The United States revenue cutter Corwin, which has reached Seattle, brought survivors of the steamship Laurada, which lies a wreck in Zapadine Bay, St. George Island. The Laurada, Captain Frank White, left Seattle for Cape Nome with a crew of forty-eight officers and men and twenty passengers. She carried a full cargo of general merchandise, hay, lumber, cattle and sheep. The Laurada encountered rough weather from the start and she sprung a leak. She was run into the shallow waters of Zapadine bay, where her crew, passengers and cargo were landed and housed in several abandoned cabins. The Corwin, attracted by signals, took aboard the crew and passengers, taking some to Dutch Harbor and bringing the remainder to Seattle.

MASTIN CASE ENDED.

Federal Court Finally Disposes of Kansas City Litigation.

By a decree in the Federal court at Kansas City, the noted Mastin case, which has dragged along in the Federal court for five years, was ended. The two Mastin brothers, in partnership in the banking firm of John J. Mastin & Co., failed in 1878, catching many workingmen and women. In 1890 John J. Mastin died, and his wife, Julia, became the sole owner of the estate. In 1894 she brought suit against her brother-in-law, Thomas H. Mastin, for a settlement of the estate, claiming that he was using her property improperly. In July, 1894, a receiver for the estate was appointed, the claims against the estate at that time aggregating $1,200,000. The present decree dissolving the partnership and ending the receivership, orders Thomas II. Mastin to pay Julia Mastin $31,099, and divides the estate of John J. Mastin equally between them. This estate, valued at several millions, consists of a vast amount of real estate in Kansas City and vicinity and mining claims in Gunnison County, Colorado.

LASSOES A SCREW.

Physician's Clever Plan for Getting It Out of a Child's Stomach.

Twenty yards of raw silk saved the life of a little Brooklyn, N. Y., child. Dr. George D. Barney used the strands to lasso a large screw that the little patient had swallowed. When the physician was called in haste to the house and discovered the serious nature of the case he was at first nonplussed. "If the screw reaches the intestines it will surely kill the child," he said. Upon a table he happened to notice a hank of raw silk and it gave him an inspiration. "Bread and milk, quick." he cried, and as soon as the food was One thousand dollars a minute for brought, he made a mush in which he fifty-six minutes is a pretty good record | placed the silk. After the mea! had been in the child's stomach for about ten minutes, Dr Barney pulled out the silk and the deadly screw came with it.

TRY TO BURN WAR SUPPLIES.

Material at Toronto, Intended for the Transvaal, bet on Fire.

At Toronto, Ont., an attempt was made to burn the war material which the Government has all ready for serving out to the Toronto, London and Hamilton Transvaal contingent. At the time stated an officer and a private on their rounds found part of the woodwork of the storeroom of the fort on fire and with the help of the fire brigade extinguished the flames before serious damage was done. It was then discovered that waste and rags saturated with oil had been placed close to the woodwork and set on fire. The woodwork was also well oiled.

MINISTER TAKES HIS OWN LIFE.

Ohio Pastor Commits Suicide After En-

BASIS TO WORK FROM.

PROGRESS IN ALASKAN BOUN-DARY CASE.

Temporary Arrangement of the Dispute Is Made by Establishment of a Line at Euggestion of Americaus-Mistakes a Hunter for a Deer.

Sir Louis Henry Davies, Canadian minister of marine and fisheries, says that he has given Canada's consent to a temporary arrangement of the Alaskan dispute. This has practically settled the whole matter for the time being, as the main features of the arrangement were originally suggested by the United States. Col. John Hay, the American Secretary of State, will sign the last papers within a few days, and Reginald Tower, British charge d'affaires in Washington, will ratify on behalf of Great Britain. Sir Louis Davies said: "The terms agreed upon are simply a line drawn across Chilkat pass, deliminated by the river and mountain top. It has absolutely no significance except that we hope thereby to avert local friction. Of course an arrival at even a temporary agreement is satisfactory. So far as the original contention is concerned, we are just as misty as ever. I see no signs of reaching an immediate settlement."

BIG DEAL IN COAL LANDS.

Four Thousand Acres on Monongahela River Changes Hands.

The Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company has closed a deal for the purchase of the immense tract of coal belonging to the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal Company at Charleroi, Pa., for $1,000,000 cash. The money has been paid into the Union Trust Company, and the river combine is now in possession. The tract contains about 4,000 acres, and is one of the largest bodies of coal on the Monongahela river. It has been under option for some time to the Monongahela company and also to the Pittsburg Coal Company, the rail coal combine. It is probable the tract will be opened up next spring by the river combine on a large scale.

PREVENTS ESCAPE FROM JAIL.

Daughter of Jailer in Mason County, Kentucky, Defeats a Plot.

Miss Bettie McIlvain, daughter of Jailer McIlvain of Mason County, Ky., frustrated an attempt to escape from the Mason County jail. Miss McIlvain held the heavy iron entrance door against the prisoners who were trying to force their way out. Charles Shotwell, a desperate prisoner, slashed her with a case knife, but she bravely held the door until Deputy Jailer Slack secured his pistol and fired, driving the prisoners back. Several iron bars had been sawed in two, and knives and heavy pieces of iron for weapons had been provided, ready to make a desperate fight for liberty.

HUNTER SHOT BY HIS GUIDE.

Representative J. B. Dumond of Boston Is Almost Instantly Killed.

Representative J. B. Dumond of Boston, Mass., was shot and killed at Messer pond, twenty-three miles inland from Bangor, Me., by his guide, William Hobbs. He was mistaken for a deer. The bullet passed through his abdomen and the victim lived only half an hour. He exonerated the guide from all blame in his dying statement to Senator Charles H. Innes and Representative Franz Hugo Krebs of Boston, who accompanied him on the hunting trip. Hobbs is an old guide and bore the reputation of being thoroughly reliable and competent. Mr. Dumond had hunted annually for nine years in his company.

FLAMES IN MILL VALLEY.

California Summer Visitors Forced to Fice for Their Lives.

A fire believed to have been of incendiary origin has done great damage in Mill Valley and the adjoining country about the base of Mount Tamalpais, Cal. The town of Mill Valley was for hours in imminent danger, and many summer visitors fled to places of temporary safety. Corte Madera Gulch, Boyle Canyon, Blithdale Canyon and the Cascades were denuded of their majestic pines and redwoods, which the flames swept away like so much dry grass. Owi's Nest, the residence of George T. Marsh, was destroyed. There were many narrow escapes and over a dozen persons were severely scorched by the flames. Over 640 acres were burned over, several small buildings were destroyed and many beautiful residences narrowly escaped destruction. A conservative estimate of the loss places it at $130,000, though some claim that it may reach $500,000.

GREAT PATENT SUIT.

California Inventor Claims Foyalty · from Plectric Companies.

The San Francisco Call says that a bill of complaint will soon be filed in the United States Circuit Court there as the commencement of one of the most important suits ever tried in any court. Binson Bidwell, who claims to be the original inventor of the system by which all the electric roads of the country are operated, is the principal complainant. The Market Street Railroad Company of San Francisco, the Thomson-Houston Electric Company of Connecticut and the General Electric of New York are made defendants, and similar suits will be commenced in several States. Bidwell charges that the defendant corporation, as well as others, has made immense profits out of his inventions, and the suits in question are based upon infringement of his patents. He prays for a royalty of 40 per cent on the net profits.

SWALLOWED A BIG PIN.

Child Hurried to t. Louis with a tafety Pin in Its Throat,

The 11/2-year-old child of James Gray of California, Mo., was taken to St. Louis by its parents after it had swallowed an open safety pin, which lodged in its throat. While the frightened parents were comforting it on the train the big pin went down. The little one was apparently without a pain, and the parents decided to await the development of evil symptoms before consenting to an operation.

MAIL TRAIN HELD UP.

ROBBERY ON THE NORTHWEST-ERN RAILROAD.

Three Masked Men Blow Open an Express safe with Dynamite, Take Its Contents, and Make Their Escape-Operator Bound and Gagged.

Three masked men held up the Chicagoand Northwestern fast mail train No. 9, bound for the Pacific coast, at Meredith, Ill., forty-seven miles from Chicago, shortly after 11 o'clock Friday night. After they had blown the through safe and wrecked the express car they uncompled the engine from the mail train and escaped on it to Courtland. Daniel White, the engineer, was forced to carry them to that point, where they deserted the cab for the darkness of the sufrounding fields.

Just about 11 o'clock three men entered signal office W of the road, located midway between Elburn and Maple Park, and asked the operator, Clifton James, at what time the mail train would be due. James tried to avoid a direct reply, but the lights from the windows of the approaching cars gave them the desired information and they stopped only long enough to bind the operator in his chair with buckskin thongs, set the signals to stop the oncoming train, and render useless the telegraphic instruments in the office.

The engineer of the mail train brought the cars to a stand in obedience to the semaphore signals and at once was confronted by the robbers. They had adjusted handkerchiefs over the lower part of their faces and each carried a brace of long-barreled ominous-looking revolvers. Engineer White made no attempt atresistance, but his fireman, Joseph Jewel, tried to escape from the cab. He was stopped at the point of a pistol and he and White were led back to the last of the four cars that made up the train. One man was left to guard the train erew and the other two attacked the express car and forced Messenger F. A. Hopson to admit them. First he was taken to the rear car and then brought back to open the local safe. He would not do this. The robber retired from the car again while the through safe was demolished with a charge of dynamite which blew a holethrough the bottom of the car and toregreat gaps in the roof.

Just how much the safe may have contained is not known, but it is said that currency and packages of valuables werehurled into the fields.

Two shots were fired during the raid, one at James McGrath, a brakeman, who swung his lantern at the head of the leader of the bandits, and a second at Brakeman Palmer, who crawled beneath the cars, and ran to flag an east-bound fast freight which was almost due.

Palmer escaped injury and stopped the freight train with his shirt for a signal. After the robbers had deserted the engine of the mail train at Courtland Engineer White pushed on to Dekalb. Brakeman Palmer had reached Elburn meanwhile and sent word of the robbery to W. E. Morse, Galena division superintendent at Oak Park.

The victims of the robbery unite in declaring the bandits a determined group of men. They went about their work quietly and without a sign of nervousness. One of them paused to borrow a chew of tobacco from the assistant express messenger, Elmer E. Painter. The night was exceedingly dark, and this greatly aided the thugs in their escape.

CARTER SOARED HIGH.

New Facts Come Out Against the Guilty Captain.

The decision of the Attorney General in the case of Capt. Oberlin M. Carter is a long document and is addressed to the President. Mr. Griggs, among other things, gives a little of the personal history of the accused man. He states that some years ago he married the daughter of a gentleman supposed to have means, but not large wealth. Carter's pay as captain amounted to $252 a month and his living expenses began to increase very rapidly, running in a few years from $6,-000 to as high as $29,000 per annum. It is related that he made within certain periods heavy cash deposits in New York. and other banks and also gave large orders to brokers for the purchase of stocks, bonds, etc. Just how these facts were obtained is not told in the decision.

FEUDS IN KENTUCKY.

WILD VENDETTAS OF THE MOUN TAIN REGION.

Three Desperate and Bloody Feuds Raging in One County-Hundreds of People Kitled - Wars of Extermination Waged by Three Families.

Clay County, Kentucky, is probably the most famous district of its size in the United States, says a correspondent of the Chicago Inter Ocean. Kings County, New York, and Cook County, Illinois, are of slight interest to the general public, compared to the little moonshine borough, whose largest town has only 250 inhabitants. "Bloody Clay" holds three distinct feuds within its borders. Its simple, uncouth natives live in a state of continual warfare. Every gathering is enlivened by a shooting affray. Conditions in Clay County hark back to Scotland's border warfare, when one bugle blast assembled Highlanders and Lowlanders in deadly conflict. Very few of the bitterest partisans on either side of the feuds could tell at this time what their quarrels are about. Fighting with one faction or another is a point of honor with every male inhabitant 15 years old and owning a Colt's or a Winchester.

The three venedettas now in progress here are known as the Philopt-Griffin, Garrard-Baker-White-Howard, and the Markum-Roberts. In addition to this the fires of two other hatreds are smoldering ready to break into flame at the Binge feuds.

Senator. They are prosperous farmers and timbermen. This faction numbers about two hundred, and nearly all live in the "Pigeon Roost district," seven miles from Manchester. The leaders of the Griffins are Sol Griffin and Dave Chadwell, and their faction is composed of a little less than two hundred of the Griffins, Chadwells, Barnetts and Hamptons. Excepting the Chadwells, all are poor farmers, but are game fighters. They also live in "Pigeon Roost," two miles from the Philpots' headquarters.

"Pete" Philpot grabbed a rifle from the wagon and put a bullet into Morris' head, and the leader of the Griffin boys rolled under his horse, dead. While this was going on the three Griffin boys confronted Ed Fisher, getting between him and the wagon. Only four men were left now, Harve and Green Griffin on one side, and George and Pete Philpot on the other. The deputy sheriff had disappeared in the woods at the first fire. The Griffin boys fought desperately, even after they were wounded and unable to aim their weapons. Both were killed finally, and of the seven who began the battle only two, George Philpot and his son,

Dr. Abner Baker, who flourished in Clay County half a century ago, killed a number of men in his time and finally was hanged for murder.

> General Garrard a Factor Gen. T. T. Garrard, who figures in the present troubles as a friend of the Bakers, performed the same service for Dr. Baker fifty years ago. He tried to get the Governor to pardon Dr. Baker on the ground that his killings were the result of homicidal mania, and in recent years he has been giving bail for others of the Bakers when they got into the clutches of the law. The old General declares that he cannot be driven out of Clay County, where he proposes to remain the rest of his natural life with his pet cat, but his son, Gilbert Garrard, has had to move away to escape assassination.

Efforts were made to have Judge Eversole, who is related to the Whites, vacate the bench and call a special term of court, to be presided over by a special judge, to try the murder cases, but the plan fell through.

The first killing in late years was on June 6, 1898, when Wilson Howard and Burch Stores was killed, and A. B. Howard, father of Wilson, was wounded. This, it is thought, was done by Tom Baker, as there had been a dispute between them regarding a $40 note. The next day James Howard met George Baker, father of Tom, and shot him. Shortly after this Charles Wooten, son-in-law of A. B. Howard, was shot by Sid Baker. In August Tom Baker met and killed Will White, and Sheriff Beverly White, Jr. Later, in the same month, John Baker was shot by two men from behind two trees on Goose creek. His negro, who was with him, was likewise killed. July 10 of this year Tom Baker, who was to be tried in Manchester for the murder of Will White, was taken to the courthouse under the protection of a hundred State troops and a Gatling gun; but while standing in a guard tent in the courthouse yard a shot rang out from Sheriff White's house, directly opposite, and the noted Tom Baker, cousin of Captain William Strong, of Breathitt, fell dead. Court was adjourned, and every one who could left Clay County. The troops then took Wiley and James Baker to the jail in Barboursville. To show what intense hatred exists, John D. White a few days ago cheered, as Edward Garrard passed, for Carlo Brittan, who killed Edward's brother Daniel ten years ago.

Owing to inadequate State laws Gov. Bradley has been powerless to quell the disturbances. Martial law he cannot declare, cannot appoint a judge and a grand jury from another county, and cannot have a Clay County citizen indicted elsewhere. The only way a new judge can be had is for the Circuit Clerk to hold an election of the bar, and in this case the Clerk is Daugh White, one of the feudists. He cannot take away their arms. In fact, the State laws are such that Governor Bradley is less able to prevent further disgrace to the State than any of its citizens; and yet all look to him to preserve order. His only course is to call a special session of the Legislature, and either change the laws or repeal the incorporation of Clay as a county, and divide it into four adjoining coun-

How He Crossed the Bridge.

The unaffected modesty which marks the best type of courage is one of the most winning traits a man can have, he he soldier or civilian. During a recent battle in the Philippines, a Kansas regiment was brought to a halt at a wrecked bridge. The trying situation is thus described by a hero of the war, Lieut. Col. Little:

"As the colonel was across and my battalion at the head of the column, my bugler, Berry of Company F, and I were the first to reach the bridge, and, of course, the first to cross.

"I've read of men crossing bridges under fire at the head of columns, and supposed the sensation was peculiar. It was not. A man simply tries to paddle along as fast as he can, and get across. I beat Berry over, but we haven't decided yet whether I was the braver or the worse scared."

Gas Shortage at Peru.

The Peru branch of the Dietrich natural gas syndicate announced that gas will be turned off at all factories, public buildings, gas engines and other places where much gas is used. It is claimed the pressure is so low that gas cannot be supplied without pumping, and the company will not put in a station unless the city will compromise its suit for a onethird reduction of rates which is now pending in the United States Supreme Court. Oil drillers and pumpers will be greatly affected by the cutting off of their engines.

Summitville is excited over the announcement of Mrs. Edward Hunter that her husband was embalmed before he was dead. She said that after the undertaker left, she held a mirror to his nostrils, and the surface was soon covered with moisture. She became prostrated. The doctor and undertaker say the man was dead.

Philpot-Griffin Feud.

In importance the Philpot-Griffin feud now ranks first. Years ago one of the Philpot allies called one of the Griffin mountaineers "a liar." The insult flew from lip to lip. Clay County took up arms-the one party to avenge, the other to repeat the injury. Fighting rages still, and not many of the bitterest foemen now know the original starting point of their enmity. They are lined up for the Philpots and the Griffins, their kinsfolk and retainers, and will fight till the last drop of bad blood has been spilled. The Philpot-Griffin feud is well organized. Each faction has its recognized leaders. When a great battle is anticipatd they have appointed gathering places; each day every member of the faction is visited and given the latest news. Every few days all gather and formulate plans, each faction meeting at night at the homes of their leaders. Guards keep vigil; the pistols are laid in the holsters under the edge of the bed, and the Winchesters stand on the stock at the head. Each has his arsenal, in which are stored extra weapons, ammunition, etc. Both clans have a countersign for night work. If a Philpot meets a rider in the lonely hills at night he hails him with the greeting of the Philpot band. If an answer does not come promptly and accurately there is a blaze of powder and a midnight duel. The Griffins are equally alert, and all their followers are drilled in the proper Griffin countersign. On each side the clansmen are all magnificent shots, and carry the very best of weapons.

"Smith Cheek, lemme in your store. I'm the best shot in Clay County, and I kin prove it," shouted "Jim Crow" Philpot to the Griffin gang inside.

"No, ye ain't," retorted Morris, "I live in the same county," and with this he fired on young "Jim Crow" Philpot, and the "fightin' began." On July 17, 1898, occurred the battle of Hooker's branch, a terrible affray, unequaled in the annals of Kentucky feuds. The White-Howard Feud.

The Garrard - Baker-White-Howard

feud runs back several years. Two of the most powerful families in the county, the Whites and the Garrards, are involved. At the head of the one faction is Judge Beverly White, related to various lawyers, Congressmen and Governors. Gen. Theophilus T. Garrard, leader of the opposing clan, is a member of a family distinguished in this country and in England. Members of both factions in this feud, with the exception of hired retainers, are an advance upon the illiterate clansmen of the Philpot-Griffin vendetta. At present the Whites and their connections hold all the county offices and are in a position financially to carry on the quarrel to better advantage than their enemies. Two of the Bakers are now in jail at London, twenty-four miles away from Manchester, and active hostilities have ceased temporarily. Much of the fighting in this vendetta bas been done by hired men, who received $1 a day and their "keep," by which is meant the supplying of ammunition, bacon and corn bread. Of the personal courage of the leaders of the feud there can be no doubt. The Bakers are said to have Indian

CULVER MILITARY ACADEMY.

Items of Interest Compiled by Our Special Reporter.

Last Saturday the foot ball team of the West Division High School, of Chicago, arrived in Culver for a game with our team. They had the reputation of being a good team, and certainly looked it, as they were the largest and oldest set of High School students we ever saw. But our boys remembering the Lafayette game, determined to give their brawny opponents a hard battle.

The game was called about 3:00 p. m., Culver making the kick off. West Division advanced it down the field for a small gain, and then makes the required five yards. D. fumbles the ball, but regains it without loss. The "pig-skin" is gradually forced down the field by West Division until the 10-yard line is reached. Here our team gets in the game, holds West Division for three downs, and the ball goes over. C. M. A's. team shows its proficiency in the art of line bucking by taking the ball back at a rapid rate. The second half is started by W. D. kicking off. Stifel catches the ball and advances it down the field a remarkable distance before he is downed. It is soon evident that Culver is playing a winning game. Wood, who played center in a creditable manner during the first half, has been superceded by Campbell, thus making the line much heavier. After several big gains, Gray succeeds in breaking through the left of the line and making a touchdown, in just two minutes after the half superintendent. has started.

Anderson kicks goal, and the score is 6-0, our favor. West Divison again kicks off, and Stifel catching it, makes another long run before being stopped. C. M. A. bucks the line for big gains West Division being off side, Culver gets fifteen yards. The ball is rapidly advanced to within two yards of the goal line, and immediately in front of the goal. Here the ball is given to St.fel for a center rush. The players bunch up in front of the goal but Stifel makes a jump and actually dives clear over the bunch, making a sensational touchdown. Anderson kicks goal and the score stands 12-0, C. M. A's favor. West Divison kicks off, but Stifel is there to get it and take it back down the field. Shortly afterwards, in one of the rushes, the ball is fumbled in such a manner that it rises in the air, directly above the bunch. Voris catches the "pig-skin," and thereby saves the ball for Culver, but only to be lost a few minutes later on downs. C. M. A. succeeds in holding W. D. for three downs, however, regaining the ball. The game ended with the ball in the center of the field, in our possession. Final score, C. M. A, 12. W. D. H. S., 0.

THE DREAM SHIF.

When the world is fast asleep, Along the midnight skies-As though it were a wandering cloud-The ghostly dream-ship flies.

An angel stands at the dream-ship's helm. An angel stands at the prow, And an angel stands at the dream ship's side

With a rue-wreath on her brow.

The other angels, silver-crowned, Pilot and helmsman are, And the angel with the wreath of rue Tosseth the dreams afar.

The dreams they fall on rich and poor; They fall on young and old; And some are dreams of poverty And some are dreams of gold.

And some are dreams that thrill with joy.

And some that melt to tears; Some are dreams of the dawn of love, And some of the old dead years.

On rich and poor alike they fall, Alike on young and old, Bringing to slumbering earth theli joys And sorrows manifold.

The friendless youth in them shall do The deeds of mighty men, And drooping age shall feel the grace Of buoyant youth again.

The king shall be a beggarman-The pauper be a king-In that revenge or recompense The dream-ship dreams do bring.

So ever downward float the dreams That are for all and me. And there is never mortal man Can solve that mystery.

But ever onward in its course Along the haunted skies-As though it were a cloud astray-The ghostly dream-ship flies.

Two angels with their silver crowns Pilot and helmsman are, And an angel with a wreath of rue Tosseth the dreams afar.

MIRIAM'S DREAM.

"You won't really go at this time of the year?" "Rather! I'd go in December if Dick were at the end of the journey."

mmm

"Well, I would not cross the Atlantic in the middle of November for a dozen sweethearts."

Miriam laughed gleefully. She and Dick had been separated for three years, and now he had fallen into a good berth in Toronto, and had written to her to decide whether they should both spend their winter in loneliness or whether she would go to him and settle down at once as his wife.

Miriam did not hesitate a moment, she set aside the shortest time possible for winding up her affairs in England and arranged to sail in the "Sovonian" from Liverpool to Halifax.

"But you'll have a dreadful overland journey after that; it must be a long way to Toronto," said her friend Nora. "I don't know how you'll get through, al! by yourself."

"Ah! but I'm not going to. Dick has been sent by his firm to New York on some business, and he intends to take a berth in the "Meldrum," a coasting steamer which will bring him to Halifax about the same time that I get there."

Miriam was in a fever of joy, and was altogether oblivious of such small matters as intense cold, a pitching, rolling ship and battened down hatches. The good ship fought gaily through a stormy ice-threatened sea, and at last a morning broke, when the sun shone fair, and the waves sank into a comparative calm. Passengers swarmed on deck, congratulating each other on their escape from prison, and the anxious captain sighed with relief to think that the worst was over. He was upon his bridge, stamping up and down to keep the blood circulating in his feet, when ahead of them he saw a strange speck dancing on the waves.

As it drew nearer he found it to be an apparently empty boat; and he sent know you will." off one of his boats to tow the stray to the steamer. When it reached the side, however, the limp form of a sailor was lifted from it. Under care and good treatment the blood began to run again through his stiff veins, and he was able to tell what had befallen him. But before that happened his boat had been hauled on deck, and the name upon it, "Meldrum," made known.

"How funny!" cried Miriam, "a The course of the steamer was altersteamer sailing from New York to ed slightly, a boat lowered once more Halifax is named 'Meldrum.' "

"Ay! Missie," said a sailor, ominously, "and this is one of her boats." "But how can it be? How could it

Iron Dearer than Gold.

Machines in a watch factory will cut screws with 589 threads to an inch. These threads are invisible to the naked eye, and it takes 144,000 screws to make a pound. A pound of them is worth six pounds of pure gold. Lay one of them upon a piece of white paper and it looks like a tiny steel filing. The carbon filaments used in incandescent lights are more expensive than the hairsprings of watches, costing from two to three times as much per pound.

The Odor of Rain.

Nuttall has determined that the smell of freshly turned earth is due to the growth of a bacterium, the clathodrix odorifera, which multiplies in decomposing vegetable matter, and more rapidly in the presence of heat and moisture. Hence the odor is especially marked after a shower, or when moist earth is disturbed. In dry soil the development of the bacterium is arrested, but it is immediately resumed with vigor as soon as moisture is restored.

Britain's Foreign Ambassador ..

There are only seven ambassadors representing Great Britain abroad. The seven great powers entitled to receive them are France, Austria, Germany, Italy, Russia, the United States and Turkey. Their salaries range from £7,000 to £10,000, the British ambassador at Paris receiving the highest sum, and holding the most coveted post in the diplomatic service abroad.

Hundreds of Thousands Are Involved.

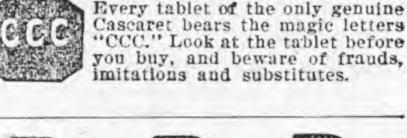

Frouble in an Important Part of the Organization Affects All the Rest-A Perfectly Harmonious System Easily Thrown Out of Gear.

Organized labor has reached such a stage that anything affecting a particular branch of it draws all the rest into the difficulty. It is exactly the same way with the different organs of the human body. Work too hard, eat too much, drink too much, exercise but little, be a little irregular in any way, and the liver quits work. Then the bowels become constipated and the stomach goes on strike. The heart is affected, the brain follows suit, and every part of the body is dragged into the trouble. The only way out of it is to go at the source of all this-the liver. Square yourself with the liver and all will get back to regular natural work.

Cascare:s Candy Cathartic make things right with the liver. They perfume the breath, prevent food from souring on the stomach, give tone to the bowels, strengthen the intestinal muscles, while they are cleaning and stirring up the liver to renewed activity.

No matter how long a case has been incurable, Cascarets are guaranteed to put things right as they should be, and set the whole machinery a-going, and you can get them at any drug store or by mail for price-10c, 25c. or 50c. Address Sterling Remedy Co., Chicago or New York. This is the CASCARET tablet.

BOER WAR IS BEGUN. FIRST BLOOD IS SHED.

AND SEIZE A TRAIN.

This Is Declared to Be the Outbreak of Hostilities-Diplomatic Relations Between the Two Governments Broken Off-Telegraph Lines Cut.

The Boer war in South Africa has begun. According to information from Pretoria by way of London Wednesday the understanding that a state of war already existed was given official confirmation by a proclamation issued by Sir Alfred Milner. The proclamation declares that ail persons aiding or abetting the enemy will be guilty of high treason.

The limited cable service between London and South African ports was so congested with official dispatches Wednesday night that little news matter could be handled. While no word had been received up to a late hour Thursday morning that actual fighting had begun in the Transvaal, it was taken for granted that war had begun. It was known that Conyngham Greene, the British agent, had left Pretoria. The first act of war was reported in a dispatch to the London Telegraph. It told of the Boers having seized railroad property belonging to the English colony. The British patrol was stoned by the burghers between Ladysmith and the Orange Free State border.

Intense excitement prevailed in Cape Town Wednesday as a result of the Boers' move, which seemed to make war Certain, Orange Free State burghers were reported to have already entered Natal, crossing the frontier thirty-seven miles below Newcastle, which the Boers, advancing from the north and west, were expected to occupy. Transvaal troops of the commanders north of the Buffalo river were reported on the move. The British first-class cruiser Powerful, Captain Lambton, arrived at Cape Town, having 500 infantry on board. Many of the Cape Dutch left to join the Boers.

England's reply to the Boers' ultimatum was short and dignified, merely acknowledging the receipt of the Transvaal's note. It was delivered at Pretoria Wednesday. All London seemed to be carried away by the war spirit. Patriotic airs at the theaters caused the wildest enthusiasm. Soldiers on the streets were cheered as heroes. The staid members of the Stock Exchange unfurled the union jack and the royal standard, and sang national airs like a crowd of schoolboys. Several London papers printed New York to raid Natal three weeks ago. Then and Washington dispatches to the effect that America's sympathies are with England, and also the statement that English subjects in the Transvaal are to be | ened by the arrival of troops from India, looked after by American consuls.

x. was reported in London Wednesday that a body of Orange Free State Boers had crossed the Natal border at Cundy Leugh Pass. This is one of the less important passes over the Drakensberg and lies twenty-seven miles west of Glencoe and about thirty southwest of Newcastle. Also that a party of Orange Free State Boers had been detected by carbineer scouts in Natal territory, near Berg. Seeing that they had been observed they immediately retreated. Commandant Ben Viljoen, in command of the Orange Free State artillery, began a march to Albertina, the first railway station beyond Van Reenens' Pass, in the Orange Free State.

ARMY MULES KILLED.

Animals Mangled to Death on Transport Siam During Typhoon.

The United States transport Siam, which left San Francisco Sept. 9 with upward of 330 valuable mules, the coming of which had been anxiously awaited at Manila, as mules are in great demand for continuing the campaign, arrived Friday morning and reported that all but nineteen of the animals had been lost in two severe typhoons under peculiarly distressing conditions. The Siam, which left Honolulu thirty-one days previous, encountered the typhoons early last week. One lasted forty hours. Most of the forage, which was on deck, was swept overboard, all the boats were smashed and the steamer rolled tremendously in the trough of the sea, although the officers made every effort to bring her about. The mules were hurled from side to side and frightfully mangled. Their legs and necks were broken and the wretched animals fell in such a confused mass that the attendants were unable to relieve them. In the meantime the deck load was washed off, the ship lightened and the rolling increased. When the storm abated the injured animals were killed and their carcasses thrown overboard. When the Siam arrived her propeller was high out of the water and the wrecks of her boats were hanging from the davits. The loss of the animals will be greatly felt by Gen. Otis, who needed them for transportation of supplies to the cities and towns held by the American troops. Gen. Otis recently cabled the War Department that the animals shipped would be sufficient to meet all requirements until the animal transports could return to San Francisco for more, so that it was unnecessary to charter more freight vessels. It will now be necessary to procure another ship to leave as soon as possible with more mules.

CROSS FRONTIER FIFTEEN BRITISH SOLDIERS ARE SLAIN BY BOERS.

> An'Armored Train Is Destroyed Near Mafeking-Victors Shell the Wreckage-Formal Declaration of War Is Made-United States Is Notified.

> A dispatch from Cape Town, Africa, says that a British armored train from Mafeking was blown up and destroyed by the Boers at Vryburg Thursday evening. Fifteen British soldiers were killed and the first blood of the war shed. The Boers shelled the wreckage after the train was derailed. Vryburg is midway between Kimberley and Mafeking on the cape government railroad, which skirts the whole western frontier of the Transvaal and Orange Free State. War was declared Wednesday by the South African republic, the formal declaration going into effect at 10 o'clock Thursday

> Having determined to act on the initiative the moment the time specified in their ultimatum should expire, the Boers crossed the Natal border Thursday, thus committing a distinct act of war. The campaign now begun may have far-reaching consequences. The British may be driven out of South Africa, or the Boers may be reduced to their old position as a British dependency. The former result would be but the beginning of the dismemberment of the British empire.

President Kruger erred in judgment when he refused to permit his burghers they might have swept through the colony without much opposition. Now the Reitish rorces have been greatly strengthand the task of reducing fortified towns, defended by experienced soldiers, is certain to prove tedious if not impossible.

As long as the British remain on the defensive, as seems to be their policy, the Boers may occupy the famous Laing's Nek, wipe out the 100 men of the naval brigade at Estcourt, destroy bridges and damage railroads, as reported by cable, but their object, the conquest of South Africa, will be as far away as ever. On the other hand, if the British troops at present in the colonies of South Africa hold their own until the army corps from England reach the cape the prospect of an ultimate Boer victory is very doubtful. Real danger threatens British Bechuanaland, where, in Mafeking, Col. Baden-Powell, with a slender command. is awaiting probable extinction at the hands of Commander Cronje and his 4,000 burghers. Such a move would strengthen the Boers' cause, secure native allies and perhaps induce a Datch revolt in Cape Colony. All this may be accomplished, and yet the real campaign awaits the arrival of the 50,000 British soldiers under the leadership of strategical masters, whose wits and numbers are supposed to be a match for the native craft and courage of the warlike Beer.

Sympathy is largely with the Boers, and the nations of Europe are loud in their denunciations of Great Britain, but academical expressions of good will add nothing to the Transvaal chance of suc-

United States Notified.

The State Department at Washington was notified on Friday of the withdrawal from Pretoria of Conyngham Greene, the British diplomatic agent to the South African Republic, and the existence of a state of war between Great Britain and that republic. Mr. Macrum, the American consul at Pretoria, has accordingly been instructed to undertake the care of the British interests in that section during the war. The notification came to the State Department in the shape of a note from Mr. Tower, the charge of the British embassy there. The details of the transfer of British interests in case of war had been previously arranged, so that all that was necessary was the dispatch of a brief cablegram to Mr. Macrum at Pretoria.

There is no present intention at the State Department to issue a proclamation of neptrality. It has come to be the custom to omit these proclamations until some emergency arises calling for their issue, and such an emergency is not expected to occur in South Africa.

Lord Curzon's Logical Justice,

An unfortunate clerk in one of the government offices, with twenty-three years' service, recently took leave and overstayed his leave by nine days. He was called upon for an explanation, and in the end the secretary ordered him to be dismissed. The clerk thereupon appealed to the Viceroy, who called for an explanation of the circumstances. The secretary showed that the man had not only overstayed his leave nine days, but was hopelessly incompetent as well. His excellency thereupon ordered the man to be reinstated, and wrote across the secretary's explanation that he considered the hopelessly incompetent man was the one who took twenty-three years to find out the other's incompetence. THE ROUNDER.

What He Sees, Hears and Thinks About It. All Told in His Own Way.

He was a fine specimen of physical manhood, and, as he possessed that war-like appearance attributed to James brothers, and other noted braves, the band of young men who had conceived the idea of horning the widow's daughter, thought that "Ham" would be just the hero to lead them to vic orv. Consequently a number of braves waited upon said "Ham" and pursuaded him to take charge of the battalions as captain. Right at the start "Ham" exhibited his superior knowledge of midtary tactics as he marshalled his hosts together in a manner that would have made the "Major" blush with envy. After his army had lined up in front of the widow,s residence, "Ham' called the bride and groom forth and in a loud voice said to the groom. "Say, you fellow that has captured one of Culver's best maidens, I, in behalf of those here assembled, demand that ye f rihwith bring forth the cigars, not forgetting the lager beer, or we will tear down your cas tle," -- and as a warning the anvil cracked and the hair of the occupants of that house stood up straight on their heads. At this the groom brought forth the cigars-and just as "Ham" reached forth his hand, and his eyes sparkled, a heavy hand was laid upon his shoulder, and marshall Mawhorter said: "My hearty I want you because you are a base conspirator against the peace of this great commonwealth. Do you see this paper? It cuts no particular figure in this case, but I will give you ample time to procure bonds. The brave captain "gurgled" his thanks and flew, and it is said that he ran so fast that men were ready to stake him against Parole, or any other race horse in the country. THE mounder then left the scene, and like "Ham" has not been seen since.

FISH EATERS.

THE ROUNDER has heard of men who claimed to be great eaters, bu ·Culver can take the cake when it comes to fish eating over all comers. Just recently at a certain place in Culver, a fish-feast was given and the two Culverites wagered that they could eat 35 good sized perch each, and came near winning the bet, and would have won it had the fish been cooked to suit their taste. As it future they will wager to eat 40 each.

For lo! these many years, THE ROUNDER has been led to believe in poetry, prose and song, that this is the nation of free schools, and free thought-and it might be added free plunder; as the free school system is a humbug and a delusion. The system for the past decade has been conducted in the interests of book publishers, who have robbed the people, and instead of a free school system, whereby the patrons of our schools are robbed indiscriminately and without compunction. Legislatures work in the hands of book concerus, for a "rake-off", and the people foot the bills. Every year, there is a change in school books, and if there is no other excuse, a few sentences are changed in the old series in order to compel the people to buy ed with trees-something that The News has with ennui.

Bold Burglars

The boldest bit of bouse breaking and burglary probably ever conmitted in Logansport was perpetrated at the Columbia hotel Saturday night.

Mrs. Wandrei, wife of Louis Wandrei; proprietor of the hotel and restaurant on Railroad street, was confronted at the door of her room by three masked men and at the point of a revolver was commanded not to make an outcry. The villians then securely tied and gagged the lady and deliberately rummaged the rooms occupied by Mr. Wandrei and druggist. his family, in the front part of the hotel and as deliberately made their escape, leaving the invalid victim of their midnight attack unconscious on

The scoundrels had effectually pillaged the rooms. Every drawer or likely place of concealment had been turned out and ransacked, the floor of the suite of rooms being strewn with the articles thus subjected to the scrutiny of the robbers. The rascals had turned the gas off as they took their departure, and had left the jets open. Upon discovering the terrible plight of her mamma the little girl gave the alarm.

It will soon be time to plant trees, and it is a matter that should be considered by ev ery farmer and everybody who has a place where a tree can be planted. "Roadside fruit trees are a feature in Europe," says the Indianapolis News in discussing the matter. "France first set the example of planting fruit trees along the highways. Germany and Belgium have followed. On the highways of Wurtemburg the fruit harvest 20 years ago was valued at over $200,000. Last year it was three times as much. The revenue from the national roads of Saxony, planted with fruit trees, has been $340,000 in 14 years. In Belgium in 1891 741,571 fruit trees were planted along the public highways, which furnished $2,000,000 worth of fruit. In France the production of fruit is estimated at $60,000,000, In South France many of the roads have cherry trees; in Normandy, naturally, apple trees are planted. Twenty years ago the roads of the northeast of France were lined with stately populars, but they were continually sending offshoots into the medows, and the farmers complained so strongly that axes and saws were brought out, and soon the roads were denuded. In their places plum trees have been planted, and thousands of baskets of fruit are now sent to Paris daily, There is no down there are sometimes troubled dye leave at Con Bonaker's barber

Colfax, Ind-, Oct. 14.—Bert Julian, while under the influence of liquor, entered the saloon of Gray and Lenehand at 1 o'clock this afternoon. He drew his pistol, pointed it at Milo Houlehan, the barkeeper on duty at the time, and fired. The bullet blew the side of Houlehan's head off and he died instantly.

After shooting Houlehan, Julian turned toward Frank Gray, one of the proprietors, who happened to be in the saloon when Julian entered, and attempted to shoot him. Gray seized Julian and a desperate struggle followed. The pistol was discharged during the struggle, tearing a hole in the wall injuring no one.

Gray finally succeeded in overpowering Julian, with the assistance of outsiders, who were attracted to the saloon by the shooting, and he was arrested and taken to the jail at | ing promptly attended to. Frankfort. Houlehan was a member of Company D, 11th U.S. infantry, at one time, and saw service in the Porto Lican campaign last year.

Remarkable Calf.

A backwoods preacher discoursed CULVER CITY, on the parable of the prodigal son, and in alluding to the fatted calf, which was killed when the prodigal returned, he said: "Brothers and sisters, you must remember that this was no ordinary calf, but on the contrary it was a very extraordinary calf, selected because it had neither day. His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says: "I was taken with "My price is only $300, and I ain't typhoid fever, that ran into pneumonia My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't set up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong, I can't say too much in its praise." This marvellous medicine is the surest and quickest cure in the world for all Throat and Lung Trouble.
