> It has been decided that the new M. E. church will be dedicated Sunday December 10th. The last nail will be driven, and everything completed by the 7th or 8th, and then our citizens can look with pride upon one of the handsomest and most modern church edifices in Northeru Indiana, which will be a credit to the city and cut another notch in the stick of Culyer's progress, and above all, be an enduring monument to the pastor and members of the the church who dedicate this beautiful structure to God and the people.

The services will commeence at 10:30 a. m. and at 7 p. m. aud will be conducted by Rev. W. D. Parr, D. D., pastor of the Wayne street M. E. church, Ft. Wayne, one of the ablest and most eloquent divines in the church work, assisted by Presiding Elder Dale of South Bend. A most cordial invitation is extended to all.

At some future time the HERALD will give a more extensive notice of the church and those who have been instrumental in its erection.

Kindly Remembered.

Tuesday evening, the members of the Zion Reform church gave ther. Barber and family of this city, a complete and a most enjoyable surprise. There were a number of conveyances present, and each contained those things that sustain the physical body, and there was an abundance donated by these whole-souled sons of that splendid agricultural district, who all deeply appreciated Mr. Barber's efficient work as their pastor. A most pleasant evening was passed by all present, and when the guests finally departed they no doubt felt doubly paid for the effort put forth to help brighten the pathway of their pastor and

FRINGE IS COMING IN.

IT'S AN UNMISTAKABLE SIGN OF THIS SEASON.

The Effect of Lateness Is Imparted to Costume, Hat or Bodice by Some Little Trick of Detail-Some Polonaise Models.

UST a trifle of a serves ump a costume, a hat or a bodice as the latest. So it is worth while to consider details, that the new selection may do the wearer credit, or so that the garment ready on hand may safely disguise its date under some upto-the-minute touch of finish. In many respects there may be nothing about a fancy waist that is not somewhat conventional, but there is pretty sure to be some new touch about the neck. Here originality of finish, though it may be neither rich nor elaborate, will supply ample evidence that the waist is up to date. Pictured proof of this is here in a waist of polka dotted lavender and white silk, with yoke and revers of cream lace. This was pretty, but hardly distinctive without the novel four-in-hand of violet ribbon. It was knotted at the throat, disappeared within the yoke, but popped out again and was in sight to the waist line, a pair of velvet tabs holding it. The device is well worth copying, and there are others as effective. A stock scarf may be topped at the portion that passes about the neck by an overturned edge of linen, muslin or lace, the scarf ends being fringed out in knotted tassels. Or the yoke will extend without neck seam in a high collar shaped up about the ears as only the latest collar is. Then the guarantee of newness may be in a the polonaise was sage green broadcloth. Tucked silk gave the yoke, and black velvet on the bodice was cleverly arranged to relieve princess severity.

Between these two costumes is one of the gowns that by current standards are classified as simple, though they usually are marked by exquisite fit and high grade materials, so are costly product. This one was a warm brown camel's hair, black looped cording supplying the only trimming. The belted polonaise is very popular and suits almost all figures. The princess form of it is just the thing for a fine figure, and a belted polonaise like this one is a little less trying. The belt should dip in front, and when there is a buckle it should emphasize the down pointing. In this trickery the pictured belt and buckle give a helpful hint. The current variations of the princess cut are so many and their divergences from the original are so cleverly disguised that one is apt to get the idea that princess gowns are more plentiful than they really are. The fact is that very few women dare don the entirely unrelieved princess. Very pretty softenings are secured by stitchings or other elaboration, and some of these quite change the gown in its exactions from the wearer. In this picture is one, a lovely dotted black net gown made over pink silk, bands of black lace passing from collar to skirt hem. A wreath of black lace roses marked the yoke line, another below the knees and a third at the head of the skirt flounce relieved, without breaking, the princess line, which should extend unbroken from throat to edge of skirt. Bands of velvet ribbon are used in this way, converging from yoke line to waist, and from there spreading below. Copyright, 1899.

Good Old Times.

The rage for old-fashioned music is bringing to the fore the woman who has steadily refused to listen to the voice of progress, and who has calmly played "The Battle of Prague," "The Maiden's Prayer," "Silvery Waves" and "Zampa" overture, to the complete routing and consternation of those to whom such strains have become as incongruous as the poke bonnets and folded kerchiefs of a dead and gone generation.

Fringe is another unmistakable sign of this season. Women have been a long sure her faithfulness to the old airstime coming to it, but it is here in force | the airs she was taught when she first and lends itself beautifully to current fashions. It is applied in many ways. Cloth is heavily embroidered in silk, the ends of silk being knotted into a fringe at all the edges of the cloth. Net enriched by passementerie is fringed at the edge, and passementerie and other "motifs," as they are called, in silk, net embroidery, etc., are finished with fringe. The most swagger thing is to have the fringe made on the material, but it is swagger enough to buy fringe by the yard and apply it. Lovely results are shown in expensive cloth costumes, where bodice drapery and short overdress are made of embroidered cloth or crepe with fringe knotted in. Lace edged with fringe, too, is beautiful, and is applied in various ways. The fringed dress shown here had a long polonaise overdress of soft pink cloth from beneath the scallops of which a pink silk underskirt showed. The short polonaise was fringed crepe to match, the crepe embroidered in cashmere colors, the fringe making part of the elaboration of the bodice as well.

This effects a polonaise over a double skirt, which is a fashionable trick just now and which, in another form, appears in the third gown of this row. Of the fashion it may be said that it cuts up the figure a good deal, but it is stylish and sometimes suits one's cloth finely, so is worth consideration. The polonaise for such skirts is usually rather elaborate, as the fringed one just described. It is usually screlled, or cut in scallops or points and shaped down in front. The skirt showing below is usually of some elaborate material. It may match the yoke or waistcoat, which the polonaise ordinarily shows, or it may be a piece of embroidered silk contrasting in coloring with all the rest. The final underskirt may be only a few inches deep, or it may show almost to the knees. Sometimes the first overskirt is slashed to show the under one, and in some cases both overskirt and polonaise are slashed to the hip. In this model the lower skirt was corn colored silk, next it was the same

An Expensive Dress.

The most expensive dress in the world is said to be the property of Mrs. Celia Wallis, of Chicago, who, hearing that the wife of a London banker possessed a garment costing $15,000, eclipsed this by an expenditure of $35,-000. It was trimmed with Brussels point lace, a yard wide and three yards in length, costing $25,000, and diamond ornaments held it in place.

There were many weary but eventful months before that time came. Letters crossed the sea and told of his busy life, his hopes, of his longing to get back to his native land. But the secret was well kept. No one guessed that Dewey had left his heart behind. No one knew that a woman's prayers and love were cheering him in his heroic achievements. Not until the time came for Admiral Dewey to go to Washington to receive the jeweled sword presented to him by Congress did the gossips begin to whisper.

MRS. DEWEY.

Charming Personality of the Woman Who Is Now the Admiral's Wife.

Admiral Dewey has known the woman who recently became his wife since she was a chubby, rosy-cheeked girl, with two long brown braids of hair hanging down her back. Mildred Mc-Lean was beautiful and joyous. Life to her was roseate. She had never known a care. She was simply a merry, light-hearted girl, with infinite possibilities. About this time she met William Babcock Hazen, afterward brigadier general, who was known as a soldier and an author. He fell at once in love with the charming girl. She loved him in return. They were married soon after and went to his post to live.

Life in an army post is somewhat narrow. The years passed quietly for Mildred Hazen. Her marriage was very happy. A daughter was born to her and died. Then there was a son. and Mrs. Hazen lived in those early years for her husband and child. Her life flowed smoothly on until twelve years ago, when her husband died. She was left a widow, still young, beautiful and rich. She went to live with her mother, Mrs. Washington Mc-Lean.

Again Mrs. Hazen met Dewey. She was older and sorrow-chastened now, | 7,000; annual wages paid, $3,500,000; but to him she was a thousand times value of material used, $5,500,000; lovelier than the light-hearted girl he value of annual products, $14,000,000. had formerly known,

Through it all she retained the gentle, unassuming manner that has made her so especially lovable. Admiral Dewey was a frequent visitor-but so were many other distinguished people, so no one thought very much about the frequency of his calls or speculated as to their meaning. He was not the hero then. He was a plain, quiet, unassuming commodore. He was ordered to the Philippines, and it is said that when the went away he carried with him Mrs. Hazen's half-way promise that when his ship came sailing home again he might claim her for his bride.

A HUMAN HIVE.

A Place Where Most of Our Jewelry Is Made.

Providence, R. I., has the largest silverware factory in the world, the largest screw factory, the largest manufactory for small tools and the largest file works. Perhaps it is especially unique in producing more jewelry than any other city in the United States, says the Nashville American, and near ly as much as all the rest of the country combined. There is no city which possesses so many separate and distinct shops for the manufacture of a single commodity as Providence does for the manufacture of jewelry. There are at least 250 separate factories devoted to the making of gold, silver, rolled-plated, electroplated and brass jewelry and novelties. In addition, the auxiliary industries for furnishing supplies of special labor to the jewelry factories number more than seventy-five. Many of the jewelry shops are small, employing only ten or a dozen hands, while some employ as high as 300, and in one case 1,400. By the State census of 1895 the capital invested in this industry in Providence is $12,000,000; average number of hands employed, Had these figures been taken in 1898 they would have been at least 33 per cent. more. In almost every case the shops have been started by poor men with small capital, and as a result of success there has arisen a large class of well-to-do people, neither rich nor poor, but prosperous and contented.

Old Glory.

One may pay anything from a cent to one hundred and fifty dollars, for a flag of the United States. The cheapest flags are stamped on muslin with the colors red and blue, and are then tacked or pasted-upon sticks; they are not guaranteed to wash. Of this kind is the little penny flag which the small boy wears on the lapel of his coat. Such flags are put through a printing press like ealico skirts, and come out all colored at the rate of one hundred a minute. Anybody is at liberty to make United States flags. Thus it comes about that all sorts of patterns of the national ensign are on the market, and in use. But if any one desires to have the colors as they ought to be, reference must be made to the standard adopted by the army and navy. This standard, altered from time to time by the addition of fresh stars, is preserved. and will continue to be kept by the secretaries of war and navy. The proper design for the blue field of Old Glory is fixed and absolute; other arrangements of the stars, which commonly are distributed more or less higgledypiggledy, are wrong.

First-Class Sewing Machines for $14.25.

For those who are accustomed to sending away from home for their goods it is of the greatest importance to know the character and reliability of the establishment selling goods to families from catalogues. The great emporium of the John M. Smyth Co., located at 150 to 166 West Madison street, Chicago, has been established for a third of a century, and has furnished over half a million homes in Chicago and vicinity alone. This firm enjoys the confidence of the public by its many years of fair dealing. It issues an immense illustrated catalogue that should be in every family, as it describes and gives the price of every article required for household use. A sample of the extraordinary values offered by this firm is shown in the illustration of the "Melha" sewing machine in another column of this paper for $14.25. This is one of the best sewing machines ever offered to the public, and yet it is but a sample of the thousand and one useful articles illustrated and described in the beautiful catalogue of the John M. There's a screw loose somewhere! One little screw in the big machine gets a trifle loose and the whole apparatus clogs, balks and refuses to work properly.

A skillful engineer can tell by the "feel" of his engine when there's a screw loose. Occasional constipation-call it costiveness or biliousness-needs prompt atten-tion. It clogs the whole delicate mechanism of man, and must be removed skillfully without force or shock. Only a vegetable laxative should be used, and Cascarets Candy Cathartic, which you can eat like a piece of candy, are the most agreeable, natural and effective of all laxatives.

Cascarets are the only antiseptic cathartic, and not only make the liver lively, remove obstructions in the bowels, strengthen the intestines, but kill all germs of disease in the body. Therefore prevent as well

The most distinguished woman at the cene of hostilities in South Africa is Lady Sarah Wilson, sister of the late ments. Her father, the seventh Duke of Marlborough, had five sons and six daughters. Only two of the sons lived to be men. One of them was Lord Randolph, the other succeeded to the Dukedom, and his son is the present and ninth Duke. Lady Sarah Wilson, says the Chicago Tribune, is therefore a great aunt of the present Duke, who married Consuelo Vanderbilt.

Perhaps few people know that the ashes of John Paul Jones, one of the most distinguished heroes of the Ameri-ican revolution, are buried somewhere in Paris. Exactly where nobody knows. After leaving the American service because of some alleged grievance, Jones enlisted in the French service, and dying shortly afterwards, was buried in the French capital. Efforts to locate the tomb of the great naval officer have failed up to date, but with increased vigilance it is thought that the discovery can be made in the course of time by carefully inspecting the graveyards of Paris. Recently the Philadelphia Times has commenced to agitate the matter by suggesting that close search be instituted for the grave of John Paul Jones, and in the event the quest is successful, that the body be brought back to this country and buried in Washington, D. C. Twelve governors and many other distinguished public men have indorsed the enterprise.

Samuel Greeley, a commission merchant of Chicago, testified before the National Industrial Commission in session there, that a combination of five wealthy grain men, of which Philip D. Armour is the directing genius, controls the price of farmers' products. Armour, he says, can dictate his rate of freight on any railroad in or out of Chicago. This combination tween railroads and elevator operators has practically killed competition in the grain market in the West, and has left its promoters with a monopoly of the market. By hoarding immense quantities of grain in the market center it has given rise to the professional bear speculator, whose business it is to hammer down the market, and has brought into existence and made safe the bucket shop.

During the Spanish-American war he took advantage of an opportunity at a public banquet to warn France in diplomatic language of the probable results of a European coalition against the United States.

ODD VUCATION OF AN OLD SAN FRAN CISCO BOATMAN.

He Rous His Prey to Water Instead of to Earth-How the Stowaways Get Abourd Ship and How They Generally Come to Grief. Down by the city's sea wall a queer man pursues a queer vocation. He is a water front "character," and his bustness is the sleuthing of stownways. He doesn't run his prey to earth, however, after the manner of other hunters of hun an game. Heguns it to water.

This weather hardened, wrinkled man is at once the terror and the friend of would be stowaways. He is known as Captain Jack, but his name has half a dozen variations, all of which smack of the salt, salt sea. These are some of his aliases: Wharf Rat, Water Fowl. Sea Uog. Whaler, Old Man Jack and The Boatman.

His stock in trade consists of his shrewdness in "spotting a stow" and a battered but seaworthy old boat which rides the water by night and day through successive seasons. The town's attractions do not lure him from his long accustomed haunts among the masts, figureheads, plers and piles, sails, nets, stringers and multitudinous varieties of merchandise that crowd the bay's edge.

Captain' Jack came out of his seashell of reserve long enough the other day to tell a bit of what he knows about that venturesome creature of chance, the stowaway, who would fain voyage out of port without the previous formality of paying for passenger privileges.

"I've been in this business a long spot a 'stow.'

"Different ones has different methods. Some bangs round the docks afore a ship sails, offerin to lend a hand, or proposin to work a passage somewheres. When they find this don't go the way they want it to, they commence to talk big-inquire bout sea weather, the cost of a cruise, the Alaska of Panama. The year always there's somethin so hungry an home. Inquiring Poy sick an tired lookin about 'em that it gives 'em dead away-leastways it does to a person who's spent a good many years studyin their kind.

"Others, though, wait till the last minute, then come hastlin along as if they was too rushed to buy a ticket or as if they had one in their pocket. Why, I've even been asked by 'em to row 'em out to a ship after she'd got. clear out into the stream. If a skipper happens to be good natured, he'll slack up an take passengers aboard. An after all that bother I've had to bring 'em back again, for nary a red did they have.

"This class of deadheads is gen'rally supplied with clothes, gripsacks, hatboxes, steamer trunks, canes, umbrellas, cameras, foldin chairs an sometimes a servant."

"Not a valet?" "Sure. That's what we sailors call puttin on a terrible lot of dog. Them's the fellers that always has friends 'mong guvnors, rajahs, lords, dukes an consuls, an likewise money to burn -but always across the water somewheres. I don't mind the men, but I hate to tackle a woman."

"Women stowawnys?" "Sure. When the Klondike boom was on, I used to bring in as many women as men. Some was only girls-little slim things, goin to the icy gold mines with no more outfit than the thin clothes they stood in.

"The easiest part of the stow's plan in makin an escape is the gittin aboard. Nobody knows who's who the day a ship's leavin port. If she's crowded so much the better. The stow can hide in the hold without bein spied. But it's mighty hard to git past the Heads, for by that time the ship's been searched an the stows yanked out on deck."

Captain Jack spoke truly. The stowaway who passes the Heads has run the gantlet safely-unless an incoming vessel be at hand to convey the intruder back again.

When the final gong has been sounded, the warning "All visitors ashore!"

His Repertory.

"What have you been playing during your present tour?"

"We played 'Hamlet' and 'King Lear' in the stage," answered Mr. Stormington Barnes.

"Were there no comedies in your repertory?"

"Only one. When we came to count up the box office receipts, it was usually "Luch Ado About Nothing." "- Washlugton Star.

A Raise In Salary.

Some years ago Collis P. Huntington's private secretary, Mr. Miles, asked for an increase of salary.

"Do you need any more money?" asked Mr. Huntington thoughtfully, "No. sir. I don't exactly need it," replied Mr. Miles, "but, still, I'd be glad to be getting a little more."

"Ah-hum-m-m," mused his employer. "Can you get along without the advance for the present?"

"Ch, yes," answered the secretary, "I guess so," and the matter was drop-

A couple of years later a new boy appeared at the Miles home, and the secretary thought the time propitious to renew the application. "Why, my dear sir," said Mr. Huntington when he heard him through, "I raised your salary when you asked me before."

"I never heard anything about it," said the secretary in amazement.

"Probably not," returned Mr. Huntington. "In fact, I used that money to buy a piece of property for you. I'd just let it stand for awhile if I were you."

Mr. Miles thanked him warmly and retired somewhat mystified. Shortly after Mr. Huntington called him into his private office. "By the way, Miles," he said, "I have sold that real estate of yours at a pretty good advance. Here is the check."

The amount was $50,000. The property was part of a large section purchased by the railway king as an investment for his wife.-San Francisco Argonaut.

A Live Bird on ner Hat.

One Chicago girl's hat made a sensation in the women's lunchroom at the Auditorium yesterday. She came in from Michigan avenue and stopped for a moment in the parlor. While there she noticed a young sparrow flutter in through the open window and wheel once or twice around the room. She felt it brush against her hat in its flight, but thought no more of it and passed on into the lunchroom. She had picked up the bill of fare and was reading it when she felt that some one was watching her, and, glancing around, she discovered that she was a focusing point for all the eyes in the immediate vicinity.

Of course she blushed and colored up and began to wonder at the cause of the people's interest. Just then the time," he said, "an I can gen'rally waiter, who had been hovering around, noticed her confusion and, bending down, whispered, "Pahdon me, miss, but dah's a live buhd on yo' hat."

And then instead of going into hysteries she calmly said: "Thank you. Will you please shoo it off?"

And the waiter "shooed" the sparrow toward a nearby window, while the owner of the hat fixed it on straight and proceeded to order her luncheon.

The 9th year geography class has produced some fiue maps of each of the great land divisions of the world. These maps are made of sand and represent the land of the countries, as it really is in its natural state.

Wednesday was decided in fayor of the affirmative. The negative side feel very sore over this defeat, but think that defeat means future suc cess, and are willing to debate the same questions again. The judges were Otto Stahl, Dr. Wiseman and Dr. Hollister. However, the negative speakers did great credit to themselves with their original arguments.

The following were visitors at high school Wednesday: Nellie Garn, Florence Barber, Hettie Grubb, Mrs. I.S. Hahn, Edna Vanschoiack, Mrs. J. Zechiel, Mrs. Barber, Mrs. Quick, Otto Stabl, Drs. Wiseman and Hollister.

Two days vacation this week.

The high school pupils received Underwear, Glove their monthly report Wednesday. These reports show a marked improvement on the previous month, and we hope that the next report will be better still.

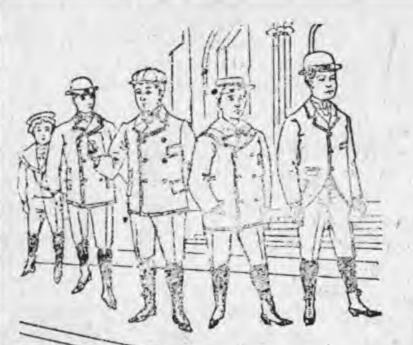

A debating club has been organized by a few of the boys of Culver. They occupy the upper front room of the Zechiel builling south of the HERALD office and have fitted the room up in fine shape. They have in the room a fine selection of books from the best authors. Nothing but what tends to elevate the mind is allowed in the room. In the near future the boys hope to entertain a few guests at least one night out of the week. You will hear from us later.

A PUPIL. THERE . IRL R. HICKS ALMANAC

There is no comparison between former editions, and this splendid Almanac for 1900, now ready. Print. ed in beautiful colors, on much finer paper, its 196 pages are packed with invaluable information on storms, astronomy and meteorology. It is illustrated with nearly 200 finest half tones and other engravings. This superb book would sell anywhere for fifty cents, but it costs only 25c a copy, and every subscriber to Rev. Irl R. Hicks' now famous paper, WORD AND WORKS, at $1.00 a year, receives this elegant Almanac as a premium. WORD AND WORKS is a recognized leader among the best family and scientific journals, while nothing of its kind can compare with the Hicks Almanac, One dollar a year is a nominal price for such unique and useful publications. Professsor Hicks has justly, and of necessity, withdrawn his storm, and weather forecasts from all free almanacs, having generously given his time and labor free for nearly twenty years. MISSION. SECRET

RUMOR ABOUT A SHIP AT MARE ISLAND.

Fitted Out for a Long Voyage and with Guns on Board - She Will Sail for Panama - Will of Major John A. Logan.

The United States ship Ranger, now lying at Mare Island, San Francisco, has been quietly fitted out for some long voyage, and well-founded rumors are current that she is bent on some secret mission. The officers of the warship refuse to discuss the nature of the voyage. Several six-inch guns are being placed in position on the vessel. The only thing the officers will admit is that the Ranger has been ordered to Panama, and will sail early in December. Sealed instructions have been received from Washington, to be opened on arrival at Panama. It is believed by naval men in San Francisco that the Ranger's ultimate destination is Manila, and that she will be anchored for shore duty at some of the new ports recently taken from the rebels.

It Will Aggregate $55,000, Mostly in Life Insurance Policies.

Under the conditions of the will of the late Maj. John A. Logan his entire estate is left absolutely to his wife. On account of business complications the financial affairs of Maj. Logan have been for several years in the hands of Robert Bentley and H. M. Garlick of Youngstown, Ohio, and James Shaw of New York. Maj. Logan carried life insurance amounting to $34,500, payable to his wife. Aside from the life insurance it is probable his estate will not be less than $20,000. Robert Bentley has been appointed administrator.

RECONCILED AT THE INQUEST.

St. Louis Attorney, Exonerated by the Jury, Meets His Wife Again.

At St. Louis the coroner's jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide in the case of Attorney James T. Roberts, the lawyer charged with the murder of Prof. R. A. Simpson, the dramatic agent. At the inquest Mrs. Roberts testified that Simpson, who was giving her theatrical lessons, had insulted her. Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, who had been separated for some time, became reconciled at the inquest.

MURDER REVEALED BY ILLNESS.

Crime Committed Years Ago in Ohio Is

Brought to Light. Frederick Klinder and his son Henry, farmers near Napoleon, Ohio, were arrested charged with the murder of Mrs. Frederick Klinder in 1894. At the time the woman's body was found in the garden near her home with her throat cut and a knife wound near her heart suicide was advanced. The weapon which had caused her death was found tightly clasped in her fingers. The woman was Frederick Klinder's second wife. His son was by his first marriage. Two months ago Henry Glinder, while dangerously ill, confessed that himself and father had committed the murder, which was unprovoked. Frederick Klinder felled his wife with a club and the son cut her throat. Then they changed their clothing and attended a party. The confession was a profound secret until Henry Klinder recovered. Himself and father are charged with first degree mur-

Good News for a Wisconsin Farmer-Will Inherit More than One Million Dollars-Indian Village in Washington Swept Away by Flood.

A Chippewa Fall (Wis.) special says: "Frank Steinmetz, a young farmer who resides in the town of Tilden, received a letter from Paris informing him that he is a millionaire twice over. Steinmetz's grandfather was a wealthy resident of France before the Franco-Prussian war, and during that conflict all his property was seized, and later confiscated by the French government. Ten years ago a suit was commenced in the French courts for the recovery of the property, and not until last week was a favorable decision reached. The property, which is valued at about 18,000,000 francs, will be divided between Steinmetz and two brothers, who reside in Germany."

Surprise and Disappointment Caused by the Admiral's Action.

Admiral George Dewey has transferred to his wife the title to the home which was presented to him as a token of esteem by the people of the United States. The transfer was accomplished by two papers which carried the title first to a friend and then to Mrs. Dewey. The deeds have been formally recorded.

No explanation of the reasons actuating the admiral in taking this extraordinary step were given. Naturally all sorts of rumors were affoat as to debts and other more serious complications. It was even reported that a firm of Washington lawyers had instructions from their client, a woman, to bring suit against the admiral of the navy for breach of promise, but the lawyers in question stoutly denied that they knew anything whatever of the existence of such a suitor.

A Washington correspondent asserts that there is a very general disapproval of the transfer. Admiral Dewey is severely criticised upon the ground that good taste dictated the house given him

Subscribers to the fund are already writing indignant letters pointing out that they gave their money to buy a house for Mr. Dewey, not for Mrs. Dewey, who is already a rich woman. Some of the largest subscribers to the fund have demanded the return of their contributions, and they are quite bitter in their comment. Papers throughout the country speak very disapprovingly of Admiral Dewey's action.

ACCUSE COLONEL METCALF.

Soldiers Swear He Shot a Helpless Filipino Prisoner.

Serious charges were made at Topeka, Kan., against Col. Wilder S. Metcalf, recently brebetted brigadier general for gallantry in the Philippines. Private Harris C. Husky and Lieut. Arthur M. Ferguson, members of the late Twentieth Kansas, make affidavit that Col. Metcalf shot a defenseless Filipino while he was a prisoner of war.

The affidavit of Husky is dated at Manila, July 24, and alleges that at the battle of Caloocan a prisoner was brought to Maj. Metcalf, who without provocation drew his revolver and shot the insurgent soldier. The prisoner was unarmed and on his knees when the shooting occurred. Col. Metcalf, who is now in Elyria, Ohio, denies the charges. He says he does not know either of the men who accuse him and declares the charges are absolutely false.

EIG BATTLE IN COLOMBIA.

One Thousand Rebels Said to Have Been Killed.

A bloody page has been added to the history of Columbia, South America. A dispatch from Bogota says that a terrible battle was fought near Bucamaranga on Friday and Saturday between the rebels and the Government forces, in which 1,000 rebels were killed and about 2,000 wounded. The engaging forces aggregated 10,000 men. The rebel general, Pablo Villar, is reported to be among the slain. Two generals on each side were wound-

Young Moore of Dexter Tells How the Crime Was Committed. Elijah Moore, aged 19, who has been held at Dexter, Mo., under suspicion for the foul assassination of his father, Rev. Jesse Moore, made a full confession, implicating his 15-year-old sister Mary as an accessory. He afterward amended his confession by exonerating his sister. He planned the assassination two weeks previous to its commission, and his reason given for the deed was that his father was a hard, cruel man in his family, rigid in his discipline, and that he allowed his children no pleasure of any character whatever.

BRITISH FORCES WIN.

BOERS MEET HEAVY REVERSE-AT BELMONT.

Both Sides Suffer Big Losses in Killed, Wounded and Missing-British Slightly Superior to Enemy in Numbers-Forty Boers Taken Prisoners.

A British victory in which the imperial army lost 225 officers and men in killed, wounded and missing is the first result of the beginning of the forward movement. in South Africa. Gen. Methuen's column, advancing to the relief of Kimberley, encountered a strong force of Boersnear Belmont and drove them from their position after a fierce battle lasting many hours.

The official report to the war office states that the republic's forces were routed, but gives no estimate of the Boer losses. On the British side three officers and fifty-five men were killed, twenty-one officers and 128 men wounded, while eighteen of the rank and file are listed as missing. Gen. Methuen claims that the enemy carried 'away large numbers of dead and wounded in the retreat. Forty prisoners were taken by the imperial forces.

The fighting appears to have been almost a repetition of the battle of Elandslaagte. A dispatch of the previous day estimated that the Boers in that vicinity numbered 2,000 and that they had fiveguns, and, judging from the absence of any statement to the contrary in the official report, it is believed that the British were slightly superior in numbers to the enemy. The Boers had chosen a position with their customary skill and were strongly intrenched. The British were obliged to carry three ridges in succession. Apparently the guards bore the brunt in carrying the last ridge by a bayonet chargeafter its defenders had been shaken with shrapnel. Nothing is said as to whether the positions so gained were held, and the destruction of ammunition seems to indicate that the contrary was the case.

While Gen. Methuen can be congratulated upon a brilliant victory, it is again. at the cost of a heavy loss of officers and

The secretary of war in London has received the following dispatch, through Gen. Forestier-Walker, from Gen. Methuen:

"Attacked the enemy at daybreak. Hewas in a strong position. Three ridges were carried in succession, the last attack being covered by shrapnel. Infantry behaved splendidly and received support from the naval brigade and artillery. The enemy fought with courage and skill. Had I attacked later I should have had far heavier loss. Our victory was complete. Have taken forty prisoners. Amburying a good number of the Boers, but the greater part of the enemy's killed and wounded were removed by their comrades. Have captured a large number of horses and cows and destroyed a largequantity of ammunition."

FILIPINOS FIGHT AND RUN.

Enemy Battles Stubbornly While Retreating to Santa Barbara.

There has been much severe fighting north of Iloilo since Tuesday. Four Americans have been killed and twentyfive wounded, including three officers. The insurgents are retreating to Santa. Barbara. Col. Carpenter advanced toward Santa Barbara, straight north from Jaro, taking trench after trench, the enemy fighting and retreating. Gen. Hughes' column has steadily been advancing north to gain a position west of Santa Barbara. It encountered the enemy in small detachments. Six to ten Americans were wounded in this column.

Col. Carpenter on Tuesday morning opened with battery G of the Sixth artillery on the trenches. The enemy volleyed as the artillery took up position, wounding four. Two companies of the Twenty-sixth regiment, garrisoning Jaro, moved through Capaz, attacking the enemy on the right flank, driving them toward Col. Carpenter.

The country between Jaro and Santa Barbara is thickly intrenched, especially near Pavia. The Sixth artillery fired on the trenches and the Eighteenth regiment charged, the enemy retreating tothe next trench. The Eighteenth again charged, encountering and attacking a force of bolo men, who were hidden in the long grass and who severely wounded several Americans. During the afternoon the fighting was severe immediately south of Pavia, three miles north of Jaro. The Twenty-sixth's companies returned to Jaro after the flank movement, having captured three 6-pound smoothbore cannon and a quantity of arms and ammunition. The enemy's loss was not obtainable, but seven men were found dead in one trench.

FOREIGNERS PETITION DIAZ.

They Ask Him to Accept Nomination for Re-Election.

One of the most notable political demonstrations in the history of Mexico occurred in the City of Mexico when the foreign residents of that and adjoining counties marched in a procession up San Francisco street to the national palace to urge President Diaz to accept the nomination for re-election by the liberal party, whose convention will assemble early in the coming year.

Several thousand Frenchmen, Germans, Americans, Englishmen, Belgians, Austrians and Italians took part. Houses and business edifices were handsomely adorned with flags and Federal emblems and the American and English flags were conspicuous. The demonstration was viewed by an enormous crowd of Mexicans.

Gen. Diaz replied to his callers in a brief but eloquent speech, in which he deprecated the idea that a man of his ageshould be selected to carry on the executive department of the Government an-

HER BIGGEST PUPIL.

Scene: The little parlor in the modest cottage in which Miss Mary Brewster boards.

Mr. Jim Thrasher nervously awaiting her, his stalwart form perched on the edge of an easy chair.

As she enters his eye brightens, he smiles, and dropping his broad brimmed hat on the floor he rises.

Mary-You wished to see me?

Jim-Yes, Miss Mary. (He eagerly puts out his hand. She takes it in a hesitating manner.) You don't know me. I was afraid you wouldn't. Fifteen years, and a beard, and any number of hard knocks do change a man. But you-why, you've scarcely altered a particle. Can't you guess who it is? Mary-You remind me-something in your voice-in your smile-reminds me of-of a boy I once knew. Jim, delightedly-I'm the boy.

Mary-Not-not Jim Thrasher?

Jim-The very identical. Mary-I'm so glad to see you. (She takes his hand impulsively.) Sit down, please. It is so kind of you to hunt me up. I've thought about you many times and tried to wonder what you were doing and what you had become.

Jim-That's very good of you, Miss Mary. I hardly supposed you'd cherish such pleasant remembrances for your biggest pupil. What a gawk I was! I can't imagine how you had any patience with me. Let me see. I was just 20 that last winter in the old red school house and a head taller than you-and two years older, wasn't I? What an awkward problem I must have been for you! Too old to learn and too big to whip.

Mary-Ah, but you never needed whipping. You were my right hand man, my prop, my encouragement. I don't know what I would have done with those big boys from down the creek if it hadn't been for your strong

Jim-Do you remember how you talked to me the first day I came to school? I had come with those very creek boys to make trouble. My mother died when I was very young, and no other woman had ever talked kindly to me. When you appealed to my honor, and putting your hand on my shoulder begged me not to bury the good that was in me, something seemed to swell in my breast, and from that moment I resolved to be a man-a man whom you would one day be proud to say you knew.

Mary-You make me very happy. It is a wonderful pleasure to feel that my poor efforts were not all wasted. It makes life worth living.

Jim-Life, then, hasn't always-but tell me something about yourself.

Mary-There is very little to tell. My mother died the summer after you went West, and I had to return home and keep house for father. In a year or two his health failed, and after a long, long sickness he died. My brother and I were alone, and after he found a sitnation on the railroad we moved here. When the war broke out brother en listed, and died at Tampa of a fever.

Jim, after a pause-And so you have no ties to keep you here?

Mary-None. Jim-And may I ask-

Mary-How I support myself? I have five little pupils whom I am teaching the rudiments, and I do some fine sewing. I get along very well-only there is always the fear of sickness. Now tell me about yourself.

Jim-One moment. I want to say to you, Miss Mary, that I've been trying to find you out for a long time. I wrote to the old neighborhood, asking for you, but they answered that nobody knew where you had gone. I wouldn't have traced you down here if it hadn't been for Joe Slater. You remember little red-headed Joe, the scamp of the school? Well, he came out to Montana, looking for work, and I gave him a job, and, one day, in recalling old times, he said he was sure he saw you in this town. That's how I came to be here. About myself? Well, whatever I am, It is you that gave me the start. I fancy I've done pretty well. I'm something of a mine owner and something of a capitalist, and I've served a term in Congress and could have gone back. I've got a nice house in Helena, and there's enough idle cash lying around to enable me to travel as much and as far as I please. You understand I'm not blowing my trumpet for the personal gratification there is in it-and yet it is a personal gratification to blow it before you. I'm accounting, as it were, for the use I've made of those talents you called my attention to fifteen years ago.

Mary-I'm wery glad to hear of your its cargo.

success. I knew you had it in you. You have made the day very bright for me.

Jim-I am not yet quite sure whether it will be a bright day for me or not. The fact is, I-I want to ask you a favor, Miss Mary.

Mary-A favor, Jim?

Jim-Yes, a great favor. I-I want to be your biggest pupil again! Mary-I-I don't understand.

Jim-And I want to be your only pupil. I need your help. They're talking of making me governor next fall, and I'll require lots of polishing up. Oh, it will be hard work, but you'll find me a willing pupil. I-

Mary-I don't know what you mean. Jim (rising and coming closer)-I'll explain. They say, you know, that a well-ordered boy usually falls in love with his teacher. That's his very first love. And most well ordered boys get over it. But this boy is different. He doesn't get over it. That teacher has been to him the one ideal of sweetest womanhood through all his fifteen years of hard knocks and growing success. Do you understand now? Teacher, guide, friend, will you be that grateful boy's wife?

Mary (covering her face with her educated in Europe and is proficient both as a musician and artist. She says the popular idea of the Boers in this country does them injustice. The burghers are not, as a class, she declares, coarse, uneducated and brutal. On the farms no more attention is paid to dress than by the agricultural portion of any community. In the cities and towns, however, the Boer women dress as well and as much attention is paid to the amenities of life as in other countries. Miss Kruger expects to return before long to South Africa and will spend the remainder of her life there.

Gen. Lord Methuen's force, advancing to the relief of Kimberley, again met the Boer army at Gras Pan, ten miles north of Belmont, Saturday, and a desperate battle, lasting many hours, ensued. The engagement was not ended when the official report was sent, but it was construed as a British victory, despite heavy losses, in which the naval detachment stood that four American deserters are serving more than its share. Its artillery was commanded by the Transvaal general, Delarraye. The artillery was carried off the field, despite the flanking attack of the British cavalry. Among the killed were Commander Alfred P. Ethelsten of the cruiser Powerful, Captain Guy Senior of the Royal marine artillery, attached to the battleship Monarch, and Maj. Plumbe of the Royal marines. Flag Captain R. C. Prathers was severely wounded. The Boers shelled a camp of Rhodesian horse, north of Crocodile river, and captured the horses and mules of the squadron.

Up to date the Boers hold as prisoners thirty-nine officers, 1,237 men and sixtytwo political prisoners. The total British losses since the opening of the campaign on Oct. 15 are 222 killed, 881 wounded and 676 missing, making a total of 2,779. About 400 who are not accounted, it is feared, were killed.

Gen. Methuen's second battle foreshadows a hard campaign for the British. The information sent by correspondents concerning Gen. Joubert's movements is not altogether reliable, and engagements may be looked for in unexpected places. Gen. Joubert, in an interview, declares the British will be greatly weakened by their losses, and that a defensive war by the Boers will result in guerrilla warfare the British could not long endure.

A dispatch from Rome says many Italians are leaving there to join the Boers. The Boers in their marches frequently halt their horses and dismount to pray for divine guidance and aid. As the second stand by the Boers at Gras Pan was only ten miles from where the first engagement took place, another battle is expected as soon as the British again ad-

No one envied them, none sought to despoil them of their paltry possessions. They were left by themselves, indepeauant, self-reliant and self-supporting. Isolated from the outside portant and conspicuous part? We world, they naturally became narrow-minded, bigoted and less liberal in their views than the colonists of the neighboring states, who were more progressive.

Suddenly diamonds were found within the limits of their little can tell what national calamities colony and hordes of adventurous fortune-hunters, cut throats and parties of every description poured into their domains. The Boors were crowded out of Kimberly and in due time England laid claim to that locality, just as she is at the present time trying to grab the gold fields of Alaska.

The Boers moved away. They made a stubborn fight and England was glad enough to make a compromise with them, granting them henceforth their absolute independence. Fugland kept the diamond mines and the Boers were left in o'clock by C. M. A. kicking off to undisputed possession of what is now known as the Traus aal. Here they followed their quiet agricultural pursuits, living in peace with all the world and minding their own business as a race of quiet burghers of from two to five yards, and in should do. England left them alone because they had nothing she coveted, till the great gold fields of Johannesburg were discovered, the richest mines in the world. Hundreds of thousands of gold seekers poured into the country and attempted to take po session of the fields by fillibustering raids and at last through the interference of the British governneat. But the Boers, who had for a long term of years been driven from pillar to post, refused to move on, just as the citizens of these United States of ours would refuse to budge an inch if English adventurers invaded our borders. Tais war, then, is but a piratical war, a war for conquest. There is not one moral element in it to sustain England in the position she has taken. She has played bluff with the weak Oriental nations of the world until she boasts that the sun never sets on her dom. inions. She has been playing bluff with us in the Kloudike, but she has weakened, as at this critical time in her career she could not afford to incur the enmity of the United States.

A WONDERFUL CURE

Of diarrhoea. A porminent Virginia editor had almost given up, but was brought back to perfect health by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Read his editorial.

From the Times, Hillstille, Va.-I suffered with diarrhoea for a long time and thought I was past being cured. I had spent much time and money and suffered so much misery that I had almost decided to give up all hopes of recovery and await the result, but noticing the advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and some also testimonials stating how some wonderful cures had been wrought by this remedy, I decided to try it. After taking a few doses I was entirely well of that trouble, and I wish to say further to my readers and fellow-sufferers that I am a hale and hearty man today and feel as well as I ever did in my life. - 0.
