Messrs. Walker, Bright, Gay and Simpson Bros., all waiters at the academy left Saturday for their homes in Missouri. We are pleased to say that head waiter Crigler and his assistant, E. J. Johnson and chef Rollins have decided to spend their vacation in Culver.

The Wolford building near the depot is completed, and last Saturday evening Wm. Overman opened his saloon and restaurant in said building. It is two stories high, with fine finished rooms in second story while below it is finished in very modern style with saloon in front and restaurant in the rear. Every detail about the building is first class in every particular, and is lighted by gas. The building is an ornament to the town and shows that no pains has been spared to make it up to date.

Reave's Orchestra, South Bend.

The above orchestra, which is undoubtedly one of the leading musical organizations in Northern Indiana, furnished the academy music for all its balls the past school year. It is composed of seven pieces, and every member is a star, and handles every particular instrument with a skill that would make the "old masters" blush with envy. At the ball Wednesday evening, it played a special selection of choice music, which received the highest eulogiums from those who tripped the light fantastic upon this very "swell occasion." Wm. Wolf, the trap drummer, who is exceedingly clever, made a great hit in "The Man Behind the Gun." All in all it is a grand orchestra, and deserves the liberal patronage it receives, and as it has filled over a hundred engagements this season must have been appreciated.

CLOSE ON PRETORIA.

BRITISH TROOPS NEAR TRANSVAAL CAPITAL.

Republican Army Retreats Toward Lydenburg—Boers Are Said to Be Preparing for a Last Desperate Stand—Lord Roberts Occupies Johannesburg.

Belted messages from Pretoria received in London confirm the reports of the departure of President Kruger with his cabinet and staff officials Tuesday night and the selection at a meeting of citizens of a committee to administer the city provisionally. However, the late advices do not paint the situation in as rosy a hue as did those previously sent out, for Pretoria has not been occupied so far as the official dispatches show at this writing, and the recently annexed "Orange River Colony" is far from pacified, as Gen. Ruddle is reported as losing forty-five men killed, besides many wounded, in a battle in the former Free State.

Sharp fighting occurred in the vicinity of Johannesburg, indicating that the burghers are not inclined to give up without a struggle. It is expected that serious opposition will be met before the Transvaal army is crushed, and even the capture of Pretoria will avail little if the well-armed troops of Kruger are still to be located and defeated.

Since these telegrams left on Wednesday nothing, apparently, has reached Lourenzo Marquez by telegraph from Pretoria. Possibly the wires have been cut. Possibly the Boer censorship at some intermediate point intercepts telegrams. The possession of Johannesburg, at all events, as Lord Roberts has telegraphed, is a fact. State's Attorney Smuts did not depart with President Kruger, but remained in Pretoria.

The Boers lately confronting Lord Roberts appear to have gone eastward also, toward the Lydenburg region. The defenders of Laing's Nek, when their position becomes too perilous, will probably trek straight northward toward Lydenburg. When this concentration takes place there will be possibly 20,000 men, who may hold out for a time, with scattered bands of guerrillas elsewhere.

The press dispatches from the headquarters of Lord Roberts give no estimate as to the number of Boers who were fighting Gen. Fynch and Gen. Ian Hamilton Monday and Tuesday, but they all agree that the Boers retired and that the British casualties were slight.

While some newspapers regard the practical surrender of Pretoria as the end of the war, there are others that do not venture such a sanguine opinion, contenting themselves by saying it is the beginning of the end. They recall the frequently reiterated intention of the Boers to withdraw to the mountains at Lydenburg, and find confirmation of this intention in the fact that President Kruger has gone to Waterfallhoven. From that place the main road runs due north to Lydenburg. They agree that if the President was merely seeking to escape capture he would continue his journey to Lourenzo Marquez instead of halting at Waterfallhoven, which is 110 miles west of the eastern frontier of the Transvaal.

There remains, apparently, the possibility of guerrilla war, but as this would be hopeless and unavailing it is probable the Boers, with a certain hard good sense which lies at the bottom of their character, will perceive the uselessness of further resistance. The British authorities at Bulawayo think the Boers will retire into Southern Rhodesia. Events elsewhere in the field of war seem to dwindle in comparison. Gen. Hunter entered the Transvaal at Maribogopan Tuesday. The advance was made off the railway. Water is scarce, and all the farms are deserted.

Maribogopan is half way between Vryburg and Mafeking. Gen. Baden-Powell is invading farther north, without opposition. In Northern Natal Utrecht has surrendered to Gen. Hildyard, and Gen. Lytton is moving to Vryheid. Three different correspondents estimate the number of Boers at Laing's Nek at about 10,000.

There has been little fighting since Bloemfontein was entered. Boer armies have retreated steadily, abandoning one position after another, and offering no opposition to Lord Roberts' advance. The Transvaal capital has been considered "impregnable." It is certainly so situated and fortified that, had the Boers chosen to defend it, a protracted siege and much sacrifice of life and treasure would have been required for its reduction.

WAR NEWS IN BRIEF.

Ruddle has occupied Ladybrand. Boers are intrenching along the Vaal river.

Boers are endeavoring to reorganize among Heidelberg hills.

Gen. Brabant is reported to have captured 1,500 prisoners at Clocolan.

PRESIDENT KRUGER.

KRUGER BEGAN THE WAR.

Natal Invaded Just After His Ultimatum Was Cabled.

After a little longer than six months of hard fighting, having 240,000 men in the field—the largest army England ever raised—Great Britain has conquered the two Boer republics of South Africa, which hereafter will be a part of the empire. Presidents Steyn and Kruger are fugitives, and when captured doubtless will be sent to join the intrepid Cronje on the rock of St. Helena. The war has cost England fully £200,000,000 in money; the lives of fully 10,000 men were sacrificed; as many men are yet in hospital suffering from wounds or disease, and 5,000 prisoners of war are waiting at Pretoria to be liberated by Lord Roberts' victorious columns.

In return for her expenditures of blood and money England gets undisputed possession of the diamond fields of the Orange Free State and the gold fields of the Transvaal—the latter the main source of the empire's gold supply—and hereafter those who own the property and pay the taxes in these two countries will have representation in their governing bodies.

As for the Boers, whose brave and determined fight against overwhelming odds commanded the admiration of the world, they lose an identity which never benefited them to any particular extent and an independence which existed only in name. President Kruger's government was in reality an oligarchy; its chief executive was more of a despot than Russia's Czar; the burgher was not a freeman in the American sense; he enjoyed few educational facilities; his thinking was done for him and he cast his ballot as directed. The South African republic was the only nation calling itself civilized that encouraged slavery; women occupied an inferior position; religious liberty in the republic was unknown; only those in power could hope to secure a competence, the main body of the people being poor, with no opportunities for bettering their condition.

It was the night of Oct. 10, 1899, that President Kruger cabled his ultimatum to Lord Salisbury, which was, in effect, that war was on between the two coun-

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS.

Their World's Convention Promises to Be a Great Gathering.

The first world's convention of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor will be held in London, beginning July 10. This convention promises to be the greatest on record; 10,000 Americans, the largest delegation that ever crossed the sea in a body, are expected to be present, and with the Endeavorers in the United Kingdom and those from the continent and other foreign countries, the total number will probably reach 60,000, representing 4,000,000 members. The convention is to be held in the Alexandra Palace, an immense structure just out of London proper.

The task of caring for such a great crowd is one of no mean proportions and many difficulties have arisen in the path of those who have in charge the arrangement of the details for the reception of the visitors. The principal one of these is to find boarding places for the delegates. Every bed in the hotels, boarding houses and private homes of the Endeavorers has been engaged for the eventful week and still 5,000 of the expected guests would have no place to lay their head, to say nothing of filling their stomachs. This difficulty can be averted, however, in the minds of the managers. It is planned to lodge these 5,000 homeless ones in the Alexandra Palace. The structure has a great banquet hall and this large room will be divided off into dormitories, enough of them to hold 1,200 young women. This leaves 3,800 young men to be cared for and for this army the managers planned to erect a mighty encampment under canvas, like any other army would have. One thousand tents are needed, but the job of getting them is a herculean one. All the tentmakers of any consequence in England are engaged in turning out tents for the great army of British soldiers who are at war in South Africa. The managers of the convention were therefore obliged to place their orders with small tentmakers who are also rushed with work and so they hardly know where the tents are coming from, but they do know that none of the guests will be left out in the cold. Another setback for the dele-

tries from that date unless the British Government receded from its contention that it was entitled to exercise the right of suzerainty over the affairs of the South African republic. Within a few hours the English premier replied through the office of the secretary of state for the colonies that the question was too grave a one to be answered without reflection, and the next day the invasion of Natal by the Boers began, three columns pouring in from the Free State and the Transvaal. So far as can be estimated, about 45,000 Boers were put into the field, and as every man was a fine marksman, fighting behind defenses practically impregnable, the burghers had advantages on their side that only numerical superiority, patience and time could overcome. Therefore, the Boers scored many successes, the British suffering several disastrous defeats before they learned the art of war as practiced by the wily mountaineers.

gates is the fact that the ocean rates are high this year, due to the fact that England has many of the passenger ships in her transport service and also to the Paris exposition.

The Endeavorers will get a royal welcome in the English metropolis. The lord mayor himself will give a reception to the American contingent and the bishop of London will probably make an address the day before the convention.

Lightning Hits Monument.

Lightning struck the soldiers' monument at Byron, Ill., partly destroying it. It was the first to be erected after the civil war. A terrific electrical storm forced the crowds to retire to Gill's hall to conclude the memorial ceremonies, and while the speaker of the day was calling the roll of the dead there came a terrific crash, accompanied by a sheet of flame, shaking the ground like an earthquake, and the monument was ruined.

"BOXERS" GROW BOLD.

Chinese Rebels Encouraged by Their Recent Successes.

The hostile demonstrations of the reactionary elements in China, headed by the secret society known as the "Boxers," have suddenly assumed the aspect of a serious rebellion. Emboldened by their success in defeating the Government troops, the rebels have destroyed the railway station and rolling stock at Liulin, near Peking, and are marching on the capital itself. The whole movement is aimed at all foreign influences in China. The gravity of the situation is increased by the fact that the dowager Empress, the dominant force in the imperial government, is more or less in sympathy with the reactionary motives of the rebels. The "Boxers" have for months been massacring native converts to Christianity at various points, and though they have thus far refrained from killing foreign missionaries it is at them that the hostility is chiefly aimed. If the imperial government cannot or will not suppress the murderous acts of the rebels nothing remains but for the foreign governments to send warships and troops to defend the property and lives of their citizens in China. By their violence the fanatical Chinese are only hastening the advent of the foreign influences which they are combating. Anarchy is said to prevail even now in many of the provinces, and if the "Boxer" rebellion gains the formidable proportions now threatened it may easily prove a radical step toward the breakup of China itself.

Owing to the encroachments of the "Boxers," American, British, Japanese, German, Italian, Russian and French troops, to the number of 100 each were ordered to Peking to guard their respective legations there, but the viceroy at Tientsin would not allow them to proceed to Peking on the railway without the authority of the tsung-li-yamen. One hundred and eight Americans, with a machine gun and a field gun, landed amid great enthusiasm.

Five Russian warships, two Russian gunboats, two British warships and one French and one Italian warship arrived at Taku and landed troops. The Chinese have refused to allow Russian troops to pass the Taku forts. There is a disposition to believe that the "Boxers" will disperse before the foreign troops are ready to act.

REBELS SURPRISE SAN MIGUEL.

Rush Into the Town, Kill Five Americans and Escape.

On Tuesday night the Filipino insurgents rushed into San Miguel, province of Bulacan, Luzon, garrisoned by three companies of the Thirty-fifth volunteer infantry. They swept through the surprised town, shooting right and left, killing five Americans and wounding seven. San Miguel de Mayumo is but a few miles from Manila. While a band under the escort of troops of the Forty-sixth infantry was moving from Ilang to Silang, within twenty-five miles of Manila, it was attacked by ladrones, three of the party being killed.

Lieut. Jens E. Stejle of Company L, Forty-seventh volunteers, commanding a scouting party in the southern part of Albany province, had several engagements with the insurgents, in which seventeen of the enemy were killed and twenty-three, including a captain, were captured. Six explosive bombs and a number of valuable insurgent documents also fell into the hands of the Americans. The scouts burned the town of Yubi, the headquarters of the rebels.

Memorial day was observed in Manila as a general holiday. Military ceremonies were held at the various stations and salutes were fired from the forts at Santiago and Manila. A military escort proceeded to the Malatte cemetery, where the graves of United States soldiers were decorated and an address was made by the chaplain. Memorial exercises were held also in the theater.

BOYS WHO WORE THE GRAY.

Confederate Veterans Hold Their Reunion in Louisville.

The annual reunion of the Confederate veterans who in the '60s gallantly fought for a cause they believed to be right, opened in Louisville Wednesday. During the reunion there was a grand ball, with many concerts and excursions to sections of historical interest in the vicinity. There were 20,000 veterans in attendance, and all were given a royal welcome. An immense hall, which comfortably seated 10,000 persons, had been erected especially for the reunion on a high bluff commanding a view of the Ohio river and valley for many miles.

Distinguished veterans who are prominent in national affairs were there in large numbers and the city was wholly given up to the "boys who wore the gray."

CHURCH AND CLERGY.

The missionary societies claim that there are now 60,000 Protestants in old Mexico.

The Baptist Theological Seminary at Rochester, N. Y., celebrated its fiftieth anniversary last week.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has a Sunday school class of sixty-three young men at the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church, New York.

The State Department of the United States Government spends nearly $1,000,000 a year to protect American missionaries in foreign lands.

The international committee of the Y. M. C. A. is endeavoring to raise a million-dollar jubilee endowment fund before the jubilee meeting of American associations in 1901.

With a party of friends the Rev. J. J. Savage of New York will travel through southern Europe in a gasoline automobile built for six people and with plenty of room for luggage.

THE PRESBYTERIANS.

Creed Revision Discussed and Referred to Special Committee.

Unusual interest marked the proceedings of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in St. Louis last week. Creed revision was most unexpectedly brought forward Tuesday afternoon, and the discussion which followed was of a decidedly heated character. Situations at times a little short of dramatic came to the front, and, although speakers for and against revision occupied the floor and made speeches that laid bare their thoughts upon the old confession, no action was taken at that session. Consideration of the subject was postponed until Wednesday, when it was placed in the hands of a committee of fifteen, with the moderator added as chairman, to report what action, if any, should be taken by the church. This committee will compare, analyze and summarize suggestions from the presbyteries, which are invited to take action on "the whole matter of a restatement of the doctrines most surely believed among us and which are substantially embodied in our confession of faith." An hour's intense and at times almost acrimonious discussion preceded the adoption of this report.

The settlement of the creed question, as far as this assembly is concerned, was not accomplished without comments being made on the subject from every shade of opinion represented in the church. The leaders alone did not settle the matter, but elders and pastors new to the assembly voiced their opinions in no uncertain tone. The decision to send the question to the proposed committee for investigation was in the end adopted by a majority which completely overshadowed the few votes cast against the report. This will leave the question open for the presbyteries to discuss in every form desired. Their recommendations will do nothing but shape the report of the committee, which, in turn, will make recommendations to the assembly next year.

AMUSEMENT BAN REMAINS.

The Methodists Refuse to Change the Church's Attitude.

The Methodist general conference in Chicago, after two days of turmoil, dodged the amusement question. On Saturday the minority report of the committee, favoring no change in the discipline as to dancing, theater going, etc., was adopted by a vote of 333 to 290. When the vote was announced in the conference Monday a motion was made that the report be laid on the table. This was agreed to by a vote of 256 to 253, and the presiding bishop ruled that the matter was no longer before the house. Practically the question stands as it stood when the conference met; technically the conference has voted against a report to leave the discipline unchanged.

This action leaves the controversy open and was reached in opposition to the advice of the majority of a committee guided by ex-Gov. Pattison of Pennsylvania, and after a stormy debate. The majority of the committee, headed by ex-Gov. Pattison, presented a report to strike from the trial code mention of specific amusements, and to add to the chapter of "Special Adverses" an affirmation of the church's historic attitude toward worldly diversions. The minority recommended that no action be taken.

Having transacted all the business that had accumulated, the conference Tuesday adjourned. Before the 750 ministers and laymen in attendance as delegates closed the session and departed for their homes in every part of the United States and in foreign countries of every continent, they rushed through a number of smaller matters of business left over from the earlier days of the session. But many members of the conference had gone away and the galleries were almost empty, so that interest in the subjects voted on was small.

GO TO PRISON FOR LIFE.

Welland Canal Dynamiters Sentenced to the Penitentiary.

At Welland, Ont., the dynamiters, Dullman, Nolin and Walsh, were found guilty in short order and Chancellor Boyd sentenced them to life imprisonment in Kingston penitentiary. The public mind was thoroughly aroused, and no other verdict than that which was given would have been well received by the public in Canada.

The crime for which they were convicted was an attempt to wreck lock 24 of the Welland canal with dynamite. Walsh and Nolin were the active participants in the crime, having lowered two balloons filled with dynamite and with fuses attached alongside the lock, but owing to a mistake in calculating the distance to the water's edge the force of the explosion was minimized and the damage was trifling. Dullman accompanied the men to Niagara Falls and directed proceedings from there. The three were caught almost red-handed. The jury was only five minutes arriving at the guilt of the accused. Neither made any remark on receiving sentence.

Odds and Ends.

Another flood at Austin, Texas. New warship Kentucky has gone into commission.

Five men drowned in the waters about New York in one day recently.

Thomas Murray, Joplin, Mo., tried to escape from officers and was fatally shot.

In a duel over a woman at Beckville, Texas, C. A. Baxter killed Malcolm J. Ger.

"Oh! How Happy I Am."
 "HOW HAPPY I AM to be able to say that I am free from pain after five years of severe suffering from neuralgia," writes Mrs. Archie Young, 1817 Oaks avenue, West Superior, Wis. "I am so thankful to be able to say that your '5 Drops' is the best medicine I ever got in my life. When I received it from you last November, I used some of it right away. The first dose helped me. It is impossible to explain how I was suffering from neuralgia. I thought no one could get worse and that death would soon come. I was very weak, and I hardly thought I could live to see my husband come back from his daily labor. Now I can say that I am free from pain, my cheeks are red, my appetite is good and I sleep well all night. Many of my friends are surprised, and say they will send for some '5 Drops.'" Sample bottles of this wonderful remedy 25c. Large bottles, containing 300 doses, $1.00. For information write Swanson Rheumatic Cure Co., 164 E. Lake street, Chicago.

CENSUS ARMY MOVES.

ENUMERATORS ARE COUNTING UNCLE SAM'S MILLIONS.

Experts Say Results Will Prove that This is the Greatest of Civilized Nations—Complete Figures Are Due December 1.

The 52,600 census enumerators are making their rounds. Two hundred and ninety-seven supervisors have them in charge. In addition to the staff at headquarters in Washington, four chief inspectors are out on the road and more than 2,000 special agents are also prepared to jump into their designated fields of inquiry. Fifty-five thousand men to gather information about 75,000,000. It looks like a big army, and it is bigger than any army the Boers have had in the field in South Africa. But this is a great country.

The end of the century census, the twelfth which Uncle Sam has taken, is expected to show that the United States is to-day the greatest, the most populous, the richest, the most prosperous and the most rapidly growing modern nation. The experts have already figured out that the total population will leap from 62,000,000 in 1890 to between 75,000,000 and 76,000,000 in 1900.

Mulhall, the English statistician, last fall figured the population of the United States June 1, this year, at 77,300,000. The treasury experts made it still higher. Census Director Merriam has estimated 73,000,000 or 74,000,000, but for obvious reasons he is conservative. There are experts here who are willing to wager that the grand total, when finally wound up, will not be over 76,000,000 nor under 75,000,000. It will beat the civilized world. Germany has only two-thirds as many people, France and Great Britain only a little over half as many. Russia and China have more, but their hordes are not to be reckoned in the category of fully civilized modern peoples.

Director Merriam expects to be able to announce the population of many American cities within the month. Washington will come first and rapidly thereafter New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and all the large cities.

The census experts give a most interesting prediction. It is that this census will show the United States to have a larger number of cities with a population exceeding 100,000 than any other nation. We shall show about forty such municipalities, and our nearest rival, it is believed, is India. In this competition China is not counted, as the population of Chinese cities is largely a matter of guessing, and they are mere collections of villages at best. The experts have also figured out that the center of population in the United States has now traveled about sixty miles west of Columbus, Ind., and is now not far from the Illinois line. "Westward the star of empire."

In increase of wealth the great West is expected to astonish the East. As a new apportionment of the United States for Congress and the electoral college is to be made next winter upon the basis of this census, as required by the constitution, the growth of population in the West will speedily bring increase of political power. Before Dec. 1 Director Merriam expects to announce the total population of the United States so that Congress may upon its reassembling at once proceed to make the new apportionment required by the constitution. The total cost of the census is estimated at from $15,000,000 to $16,900,000.

Just a hundred years ago Virginia was the first State of the Union, with a population of 880,000. This year it will fall back to about twentieth place. At the beginning of the century Massachusetts stood third in the list. Ten years ago it was sixth. In this census it is pretty sure to be outstripped by Texas, Indiana, Michigan and Iowa.

The special agents who are to gather information as to American manufacturing industries are at work. During the next three months they will finish their tasks. On this score the results are likely to be amazing. This feature of the census more than any other will show the greatness of the United States.

SURVIVORS OF THE CIVIL WAR.

Evans Estimates that Union Veterans Number 925,000.
 Veterans of the civil war are dying off at the rate of about 3-1-3 per cent per annum. Commissioner of Pensions Evans estimates that there are about 925,000 survivors of the civil war. Of this number there were on the pension rolls last year 742,467. During the year 24,787 pensioned veterans died. This number is slightly more than 3-1-3 per cent. Assuming that the death rate among those not pensioned is the same as among the pensioners, the total number of veterans who died during the year would be about 80,856.

He Never Sleeps.
 Fuddle—You know Stocks, don't you? Doctor—Yes, indeed. He is now a patient of mine.
 Fuddle—Pretty wideawake man, isn't he?
 Doctor—I should say so. I'm treating him for insomnia.

Electricity in Capanties
 Is made from cheap chemicals, and when added to a certain quantity of water will furnish electricity enough to light a house or drive an automobile. But this is nothing compared to the strengthening power contained in a bottle of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It cures indigestion, dyspepsia, biliousness, liver and kidney troubles.

A Stronger Word.
 "You look robust," remarked the lady of the house. "Are you equal to the task of sawing wood?"
 "Equal isn't the word, madame," replied the pilgrim, as he resumed his journey: "I'm superior to it."—Philadelphia Record.

Libby, McNeill & Libby.
 Housekeepers frequently feel the need of luncheon meats which are either ready to serve or can be prepared for the table at a moment's notice. Such a need is abundantly supplied in the superior meats put up by the old reliable house of Libby, McNeill & Libby, Chicago, one of whose specialties is advertised in another column of this paper, and their booklet, "How to Make Good Things to Eat," is offered free on application.

What Do the Children Drink?
 Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing, and takes the place of coffee. The more GRAIN-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs about 1/4 as much. All grocers sell it. 15c and 25c.

Mere Matter of Figures.
 He entered the cheap restaurant and took a seat at one of the tables. "Will you have a 25-cent dinner or a 50-cent one, sir?" inquired the waiter.
 "Is there any real difference?"
 "Certainly, sir."
 "What is it?"
 "Twenty-five cents, sir."

PEOPLE OF THE DAY.

Muzaffer-ed-Din, Shah of Persia, has set out from his capital, Teheran, to make a tour of the principal cities of Europe and to take in the Paris exposition. This is the first time he has been away from home since he succeeded to the throne after the assassination of his father May 1, 1896. Muzaffer-ed-Din is personally known to all the sovereigns of Europe, and from them he has received their highest orders. He accompanied his father on his last visit to England, where he formed a personal friendship with many leading men which has proved most useful in maintaining friendly relations between England and Persia. On that visit the queen conferred on him the insignia of the grand cross of the order of the Bath. The shah is 47 years of age and is credited with possessing all the virtues that endear a sovereign to his people.

Andrew Carnegie and the Bagpipes.
 One of Andrew Carnegie's greatest pleasures is a very simple one, and it shows how genuinely Scotch he is, for all his Americanism. This man, who possesses more than $100,000,000, would rather listen to the bagpipes than to the greatest orchestra and the best slingers in the world.

Now, music is more or less an acquired taste. Men have learned to like the classical school, but it is not on record that any man ever acquired a love for the playing of bagpipes. It is inborn.

Mr. Carnegie could have the finest instrumentalists play for him every night if he cared to, and he likes music when he is at dinner, and he has it—not strings and horn, but the pipes. Of course, when he is giving big dinners he has a regular orchestra, but when Mr. Carnegie is dining en famille he listens to the good old Scotch tunes played on the bagpipe by a very skillful performer.

Railway Kings Getting Together.
 President James J. Hill of the Great Northern railway is famous for great enterprises and deals in the line of transportation affairs, and he is ever on the watch for new worlds to conquer. His latest move is an effort to bring about an amicable understanding between the ocean carriers regarding rates and a division of the growing traffic across the Pacific. To this end he has arranged for a meeting of the heads of the transcontinental railway lines to be held in San Francisco on May 30. In addition to Mr. Hill this meeting will be attended by E. P. Ripley of the Santa Fe, President Burt of the Union Pacific, C. P. Huntington and J. C. Stubbs of the Southern Pacific and one or more of the leading officials of the Canadian Pacific. It is believed by those interested that the meeting will furnish the means of either bringing the interested lines into a transpacific traffic association or accomplishing an ironclad agreement looking to the advancement and maintenance of rates.

Anthony Hope at Home.
 Anthony Hope is not superstitious. He has left his lucky chambers in the quiet Middle Temple, London, where he practiced law without clients, and has working offices on Buckingham street, near the Strand, much as one might say West Tenth street, near Broadway.

The house is old and dark and dingy. It overlooks the London lodgings of Benjamin Franklin and the rooms of Peter the Great of Russia when they were in the city. It is on the site of the famous York house, home of Bacon.

Hope's lodgings are full of books. On the mantel are original drawings by Charles Dana Gibson, and pipes.

Mr. Hope sleeps at the house of his father, a London clergyman, and on Sunday mornings he reads the service in the senior Hawkins' church.

Utility of Hogs.
 Where the hog's utility is most pronounced on the farm is as a manufacturer of fertilizer. If given the proper material, he does not require you to buy nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash in a available form to turn out a fertilizer, but give him muck, leaves, straw or litter of any kind, and he will furnish gratis the fertility that will discount anything that can be bought in bags, taking into consideration the cost and lasting effects. Give him opportunity, and next fall you will not find it necessary to sell one or two best cows to pay for phosphate.

Prune Low.
 Don't let those fruit trees run away up out of your reach; there are lots of disadvantages in tall trees, and not one single advantage. It is more work to prune the trees; more work to thin the fruit (of course you do thin the fruit); more work to spray and to pick the fruit. If any of the fruit falls to the ground, it is bruised and badly injured, and if you fall while picking fruit from these tall trees you would perhaps get a broken arm or leg and perhaps a broken neck.—A. A. Halladay in American Gardening.

Cottonseed Meal.
 Cottonseed meal should be used on all farms where stock is kept, if possible, as it greatly enriches the manure. Some farmers, especially those who grow tobacco, use it directly on the land as a fertilizer, and when the market price of cottonseed meal does not exceed $20 per ton it is considered equal to some fertilizers, as it contains nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash in a partially available form.

Land Plaster.
 A small quantity of land plaster in the hills of corn will be found beneficial, as the plaster absorbs moisture from the atmosphere and will give a green color to corn when other corn not receiving plaster will be yellow. Plaster is not considered a valuable fertilizer, but it is nevertheless capable of influencing the amount of ammonia derived from the air and in proportion to its cost gives excellent results.

Sprained Ankle Quickly Cured.
 "At one time I suffered from a severe sprain of the ankle," says Geo. E. Cary, editor of the Guide, Washington, Va. "After using several well recommended medicines without success, I tried Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and am pleased to say that relief came as soon as I began its use and a complete cure speedily followed. This remedy has also been used in my family for frost bitten feet with best results. I cheerfully recommend its use to all who may need a first-class liniment." For sale by Slattery, the Druggist.

Robbed the Grave.
 A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in my back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying "Electric Bitters" and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50c guaranteed, at Slattery's drug store.

W. H. Shipman, Beardley, Minn., under oath, says he suffered from dyspepsia for twenty-five years. Doctors and dieting gave but little relief. Finally he used Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and now eats what he likes and as much as he wants, and he feels like a new man. It digests what you eat. T. E. Slattery.

Some Pointers on Vinegar—A Girl's Combination Wardrobe—Preparing Asparagus.

When we speak of vinegar, the mind turns naturally to vinegar made from the hard cider of apples, or, since we are told that most of the commercial vinegar is manufactured from various acids in the chemist's laboratory, we think of this diluted, unhealthful article. But scientists tell us now that vinegar can be made from nearly all fruits and that it is healthful as well as a piquant and delightful sauce to a dinner. Vinegar is made from ordinary peppermint leaves washed and put in a bottle for a month with good cider vinegar. When strained, this makes a delightful flavoring for certain kinds of meats. Horse radish is ground and a tablespoonful of granulated sugar added before it is mixed with the apple vinegar. A bottle filled with nasturtium seed pods and vinegar will be ready for use in a month's time. Green peppers make another piquant flavoring vinegar. Peach pits cracked open and the meat put in a bottle with very strong vinegar impart a decided peach flavor to the mixture. Walnuts can be substituted for the peach pits. Ripe gooseberries make a delightful vinegar sauce which some epicures consider superior to the best white vinegar.

A Girl's Wardrobe.

A large number of hat boxes are cumbersome things in a bedroom and are either probably pushed beneath the bed, where they harbor dust, or raised aloft on the top of a cupboard, where it is an effort to reach them.

It is certain that hats require special places to be reserved for them if they are to retain their shape and freshness. Very often for lack of a proper hat box they are laid one on the other in an ottoman box, and in consequence plumes are broken and bows and flowers are crushed.

A wardrobe could be arranged to run straight along the wall or to fill an angle of the room. It consists of a top shelf or roof just as long and wide as you please, two side wings, a bottom shelf (this might be dispensed with), a set of nests at the left for hats and shoes and a front curtain. As there is a fair amount of waste space at the bottom of the wardrobe the idea is that the smaller nests for boots and shoes should be continued the entire width of the wardrobe from right to left. This intention has not been indicated by our artist, but it would be useful. An extra wing of wood with fixed shelves at intervals running the entire height of the wardrobe portions off the necessary space for hats.

There need be no wooden back to the wardrobe, but the interior must be hung with chintz, and at the back and at one side there should be rows of pegs screwed to a ledge of wood fixed to the wall.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Preparing Asparagus.

For one way of dealing with asparagus put a bunch of asparagus over the fire to boil and in the meantime prepare a sauce as follows: Melt a teaspoonful of butter in a saucepan and when it is melted stir in a teaspoonful of flour. Cook for a few moments, being careful that it does not scorch. Add a third cupful of cream and the same quantity of veal stock. Season with pepper, salt and a grating of nutmeg. Add the well beaten yolk of an egg. Lay the cooked asparagus on a buttered baking dish and spread the sauce over the upper half of the stocks thickly. Sprinkle with grated cheese, cover with bread crumbs and dot with bits of butter. Cover part of the baking dish so that only the sauce covered portion may brown in the oven.

One Way of Preparing Eggs.

Any one who has ever been ill has a keen and realizing sense of how wearisome the eternal diet of broths and eggs may become and how necessary it is that everything should be prepared in as appetizing a manner as possible. One good way of preparing an egg is to separate the white from the yolk, keeping the latter unbroken. Add a pinch of salt to the white and beat it to a stiff froth. Put it in a very small baking dish and drop the yolk in the center. Place the dish in a hot oven for a few moments. Add a bit of butter and salt and pepper, if that is allowed.

FOREIGN TROOPS PERMITTED BY CHINA TO PASS FORTS.

Concerted Demand Heeded at the Last Moment—Situation in Peking Is More Quiet—Boxers Continue Their Depredations at Tien-Tsin.

Foreign troops now guard the embassies of the powers in China. The Chinese foreign office backed down at the last moment, Thursday night, and allowed marines from foreign warships at Taku, who entrained for the capital at Tien-Tsin Thursday afternoon, to enter the city.

Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese minister at Washington, when asked about the dispatches from China, in regard to the uprising of the "Boxers," said: "That looks serious. These 'Boxers' have arisen since I left China. Taku, the port nearest Tien-Tsin fit for deep-draft vessels, has been used before by foreign men-of-war in time of trouble.

American and other foreign guards, numbering 349, arrived in the midst of the Dragon festival. The streets were unusually crowded, and, though the people were greatly interested in the unusual spectacle, no manifestation of hostility was made.

Filipino Leader Either Killed or Badly Wounded in Fight.

Advices from Vigan, Luzon, via Manila, say that Maj. March, with his detachment of the Thirty-third regiment, overtook what is believed to have been Aguinaldo's party about 100 miles northeast of Vigan.

Aguinaldo had 100 men, Maj. March 125. The American commander struck Aguinaldo's outpost about a mile outside of La Gat, killing four Filipinos and capturing two.

Maj. March, believing that the Filipinos had taken to a river which is a tributary to the Chico, followed it for two days, reaching Tiao, where he learned that a party of Filipinos had descended the river on a raft with the body of a dead or wounded man upon a litter covered with palm leaves.

COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL.

New York—The movement of trade appears again to be in the right direction, although the pace is a trifle slow. There has been a considerable reaction in iron and steel, wool, cotton and other commodities, but this reaction has been in the nature of a readjustment of prices to conditions.

Chicago—How little speculative interest is being taken in the wheat market is well illustrated by Saturday's closing price of that commodity for July delivery, which was within 1/2 cent a bushel of its value at the end of the previous week.

THE CHORISTERS.

There's a little band of singers
Every evening comes and lingers
'Neath the window of my cottage in the trees;
And with dark they raise their voices,
While the gathering night rejoices,
And the leaves join in the chorus with the breeze.
Then the twinkling stars come out
To enjoy the merry rout,
And the squirrels range themselves upon a log;
And the fireflies furnish light,
That they read their notes aright—
The katydid, the cricket and the frog.

All the night I hear them singing; Through my head their tunes are ringing—
Strains of music straight from Mother Nature's heart;
Now the katydid and cricket,
From the deep of yonder thicket;
Then the croaking frog off yonder drones his part.
By and by the moon appears,
As the midnight hour nears,
And her smiles dispel the low'ring mist and fog;
Then the mirth is at its height,
And they glorify the night—
The katydid, the cricket and the frog.

Cupid and the Law.

I.

"Goodby, goodby; yes, we'll write and tell you all about it, and perhaps send you some of the drawn work."
And with these and the other usual messages, the train carrying the big excursion to Mexico pulled out of the station.

It was a common, everyday sight to the station hands, and they gave it only a passing glance. But to most of the travelers it was a novel experience, and they looked on it as only the beginning of days of sightseeing in the land of the Montezumas.

There were two passengers in one of these sleepers who attracted some attention. One was a woman of 60, tall and straight, with a carriage like a queen, who seemed as young and gay as the youngest. The other called her "mother," and was about 25, a beautiful girl. Their son and brother had come to the station to bid them goodby, a man of 30, well groomed and well made, the typical American man of that age.

He had provided them with everything that his affection could suggest, and told them to be sure and let him know day by day where they were and if they were well.

"And you will look after mother, Alice, won't you?"

As he spoke two young ladies turned and looked at him—his sister and a younger woman, about 22. She turned involuntarily, and the pretty blush that covered her cheek showed that her name was Alice, too.

Robert Duncan glanced at her, and was struck with her beauty. But she saw his look and turned away and busied herself with her baggage. His mother and sister both noticed the coincidence also, and smiled.

"So we will have two Alices along," said his mother. "I hope we shall become acquainted with the young lady.
She looks very pleasant and very nice."

Just then the porter shouted "All aboard!" and Robert jumped from the train. As the car passed him he looked in vain for the faces of his mother and sister. But he did see the face of the other Alice looking at him with some curiosity.

Then he returned to his office. He was the junior partner in a prominent law firm in Boston, and had a hard afternoon of work before him. There was a brief in a case that puzzled both himself and his partner. But try as he would to concentrate his mind on his work, he could see nothing but the beautiful face at the car window and hear nothing but the droning of the car wheels.

At last he became so nervous that he threw down his pen, and telling the boy he would not be back until morning, he walked across the common and the public garden to his home.

The evening at the theatre did not help him, and he was rather horror-struck to find himself no better in the morning. This was a new experience for him. No woman had ever before come between him and his work. This was silly. He never saw the girl before and he never would see her again, of course. He must have dyspepsia.

So on his way to his office he made a call on his old college chum, now a promising young physician. He did not tell the doctor what the most prominent symptom was, but was sure he needed medicine for dyspepsia. Accordingly, he felt rather foolish when he was obliged to say no to all the doctor's questions as to whether he had certain symptoms inseparable from gastric trouble.

The doctor laughed and gave him some harmless powder, and he went to me office strong in the resolve to finish the brief. He made fairly good headway, but still the image of the beautiful young girl would come back to him, and as the day wore on more distinctly. Later in the afternoon he got a telegram saying that the party was at Chicago and signed "Alice." And that started it all over again.

Then he became alarmed and feared that his mind was going. For he was not a believer in "love at first sight," or hardly in the grand passion itself.

Then he found himself with an almost resistless longing to take the first train and follow his folks. Of course, he did not admit to himself that he wanted to see the other Alice.

That afternoon one of the firm's best clients came in. He said he contemplated purchasing some thousand acres in Mexico, with the view of establishing a coffee plantation there. He was not satisfied with the title to the land, and felt that some one ought to go down there and look into the matter more closely. He could not spare the time, and came to them, thinking that some of their young men might have enough knowledge of Spanish to make the trip.

Robert Duncan regarded him as an angel, and said that as the office was not very busy just then, he thought he should like to make the trip himself.
This was better than the client expected, so the matter was soon fixed up.

"Perhaps you will meet your folks down there," said the senior partner.

"Why, perhaps I will," said Duncan, as if he had just thought of it. But he told his partner that it was hardly probable, as he was going down on the lower table lands near the coast and the excursions usually kept pretty well upon the higher plateaus.

That night before he started he got a letter from his mother, and in she said: "Alice Chambers is lovely, and we enjoy her very much." So that was her name—Chambers.

II.

The next morning he started. His journey was a tiresome one, and after several days spent on the train he found himself one glorious afternoon climbing a little mountain path on the back of a burro. Duncan had told his folks by wire of his intended trip, and found by looking over their itinerary that they had passed quite near where he now was.

He had left the train at a little town through which they passed some days previously, and was making his way into the country to interview an old Indian whom he expected to find the next morning. The title to Mexican lands often depends on information only obtainable from the kindly Indians.

That night he slept on his blanket under the stars, and early the next morning was pushing on, the path growing still wilder and more beautiful. At last, about 9 o'clock, he came over the spur of the mountain and looked down on a lovely valley. His guide and interpreter told him that in the little village which he could see was the old Indian.

About noon they arrived, the matter of the title was soon fixed up and arrangements were made to leave the next morning on the return trip. But that evening something happened that altered the plans.

A small party of the villagers who had been up on the mountain cutting wood had found a burro wandering alone. They did not recognize it as one of the village burros. It had a side saddle on it and tucked under one of the straps was a little glove. They knew that a young American or European woman must have ridden the burro, and they began a hunt to find her.

Some miles back they found her unconscious by the road, and putting her on the burro which they had led back, they brought her into camp. As they brought her up Duncan walked up the little village street to see what the matter was. He was astounded to see Alice Chambers on the back of the little mule.

She was still unconscious. One of the old women of the village took her into the little open shelter and in a very few minutes she revived, and, opening her eyes, smiled a wan smile. When her eyes caught that of Duncan she started, and he stepped up and said:

"I am Robert Duncan, Miss Chambers, and my mother and sister have been traveling with you. I am here on business, and will be happy to help you in any way possible. When you are stronger we shall be glad to hear your story."

She regaineth her vigor quickly under the ministrations of the old Indian woman, and soon told them that she had started out with a party from the little town on the railroad to make an excursion to some famous caves. In some way she had become separated from the others, and had tried to find her way back. She became confused, and, meeting several natives, they had tried to understand each other, with the result that she became more and more at sea.

She had eaten only what some kindly Indians had given her. At last she went so long without food that she felt a faintness coming over her, and she knew no more until she woke and found herself in the little village.

In a few days she was strong enough to travel, and Duncan made himself a demi-god in the village by leaving a sum of money that to the Indians was fabulous. They calculated that the excursion party must be at the city of Mexico, and when they reached the railroad they telegraphed the party. An answer came back which they got at a station farther on. It said: "Thank God, she is found."

They were met at the station by an enthusiastic crowd made up of the excursion party, the American minister and a great mob of Mexicans, who cheered the couple to the echo. In some way the story had gotten into the papers.

Duncan decided to stay for some days, and telegraphed his partner to that effect, who wired back congratulations, and Duncan found himself a hero. He drove with them and went to see the sights.

One afternoon he asked Alice if she would drive with him to the grove of Chapultepec. They dismissed the coachman at the entrance and told him they would meet him there in a couple of hours. Then they wandered through that majestic grove, where it is always twilight, even at midday. They had been talking over their strange experience. "Alice," said Duncan, "you, of course, know that everybody thinks you are my sweetheart, and was before we left home?"

She blushed and owned that she had heard something to that effect.

"Well," said he, "why not make it true? Alice, I have loved you from the first day I saw you in the train in Boston."

She looked up at him and said, arch-ly: "Well, Robert, it was quite mutual. I assure you. Oh, there are some people coming. You mustn't."

From which I infer that he understood her to say "yes."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Like a New Gibraltar.

According to a man who has just returned from a winter's sojourn in the Bermudas, the people of this continent have little idea of the magnitude of the plans being perfected by the British government at these islands. The fortifications, barracks and dockyards bid fair to make the islands the Gibraltar of the Atlantic.

The imperial government has built an iron balance dock, shaped like the letter V, and 400 feet in length. The bottom is round, so that it can be careened over when the bottom becomes foul, thus allowing it to be scraped and painted down to the center line. The dock can be sunk thirty feet. Between the inner and outer skins is a space of twenty feet in depth. This great chamber is divided into thirty-two compartments by fifteen transverse bulkheads and a longitudinal one running along the keel line.
These are pumped out by sixteen individual engines on each side of the dock. The imperial authorities, however, are not satisfied with this provision, for a new dock is being built, in sections, in England, which will be 800 feet long and capable of accommodating the largest vessels.

The island barracks are exceptionally fine, and the fortifications are very strong and extensive. It is said there are 365, or one for every day in the year, but many of them are mere pinnacles of rock. The government is gradually acquiring additional lands for fortifications, dockyards, barracks and similar works. There is no doubt that the intention is to make it a place of immense military strength and equipped with the fullest facilities for the repair of naval and merchant ships.

Japanese Food Abominable.

B. A. Lawton, of Boston, who has recently returned from Japan, was describing that country to a party of friends at the Waldorf-Astoria, and in the course of his remarks said: "All that has been written of the physical beauty of Japan is really inadequate.
But while Japanese life, Japanese houses and Japanese scenery are replete with interest and beauty, Japanese food is an abomination to the civilized stomach, and as such to be absolutely eschewed. Take the raw fish, for instance, they serve. The first time I tasted it I was forcibly reminded of the man who invented the 'flap-jack' which, when cooked on one side, au-tomatically turned over and cooked the other side as well. The scheme worked out to perfection and fortune seemed to loom large in the near future for the inventor, when a drawback to the scheme was discovered—the 'flapjack,' once swallowed, kept on turning. That is what happens when you eat the raw fish of Japan."—New York Tribune.

A Description of Wampum.

Wampum was the name applied to shells or strings of shells used by the North American Indians as money. Besides their use as money they were united to form a broad belt, which was worn as an ornament. In the language of the Massachusetts Indians the word signified white, the color which generally prevailed in wampum belts.

MIHALY MUNKACSY.

Famous Hungarians Was One of the Great Painters of the Age.

Mihaly Munkacsy, who died May 1 in a private insane asylum at Bonn, Germany, where he had been confined for more than three years, was one of the world's greatest painters. Some of his best productions, chief among them Christ Before Pilate, are owned in this country.

The famous painter's real name was Michael Lieb and he was born in the town of Munkacs, Hungary, fifty-four years ago. Early in life he became apprenticed as a carpenter's boy. He showed a taste for poetry and in leisure moments learned to draw. His talent developed wonderfully and he managed to get a studio in Dusseldorf.
In 1869 Mr. and Mrs. Willstack, of Philadelphia, traveling in Germany, stopped at Dusseldorf and Mr. Will-stack was so pleased with Lieb's work that he told him to make a painting which the American sent to the Paris

MIHALY MUNKACSY.

Salon in 1870, where it created a sensation and made the young painter famous. It earned him a medal, a wealthy patron and a start on the road which brought Michael Lieb to the rich and celebrated Count Mihaly de Munkacsy, chevalier of the Legion of Honor and Knight of the Austrian Order of the Iron Cross.

Munkacsy is said to have received more than $1,000,000 for his work. His Christ Before Pilate was purchased by John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, who still owns it, for $100,000. Other prominent paintings of his in this country are The Last Day of a Man Condemned to Death and Milton Dictating Paradise Lost. His mind gave way as he was putting the finishing touches on his last great work in the Christ series, Ecce Homo. In 1896, the millennial year of Hungary, Munkacsy left Paris, where he had lived for many years, and returned to his native land. In the autumn of that year he was stricken with a spinal paralysis and had done no work since. He soon afterward became demented and was sent to the asylum at Bonn.

LAW AS INTERPRETED.

The doctrine that an agent to purchase property cannot buy for his own benefit is applied, in Kimball vs Ranney (Mich.), 46 L. R. A. 403, to a purchase on foreclosure by an agent who had been employed to effect a sale of the mortgaged property.

Breach by a water company of a contract to supply a city with water sufficient to protect its inhabitants against loss is held, in Gorrell vs Greensboro Water Supply Company (N. C.), 46 L.
R. A. 513, to entitle a citizen whose property is burned in consequence thereof to sue as a party in interest.

One system of street railways over some of which both freight and passengers are carried and cars from lines running to other towns are run is held, in Oren ex rel. Barbour vs. Pingree (Mich.), 46 L. R. A. 407, to constitute a work of internal improvement within the meaning of the Michigan constitution, which forbids the State to be interested in such works.

If a creditor takes an assignment of a life insurance policy to secure his debt he is held in Morris vs. Georgia Loan, S. and B. Company (Ga.), 46 L. R. A.
506, to be entitled to retain out of the proceeds of the policy an amount sufficient to pay the debt with all advances made to keep the policy in force, and is required to pay any balance to the persons named in the policy as beneficiaries or payees.

Removal of a judge from office for purely economic reasons not personal to him or relating to his administration of the office is held, in McCulley vs.
State (Tenn.), 46 L. R. A. 567, to be not authorized by a constitutional provision for the removal of a judge by concurrent vote of both houses of the General Assembly, after notice to the judge, accompanied with a copy of the causes alleged for his removal.

Very Strong.

Stubbs—The woolen mill down the street was destroyed by fire this morning.

Penn—You don't say! Why, Smythe and I were standing in the same block, and never even heard an engine.

Stubbs—Wonder you hadn't caught a whiff of the burning wool.

Penn—That was impossible. Smythe was smoking a cigar he bought on the train.—Chicago News.

INDIANA INCIDENTS.

RECORD OF EVENTS OF THE PAST WEEK.

Prisoner's Daring Jump for Liberty— Power Houses and Pumping Stations Burned—Heavy Fire Loss at Water- loo—Girl's Body in a Pond.

David Taylor made a wonderful escape from the Montgomery County jail at Crawfordsville. Feigning illness, he induced the turnkey to take him from the steel rotary up to the third story of the jail ostensibly for fresh air. The windows there are not barred, and when the turnkey's back was turned Taylor crashed through one of the windows into the limbs of a shade tree twenty feet below.
He caught safely, dropped to the ground, and ran off unhurt. Although closely followed, he swam the river and made good his escape. Taylor by clever forgeries swindled the banks of Darlington and Colfax out of nearly a thousand dollars.

Fire Loss in the Oil Field.

No less than half a dozen power houses and pumping stations were burned in the oil field in a recent week, and it is believed to have been the work of incendiaries. The Phoenix Oil Company of Hartford City lost two. One on the Kelly farm was just fired and the pumper on the Baker farm nearly shut down to assist in putting out the fire. During Baker's absence his place was also set ablaze. A power house on the J. P. A.
Leonard lease was also destroyed, as was one of the J. H. Hardison farms. The loss will aggregate $8,000.

Fire Loss Is $10,000.

An entire business block was destroyed by an incendiary fire at Waterloo, the fire originating in the bowling alley. The night watch heard the match struck which set the block on fire, but the incendiary escaped. Oil had been spread over the dry woodwork of the interior of the building. The loss is about $10,- 000, with but little insurance.

Girl's Body Found in a Pond.

The body of Emily Price, aged 18 years, a daughter of a well-known farmer, was found in a pond near Youngstown. The girl had not been living at home for some time, but had been employed in the household of a prominent farmer who lives near the scene of the tragedy. It is not known whether the case is one of murder or suicide.

of the United Mine Workers of America, after a two days' session at Terre Haute, settled the mining scale division question. A delegation of machine miners from throughout the State presented their cases.

FOR THE FARMER

It has been often said and truly that one of the chief difficulties in making farming profitable is that farmers less than any other class construct their farming operations on business principles. By this is not meant that they do not keep an elaborate set of books, showing just what crops have cost and how the income from the farm is made and also what has been done with it. That is the schoolmaster's idea about applying business principles to farming. It is entirely fallacious. Books of farm accounts, so far as showing what crops have cost, are almost necessarily deceptive if they try to go into details. Only the crudest kind of estimate can be made of what remains after fertilizers have been applied to make one crop to enrich the soil for future crops. Quite often the best farmers purposely grow some crop which they know will not itself be profitable in order to get their land seeded with grass or clover for the benefit this will insure to other crops in the same rotation. Quite often, too, the crops that could be sold for the most money are set aside because too exhaustive or because they do not furnish the rough feed to be fed on the farm and thus be turned into manure to preserve its fertility.

But there are two important business principles that ought to be applied to farm production much more generally than they are. The first of these is to do all possible to make production cheaper. This with crops can best be done by underdraining the soil and making it as fertile as possible.

The other business principle is to study what the farm is capable of doing under the best management and so far as is possible crowding it up to that high standard. This often involves an entire change in the system of cropping, and it always means getting out of the old ruts in which so many farmers like always to move, because it requires less exertion to go on in the ruts than it does to get out of them. It should be the business of every farmer to learn what his farm is best capable of producing and to set himself to growing that which will give the greatest profit.—American Cultivator.

One Cause of Poor Flavor.

It has been a matter of considerable wonder why the scores of butter at the national conventions are lower than they are at the state conventions. The probability has been stated to be in favor of better scores in February than in November, but the facts are the other way, and it has puzzled our theorists to reconcile probability with fact.

Since there are supposed to be fewer fresh cows in November than in February and since fresh cows are generally credited with the production of the finest flavor, it has puzzled the savants to account for lower scores at the later date. But why limit to these two dates? Is it not a general fact that the longer cows are kept in the barn and fed on stored feed the more apt the flavor is to be "off"? The barns get more and more infected with germs and the forage gets older and more musty and, with the same care regarding cleanliness and feeding, there will be a greater infection with musty and moldy germs. This is what we might naturally expect, and we may look for stable flavors until the cows are allowed to run in the pasture once more. It is possible to have sweet, good flavored feed in winter, and it is possible to measurably control the flavor with starters skillfully used, and there are some butter makers all the time doing just this thing.—Creamery Journal.

Brown Leghorns as Layers.

In a recent number of The Southern Fancier a correspondent tells of a pen of S.-c. Brown Leghorns that laid 12 eggs in one day. I think I can give a still stronger testimonial of the value of this variety of fowl as egg producers. At the recent Chicago show I had a bunch of 11 females, ten pullets and one hen, that after being in the exhibition room for six days were loaded on an express wagon at very near the hour of midnight, made a trip of 12 miles with the temperature below the zero mark, and laid ten eggs the next day, with a record of not less than eight eggs per day for a week following, when they were distributed to their respective breeding pens.—C. M. Davidson in Reliable Poultry Journal.

Women Farmers.

It is said that out of the 17,000 farmers in Kansas 5,000 are women, and mostly American women, too, with nearly the same proportion in Oklahoma. It is with them as with the men, some of them work almost daily in the fields and others depend more upon hired help whom they oversee and direct. The great interest in farming taken by the young women in some of the younger states is manifested by their presence at dairy schools, meetings of dairy, horticultural and poultry associations and even stock breeding associations, and some of them are among the most successful farmers, either in mixed farming or specialties, that can be found.

Has Little Cause to Rejoice.

To the Editor.—The latest dispatches from South Africa indicate that Johannesburg has surrendered without any resistance. The end of war is near at hand, and London is filled with joy over her victory. But Great Britain has more cause to bow her head in shame and disgrace than to celebrate a victory. First, because she has disturbed the peace of two republics without any provocation whatever, wasting the lives of over 30,000 of her own soldiers, as well as thousands of those who defended their homes and liberty; bringing shame upon herself. Second, Great Britain has disgraced herself before the eyes of the world because she violated her treaty agreement with South African republics. Furthermore, she has no victory in battle to her credit; the best she can show up to the world are victories such as General Buller's at the Tugela river, or the victory of Lord Roberts with 40,000 men over General Cronje and 3,000 men.

These are samples of the victories London is celebrating today. The war is carried on at an enormous expense, while the people in British India are starving and dying by the thousands daily.

When England has finally conquered the Boers, of which there can be no doubt, unless interfered with, she will have possession of their diamonds and gold, for which she has long hungered, and in her greed and madness for gold she shut her eyes to facts, ignored her signature to a contract, and proceeded on the basis of "might is right." But gold will not wash the stains off her hands, and the Anglo-Boer war will go down in history as one of her most disastrous and unjust wars on record.

W. W. Mayhew, Merton, Wis., says he considers One Minute Cough Cure a most wonderful medicine, quick and safe. It's the only harmless remedy that gives immediate results. It cures coughs, cold, croup, bronchitis, gripp, pneumonia and all throat and lung diseases. Its early use prevents consumption. Children always like it and mothers endorse it. T. E. Slattery.

Experiments in Spraying.

A correspondent of The Farmers' Advocate gives the cost of spraying last year five acres of apple orchard, 250 trees that have been 20 years planted and are well grown. He sprayed them three times, using each time 11 barrels of 40 gallons each of bordeaux mixture and paris green. In the 33 barrels he used 182 pounds of copper sulphate at 7 cents a pound, $9.24; two bushels of lime, 40 cents; 84 pounds paris green at 25 cents a pound, $2.07; a cost for material of $11.71, nearly 4 1/2 cents per tree. It took three days' labor of a man and boy at each spraying, which is not as quick work as many claim to do, but we think would be likely to result in thorough work. He says the outlay was small compared to the percentage of clean fruit obtained. He advises the use of a brass pump or one in which all parts that come in contact with the liquid are of brass, as the liquid corrodes iron so that it will be worthless after one or two years' use.

"No family can afford to be without One Minute Cough Cure. It will stop a cough and cure a cold quicker than any other medicine," writes C. W. Williams, Sterling Run, Pa. It cures croup, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles and prevents consumption. T. E. Slattery.
