The Prohibition Campaign.

INDIANAPOLIS, August 6 .--- While much is heard of the old parties, the Prohibitionists are also pushing with as much vim as if expecting success at the coming election. Under direction of State Chairman Dr. H. J. Hall, Franklin, they have organized what is known as the "District Evangelist Plan,"-which is to have in each congressional district one man giving his entire time to the work. His duties are to hold public meet. ings, do personal work in visiting the faithful and working with the hopeful, to distribute literature, secure subscriptions for Prohibition papers, organize clubs, secure a chairman for each township and precinct, and raise funds for carrying on the work. THE REMEDY:

If the farmers will all employ the following measures they will outwit and largely destroy the fly, and barring a hard winter, secure a fair crop of wheat.

1. Prepare the ground for wheat, early and thoroughly.

2. Promptly destroy all volunteer wheat in the plowed fields.

3. Sow decoy strips of wheat, about one rod wide, around each field designed for wheat.

4. Carefully turn under these strips using jointer and roll to bury all the larvae and "flaxseed" of the fly, just before sowing the main crop.

5. Begin seeding as soon as the fly has ceased to be active, and drill in with the wheat some good complete fertilizer, unless the land is already sufficiently fertile.

These measures if adopted by all wheat growers would (1) destroy myriads of the fly; (2) avoid almost wholly the fall attack of the insect: (3) by greatly reducing the number of the pests, prevent a serious attack in spring.

The times of sowing the border and the main crop would vary with the latitude. They are approximately as follows: North third of the state, border, Sept. 1, crop Sept. 20 to 30; central third, border, Sept. 10, crop, Oct. 1 to 10; south third, border, If you have no faith in the above measures, don't sow any wheat, sow rye instead. Then you will not hinder your neighbor who is willing to try the remedy. The writer desires to hear from wheat grovers who will undertake to culist their neighbors in a combined attack on the despised foreigners, the Hessiar fly. W. C. LAITA, Agriculturist.

CIRCUS GANG CAUGHT

CROWD OF TOUGH MEN ROUND-ED UP IN MINNESOTA.

After Terrorizing Citizens of Small Towns in the State They Are Taken Into Custody by a Militia Company-Balm for Jilted Lovers.

One hundred militiamen went from Duluth to Cloquet, Minn., to effect the capture of the circus followers who have been terrorizing the small towns in Northern Minnesota. They arrived there during the night and when the circus train pulled in quietly surrounded it and waited for daylight. The circus people knew nothing of their presence until they woke up in the morning. The sheriffs of Cass and Hubbard counties, who were assaulted by the toughs several days ago, were there and picked out the men they wanted, twelve in all. They were taken te Cass Lake. Most of them were armed, but offered no resistance to the large force of soldiers.

workers are being received by Secretary Nicholas Darrah of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' Union in Chicago. Twenty-five iron workers were sent to Duluth the other day on request of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company to work on towers for the mammoth coal chutes being built there. Twenty more men were sent later. The towers are to be completed by Jan. 1, 1901. Fifty men went to West Superior to work on the grain elevator being constructed there. The contractors express a decided preference for the Chicago builders, and are endeavoring to recruit all the extra men needed from the Chicago union. The building now under way at West Superior will be the largest elevator ever. constructed. When completed it will have a capacity of 2,000,000 bushels. Ten bridgemen were sent recently to Jefferson, Wis., where two bridges spanning the Rock and Crawfish rivers are to be built for the Northwestern Railroad. The combined length of the bridges will be 900 feet. Twenty iron workers were sent to Pearl, Ill., upon request of the Chicago and Alton Railroad.

The new building itself will probably be erected on the property at Indiana avenue and Thirtieth street. The movement is promised the support of several wealthy and influential men. The work will be pushed as soon as possible.

MISSOURI YOUNG PEOPLE ARE DROWNED WHILE ELOPING.

Their Boat Is Capsized in Midstream and Woman's Struggles Exhaust Herself and Lover - Brave Negro Rescues Six Children in Cincinnati.

Miss Martha Hendricks and Paul Varner, while eloping, lost their lives by drowning in the Current river while attempting to escape from the angry father of the girl. Miss Hendricks was 17 years old and the daughter of John Hendricks, a farmer living three miles south of Bennett, Mo. The father objected to their marriage on account of their youth. The other morning the couple attempted to go to Doniphan, the county seat, to procure a license, and Mr. Hendricks started in pursuit. The e.opers thought to outwit Hendricks by crossing the Current river. When midway in the stream their boat struck a snag, overturned and threw the occupants into the water. The young man made desperate efforts to save his sweetheart, but her frenzied struggles exhausted him and both sank beneath the water. The bodies were recovered. One honr after the accident Hendricks appeared. When informed of the accident he gave way to pitcous grief and he repeatedly embraced the body of his unfortunate daughter. Aid had to be secured to remove him from the scene, for it was found he had become deranged. The bodies were removed to their homes and buried in the same grave.

Act of Great Bravery by a Colored Man at Cincinnati.

Six children would have perished in smoke and flames which threatened to destroy a two-and-a-half-story double frame building at Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, but for the bravery of Thomas Williams, a negro living in the neighborhood, who, after discovering the fire, roused the occupants, Mrs. Samantha Earley and Mr. and Mrs. Peasley, from partial suffocation, and, helping them flee to a place of safety, went back three times into the burning structure at the peril of his own life and carried out their helpless children.

Creek Indians Go to the Mountains and Resume Old Ways.

About 600 full-blooded Creek Indians have withdrawn from their government, whose capital is located at Okmulgee, and settled in the mountains on Grand river, where they have organized a new form of government, the policy of which is to oppose land allotment, mixing with white people or half-breeds. Chinnubbe Hayo, a full-blood Indian poet, was elected chief, and the inaugural ceremonies were entirely devoid of civilized decorations. The Indians have ordered all whites from their district, and many of the latter have fled from the nation.

HEARS FROM CONGER.

WASHINGTON GETS WORD VIA TIEN-TSIN.

Chinese Attacks Suspended, All the Envoys Safe, but General Massacre Feared-American Legation Well Provisioned, but Short of Ammunition.

Minister Conger has been heard from again. Under date of July 21, in a letter to the consuls at Tien-Tsin, he says the armistice prevails, but "if they continue to shell us as they have done we cannot hold out long." Mr. Conger confirms the other reports that all the legations are running short of ammunition. There is even later news from Pekin. A letter from Lieut. Col. Shiba, military attache of the Japanese legation, left the capital the evening of the 22d. It graphically recites the anxiety of the brave little colony for the coming of the relief column. "It is not probable we will be able to hold out longer than a week."

Little by little, says a Washington correspondent, the terrible story of Pekin is leaking out to the world. There can be no doubt that when the full narrative becomes known we shall have a tale of savagery, of brave defense, of heroism, well-nigh unparalleled in history. A handful of Europeans and Americans penned up within brick walls, and surrounded by tens of thousands of savage fanatics. All the women and children gathered in the strongest inclosure, the British legation, and all of them, be it said to the honor of the interna' snal guards, safe up to the time the latest reports were sent out.

The enemy attacked with both rifle and artillery. One night the shelling continued for six hours without interruption. More than sixty of the brave defenders have lost their lives and ninety-eight have been wounded. Two thousand of the Chinese assailants are estimated to have been killed. Four attempts were made to fire the British legation, in which more than 400 non-combatants are sheltered. The cowardice of the Chinese and the bravery of the defenders averted the destruction of the buildings and wholesale slaughter.

Thanks to the certainly authentic letdonald and Minister Conger, and the various other reports received of late, the State Department officials now believe they have a fair understanding of the situation in Pekin. There is little or no doubt that all the foreign ministers and their suites, excepting two or three British attaches and of course the German minister and the Japanese secretary of legation, were safe up to the evening of the 22d inst. It is believed the sixty defenders killed were all among the marines sent from Tien-Tsin carly in June to guard the legations. But for the presence of these guards and their heroic defense every foreigner in Pekin must have perished.

Officials in Washington believe the members of the various legacions have been able to communicate with one another, and that by throwing up defensive walls the guards were able to keep the enemy out of legation street.

The most discouraging inference drawn from the facts now known is that the war upon the legationers was made directly by the Chinese Goivernment. This is the belief which prevails in official circles, not only in Washington but in every capital of Europe. Not only have Minister Conger, Sir Claude Macdonald and others sent out word that the attacks were made by "Chinese troops," but many facts now known clearly corroborate their statements.

It is eye for eye and tooth for tooth, continues the Washington writer. The governments of France and Great Britain have solemnly notified the empressdowager, Prince Tuan and their advisbe held to rigid accountability for the safety of the French and English citizens in Pekin. "If our ministers and their suites perish," these governments. have said to the Pekin junta, "we shall hold you personally responsible." These ominous warnings were conveyed through the Chinese ministers at l'aris. and London. To these ministers significant intimations have been made that for a murdered envoy the head of a prince of the blood will be demanded, and for every secretary or attache or woman or child the head of a Chinese general or mandarin of the first class. So far no other government has joince in these direct threats through official channels. The United States has given no warnings, but has permitted it to be understood that it is eager to join in the campaign of punishment. That is the FATE.

Two shall be born the whole wide world apart. And speak in different tongues, and have no thought

Each of the other's being, and no heed; And these o'er unknown seas to unknown lands

Shall cross, escaping wreck, defying death;

And, all unconsciously, shape every act And bend each wandering step to this one end-

That one day out of darkness they shall meet

And read life's meaning in each other's eyes.

And two shall walk some narrow way of life.

So nearly side by side that should one turn

Ever so little space to left or right They needs must stand acknowledged face to face,

And yet, with wistful eyes that never meet,

With groping hands that never clasp, and lips

Calling in vain to ears that never hear, They seek each other all their weary days

And die unsatisfied: and this is fate. -Mrs. Susan Marr Spalding.

"Mamma, you must combine your influence with mine to induce papa to allow us to spend the summer at Newport. I learned to-day that the Livingstones have engaged rooms there for the season, and that Earl, their handsome son, is expected to return from abroad and join them. You know how he admired me when we met in society last winter, and once at Newport-it will be an easy matter for me to complete the conquest of his heart and win him for a husband."

"I will speak to your father again roses did not outrival in hue, the flush on Myrtle's cheek, or the sunlight the sparkie in her wine brown eyes, as drawing a deep breath of rapture, she smilingly exclaimed: "How lovely it is here, papa. It seems like a dream of fairly land."

Beautiful indeed as a Cream of fairy land did the days seem to pass to Myrtle after that.

For Leigh Carroll, the handsome nephew of their nearest neighbor was introduced to her, and during the bright sweet hours she spent in his companionship, while they read, sang, drove and walked togetner, Myrtle's girlish heart passed into his keeping; this man, who, with his graceful athletic form, face like a saxon prince, and courtly manners seemed to her a very king among men.

Myrtle did not possess the statuesque bloude beauty of her sister Rosamond, but most people pronounced her the more charming of the two when they looked into her sweet, piquant face, with its apple blossom like complexion, sparkling golden brown eyes, and its frame of shining chestnut curls. To Leigh Carroll she seemed more than charming, and a very angel among women, as in her mist like white summer draperies she stood with him at the close of a perfect summer day in the odorous garden of the picturesque farm house.

And while the stars swung out like twinkling lamps of gold in the purple tinted sky above, and the roses, heavy with sweetness, nodded softly in the faint breeze all about them, and drew the young girl tenderly to him and whispered in her ear, and was made the happiest of men by her promise to become his bride.

"The sweet old tale, that though so old, To hearts that love, is ever new,"

"Myrtle, my peerless love, sweet angel of my life," he tenderly murmured when at last they walked back through the golden fire of the starlight toward the farm house, "are you sure you will never regret your promise to become the wife of one who is only a country farmer."

"I am sure that I will never regret anything, Leigh," was her softly spoken answer, with downcast eyes and air of an offended queen, was walling to greet them, but Rosamond stood at the open window with her eyes steadfastly fixed on the gleaming sea waves beyond, for she had determined to ignore even the existence of her sister's betrothed.

But as her father, in introducing to his wife Myrtle's intended husband. uttered the familiar name of Earle Livingstone, Rosamond quickly turned and then stood like a figure carved in marble, while the shining waves beyond seemed chanting a requiem for all her bright hopes of happiness and love that died then and there a cruel death.

For standing before her, looking most radiantly happy with her sister Myrtle clinging to his arm, was Earle Livingstone, the handsome, kingly man Rosamond herself had learned to love as well as her selfish nature was capable of loving any one, and whom she had so vainly schemed to win.

If Mrs. Melville's and Rosamond's surprise was great, Myrtle's was still greater, as she heard her handsome farmer lover addressed as Earle Livingstone, whom she had heard of as the most wealthy and talented of men. Then in answer to the astonished, questioning look she cast in her father's direction. Mr. Melville said:

"There can be no time better than the present for an explanation of what must seem strange to you all. This gentleman," turning to Earle, "came to Rosevale to pay a long promised visit to the home of his aunt. Mrs. Carroll, and when he learned that his nearest neighbor, namely myself, was a millionaire, with a charming daughter, he determined to be known as Leigh Carroll, his absent counsin, and see if, as a common farmer, he could win a wife who would love him for love's sweet sake alone, and not for his princely fortune, as he beheved so many others among the fair sex had done."

"He succeeded," added Mr. Melville, with a roguishly twinkle in his eyes. "for my little Myrtle here learned to love him as Leigh Carroll, the poor country farmer, and I, too, believed him to be such, and did not guess the truth until he asked my consent to make Myrtle his wife, and confessed to me that he had won her love incognito." Soon after Myrtle became the happy bride of her king like lover, who had won her for "love's sweet sake alone," and Rosamond was forced to conceal her heart agony and disappointment as best she might, while most bitterly did she regret that she had not decided. like her sister, to accompany her father to Rosevale.

INDIANA INCIDENTS TERSELY TOLD.

RECORD OF THE WEEK

Decrease of Activity in Oil Fields-Blow with Fist Kills an Old Man -Train Taken by Tramps - Fatal Powder Explosion in Brazil.

The Indiana oil field report for July shows a marked decrease in the number of new wells being drilled. One reason given is that producers are beginning preparations for winter and another is the price of junk and other material used about a well is at least 50 per cent higher than the price of oil justifies. There is a falling off of 44 per cent in drilling wells and 59 per cent in new derricks building, or, therefore, 103 less new wells in progress for the beginning of August than there was for July 1. This means that about 200 laborers are out of work The decrease in new work is divided equally among all districts.

Old Man Killed by a Blow.

Rariden Meek, aged 77, a well known and highly respected citizen of Wayne County, met a violent death and George Jenkins and William Gates, residents of Richmond, and both married men, are now locked up in the local jail as a re sult. It seems that Gates and Jenkins were out in search of blackberries and while thus engaged went on to the land owned by Meek. The old man saw them and went out to order them off. A dispute followed and one of the men struck Meek, his death following almost instantly.

Tramps Flag a Train.

A gang of tramps flagged a Chicago and Southeastern freight train at Lapel and when it stopped boarded the train and took possession. In a fight which ensued Conductor Lambert was badly beaten. A brakeman jumped from the train and went to Lapel, where he telegraphed the Anderson police. The tramps, to avoid arrest, however, compelled the engineer to let them off near the city limits and escaped to the woods.

Boys Play with Powder.

In Brazil four boys, ranging in age from 15 to 19 years, were fearfully burned by an explosion of a keg of powder with which they were playing. The injured were John Mattri, John Scabber, Rolly Forrester and James Ambrose. Mattri died of his injuries and Scabber and Ambrose are not expected to live, as they are burned so badly that flesh falls from portions of their bodies.

New York trade reports are still somewhat irregular, but the general tendency of conditions seems to be toward improvement. Money continues easy, notwithstanding the rapid approach of the season when demands for large amounts will come from the South and West for crop moving purposes. The banks at all the large centers are unusually well supplied with funds, and the surplus of the New York banks is about double what it was at this time in 1899. There is also an abundance of money throughout the West and South this year, and the demand, therefore, is not likely to fall so heavily upon the Eastern banks, as has been the case heretofore. The volume of business transacted in stocks is still comparatively small, but the tone of the markets has lately been growing stronger and they appear to be gradually broadening out.

Chicago speculation in the grain markets has been far from active during the week, and the course of fluctuations somewhat irregular. Wheat and the speculative commodities of the provision market were higher at the close of Saturday's session on the Board of Trade than they were on Saturday of the preceding week, while corn and oats were lower. An excellent crop of corn seems highly probable, and a fairly good crop of oats has been secured, notwithstanding some drawbacks which prevent the crop in its entirety from being spoken of in the superlative degree. Those conditions were conducive to weakness in prices.

Speculators in wheat have been finding it increasingly difficult to come to a definite conclusion with regard to the probable course of prices for the season upon which they are now entering, in consequence of which business has lacked the spirit that characterizes a period of strong convictions. The domestic wheat crop was never more puzzling to estimate, and there never was a season when more vigorous and searching inquiry was applied to the problem. In the sections of the winter wheat country where the crop has been damaged by the Hessian fly, and in the spring wheat region, where drought destroyed a heavy proportion of the crop, the usual difficulty of apportioning the extent of the loss in its true relations to the whole-always a difficult problem-is this season rendered doubly prone to miscalculation owing to the serious damage where damage has occurred and the excellence of the crops where they escaped the ills of the devastated territory.

Rosamond, dear, was Mrs. Nelville's answer after listening to the above speech uttered by her handsome haughty daughter, 'and will tell him what an advantage it may be for you to spend the summer at Newport, instead of going to our old home at Rosevale, as he so much wishes us to do."

"Rosevale," sneeringly echoed Rosamond with a disdainful toss of her golden head, and an angry flash of her turquoise blue eyes.

"Why," she more carefully continued, "the mere mention of the place makes me shudder, and if papa thinks I will permit myself to be buried out of sight of the world in that obscure and dreary country village, where it was the misfortune of myself and my sister to be born, and where we were compelled to live before he became wealthy enough to buy us our elegant city home here, he is mistaken. have determined to go to Newport, and to Newport I will go, and if he refuses to accompany you and I there, let him go to Rosedale with Myrtle for his companion. It is better for her to accompany him, for she is far too simple and awkward yet to be introduced in fashionable society, and you know how she agrees with papa in thinking Rosevale the most charming place in the world."

A few hours later, with her mother's aid Rosamond succeeded in gaining her father's consent to allow them to spend the summer at Newport.

At first he had utterly refused to listen to their request, but Mrs. Melville at last won the victory and overruled all his objections by declaring that Rosamond with her peerless beauty would succeed in winning the heart of handsome Earl Livingstone, whose princely fortune made him the most valued prize in the matrimonial market.

"Let them go, Myrtle, dear," said Mr. Melville, while he tenderly patted the cheek of his favorite younger daughter. "While they are wearing their lives out in the many dissipations of fashionable society, you and I will enjoy ourselves hugely in the dear old farm house you loved so well as a child, and that has always been more of a home to me than this elegant city house I bought to please your mother and your sister Rosamond."

flushing face, "if I am only blessed with your love."

The following day Leigh sought an interview with Mr. Melville, and remained closeted with him so long that Myrtle, who was trembling with impatience to learn the result, began to fear that her lover had failed to gain her father's consent to their marriage.

But when at last the long interview was ended it needed only one look at her Leigh's happy smiling face to convince her that her father's consent was assured, while the latter to make assurance doubly sure patted her on the head while with a quiet chuckle he said:

"I hear my little pet has decided to become a farmer's wife and make dear old Rosevale her future home. Her decision is indeed a wise one."

Myrtle wrote at once, and informed her mother and sister of her engagement, and Mr. Melville chuckled still more when Myrtle read him the scornfully worded-answer to her letter, penned by the haughty Rosamond.

"You have disgraced us, Myrtle," wrote the proud beauty," and papa must surely be insane to encourage you in your mad folly to wed one so far beneath you. I, for one, will never consent to acknowledge an ignorant country bumpkin as my sister's husband, while mamma is equally firm in her determination to refuse to receive him as her son-in-law. Her heart h almost broken since she received the letter announcing your engagement. and she intends to leave Newport at once for Rosevale, that she may see you and persuade you to see in its true light the mad folly of which you are guilty."

Much to the surprise of Mrs. Melville and Rosamond, while they were preparing to leave Newport, they received a telegram from Mr. Melville. containing the words, "Do not come, for we will soon join you at Newport." Although she did not write it in her letter to Myrtle, Rosamond was not at all averse now to leaving Newport. Sleeps On Top of a Grave.

It happens to but few mortals to sleep in a cemetery until they go to the long last sleep, yet Charles Vahle, of Sebewaing, Mich., has been doing his sleeping in the Methodist cemetery for over a week.

A short time ago a lady who lived a few miles from the town died. During her illness she employed at different times two physicians, and they could not agree upon the cause of her death. It is said that counter charges were made against each other, and as is usual in such cases, the friends of the deceased took sides in the matter. It finally reached a climax when the husband was told that the body might be exhumed that an investigation could be made. He laid the matter before the officers, and Charles Vahle was engaged to watch the grave nights. He moved his fish shanty to the cemetery, placed it on the grave so it could not be tampered with, without his knowledge, and he sleeps there every night, He hangs a lighted lantern on the outer wall of the shanty and for a time nervous people passing the cemetery late at night and seeing the unusual spectacle would flee in terror. Despite his somewhat gloomy surroundings. Vahle sayse he sleeps well,-New York Journal.

In Evansville Louis Awenius, 27 years old, went home the other night and before retiring said to his sister: "I have had three fights to-night and don't feel well." At noon the next day his sister went to call him and found him dead. Doctors say death resulted from blows on the body.

John Franks, a Noble township farm er. was swindled out of $2,500. Two men, who registered as W. H. Harris of Indiana and W. C. Brown of Hamilton Ohio, visited Franks for the ostensible purpose of buying his farm, telling him he must produce $2,500 to prove his responsibility. Franks put his money into a satchel. The men were to put $5,000 in another. They switched satchels and Franks got a bundle of paper. The last few nights a stranger has been going to the home of the widow Lemasters, south of Shelbyville, and after knocking on the weather boarding with a club disappearing. Indignant residents have gathered each night at the Lemasters home and watched with shotguns for the intruder, who defiantly continues his visits without harm. One night the neighbors encircled the house with wire on which was a bell that would ring on the mysterious visitor running against it. This proved futile, as the man removed the bell, bombarded the house and disappeared. A few nights later Mrs. Lemasters heard a noise in the rear yard and opening a door suddenly was confronted by a man, who ran behind a tree. The woman called to the men on watch on the inside, and as she did so the intruder hurled a stone at her, knocking her senseless.

MAN AND WIFE FIGHT A DUEL.

Philadelphians Engage in Combat Fatal to Both.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Sinclair pulled triggers at the same instant and both fell dead in front of their villa at Duffryn Mawr, a select suburb of Philadelphia Saturday evening. They had quarreled; the woman was armed and dared her husband to touch her. Then she threatened him, and in a fit of passion he challenged her to shoot him "down like a dog."

With the devilishness of a woman, cultured and advanced, Mrs. Sinclair deliberately entered the house, procured a revolver and, handing it to her husband, said: "We are equal now. I dare you to fight me like a man." Sinclair coolly proposed a duel, his wife agreed, and before Mary Clark, the servant who heard and saw the preliminaries, could summon help the man and the woman-husband and wife-had deliberately paced off five yards, counted one, two, three-fired and died in their tracks. Sinclair was shot through the right eye and his wife was killed by a bullet passing through her forehead on a line with her nose.

Mrs. Sinclair was an ultra type of the new woman. She affected manly dress, rode a diamond frame bicycle and entertained her friends with "red" teas at which tea was never served.

On Sept. 1 the commission headed by Judge Taft will become the legislative body of the Philippines, with power to take and appropriate insular moneys, to establish judicial and educational systems, and to make and pass all laws. For instance, they will appoint judges, officials in the educational department and officers of municipalities which the commission establish pending elections.

Gen. The sun was just setting as father and daughter drove up to the rambling farm house with its pearl white walls thickly covered with nodding ruby red roses, and the sky was all one glowing flash of gold, against which stood out bold and clear the purple amethystine tops of the distant hills.

BATTLE IN CHINA.

Sixteen Thousand Allies Engage the Chinese.

LOSS OF 1,200 MEN.

These Are Reported to Be Chiefly Russians and Japanese.

Dispatch to the Navy Department Tells of a Severe Engagement-Fight Occurs at Pietsang, About Eleven Miles Northwest of Tien-Tsin, En Route to Pekin-Chinese Retreat and Are Supposed to Have Met with Heavy Losses.

Dispatches received Monday via Shanghai from Tientsin report a great battle between the allies and Chinese Sunday at Pietsang. Te allies lost 1,200 men, mostly Russians and Japanese. The Chinese were finally defeated and forced to make a disordered retreat. The American troops, under Gen. Chaffee, were in the midst of the battle and gave an excellent account of themselves. Peitsang is the first railroad station, about six miles northwest of Tientsin, en route to Pekin. The Navy Department at Washington on Monday received the following cablegrams:

CHICAGO "REDS" ARRESTED.

Police Prevent Anarchist Meeting to Approve Humbert's Assassination.

Anarchy tried to come to life in Chicago again for a little while Sunday afternoon. The effort continued long enough to cause a riot in the street in front of the West Twelfth Street Turner Hall. The riot lasted long enough only for the police to gather up Mrs. Lucy Parsons and dump her in a patrol wagon, grab Abraham Edelstalt because he yelled "Shame," to smash Clement Pfeuntzner because he was supposed to be a dangerous anarchist, to drag in two other anarchists, and, with this batch of five in the wagon, to go galloping off to

CONDITION OF CROPS.

Rain Relieves Drouth Prevailing in Atlantic Coast Districts.

The Government crop report issued Tuesday gives the following summary of crop conditions: The drought prevailing at the close of the previous week in the Atlantic coast districts has been wholly relieved by local rains, except in southern Florida, and the week as a whole in the districts east of the Rocky mountains has been one of highly favorable temperature conditions, with generally abundant moisture. On the Pacific coast the conditions were also generally favorable, although the eastern portions of Oregon and Washington experienced high temperatures.

The corn crop has made splendid progress during the week. All reports from the States of the central valieys indicate that it has made rapid growth and that the early planted is nearing maturity over the southern portions of the principal corn States. Some early corn in the Carolinas and Virginia has been permanently injured by drought, but late corn in these States is promising.

Winter wheat harvest is practically completed, except where delayed by rains in some districts over the northern portion of the winter wheat region. Thrashing has been quite generally delayed in the central valleys as a result of rains and injury to wheat in shock is quite extensively reported. Harvesting continues on the Pacific coast.

Spring wheat harvest is now general in the northern portion of the Red river valley and is progressing favorably in the southern portion of the spring wheat region. The dry, warm weather has rapidly matured the crop in North Dakota, where, owing to short straw, much had to be mawed. In southern Minnesota a large part of the crop is in shock and in the northern portion of the State the wheat heads are reported as well filled. In South Dakota fair to good yields are indicated in the extreme southeastern counties, the crop being poor to fair elsewhere, but generally of good quality. Rains have caused some further delay in the oat harvest, which, however, is nearly finished in the more northerly sections. Some damage to oats in shock is reported from West Virginia, Indiana and Illinois.

ed to the State Department by Minister Wu Saturday is supplemented by the substance of an imperial edict communicated to Consul-General Goodnow by Director-General Sheng, indicating that arrange ments are still going on in Pekin for es corting the ministers to Tientsin.

Interest in the Chinese situation was intensified in Washington Monday morning by the receipt of two dispatches from naval officers at Cheefoo, repeating unofficial but apparently reliable reports of active and extensive hostilities between the allied forces and the Chinese on the dine between Tientsin and Pekin.

The dispatches indicated that the relief column had started in earnest and that it was meeting with determined opposition. Although neither of the naval dispatches mentioned the presence of American troops in the reported engagement, it was geenrally assumed at the War Department that at least a part of Gen. Chaffee's small army was on hand and took an active and aggressive part in the affair.

According to information in possession of the War Department, the town of Peitsang is at the head of tidewater on the Peiho, between eleven and tweive miles by road beyond Tientsin. It is a village of mud huts of considerable size. but not walled. The river at this point is not havigable by anything larger than a good sized steam launch, and it is thought that the troops prohably reached there in small boats, towed by the naval launches.

From the fact that the engagement lasted seven and a half hours, it is ar- liness to the foreigners, and adds the ued in the department that either the Chinese must have been heavily intrenched or that there was an immense horde of them to so stubbornly contest the adwance of the 16,000 international troops. It was figured by military experts that a loss of 1,200 killed and wounded on the part of the allies probably meant a loss of from three to six times as many by the. Chinese. Free communication between the foreign ambassadors and their governments is said to have been established by an imperial edict. Any message that may be sent, however, must not be in cipher. Another proclamation provides for the safe deportation of the foreigners from Pekin to Tientsin. The United States government will not consent to the removal of the ministers and foreigners from Pekin until there is a free communication by the powers with their ministers.

This was all that came of the proposed celebration in West Twelfth Street Turner Hall of the murder of King Humbert. A handful of policemen was all that was needed to put an end to the plans and hopes of revived anarchy in Chicago.

King Humbert's assassination was to have been celebrated with a big meeting. Mrs. Parsons, whose husband, Albert Parsons, was hanged for complicity in the Haymarket massacre in 1886 and who was, with her husband, one of the leaders of the principal speaker at the havingen the Oliver, another old-time anarchist, was to have made a speech. Simonetta, the Italian anarchist, was to have discussed what he called the master stroke of Bressi in murdering King Humbert. This meeting was to have for its watchword the cry that anarchy was not dead in Chicago. The police set about to demonstrate to the anarchists that anarchy was dead in Chicago.

HORRIBLE STORIES

Told by Natives Who Have Escaped from Pekin.

Belated advices from Pekin, via Che-Foo, to Shanghai, say a messenger who attempted to leave Pekin was captured. according to deserting Chinese officers, and a message addressed to "Any foreign commander," urging instant aid for foreigners, was found. It was undated but evidently sent out about July 25. These deserting officers left Pekin July 15. The streets were then jammed with anarchistic Chinamen, whose fighting among themselves literally reddened the gutters with blood. They say there are 16,000 troops in Pekin and S,000 at Tungtsun. and they hold all the streets within a mile of the legations and had burned and abandoned the Chenmen gate.

Viceroy Liu Kun Yi and Director Sheng both officially declare the ministers are held as hostages and that if the allies advance, they will be killed.

Stories of horrible barbarities continue to come in. Two French nuns at New Chwang were burned alive. Dr. Ting. who graduated from an American college, received 2.000 lashes but refused to renounce Christianity. In several instances native Christians were skinned alive.

This message was delivered by Minister Goodnow, on the 31st, to Viceroy Li, who then inquired whether, "If free communication was established between ministers and their governments, it could be arranged that the powers should not advance on Pekin pending negotiations.

To this inquiry the following reply was sent on the 1st of August: "Goodnow, Con-sul General, Shanghai-1 do not think it expedient to submit the proposition of Earl Li to the other powers. Free communication with our representatives in Pekin is demanded as a matter of absolute right and not as a favor. Since the Chinese government admits that it possesses the power to give communication it puts itself in an un-friendly attitude by deaying it. No negotiations seem advisable until the Chinese gov-ernment shall have put the diplomatic representatives of the powers in full and free communication with respective governments and removed all danger to their lives and liberty. Nearly every steamer now brings from a cuarter to half a million in dust, and the heavy shipments have not yet begun. About one-third of the men who are returning from Alaska this your have made fortunes there, and only a few of them have been at a financial loss because of their venture. The better means of transpottation and the increased number of people there are making conditions of life easier in the gold fields, and I look for even a larger number of men to try a hazard of new fortunes next year in the far north."

And our new interests in the West Indian Islands will tend to greatly increase it. New Orleans will be a port of entry for a great deal of the commerce from Cuba and Porto Rico, and much of it will be carried up the river to St. Louis and Chicago and other centers of population." William F. Ansley, of Florence, Ala., to a Washington reporter: "The negroes do not want to leave the South, and the white people of the South are just as anxious to keep them. I have had a large experience with the negro, and I find him a necessity. It might be that after a generation of immigration and the gradual change of methods and characteristics, the white people would be able to perform their labor, but at present the negro is a necessity in the home, on the farm, and in every branch of manual grand entertaiument was provided for the labor. town, Ky., in his own behalf. He said that he was on the way to Louisville when he heard that Goebel had been assassinated. "I said it was a shame and an outrage and that it would blight the chance of all of us whose offices were in contest."

Witness said that the statement of Golden that he spoke derisively when told of the shooting was absolutely false. He said he never heard violence talked of in any of the conferences in which he participated, except in one, when Sheriff ticipati of Breckinridge County talked in Burton diary manner and was reproved. an incendiaryr the assassinatiorreproved. The day after the assassination, witness said, he began an investigation to learn where the shot was fired from.

Powers detailed the events immediately preceding the arrest of himself and Capt. Davis. He said his attorney advised him to make his way to the mountains and remain there till public excitement died out before giving himself up for trial.

"The Legislature had appropriated $100,000 for the prosecution of persons charged with the crime, and I did not believe it was possible for me to get a fair trial in Franklin County. Moreover, I did not believe the civil authorities there would protect me. I did not know that I could get a change of venue and these were the reasons which suggested flight from Frankfort."

George F. Weaver, the witness who claimed to hail from Colorado and who asserted that he saw the gun barrel pointing from the office of the Secretary of State at the time Goebel was assassinated, was arrested on a warrant charging him with perjury. The warrant was sworn out by the attorneys for the defense in the Powers case, who say that they have found out that Weaver was not only not in Frankfort the day of the assassination, but was never there till last Saturday night.

KAISER SAYS KILL.

Orders German Troops to Give Chinese Foes No Quarter.

The German Emperor's speech at Bremerhaven on the occasion of the sailing of German troops for China was sensational. The Lokal Anzeiger says the emperor told the troops they were to avenge an outrage committed against the sanctity of ambassadors and an unprecedented breach of the right of hospitality.

"If you close with the enemy," said the emperor, "you know no quarter will be given and no prisoners taken. Use your weapons so that for 1,000 years no Chinaman will dare beard a German. Pave the way for civilization now and evermore. My wishes for yourselves and for the success of your arms will ever follow you. Give proofs of your courage, no matter where. May the blessing of God rest on your banners and may He vouchsafe to you to find a path for Christianity in that far-off country. For this you have pledged yourself to me with your oath to the colors. "The task before you is a great one. That a people like the Chinese should cast to the winds international rights 1,000 years old and treat with scorn the sanctity of an ambassador and the rights of hospitality in a manner so horrible is unprecedented in the history of the world. Every civilization not founded on Christianity is sure to be brought to naught. So I send you out. May you all prove your German efficiency, devotion and bravery, bear joyfully all discomfort and uphold the honor and glory of our arms. You must set an example of discipline, self-domination and selfcontrol."

Assassin Uses Cane, Knife and Revolver in Effort to Kill-Evidence of a Plot to Murder Another of the Old-World Monarchs.

TEMPTED IN PARIS.

ATTACK ON THE SHAH

An attempt on the life of the Shah of Persia, Muzaffer-ed-Din, was made in Paris Thursday morning, but luckily it resulted in no harm to his majesty. As the Shah, accompanied by his grand vizier, was driving in a landau, a young man jumped from out of a crowd of bystanders and before any one knew what he was about, he raised a cane and aimed a blow at the head of the Shab. His majesty showed wonderful presence of mind, jumped to his feet and at the same time stretching out his right arm, broke the force of the blow. The would-be murderer instantly coolly thrust his other hand under his coat and from the folds of his shirt he pulled out a long, gleaming knife and quickly made a thrust at the Shah with this weapon.

The grand vizier, the detectives and police, by this time getting over the surprise of the suddenness of this dastardly act, pounced on the assassin, overpowered and disarmed him. In the scuffle that followed a revolver fell to the floor of the carriage. According to one policeman, who arrested the assassin, the revolver belonged to the murderer. According to others it belonged to the grand vizier, who, in drawing it from his pocket, had it knocked out of his hand during the scuffle. The whole thing took less than a minute and bore all the evidence of being well planned beforehand.

A crowd of 500 people, who witnessed the attempted assassination, made a rush toward the would-be murderer and tried to attack him, but there were many police in the neighborhood acting as guards of the Shah, and these prevented the mob from doing violence to the miscreant. The prisoner was taken to the police station. He declined to give his name or nationality.

ITALY'S NEW KING.

Victor Emmanuel Reputed to Be a Scholar and a Soldier.

Vittorio Emmanuelo Fernandino Maria Gennaro, who succeeds his father to the throne of Italy, was the only son of King Humbert. He was born Nov. 11, 1869, and has the reputation of being a liberal, scholarly and soldierly man. He is a general in the Italian army and a patron of art and literature. He is a chevalier of the Order of the Golden Fleece and a Knight of the Garter.

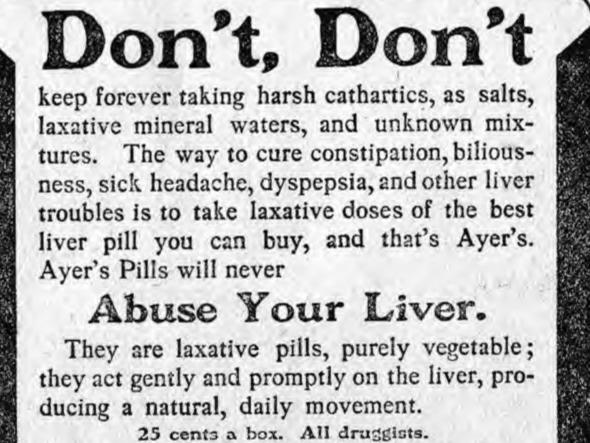

His wife, Italy's new queen, was the Princess Helena, one of the seven daughters of Prince Nicholas, the ruler of the little principality of Montenegro. She was born in the royal palace in Cettinje in 1873. With her sisters, she inherited the superb dark beauty of their mother,

She has been most carefully reared by tutors and governesses and is not only admirable in all the arts and graces of European courts, but is well versed in the play of politics and in every way qualified to succeed even so lovely a queen as Margherita of Italy.

The nuptials of Prince Vittorio and Princess Helena were celebrated in Rome Oct. 24, 1896, with all the pomp and circumstance usual on such occasions.

GILBERT GATES. consider the evidence. Their deliberations ended at 8:30 p. m. in the formally expressed opinion that Jester is innocent.

This famous trial, which has now been brought to a close, is perhaps without a parallel. Alexander Jester was charged with the murder of a boy companion, Gilbert Gates, near Paris, Mo., in 1871. In the testimony given by Azel A. Gates, father of the murdered boy, were the allegations upon which the State depended for conviction. Briefly, they were these: Early in the fall of 1870 Gilbert Gates left his home in West Chicago upon a hunting trip through Missouri. While traveling he was met by Jester. The pair were seen together, and then Jester appeared alone with two teamsone of them his own and the other that belonging to the missing boy.

Mr. Gates traced Jester and his son through Missouri until all track of the boy vanished. Then he followed Jester into Illinois, and satisfied himself that young Gates had been foully dealt with. A few weeks later Jester was arrested in Kansas, and young Gates' property was found upon him. He was taken to

BRESSI IS UNDISTURBED.

Slayer of King Humbert Has No Regrets for His Awful Crime.

Bressi, the assassin of King Humbert, seems undisturbed by thoughts of the awful work he has accomplished. Reports indicate that he had planned the murder for some time, and that he had chosen Humbert not as an individual personally deserving of violent death, but as a member of the class to which all anarchists are opposed. In New York some misguided malcontents land the man's deed and call its perpetrator a deliverer. Bressi declares that in the event of his release he will have similar work to do. His friends in this country-the fiery ones -assert that other sovereigns are marked.

In the course of his examination Bressi did not deny that he had been designated to assassinate King Humbert. It is now believed that the crime was arranged in Paterson, N. J.

A man named Salvatoro Quintavalli, who returned to Italy from the United States with Bressi and accompanied him to an anarchist meeting in Paris, has been arrested at the Rio Marina on the Island of Elba. The police found on him letters and photographs of anarchists. Anton Lanner, who accompanied Bressi from the United States, has been arrested at Ivrea. In consequence of these arrests the belief in the existence of a plot is increasing.

Bressi's brother, who is a lieutenant in the Italian army, stigmatizes the crime as the most cowardly act of the century. He had had no news of his brother for a long time and thought he was still in the United States.

ON TEN MILE HILL $ By Grace Duffie Boylan.

A call from Ten Mile Hill is not received with unmixed delight by the fledgeling doctors at Charleston's famous school of medicine even today, although the negro cabins, formerly as close together as cells of a honeycomb, have been thinned out under the direction of the police and health commisslopers and the plague spot made less daugerous to the city as a whole.

But a dozen years ago, after a quarter of a century of freedom, the black settlement hung like an ominous cloud over Charleston. The freedmen, wi'h their occupation gone, huddled togethcr. sullenly waiting for the promised fruits of liberty to fall into their hards. Any real or imagined infringement of their rights or slight to their dignity was bitterly resented and reverged. It was this fact which caused the students acting as dispensery physicians to dread the night summons to the place. But it is the rule that such cervices be performed by the advanced classes of the college, and be it said to the honor of the school which sent out to the world such men as Dr. Robert Kinslock, Dr. Marion Sims and Dr. Gaillard Thomas the young generation has been as unfailing in its attendance to duty as was the old.

Dr. Chester ran down the steps of the laboratory and met a boy coming up from the office.

"There's a hurry call to Ten Mile Hill, sir," said the lad. "Cue of the Lamsons has been hurt again."

"The Lamsons are the ones who brought the complaint against the dispensary doctors for neglect, are they not?" asked the young man a trifle anxiously.

"Yes, sir. And I'd look out if I were you. They may be trying to get even, seeing you couldn't give them any satisfaction. I wouldn't go into that den at night for a doctor's diploma."

"Then I guess you will have to remain a telephone boy, my lad. Good night to you."

The doctor walked rapidly after he left the street car, but it was almost

A man who goes to farmers' club mercly to talk and be listened to for his own amusement might better stay at home once in awhile and attend to his neglected work, says The Rural New Yorker. Sociability should not be discounted, but these who have 'nothing but this and do not wish to learn are not of much use to the club. Nearly every association has some member who tries to monopolize the time. He howls about capital and lahor-though he has but little of the first and does less of the second-crop failures and calamities, trusts and monopolies, while he himself is running the biggest kind of a talk trust. If he were an inexhanstible source of practical agricultural knowledge, it would be different. It is refreshing to hear a man talk common sense peppered with origioal ideas for an hour, but when one who can tell all he knows that is of interest to others in five minutes and takes up an hour he makes a drought. Such people talk their neighbors and friends tired and themselves. their families and live stock poor, while some man who does more thinking than talking could give valuable bits of experience if given an opportunity and encouraged a little. The farmers' club with a chairman who has the tact to draw out the thinkers and make the talkers draw in a little is fortunate.

Harrowing Small Grains.

Conditions, often make necessary methods in one section of our country that would be wholly unsuited for some other sections, says Professor Ladd of the North Dakota experiment station. The annual rainfall in eastern Dakota is rather less than 20 inches, in western Dakota and British Columbia even less, not now more than 15 inches per year. Most of this comes during the growing period, for we have little or no snow; June and early July are also rainy months. The problem, then, is to conserve the moisture in the feeding zone of the plant. Harrowing conserves the soil moisture and destroys millions of weeds which drink up the moisture from the cultivated grains if allowed to grow. Differences in seasons, early rainfall and soll moisture modify the henefits to be derived from harrowing grain. In 1803 a single harrowing before the wheat was up gave an increase of 2.29 bushels per acre over the unharrowed field. according to Professor Sheppord, Some farmers harrow several times, even until the wheat is several inches high. come up yander" to the ladder stretching thus destroying weeds, forming a to the pointed to the ladder stretching thus mulch blanket of dust on the surface and conserving the moisture in the upper six inches of soil.

More people are drawn into church for the sake of appearances than from love of God. Ladies go to display their finery and admire the new hats-a few go to worship. Young people go to have a good time, to see and be seen, but very few go to be benefitted. Business men more frequently go for the sake of popularity than for worship. It is perhaps not right to question any one's motives or sincerity but a thorough knowledge of human nature shows us the sharps of the world.

shut, and there was no sound. Dr. Chester saw with a sudden flash of intensified consciousness that the boy crouched in the shadows and that his eyes were rolling and his teeth chattering as though in mortal terror. Some plot was on foot to injure, maybe kill, the physician, and he realized it as he stood there. He grasped the boy by the shoulder and pointed to a candle sputtering dimly in the corner of the floor.

"Take that light and go ahead of mc," he ordered.

"I-l"-the boy gasped pitcously-"I dass'n. Ise lame an kain't walk nohow. Ise"-

He lifted him to his feet.

"Go on!" he said, and the boy obeyed tremblingly, taking the candle in his hand and ascending the rude steps with the doctor behind him. At the top he paused and looked back, whim pering.

"Open!" called the physician, and in a second the door was slid back, and a revolver in the hand of a burly negro above was pressed against the forehead of the black boy.

The arm of the young man struck out like a catapult and sent the pistol whiching as it was discharged. The negro, taken by surprise, slammed down the trapdoor, and the boy tumbled to the floor unhurt. There was a sound above of a number of feet, but the doctor did not wait to count them.

Lie was down the ladder, out of the but, into the street and away toward the college at full speed. Stealthy feet followed him for awhile, but the sound of their long leaps censed as he reached the lighted thoroughfare, and he was for the nonce perfectly willing to go on alone, leaving his "sick" unministered to.

Concerning Fences.

The fences between pastures and cultivated fields should be made strong in the spring before the cattle are turned out, but it is well to keep watch of them at later times, especially if the pasture grows scanty. Then a lock over the fence at a field of corn or waving grain is a temptation that should be guarded against, as it may not be easily resisted. Then in some localities there is a class of trespassers who think little of throwing a stone off the wall or letting down a rall in the feure to make an easier passage for themselves when they go that way gunning, fishing or berry picking. Such parties should be sunished, but it is not always easy to detect them. We have seen a balf rod of stone wall that had been thrown down, apparently to get out some woodebuck or rabbit, and left, as if the ones who had done the mischief thought there was no need of any wall there.-American Cuitivator.

Rape In Wheat.

A man in western Kansas sowed Essex rape seed with 100 acres of wheat last year. He came to Colorado, bought 1.000 lambs and turned on the field after harvesting the wheat. The lambs gained 11,000 pounds while esting the rape. The cost of the rape seed was $10. The land had produced its crop of wheat and then instead of be ing idle it fattened ten lambs an sere between harvest time and winter, putting an average of 11 pounds on to each one. Butchers who hought the lambs report that they sell as well as those that are partly grain fed. although they dress away a little more. Many sheep are fattened for market on
