CULVER MILITARY ACADEMY.

Items of Interest Compiled by Our Special Reporter.

The Culver Military Academy opened for active service in school work Tuesday morning, although about 185 reported at the academy Monday, arriving upon every train, and it occupied all of said day to allot them rooms and to arrange for their comfort and care, and by the middle of the week, 210 cadets were enrolled, and assigned rooms, while a large number were refused admission for lack of accommodations. The cadets admitted are bright, manly looking young men, and no doubt will enter upon their year's work with a determination to succeed, and thus bring credit to themselves and honor to their constituency. There are about 50 last year's cadets present, and the balance are new ones, who are now taking their first lessons in military drill.

Ernest Jackson, of Des Moines, Iowa, had charge of a special sleeper from the above city via Milwaukee & St. Paul R. R. to Hibbard, containing 24 cadets from Des Moines, Omaha and other western points. The number of cadets from Illinois is about double the number last year.

Eighteen states of the Union, also the City of Mexico, are represented at the academy by cadets.

Capt. J. Q. Adams is here on official business.

H. W. Fleet, who graduated last year with the rank of First Lieutenant, is now attending the University of Virginia.

One of the noticeable improvements that have been made, is the 110 foot flag staff.

The cadets who play foot ball are improving every opportunity to practice that presents itself, and from the showing already made, we have the promise of an excellent team this year. Besides a number of new cadets who are making a good showing, nine members of the '99 team are again with us, viz: Anderson, Stifel, Voris, Reitz, Campbell, Canfield, Bauman, Proctor and Bigwood. This insures practically the same team that represented Culver last year in such an admirable manner, losing but one game during the entire season, although playing out of their class in every instance.

We are sky on locals this week, but next week we expect to be thoroughly in the harness.

C. R. Pollard, Second Lieutenant of D Co., last year, was here the fore part of the week meeting old friends. He will attend the University of Illinois the ensuing year.

A very neat book of the regulations of Culver Military Academy was issued to each cadet Wednesday.

J. J. Moller, Adjutant at C. M. A. last year, is now a cadet at West Point.

H. R. Aisthorpe, ranking corporal last year, was here this week visiting old friends. He has secured an excellent position in a bank at Chicago.

Xenophon, son of Capt. de Blamenthal, and a graduate of C. M. A. last year, is here visiting his parents and other friends. He will attend the University of Chicago this year.

R. G. Culbertson a C. M. A. cadet last year, was here meeting old associates the fore part of the week. He will attend Armour Institute, at Chicago, the ensuing year.

Town Clock.

Walter Geiselman was circulating a paper Wednesday for subscriptions, the money to be used to purchase a clock for the M. E. Church. The clock in question is to be a good one, and will not only be an ornament to the church, but will be a blessing to humanity in general who inhabit Culver, as the powerful tones of the striking apparatus of the clock will ring out the hours of the day, and those not having a time-piece will find in the town clock a friend indeed. The HERALD thinks this is a move in the right direction, and should be encouraged financially by our citizens as far as possible. Then it will be one more link in the chain of development in Culver, which is destined to grow link by link, until some future day her commercial as well as social power will be felt. Culver has everything coming her way. It has one of the greatest Military Academies on earth today, which is only in its infancy so far as its far reaching power is concerned, but which will some day be represented by pupils from all over the world. Let the good work go on, and your most sanguine expectations will be realized by and by.

Store Robbed.

Allman's clothing store at Plymouth, was burglarized Tuesday night. Among other things taken were six fine overcoats. It was supposed that there were three burglars engaged in the robbery, and were experts in the business and left no clue whereby they could be apprehended. Marshal Mawhorter received notice to look out for suspicious characters.

Cases Settled.

The cases of Indiana vs. R. Kreuzberger, Wm. Overman and C. C. Beaber, which were continued from Sept. 13th, were called by justice Laden yesterday. Prosecutor, Harry Bernetha appeared for the state and S. N. Stevens of Plymouth for the defense. An agreement was reached between the parties by which the defense plead guilty to the charges brought and agreed to close on Sundays hereafter; the prosecutor to keep in abeyance several charges subject to prosecution upon the failure of the defense to keep good faith. They were fined $10 each which with the costs amounted to 25.50 for each defendant.

CONTEMPTIBLE SCOUNDREL.

He Girdles Twenty-Eight Fine Shade Trees Along the Lake Front.

Sometime last Friday night, some low-lived contemptible scoundrel, with malice aforethought, and to gratify the natural cussidness of his nature, deliberately girdled 28 fine shade trees along the lake front belonging to the Culver estate. So thoroughly indignant were the Culvers, that they have left no stone unturned in order to trace the narrow-contracted villain and mete out to him his just deserts. To take advantage of every means possible, Oscar Walty of Kokomo, deputy fish commissioner, detective and all round sleuth, was notified, who came here Sunday, accompanied by one of his famous blood hounds, and detective Silas Morgan of Logansport, and the trio proceeded to where the trees were girdled, but owing to the extreme dry weather during the past month, the hound was unable to find the trail, hence, he and his owner returned from whence they came without accomplishing anything, and up to date no clue has been obtained as to the identity of the base fiend that committed the dastardly act, who if captured should go to the penitentiary for at least 10 years, as such characters are the most dangerous individuals that ever cursed a community by their presence.

A person that will sneak around and destroy property, will stab you in the back or commit any crime on the calander under the cover of darkness. Such characters should be shown no mercy.

Held up by a Lone Highwayman.

Last Sunday night, as E. W. Davis, better known as "Wid" was returning home after spending the evening with his best girl, when near the depot, was approached by a thick set individual, who addressed him as follows:

"Say! young fellow, have you been to see your best girl?"

"You bet I have," answered 'Wid' who kept right on going. The stranger quickened his gait and came up alongside of Davis and thrusting a revolver under his nasal organ told him to stand and deliver.

'Wid' looked down the gleaming barrel of that revolver and his legs began to tremble, and in a shaky voice—said, "just help yourself." Whereupon, the burglar extracted 12 cents from his victim's clothes and told him to get, and 'Wid' lit out—thanking his lucky stars that he had no more money in his clothes. The man wore a mask and was an adept at the business.

We would advise our citizens to look a "leddle out," hereafter.

Dedicatory Services at the Poplar Grove Church.

Two large and appreciative congregations greeted the Rev. Isaac D. Le as he preached last Sunday morning and evening at Poplar Grove.

The day one of those balmy September days that seems to invite one out to enjoy the glory of departing summer, was an ideal one, affording no excuse to the dilatory to absent themselves from the house of worship. Besides the house had been transformed into a temple of attractive beauty by months of toil and sacrifice on the part of a faithful congregation, and it now stood ready to be solemnly dedicated to the service of Almighty God. But before this could be done it must be paid for by the raising of a few hundred dollars. The people were patient and good humored, and the preacher, noted for his wise counsel and Godly admonitions, preached effectively and begged persistently, and as a result of it all, six hundred and seventy-six dollars were raised, a little more than was asked for, and three adults united with the church. Of this sum, the ladies collectively pledged themselves for fifty dollars. Many who had given liberally, duplicated their former subscriptions. I. O. O. F. Lodge, No. 373, that owns the adjoining cemetery gave substantial aid. People young and old seemed to vie with one another in giving.

The building has been made practically new at a cost of about $1200, with new seats, a new Culver furnace, with new seats, a new windows and a memorial art glass windows and a bell that is a pride to the community.

The people of the neighborhood as well as many outside friends may justly appreciate this enterprise in which they have all shared and are to be congratulated together with the membership, who will reasonably expect that spiritual achievements will attend this summary success. Y.R.Z.

BURR OAK.

Quite a number of our neighbors are on the sick list.

Mr. Lewis Overmyer has taken upon himself the responsibilities of married life. Last Thursday he disappeared quite suddenly and when he returned he had a young lady whom he called his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Vough of North Monchester paid Mr. Joe Chaplin a visit Sunday, and Monday went to his farm near Ober.

Mr. Dougherty of Monterey stopped in town awhile Monday taking the train east in the evening.

Michael Fitters is again able to be out.

Mrs. Thos. Mangon and son returned home to Ft. Wayne Monday.

The following persons attended the street fair at Knox Saturday: Mr. and Mrs., Jacob and Elanch Vanderwee, Amos Friend, Mrs. Thos. Garver, John Burns, J. F. Garo and wife, Frank Tripplette, Otto Marsh and wife, A. J. Keyser, and others.

J. J. Cromley is quite busy repairing the school-house for the beginning of school next Monday.

J. F. Garn shipped a mixed car of stock Monday.

Mr. Joe Garn and friend, Mr. Holan of Plymouth were visitors in town Sunday.

NOTICE.—I ship work for the Eagle Steam Laundry, of Rochester, on Tuesday night. Those wishing to send, please leave bundles at Con Bonaker's barber shop, and he will give them his prompt attention.

TALK ON THE TRUSTS.

THE CONFERENCE ON COMBINES OPENS IN CHICAGO.

Assembly Notable for the Diversity of Ideas and Interests Represented—The Transport Tartar Is Permitted to Clear from Hong Kong.

When Franklin H. Head, president of the Civic Federation of Chicago, called to order the national conference on trusts and combinations Wednesday morning not all the seats in Central Music Hall were taken. Many delegates had not arrived in Chicago. Much time was taken up in perfecting an organization after the introductory addresses by President Head of the Civic Federation, Dr. Howard S. Taylor, representing Chicago, and Attorney General Akin, representing Illinois.

Thirty-five States were represented, the calling of names occupying one hour's time. It was afternoon before any move was made toward preparing a program or permanent organization. As soon as President Head announced that the meeting was now in the hands of the convention it became apparent there was to be a clash in the selection of a committee on program. First came a motion, which was lost, that a delegate from each State be appointed to form the committee on program.

It was unanimously decided that the committee on program be comprised of one delegate from each State appointed by the Governors and from each organization represented, said committee to be selected by delegates in private conference at the midday adjournment of the convention. This matter being settled, President Head announced that the Civic Federation had already prepared the morning program in two papers, short ones, to be read by Prof. Jeremiah W. Jenks and Prof. Henry Carter Adams on "Problems Before the Conference," and requested the indulgence of the conference to hear them before the morning adjournment.

Attendance at Thursday's session was much larger than Wednesday. Many

THE MAN of the HOUR

KRUGER IN FULL REGALIA.

Paul Kruger, President of the South African Republic, is the man of the hour. Oom Paul, as everybody calls him, is a unique figure in history. Bismarck called him the greatest natural diplomat he had ever met. Although a dictator he lives in democratic simplicity in his own house in Pretoria. He rises at break of day, and after his cup of coffee and daily Bible reading, steps out upon the porch to greet his regular morning audience, which begins to accumulate before sun up. He goes to the Government buildings at 9, attended by a bodyguard of six armed policemen. Returning at 4, he sits on the veranda, smoking his old wooden pipe. His only beverage is coffee, and of this he drinks a great deal. "When I am thirsty I drink coffee and smoke; when I am thinking I smoke and drink coffee," he says. His religious creed is austere,

TO FIGHT THE TRUSTS

CONFERENCE RESULTS IN FORMING NATIONAL BODY.

Call for a Convention Will Be Issued Shortly, Pending Organization All Over the Country—Closing of the Big Meeting in Chicago.

As the result of the trust conference in Chicago a new anti-trust organization, national in scope, has been formed. The object of the organization is the crystallization of the anti-trust spirit throughout the country, which the promoters assert has been greatly strengthened by the deliberations of the convention. The meeting was attended by many of the delegates to the conference who believe the time is ripe for the formation of a body whose strength shall eventually overthrow oppressive capitalistic combinations. With that object in view a huge anti-trust conference is to be called in the near future, the date and place of meeting to be arranged by an executive committee which has the matter in charge.

Fifteen addresses were listened to by the delegates to the conference on the second day of its session. Many additional delegates were present at the conference, whole delegations having come from some States, and an increasing interest in the problems and the means of utilizing the suggestions made about them for the public good was manifested. After deciding in the morning to have a special committee to receive and consider resolutions concerning trusts, effects of the tariff in causing the growth of trusts were considered. In the afternoon the conference listened to several accounts of the industrial situation from the farmers' point of view, and also to an anarchist's solution of the trusts problem. The evening meeting was the liveliest and most exciting yet held. Enemies and advocates of trusts followed each other in quick succession, making all of them strong assertions of their confidence in their positions. The day had many humorous moments, both during the debates and while the papers were being read, and the attendance on the part of the Chicago public was larger at each successive session.

Bourke Cockran was the speaker at the third day's session, whose address was most eagerly listened to. What he would say for himself, and what for the New York delegation, of which he is perhaps the most prominent member, had been speculated upon since the opening of the convention. The evening program was changed by the omission of Mr. Bryan's address, and a great audience which had gathered in part to hear that leader was disappointed by being informed that the Democratic leader was to talk Saturday morning. The session of the conference Friday morning was devoted in the main to the addresses of labor advocates.

William J. Bryan spoke at the trust conference for nearly two hours in the morning session Saturday, and the galleries, packed an hour before he spoke, and attentive and enthusiastic while he talked, emptied themselves when the Nebraskan had taken his seat again among the delegates. The audience was with Mr. Bryan before he rose. The galleries went wild over his periods and shouted and stamped and applauded all his striking sentiments. At the conclusion of the address Mr. Bryan grasped an outstretched hand here and there and made his way to a seat, only to arise twice in acknowledgment of the prolonged cheering.

As Bryan had been the striking feature of the morning session, there was another and similar scene in the afternoon and final session, when he and Bourke Cockran were plunged into a debate on the platform, where the evening before Mr. Bryan had explained that it was agreed to be not in keeping with the character of the conference for them to debate. Nevertheless that was what happened after the general discussion of the final afternoon had gotten into full swing. There was no interruption for Mr. Bryan save that which came from applause and brief and indistinct interpolations. But with Mr. Cockran it was different from beginning to end. Thomas J. Morgan and others wanted to start a mixed debate and partially succeeded. Finally the New York man was led into a continuous closing argument with a peroration that took the auditors fairly off their feet.

USED DEATH AS A REMEDY.

Physician Declares He Has Killed Suffering Patients.

Dr. Nehemiah Nickerson of Meridian, Conn., has created a sensation by declaring that he had put an end to the suffering of patients who were ill beyond hope of recovery by administering chloroform, thereby causing a peaceful and more speedy death.

"There is no reason," Dr. Nickerson said, "why the sufferer should not be given chloroform if he requests such action and be assisted to pass out. I have administered chloroform under such conditions, and have always thought that I was doing a humane act. Why a person should be obliged to suffer by the aid of medical skill is more than I can see. According to my mind a person has a perfect right to say what shall be done with his life. He may live or die. Suicide is justifiable in many cases, provided the suicide has no obligations. I do not believe a doctor should hasten a patient's death without full consent of all near relatives and the patient himself."

This declaration was brought out by the address of Judge Simeon E. Baldwin of New Haven before the American Social Science Association, of which he is president, at Saratoga, N. Y., on Sept. 4, in which he said that in the case of a patient suffering from a fatal malady he believed the prolongation of the sufferer's life was a misapplication of the healing art, especially when the patient would prefer a speedy death through an anaesthetic.

HARVEST IN THE WHEAT BELT.

Busy and Interesting Days in the Great Northwest.

The hum of the threshing machine will be heard for the next ninety days from the east line of Minnesota to the farther boundaries of the Dakotas. The land is dotted with grain stacks, usually in groups of four, though occasionally a farmer, who makes a herd or a flock the prominent feature of his husbandry, will have his entire crop stacked in a semi-circle round the north and west sides of his corral. At intervals slender columns of smoke tell of a "steamer" at work from dawn till dark. A stranger in the country seeing the steamer moving from one job to another might easily mistake the outfit for an innovation in railroad engineering. First comes the traction engine, not unlike a locomotive engine, although smaller and painted in brighter colors. Immediately behind the engine is the tender wagon fitted with a rack for hauling straw. Nearly every engine in the Northwest nowadays is a straw burner. Then comes the separator, a monster machine with 36 to 48-inch cylinder, and often a 60-inch separator. Behind the separator comes the tank, resembling very closely a Standard oil distributing wagon, which hauls water for the engine from the nearest windmill pump. Then the "trap wagon," carrying the loose paraphernalia of the outfit, and the clothes and bedding of the men. If the threshers board with the owner of the grain this constitutes the train, but if, as is generally the case, the owner of the machine boards his crew, the "grub shanty," an ordinary house wagon, brings up the rear, making a train from 100 to 150 feet long.

The modern separator comes pretty near being the "whole thing." Instead of the threshing crew of our boyhood days—drivers, feeders, oilers, bandcutters, four to six pitchers, measurers and half a dozen straw stackers—the crew consists of a manager, usually the owner of the machine; engineer, oiler, waterman, six pitchers and a cook.

Points Made by Trust Conference Speakers.

WM. J. BRYAN—I want to start with the declaration that monopoly in private hands is indefensible from any standpoint and intolerable. * * * The entire defense of the trusts rests upon a wrong argument. * * * But I protest in the beginning against settling every question upon the money argument. I protest against the attempt to drag down the question down to the low level of dollars and cents. * * * Money was made to be the servant of man, and I protest against all theories that enthroned money and debase mankind. * * * The first advantage of a monopoly is to lower the price of the raw material furnished by the people to that competition. * * * When there is competition every employer has to get a good man to meet competition. * * * I believe we ought to have remedies in both State and nation, and that they should be concurrent remedies. * * * What is the first thing to be expected of a trust? That it will cut down expenses. What is the second? That it will raise prices. * * * When you prosecute a trust in the United States Court it hides behind State's sovereignty, and when you prosecute it in the State court it rushes to cover under Federal jurisdiction. * * * Congress should pass a law providing that no corporation organized in any State should do business outside of the State in which it is organized until it receives from some power created by Congress a license authorizing it to do business outside of its own State. * * * If it is unconstitutional and so declared by the Supreme Court, I am in favor of a question to the Constitution that will give to Congress power to destroy every trust in the country.

W. BOURKE COCKRAN—The remedy, then, is simply to define a practical penalty, a serious one, and then provide for publicity, and if you provide the proper statute of publicity you need not enforce the penalty. * * * Our patience, our vanities, our hopes, our ambitions are but the delusions which bind us to the cause of human progress, making each one of us discharge some tribute which he owes to all humanity. * * * Any industrial process which operates to be monopolized; anything that operates to restrict it should be suppressed. * * * I believe a close study and careful examination will satisfy everybody of this fact, that the great strikes of this country have arisen from the refusal of the employers to discuss very. * * * Increase of wealth of the country is greatly to be considered, but if the people are to be degraded to industrial slaves wealth under such conditions is a curse. * * * I favor complete and prompt annihilation of the trust—with due regard for property rights, of course. I care more for the independence and manliness of the American citizen than for all the gold and silver in the world. It is better to cherish the happiness of the American home than to control the commerce of the globe. * * * The degrading process of the trust means much to the future of a republic founded upon democratic principles. A democratic republic cannot survive the disappearance of a democratic population.

GEN. G. R. GAITHER—The control, regulation and direction of all trusts, whose business is carried on in more than one State, should be placed under the necessary jurisdiction of similar jurisdiction over such combinations operating in a single State should be reposed in the respective State Legislatures.

JEFFERSON DAVIS—We have got to reconstruct our industry. I am here to say that if we have another civil war—and God grant we may not—it will be brought about, in my judgment, by judge-made law.

SHAW WAS A BOY SOLDIER.

Enlisted at the Age of 18 and Was in Many Great Battles.

Col. Albert D. Shaw, the new commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, lives at Watertown, N. Y., and was among the first to enlist in the old "fighting" Thirty-fifth regiment of that city. He was 18 years old at the time, a farmer's son, and had never seen a soldier in uniform before. He fought at Arlington Heights, Sulphur Springs, Second Bull

CONDITION OF CROPS.

Corn Promises Heavy Yield—Government Report for September.

The September report of the statistician of the Department of Agriculture shows the following averages of condition on Sept. 1:

Corn	85.2
Wheat	70.9
Oats	87.2
Rye	82.0
Buckwheat	75.2
Potatoes	86.3
Barley	86.7

There was a decline in the average condition of corn during August amounting to 4.7 points, but the condition on Sept. 1 was still 1.1 points higher than on Sept. 1, 1898, 5.9 points higher than at the corresponding date in 1897, and 2.9 points above the mean of the September averages for the last ten years. There was a decline during August of 3 points in Ohio and Missouri, 2 in Illinois, 9 in Kansas and 14 in Nebraska, and the averages in the Southern States are nearly all somewhat lower than on Aug. 1. On the other hand, there was a slight appreciable gain, represented by about 1 point, in Kentucky, Indiana and Iowa. The condition of winter and spring wheat consolidated is 70.9, as compared with 86.7 on Sept. 1, 1898, 85.7 at the corresponding date in 1897, and 82.5, the mean of the September averages for the last ten years.

DEATH OF A VANDERBILT.

Head of the Family, Cornelius, Passed Away Suddenly.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, multi-millionaire, the head of the Vanderbilt family, died Tuesday morning at his home in New York. Vanderbilt had been ill for many months.

Mr. Vanderbilt was suddenly taken worse at midnight Monday night, three hours after he had returned from Newport. Physicians were hastily summoned, but the patient grew gradually worse, despite their efforts. The end came shortly before 6 o'clock in the morning.

The only members of the family present were Mrs. Vanderbilt, Reginald, Mr. Vanderbilt's youngest son, and Gladys, the youngest daughter. Alfred, the favorite son, recently left for a tour of the world. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., the eldest son, whose marriage to Miss Jennie Wilson two years ago displeased his father, was not at the dying man's bedside.

Cornelius Vanderbilt was the eldest son of the late William H. Vanderbilt and grandson of Cornelius (Commodore) Vanderbilt. He was born on his father's farm, Staten Island, N. Y., Nov. 27, 1843.

THE AWAKENING OF JUSTICE IN FRANCE.

Chicago Tribune.

prominent delegates arrived during the night and were given seats at the opening of the morning session.

The great national conference on combinations and trusts has met with the most sanguine expectations of the promoters, the officers of the Civic Federation of Chicago. Although many leading lights, who were expected to attend, failed to put in an appearance, the distinguished gathering at Central Music Hall fully justified the great purpose for which it was intended. This great meeting, attended by this country's most distinguished statesmen, orators and deep thinkers, will be handed down in history as one of the most notable gatherings in the nineteenth century.

PHILADELPHIA SHOW OPEN.

National Exposition Put in Operation by President McKinley.

Thursday morning at 8 o'clock President McKinley, by pressing an electric button in the White House, put in motion the machinery at the national exposition in Philadelphia. This act opened the exposition to the public. Although handicapped in point of time, marvels have been accomplished, and when the gates were thrown open the exposition was in as good shape to receive visitors as any big show that has been held in this country during recent years.

PRESIDENT SAVES SOLDIER.

Private in Philippines Will Not Be Shot for Striking Officer.

The President has saved a soldier from an ignominious death. Private Thomas McVeigh, Company G, First Wyoming volunteer infantry, was found guilty of striking his superior officer by a general court martial convened at Imus, Philippine Islands, and was sentenced to be shot to death. By direction of the President, the sentence is commuted to dishonorable discharge and confinement at hard labor for the period of three years at Alcatraz Island, Cal.

but simple. Whatever God sends is right and must be endured without a murmur. Many stories are told of his physical strength. In young manhood he saved his sister's life by strangling a panther, and held a mad buffalo's head under water until the animal drowned. He twice amputated his own finger after having met with an accident.

TARTAR IS RELEASED.

Transport Allowed to Clear by the British Authorities.

Clearance papers have been allowed the Tartar at Hong Kong. It is supposed clearance was allowed upon the suggestion of the British foreign office to the British governor at Hong Kong that it would be unwise to interfere with American transports.

The War Department was officially notified Wednesday morning of the detention at Hong Kong by the British authorities of the transport Tartar, which they claimed to be overcrowded with men. Gen. Otis cabled the facts. The captain of the vessel also cabled from Hong Kong.

The Tartar is a British vessel and shows the British ensign over her stern to indicate her nationality, although the United States army transport flag flies at her masthead. Her regular service was between Victoria and Hong Kong. It is declared that her charter by the United States Government divested her of her mercantile character and made her, for the time being, a regular American war vessel, and as such, under the Geneva convention, entitled to full extra territoriality throughout the world.

Officials in Washington deny that Great Britain has any jurisdiction over the transport Tartar, and Ambassador Choate was cabled to make strong representations to the British Government on the subject. Overcrowding is also denied, it being pointed out that remodeling the ship increased her passenger accommodations by 50 per cent.

FUN FOR THE BIRD.

How a Raven Tormented and Punished a Greedy Pig Dog.

The greediest and most conceited pig that ever lived, according to his owner, was Suto. The sight of anything eating (except himself) was agony to him. A large raven was kept in a cage in the garden of Suto's owner—a raven gifted with sardonic cunning and love of mischief. The pig was the butt of his malicious humor.

Daily at 3 o'clock the raven was given a lump of steak and Suto would always be hovering about at the time—he hovered near everything eatable. The raven knew his shameful greediness and made fine sport of it. At first Suto, though in torments of gluttony, would feign indifference. The raven would put the stake close against the wires, and Suto's agony would get past bearing. Then the raven retired with a chuckle. At this all Suto's self-control was gone, and he plunged at the wires in a mad attempt to snatch the meat.

Of course the thing was hopeless; his blunt nose could never penetrate the wire netting. But the raven's beak could. Instantly the bird would swoop on him and drive in one of that greedy pig's nose. With that Suto would hurl himself furiously at the raven—hopelessly over, for he could never touch the tormentor. The tormentor, in fact, danced and jumped in an ecstasy of delight, driving in dig after dig at the dog's unhappy countenance and getting well home at every dig. till at last poor Suto retired, pecked and beaten. Then the raven, happy and content, his appetite well satisfied, swallowed his steak at one gulp, while Suto hid behind a tree or anything else opaque, that he might not have the pain of witnessing the operation. Day after day the performance was repeated in every part of the garden. It was a show, what and the show was always a show. It would happen every time, but his master's passion of gluttony was too strong for him—he could not keep his nose away from that meat.—Chicago News.

CURED BY LEOPARDS.

The Dying Man Suddenly Recovered His Health and Speed.

In "Lumsden of the Guides" there is an interesting story, says the London Chronicle, of the rescue by Lieutenant Peyton of her majesty's Eighty-seventh of a young Pathan who had fallen into the Kabul river. The lad's father, in his gratitude, came down from his home in Independent Territory, and as a thank offering presented Peyton with two young leopard cubs. Peyton, being an executive engineer and constantly on the move, could make no home for them and gave them to Lumsden, who himself told me what follows, and it seems to me worth preserving, as leopards seldom have an opportunity of assisting in a criminal investigation. The animals were too young to be dangerous and were allowed their liberty.

One day Lumsden was holding his court in Yusufai, when in the middle of a case there was an uproar, and the two sides in an angry case poured into the court, and, as always happens, each side accused the other of being entirely in fault. One party, to improve its case, brought a dying man on a native bed. A blood stained sheet was removed, showing a much belabored man, who appeared to be at the last gasp. Lumsden had the bed put down in court and went on with the interrupted case. Just then the young leopards sauntered in, probably attracted by the scent of blood, and, moving gently around the court, approached the bed and began sniffing at the wounded man, who, miraculously recovered, jumped from the bed and fled rapidly.

Enology Upon the Life of Ingersoll.
One week ago last Sunday evening, the editor of the HERALD attended services at the Unitarian church, Hobart, Indiana, and heard a man who poses as a minister, and whose surname is Elliott, of Chicago, lecture upon Ingersoll. He opened the services by reading a short eulogy which the noted infidel uttered over the remains of a departed friend, followed by a prayer in which said Elliott called upon the God of nature to bless his hearers. This was followed by an enology upon the life and character of Robert, whom the lecturer designated as the greatest and grandest of men, and whose teachings will be the paramount factor to mould the principles of men, long after the orthodox Bible had been laid upon the shelf, and stated that Christian science must eventually take the place of present doctrines and beliefs. Under this doctrine all men can be carried to—(?) on flowery beds of ease. At the close of his lecture he said that he took great pride in the knowledge that the Unitarian church was in closer touch with Ingersoll than any other organization, hence, had es- caped in a great measure the vials of his wrath as they were being poured upon other churches, because the mythical Christ and the God of the bible are a nonentity in this church.

Yet, in spite of all this, the editor saw a beautiful picture of Christ hanging upon the wall—the Savior supporting a little child in His arms. How inconsistent. If Christ is only a "myth" as the lecturer said, why disgrace this Bob Ingersoll sanctu- ary with this grand painting of the Redeemer? Why not turn His face to the wall or remove it entirely. This church is the "swell" church of Hobart, and as it is only a social organization, the yoke is easy and no questions are asked.

At this season, your system needs renovating. The internal organs are inactive. The waste matter is not eliminated but absorbed, thus contam- inating the blood and debilitating the entire system. The nerve force is not replenished, consequently you are tired and have no energy. These symp- toms are present in the Spring and after an epidemic of La-Grippe. To re- novate the system and remove all bad effects of La-Grippe or Spring lassitude use Dr. Kay's Renovator. It certainly has no equal. Send for proof of it. It is a perfect renovator and regulator of all internal organs, curing the very worst cases of stomach troubles, constipation and obscure liver and kidney complaints. Try it and you will wonder at its marvellous effects. Write us describing your case carefully and we will give you valuable advice free and send you a 116 page illustrated book of receipts etc. If druggists do not have it don't take any substi- tute they say is "just as good" for it has no equal. It can be had by return mail from us. Price 25 cts. and $1. Dr. B. J. Kay Medical Co., Saratoga Springs, N. Y. and Omaha, Neb.

Hon. Geo. P. Bemis, the most popular man ever elected as mayor of the city of Omaha, Neb. He is also one of the oldest and best known real estate dealers and negotiators of loans in the west. His business is very extensive. He is not only one of the best judges of real estate but he knows a good thing when he sees it, whatever it may be. So we call attention to the following statement made by him and several other men who are not only popular in Omaha but are known from ocean to ocean. They are Hon. A. U. Wyman, Ex-Treasurer of the United States and now President of the Omaha Loan and Trust Co., one of the largest and most prominent nego- tiators of Western farm and city loans. Hon. W. J. Connell, Ex-Congress- man and now Omaha's City Attorney. Hon. W. A. Paxton, Pres., Union Stock Yards. Hon. T. S. Clarkson, Ex-Commander in Chief G. A. R. Hon. C. J. Smyth, Attorney General of Nebraska. Hon. A. S. Churchill, Ex-At- torney General of Nebraska, and many others as well known, each of whom has personally signed the following statement.

"TO WHOM THIS COMES, GREETING: We take pleasure in com- mending the virtues of the remedies prepared by the Dr. B. J. Kay Medical Co. Having known of some remarkable cures of Omaha people effected by the use of Dr. Kay's Renovator and Dr. Kay's Lung Balm, we believe that these great remedies are worthy of the confidence of the public.

RECOMPENSE.

What is the price, the price of war,
That men give life's brave service for?
Fierce slaughter on the battle-field,
The dread Death Angel's sword revealed;
An army's rude and riotous haste;
The city and the farm laid waste;
Then, when the victor bids the battles cease,
Behold, the wide world's larger liberty and peace.

What are the hopes, the hopes of war,
That men despoil their foemen for?
To make a master's proud demands;
To win fair cities and broad lands;
At least, for country's sake, to spend
One's life, and gain a glorious end.
But, best of all, when storms and battles cease,
To win the wide world's larger liberty and peace.

What is the end, the end of war,
That men have ever battled for?
Slaves, who were lords and kings of yore;
The exultation and delight
When nations crown their men of might.
But, at the last, when moil and battles cease,
Behold, the wide world's larger liberty and peace.
-New York Independent.

THE WOLF SLAYER.

By Mark Eastwood.

The prince threw the reins to his servant and sprang from the sledge.
"Where is he?" demanded he.
The muzhik in the doorway of the hut stood bowing to the ground.
It is the old man, Ivan Ivanovitch, the high noble would honor with his commands? he began.
"Both Ivan Ivanovitch!" interrupted the prince impatiently.
"Another pause, and at length, in a shy, hesitating voice, Ivanka began:
"Mother had gone to the town in the sledge, and father lay asleep on the top of the stove. It was afternoon, I was minding Minka, and we played at having a shop with bits of pot from the mug Minka broke.
As Ivanka uttered the last word his breath came fast.
"I sprang forward," he continued, "and saw Minka. She was on the ground just outside the door, and over her hung a monster grim and terrible.
The prince took the knife in his hand. Such a thing it was! You can buy the like for 20 kopecks (about 12 cents) at any Russian fair--one of the sort used by the Russian peasants to cut forage, having a crooked blade and horn handle.
At this juncture a pair of excited black eyes surmounted by a huge baranka peer round the corner of the hut and as quickly vanished.
Presently the prince looked up. "But the boy!" he cried. "Let us see this wonderful child and hear the story from his own lips."
The peasant looked sharply round. "He was here even when the high noble drew up. There are the hatchet and the wood he was chopping. Ivanka, Ivanka! He has hidden himself, the rascal."
Ivanka! Ivanka!" almost shrieked the peasant. "I will teach you to run and hide when the high noble come from far and near to see you. By all the saints, if you do not instantly come forth from your hiding hole and relate the whole occurrence to the noble prince, I will break every bone in your body."

"What is this I hear of you, Ivanka?" he began.
Ivanka would have hung his head but that his collar prevented it; so he dropped his eyes in guilty silence.
"Come here!" commanded the prince, his mustache lip twisting with a whimsical smile.
The coat moved to the prince's feet. Then the small boy inside it felt himself caught up in strong arms and borne into the hut.
Now, though it was a ruddy winter sunset outside, in the hut it was quite gloomy. The window was very small. A dull yellow glow, like a big bullseye, came from the open door of the stove and a glimmer like a glowworm from the tiny lamp that burned before the holy image.
"Ten years, noble prince," faltered the boy; but, his eyes meeting those of the prince at that moment, he ceased to tremble, and the longer he looked the more comfortable he felt.
"Speak, Ivanka, do," came a woman's coaxing voice from the gloom.
"Tell his high nobility how it happened."
Another pause, and at length, in a shy, hesitating voice, Ivanka began:
"Mother had gone to the town in the sledge, and father lay asleep on the top of the stove. It was afternoon, I was minding Minka, and we played at having a shop with bits of pot from the mug Minka broke.
As Ivanka uttered the last word his breath came fast.
"I sprang forward," he continued, "and saw Minka. She was on the ground just outside the door, and over her hung a monster grim and terrible.
His wicked eyes gleamed red, and his cruel teeth were long and sharp. I saw them as he lifted his bristling lip to seize her in his jaws!
A dry sob arose in Ivanka's throat and made him pause. He coughed it impatiently away.
It seemed to me then--just for a moment of horror--as though my limbs were bound and I could not move, until the besat began to drag Minka away. At the sight strength came to me, and, with a yell, I threw myself upon him.
"Ah, then he dropped Minka, and over and over we rolled in the snow, he snarling and worrying my sheepskin.
"Ah, then he dropped Minka, and over and over we rolled in the snow, he snarling and worrying my sheepskin.
"Ah, then he dropped Minka, and over and over we rolled in the snow, he snarling and worrying my sheepskin."

stifled sob was heard from the interior of the room. The prince had covered his eyes with his hand as though dazzled, yet the sun had gone down and the place was more gloomy than ever.
The peasant stepped forward out of the shadows and stood before the prince in the dim light of the window. He took up the tale.
"Ah, then he dropped Minka, and over and over we rolled in the snow, he snarling and worrying my sheepskin.
"Ah, then he dropped Minka, and over and over we rolled in the snow, he snarling and worrying my sheepskin.
"Ah, then he dropped Minka, and over and over we rolled in the snow, he snarling and worrying my sheepskin."

RECORD OF THE WEEK

INDIANA INCIDENTS TERSELY TOLD.

Murder Is Seen in a Dream--Poison Scattered in an Ice Box--Oil Activity Around La Porte--English Electric Light Concern Assigns.

A mysterious affair occurred at Muncie the other day. With his face literally beaten into pieces, Elmer Hamilton, aged 23, married, was found near the center of the city at exactly 5 o'clock in the morning by workmen.
"Ah, then he dropped Minka, and over and over we rolled in the snow, he snarling and worrying my sheepskin."

Attempt to Poison a Family. A most sensational attempt was made at Anderson by arsenical poisoning to exterminate the Henry Bronnenberg family.
"Ah, then he dropped Minka, and over and over we rolled in the snow, he snarling and worrying my sheepskin."

New Oil Wells in Indiana. Excitement prevails in the oil regions near San Pierre over the striking of several big "gushers."
"Ah, then he dropped Minka, and over and over we rolled in the snow, he snarling and worrying my sheepskin."

Electric Light Concern Assigns. The English Electric Light and Manufacturing Company, operating electric light and spoke factories and doing the largest retail business in southern Indiana in fertilizing and agricultural implements, assigned at English.
"Ah, then he dropped Minka, and over and over we rolled in the snow, he snarling and worrying my sheepskin."

Within Our Borders. Anderson will have a new fair ground. Evansville will have a new stock yards.
"Ah, then he dropped Minka, and over and over we rolled in the snow, he snarling and worrying my sheepskin."

Charles Wills, Chesterton, is dead from morphine poisoning. He did it on purpose.

Manager Pittman of the Colonade Hotel, Maxinkuckee, is missing, and the hotel has shut up.

Two children of John Taylor, English, poisoned by eating pickles kept in a tin cup, have become paralyzed.

Lightning struck a barn on the Trotting Association's race track at Terre Haute and killed five horses.

A South Bend dentist who had his carpet cleaned says that $17 worth of gold dust was beaten out of it.

Everett Mod, Muncie, was found in the Big Four yards at Anderson with his skull crushed. He fell from a train.

Charles Smith started home from Salem and in the evening was found lying in the road with his back broken. Mystery.

Clinton Snyder, Pike County, has sued James S. McCoy for $10,000 damages, alleging that McCoy kidnaped his daughter.

The Columbia Milling Company's plant burned at Oakland City, together with 6,000 bushels of wheat. The loss is $18,000.

Laporte Christian scientists will resist the vaccination order for school children recently issued by the State Board of Health.

Harry D. Smith, Hoopston, Ill., and Miss Eva Armstrong, Lima, Ohio, met at Muncie and after four days' wooing, were spliced.

At Ora, lightning killed three horses belonging to Ferdinand Ludwick and knocked his son Henry senseless. Several other horses were injured.

Richard Pendleton, colored, Washington, and two friends, all race horse drivers, were attacked by a Huntington mob and Pendleton was shot in the back.

The Vandavia Railroad will spend $60,000 for improvements at South Bend.

Judge Wilson, Elkhart, in granting a divorce to Mrs. Noah Whitehead, disposed of the three children by letting the father and mother have them thirty days, alternately.

The tin plate strike at Elwood has been practically settled, the men returning to work pending adjustment. W. H. Evans, whose discharge caused the strike, was not reinstated.

Fireman Jack Terrel, on the Panhandle, Logansport, became crazed from overheating and kept giving the engineer wrong signals. He was put in the baggage car, where three men held him.

Two women of Nappanee clambered on top of their house and put out a fire. After the fire was out, they were overcome with the nervous strain, and had to sit on the roof until the men folks returned.

Jim Brown, colored, Rockport, was bitten on the hand by a copperhead while "suckering" his father's tobacco. With the aid of a spring chicken cut open and applied to the bite and a jug of whisky he recovered.

Senator Thomas E. Boyd, Noblesville, was held up the other night. While talking to the robbers he put his hand on his revolver pocket for a bluff. The highwaymen stepped back and the Senator scooted for home.

Indianapolis boasts of the finest climate in the United States in respect to political salubrity. A few years in its atmosphere will convert a farmer boy into a President or Vice-President, while its output of ambassadors, consuls general, and the like is merely regarded as an incident to the more important work in hand of turning out national presidential officers.
At present Indianapolis hold many important European consular posts. One is minister to Austria. Just now the postmasters at Havana, Ponce and San Juan, the three important cities of our new acquisitions, are all from Indianapolis.
But the city has a more unique record than this. It has had representation on national tickets for the longest unbroken period of any city in the country. In a period of twenty years, beginning with 1872, there was not a national election when the city was without representation on one of the tickets. If Schuyler Colfax, whose home was at South Bend, but who spent much of his time in Indianapolis, is considered an Indianapolisite, this period is extended another four years; and on top of this, an Indianapolisian was a national candidate for Vice-President in the days before the war. The unbroken stretch of twenty years, when bona fide residents of the city were on national tickets, is as follows: In 1872 five electoral votes were cast for George W. Julian for Vice-President and forty-two votes for Thomas A. Hendricks for President; 1876, Hendricks was the Democratic nominee for Vice-President; 1880, William H. English was the Democratic nominee for Vice-President; 1884, Hendricks was the successful candidate for Vice-President; 1888, Benjamin Harrison was the successful nominee for President; 1892, Harrison was the defeated Republican nominee for President. In 1868 Colfax was elected Vice-President. In 1852 Julian was the nominee for Vice-President on the Free Soil Democratic ticket.

The commission in charge of the traveling library system, established by the last Legislature, has its machinery now in complete working order, and shipped its first three libraries the other day. Many inquiries as to the workings of the library and applications for books have been received. To every applicant is sent a pamphlet containing the library law in full and the rules governing the issue of books.
These rules include the furnishing of a bond by the organization taking the books, with two free-hold sureties, for the proper use and care of the property. The regulations are very simple and only such as are necessary in successfully operating an institution of this kind.
The club or association having furnished bond and notified the commission in care of the State Library of the list of books selected, it will be shipped to the librarian or other person designated in such club, who shall control and circulate the books among the members.
Any traveling library must be returned within three months from the date of its loan unless special permission is secured for its longer retention. When returned another will be sent in its place, and these exchanges may continue as long as the rules of the public library commission are observed.
At present there are thirty-four of these libraries, but more will be added as the demand increases and new books are purchased. Owing to the number of miscellaneous volumes on hand and turned over to the commission by the State Library the first twenty libraries are arranged for all classes of readers. They consist of forty volumes each and contain ten works of fiction, ten juveniles, six historical works, three biographies, two books on economics and civil government, two on science and nature, one book of humor, one agricultural work, one moral and religious work, two volumes of essays, two of poetry and drama.

Notice of the locations selected for Indiana's statues in Statuary Hall, in the Capitol at Washington has been received by Senator Fairbanks from the custodian of the Capitol. The former House of Representatives is now used as Statuary Hall, and the allotments made to Indiana are on either side of the door leading to the document room, or the third and fourth fourth places on the right, entering the hall from the rotunda.
The locations are prominent and among the most desirable. The statue of Morton is ready to be placed in position, and it is probable that the other statue will be that of a Democrat, as it is the policy of the Government to have one representative from each party.

Indiana and Texas will soon be the principals in an event showing what progress the friendly feeling between the North and South has made. This event is the return to Terry's Texas Rangers of the battle flag which was taken from them during the civil war. At the last session of the Indiana Legislature the request for the return of the flag was made by Texas, and it was complied with. The day of the return of the flag, which will be Friday, Oct. 6, is to be celebrated in Texas. Pictures of the flag have been sent there, and badges are now being made in large numbers.
It has been decided to present two large silken banners to the Governors of Texas and Indiana

Quartermaster General Richardson has received a telegram from the chief of ordnance notifying him of the shipment of the four 3-inch rifles allotted to Indiana from the Watervliet arsenal, New York. These are the guns which will be used by the batteries of the National Guard and two of them are the guns used by Battery A in Porto Rico. It has not yet been decided how to divide the guns among the batteries organized, as there are three batteries and four guns.

Daniel Frohman's Start.
It was Edward Payson Weston, the pioneer long-distance pedestrian, who tempted Daniel Frohman, manager of the Lyceum Theater of New York, from journalism into the theatrical business. It happened this way: Mr. Weston had returned to New York after his successful walk through the West, and in 1871 he gave an exhibition against time in the old American Institute Building. This was the beginning of our present six-day walking matches. He hired Franklin Fyles, who was then a Sun reporter, and Daniel Frohman to manage the novel affair. The receipts from this undertaking were more than $10,000, and this success started Mr. Frohman in theatricals. Mr. Frohman has amassed a fortune since then. Mr. Fyles is a leading dramatic critic and playwright, and Mr. Weston, as young as either of his old-time friends, is an advertising agent.—Philadelphia Post.

Chicago Great Western Increase.
The earnings of the Chicago Great Western Railway, "Maple Leaf Route," for the first week in September, 1899, show an increase of $28,969.28. Total increase since beginning of fiscal year (July 1) to date, $179,050.82.

A Swimming Grindstone.
Some of the fishermen on the River Tyne, in England, are not only ignorant, but stupid. On one occasion, two of these fishermen were caught by a heavy freshet, and driven out of the river to sea. As the story goes, one of the men saw, in the dusk, a hoop floating by. The hoop was full of foam. "We are saved!" exclaimed the man. "Here's a grindstone swimming."
He followed up his discovery by jumping on the "grindstone," but the result was not very satisfactory.

[LETTER TO MRS. PINKHAM NO. 93,284]
"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—For some time I have thought of writing to you to let you know of the great benefit I have received from the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Soon after the birth of my first child, I commenced to have spells with my spine. Every month I grew worse and at last became so bad that I found I was gradually losing my mind."
Mrs. Johnson Saved from Insanity by Mrs. Pinkham.
"The doctors treated me for female troubles, but I got no better. One doctor told me that I would be insane. I was advised by a friend to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, and before I had taken all of the first bottle my neighbors noticed the change in me. I have now taken five bottles and cannot find words sufficient to praise it. I advise every woman who is suffering from any female weakness to give it a fair trial. I thank you for your good medicine."—Mrs. GERTRUDE M. JOHNSON, JONESBORO, TEXAS.

Mrs. Perkins' Letter.
"I had female trouble of all kinds, had three doctors, but only grew worse. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills and used the Sanative Wash, and cannot praise your remedies enough."

LIVER ILLS.
DR. RADWAY & CO., New York.
Dear Sirs—I have been sick for nearly two years, and have been doctoring with some of the most expert doctors of the United States. I have been bathing in and drinking hot water at the Hot Springs, Arkansas, but it seemed everything failed to do me good. After I saw your advertisement I thought I would try your pills. Four advertisements I bought, and began taking two at bedtime and one after breakfast, and they have done me more good than anything else I have used. My trouble has been with the liver. My skin and eyes were all yellow; I had sleepy, drowsy feelings; felt like a drunken man; pain right above the navel, like as if it was who on top of the stomach. My bowels were very constipated. My mouth and tongue sore most of the time. Appetite fair, but food would not digest, but settle heavy on my stomach, and some few mouthfuls of food come up again. I could only eat light food that digested easily. Please send "Book of Advice." Respectfully,
BEN ZAUGG, Hot Springs, Ark.

JOHN C. HUBINGER.
Remarkable Career of a Well-Known Western Capitalist, Manufacturer and Philanthropist.

Among the leaders of the progressive element for which the middle west is famous, Mr. John C. Hubinger, of Keokuk, Ia., reigns without a peer. As a manufacturer, as an enterprising capitalist and as a philanthropist his fame has spread over many states, and his financial enterprises have developed many obscure towns into progressive, thrifty and wide-awake cities. Mr. Hubinger, although but 47 years of age, can look back upon scores of commercial victories, each one of which has benefited mankind, for his liberality is as bountiful as his business sagacity is marvelous. He was born in New Orleans, La., his parents being of French and German origin. When he was four years old, his family removed to Kentucky, in which state young Hubinger received a public school education. Almost before reaching man's estate he secured patents on a number of valuable mechanical inventions, thereby laying the foundation of his present fortune.

By inclination and force of circumstances his attention was early directed to the manufacture of starch by improved processes, and in the course of time he became the head of a concern having an annual business of millions of dollars. But genuine ambition never quite satisfied with existing conditions, works ever toward perfection, and after years of painstaking study and research Mr. Hubinger has made a discovery, which he considers the crowning event of his wonderful career, and which is embodied in a new article of commerce, known as Red Cross Starch (Red Cross trade mark.) He is planning to distribute millions of packages of this starch to the housewives of America; at a merely nominal price to the consumer, in order to make its merits known without delay. Thus, for but 5 cents two large 10c packages of Red Cross Starch may be had, together with two magnificent Shakespearean views printed in 12 beautiful colors, or a Twentieth Century Girl Calendar; or for only 20 cents 10 packages of the starch and the entire series of eight Shakespearean views and one Twentieth Century Girl Calendar—views alone easily worth $1.00. Watch this paper for future premium announcements, of which every lady will certainly want to take advantage.

While Mr. Hubinger will devote his best energies to the manufacture of this new and wonderful starch, he will not retire from the various financial enterprises in which he is interested—street railways, electric lighting plants and the Mississippi Valley Telephone Co., with 10,000 telephone subscribers in Minneapolis and St. Paul—nor will his augmented activity interfere with his social obligations and exercise of the splendid hospitality which he dispenses at his palatial Keokuk home. Mr. Hubinger's family, consisting of himself, wife and four children, is the pivot around which his activity revolves, and while fond of promoting great enterprises, he is still fonder of his home circle, where he spends every moment of time not taken up by business or public cares.

Love at First Sight.
Believers in the possibility of love at first sight may feel a sympathetic interest, and perhaps find a Darwinian argument, in a story of the first meeting of two apes in the London Zoo. We retell the tale from "Wild Animals in Captivity."
Sarah was seated alone in her cage, when a new ape made his appearance in front of the bars. Instantly both animals uttered short cries, and bending toward each other, protruded their thin lips until they met across the bars of the cage. Then, as the keeper threw open the cage door, the apes rushed into each other's arms and squatting on the floor, hugged each other with comic affection. In a few seconds they rose, and standing erect, raised their arms above their heads, grasped each other's front paws, and screamed and howled in mutual appreciation. Let us hope that they lived happy ever after.

NATION'S GREETING TO DEWEY.

Features of the Reception to the Manila Hero in Washington.
The central idea underlying the grand welcome to be given Admiral Dewey in Washington the first week in October is its national character. His arrival at the Capital will mark his real home-coming to the American people, where the officials of the Government will participate, and the magnificently jeweled sword voted by Congress will be presented. To that end all the arrangements will be of a simple but most dignified character. The welcome to the hero of Manila at the National Capital will probably occur on Monday, Oct. 2, although the date will depend upon the length of the celebration in New York, which is still unsettled. The principal features of the reception in Washington, as planned by the citizens, with the co-operation of the President and Cabinet, will be two in number—the presentation of the sword voted by Congress and a night parade. A public reception at the White House will be followed by dinner to the Admiral by President McKinley. The sword will be presented by Secretary Long, at the east front of the Capitol, in the presence of Mr. McKinley and all the members of the Cabinet, late in the afternoon, while the parade, consisting of organizations of all kinds, will be accompanied by an illumination of the city on a scale of beauty never before witnessed in Washington.

The different features of the preparations are in the hands of a central body of citizens and eleven committees, embracing in all over a thousand people. Preparations for the celebration have been in hand for over a month. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and other railroads entering Washington have agreed upon cheap rates for the celebration, and the committee expects that there will be an outpouring of patriotic citizens almost equal to the inauguration of a President.

Lines His Walls with Legs.

Chicago Veteran Turns Uncle Sam's Bounty to a Novel Use.
Henry Curtin, a veteran of the civil war living on the West Side, has a room in his residence that impresses all his visitors as a veritable chamber of horrors. This is because its most conspicuous decoration and ornament is a row of human legs suspended on the walls and entirely circling the room. Mr. Curtin always laughs at the fright of strangers at the first sight of this room, and then explains that the legs are only artificial ones, and there's nothing to be afraid of. Then he tells them how the legs came to be there.
"You see," says Mr. Curtin, "in '64 I was so foolish as to try and stop a cannon ball with my right leg. Of course, I wasn't one, two, three, and the next thing I knew I was in a camp hospital with only one leg left. That ended my soldiering. The Government had me measured for an artificial leg as soon as I was able to be about, and I came home to Chicago.
"Well, I discovered that I couldn't wear the kind of leg the Government gives, owing to some reasons connected with the way my leg was amputated, and the only leg I can wear is this wooden stump that straps to the thighs. It was in '65 when I got my first leg. In '66 an express package brought me another. I sat down and wrote the War Department that the legs were of no use to me, and therefore not to send them. They didn't take a bit of notice of my letter, and in '67 another leg came. I wrote again to Washington; told them I had three of their legs now that I couldn't use, and didn't want them to go on and bankrupt the Government buying me legs.
"They never noticed me. In '68 I got another leg. They began to get in the way around the house, so then I started the labeling and dating of each one, and hanging them up on the walls of my den. They came regularly—one each year. There's thirty-five there now, and I guess I'll last long enough to see fifty or more if Uncle Sam doesn't get tired sending them."

Dogs Growing Weaker.

Experts agree that the life of a dog is shortened by close breeding and exhibition, and that we are gradually raising dogs that will not be so long lived as the semi-wild mongrel types.

Still More Counterfeiting.

The Secret Service has just unearthed another band of counterfeiters and secured a quantity of bogus bills, which are very cleverly executed. Things of great value are always selected for imitation, notably Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which has many imitators but no equals for disorders like indigestion, dyspepsia and constipation.

Wheelmen Joke.

Wheelmen will enjoy a little incident told by "Teddy" Edwards, the noted century rider. He says that when he was riding in the suburbs of Utica, N. Y., he asked a wheelman which might be the best road to take from Utica to Syracuse. The big-limbed stranger eyed the famous century rider's slender shape a moment and said: "Take the New York Central."

Progress.

With time, comes progress and advancement in all lines of successfully conducted enterprises. Success comes to those only who have goods with superior merit and a reputation. In the manufacture of laundry starch for the last quarter of a century J. C. Hubinger has been the peer of all others and to-day is placing on the market the finest laundry starch ever offered the public under our new and original method.

Ask your grocer for a coupon book which will enable you to get the first two large 10-cent packages of his new starch, RED CROSS, TRADE MARK brand, also two of the children's Shakspeare pictures painted in twelve beautiful colors as natural as life, or the Twentieth Century Girl Calendar, all absolutely free.

All grocers are authorized to give ten large packages of RED CROSS STARCH, with twenty of the Shakspeare pictures or ten of the Twentieth Century Girl Calendars, to the first five purchasers of the Endless Starch Chain Book. This is one of the grandest offers ever made to introduce the RED CROSS laundry starch, J. C. Hubinger's latest invention.

MANY young women are completely prostrated for a week out of every month by menstrual sufferings. The terrors of menstruation overshadow their whole lives. How needless this is in most cases is shown by the thousands of grateful letters constantly coming to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., from women she has helped.

Miss JOIE SAUL, Dover, Mich., writes as follows to Mrs. Pinkham:
"I suffered untold agony every month and could get no relief until I tried your medicine; your letter of advice and a few bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound have made me the happiest woman alive. I shall bless you as long as I live."
Miss ROSA HELDEN, 126 W. Cleveland Ave., Canton, O., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—Four years ago I had almost given up hope of ever being well again. I was afflicted with those dreadful headache spells which would sometimes last three or four days. Also had backache, bearing-down pains, leucorrhoea, dizziness, and terrible pains at monthly periods confining me to my bed. After reading so many testimonials for your medicine, I concluded to try it. I began to pick up after taking the first bottle, and have continued to gain rapidly, and now feel like a different woman. I can recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in highest terms to all sick women."

Pain leaves its mark. Faces become pale and thin. Features grow sharp and haggard. The stamp of suffering is unmistakable. Write to Mrs. Pinkham for aid. Her experience is the widest in the world and her advice is free.

LOCAL NEWS.

The dog poisoner is getting in his work.

Culver schools commences next Monday.

Mrs. Geo. Voreis made South Bend a visit Tuesday.

We noticed Mr. Knight Culver on the streets of Culver the fore part of the week.

"Wid" Davis has accepted a position as cook at the Argos House, Argos Ind.

S. S. in the basement of the M. E. church next Sunday at 10 A. M. All are cordially invited to attend.

Keen Bros., have been able to secure one of the finest portrait lenses made, and are turning out some fine cabinet work.

If you live here, you know us. If you are a new comer, it will pay you to get acquainted with Castleman & Co.

Hon. S. P. Sheerin and family who have been occupants of their beautiful cottage here this summer, returned to Indianapolis Monday.

J. H. Speyer of New York City, is in Culver visiting relatives and friends and will remain a few days only. He has the management of one of the large department stores.

Rev. Snyder of Three Rivers, Mich. who delivered the sermon at the funeral of Albert Geiselman, reports E. M. George in quite poor health. He was on the Burr Oak circuit last year.

Preaching services will be held at Poplar Grove next Sunday morning and evening. One week from next Sunday the Methodists will hold services in Culver.

We are informed that some boys in the south part of town, have a key that will unlock the R. R. switches, and a few days ago were found locking and unlocking one of them. This should be attended to, or a serious accident may result.

John Campbell, a former jeweler at this place, now of Star City, was in town Sunday calling upon friends, accompanied by his bride. John is a first class workman, and we wish him success.

A C liverite, who rides a bicycle considerable, says it is surprising how few riders pay attention to the proper oiling and lubricating of their wheels. He advises oiling each link with cylinder oil, then after wiping off the surplus oil apply some good graphite and you will be very much pleased with the result.

Young & Keen are repairing the planer that was formerly in the saw mill here. When completed it will be placed in the York mill at Burr Oak. When new it was a first class machine and when the boys get it rigged up it will be practically as good as ever.

Rev. N. Shipp and wife, who have been visiting relatives and friends in this vicinity the past week, left for Moline, Illinois, Wednesday where they will spend a few days, from there they will go to St. Paul and attend the annual Conference of the Evangelical church, which will remain in session about three weeks, at the close of which they will return to their home in Oregon. The Rev. gentleman is a brother of Mrs. Benjamin Easterday's.

Services closed at the Evangelical church Tuesday evening. The church was dedicated Sunday, Rev. N. Shipp of Salem, Oregon, officiating. The church starts upon its mission of doing its allotted work free from debt. It is a magnificent structure, and is lighted by gas, which affords the best light we ever saw in a church. The services which have been held every night for the past two weeks, have been very profitable as it has lent new zeal and energy to the flock, the sermons by the different divines have been able and very instructive.

Jacob Myers of Rutland, was in town Tuesday.

The Henderson shoe at Vanchoiack's.

Mrs. J. K. Mawhorter has been upon the sick list the past 10 days. Mr. Wm. Myers of Rutland, is attending the state fair at Indianapolis this week.

Wright & O'Neil, who transacted a successful business here during the summer, left for Terre Haute today.

No shoe fits better nor wears longer than the Henderson's. For sale at Vanchoiack's.

Mr. Herbert Garn left via Nickel Plate for Latty, Ohio, Wednesday morning, from thence he will go to Hiram, Ohio, where he will resume his studies at Hiram College.

See that the name Hederson is stamped on the bottom of the shoe you buy. This insures it a wearer for sale at Vanchoiack's.

If you want to embezzle money, get a cashiership in a bank. If you want to make money, get a job in a mint. If you want to find money, go to Klondyke, but if you want to save money, buy your groceries etc., of Castleman & Co.

E. H. Mow will sell one car load of horses at Laceron on the 23d, and one car load at Bourbon on the 26th. He will also cry a mammoth sale in Wayne township, Fulton county on the 30th, for McLaughlin Brothers. Just bear in mind that his address is Culver Ind., and that he has but few equals in the U. S.

Rev. J. V. Coombs, wife and daughter, Prof. W. E. M. Hackleman of Indianapolis, A. O. Husler of Irving, Illinois, J. E. Davis, Valparaiso, and T. J. Legg, Secretary of Missionary Society of Indiana, will spend next week at Lake Maxinkuckee looking up the assembly association. While here they will conduct services at Maxinkuckee Christian church.

The Office Boy's Revenge.

A young lady who is employed in one of the tall office buildings has a young man acquaintance whose name is Jones. A few days ago the office boy was snappy, and she scolded him. A day or two later he marched into the inner office where she was at work and handed her one of Mr. Jones' calling cards.

"Is he out there?" she whispered to the boy.

The latter nodded. Her heart beat faster. She could not imagine what he had come to her office for. Perhaps he wanted her to go to the theater that night. She went softly to the washstand in the corner and rearranged her hair, tied the ribbon about her neck freshly and then, with her sweetest expression, went into the other office.

A burly man with a mustache stood near the door. It wasn't her friend at all.

"Are you Miss —?" he asked. "Yes?" "Well, I'm a constable, and I've got a judgment of $12.50 against this firm."

And now the young lady wonders if she carelessly left any calling cards on her desk or whether it was a curious coincidence and the constable had the same name and used calling cards in his business.—Chicago News.

The Lever That Raised Him.

A young man who is now well up the list of high salaried officers of a big manufacturing company said several days ago that he owed his first opportunity to show his ability to the fact that he was not afraid to soil his clothes. He was one of half a dozen young men just graduated from scientific schools who entered the shops of this company as students. They were expected to show that they were practical workmen, but most of them preferred theory to practice. The manager of the company was a self taught man, and he didn't take much stock in scientific schools. The young man who has succeeded took his measure accurately and, putting on old clothes, went to work in the shops. Whether by accident or design he was noticed by the manager one day stretched out on his back under a heavy casting with a hammer and cold chisel in his hand working away as if he had no higher ambition. A week later the manager summoned him to the office.

"Didn't I see you under that casting several days ago?" he asked.

"Yes."

"Well, I find that we have a vacancy on our staff now, and you may fill it if you choose."

The young man did choose, and his progress has been rapid. He does not have to soil his clothes now to prove his ability.—New York Sun.

A person who never does anything wrong does little that amounts to anything.

We always have more faith in a superstition that has a suggestion of wealth in it than one that presages woe.

For wounds, burns, scalds, sores, skin diseases and all irritating eruptions, nothing so soothing and healing as DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Mrs. Emma Bolles, Matron Englewood Nursery, Chicago, says of it: "When all else fails in healing our babies, it will cure."

Most people believe that a man should be permitted to do a reasonable amount of lying about himself, without calling him down.

The people do not seem to make their work count. A terribly large number keep at work at a jack rabbit gait from the cradle to the grave and die paupers.

The Vandalia—Pennsylvania R. R. will run an excursion to Ohio from Lakeville, Thursday, September 28, '99, good returning thirty days, for $6.00.

People who talk for spite are slow to give their hearers a respite. There is always a great deal of railing about political platforms.

Mr. John Wolf of Chicago, has just placed on sale at W. S. Easterday's furniture store, one of the Arion celebrated pianos. It is an upright instrument with a mandolin attachment, and the very latest improved pattern and will be sold very reasonable. Call at the store and examine the instrument and learn the price. 11w2

Have Crossed the Great Divide.

We received word this week that Robert Gould, formerly of this place, now of Buffalo, N. Y., had departed this life, having died very recently, being afflicted with Bright's disease. His remains were interred in the east.

Albert, the 14 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Mont Geiselman, who live in the Osborn neighborhood, Starke county, died Friday Sept. 15. Funeral services were held at the North Union church Sunday, Rev. Snyder of the U. B. church officiating, and the remains were laid at rest in the North Union cemetery by undertaker Easterday.

The angel of death entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Zurn's, who live three miles north west of Monterey, Saturday at 11 a. m., and took from the family circle, Miss Lizzie Zurn, aged 24 years. She was afflicted with congestion of the lungs and was confined to her bed only 24 hours. Funeral services were held at the Catholic church, Monterey, Rev. Father Zern officiating, and her remains interred in the Catholic cemetery. The deceased leaves her parents, two brothers and four sisters to mourn their loss.

For several years she was a teacher in our public schools, and had a school engaged for the ensuing year. She was a most charming and exemplary young lady and her death will be keenly felt by a large circle of friends and neighbors. She was a sister of Mrs. George Bozart, who lives near this city.

A WONDERFUL CURE

Of diarrhoea. A prominent Virginia editor had almost given up, but was brought back to perfect health by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Read his editorial. From the Times, Hillsville, Va.—I suffer with diarrhoea for a long time and though I was past being cured. I had spent much time and money and suffered so much misery that I had almost decided to give up all hopes of recovery and await the result, but noticing the advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and some also testimonials stating how some wonderful cures had been wrought by this remedy, I decided to try it. After taking a few doses I was entirely well of that trouble, and I wish to suggest to my readers and fellow-sufferers that I am a hale and hearty man today as feel as well as I ever did, in my life.—R. MOORE. Sold by T. E. Slattery, druggist.

A Word to Mothers.

Mothers of children affected with croup or a severe cold need not hesitate to administer Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It contains no opiate nor narcotic in any form and may be given as confidently to a babe as to an adult. The great success that has attended its use in the treatment of colds and croup has won for it the approval and praise it has received throughout the United States and in many foreign lands. For sale by T. E. Slattery, druggist.

CAUTION

Should be used in buying a Cholera and Diarrhoea Medicine. Very bad preparations are injurious to the stomach and are absolutely dangerous for children to take. Beggs Diarrhoea Balsam is guaranteed pure Colic, Cholera Infantum a Flux. It is harmless. For sale by T. E. Slattery.

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with typhoid fever, that ran into pneumonia My lungs became hardened. I was weak I couldn't set up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and now I am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvellous medicine the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung Troubles. Regular sizes 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottle free at T. E. Slattery's drug store, a bottle guaranteed.

The great success of Chamberlain's Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the treatment of bowel complaints has made it standard over the greater part of civilized world. For sale by T. E. Slattery, druggist.
