Whatever fate befell me:

Cupid's Revenge.

56537 OUR wife, Thornton? Why. it seems only yesterday you were carrying my books to school. What do boys know of love?" And Nellie Rivers glanced innocently up into the face of him she addressedas innocently as though she had not known for many a month the question just put to her had been trembling on his eager lips.

A hot flush dyed Thornton May's cheeks at her words. A flash of anger leaped into the dark eyes, a moment before so tenderly passionate.

"Flirt! Heartless!" burst in a muttered whisper from the young man's white lips.

Then he rose with a dignity which seemed suddenly to have sprung into Without even extending his hand, with simply a low bow of courtesy, he left her, she sitting motionless, the echo of the closing of the outside door ringing in her ears strangely like a kneil.

"They say Thornton May is engaged. What wonderful strides he has made in his art!"

"Wonderful, indeed. But who is the fortunate winner of such a prize?"

"A Spanish girl, whom he met abroad. His last picture, about which every one is raying, is said to be her counterpart."

Such was the idle conversation at an evening party which fell upon Nellie Rivers' listening ear.

And this was the meaning of his indifference, when she would have made atonement for the past-for the folly of a girl, who did not know herself, and who had learned the lesson only through four years of bitter suffering, of which this was the end.

"Dreaming Miss Nellie, and alone? What does this mean ?"

It was his voice which broke upon her reverie, his eyes resting on her, from whom, at any cost, she must hide the truth.

"I am growing old," she answered, lightly. "Like yourself I have put away childish things, though, unlike you. I have not assumed fresh responsibilities, upon which, by the way, I believe you are to be congratulated, although you hardly deserve it for keeping such a secret from your friends."

"You speak in enigmas. Of what do you speak?"

"If so, it is a Spanish enigma, and painted in lovely character, however cabalistic they may be."

"Oh," a sudden light breaking in upon him, "you speak of my picture. And does rumor give her to me as my bride? I am indeed, then, open to your congratulations. But come, as I am not yet a Benedict, may I not have this waltz?"

"And this is my revenge?" thought Thornton May, as a few hours later he sat alone in his bachelor apartments moodily surveying the dying embers in the grate. "I, who fancied her voice could no longer thrill or her beauty move me, have but riveted the chains I thought struck off from me forever. To-night how indifferently she congratulated me upon my supposed engagement! Had things been different how charmingly my pretty model might have helped out my plan! I will put the ocean between us ere, in my weakness, I once more give her the right to mock me." * * * * * *

"Going away, Mr. May? Have you tired so soon of your old friends that you must desert them? But I forgetsome one is waiting for you."

"Yes." he answered, "I must once more say good-by, but this time, Miss Nellie, I hope you will add godspeed. I have not forgotten our last parting, though I hope my folly has long ceased to be remembered. You were right. It was a boy's presumption, and I must thank you for my lesson."

This was almost more than she could bear. For the moment tears shimmered in the dark eyes, a sob rose in her throat, but she answered bravely:

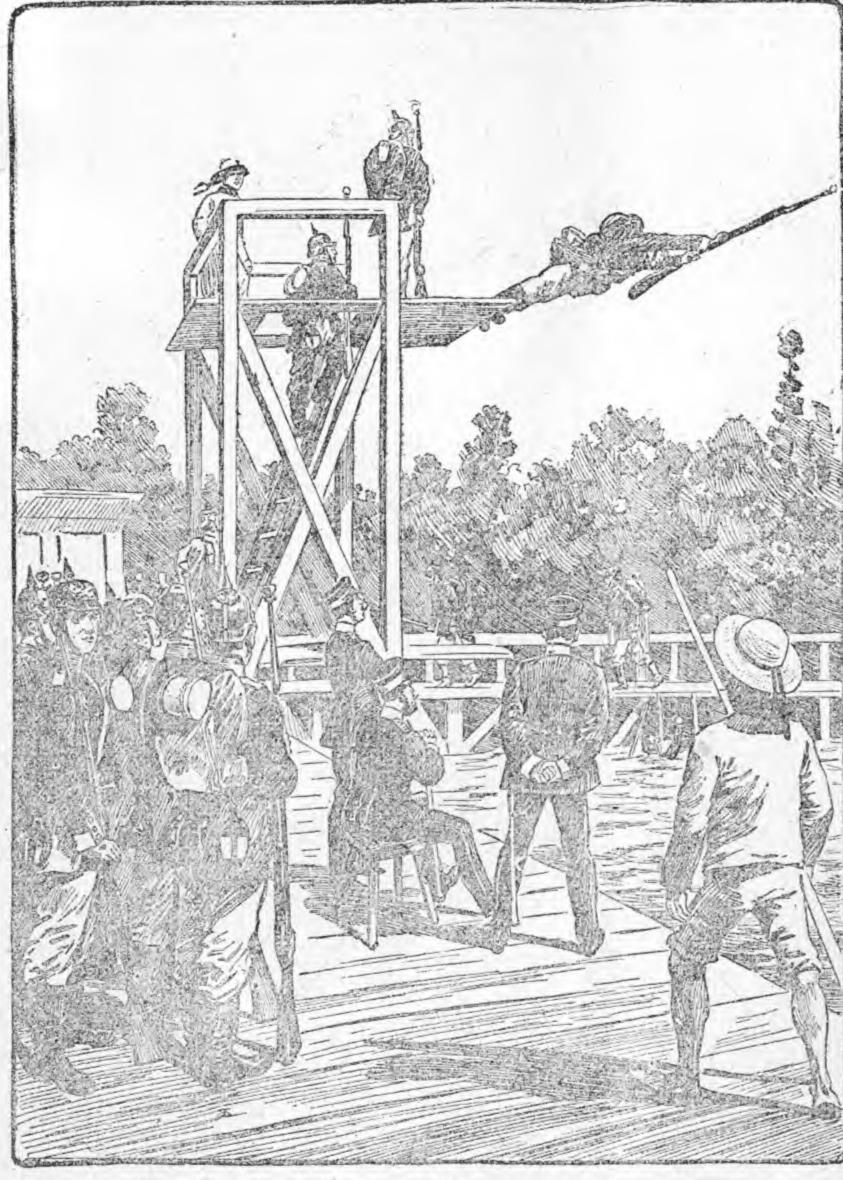

"It was I who should rather ask your pardon for the idle vanity of a girl who knew not the meaning of her own words, but who through them has been the only sufferer. Good-by, Mr. May, and godspeed!"

She the only sufferer? What could she mean?

For a moment a wild hope crossed his mind, to be extinguished the next as he glanced into the calm face and 1,500. It is formed by two strong re- nurse replied. "It will keep him in classes of scientific, academic and law fled, but at the hall door a moment later he paused.

He would return to disabuse her mind of this idle folly as his engagement. So, again crossing the hall and mounting the stairs, he stood upon the threshold of the room he had left so short a time before. But, O, how changed!

Down upon her face lay the figure of the girl who had haunted him all these years, while sob after sob racked her frame.

His revenge was in his hands at last. The moment had come to mock her as she had mocked him; but surely the light growing in his eyes had no mocking ray, as he clasped the sobbing girl close to his heart.

"Is this true, my darling?" he said. "And has our game been cross-purposes all this weary time? O. Nellie. my pride would have kept me silent had you not shown me your secret. I meant, my darling, to teach you, if I could, to love me, but I forgot I had learned the lesson long ago-a lesson whose sweet teachings will guard all my future life."

Thus, with lip pressed to lip, and architect of the cake. heart to heart, her sobs now sobs of happiness, Thornton Hay wreaked his his eye on her and said, with a voice revenge.-Spare Moments.

Couldn't Fill His Teeth.

In one of the rural districts of the Borough of Brooklyn is a little church which pays to its pastor a salary of fewer hundreds a year than the average city clergyman gets thousands. His women parishioners, especially one who poses as the Lady Bountiful of the church, but whose contributions scarcely fit the part, attempt to make up to him in cordiality what he lacks in financial support. They surrounded him at the picnic of the Sunday school of the church the other day and urged him to eat dainties from their baskets. Finally Mrs. Bountiful pleaded with him to try a piece of fruit cake that looked as hard as the heart of a summer girl in October.

"I-I really can't," said the minister. "My teeth are not good."

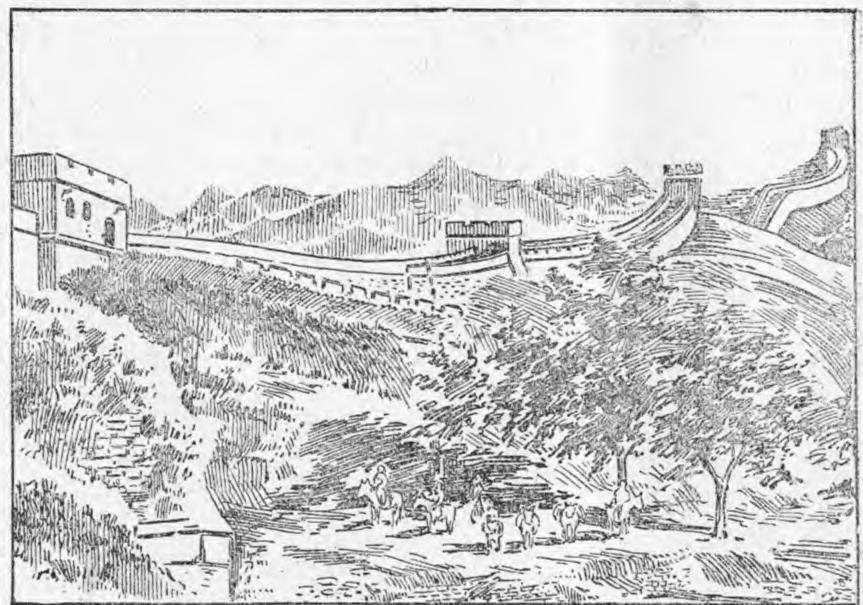

"O, why don't you get your teeth filled?" burst forth the sympathetic

JEFFRIES WINS THE FIGHT.

Wins Over Sharkey in the Twentyfifth Round on Points.

James J. Jeffries retained his title of heavyweight champion of the world Friday night at Coney Island, after one of the hardest battles ever fought by big men in this country. Had the fight ended with the twenty-first round Sharkey would have been given the decision. With the ending of the twenty-third round Siler would have called it a draw. The last two rounds, however, were so far in favor of the champion that the result of the battle was apparent before the reseree, Siler, declared Jeffries victor.

Sharkey's tactics were very, very rough, and he clinched and brought his man's head into chancery a dozen times during the progress of the fight. He used the heel of the glove after every clinch, and in other ways transgressed the rules repeatedly. Jeffries did not fight in the form he displayed against Fitzsimmons. He was wild in the earlier stages of the contest. His defense, too, was weak. Sharkey landed left and right swings repeatedly where Fitzsimmons had failed utterly. He bore in, under, over and through Jeffries' guard at times as though the latter had none.

It was an even match as to strength. The forcing was done by Sharkey, but effective countering stood this off to no inconsiderable extent. The matter of vitality did not figure as much under the heat as was anticipated. Siler and the seconds of the men suffered greatly from this, but the equatorial voyages of the sailor and the blasting furnaces experience of the boilermaker made both men practically immunes. It was an earnest fight all the way through.

Siler's decision, while in accord with the opinions of the winners, and opposed in some quarters by the losers, is approved by the non-betting and neutral critics who saw the fight.

INFLUX OF SPANISH.

Six Thousand Have Arrived in Cuba in Six Months.

On the Spanish steamer Alfonso XIII. which arrived at Havana Thursday, there were 1,175 Spanish immigrants. During the last three months 6,000 Spaniards have arrived there. It is said that the Madrid Government is assisting the people who wish to take up their residence in Cuba. Very few women are

Two problems are presented by this inflow. All the immigrants are poor, and they come seeking work. They are dumped into the city, which is not yet on its feet industrially, and many of them are having hard times. They herd together in such fashion that they increase the danger of the spread of fever. The Spanish merchants and societies are doing everything possible to assist them. The main object is to get them into the country districts.

C., by the steamer Miowera of an appalling earthquake Oct. 10 in the southern portion of the island of Ceram (or Sirang), one of the largest of the Molucca archipelago, part of the Dutch possessions. It is second in size of the group, located between Borneo and Papua and northeast of Amboyna. About 4,000 Malays and Papuans were killed. Avalanches of rocks, split from the mountain sides by the terrific concussion, rolled down the range, burying many settlements, and entombing some hundreds of Papuans who inhabit the interior.

Arms of the Boers.

The forces of the South African Republic are armed with the sporting model of the Manulieher rifle, probably the most deadly weapon of its weight and caliber in the world. The Mannlicher rifle weighs about eight pounds and its barrel is 30 inches in length. Its caliber is .30. It has a killing range of 4,000 yards. At that distance a bullet will go through two inches of solid ash. The bullets used by the Boers are full-mantled, that is, entirely covered with a thin coating of copper or nickel. If this bullet strikes at a range of 1,000 yards or under it will pierce a bone without splintering. At longer ranges, however, it is apt to spread, making a terrible wound.

A story which, if not true, is not badly told, appears in the Boston Transcript, to the effect that while the bark Cape City was at Hong Kong a Chinaman was engaged to paint the necessary name on each bow.

He produced on one bow the legend, "Capecity." without a space between the two words. Then he noted that the "y" was nearest to the ship's stern, and remembering this fact he afforded an excellent example of how severely logical his race can be; for in a little while he had painted on the other bow the striking permutation, "Yticepac," to his own delight and the crew's amazement.

A High-Grade Top Buggy for $34.95.

For those who are accustomed to sending away from home for their goods it is of the greatest importance to know the character and reliability of the establishment selling goods to families from catalogues. The great emporium of the John M. Smyth Co., located at 150 to 166 West Madison street, Chicago, has been established for a third of a century, and Las turnished over half a million homes in Chicago and vicinity alone. This firm enjoys the confidence of the public by its many years of fair dealing. It issues an immense illustrated catalogue that should be in every family, as it describes and gives the price of every article required for household use. A sample of the extraordinary values offered by this firm is shown in the illustration of the buggy at $34.95 in another column of this paper. These carriages are indeed wonderful values, and yet they are but a sample of the thousand and one useful articles illustrated and described in the beautiful catalogue of the John M. Smyth Company.

Rinehart's Indian Pictures.

In the summer of 1898 the Government

Indian Bureau invited all tribes of Indians in this country to send delegates to an Indian congress, and they gathered from far and near with their ponies and tenees and gaudiest trappings in the exposition grounds at Omaha. Never before had there been and never again will there be such a gathering. There were about five hundred of them, some partly civilized, but the greater portion picturesque in original savagery. Strange as it may seem at this late day many of the Indians declared that before coming to Omaha they had no idea what multitudes of white men there were or how hopeless it was to fry to stand against them. This was probably the last time that so complete and spectacular a view of the North American Indian will be possible, and those who had the privilege of witnessing it are to be counted fortunate. At the time of the Indian congress a prominent photographer obtained permission to take the photographs of the most noted chiefs present and succeeded in obtaining a collection which never will be equaled. Mr. Rinehart, the photographer, copyrighted all these pictures and placed in a few art stores some hand-colored proofs which, notwithstanding their high price, sold at once, and these Indian pictures have become the fad of the year. The Chicago Great Western Railway has succeeded at large expense in obtaining from Mr. Rinehart the privilege of reproducing the best four of these pictures, Chiefs "Wolf Robe," "Louison," "Hollow Horn Bear" and "Hattie Tom," and have incorporated them in an art calendar for 1900, which is pronounced the most artistic production yet attempted. The heads are 6x8 inches, one on sheet, wonderfully reproduced in all their original colors and when framed make most striking and effective pictures, particularly suited for holiday gifts. Owing to the expense but a very small edition has been issued. They will be sent, however, taire. while the supply lasts to any person sending 25 cents in stamps or silver to cover the royalty charges and the expense of packing and mailing to F. H. Lord, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, 113 Adams street, Chicago.

War Dogs in the German Army.

Each company therein has a collie or dog of similar breed trained to find wounded soldiers on the field and convey intelligence of their whereabouts to the hospital corps. The dog carries a metaliic case attached to his neck, containing a pad and pencil, brandy and other restoratives. If the soldier be not too severely wounded he writes his name on the paper, which is returned to the case. The dog hastens for help, and he who might have been lost to his comrades is rescued.

A Big Fill.

On the Deadwood, S. D., branch of the Burlington Railroad is a gulch 700 feet wide, known as Sheeps Canyon. This was crossed, until recently, by a wooden bridge, 126 feet high, which took over 240,000 feet of lumber in the building. Recently this trestle was filled in, and the great undertaking attracted the attention of railroad men all over the country. It took twenty weeks to accomplish the task. It was necessary to haul, 2,889,-000 cubic feet of earth one and one-half miles up a two per cent grade and unload off the high bridge. This required 1,486 trains of fifteen cars each; 22,000 carloads in all. It was a stupendous undertaking, but now the bridge can't burn, and it doesn't cost a lot of money every year for repairs and watchers.

Rabbit Hatched Them.

From London comes a story of a rabbit that hatched doves' eggs and thus became the proud foster mother of two little squabs. The rabbit was captured while very young and put among the doves because there seemed no better place for it at the time. It at once made friends with its feathered componions and for some reason or another insisted upon getting into one of the nests. So the sitting dove let the rabbit attend to the incubation of her eggs, but after the young doves came the mother bird again assumed control and attended to feeding them.

INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL CAUSES THAT PRODUCE DREAMS.

The Influence on the Nerves by the Stomach and the Pood That It Contains-Events That Occur In a Fraction of a Second.

Dreams are generally a repetition of thoughts unguided by reason. Those caused by internal action or brought about by action within the body are due entirely to the action and state of the stomach, which in turn is affected by the quantity and quality of food consumed. The first ends or feelers of the nerves are located in the wails of the stomach, and as the food is digested they draw up the nourishment and distribute it throughout the nervous system to replace the waste that has taken place during the day. If the stomach be surcharged with an abundance of heating food, too much nonrishment is forced upon the brain, causing an abnormal filling of the channels, thereby expanding them, bringing them in touch with others and causing the matter from one to overflow into or to mix with the fluid of neighboring channels. Whenever the fluid traverses a chaunel more or less foreibly the thought which originated that passage is reproduced more or less vividly, hence insures the general mixing up of thoughts which originally had no connection with each other.

An overloaded stomach also causes a flow of blood to the brain, sept there by nature to assist in assimilating the extra nourishment, and the overcharged blood vessels, pressing upon the nerve channels near the brain, cause even more turbulent disturbances. This accounts for the advice of so many quantity, men that no considerable quantity, men that no considerable should be especially of animal room, should be especially of animal before bedtime. The crossing and touching of these thought channels brought about in this way produce the absurd mixtures of fancies that often come to us when we sleep.

The stomach, too, is a mill which keeps on forever grinding, the walls acting as the grindstones. When, therefore, there is nothing between them, or, in other words, when the stomach is empty, one wall grinds upon the other, causing an irritation of the nerves which produces that peculiar sensation of falling from some great height.

To understand how external action will nifect the dream of a sleeper it must be borne in mind that those dreams which seem to take hours, and even days, in passing really occupy but a minute fraction of a second. If, therefore, we are awakened by some loud, strident noise, say by the cracking of a whip, then between the time that the sound strikes the ear while we are yet asleep and the time that we are fully awake to realize what has caused the sound a few moments only have elapsed, but those few moments were sufficient to allow of a dream of apparently several hours' duration.

As an example: A milkman, driving up beneath an open hedroom window, cracks his whip smartly. Immediately the thought produced by the sound causes a dream. The sleeper imagines himself a soldier who has fallen into the hands of the enemy. He is led out to be shot. He stands blindfolded, with hands tied, before the platoon of soldiers. He hears the click, click, click as the rifles are cocked. He hears the word given, and the noise of the volley rings out on his ears. Then he awakes with a start, to hear the rumble of the milkman's wagon as he cracked his whip and drove off over some rough cobblestones.

A blow, a cut or a sensation of pain will operate in the same way and Ewaken certain channels of thought connected with pain just as the noise awoke those connected with sound.

For instance, a sleeper dreams that he is closed up in some close traveling carriage and is being driven rapidly off in an unknown direction by a man who has designs upon his purse and life. He tries to shout, in vain he struggles to get free and in the tussie drives an arm through the glass window of the carriage. The hand is cut and bleeding. It smarts fearfully, and he awakes to find that in his sleep he had carelessly thrown out an arm, and his hand has smashed some fine medicine glass on a stand by the bedside. The whole dream passed between the time that the hand first struck the glass, creating the sensation of pain, and the moment that the sleeper a woke to real-.ize the fact .- Chicago Record.

EDISON'S INITIATION,

Dramatic Climax to His Introduction to Chewing Tobacco.

"A long time ago, when I was a mite of a boy," said Edison, "I, with two other little fellows, had saved up a lot of scrap iron and tin and zine which we meant to sell when the holidays ame around. There was a large boy in the neighborhood (I think he must have become a bunko steerer after- as ward) who knew of our hoard. One day when we had been in swimming he came to us and said:

"'Say, you fellows, if you will give me that tin and iron and stuff you have. I'll teach you how to chew.'

"The proposition struck us as being very fair, particularly as he agreed to furnish the tobacco. Well, we were quite willing, so he brought some Canadian cut down to a sand bank by the river. He divided the stuff into three parts and gave us each one. Then he said:

"'Now you must do exactly as I say, and you must do it right away, or you'll never learn to chew.

"'Now, then,' he shouted, 'hold up!' "We held it up.

"'Put it in your mouth!" he yelled.

"We put it in. "'Chew!' he hissed dramatically.

"We worked away at a great rate. "'Swallow it!" he screeched.

"We guiped it down, and then that young rascal fairly rolled down the bank with laughter, while we soon rolled down the other side, sicker, I suppose, than any of us had been in our lives before or . ince. One of the boys nearly died, and they had a very serious time with him. That was my first experience with tobacco."-Philadelphia Inquirer.

FRESH GOLD CROPS.

Localities Where the Precious Metal Deposits Itself Annually.

There are several localities where gold may be said to grow every year or, in other words, where fresh deposits of the precious metal are to be found annually.

One such district is in the Edmonton country, in the Canadian northwest, where, after the spring floods; from the same banks and "benches" of the Saskatchewan river there are taken every year considerable quantities of gold by a few diggers, who make their living out of the business.

But the most conspicuous and interesting case of this sort is to be seen near Ichang, in the province of Hupeh, in China. For many centuries past each year gold has been washed from the banks of coarse gravel on both sides of the river Han, and in the andst of the nuriferous district there is an ancient town called Li-kiu-tlen, which means "gold diggers' inn." Its inhabitants subdivide the gold bearing Should be used a buying a Co c staking out their claims with partitions. They pay no royalty and appear to earn no more than a bare subsistence. But this may be doubted, as John Chinaman is an adept at "layin low and sayin nuffin."

The annual river fleeds bring down millions of tons of mud and sand from the mountains, and this mud and sand, which is charged with gold, both "fine" and in flakes, is deposited to a depth of six inches or more on the banks of gravel. It is in the winter that the gold is washed, and it is said that seven men work about 20 tons of "pay dirt' in a day.-Cincinnati Enquirer.

Medicines? (From Sylvan Valley News, Brevard, N.C.

It may be a question whether the edito of a newspaper has the right to public recommend any of the various proprietary medicines which flood the market, yet as a preventative of suffering we feel it a duty to say a good word for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diagrheea Remedy. We have known and used this medicine in our family for twenty years and have always found it reliable. In many cases a dose of this remedy would save honrs of suffering while a physician is awaited. We do not believe in depending implicity on any nedicine for a cure, but we do believe that if a bottle of Chamberlain's Diarrhoea Remedy were kept on hand and administered at the inception of an attack much suffering might be avoided and in many cases he presence of a physician would not be voided and in very many cases the presuce of a physician would not be required. At least this has been our experience during the past twenty years. For sale by I'. E. Slatter druggist.

FIGS CO TO COURT.

And Prove the Most Effective Witnesses in a Damage Suit.

An English solicitor was defending a fruit broker in an action brought for the recovery of $100, the price paid for a consignment of figs which the plaintiff declared to be unfit for human food. The defense alleged that, although moderately discolored by salt water, as the plaintiff knew when he bought them, the figs were perfectly wholesome. The figs were in court.

The plaintiff, a coster, who conducted his own case, was skillfully cross examined. The trial was obviously going against him, and once or twice he retorted so notly that the judge threat ened to commit him for contempt.

At length the coster grew desperate and, turning to the opposing counsel, hoarse and perspiring, he said:

"Look here, guy'nor, you say them firs are good to cat, and I say they ain't. That's all there is between us, ain't it? Now, s'elp me, if you'll eat two of them figs and you ain't sick immediately afterward I'll lose my case."

The judge at once saw the propriety of this suggestion and asked the lawyer what he proposed to do.

"Your honor is trying this case, not I." was the reply.

"No, no! The offer is made to you," said the judge.

A hurried consultation took place. Counsel suggested that it was the solicitor's duty to submit to the experiment. The solicitor refused. The broker himself was then asked if he would

"What will happen to me if I don't?" said be.

"You'll lose the case," replied both his legal advisers.

"Then." said he hurriedly, "lose the case, lose the case!" And so he did .-Youth's Companion.

BOTTOMLESS HOLES.

Pits In the Transvaal Whose Depths Have Not Been Fathomed.

Up near the course of the little river of Malmani there is a strange round hole in the rocks a few yards in diamter descending perpendicularly down to the unknown. In that hole there is nothing. It is empty. The neighbors say a stone dropped into it is never heard of again. These good people, though, are not given to throwing in many, even when the protecting parson is there on his rounds. They gravely suspect a too free indulgence might prove an annoyance to an irritable personage whom they would rather not see on their level in that part of the world and whose visits in anger they would be loath to receive.

Though this hole is empty, there is another, somewhat larger, close to it which is not empty. This other is full of water almost up to the brim, and it has upon it a floating island of grass which shifts from side to side with every change of the wind. To find further examples of the same sort of herbage it is necessary to go 600 miles northward, well into the hot districts in the tropics.

Boers say of this second pit they have endeavored to sound it, using 12 dozen rawhide thongs (reins) tied end to end, a line, say, of 200 fathoms, with a big stone as sinker, but without striking bottom. The sinker and line, at the lowest, were pulled sharply away to the side, as if a strong current were coursing below. Upon that they ceased to investigate further. You see, they were meddling in things which didn't concern them and risking encounters with powers best left alone. So how deep it may be we do not know yet. Some day a bolder spirit may tell us .- Cincinnati Enquirer.

A Chess Genius.

When Lasker, previous to the 1899 chess international tournament, visited Manchester he was opposed in a simultaneous performance by an unknown player, who had obtained permission from the club secretary to take a board against the champion. The player put up quite a fair game, but was finally mated. Then he inquired of Lasker to know wherein he had erred in the conduct of the play.

"Well," said Lasker, "your play has been somewhat peculiar. I notice that you have not once moved your knights."

"Ne," replied the player. "the fact is that I have not as yet quite mastered the move of the knights, so I thought it safer not to move them at all,"

The stranger had unconsciously conceded his famous adversary the odds of two knights, not to mention the handicap of his cramped position .-Brooklyn Eagle.

MARCONI LEAVES US.

HIS TELEGRAPHIC SYSTEM WILL NOT BE USED.

United States Government Abandons Experiments with It-Can Only Signal 30 Miles by Water or 12 by Land-Activity at Duluth.

For the present at least there will be no attempt to experiment with the Marconi wireless telegraph in connection with the signal service system of our army. General Greely, chief signal officer, says as much. It is given out that the apparatus brought by Signor Marconi to this country is unsuited to greater distances than twelve miles by land and thirty by water. The signal corps can operate its own system a distance of twelve miles, and so there would be no practical use in experimenting with the new system. This is said to conclude the negotiations, which have been in progress for some time. Signor Marconi has sailed for England, and in this connection it is said that Great Britain is anxious to try wireless telegraphy in its campaign in South Africa. This report is not given much credence in army and navy circles, however, as the signor would hardly be able to reach the Transvaal in time to do much service.

ELEVATOR FALLS FIVE STORIES.

Ten Persons Injured by the Sudden Dropping of the Cage.

The elevator in the Phoenix building. one of the largest structures in Minneapolis, fell five stories when filled with passengers. Ten persons were injured, several of them seriously. The injured are: C. B. Trafton, L. Armstrong, Garvey Donaldson, J. H. Tallmadge Sr., W. H. Place, Arthur Fredenburg, Edwin Lindahl, Charles B. Martin, J. H. Tallmadge Jr., and an unidentified woman. The cause of the accident was the giving way of the cable in the socket attached to the car, and when the carriage dropped the heavy weights, detached from their fastenings at the eleventh story, fell on it, crushing the occupants of the cage in the basement. The most severe injuries are broken legs, and it is thought that all the victims will recover. The elevator was inspected a few days ago and reported to be in a first-class condition.

of the Eskimos. J. A. Osborne, editor of the Fort Francis newspaper, has made a trip to the Hudson Bay country and went clear into the Eskimo land beyond, where the Indians live. He says the stories printed a few weeks ago of the riches of Ungava land are correct. It is a great country. He has a specimen of coal from a mine being opened and will soon be shipping. It is a quality of anthracite, with very light specific gravity and a very high percentage of carbon. He thinks it will find a large market. Work on the gold fields is very active.

ENGLAND NEEDS BIRCHWOOD.

Duluth May Ship Lumber Abroad for Spoolmaking.

Duluth lumbermen have been receiving inquiries of late from England as to birchwood for spoolmaking, to be delivered at the seaboard for export. It is quite probable that later a business in this class of timber may be developed. Cedar and spruce lands are also in big demand, the former for railway ties and the latter for pulp wood, and a large quantity of each is being shipped. It is expected that at least 40,000,000 feet of pine lumber will be shipped east and southeast from Duluth the coming win-

TO USE MARCONI SYSTEM.

American Company Will Connect Five Hawaiian Islands,

Telegraphic communication by Sig. Marconi's wireless system is to be established between five of the Hawaiian Islands by a company of Americans. Frederick J. Cross, of the firm of Catton, Neill & Co., engineers of Honolulu, has closed a contract for the American company in Hawaii. Although many engineers regarded the connection of the five islands by cable as impracticable, because of coral reefs, on which a cable is soon covered with coral growth, breaks are frequent and repairs exceedingly difficult, the American company had about decided to attempt it, as the needs of telegraphic communication had grown most urgent. Then they heard of Sig. Marconi's achievements, and Mr. Cross was sent to this country to view the workings of his system. He found that the Marconi system would cost much less and be more practicable in many ways than a cable. Regular telegraph business will be done by the company installing the wireless system. The distance over which communication will be established will vary from eight to sixty-one miles.

MURDER AND SUICIDE AT HOTEL.

Railroad Detective Kills His Wife and Blows His Own Head Off.

Andrew H. Patterson, a railroad detective, shot and instantly killed his wife and then blew the top of his head off at Bartl's hotel, State and Harrison streets, Chicago. In a letter written to Night Clerk Elliott, Patterson explained that he was tired of living such a life and added that jealousy had caused him to commit murder and suicide. Three shots were fired by the desperate man, two into the body of his wife and the third into his own head. When the sharp reports of the revolver rang out from Patterson's apartments nearly every guest rushed from their rooms to learn the trouble. Clerk Elliott battered down the door leading to Patterson's room and found husband and wife dead. It is thought that he put the barrel of the weapon in his mouth and fired, as the head was nearly blown from the shoulders.

DEATHS DUE TO GUNPOWDER.

Two Employes of a Factory Fatally

Burned Through Dust on Clothing. While five workmen in the Fontanet powder mill near Terre Haute, Ind., were sitting in the electric power house a burned-out fuse threw a spark on the hat of Sam King, one of the men. The hat was impregnated with powder dust, as was also his clothing. In an instant he was ablaze. As he ran for the door he brushed against Alsa McBride and Burt Overby, both of whom blazed up from the contact and ran after him. Other men pulled off the blazing clothing and hurried the men to the wash-house, where they were drenched. King and McBride died from their injuries.

JAPANESE SEALER SENT TO THE BOTTOM.

is Caught Poaching by the Gunboat Alexis and Fired Upon While Attempting to Escape-Whaler Takes Many Whales and Much Ambergris.

The whaling bark Charles W. Morgan, which has arrived at San Francisco from Japanese waters, brings the story of the sinking of a Japanese scaling schooner by the Russian gunboat Alexis. The schooner, which carried a crew of twenty-one men, was caught poaching on Russian sealing preserves. It was almost dark, and the sealer tried to elude the gunboat. A shot was fired across her bows. but she kept on her course. Then the Russian captain ordered his guns trained on the schooner. Three of her men were picked up by the Russian boat, but the rest were drowned. Two Japanese schooners were on the forbidden grounds when the Alexis appeared. Both schooners tried to escape and separated. One of them was sunk, but in stopping to pick up the survivors, the Alexis allowed the other to escape. It was this schooner which the Morgan spoke and from whom the news of the accident was obtained.

WHALER'S GOOD LUCK.

Took Fifty Wales and Secured Sixty Pounds of Ambergris.

The whaling bark Charles W. Morgan, which has arrived at San Francisco from the Okhotsk Sea, during her year's cruise secured 1,400 barrels of sperm oil, 2,600 pounds of bone and 60 pounds of ambergris. The latter was an especially good find, as it will bring from $250 to $400 a pound. The ambergris was landed in Japan, and has already been sent to the owners of the vessel, J. and W. Wing of New Bedford. The Morgan caught in all forty-eight sperm whales and two right whales.

William Wainscott, a gardener, shot and killed George A. Tunks, his hired man, at Springfield, Ill. The murder was committed at Wainscott's home, which was also the home of Tunks and his wife. After the shooting Wainscott walked to the police station and gave himself up. He claims he did the shooting in self-defense. The shooting was the culmination of differences that had existed between Wainscott and Tunks for the last week. Tunks, with his wife and child, had been living at Wainscott's house and Mrs. Tunks was doing th ehousework. Wainscott is a single man and he paid Mrs. Tunks for her services. Wainscott discharged Tunks a few days ago and ordered the latter and his family to leave his house. This they refused to do, as Tunks claimed Wainscott owed him for labor.

SAYS WAR MUST GO ON

REPORT OF THE PHILIPPINE COMMISSION.

Members Unanimous in Declaring that the United States Should Remain in the Philippines-Are Not Ready for Self-Goverment.

The preliminary statement of the Philippine commission was handed to President McKinley Thursday. An unanimity of opinion favoring the retention of the islands, the intimation being made that it will be a long time before the natives can govern themselves, and that government of the islands by the United States is the archipelago's only salvation, are the main features of the document. No advice, however, is given as to the proper course to pursue in the premises, and the statements made tend to lay all the blame on Aguinaldo for existing hostilities.

The historical events leading up to the rebellion of Aguinaldo against American authority are succinctly recorded, including a statement of the grievances that led to the uprising of the natives against Spain in 1896 and the responsibility for the existing condition of hostility between the insurgents and the American forces of St. Joseph and Gordon Jones. In ad- is clearly placed on the shoulders of the rebel leader, whose aim is shown to be not the advancement of his fellow countrymen, but solely the gratification of his personal ambitions. In the language of the commissioners, instead of being a patriot, a great champion of freedom and a second George Washington, Aguinaldo is pictured as a miserable, shifting, tricky, treacherous, murderous upstart, whom Gen. Otis and other Americans would be unwilling to even associate with.

One conclusion the commissioners reach relates to the capability of the Filipinos for self-government. According to their idea the people are not ready for it. The report of the commission makes it plain that at no time could the abandonment of the position taken when the American flag was raised over Manila have been seriously considered as compatible with the honor of the United States or its duty to the vast population of the archipelago placed in its hands by the treaty of Paris. The gist of the report specifies the need for American occupancy and urges the necessity for maintaining the army.

Among the more prominent suggestions embodied in the statement are references regarding the good conduct of the Americans now there and the bright future for the islands under the domination of Spain's successor. Concluding it says: "Our control means to the inhabitants of the Philippines internal peace and order, a guarantee against foreign aggression and against the dismemberment of their country, commercial and industrial prosperity and as large a share of the affairs of government as they shall prove fit to take. When peace and prosperity shall have been established throughout the archipelago, when education shall have become general, then, in the language of a leading Filipino, his people will under our guidance, 'become more American than the Americans themselves."

be friendly with the Americans and he believes they mean to treat him and his people fairly. The religion of the natives is Mohammedan and they are both ignorant and fanatical. Polygamy is a part of their religion and slavery in the shape of a sort of feudal bondage exists. The men on the islands are powerful and strong and they are desperate fighters. They consider death, in the cause of religion, the easiest and surest way to heaven. Prof. Schurman says if the United States tries to interfere with rights and customs in the Sulu islands it will provoke a long and bloody war.

Mother Abducts Her Own Child-Bank Wrecker Must Serve Out His Term-Suicide Caused by Domestic Troubles-Fight at North Salem.

A man and woman abducted Elvah, the 6-year-old adopted daughter of Joel Jackson of Red Bridge. The child was attending school when the pair drove up and the man entered the school room. He told the teacher, Joseph Long, that Mr. Jackson had sent for the girl. They put her into the buggy and drove away. Long, suspecting something wrong, dismissed school and went to Jackson, who started in pursuit. The couple were captured at Logansport. The woman is Mrs. Alvah Sherrill, of Attica, the mother of the child. She asserts she never surrendered her claim to the girl.

Victims Bead Off a Pardon.

John F. Johnson, president of the State National Bank, Logansport, which institution he was convicted of wrecking by his embezzlement of $500,000, will not be pardoned. The stockholders of the defunct concern have followed up the petitions circulated for his pardon with such diligence that the prayer of the friends of Johnson, now serving a sevenyear sentence in the Ohio penitentiary, will never reach President McKinley. The share owners appealed to Judge Baker and District Attorney Wishard, who tried the case, to stop the agitation for clemency and both agreed not to sign the petition for a parole.

After being repeatedly warned that if he made any outery he would be killed the three men hoisted him into a refrigerator car. A bottle of whisky was thrown in and the door bolted on the outside. Watkins shouted himself hoarse. He was heard pounding on the door the next morning, after having been a prisoner more than ten hours.

INDIANA'S PENSIONERS.

Creditable Reason Why the State Takes the Lead.

Indiana takes the lead as a pension State. The annual statement of the Pension Department has recently been issued. In round numbers the States drawing the highest pensions are Ohio, with $15,000,000; Pennsylvania, with $12,700,000; New York, $12,000,000; Indiana, $10,000,000, and Illinois, $9,000,-000. Indiana has 65,000 pensioners, who draw an average pension of a fraction over $160 per annum. In the list Indiana has 225 veterans of the civil war who are drawing the limit of $72 a month, and seventy veterans of the civil and of the Mexican war who are drawing $50 a month. In number of pensioners and number of high pensioners in the average for all in the State, Indiana leads all other States in the Union by a broad margin. Indiana, with a population of 40,000 less than that of Massachusetts, by the census of 1899, receives in pensions $10,443,000 annually, while Massachusetts gets but $5,420,000. Similar comparisons will show that Indiana is the greatets pension State according to her population.

Commissioner Evans has analyzed the pension apportionment by congressional districts, and that makes a very fair basis for comparison. On this basis Indiana shows a clear lead, while Kansas comes in a good second. The Indiana pensions run $803,000 per district; Kausas $775,000. Among the States at the front are Missouri, with $448,000; New Jersey, with $312,000, and New York, with $352,000 per district. Massachusetts averages $417,000 per district. Indiana was one of the States putting the largest number of men into the field. Among the States of the Union it stood fifth, with New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois leading, with Massachusetts and Missouri following. It put 206,000 men into the field, and in partial explanation of the great number of heavy pensioners it can be said that no other State in the Union spilled so much blood and participated in as many bloody engagements. Indiana's war history is written in letters of crimson on the coil of seventeen States.

INDIANA IS GOOD ENOUGH.

Many Emigrants to the Northwest Are tick of Their Bargains.

In a private letter a former Indianian, now a resident of North Dakota, speaks with much feeling of the mistake made by Indiana farmers who are persuaded by real estate and railroad agents from the Northwest to sell out their holdings here and go up there and buy land in the expectation of bettering themselves. The representations made by the agents are, he declares, very misleading. The temperature, which they admit gets pretty low in the winter, but which they assert is never uncomfortable, because "you do not feel the cold where the atmosphere is so dry," this correspondent says is quite as uncomfortable as cold weather anywhere else. The mercury during the last week in January ran the scale from 20 to 35 degrees below zero. Such weather is common there and not the exceptional thing of years. Further, he says, these agents conceal material facts, such as local market prices, cost of fuel, lumber, tax rates, rate of interest on loans, etc., and the new settlers are greatly disappointed and discouraged when they learn the truth. If they write back to their servations. old home newspapers warning others not to be beguiled as they were the letter is copied into the papers of their new homes and they are attacked and vilified. Their prudent course is to make the best of a bad bargain in silence.

This story is not a new one. It has been repeated, with variations, hundreds of times by men to whom the region that is a little farther on always seems more highly favored than the place where they now are. They could by proper inquiry satisfy themselves that the new country toward which they look bears the enchantment of distance and that it has few, if any, advantages over the place where they now are; but they do not take these precautions. The glamour of the distant and untried and the desire for the new and strange overcome them and they go to the far-off regions only to regret their venture afterward. It is doubtful if any farmer ever improved his prospects in an agricultural sense by a removal from Indiana. He will hardly find better or more easily tilled land in any other region, his markets are near at hand, and the transportation and the fuel questions do not bother him. Farmers everywhere have their problems and their difficulties, as all business men have, but those of Indiana have as few as any of their brethren, and in many respects have advantages those of States farther West do not enjoy. Those who "move on" learn to value these blessings after they have taken their flight.

BLUNDER OF THE BRITISH.

Blame for Ladysmith Defeat Divided Between White and Carleton.

English military experts are agreed that the defeat near Ladysmith was due to bad blunders. Gen. White is blamed for not having provided means of keeping in touch with Col. Carleton's column and for not having made any effort to extricate the command from its untenable position. Col. Carleton is blamed for not having retired to Ladysmith immediately after the loss of his artillery and ammunition through the stampede of his mules. In some quarters it is suggested that the Cape boys who were driving the mules and whose loyalty has been under suspicion, caused the stampede in order to help the Boer cause.

Gen. White, in giving details of the capture of his left wing, says: "The lost detachment under Col. Carleton started Sunday night to seize Nicholson Nek, thus turning the enemy's right. Carleton got within two miles of Nicholson unmolested, when suddenly boulders were rolled from the hill and a few rifle shots were fired. This stampeded the mules drawing the ammunition and they disappeared in the direction of the enemy with practically all the gun equipment. Carleton then entrenched his forces on a neighboring hill. At 9:30 a. m. Monday, the Boers attacked the British in heavy force. Their fire was searching and two companies of the Gloucester regiment were obliged to retire from their advanced position. The enemy then pressed in at close range and our losses were numerous. At 3). m. our ammunition was practically exhausted. When the Boers

WHAT ENGLAND WANTS.

Will Relinquish Rights in Samoa for a Part of New Guinea.

It is reported by cable that England is willing to relinquish its rights in Samoa to Germany if the latter will turn over to the British Government the German portion of the Island of New Guinea. Next to Australia, New Guinea is the largest island in the world. It is six times as large as England and is only separated from the Australian continent by a shallow strait, which is eighty miles wide in its narrowest part. New Guinea is 1,500 miles long and from twenty to 480 miles in width. The island is divided into three parts, belonging respectively to Holland, Germany and Great Britain. The Dutch claim dates from 1848, when the sovereignty was proclaimed over the western half of the island. The remainder is almost equally divided between England and Germany, the division having been made in 1884. Kaiser Wilhelm's Land, which is the official name of the German territory, is under the control of the German New Guinea Company. It has an area of 70,000

Europeans. The interior of the island is still an almost unknown country. It contains many enormous mountains and great rivers. Rich deposits of gold have been found and the forests abound with ebony and other valuable woods. Included in the German protectorate is the Bismarck archipelago, consisting of a large number of islands adjoining Kaiser Wilhelm's Land.

Collapse of a Chicago Warehouse Destroys Life and Property.

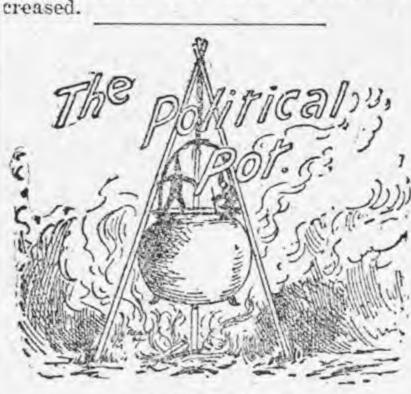

The collapse of the six-story seed warehouse at 139-141 West Lake street, Chicago, Wednesday afternoon wrecked half a block of buildings and caused the loss of at least five lives. F. S. Hanson, owner of the New England mills, adjoining, was killed, and three men are missing, and are supposed to have been crushed to death under the falling walls. An unknown woman was seen standing in front of the seed warehouse just as the front walls fell into the street. She was heard to cry out in terror, but before any one could get to the spot the walls of other | 166 acres of land northwest of Washingbuildings began falling, and the sidewalks and street became piled up with debris.

To add to the disaster, the ruins caught fire and stopped any attempt to search for the bodies of the dead for several hours. The property loss will foot up over $200,-000. Dozens of people had narrow escapes from death. Several were more or less injured by falling bricks and timbers. Probably fifty people were employed in and about the wrecked buildings and it is regarded as almost miraculous that more lives were not lost.

The great broomcorn trust, about which so much speculation has been had, has been incorporated under the laws of the State of Indiana as the Union Broom Supply Company, with headquarters in Chicago. The object of the association has been to corner the broomcorn market, and it is claimed that it has succeeded, having over $2,000,000 invested in a quantity estimated at between 15,000 and 20,000 tons, or seven-eighths of the total crop of 1899. Prices of broomcorn have been advanced over 150 per cent already, and if the promises of the syndicate, as well as their hopes, are realized, these prices will be very much further in-

In the next Congress there will be to large appropriation for rural free delivery. The report of Perry Heath show; that rural free delivery is a success, although the appropriation still limits it to the experimental stage. It has been demonstrated that the average cost to the population served in the whole country is only $4 cents per capita annually, whereas in cities of only 5,000 having free delivery the cost is at least $2.80 annually for each inhabitant. It has been proved that where the roads are fairly good, the houses near together, and the population reasonably intelligent letters can and should be delivered and collected at the farm cross roads. The reports of the success of the system on selected routes are almost invariably enthusiastic, and it is believed Congress will appropriate at least $1,000,000 for the extension of the service to the farmers. It has resulted in an increase of the circulation of both daily and weekly papers, while there has been an immediate addition to the general postal revenues. Farmers receive and write more letters when they can have them delivered and collected. As fast as the money is provided new routes will be laid out. On July 1 the routes extendsquare miles, about the same as that of ed over 8,930 miles, covered an area of the State of Missouri, and a population 7,567 square miles, served a population of of 100,000, of whom less than 200 are 273,604, and had handled 9,212,927 pieces of mail.

> President McKinley will probably outline his Philippine policy, at least far enough to ask Congress for a specific declaration as to the status of the islands. The treaty of peace ceded the Philippines outright to the United States, but Congress has not yet accepted them, inasmuch as the treaty was ratified by the Senate alone, and the status of the islands has, therefore, never been fixed by statute law. The President has assumed that the United States can keep the islands, but he will report to Congress that, while the situation does not justify now the establishment of a civil government, it is necessary that the islands should be formally annexed to the United States by law, in general terms, so that the President may proceed legally to defend them.

Circulars have been prepared and sent out to the consular representatives of the Government all over the world. instructing them to purchase and forward to Washington animals of as many different species, indigenous to the countries in which they are located, as possible. It is expected that Africa will contribute the most specimens, among them the gorilla, giraffe and chimpanzee. The national "zoo" will be maintained in connection with the Smithsonian Institution.

The Government is not concerned over the claim made in the Spanish Senate that two of the Batanez group and the island of Calayan were not included in the transfer of the Philippines from Spain to the United States through ignorance on the part of the treaty makers. The American commissioners gave the fullest consideration to the question whether these islands would not be outside the boundaries of the archipelago prescribed by the treaty, and it was finally arranged, with the concurrence of the Spanish commissioners, that they should be included within American jurisdiction. even if the maps followed by the treaty makers should prove to be defective.

Librarian Putnam is doing a work for the Congressional Library which has long been needed. Of all libraries in the country that one should be most liberally supplied with newspapers and periodicals for use, not only by Congressmen, but by the public in a city where almost more than any other the people should keep abreast of the times. A Live Bird on mer Hat.

One Chicago girl's hat made a sensation in the women's lunchroom at the Auditorium yesterday. She came from Michigan avenue and stopped for a moment in the parlor. While there she noticed a young sparrow futter in through the open window and wheel once or twice around the room. She felt it brush against her hat in its flight, but thought no more of it and passed on into the lanchroom. She had picked up the bill of fare and was reading it when she felt that some one was watching her, and, glancing around, she discovered that she was a focusing point for all the eyes in the immediate vicinity.

Of course she blushed and colored up and began to wouder at the cause of the people's interest. Just then the walter, who had been hovering around, noticed her confusion and, bending down, whispered, "Tabdon me, miss, but dah's a live buhd on yo' hat." .

And then instead of going into hysteries she calmly said: "Thank you. Will you please shoo it off?"

And the waiter "shooed" the sparrow toward a nearby window, while the owner of the hat fixed it on straight and proceeded to order her luncheon. -Chicago News.

A GREAT WRESTLER.

His Encounter With the Czar and

His Ignoble Reward. One of the stories of Peter the Great which are current at the court of St. Petersburg is of the great ezar's wrestling match with a young dragoon. Once in the imperial palace-so the story goes-Peter was at table with a great many princes and noblemen, and soldiers were posted within the hall. The ezar was in a joyous mood, and, rising, called out to the company; | red silk and hung round your neck will "Listen, princes and boyars! Is there among you one who will wrestle with the czar?" There was no reply, and the ezar repeated the challenge.

No prince or nobleman dared to wrestle with his sovereign. But all at once a young dragoon stepped out from the ranks of the soldiers on guard. "Listen, Orthodox czur," he said. "I will wrestle with thee!" "Well, young dragoon," said Peter, "I will wrestle with thee, but on these conditions: If thou throwest me, I will pardon thee; but, if thou art thrown, thou shalt be beheaded. Wilt thou wrestle on those conditions?"

"I will, great exar," said the soldier. They closed, and presently the soldier with his left arm threw the czar and with his right he prevented him from falling to the ground. The sovereign was clearly beaten. The ezar offered the soldier whatever reward he should ciaim, and he ignobly claimed the privilege of drinking free, as long as he lived, in all the inns belonging to the crown. What became of him history does not say.

A WONDERFUL CURE

Of diarrhoea. A porminent Virginia editor had almost given up. but was brought back to perfect health by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoca Remedy. Read his editorial.

From the Times, Hillstille, Va.—I suffered with diarrhoea for a long time and thought I was past being cured. I had spent much time and money and suffered so much misery that I had almost decided to give up all hopes of recovery and await the result, but noticing the advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and some also testimonials stating how some wonderful cures had been wrought by this remedy, I decided to try it. After taking a few doses I was entirely well of that trouble, and I wish to say further to my readers and fellow-sufferers that I am a hale and hearty man today and feel as well as I ever did in my life .- O.
