That Democratic Meeting.

Monday night the Hon. Samuel Parker, one of Plymouth's most profound legal lights, accompanied by candidates and other followers of the rank and file of democracy, made their appearance in Culver and repaired to the Assembly grounds, where the aforesaid Parker expounded Bryanism, imperialism, trustism and several other isms too numerous to mention. There were in all probability about 200 persons present, including men, women and children, who expected something great from Marshall county's "Silver tongued" orator. But this must have been an with very little applause and no enthusiasm whatever. Notwithstanding that he said he would like to be allowed they were not just the right of democracy in this section. thing to be fostered upon the people, of McKinley or any other man being since changed their minds. crowned in America. Sam grew quite eloquent when he referred to the personality of the Nebraska boy, but all in all his little talk was a sore disappointment to the democrats of "this neck of the woods," as they expected something new.

The Hon. Daniel McDonald, the sage of the Democrat, candidate for county treasurer, O'Keefe, and Clint Bondurant, candidate for sheriff, were in attendance. We also noticed that the editor of the Plymouth Iudependent was present, and as he is candidate for representative it was expected that he would make a few remarks, but he remained in the background. The polyphone was present, however, and entertained the people with songs and snatches of speeches made previously by Mr. Bryan and others, the most conspicuous being one made by ex-Governor Altgeld of Illinois. The polyphone created great enthusiasm.

Temperance Sermon.

Rev. Newman was greeted by a packed house Sunday evening at the Evangelical church, who came for the express purpose of bearing the Rev. gentleman discuss the temperance question. The able divine started out by giving a few statistics showing how many men were laid in drunkards' graves every year and the cost to maintain the liquor triffic. Then in no unmistakable terms he jumped upon the salonns with both feet, and in language both loud and deep, expressed his opinion of them in general. He said there was not a respectable saloon in existence and that every saloonkeeper is a criminal, as there was not a day passed but what he violates the law, not only the laws of the land but the laws of God. He said you might just as well talk of hell being respectable as a saloon. He appealed to the Christians in general to awake and fight this monster evil, and stated that when a united effort was made by the churches against this evil it would be wiped out. He said that the M. E. and Evangelical churches were outspoken against the saloons in their recent conventions and others were following. In conclusion he appealed to his hearers to be up and doing, and both by work and the ballot help to crush out the greatest curse a nation was ever afflicted with.

SHOT BY A DESERTER.

HOW THE GALLANT LAWTON MET HIS DEATH.

Returned Soldier from the Philippines Says He Saw the Fatal Shot Fired from a Church Tower-British Steamer Rescues American Sailors.

General II. W. Lawton was killed by an American deserter according to Leon Mayhue, a private in Company I, of the Eleventh United States Cavalry, who returned from the Philippines recently. Mayhue says he was on the skirmish line near Lawton at San Mateo Dec. 19. "We saw a white man in black trousers," he said, "showing conspicuously among the white uniforms of the insurgent officers, come out on the tower of a church, survey the ground very carefully, aim in Lawton's direction and then fire. Lawton said only, '--- the luck,' and expired. After taking the town we found that the Filipinos had been commanded by General Del Pinar and an American deserter, who had been seen going into the church tower. Other evidence confirmed the belief that this was the man who killed the general."

FIGHT ON THE ALTAR STEPS.

Insane Man Seizes Crucifix, Declares He Is St. Peter and Resists Removal.

Three men struggling on the steps of the main altar in St. Paul's Cathedral in Pittsburg caused great excitement in the big edifice. There were not many worshipers in the church when a man entered and walked up the center aisle to the altar, where he undressed himself. He then seized a brass crucifix, around which he clasped his hands and knelt in Policeman Thomas Kilkeary was called and with the assistance of the sexton of the church tried to induce the man to put on his clothing and leave. Ghouls Take a Chamols-Skin Pouch from About the Neck. The last touch of horror was added to the record of the wreck of the yacht Idler July 7 in a squall off Cleveland, when the body of Jane Corrigan was found at Willoughby. The body had been robbed of a chamois-skin belt or pouch containing the diamonds and other jewelry the young lady had taken with her on the yachting trip that ended in death. Now it is said by relatives of the Corrigans that the body shows evidences of having been buried. The body is thought to have been buried in the sand close to the edge of the lake, where it was doubtless thought it would never be found. The recent storms and heavy seas are supposed to have washed the sand from over the grave made by the ghouls.

MANY TRAINS ROBBED

BANDITS GET NEARLY $100,000 DURING THE YEAR.

Detectives Declare that the Work Has Been Done by Novices and that Veterans Are Quiescent-Very Few Captures Made.

Officials of railroad and express companies fear an epidemic of train and express car robberies. Though detectives profess to believe that holding up of trains is an industry that is rapidly going out of fashion, the men who make robbery a profession do not seem to be in accord with their views.

Within the last year five express cars were looted and the robbers secured $76,-700. This is the loss as estimated by express companies, but it is a noted fact that officials of carrier companies are always inclined to withhold the real figures so as to discourage future attempts. In the same period of a year one express company has suffered a loss of $21,000 by packages which disappeared while in transit. Passengers on two trains and one stage line were relieved of money and valuables. Thus, despite all efforts to class the train robber and express thief as a personage of the past, the total profits to the followers of the profession for less than a year have summed up at least $100,000.

In addition to this two unsuccessful attempts were made to rob trains, which would have put the sum total away above that mark.

The Chinese imbroglio is still within the diplomatic stage. The powers interested in the far East find the same difficulty in agreeing to the German proposals-i. e., that the leaders in the antiforeign demonstrations in China shall be given over to the powers for punishment before negotiations for peace began-that they experienced in accepting the Russian plan for the withdrawal of all the troops from Pckin. Up to the present writing it appears that only Austria and Italy have accepted the Kaiser's plan without reservation. The United States and Great Britain have rejected it, but have committed themselves to the policy of demanding the punishment of the leaders responsible for the attacks on the foreigners. France and Russia have assented to the greater part of the German proposal, but do not insist upon punishment before negotiations are opened. Japan's position is similar to that of France and Russia. The German press has bitterly attacked the United States for refusing to accept the Kaiser's proposals. At the same time it is admitted that the proposals will be modified to meet the varied ideas of the powers.

There is nothing in the South African situation that warrants the belief that the Boer cause is any the less hopeless. The members of Kruger's cabinet have sailed for Europe. The Auditor of State has taken the public records and archives, and the treasurer has taken with him what funds are left in the strong box. There is no longer a Transvaal government. Seven thousand British troops occupy Koomatie Poort, the town on the railway at the frontier. The railway from Delagoa Bay to Pretoria is practically open. British railway experts declare that within a few weeks 20,000 soldiers will be ample to police the two republics.

According to an official dispatch from Gen. MacArthur the Filipino rebels have captured a party of over fifty men under Capt. Shields of the Twenty-ninth volunteer infantry. Capt. Shields himself is believed to be among the wounded. It is thought that so large a party would not surrender without a desperate fight, so that the list of killed is probably large.

Fruit Jar Factories Again in Operation-School Mistress Wants Damages for Breach of Promise-Burial Followed by Marriage-Hurt in Drama,

A conference at Muncie between fruit jar manufacturers and President Hayes of the Green Bottle-Blowers' Association resulted in the wage scale being settled. and fruit jar plants started on the same conditions as prevailed last year. This practically means the settlement of the ffint glass scale, as to which a conference will be called at once. Fruit jar manufacturers, although having large stocks on hand, will start their factories at once. This affects thousands of workmen in Indiana, who are jubilant at the settlement.

Legislator Sued for $15,000.

Representative Leonidas H. Mull of Rushville, a prominent member of the last Legislature, was made a defendant in a sensational suit for $15,000 damages filed by Miss Floe Farlow, a prepossessing young school mistress living at Milroy. Miss Farlow says she has kept company with Mull for about three years. She alleges that she and the defendant on Sept. 1, 1900, signed a contract to marry within one year from date, but he refused to marry her. Mr. Mull is one of the ealthiest men in the county.

Mourners at a Wedding.

John McIntyre, son of J. P. McIntyre, who was found dead in his bed at his home near Michigan City, and Miss Lena Glick were married at Laporte. A peculiar feature of the marriage was that the bridal party which accompanied the happy couple back to their home near Michigan City formed, only an hour before, the mourners at the funeral of the groom's father. The minister who married the young couple had preached the funeral sermon over the remains of the father.

MOTHER AND SIX CHILDREN WALKED 700 MILES.

Mrs. Elizabeth Burns, with six children, walked the 700 miles stretching between Grand Rapids, Mich., and Poplar Bluff, Mo., and holds the record for such pedestrianism. Poverty forced her to the task, as she was too proud to ask for help. Last May Mrs. Burns' husband died at Grand Rapids, and she wrote to her father at Odin, Ill., who asked her to come to him. She could not pay her fare, so she got a hand cart, packed some camp necessities into it, and started. Three children rode in the cart. When she got to Odin, however, her father, Eli Gray, had sold out and moved to Poplar Bluff, Mo. She plodded on sturdily, accepting such necessaries as the kind-hearted people along the way pressed upon her. As she reached the sparsely settled section of southeast Missouri it became harder for her to procure provisions, and she was obliged to part with her cart and some of her possessions to obtain money to get food. In this condition she reached Poplar Bluff.

Mrs. Burns does not seem to regard her long walk as unusual. She was not interfered with by any one in the long tramp, and often she and her little ones slept out with no covering but the sky. Mrs. Burns, beyond being tired and footsore, suffered no bad effects from her long walk. The woman is 36 years old. Her oldest child, a boy, is 11 years old, and the youngest 19 months.

W. R. C. HOME IN OHIO.

Country Residence Maintained for the Widows of Old Soldiers.

The only National Woman's Relief Corps' home is situated near the shores of Lake Erie, in the town of Madison, Ohio. Here sixty aged women are enjoying all the comforts of home. Among the number are eighteen octogenarians. Some are blind and infirm. Many of thick of battle or who have dashed messages. A few were spies in the Civil War. Still others bandaged the wounds of the soldier boys in improvised hospitals.

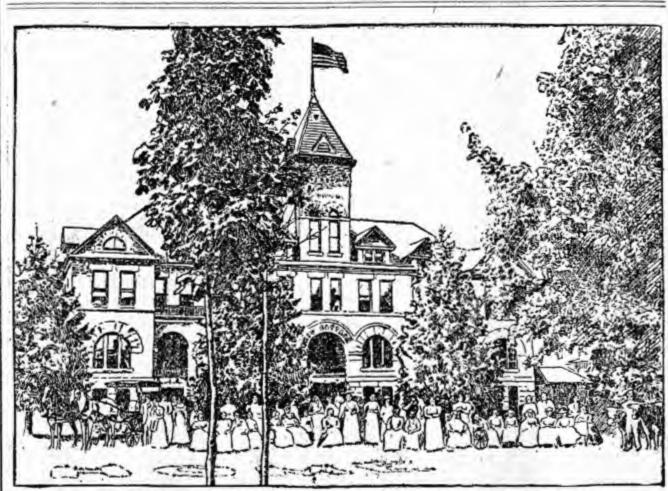

The home, which is the only one of its kind in the United States, is beautifully situated, and it awakens widespread interest among American people. The average number of visitors each year is about 1,000. If the home were in a city this number might not be considered great, but when considand about 144 miles west of Buffalo. The situation is one which affords to trees shelter the home, and a smooth lawn affords pleasant resting places for the inmates. But while all the advantages of the country are enjoyed, all the conveniences of the city are at hand. A telephone hangs upon the wall of the main building, speaking tubes connect the different floors, gas is used for lighting, there are fire escapes and laundry chutes, and many other conveniences which were unknown when these old ladies were little girls or even young women.

The team of the horses and the surrey which the home possesses were purchased from the proceeds of a concert given at the home with that end in view. These horses, besides making daily trips to town and carrying the old ladies who care to go for a ride, work on the farm.

Up the country road a few hundred yards from the home is a country church. On Sabbath day those who wish to attend services may gather there, but those who are very old and ered in connection with a country road | infirm enjoy a meeting held in the Ohio a mile's drive from the nearest station cottage. The main building which shelters this family is of brick and is three over the front entrance. The building was erected by the State of Ohio in 1881. The institution is supported by a per capita tax on each member of the Woman's Relief Corps in the United States. In the main building are numerous rooms which bear the names of the different States of the Union, and each room has been furnished by the State for which it is named. The capacity of the building is increased by two small frame buildings, one to the east and the other to the west of the brick structure. A fine farm of ten acres is maintained in connection with the home. A herd of Jersey cows supplies milk, and a flock of 100 chickens provides eggs for the table of the home. There are fruits and vegetables in abundance. Shade hand now than he can ever finish,

WILL LET CHINA FALL

UNITED STATES WILL NOT FIGHT TO PRESERVE THE EMPIRE.

Held in Washington that Germany and Other Powers Will Effect the Dismemberment of the Celestial Empire -Trade Rights to Be Guarded.

Washington correspondence:

While strenuously endeavoring to prevent the dismemberment of China, which now seems the only outcome of the existing condition of affairs, the United States is prepared to exact guaranties from the powers acquiring territory that the trade rights of this country shall continue to be respected. Were China willing to place itself under the tutelage of the United States, and were there in control four or five strong men with whom the United States could treat rather than Prince Tuan and other reactionaries, it is the belief in Washington that the Chinese territorial integrity could be maintained. But the Chinese Emperor is a weakling, while the Empress Dowager, a hater of the foreigner, is surrounded by men whose lives depend upon keeping her eyes closed to the true situation.

A fact known to foreign powers is that the United States will not go to the extent of war in preserving the integrity of the Chinese empire, and there is reason buyers in an inverse ratio, with the natto believe that at least one power has sounded the State Department in this respect, obtaining the answer expected. That power would have preferred the preservation of the territorial entity of not invariably in the one direction, but a China, but failing to obtain American support, and in view of its occupation of Shanghai, Great Britain stands ready to take its share of territory when partition occurs.

The United States has tried to maintain peace without surrendering any of its rights. In carrying out its original policy it has now instructed Gen. Chaffee to withdraw his forces from Pekin, leaving only a legation guard to protect the American minister and American property. The order provides protection against a twofold danger, as Gen. Chaffee's retirement not only would take us out of the military muddle at Pekin, but would alter the status of the troops left behind. As a legation guard the force still in Pekin would be amenable to the order of no one but its own officers and small stocks and continuing excellence of Minister Conger-a fact of some impor- the demand for consumption. tance to a nation which wants no war with China and is still less willing to have its soldiers forced into fighting under foreign leaders for the sole purpose of carrying out foreign policies.

There is no question in the minds of well-informed diplomats in Washington that Germany is the power that will precipitate dismemberment if it can be accomplished. All the developments in her policy have indicated they are leading up to such an end. Emperor William, after having informed the world as to the revenge he meant to exact from China, has stipulated that prior to entergovernment the authors of the anti-for eign outrages must be surrendered. On this proposition he has received no support from Great Britain and the United States and at most a dubious assent from the three other powers most concerned. He now has two alternatives-to go ahead in accordance with his own program, with the doubtful acquiescence of such powers as may approve his plan, or to come down from his former position and alter the terms on which he will talk peace.

The powers are a unit in demanding punishment for the instigators of the Boxer outrages, and the present incidental difference seemingly ought not to prevent the execution of this single common purpose.

Russia Rewarded in Any Event.

Russia is posing to the Chinese as their good friend. If the question is peace fully setatled Russia will expect reward. and the reward will be in the shape of territorial concessions.

Great Britain has shown the Perritory it covets by occupying Shanghai, the key to the Yangtse Kiang valley, which is the road to India. Three powers will dislike to have Great Britain establish sovereignty over that region, and Germany and France have announced their opposition by landing troops at Shanghai, Japan stands ready to occupy the province of Fukien, and France is willing to extend its boundaries in southern China to the northward.

It is stated by authority that the United States will not under any consideration acquire Chinese territory. What will be sought by treaty with the powers when partition comes is the future protection of American trade rights. There is reason to believe that Minister Wu understands the serious phase of the international situation growing out of the attitude of Germany and the appoint ment of Prince Tunn as grand secretary and president of the privy council and other reactionaries to responsible positions. He also understands the willingness of the United States to render the imperial government its best assistance if it will in return aid the United States by removing Tuan and in restoring peace and order throughout the empire.

New York-Owing to the strike in the anthracite regions and the nearer approach of the presidential election the business situation lately has been marked by some irregularity. General business conditions have had little to do with the decline recently seen in the stock market. It is generally conceded that the break in values was almost entirely due to special influences. Few people have faith in any sustained upward market movement at the present time. It is good epinion, however, that conditions are shaping themselves for a decided advance later. When the market has actually turned few will see it. The public will not recognize it, and even the "talent" will, in all probability, at first resist the Chicago-Comparatively heavy receipts of wheat continue to cast doubt on the claim of this season's production being to any material extent smaller than that of the previous year. Owing to the prevalence of that impression, short sellers of wheat have been on the increase and ural consequence of a gradually declining market during the week. Evidence of the rate of receipts as an indication of the comparative size of the crop was general suggestion of plentifulness was their net result, hence a loss of 21/2c a bushel in the price of wheat since the Saturday preceding. Speculative business was of larger volume than the recent average, and the frequency of the fluctuations and their not immaterial extent made a market that proved attractive to such of the experts as were able to anticipate its many variations. Corn commanded considerable attention. For a day or two it looked as if the September delivery had become so congested that a veritable corner of nobody's planning must result. There proved, however, to be enough corn for sale in the pit to avert the threatened squeeze. Provisions displayed a good deal of strength and considerable activity, due to the

CHINA OFFERS REPARATION.

Emperor and Empress Announce that Their Ministers Are at Fault.

There were two important development in connection with affairs in China Saturday. One was the receipt by the State Department in Washington of a cablegram from Consul General Goodnow at Shang-Sheng stating sethat rector of railways and telegraphs, had handed him a decree of the Emperor and Empress, blaming their ministers for encouraging the Boxers. The second was the announcement by Mr. Hill, acting Secretary of State, that the instructions of this government to Minister Conger had been forwarded to Pekin. The advices from Consul General Goodnow are to the effect that China goes further than merely issuing an edict denunciatory of the Boxer Teaders. The edict orders the degradation of four princes, and deprives Prince Tuan of his salary and official servants, and directs that he be brought for trial before the imperial clan court. The instructions to Minister Conger, are understood to contain the following stipulations:

1. That Prince Tuan be removed from office and some one acceptable to the powers he appointed in his place. 2. That Minister Conger represents the United States as a plemiporentiary, and has to connection whatever with mediation for 3. That any reasonable program outlined by a majority of the powers, the stipulations to be less severe than those of Germany, may be accepted by Mr. Conger.

4. That, in the event of a continued disagreement among the powers and China, Minister Conger is to proced to negotiate with Earl Li Hung Chang and Prince Ching solely with regard to American interests and with a view to determining the attitude of the United States as to future ac-

It will be recalled that, in the answer of the United States to Germany, the State Department stated that, while it did not believe in demanding the surrender of the Chinese ringleaders as a condition precedent to negotiations, it was resolved firmly that in the end the guilty parties should be held to the uttermost accountability. The Chinese government has taken this intimation to heart, andperhaps, hastened in its action by the recent manifestation of dissatisfaction by the United States government at the reported promotion of Prince Tuan-already has begun the punishment of him and the other Chinese leaders who are held guilty.

POPULATION OF STATES NEXT,

Census Figures on Big Cities Are All Announced.

The census bureau has finished the enumeration of all the cities in the United States of over 25,000 inhabitants. The work of announcing the States comes next, beginning with Arkansas. The figures will include all the incorporated towns. It appears likely the census will cost about $15,000,000.

Estimates based on census returns from 153 cities in the United States place the total population of the country at 80,-000,000. The grand total for the 153 cities mentioned is 19,693,654. In 1890 the population of the same cities was 14,. 653,897. The difference is 5,040,757, or a gain of 25 per cent.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain constantly in back and sides, no appetite-gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters,' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cts., guaranteed, at T. E. Slattery's drug

FORGIVENESS.

To drink the dregs of rank injustice's

And smile as though the draft were sweet and clear;

To feel the dagger-thrust of wounded pride, Yet to the bosom clasp the steel more

To check the passion of the beast-revenge-Yet seemingly do naught but raise thy hand; To keep sure silence when the hot words burn

At wrong, before the soul can understand;

To rise a moment from the mortal

To see things past and present and to come;

To grant the heavenliest blessing earth bestows

With heart and soul-nor hold the lips long dumb;

Ever to seem oblivious of the hurt, Though in remembrance it may ever live;-

O, human soul, so often torn and tried All this it means sincerely to forgive! ---Youth's Companion.

BEN-RY.

BY FAITH BRADFORD.

About a week ago, in a moment o indiscretion, I strayed into a "babyshow," and made the mistake of say ing that I couldn't see much difference in the little dears.

This baby-show did not differ nota bly from others. It was held in the vestry of the Methodist Church in a suburban town. Thirty-four babies were "entered;" and of course all their mothers were there, as well as many of their aunts.

I did not realize until I got well inside that I was the only man, young or old, in the hall. It seems that the rest of the men were bright enough to stay away. The place was a bower of young maternity, and of fluffy pink and baby blue. The air was vocal with cooing and twittering sounds. Thirty-four "perfectly lovely" baby carriages were ranged round in a semi-circle, each against a background of pink dimity and each containing a beruffled and bepowdered baby. Some the youngsters were shaking ratales, some were grasping wonderful bottles of white fluid, some were gurgling and some were leaping nearly out of their nests in an excess of gleeful health.

A manufacturer of infants' food had offered a prize for the handsomest baby, and every one of those young mothers had high hopes of taking it

Some artist should try to depict the foolish smile that overspreads a man's face when he finds himself, inadvertently, amid such surroundings. was sneaking toward the door, when nine or ten of the mothers, who knew me, outflanked my line of retreat, and with much laughter, drew me back to be "umpire."

. Umpire at a baby-show! Arbiter and judge as to which of thirty-four babies was the prettiest! Think of the consequences! The undying friendship of one young mother, and the eternal enmity and reprobation of the other thirty-three!

Before I had been led half round the cooing semicircle I saw my danger, and hit on the trite expedient of declaring that they were all so pretty that I could see no difference in them. As the mothers were incredulous, I grew insistent, and declared vehemently that I could not tell the babies

They tried to instruct me. "Oh, but look at their hair." cried one.

"I have looked at it," said I. "It differs about as much as the down on so many peaches."

"Isn't he horrid? But compare their eyes!" cried another.

"Just like so many beautiful little gooseberries," I insisted.

"Oh! Oh-h-h-h!" burst forth on all sides. "Ladies," I cried, desperately, "you know very well that if these babies were shifted from carriage to carriage, while you all shut your eyes, you couldn't tell them apart to save your lives! You may think you could, but you couldn't. Let me tell you what happened at the fire at Norland last spring! Let me-let-"

It was at this point that I was stopped by the mothers. They would not hear another word. In fact, they turned me out of the vestry.

Denied the privilege of telling them that story of the fire at Norland, I offer it here to vindicate myself.

Norland was one of those little villages on the borders of the lumber country which are predestined to burn up once in about ten years, or may be tifteen, or with extreme good luck, twenty. The houses, stores and mills were all built of wood, with shingle "yards" filled with piles of boards, clapboards, shingles and lumber waste. If a fire started in one of these millyards with the wind high, during a dry week, nothing except the hand of Providence could save the town.

At Norland the inevitable happened one afternoon in May, a year ago. It was a lumber-yard fire, with a fine northwest wind, which whirled blazing embers aloft, sowing them broadcast over the village and-well, the poor people had about twenty minutes in which to save what they could. There were lots of babies, and of course they saved the babies first, and ran back for other household treasures afterward.

Now it was the time of the day when many of the infants were taking their afternoon naps. They were snatched out of their cradles or cribs, along with such of their little wraps, blankets and other clothes as came handiest, and carried as quickly as possible along the "alder brook road" to windward of the burning village, And for want of a better place to leave themwhile the excited mothers and fathers ran back to save their goods-they were laid in an empty granite-worker's shed, and left in charge of an old woman, called Aunt Anice Roe, who had made her own escape in a slightly singed, somewhat dazed condition.

The village burned, all save a molety of its outskirts, to windward; and for an hour or two even the bables' mothers were too much occupied with their now homeless furniture, bedding and best bonnets to go to the shed for the babies. It was a time of affliction and distress. But as the fire burned out and the smoky evening drew on, the parental instinct revived, and the mothers came hastening to the shed.

Meanwhile poor, confused old Aunt Anice Roe had done what she could. She had spread blankets on the granite chips; and as the wind was blowing cold, she had dressed and muffled up each of the little crying creatures in what she thought came with each one. But it is not strange that, in dealing with the collection of little frocks, socks, blankets and bottles, she made mistakes; and a mistake of that sort once started, went the round of the fourteen babies.

It happened that a certain Mrs. Gilbert Tucker's mother, who lived a few miles out of the village, had been calling on her daughter when the fire broke out. To this mother's care Mrs. Tucker had consigned her two little girls, but had run, herself, with her baby, to the shed.

The Tuckers owned another cottage in the outskirts of the place, and this escaped the conflagration. To it they carried the goods that they had been able to save from the burned house, and they were thus occupied for an hour or two. Then they went to get the baby. On their way they met a woman, who said to Mrs. Tucker that her mother had gone home and taken the "girls" with her till she could get settled again. This was not quite clear, for Mrs. Tucker's mother had not only taken the "girls" home, but had gone round by the shed and taken the baby along, too.

Now Mrs. Tucker naturally supposed that her baby was still at the shed. and hastening thither in the fading light, she misappropriated an infant in pink socks and in a pink frock which she knew very well, having completed that little gown with her own hands only three days before. Glad to find her baby, as she thought it, so well and quiet, she marched home, hugging it to her heart.

Other mothers, however, did not fare so well. There were three very young babies which their own parents could not tell apart by lantern light. Mistakes were made which distressed various families. Soon efforts to rectify the blunders began. At intervals a puzzled father or a terrified mother came hurrying back to return a baby and ask for another.

"This isn't our baby!" exclaimed one. "Ours had a mole on his left ear-or was it his right, George?"

A man laid his bundle down, in some embarrassment, and said that his wife had sent him back with the baby Aunt Anice had given him, to exchange it for their own. He was evidently used to doing errands for his wife, for he inquired, "If they had something a little heavier, in a lighter shade?"

But the mothers who came were not inclined to be humorous. Two women claimed the same baby, and one of them left the shed in tears, without any baby at all. The exchange of clothes had proved bewildering. One nursemaid, who had been deceived by the misleading apparel, dared not divulge her error that night, or at least she did not. This made trouble in the home of Mrs. Ella Dunbar, who soon was on the threshold of nervous prostration.

"Oh, where is my child?" she cried to distracted old Aunt Anice, "There roofs; and all about were great isn't one that resembles my little

Aunt Anice wrung her hands. She knew nothing about it. The several parents had come and got their babies. She supposed they knew their own children,

"But what shall I do? What shall I do?" sobbed Mrs. Dunbar.

"I don't know! Oh, I don't know!" cried the sympathetic old aunty. "Unless everybody who brought babies here fetches them back and we sort them again!"

This proposal, although repugnant to many, seemed to be the only way out of the difficulty; and the next morning there was a novel baby show at the shed. No prize for beauty or winning baby ways now tempted the mothers. The babies themselves were at stake!

All were now in a calmer mood however, and there was a better light. The infants were exchanged to the satisfaction of every one, except Mrs. Ella Dunbar, Her baby was apparently missing.

What was more and worse, she claimed as her own the child that Mrs. Gilbert Tucker had taken and now held. The two children were said to resemble each other, and had been born at about the same time. Mrs. Dunbar vehemently asserted that the baby Mrs. Tucker had was her little Ben. Mrs. Tucker as positively declared it to be her own little Henry.

The two mothers really required to be restrained a little, Mrs. Dunbar in particular. She was well-nigh frantic from anxiety and indignation. Persuaded at last to return home, she fell seriously ill. Mr. Dunbar consulted a lawyer, who promptly began the preliminaries for a case in court. The mystery lasted until late the third day, when Mrs. Gilbert Tucker's mother came placidly into town and brought the children home.

"Here's the baby, Sarah," she said, as she entered the sitting-room, "He's been good all the time. I suppose you've missed him dreadfully."

"'Baby?" echoed Mrs. Tucker, blankly. "What 'baby'?"

"Why, our baby! Your baby that I took out home with me!"

"But here's the baby!" and Mrs. Tucker stopped rocking and held it up. "Why, mother, you don't mean -" she gasped, unable to say more. "Yes, I do! Whose baby have you got there, Sarah?" cried her mother, austerely.

"Why, I don't know!" wailed Mrs. Tucker, looking from one child to the other in bewilderment. "Yes, I do. too!" she groaned out, at last. "What will poor Ella Dunbar say to me? It's hers! It must be! I took it, and here I've kept it! I thought it was mine! She was sure it was hers! But I wouldn't gir it up. Oh, it is too dreadful! i thought a number of times it didn't seem just like Henry!"

"Ben" was restored to the Dunbar household, and much humiliated, Mrs. Gilbert Tucker transferred her affection to her own small "Henry." The lawsuit did not come off; but the Dunbars still pass the Tuckers without speaking, and the wags of the village have nicknamed both the little fellows "Ben-ry."

Perhaps the ladies who mobbed me at the baby-show will say that this story is all a miserable fiction, clumsily invented by me to put them in the wrong. None the less, it is the absolute truth, every word of it.-Youth's Companion.

Italy's Iron Crown.

In accordance with King Victor's orders, the iron crown was taken from the chapel in the cathedral at Monza, where it is kept, and set on the coffin of his father. This precious old crown symbolizes the Italian royal power. For twelve centuries the Italian Kings were crowned with it. A tradition accepted by the Roman Church tells that the rough iron circle forming the inside is one of the nails used in the crucifixion of our Lord, which Empress Helena, mother of Constantine the Great, found in the Holy Land. The outside of the crown is of purest gold, set with twenty-four gems. It is a precious example of Byzantine work. As, however, it belongs to the State, because of some ancient rights, the Cathedral of Monza is intrusted with its keeping. The priests of the cathedral who transferred it were escorted by officers, and a solemn service took place before the masters of ceremonies, in state dress, received it. As soon as it was set on the coffin Queens Margaret and Helen and the Princesses kissed it respectfully, as it is considered a holy relic. The crown will be taken to Rome for the funeral, and will then be returned to Mouza, whence it has been removed only on three occasions, in 1805, for Napoleon's coronation; in 1838, for the crowning of Ferdinand of Austria, who then transferred it to Vienna, and in 1878, for Victor Emmanuel's burial.-Loudon Telegraph's Rome Letter.

NO SIGHS FOR THE DEAD.

Survivors of Galveston Disaster Too Much Stunned for Grief.

Nowhere save in the presence of some dread calamity is a field offered to study man as he really is, without pretense or subterfuge. Such is the consensus of opinion among those who rushed to Galveston when the news of the disaster first startled the world and who have since remained in the charnel island amid the scenes of bitterness and grief, the everpresent odor of burning human flesh and the thousand and one terrors that were added to the grewsome situation as each succeeding day passed.

As soon as the danger from wind and water was over at Galveston and it became apparent that the thousands of dead were elements of greater danger than even the sweeping waves of the gulf, the festering and distorted masses of flesh that filled the streets and yards and floated about the bay were no longer regarded as the sacred dead, but as threatening monsters that bespoke the approach of pestilence of all kinds perhaps the deadly and dreaded yellow fever. With the energy that only the spirit of self-preservation could awaken the survivors fell upon the forms that threatened their annihilation and dragged them from their resting place to where they could most readily be disposed of. After a battle so matter how desperate or how heavy the loss there is always time to dig a trench as the last resting place of those who fell. Manifold as are the terrors of such a situation there is usually a chaplain to pronounce a few words over the grave. But in Galveston there was no time for prayers or hymns. The clergymen of the city were too busy themselves hewing away at the mountains of wreckage and dragging forth bodies for the dead scow or the funeral pyre to conduct religious services, for the living were at the mercy of the dead and the preachers devoted their energy to helping the living.

Humanity may recoil at the thought of piling up corpses like so much cordwood and applying the torch to the oil-soaked mass, and sentiment may robel at the idea of dragging the unidentified dead to sea to be consigned to the element that brought about their destruction, but there was no such sentiment to be found in Galveston. It was the living arrayed against the dead-one or the other was doomed to annihilation.

At first the leading citizens mingled responsible, to a with the more humble and the colored large extent, for population, but as the situation improved the work fell to the poorest and most ignorant classes, while the more intelligent assumed the direction of affairs, Many are the stories that are told of fathers tearing away debris only to find their own children buried beneath, crushed almost beyond recognition. Sightseers from the mainland managed to evade the guards and their appearance was the sign for them to be pressed into service at the revolver point. Then the residents of Galveston who for any reason sought to escape their full share of the ghastly work were forced by the same means and the use of weapons as a convincing argument grew apace.

ROOSEVELT IN A MAD RUSH.

At Victor, Colo., He Is Made the Victim of a Riotous Crowd.

Probably because he was the most prominent person in the party, Gov. Theodore Roosevelt of New York was the central point of attack by a mob of irresponsible ruffians, who started a riot, just after the Governor had finished addressing a meeting in Armory Hall in Victor, Colo.

The trouble began with the arrival of the train carrying Gov. Roosevelt and his party, in which were Senator Wolcott, Sherman Bell, John Proctor Clark and several of his old Rough Riders. A trifling incident started the row. A drunken woman near the station when the train halted waved a banner and cried out cheers for Bryan. Gov. Roosevelt paid no attention, nor was it resented by any of his party. But some one tore the banner from the woman's hands, arousing the anger of her husband, a big Hungarian miner. He marched up and down the street, shouting and daring everybody to a fight. Meantime Gov. Roosevelt had proceeded to Armory Hall. The meeting there was not interrupted, although many persons forced their way in. As Mr. Roosevelt left the hall a mob of 150 men, most of them inflamed by drink, faced him. Some boys in the crowd began throwing missiles. A man tried to prod members of the party with a pole, on which was fastened a banner. Gov. Roosevelt shouted to his supporters to preserve law and order. Eggs and lemons were thrown. Democrats of Victor and Cripple Creek. deplore the incident. No one in Gov. Roosevelt's immediate party was injured.

MORE QUIT THEMINES

STRIKERS ARE ENCOURAGED BY FIRST WEEK OF FIGHT.

Detailed Reports Indicate a Big Gain for United Mine Workers-Operators Are Resolute in the Determination Not to Yield.

The beginning of the second week of the strike showed a slight gain for the strikers. Official reports to the United Mine-workers indicate that in the whole anthracite field more than 90 per cent of the men are on strike. There is now a total of 130,000 of 142,000 men out. Almost all of those who have come out have joined the union and promised that they will not return to work until the operators have made a settlement in a conference with the representatives of the union. This is a new and important condition of the strike. When the first meeting, at which the demands of the miners were formulated, was held in Hazleton less than 10 per cent of the men in the anthracite region were members of the union. When President Mitchell spoke in Jeddo not more than 50 per cent of the men were members of the union, and when he was leaving many of the women followed and jeered him. Now all but one colliery in the Jeddo district is closed down.

The greatest gains made by the strikers are in the section patrolled by the State troops, where the union had hitherto showed the greatest weakness. Practically every mine in the neighborhood of Shenandoah and Mahanoy City was in operation before the riots Friday. All are new closed, and the prospect of getting men to work there seems small. The confidence of the strikers is growing as their strength increases.

Mine Owners Resolute. Men long familiar with the anthracite region say that never before have they seen the mine owners so resolute in their determination not to yield an inch as they now are. Rightly or wrongly, they contend that they are the victims of a conspiracy to put the anthracite region into the control of labor leaders who are foreign to the region and even to the State. In addition to this the mine owners say that conditions are so different in different portions of the anthracite region that to come to any general agreement on the lines proposed by the mine workers' union would be an impossibility. For these reasons the operators seem as adamant in their determination to have no dealing with Mr. Mitchell and his organization. So far as they are concerned, they say that if the leaders succeed in making the strike general, it will be a record-breaker for length unless the miners themselves give and Lackawanna valleys is unchanged. In the Schuylkill region, as soon as the excitement incident to the arrival of the troops dies out, a general resumption of operations is expected."

Statement of the Strikers. The United Mine Workers of the Wilkesbarre district issued the following statement: "The eighth day of the strike shows the men in the Wyoming region to be more united than ever. All the mines in the district are idle, and three washeries which were in operation the greater part of last week are not now in operation. Our men are quiet and orderly and gaining accessions to their ranks every day. A new society of United Workers was organized at Pittston. The men in that section are thoroughly organized now. The miners of Ashley are also well organized. On the whole the situation is very encouraging."

JOHN M. PALMER DEAD.

Lawyer, Soldier, Statesman Passes Away of Heart Disease.

Gen. John M. Palmer, former Governor of Illinois and United States Senator, gold Democrat candidate for President in 1896, and one of the great generals in the Union army in the Civil War, died suddenly at his home in Springfield, at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning. During Monday evening Gen. Palmer was apparently in his usual health and spirits and was about town mingling with his old associates.

After returning home he complained of an intense shooting pain in the chest, around the heart. The family physician was called and Gen. Palmer obtained some relief, but the pain continued the greater part of the night, and the doctor was called in several times. Shortly before 8 o'clock in the morning Gen. Palmer passed peacefully away.

John McCauley Palmer was born in Eagle Creek, Scott County, Ky., on Sept. 13, 1817. In 1832 he removed to Illinois and in 1839 settled in Carlinville. He was admitted to the bar in 1840 and was delegate to the State constitutional convention in 1847. He was a member of the State Senate 1852-54, a delegate to the national Republican convention in Philadelphia in 1856, a Presidential elector on the Republican ticket of 1860 and a delegate to the peace convention in Washington, Feb. 4, 1861.

He was elected Colonel of the Fourteenth Illinois Volunteers in April, 1861, accompanied Gen. John C. Fremout in his expedition to Springfield, Mo., and was commissioned brigadier general of volunteers in December of the same year. He was with Gen. John Pope at the capture of New Madrid and Island No. 10, and afterward commanded the First Brigade, First Division, of the Army of the Mississippi. In November, 1862, he was with Gen. Grant's army in temporary command of a division. Subsequently he led a division at the battle of Stone River, and for his gallantry there was promoted to major general of volunteers Nov. 29, 1862. He participated in the battle of Chickamanga and led the Fourteenth Army Corps in the Atlanta campaign from May until September, 1864.

From 1869 to 1873 he was Governor of Illinois In 1891 he was elected United States Senator and served a full

TO QUELL FILIPINOS.

Fleet Will Blockade Luzon in Effort to End Insurrection.

The Navy Department is strengthening the United States naval forces on the Asiatic station.

Admiral Schley's South American squadron, already small, will be still further depleted by the departure of the gunboat Wilmington from Montevideo in a few days. The Albany, now in the Mediterranean, is under orders to go to China at once via the Suez Canal, and the gunboats Annapolis and the Vicksburg and the converted yacht Dorothea will leave American waters as soon as they can be put in commission.

The fleet under Admiral Remey will be still further augmented by the battleship Kentucky, which, with the other cruisers and gunboats now on the Asiatic station, will bring the strength of our naval force in Oriental waters up to a total of thirty-four vessels. This force is only exceeded by that of Great Britain. France, Germany, Japan, Russia and Austria all have smaller forces both as to number and strength, and should hostilities occur between the allies there is no danger that the United States will be overmatched at the outset.

This fleet is being assembled ostensibly for the protection of American interests in China and as a show of force to the other powers now involved in the Chinese imbroglio. But it is said in Washington that not all the vessels are to be stationed in Chinese waters. The real 2 use for this fleet, it is claimed, will be to blockade Luzon during the coming winter campaign and assist in bringing the war in the Philippines to a close.
