THE ROUNDUP.

What He Hears, Sees and Thinks About.

He thinks that if certain men who wear the cloth which designates them as reverend gentlemen would have more regard for truth and veracity, they would have a stronger hold upon the good opinion of the public. How can such men expect to teach others how to follow the narrow way, when they repeatedly prevaricate and wantonly make misleading statements. They, above all men, should be circumspect, and by their every day life prove to the world that they are what they represent.

The Rounder notices that there are a number of young men, who do not live a thousand miles from Culver, who have a tendency to be smart. They think by getting a "jag" on and appearing in public, and using foul and indecent language, that they have elevated themselves in the estimation of the public. This is a sad delusion which should be verified by having these "smart Aleck's" arrested and properly punished. A few lessons of this kind would do them good.

The Rounder notices that all over Culver the sidewalks are in a dilapidated condition and need repairing badly. He also notices that the streets are blessed with an abundant crop of weeds which promises to yield an enormous crop of seeds for an increased growth next year. Natural pride should cause the Common Council to order this obnoxious sight removed. Culver is a town which should especially be kept clean and neat, as it is visited by thousands of people who are very apt to criticize anything not in the line of cleanliness.

Nearly Blind.
We are pained to chronicle that Mrs. R. K. Lord is no better. Her case is peculiar, as through a rush of blood to the nerves of the eyes, she is nearly blind, being only able to distinguish between light and darkness. She feels no pain, but simply realizes that at times the right side of her body is numb and practically without feeling. She has been examined by all of our local physicians and a noted eye specialist of Logansport. But notwithstanding all has been done that medical skill could devise, she has grown rapidly worse. Monday she was taken to Logansport before experts who claim that she had a slight paralytic stroke which has affected nerves of her eyes. The specialist at Logansport advised her to go to Indianapolis and have Dr. Fletcher, a noted specialist, examine her eyes, as it may be necessary to perform an operation. No one can see that anything is the matter with her eyes, as they are as clear as ever.
Mrs. Lord has been a remarkable woman, and has accomplished as much toward the development of Culver as any other citizen in our midst! She possessed great business tact, and in consequence our lake is supplied with three handsome steamers, mainly through her efforts. Her many friends will be more than pleased at her ultimate recovery.
Farmers are having their oat crop threshed and it is good.

Reply to Exodus.

MR. EDITOR:—A very clever article appeared in your issue of last week under the heading of "Prohibition vs. Church Members." The article makes a true statement, that the Prohibition speakers at the Assembly spoke very strong against the administration for allowing the army saloon to continue even against law, and for permitting the liquor traffic to so extensively follow the flag in our new possessions. We regret, also, that this is done; but when my brother suggests that "the Prohibs confine their work of reform in America and let foreigners alone," I think he misunderstands the aim of the Prohibs. Who has conceded that the Philipinos are foreigners? And are not the American soldier boys in Manila who are being ruined by the canteen as much objects of interest as their brothers at home? One speaker said: "We object to the government taking more interest in the extension of the liquor trade than in the flour trade." From that I take it that the Prohibs fight the government's attitude toward the liquor traffic.

I listened to all the speeches and was much impressed; but not that the Prohib was a "temperance" organization at all; but that they were opposed to the government's attitude. I did not understand the speakers to say that the Republican or Democrat did not try hard to "regulate" the traffic, but that it cannot and ought not be "regulated." One said, "You do not try to regulate stealing by license, but make it a crime to steal. Neither should you regulate liquor selling; but make it a crime to sell."

Then my brother says that we should educate, and the Sunday school should be the great bulwark of education on temperance. I thought those speakers believed the Sunday school should teach temperance; but they believed that a political party supported by Christian voters should change the law from being in favor of and creating the traffic, to one that would be opposed to and destroy it. I think my brother was absent when they showed that to 200 boys in Chicago who attended church an hour, there were 12,000 who were in the saloons the saloons the same hour getting "temperance" lessons.

I did not think that they aimed at all to convince "deep-dyed Democrats or Republicans" that his party was not doing all in its power to "regulate" the saloon; but that they did aim to convince whole-souled Christians that it could not be regulated.

EXODUS' BROTHER.

Excursions at Culver.
Sunday was the banner excursion day thus far this season at Culver. There were four excursion besides the regular trains in Culver. It is estimated that there was between five and six thousand people here who enjoyed themselves boat riding, bathing and fishing. The restaurants and hotels were crowded to their utmost capacity feeding the hungry horde that clamored for food. But, notwithstanding the immense crowd, there was no disturbance to speak of. It rained here in the morning, but fortunately it cleared up, and the atmosphere was cool and comfortable.

Jimmy Michael's New Idea.

In pace following the bicycle rider has taught much to rapid transit theorists. It is natural that this should be so.

Jimmy Michael, of diminutive stature, was first to suggest an "overhang" machine for pacing purposes. Such a motorcycle, built so that the rear rider sits directly over the rear axle, was found to make a great difference in the pacing.

His idea of lowering the front wheel is one step that is worthy of imitation. Trucksters did it many years ago when they learned that it was better to carry the load in the rear.

What Do the Children Drink?
Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing, and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs about 1/4 as much. All grocers sell it. 15c and 25c.

The mother who guards her strength has so much more to devote to the care and education of her dear ones. She should be a comfort—a cheer—always.

Yet how many feel that they have the strength to properly balance the home? The world is listless, weary and morbid. Its blood moves sluggishly and is full of impurities. It needs a kindling, invigorating tonic to set it afire—it needs Pe-ru-na.

THE ONE MEDICINE

in the world which women may rely upon positively. Pe-ru-na is good for everyone, but particularly for women. The various weaknesses which afflict their delicate organism spring from inflammation or catarrh of the mucous lining, and Pe-ru-na is a specific for catarrh in any organ of the body. Any congestion of a mucous membrane simply means catarrh of the organ affected. This is why Pe-ru-na cures all sorts of troubles where other remedies fail. If there is a catarrhal affection the matter with you anywhere Pe-ru-na will cure you.

REV. A. MORRISSEY, C. S. C., President.

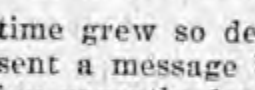

The portrait of Gaetano Bresci, the assassin of King Humbert, is from a photograph taken four years ago. Bresci is a native of Tuscany. While living at Prato in Italy he attended the technical school and learned the trade of a weaver. At Paterson, N. J., he was employed in the silk mill of the Hamilton-Booth Company and lived with his wife and child at 363 Clinton avenue, West Hoboken. Bresci came to the United States about three years ago. He was not naturalized.

He left Paterson May 22, sailing for Havre on La Gascogne under the name Branchi Caesari. He wrote to his wife from Milan saying that he would soon return. Mrs. Sophie Bresci was formerly Miss Sophie Knieland. She made the acquaintance of Bresci about three years ago in the silk factory, where they were both employed. Mrs. Bresci is now in destitution. She and her 8-months-old little daughter, Madeline, are being cared for by friends in New Jersey.

In these trying times in China there are no men among the foreigners upon whom greater responsibilities rest than the foreign consuls. One of the most important of these officials, owing to the extent of the interests committed to his care, is the representative of the British government at Tien Tsin, Mr. W. R. Carles. Before the international forces gained control of the city the situation at one time grew so desperate that Mr. Carles sent a message by special courier, praying urgently for reinforcements, and announcing that the casualties were heavy, the ammunition insufficient, and that machine guns were necessary. He further stated that the Russians at the railway station were hard pressed, while the Chinese troops were keeping up an incessant fire with large guns on the European concessions, nearly all of which were burned. Happily, the damage and loss of life at Tien Tsin have proved to be less considerable than was at first supposed. The British consulate, at any rate, seems to have escaped, but the residence of the American consul was burned.

Gen. Alexei Nicolaievitch Kuropatkin, who, it is said, will be sent to China as the commander-in-chief of the Russian forces, is the Russian minister of war, and is probably the most trusted, most powerful and most faithful servant of the Czar. Long ago, when Kuropatkin was a young man, he was sent into Turkestan with the Russian advance, and spent his youth in high adventure and in winning for himself honors, decorations and promotion. When he had served his apprenticeship in the marches and bivouacs of the East, he returned to Europe and resumed his studies in the schools. Slowly he rose on the ladder of advancement, until in 1898 he was made absolute master, under the Czar, of the armies of all the Russias.

Miss Pauline Astor, the young lady whose little love affair with Sir Berkeley Milne has been the indirect cause of her father's ostracism from the Marlborough House set in London, is more patriotic than her sire. She was asked recently whether she was an English girl or a Yankee girl. She replied that she wasn't quite sure. Her father, she said, was an Englishman. As for herself, she said she would be an American if the choice were left to her. Miss Astor is under 20, and if she does not marry Sir Berkeley or some other man whom her father does not like she will be the sole heir of $200,000,000. Miss Pauline's mother was a member of a fine old American family. Before her marriage with William Waldorf Astor she was Miss Mary Dahlgren Paul of Philadelphia.

Odds and Ends.
Ed Carey, Chicago, killed Michael Prindville.

Warning in Biblical Signs.
There is a restaurant on North Clark street where a specialty is made of scriptural texts. The walls are placarded with inscriptions, and no matter how tough the pies may be the advice framed and hanging on the walls and in the windows is pretty good. The texts are changed every day, and there is a great deal of variety in the reading matter displayed. A few days ago a conspicuous placard in the window announced:
"In God is our trust."
"Just below it hung the sign.
"All customers must pay cash."
A few days after that the proprietor treated his patrons to an invitation and a warning. It was all the more comical because he had left out the word "for" in his quotation:
"Best pies 10 cents."
"Eat, drink and be merry."
"To-morrow you may die."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Origin of Greenhouses.
William Watson, of Kew, says that the first greenhouse erected in England was in the Apothecaries' Garden at Chelsea in 1684. It merely had glass sides, and was heated by a kind of oven. In 1717 a glass-roofed house was built by the Duke of Rutland at Belvoir Castle for foreign grapes, heated by furnaces placed under the floor of the house. Steam was first used in 1788, and hot water soon afterward was applied to a small house in the Jardin des Plantes at Paris.—Meehan's Monthly.

Passing of the Horse.
So soon as nature sees an improvement there is a change. The candle gave way to electricity and the horse to the automobile. The fact that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has been sold for over half a century, proves its value. There is nothing to equal it for stomach or liver trouble. Be sure to give it a trial.

Shipyards in Germany.
There are thirty-nine shipyards in Germany, employing altogether nearly 50,000 men, and together they constructed last year 528 vessels of all kinds for the navy, the merchant marine and for river traffic of the larger description. Of these yards five are used for the construction of naval vessels, having an aggregate capacity for the simultaneous construction of over forty of the largest ships, twenty-eight torpedo destroyers, and thirty torpedo boats.

Bavarian Pencil Factories.
Bavaria can boast of twenty-eight pencil factories, which employ 10,000 people, including men, women and children. Together they produce no fewer than 4,000,000 black and 300,000 colored pencils per week. The total output last year reached the enormous quantity of 230,000,000 pencils, in the manufacture of which over 1,800 acres of cedar were used.

Reason for His Description.
"What do you think of my new bicycle skirt?" she asked.
"It is one of the wittiest I have seen," he replied.
"Wittiest?" he exclaimed.
"Certainly," he answered. "Brevity is the soul of wit, is it not?"—Chicago Evening Post.

A Virginia Blue Law.
The old blue laws of colonial New England were severe enough, but here is one drawn up for the government of the colony of Virginia in 1612, eight years before the Pilgrims landed at Plymouth Rock:
"It is ordained that no man blaspheme God's holy name upon paine of death. That no man speak impiously or maliciously against the holy and blessed Trinitie or against the knowne Articles of the Christian faith, upon paine of death. Every man and woman duly twice a day upon the first toyling of the bell shall upon working dayes repair unto the church to hear divine Service, upon paine of losing his or her dayes allowance for the first omission, for the second to be whipt, and for the third to be condemned to the Gallies for six Moneths."

Then you have a bad taste in your mouth every morning. Your appetite is poor, and food distresses you. You have frequent headaches and are often dizzy. Your stomach is weak and your bowels are always constipated.
There's an old and reliable cure:

Don't take a cathartic dose and then stop. Better take a laxative dose each night, just enough to cause one good free movement the day following.
You feel better the very next day. Your appetite returns, your dyspepsia is cured, your headaches pass away, your tongue clears up, your liver acts well, and your bowels no longer give you trouble.

Price, 25 cents. All druggists.

Vacation Song.
 When study and school are over,
 How jolly it is to be free,
 Away in the fields of clover,
 The honey sweet haunts of the bee!

Away in the woods to ramble,
 Whence, merrily all day long,
 The birds in the bush and Bramble
 Are filling the summer with song.

Away in the dewy valley
 To follow the murmuring brook
 Or sit on its bank and dally
 Awhile with a line and a hook.

Away from the stir and bustle,
 The noise of the town left behind,
 Freedom for sport and muscle,
 The 'retreat' for study and mind.

There's never a need to worry,
 There's never a lesson to learn,
 There's never a bell to hurry,
 There's never a duty to earn.

So play till the face grows redly
 And muscles grow bigger, and then
 Go to the books and study;
 Not a bad job as you may learn.

YOUTHS' DEPARTMENT.

The Daisy and Its Family—The Cats of Ancient Egypt—A Vacation Song.

The handsome ox eyed daisy grows wild in many parts of the United States and Canada, and where it is not found there are sure to be others of the large family to which it belongs—the composites.

When we gather a daisy or a dandelion or an aster or any other of this family, we do not gather a single blossom, but a whole head of little ones closely crowded together—a composite flower, as the name explains. Often the flowers around the outside of the cluster are a different color from those in the center, as in this daisy the center blossoms are yellow and the outside ones white, or, as in the Black Eyed Susan, there is a brown middle, with yellow around the edge.

You will see, in looking at one of these daisies, that the outer ring of flowers is different from the middle one in shape as well as color. The outer blossoms are long and flat—strap shaped, the botanists call them—while the inner ones are tube shaped. The outer blossoms look like single petals and in many members of this family have neither stamens nor pistils or pistils only, while the inner are perfect, having all their parts, though it may take a microscope to see them.

Having strap shaped and tube shaped blossoms in the same head is one way in which the composite flowers are arranged. The daisies are so and the asters and the great sunflowers. But the thistle and the purple ironweed and the burdock and others have all the flowers tubular, while the dandelions and chicory have them all strap shaped. So these are the three different ways of arranging these two kinds of flowers.

In every blossom that has stamens there are five of them, and they are joined together by the upper part into a little tube, through which the pistil passes. This peculiar arrangement of the petals is one mark of the family, while the composite heads are another.

The composites have little dry seeds, one to each blossom, and they may furnish them with hooks, as the burdock does, so that they may cling to passing people and animals, to be carried far away from where they grew, or, like the dandelion and thistle, they may give their seed children white wings to sail away on the wind, or they may simply drop them to the ground, as the sunflower does.

The word daisy means "day's eye," because the European daisy, which first bore the name, opens in the sunlight and closes at night. It is this flower, and not the ox eye, which is referred to in most of the daisy songs and stories. The sunflower so loves the sun that the Greeks made a beautiful story to explain why it always turns its face to him, and many others are very dependent upon light. Another composite, the thistle, is the Scotch national flower, and there is a story to that too.—Honora Jacob in Pittsburg Dispatch.

Cats of Ancient Egypt.

Ancient Egypt must have been a paradise for cats, for the Egyptians held them in great reverence, amounting even to worship. Magnificent temples were erected in honor of cats that had died, and the death of the family cat was considered a sad loss, the members of the family shaving off their eyebrows as a sign of grief and respect.

As it was customary to mummify the bodies of humans in those days, the beloved cats were mummified also, that they might be with their young masters and mistresses in paradise. The British museum has a number of Egyptian cat mummies, the dried bodies of the feline pets being wrapped in fold after fold of rich burial cloths. These mummy cats are incased in wood carvings representing the cats as they looked in life. Once in awhile the cat of some very fond or very rich Egyptian would rest in its own effigy in bronze ornamented with jewels and gold. Some of these mummy cases are supplied with crystal eyes in order that the spirit of the cat may look out.

In those good old Egyptian days every care was taken that the revered cat should live to a green old age, and a slave caught abusing or neglecting the household pet and mascot was a candidate for burial soon after.

The most stupendous campaign enterprise ever undertaken by the Prohibitionists will be inaugurated by the national committee during this campaign. A special train is to be sent through the country bearing Woolley and Metcalf, the candidates for president and vice-president, national chairman Oliver W. Stewart, and other national speakers. This train will make stops of one hour each at such places as will raise the money required. The plan is raising great enthusiasm among Prohibitionists, and many cities are sending in their applications for the train which will be made the occasion of a grand rally. The train will leave Chicago Sept. 19, and the first trip will be through the western states, returning to Chicago Sept. 29. October 1 the train will start east and will travel as far as Boston, visiting New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland on their return. In addition to the speaking a large amount of literature will be distributed along the way. The party managers believe that the attention which will be attracted by the special Prohibition train steaming through the country will justify the heavy expense. Several Indiana cities are planning to have the train, among them are Goshen, Martinsville and Indianapolis.

The second session of Maxinkuckee Assembly closed Sunday. Thirty-four lectures were given and ten entertainments. The Assembly closed with fine prospects. It paid up all its debts and has a bright future. Next year there will be many improvements made. The new board of officers are: President, J. V. Coombs; Vice President, Dr. Collane; Secretary, W. E. M. Hackleman; Treasurer, J. O. Ferrier. The Indiana Lectureship and Evangelical Congress will meet here next year. The programme next year will run over four Sundays, and some of the best talent in the land will grace the platform. Ten lots were sold for cottages, and next year all the lake front will be filled with cottages. Flora brought the largest colony this year, about 60 people; Indianapolis came next with 35, and Lebanon next. The attendance from Culver was light, and from Maxinkuckee nearly nothing. The interest in the community should be increased next year. It is greatly to our interest to have lecturers of national reputation brought to us, and it is cheap to have the privilege of attending three lectures for ten cents.

Sunday evening as Archie Blanchard and his best girl were taking a buggy ride behind John Osborn's noted little bay, a gentleman driving a fast stepper drove up behind Archie and attempted to pass on ahead. This kind of proceedings was not to the liking of Osborn's thoroughbred, who instantly lit out at a terrific speed, and when near Dr. Wiseman's residence the occupants of the buggy were thrown out, shaking Archie quite severely. Fortunately the lady escaped without injury.

This (Friday) evening there will be a lawn social held at Mrs. H. H. Culver's cottage on the east side of the lake. Ice cream and cake will be served. Those present will be entertained by the rendition of a most excellent vocal and instrumental program. The proceeds of the affair will be applied upon the M. E. church debt in this city. Everybody is cordially invited.

Judge H. P. Freeman, of the Appellate Court of Chicago, was in Culver Tuesday and made Col. Fleet at the Academy a visit. He thinks that Culver Park is a beauty and should be a joy forever. He was very much pleased with the appearance of the Academy buildings, and predicts that there is still a greater future for this already second greatest military school in the United States.

Monday evening a boy drove John Osborn's delivery horse to the barn, and after unhitching him started to remove the harness, and when taking the "crooper" from under the horse's tail the animal began to kick, and instantly started off at a lively gait. He ran around the Morris house on Main street where he collided with a buggy, badly breaking the wheels and causing the horse to turn a complete somersault. The animal was not injured.

The wolf in the fable put on sheep's clothing because if he traveled on his own reputation he couldn't accomplish his purpose. Counterfeiters of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve couldn't sell their worthless salves on their merits, so they put them in boxes and wrappers like DeWitt's. Look out for them. Take only DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It cures piles and all skin diseases. T. E. Slattery.

Last Thursday the Union and Methodist Sabbath schools of Hobart, numbering about 400, and the Methodist Sabbath schools of Elwood, numbering about 500, picnicked at Culver. The little ones and grown-up people enjoyed the day boat riding, bathing, etc. Hundreds visited Culver Park and scenes around the lake, and were most enthusiastic in their praise of our beautiful lake and its surroundings.

Are you hungry? If so, call at John Osborn's store and be supplied with groceries, meats, breads and everything in the line of eatables.

Millions will be spent in politics this year. We can't keep the campaign going without money any more than we can keep the body vigorous without food. Dyspeptics used to starve themselves.
