greatly.

Natives are rarely seen on the streets of Manila after 7 o'clock. This is owing to military orders.

The number of Spanish now in the Philippines is less than at any time during the last fifty years.

The Filipinos copy after the Spanish and English in the matter of dress, as far as their means will permit.

The police are keeping their eyes open for cases of cruelty to animals. A native was fined $10 for driving a horse with a broken leg.

The highest mountains of the Philippine Islands are Halcón (Mindoro), 8,868 feet; Apo (Mindanao), 8,804 feet; Mayon, active volcano (Luzon), 8,283 feet, and San Cristobal (Luzon), 7,375 feet.

The women stick to their Philippine costume, which is quite becoming in its rich colorings and openness. The stockless feet are slipped into dainty little embroidered velvet shoes with woolen soles.

Porto Rico.

Baseball is popular. Roads are being built. Engineers are in demand.

Hammocks are the usual beds. Coffee sells for five cents a pound. Ten oranges can be bought for one cent.

There are no venomous reptiles on the island.

The hotels are distinctly bad, the stores the same.

Every traveler says the island's greatest need is schools.

Spain was the island's market. That has been taken away.

The coffee crop is three times as valuable as the sugar crop.

There is general satisfaction with the American administration of affairs.

With plenty of native hardwood not a stick of furniture is made in the country.

The thermometer rarely reaches above 85 degrees, even in summer. The nights are always comfortable.

Few of the ruined — been restored.

Owners of plantations in Cuba refuse to employ Spanish laborers.

Only one plantation in the entire province of Havana is in operation.

There is talk of erecting an office building in Havana on American lines.

The more intelligent residents are anxious for annexation to the United States.

Natives near Santiago do a land-office business selling relics from the battlefields.

Skilled labor is scarce. Cuban carpenters, plumbers and masons are not skilled.

Not one out of ten natives can read and write, and they have no ambition beyond mere existence.

Bill posting is a new industry, and Havana is now well plastered with unsightly advertisements.

Life and property in Havana and Santiago are now said to be as safe as in any city in the world.

Brigandage is scattered and the bandits are renegade Cuban soldiers for the most part—not Spaniards.

Hawaii.

There are no labor unions. Royalty sentiment has died out completely.

Taxation is on a basis of 1 per cent of cash value.

It is estimated that $25,000,000 is invested in sugar.

Land worth $5 an acre three years ago now sells for $50.

Native markets are poor, and nearly everything eatable has to be imported.

Many new plantations are being capitalized for amounts varying from $1,000,000 to $3,000,000.

The natives still feast on taro, raw fish, and poi, and are still the careless, lazy people they have always been.

Skilled labor is in good demand, but unskilled labor is a drug, the supply of Japanese and Chinese being large.

At the time of its discovery by Captain Cook, the population of the islands was about twice as great as it is to-day.

There are just as many physicians, dentists and lawyers in Honolulu as there are in any city of the same size in the United States.

Alaska.

Men working claims at Cape Nome are said to be taking out $100 a day.

All along the Koyukuk river boats are stranded, having been overtaken by ice before reaching the promised land.

Complaint is made that the mail contractors do not live up to the provisions of their agreement with the Government.

A large majority of disappointed prospectors are chopping wood for the steamship companies to earn their passage home.

One of the buildings of the Treadwell mine is as large as was the Manufacturers Building at the World's Columbian Exposition.

Mrs. M. J. Winfield of Logansport gave birth to a child Friday evening, which only lived four hours. The mother is dangerously ill, and grave doubts are entertained as to her recovery.

Prof. Barnhart, principal of the Meca schools, and wife, were the guests of his uncle, W. S. Obenchain, over Sunday. They were highly pleased with the lake and its surroundings.

The Junior Epworth League of Argos picnic'd at the lake Tuesday. The children were in charge of Mrs. Eli Myers, superintendent of the League. It was an ideal day, for an affair of this kind, and everybody reported a pleasant time.

Quarterly meeting services were held at the West Washington church last Sunday morning. Presiding Elder Baumgardner, of Elkhart preached an excellent sermon to one of the largest congregations ever assembled in said church. He was assisted in the services by Rev. Newman. Several Culver citizens were in attendance, among them being W. S. Easterday and wife.

The following tip is for those who are worried by mosquitoes and is a good thing to remember during a camping out season: Throw a bit of alum, about the size of a marble, into a bowl of water, and wet the hands and face and any exposed parts lightly with it. Not a mosquito will approach you. They will hum about a little and disappear.

The following guests are registered at the Colonade hotel: J. T. Flannigan and sons of Logansport; D. C. Cole and wife, Plymouth; N. S. Cook and wife, Indianapolis; W. K. Hayes and wife, Kokomo; C. AN ORDINANCE.

An ordinance to regulate the sale of intoxicating liquors within the corporate limits of the town of Culver City, Marshall county Indiana, and providing penalties for the violation thereof.

Sec. 1. Be it ordained by the Board of Trustees of the town of Culver City, Marshall county, Indiana, that it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to directly or indirectly sell, barter or give away any intoxicating liquor to be used, to be drunk or suffered to be drunk in his house, outhouse, yard, garden, or the appurtenances thereto belonging, the same being within 250 feet of any church, school-house, hospital or seminary, situate within the corporate limits of the town of Culver City.

Sec. 2. This ordinance shall apply to all sales, barter or gifts within 250 feet of any church, school-house, hospital or seminary situate and being within the corporate limits of the town of Culver City, whether the person or persons have taken out a license from the town of Culver City, or from Marshall county or the state of Indiana; and such license shall constitute no defense to any action founded on this ordinance.

Sec. 3. The words "intoxicating liquors" shall apply to any spirituous, malt, wine, mixed, or fermented liquor, or to any intoxicating liquor whatsoever which is used or may be used as a beverage.

Sec. 4. All places where intoxicating liquor is sold, bartered or given away by person or persons, situate and being within 250 feet from any church, school-house, hospital or seminary situate and being within the corporate limits of the town of Culver City, shall be held, taken and declared to be common nuisances, and the same may be abated by said town of Culver City, in an action brought in any court having jurisdiction thereof.

Sec. 5. Any persons or persons violating any provision or provisions of this ordinance, shall on conviction, be fined in any sum not exceeding ten dollars for each and every offense.

Sec. 6. All ordinances and parts of ordinances in conflict with this ordinance are hereby repealed.

Sec. 7. Whereas an emergency exists for the immediate taking effect of this ordinance, therefore the same shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage and publication, once each week, for two consecutive weeks in the Culver City Herald, a weekly newspaper of general circulation, printed and published in said town of Culver City, Indiana.

Attest: (J. A. Rea, President Board Trustees. Thomas Clifton, Clerk.

Indiana Pensioners.

The fiscal year in the Indiana pension office ended June 30. At that time there were about 65,500 pensioners on the Indiana rolls, against 69,712 at the close of the fiscal year 1898. For three months composing the last quarter of the fiscal year 1899 the following sums were paid out to Indiana pensioners: April, $54,493.40; May, $2,583,495.74; June, $71,930.80. During the fiscal year 1899 there were paid out altogether $10,807,022.56.

A New Money Order.

On September 15, a new form of postoffice money order will be brought into use and will be a great improvement on the one now given by the postoffice. The greatest change in the system will be in the giving of a receipt with a each order. The receipt will be an exact fac simile of the the original when it is filled out. This method of making the fac simile will prevent any mistake, and at the same time will be conclusive proof that such an order was issued. If the order is lost in transmission this receipt will be redeemed by the office after a reasonable time has elapsed for search to be made for the missing order. The price for the order will remain unchanged.
