Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work." This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by T. E. Slattery, Druggist.

Obituary.

Again the bell has tolled, which announced in solemn tones that another spirit had taken its flight across the dark river into that haven where no mortal ever returns. This time the grim monster entered a home in Culver and took therefrom a loving mother, whose presence will ever be missed and whose wise counsel will ever be cherished by her children who loved her so well. Mrs. Davis was a noble woman, and her devotion to her family was beautiful in the extreme, and the few days that she was ill only ripened her spirit for the better world. It was hard to see the loving hand of Providence in so much sorrow, but when death came on Thanksgiving evening, Nov. 29, it found her soul ready for the change, and as the spirit kissed the body farewell, until the resurrection of the just, it left that sweet expression of permanent peace, which only those "who die in the Lord can know." With that life the light of the home went out, and the darkness that settled upon the hearts of those by the bedside could only be lifted by the thought that, though it be dark and dreary on earth, there is perpetual light in heaven. Nature had done much for Mrs. Davis by giving her a genial, happy disposition, and although she was of a quiet, retiring nature, in the home circle was her presence and sympathy most felt, and the perfume of that unselfish life still lingers within the bosoms of her children and relatives, and will while life lasts. Funeral services were held at the Grace Reformed church, Culver, Sunday at 2 o'clock p. m., conducted by Rev. H. N. Smith, a large concourse of sympathizing friends attending, after which her remains were laid at rest in the Culver cemetery.

Mrs. Davis was born at Paw Paw, Ind., March 11, 1855, and at the time of her death was 45 years, 8 months and 12 days old. When about 16 years of age she was married to Elisha W. Davis, at Knox, Ind., and from there they moved to Wisconsin, where her husband took charge of a section on the Rock Island Railroad. To this union five children were born, three sons and two daughters, one of the daughters preceding her on the other shore. In 1880 her husband was killed by an ex-section hand, who did the deed out of revenge for being discharged. At the death of her husband she, with her five small children, moved to Indiana and about 12 years ago to Culver, where she has resided ever since.

The struggle to properly care for children has been an heroic one, and when she died she had the satisfaction of knowing that her boys were successfully filing honored positions. We draw the veil over the past, knowing that the life and character of such mothers leave their influence, which will be part of her children's life and have a tendency to urge them to emulate her deeds, thereby fitting themselves for a reunion in the great beyond where there shall be no more parting, no more tears.

Killed by Florida Mob.

Spencer Williams, a negro gambler, was killed by a mob near Lake City, Fla., because he shot the city marshal.

Where It's a Success. "Is marriage a failure?" "I should say not!" remarked an Oregon farmer. "Why, there's Lucindy, gits up in the mornin', milks six cows, gits breakfast, starts four children to skewl, looks arter the other three, feeds the hens, likewise the hogs, likewise some motherless sheep, skims twenty pans of milk, washes the clothes, gits dinner, et cetera, et cetera. Think I could hire anybody to do it for what she gits? Not much! Marriage, sir, is a success—a great success!"—Ram's Horn.

Would Have Aroused His Suspicions.

"It's funny about some people, Limpy." "Guess yer right, Weary." "Now you kin just bet that if any feller had robbed me of $700,000 I wouldn't have to wait around till some other feller found it out."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

AN ENEMY TO DRINK.

One Woman Who Has Done a Great Deal to Put Down This Evil.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 3, 1900.—(Special.)—When the Independent Order of Good Templars of Minnesota wanted a State Organizer, they chose Mrs. Laura J. Smith of 1217 West 33d street, this city. The American Anti-Treat League also selected Mrs. Smith as National Organizer. The reason is not far to seek. This gifted woman has devoted her life to a battle against Drink and Drinking Habits.

About two years ago, however, it seemed as if this noble woman would have to give up her philanthropic work. Severe pains in her back and under her shoulder blades, made life a burden and work impossible. Physicians were consulted, and they prescribed for Kidney Disease. Three months' treatment, however, failed to give Mrs. Smith any relief. Her husband was much exercised, and cast about him for something that would restore his good wife to health and strength. He heard of the cures effected by Dodd's Kidney Pills, and advised her to try them, which she did. She is now a well woman and says: "Two weeks after I commenced taking Dodd's Kidney Pills I felt much better, and at the end of seven weeks was completely cured. I have had no recurrence of the trouble, but I take a pill off and on, and find that it keeps me in good health."

Three things to admire—Intellectual power, dignity and gracefulness.

INDIANA INCIDENTS.

RECORD OF EVENTS OF THE PAST WEEK.

Killed and Dragged in Mud—Eccentric Men Die Unknown to Neighbors—Contract Let for Long Electric Lines—W. C. T. U. Will Petition.

Irvin Dye was murdered at Marion, the body being found in the rear of Manehan & Son's store, where it had been placed by his slayers after dragging the body through the mud from the rear of the Black Prince saloon. The officers learned that Dye and Albert Gallon were in company with two young women at Gallon's home early in the evening, and that they were joined by Thomas Hawkins, and the party walked down the street to the central part of the city. Dye, Hawkins and Gallon were seen later in the Black Prince saloon. The officers are working on the theory that the murder resulted from jealousy over a love affair.

Chicago Men to Build Road.

The Central Traction Company awarded the contract for the construction of the electric line between Indiana, and Kokomo. The road passes through Noblesville and Tipton and will furnish rapid transit service to such other small towns en route as Broad Ripple, Westfield, Cicero, Arcadia and Atlanta, paralleling the Lake Erie and Western part of the way. At Tipton a branch is proposed east to Elwood, while the main line will continue directly north to Kokomo. The entire length of line as finally surveyed and agreed upon is sixty-five miles. The construction work was let to a Chicago firm and it is understood the consideration is between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000.

Two Men Found Poisoned.

The bodies of the two erratic Holland brothers of Peru, Jerry and Pat, aged 62 and 56 respectively, were found in their house, the men evidently having been dead from eight to ten days. Pat was found upstairs face upward and Jerry downstairs in a position almost similar, near the kitchen stove, where natural gas was brightly burning. Food for supper lay untouched on the table. Hurried examinations by physicians show no marks of violence, but the belief is general that the men had been drugged while drinking and had died in a few minutes after reaching home. No reason can be assigned for suicide, as both were noted for jollity of nature.

W. C. T. U. Wants Pure Goods.

The organizations of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union in this State will present a memorial to the national convention to be held in Washington, D. C., to create a new department to enforce and maintain the purity of liquors and that Congress be petitioned to pass a law that only pure whiskies be sold saloons instead of adulterated liquor.

Colored Student as University Orator. Willis O. Tyler, colored, won the primary oratorical contest of Indiana University, and will represent the university in the State oratorical contest to be held at Indianapolis. His subject was "The Middle West."

State News in Brief.

Forest fires near New Albany. Six barns already burned.

Goldsmith postoffice was robbed of $300 in cash and stamps while the postmistress was filling a lamp.

August H. Schroeder, Evansville, is dead as the result of an acetylene gas explosion. He was experimenting.

Peru man who found a purse containing $200 and valuable papers would not accept a $50 reward and requested that his name be not mentioned.

The Pendleton Gazette says a Hancock County man bet his wife against a farm, and lost. The woman objected, and the man who won wants the bet declared off, but the other fellow insists on paying.

Little May McPherson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel McPherson, Muncie, is dead from diphtheria. She is the last of four children who have yielded to the malady in six weeks. The parents are almost crazed.

An unknown man attempted to assassinate Dr. Peter Drayer, a prominent citizen of Hartford City. Dr. Drayer was passing through an alley when a man fired two shots at him at close range, but failed to wound him.

Jerome D. Knapp, a prominent real estate dealer of Indianapolis, committed suicide at his home by taking strychnine. Mr. Knapp was an active church worker. It is supposed his mind became affected through religious excitement.

Miss Grace Hunt and Mrs. Lillian Rickrich have staked off claims on the Lynville gold field recently discovered in Warrick County and are preparing to work the same. Hundreds of claims are being staked off and people are flocking to the place.

Disappointed in love, Bennett Selwood left his home in Shelby County, in 1859. He learned a few days ago through a newspaper item that his sister had died, and he was the sole heir to her valuable property. He has returned and claimed the property.

Mrs. Burton Wisener, near Union City, had apparently recovered from diphtheria. She told her husband he need sit up with her no longer. Just as she spoke, she threw up her arms and exclaimed, "Oh, Bert, I am dying." Before he reached her she expired.

Addison Fields and Clara Dake, who were married recently at Shelbyville without the consent of her grandfather, Benjamin Dake, the girl afterward being locked in the Dake home and her husband driven from the premises, have been forgiven by the grandparent, who presented the young folks with a check of $2,500.

RIVERS IN A FLOOD.

Disaster Along the Monongahela, the Allegheny and the Ohio.

The damage done by the storm which swept the Atlantic seaboard, the eastern lake region and the Ohio valley Sunday and Monday can scarcely be estimated because reports have not been received from numerous localities where the loss was greatest. In Pennsylvania and West Virginia the damage by flood will reach into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. As far west as the State of Ohio the wind and rain wrought great destruction of property.

In their mad rush the waters ruined hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of property, caused the loss of several lives, temporarily threw out of employment thousands of workmen by the forced suspension of the many industrial establishments lining the banks of both the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers, and rendered hundreds of families homeless.

From Ohio points come stories of desolation and destruction of property. In Columbus trees all over the city were broken and twisted and trains from all directions are badly delayed. At Chargin Falls the telephone switchboard burned out and set fire to half a dozen houses. At Cambridge several buildings were blown down and their contents destroyed. The Ohio river and all streams in the southern portion of the State are rising rapidly. A reservoir, located a mile above Chauncey, burst and flooded the town. Nearly every residence in the place was damaged. A hundred yards of railroad track was washed out. One hundred men working in the Chauncey mine narrowly escaped drowning.

Trains all through Tennessee were badly delayed. No trains reached Paducah, Ky., over the Nashville and Chattanooga line for three days. Rain fell incessantly for more than fifty hours throughout West Virginia, and all the streams are overflowing. The Kanawha at Charleston reached the danger point, and people in the lowlands hastily moved out. In the Guyandotte valley the river and its tributaries are overflowing their banks and are bearing away quantities of property. Nine thousand logs have gone out, taking with them the false work of the two new Guyandotte Valley Railroad bridges south of Barboursville. Loss estimated at $20,000 to $25,000. The track of the new Guyandotte Valley Railroad, just completed to Salt Rock, a distance of eighteen miles, has been almost ruined.

ASKS FOR NEW SHIPS.

Secretary Long's Annual Report on Naval Affairs.

Two new battleships, two armored cruisers, six gunboats and half a dozen smaller vessels are asked of Congress by Secretary of the Navy Long in his annual report to the President. The request is more moderate than those of the general board of the navy, of which Admiral Dewey is head, and of the board of construction, made to the Secretary, but the appropriations necessary for the construction of the vessels would be at least $10,000,000.

Secretary Long makes his recommendations briefly and without urging them, but he puts them forward as desirable in the prospective development of the naval force.

There are now under way in the ship yards eight battleships and forty-five other vessels of all classes. During the past year three battleships, the Alabama, Kearsarge and Kentucky, one protected cruiser, the Albany, and two torpedo boats, have been finally conditionally accepted by the government.

Among other recommendations made is one that the grade of vice admiral be revived by Congress, that means be found for establishing a national reserve in addition to the naval militia of the various States, and that a hall of public records be built for the preservation not only of the accumulated records of the Navy Department, but also of all other executive departments. The building of a large dry dock in the Philippines and the erection of a statue to Admiral Porter are also recommended.

TWO VETERAN VOTERS.

One Lives in Maine and the Other in Iowa.

The first vote cast in Bowdoinham, Me., at the late election was thrown by Uncle Eben Lancaster, who is in his one hundred and second year. The veteran cast his first vote for James Madison in 1817. That was in November. Uncle Eben was 21 years old in October, 1817. Since then he has voted for every President down the line.

William Zimmer, the centenarian of Clinton, Iowa, cast his first vote for James Monroe in 1820. He was born in April, 1799. He is hale and hearty and is seen on the streets of Clinton every fair day. He was born in Schoharie County, New York.

Gave Up a Fortune for a Husband. By the provisions of her late husband's will, Mrs. Lillian T. Edgerton of Plantersville, Ohio, inherited an estate valued at $80,000 and received $10,000 in life insurance, which she was to retain so long as she remained single. If she remarried, the property, with the possible exception of some $10,000, was to go to their children. All this wealth Mrs. Edgerton has sacrificed for love of a farm hand named Frank Raredon, who has been in her employ, and this week they were married.

SENATOR DAVIS DEAD.

MINNESOTA STATESMAN AT LAST SUCCUMBS.

Was Chairman of Senate Foreign Relations Committee and a Member of the Paris Peace Commission—The Story of His Career.

After an illness, beginning two months ago in an apparently trivial abrasion of one of his feet, developing later into blood poisoning and still later into nephritis, Cushman Kellogg Davis, chairman of the committee on foreign relations in the Senate, died Tuesday evening at his home in St. Paul, Minn. He had suffered greatly during his sickness and gradually sank away, being unconscious for several hours before death.

C. K. DAVIS.

and so far as could be known, suffering no pain. The last conscious utterance of the Senator was the expression of a wish to live, not for the sake of life itself, but because he believed his country needed him.

While it had been certain for more than a week that death was only a matter of days or hours, still the announcement caused a painful shock to the friends and admirers of the statesman. To none was the stern realization more painful than the Senator's devoted wife, who had hoped against hope through all his illness.

The Senator, in his moments of lucidity, expressed a strong determination to recover, and within a week told United States District Attorney Evans, who had been admitted to see him, that he was positive he would soon be well. In his delirium he raved of his congressional work. He would declare in vigorous phrases fragments of the nation's foreign policy. There was of course no coherence—a sentence about the Philippines would be followed by a comment upon the Monroe doctrine, or a suggestion of an impending war with Spain. But always, in his diseased mind, his patriotic and official duties were with him.

Child Story of His Life.

Cushman Kellogg Davis was born at Henderson, Jefferson County, N. Y., June 16, 1838. When he was a child his parents moved to Waukesha, Wis., where he lived until 1865. In June, 1857, he graduated from Ann Arbor University, and a year later commenced the practice of law in Waukesha. When the Civil War broke out he enlisted as a second lieutenant and served until 1864, when he retired owing to illness.

He moved in 1865 to St. Paul, where as a lawyer he gained such notice that in 1867 he was elected to the Minnesota Legislature. He was appointed United States district attorney in 1868, and served five years. In 1874 he was elected Governor of Minnesota on the Republican ticket.

He refused a second term, owing to his ambition to become United States Senator. He was beaten for that honor in 1875, and again in 1881. On Jan. 18, 1887, however, his ambition was realized, he being elected to fill the unexpired term of Senator J. S. R. McMillan. He was re-elected and had been one of the great men of the United States ever since.

Senator Davis was one of the earliest advocates for the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands, and it was under his leadership that the annexation was consummated. When President McKinley submitted his report on the destruction of the Maine Senator Davis, as chairman of the foreign relations committee, prepared and submitted the resolutions which were practically, if not formally, a declaration of war against Spain.

Next to ex-Secretary of State Day, Senator Davis was the most important member of the Paris Peace Commission.

Death Leaves Vacancy.

President McKinley was shocked to hear of the end, although it had been hourly expected. The Minnesota Senator was one of those most relied upon for advice in the days preceding the declaration of war with Spain, and his advice had at all times been eagerly sought in all foreign affairs.

The death of Senator Davis leaves the chairmanship of the committee on foreign relations vacant and there will be much interest developed in the selection of a successor. A general rearrangement of committee assignments may result. The direction of the foreign relations committee is of the greatest importance to the administration at this time, owing to the pending Hay-Pauncefote treaty and the various complications in the international field.

The ranking member of the foreign relations committee is Senator Frye of Maine, but as Senator Frye is president pro tem. of the Senate and chairman of the commerce committee, it is not regarded that his selection as chairman of foreign relations is within the range of probabilities.

Deacon Slept—Pastor Resigned.

Rev. W. C. Jones, pastor of the First Congregational Church in Sharon, Pa., has resigned, giving as the reason that some members of his church sleep during the services. He charges one of the deacons with sleeping fifteen out of sixteen Sundays. Last Sunday, Rev. Mr. Jones detected a deacon napping while he was preaching. The pastor at once cut his sermon short and dismissed the congregation. He then handed in his resignation.

COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL

New York—No new features have been presented by the business situation this week. Authorities generally agree that 1901 is likely to be one of the most active years in the history of the country. In the stock market activity and strength again have been the rule. Such reactions as have occurred have been inconsequential and the losses in prices quickly recovered. Except in the case of a few specialties, there have been no further large advances, but the whole list has continued to show a strong tone under the influence of a steady investment demand for the standard dividend-paying stocks. Money rates still favor the borrower rather than the lender.

Chicago—On the Board of Trade the feature of the week was the progress and finally the successful termination of the November deal in corn. Such operations always cause serious disturbance in the branch of trade in which they are attempted and seldom result favorably to the managers. The price of November corn the week before at the close was 45 cents, 51 cents Wednesday, and Friday afternoon had dropped to 35½ cents. Shipping of corn East was paralyzed at a most critical part of the season of lake navigation by the unhealthy and altogether artificial advance in the price of the cereal for immediate delivery, without any compensating advantage to anyone but the young speculator who took the enormous risk entailed by an attempt to corner the market. Wheat was heavy and its price suffered a further decline, although there were not wanting some indications of a turn in the course of the features of the situation that have been the cause of the protracted weakness of the market. The general drift of advices from Argentina leads to the conclusion that all is not well with the crop of wheat that is within a few weeks of its maturity in that country; while deliveries from farmers at home have been reduced to a point not greatly in excess of domestic consumption. Decreases in the visible supply will soon be of weekly occurrence, and if the Argentine exportable surplus does not exceed the 40,000,000 bushels claimed for it by conservative people in the grain trade here, Europe will be thrown back upon this country for a larger proportion of its supplies than it has quite recently been willing to believe possible. Provisions have been affected on the one hand by the very small stocks of manufactured products and on the other by the heavy receipts of hogs, but for the present the latter have been the ruling consideration, as evidenced by a slight decline in prices of pork, lard and ribs.

RETIRING SENATORS.

There Are Thirteen Whose Terms Expire in March.

At the end of this session of Congress a considerable number of men who have achieved more or less distinction in the Senate will retire. Some Republicans will be succeeded by Democrats, some Democrats by Republicans, and some of both parties by men of their own political faith. The Senators who will leave Washington, retiring to private life, are Baker of Kansas, Butler of North Carolina, Caffery of Louisiana, Carter of Montana, Chilton of Texas, Kenney of Delaware, Lindsay of Kentucky, Pettigrew of South Dakota, Shoup of Idaho, Sullivan of Mississippi, Thurston of Nebraska, Turley of Tennessee and Wolcott of Colorado. There are several others who will be opposed for re-election at the forthcoming legislative sessions who may also be obliged to remove their senatorial togas, but whose re-election is probable. These are Chandler of New Hampshire, Cullom of Illinois and Nelson of Minnesota. Bacon of Georgia, Berry of Arkansas, Elkins of West Virginia, Frye of Maine, Hoar of Massachusetts, Dolliver of Iowa, McBride of Oregon, McMillan of Michigan, Martin of Virginia, Morgan of Alabama, Sewell of New Jersey, Tillman of South Carolina, Warren of Wyoming and Wetmore of Rhode Island either have been or are sure to be re-elected.

Of the retiring members Wolcott of Colorado and Thurston of Nebraska are easily the most distinguished. They have been counted among the most brilliant and eloquent members of the upper house and their retirement is a loss to the Republicans. Butler of North Carolina is the youngest member of the Senate. He was a Populist leader and has made a name for himself at Washington as a debater. Douglass Caffery, the Louisiana sugar planter, was one of Grover Cleveland's most ardent supporters. Shoup of Idaho is a notable figure from the fact that, although he has served two terms, he has done nothing that has made his name familiar to any except the most critical students of congressional life. He is a Republican, was a stock raiser and mine owner, and helped establish Idaho in statehood.

DEATH IN EXPLOSION.

NORTHWESTERN POWER HOUSE IN CHICAGO WRECKED.

Five Persons Are Killed and Twenty More Injured—Flying Boiler Strikes Coach of an Outgoing Train—Darkness Covers the Scene.

With a mighty rush and roar a boiler in the power house of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway at Kinzie and Kingsbury streets, Chicago, exploded at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon, killing five people and injuring a score or more. All traffic at the local terminal of the road was suspended for two hours as a result of the accident.

The 150-horse power metal structure which in some unknown manner caused the loss of life and consequent damage was hurled high into the air and carried a distance of nearly 100 feet. It struck the rear portion of a parlor car attached to an outgoing passenger train, destroying the coach and injuring five of the occupants, one probably fatally.

The explosion was so severe that it shook the surrounding buildings, the concussion breaking many windows. The power house is a complete wreck. Only portions of the east and south walls are standing. Flying debris, bricks, stone and timbers with pieces of structural iron work were thrown several hundred feet.

One of the four boilers of the battery—the one thrown upon the railroad tracks—exploded in what is known as a "head-end" explosion. In this manner the force was distributed to the north and south. The north portion of the building was thus destroyed while the boiler tore its way through the south face and up into the air.

With the demolition of the north and south walls the roof fell, carrying the intervening floors with it. The fire remaining under the other three boilers ignited the mass of matter cast about it and this added new dangers to the horror. The flames were eagerly combated by the firemen, however, and very soon subdued, although they continued to smolder and break forth afresh for several hours afterward.

Three of the men killed were section hands working on the tracks nearly 100 feet from the power house. Up into the air the big boiler, weighing several thousand pounds, was thrown. The group of section men scattered, but three were caught by a fence lining the railroad right of way, and their lives were crushed out in an instant. Tony Krause, fireman, was caught in the building and frightfully scalded and injured. He was hurried away for medical treatment, but died a few hours after the accident.

Henry Schuur, a young man, 18 years of age, was employed in the auditor's department of the railway company. He was just of the railway on his way to catch an out-bound train for his home. He passed the fated power house just as the explosion occurred. The full force of it seemed to envelope him. Eye witnesses said the unfortunate youth was tossed into the air twenty or thirty feet.

To all intents safely and securely enclosed in the pretty parlor car of the passenger train which was just leaving the yards, were a group of passengers northward bound. Mr. and Mrs. Biskel of Sheboygan were returning to their home after a bridal tour. Mr. and Mrs. August C. Beck of Milwaukee and A. Levinson of Chicago were also among the passengers. They heard the noise and were looking out of the car windows when the coach was struck by a cloud of brick and debris. Then came the crash when the boiler descended and struck the car. All these people were injured.

The damage to the building and the parlor car is placed at $45,000. The insurance carried by the railroad company will cover about four-fifths of the loss. The great loss to the company will be through the temporary loss of the power house in the operation of the terminal lines of the road from Chicago avenue to the central passenger station.

Local Notes Furnished by the Herald's Special Reporter.

Thanksgiving, the time of universal rejoicing, has come and gone once more. For a week the music of feminine voices echoed and re-echoed through the barracks, and the presence of so many visitors furnished an incentive for efforts on the part of the corps. Today the girls and other friends have returned to their homes, and the happy Thanksgiving time is merely a pleasant memory.

Thursday morning at 9:30 the exercises were opened by the beautiful and impressive dress parade, followed by a cavalry exhibition in the riding hall. The latter building was packed with an assembly of cadets and visitors, the band furnishing most excellent music for the occasion. The riding, as usual, was as good as that seen in the larger circuses, nearly every member of the troop being a star. The Graeco-Roman race between Cadets Langenberg and Masters deserves special mention. As English High and Manual Training School failed to arrive for Thanksgiving football game, the first team lined up against a pick-up team, and after a hard fought battle the former won by a score of 12 to 0. Capt. Fleet and Montgomery, Cadden and W. V. Bigwood, of Lore Haute, one of our last year's stars who was here on a visit, played the best game for the pick-ups. The latter team showed wonderful defensive work by holding the first team for downs in the first half within a yard of their goal line, Morse finally succeeding in making a touchdown, Jackson kicking goal. Not until almost the last minute of the second half was another score made, when Bigwood tried to punt on the 15-yard line, but the ball hit the bunch and bounced over the goal line, Campbell falling on the leather for a touchdown. Jackson made the score 12 to 0 by kicking goal, after which time was called. Altogether it was a very good game. Of course nearly everybody wanted to see the first team win, but they had to work so hard for their victory that it made it very interesting.

In the evening occurred the Thanksgiving hop, held in the brilliantly lighted and beautifully decorated gymnasium. It was opened with a football figure, executed by the eleven members of the team with their partners. Two goal posts had been erected in one end of the room, and after all had repaired behind a screen formed by a flag in the northeast corner of the room, Cadet Akin, and his partner rushed out, the former having a regulation football tucked neatly under his arm, and two-stepping across the room, made a touchdown. He then threw it back between the goal posts, the couple securing the ball following his example until each couple in turn had made a touchdown. The men then stepped two paces to the front, and executing "by the right flank," marched to the other end of the room leaving the young ladies in their places. They then lined up and went through one signal, the orchestra playing the sweet strains of "Auld Lang Syne." Returning to their places, the couples in line, and marched off, the following was at right and boys at the hall and promenading the other on the center. Each boy then took up through to his respective position on the floor. All marched down in front of the teachers' box and gave the Culver yell. "rah! rah! C. M. A. rah! rah! rah! rah! rah! rah! who rah! Culver! Culver! rah! rah! rah!" had died away, each man waltzed with his partner, and the program was issued, consisting of miniature footballs inscribed with the C. M. A. monogram. Sixteen numbers and six extras, among the latter being the cavalry, football and razzle dazzle extras, were danced through by the enthusiastic participants and not until about 3 a. m. did the sweet strains of "Home, Sweet Home" announce the close of the ball.

Friday morning occurred battalion inspection and drill. A feature of the drill was the fine line in the battalion front, and other maneuvers eliciting abundant applause from the visitors. After drill the third team played a pick-up game, the former winning by a score of 16 to 0.

The exercises closed Friday evening with grand music in entertainment in the gymnasium. "Kant Morouze" and "Jax Ond." All the tricks were well executed and a large audience was well pleased with the clever work of the performers. The orchestra furnished excellent music and one of the features of the evening's entertainment was "I've Got Chicken on the Brain," sung by Cadet Parsons. His voice could well be envied by one of the stars and the audience showed their hearty appreciation of his effort by enthusiastically encoring him twice, to one which he responded by singing, "Asleep in the Deep." Altogether the exercises were very entertaining, and every visitor was well pleased with the good showing made by the corps. Long will the memory of Thanksgiving time last in the hearts of all.

Mrs. Edwin Carlo, of St. Paris, Ohio, spent Thanksgiving with her daughter, Mrs. Capt. Greiner.

Cadets Beyer, Butz, Parry, Ray S., Richardson and Florsheim are still on leave.

Rev. E. M. Stephenson, of Chicago, preached an excellent sermon to the cadets Sunday morning on the subject, "How to Art Thou."

Rev. J. B. Jackson, pastor of the Hyde Park Baptist church of Chicago, will preach to the cadets next Sunday morning.

L. L. Carlo, a promising young attorney of Chicago, was here during Thanksgiving visiting his sister, Mrs. Capt. Greiner.

John Walter, of Chicago, representing G. Spaulding & Bros., was here last Thursday on business.

S. N. Bickerstaff, the academy tailor, was here last Friday.

F. J. Hudson, General Superintendent of the Illinois Central R. R., and C. C. Raff, Superintendent of the "Big 4" R. R., were here in their special cars during Thanksgiving, accompanied by their families and a number of young ladies.

News From England.

Word has been received from John Matthews and family that they had sailed from New York November 10, 1900, at 8 a. m. on the steamer Etruria for Liverpool, England. A statement taken from the ship's log, showed the following daily distances sailed:

First day, 438 miles; second day, 422; third day, 427; fourth day, 431; fifth day, 437; sixth day, 414.

The voyage was fine, the sea fairly calm, and many vessels sailing in different directions were passed. There was much rejoicing when on Friday night the sixth day out, the first light on land was seen. The landing at Liverpool was made at 4 p. m., Saturday and they were subjected to the rigors of the Custom House inspectors, and arrived at their destination at 10 p. m. Saturday the 17th. They are now enjoying the visit with relatives and friends, from whom they have been separated for 17 years. The cost of the trip to each one was as follows: Railroad fare from Plymouth to New York, $18. Steamer fare including board and sleeping rooms, $71.25, making a total cost from Plymouth to Liverpool and return of $107.25. Their present address, in care of George Matthe, No. 6 Cardwell Terrace, Armley near Leeds, Yorkshire, England. They will be pleased to hear from their many friends. They will return about May 1, 1901.

Piper-Mahler Nuptials.

On Wednesday, Nov. 28, at 4 p. m., a pretty wedding was consummated at the home of Mr. Gideon Mahler, DeLong, between Mr. Wm. Piper and Sara Mahler. The groom wore the conventional black and the bride was attired in a dove suit. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. N. Smith, the bride's pastor. After the ceremony the guests, forty in number, were ushered to the dining room for refreshments. The bridal pair received many beautiful and useful presents. They will take up their residence west of Monterey on a farm owned by the groom.

Burglars at Burr Oak.

Last Saturday night parties effected an entrance into the depot at Burr Oak, ostensibly for the purpose of extracting the loose change which perchance might have been left in the till by the agent, but fortunately Mr. Maxey had taken the change with him. Not finding any money the thieves went through a trunk belonging to Ephraim Osborn, who had just returned from Michigan, and relieved it of about $40 worth of clothing etc. They also stole a laundry package containing two shirts belonging to Mr. Maxey, the station agent. A detective from Ft. Wayne, came to said village and endeavored to trace the thieves but thus far without success. It is thought to be the work of tramps.

No one can reasonably hope for good health unless his bowels move once each day. When this is not attended to, disorders of the stomach arise, biliousness, headache, dyspepsia and piles soon follow. THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

President McKinley's message was read at the opening session of Congress shortly after noon Monday. The annual message to the Senate and House of Representatives is a lengthy and carefully prepared document in which the various questions of greatest interest are clearly and ably discussed and appropriate recommendations made as to needed legislation. It is introduced with some felicitations and congratulatory remarks as to the growing strength and increasing power for good of republican institutions and the larger freedom and more extended citizenship they now confer. This topic naturally is extended to include a brief statement of the great growth the country has made in population the past decade as shown by the census and this congratulatory review is closed by acknowledgment of divine care and guidance of the nation.

The Chinese Troubles.

By far the most carefully elaborated part of the message deals with the Chinese problem, which is also given the preference by priority of discussion. The entire situation is reviewed from the beginning of the Boxer troubles to their termination last summer in the siege of the legations in Peking. The President's review of the early outbreaks and his entire account are written in a clear, dispassionate, judicial manner, which makes it a history of the events to date. In this connection the President recites the diplomatic success of this country in securing the assent of the powers to its circular proposals of 1899, which were aimed not only to safeguard this country's trade interests, but also to quiet Chinese apprehensions, making known the friendly intentions of the powers as respects the integrity of the Chinese empire.

Unfortunately before this was fully accomplished the Boxer insurrection became formidable, resulting in the siege of the legations and subsequent events, which are clearly related. The siege and relief of the legations, the President says, have "passed into undying history." As to the part American soldiers took in that relief he pays a deserved tribute to their valor and heroism. The entire loss of the defenders during the siege was sixty-five killed, 135 wounded and seven by disease, the latter being all children. The American troops employed in China amounted to some 5,000, at first under the command of the late Col. Tiscum and now under that of Gen. Chaffee. The President, while apparently convinced that the attacks upon the legations were made by imperial troops, does justice to the efforts of the southern viceroys and their energy and co-operation in rescuing hundreds of foreigners from peril.

America's attitude has been unvaried and was first broadly defined by a circular to the powers denouncing being "to seek a solution which may bring about permanent safety and peace to China, preserve Chinese territorial and administrative entity, protect all rights guaranteed to friendly powers by treaty and international law and safeguard for the world the principle of equal and impartial trade with all parts of the Chinese empire." Of course, in addition to this broad and generous view of the rights and interests of all nations, there has since been added the question of reparation for injuries received the past summer and the indemnity for the expenses necessarily incurred in connection with the relief of the legations. On this point the President says: "We forego no jot of our undoubted right to exact exemplary and deterrent punishment of the responsible authors of the criminal acts whereby we and other nations have suffered grievous injury."

While the hope is expressed that a complete settlement of all the questions involved may be reached, it is admitted that the question of indemnity is one of "grave concern," as, measured in money alone, a sufficient recompense may be beyond the power of China to pay. The President is disposed to think, however, that due compensation may be made by increased guaranties for foreign rights and immunities and "by the opening of China to the equal commerce of all the world."

Following the China question and situation there are brief statements in respect to the relations of the United States to other countries of the world, which, on the whole, are satisfactory. There seems to be some friction over the treatment of Americans in Austria in regard to military service, but it is stated representations have been made whenever the course adopted has appeared unduly onerous.

Belgium's movement to secure agreement respecting the liquor traffic in Africa is referred to and the President adds: "I would gladly see its extension by international agreement to the restriction of the liquor traffic with all uncivilized peoples, especially in the western Pacific."

Measures looking to the protection of American patents abroad and of European patents in America will be discussed at a conference at Brussels on the 11th inst., to which conference this country has sent delegates. Important postal agreements have been entered into with several South American countries. Our trade relations with Brazil are not wholly satisfactory, but an improvement is expected. In regard to most of the other South American states there are but slight, if any, difficulties, and these seem to be in a fair way of adjustment.

Considerable space is given to the pleasant relations between France and America, as shown by the unveiling of the Lafayette statue the past summer and especially by America's participation in the Paris exposition, which was very gratifying to both countries. The United States had the largest foreign display and our exhibits were shown in 101 out of 121 classes, ranking in total number next after France, and receiving 2,476 awards in all, the greatest number given to any exhibiting nation.

Our relations with Germany the past year were marked by the amicable settlement of the Samoan dispute and also by the completion of the remaining link in the new lines of direct telegraphic communication with Germany. On the other hand, the President refers to our "well-nigh extinguished German trade in meat products," and says there is still great uncertainty as to whether this trade can be revived under the present imperial meat inspection laws.

Friendly with Britain.

With Great Britain our relations remain on most friendly footing, the only dispute of importance the past year being that in regard to neutral rights in shipping to Portuguese South Africa, in consequence of the Boer war. England by agreeing to pay for said consignments settled the difficulty, though leaving the broader question of neutral rights as yet unsettled.

As to the joint survey at Lynn canal of the temporary boundary between Alaska and Canada the President regards it as merely "an unsatisfactory makeshift, which should not be suffered to delay the speedy and complete establishment of the former line to which we are entitled under the Russo-American treaty for the cession of Alaska."

As to Italy, that country's demands in regard to the lynching of five Italians in Tallalaha are pronounced just and Congress is asked for appropriate legislation in this connection.

There is a protest against lynching, the President repeating the language of his inaugural address upon this subject and inviting the attention of his countrymen to "this reproach upon our civilization."

Japan's influence in the East is dwelt upon at length and most favorably, and the ways in which she has aided and co-operated with the western powers are set forth in full, the President making his remarks upon this subject preliminary to comment of discriminating enforcement of a bubonic quarantine last summer against the Pacific coast as against the

The Hague peace convention and the appointment of America's members of the council of administration are the subject of an interesting paragraph, as is also the statement of the situation as respects the proposed Nicaragua canal and the convention between this country and Great Britain as to the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, to which the President calls the early attention of Congress.

Satisfactory progress has been made toward concluding a new treaty with Spain and the circumstances leading to the additional purchase of a few small islands not included in the Paris treaty are narrated at length.

In respect to Turkey the message says: "Our claims upon the government of the sultan for reparation for injuries suffered by American citizens in Armenia and elsewhere give promise of early and satisfactory settlement."

The coming exposition at Buffalo as well as the Pan-American congress to be held in the City of Mexico are given prominent treatment.

The President makes statements in the message as to the great expansion of our foreign trade, the gratifying surplus of revenues and the increase in our manufactures; but these are matters of figures to be read and digested in the message itself.

The Philippines and Cuba.

As to the Philippines there is but little of interest that the President has to say beyond that already given in his instructions to the civil commission, which are included in full in the message.

An elaborate statement is made in respect to the army and navy and the reasons for the increase required in the former are given.

In Cuba, also, matters are, he says, satisfactory. The constitutional convention is in session and further recommendations will be made to Congress at the close of the deliberations of the convention and the inauguration of the new government on the island.

The other matters treated of—public lands and forests, increase in pensions, work of the twelfth census, etc.—are mere administrative recommendations and the message closes with mention of "John Marshall day" and a recommendation for conservatism and economy in the management of public affairs.

The Linen Duster.

Will the vogue of the automobile result in the restoration of the old-fashioned linen duster? Time was when every traveler considered it necessary to own one of them. The automobile kicks up a lot of dust when the streets are dry, and some of the drivers of these machines have taken to the duster as a means of protecting their clothing.—New York Times.

CONGRESS IS AT WORK

HEARS PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE ON MONDAY.

Very Busy Session Looked For on Account of Many Important Legislative Measures to Be Acted Upon Before March 4 Next.

Washington correspondence:

The second session of the Forty-sixth Congress convened Monday at noon. The President's annual message was read, and the Senate and House then adjourned out of respect for the memory of Senator Davis of Minnesota. The real work of the session began Tuesday. Congress must adjourn March 4, but an enormous amount of legislation will be accomplished. Nearly every important measure that has been selected for passage at this session, including the army reorganization, steamship subsidy, Nicaragua canal, Pacific cable, rivers and harbors, public buildings and amendments of the war tax bills, has been considered in committee. The leaders do not regard further hearings necessary or desirable, and will urge that the two houses proceed to act without delay.

President McKinley's annual message to Congress was presented immediately upon the assembling of Congress at noon. It had been planned to withhold the message until Tuesday, so that both houses might adjourn immediately after assembling on Monday as a mark of respect for the late Senators Davis and Gear, but this plan was altered after a conference between the President and Senator Frye. The message was presented in the usual manner and received by Senator Frye, as president pro tem. of the Senate, and Speaker Henderson. It was read in both houses. It was deemed best not to violate the old tradition of Congress regarding the presidential message and its presentation on the opening day of the session.

No business was transacted beyond the reading of the President's message owing to the death of Representatives Daly of New Jersey and Huffecker of Delaware, and Senators Davis and Gear, which occurred during the recess.

The leaders of the House are preparing to press with great vigor the important business of the session. Already considerable preliminary committee work has been done on the important measures, and the House found work out for it as soon as it assembled.

In the Senate after the reading of the President's message the formal announcement of the death during the recess of Senators Davis and Gear brought the sitting to a close. Senator Allison made the announcement in the case of his late colleague, Senator Gear. These announcements were preceded by the ceremony of swearing in the new members, who this year are Mr. Dooliver, who has been appointed to succeed Senator Gear, and Mr. Dillingham, who takes the place formerly occupied by Senator Ross of Vermont, and the appointment of the usual committees to wait upon the President and the House of Representatives.

The opening of this session of Congress, which will end with the first term of Mr. McKinley, has much about it to suggest the actual beginning of the second term without waiting for the inauguration on March 4. The first President directly to succeed himself since Grant in 1872, Mr. McKinley and his party associates intend to take the verdict at the polls last November as an endorsement and a mandate, and they are preparing to obey the "mandate" at home and abroad. McKinley's second term to all intents and purposes has begun.

The expenses of the government, which were $369,754,159 in 1897, the last year before the war, had leaped to $487,713,791 in 1900.

Total revenues, which in 1897 were $347,721,705, have sprung under increased customs receipts and a war tax still in force to $567,240,851.

The army in 1897, which consisted of 25,000 men, has grown to 103,000. In this the expenses have swollen from $23,275,402 to $130,000,000, the amount of the estimate for next year. The navy has more than doubled in size; its cost has advanced from $30,500,000 to $87,000,000.

These are only a few of the things to excite remark as Congress reassembles. The plans that are going forward further to qualify the United States for holding the place it has taken among the great world powers challenge the imagination. The whole membership of Congress from Senator Frye and Senator Hanna down to the youngest members of the Senate and all the Representatives from Mr. Payne of New York down to short-term members are excited over a ship-subsidy bill.

The great project of cutting a canal through the Central American isthmus has received a powerful impetus by expansion. The latest estimates of the Nicaragua canal are that it will cost $175,000,000.

Congress is expected to take the step, in passing the Spooner bill, that will commit the United States to the government of the Philippines by something other than the war power under which the President is now acting, and the government must meet the proposition of fortifying our colonial outposts in the Philippines, in the Ladrones, at Guam, in Hawaii and in Porto Rico.

"It Seems as Though my Back Would Break."

Is it not true? Women suffer, feel the very life crushed out of them, grow old before their time. Each morning wake up determined to do so much before the day ends, and yet—

Before the morning is very old the dreadful BACKACHE attacks them, the brave spirit sinks back in affright; no matter how hard they struggle, the "clutch" is upon them and they fall upon the couch crying:

"Why should I suffer so? What can I do?"

The answer is ready, your cry has been heard, and a woman is able to restore you to health and happiness.

Backache is only a symptom of more fatal trouble—heed its warning in time.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will stop your torture and restore your courage. Your pains come from unnatural menstruation or some derangement of the womb. Let those who are suffering read Mrs. Morton's letter and be guided by her experience.

AN OPEN LETTER TO WOMEN.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been so delighted with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I thought I would write and thank you. My system was entirely run down. I suffered with terrible backache in the small of my back and could hardly stand upright; was more tired in the morning than on retiring at night. I had no appetite. Since taking your Compound I have gained fifteen pounds, and am gaining every week. My appetite has improved, have no backache, and I look better than I ever looked before. I shall recommend it to all my friends, as it certainly is a wonderful medicine."—Mrs. E. F. MORTON, 826 York St., Cincinnati, O.

When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health more than a million women, you cannot well say, without trying it, "I do not believe it will help me." If you are ill, don't hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice—it is free.

$5000 REWARD Owing to the fact that some skeptical people have from time to time questioned the genuineness of the testimonial letters we are constantly publishing, we have deposited with the National City Bank, of Lynn, Mass., $5,000, which will be paid to any person who can show that the above testimonial is not genuine, or was published before obtaining the writer's special permission.—LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO.

Much Impressed. "I suppose you read my poem?" she said. "I read the first line," answered Miss Cayenne. "It set me thinking so deeply I couldn't go on. I know it by heart—The sun was setting in the west." "But that isn't the best thing in the poem." "Perhaps not, but it is absorbingly mysterious. I have been anxious to meet you and inquire whether you ever knew of a case where the sun set in the north, east or south."—Washington Star.

Gathering of Teachers in Culver.
The Marshall County Teachers' Association convened in the Methodist church at Culver, Ind., Nov. 30, 1900. The association was called to order by the President, I. S. Hahn, and the morning session opened with the song "America", by the audience. The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Taylor.

On account of the absence of the secretary, Miss Carrie Boss, a new secretary was elected, Miss Gertrude Woodbury. The regular work of the association began with Miss Edith Scheureman on "How Far Can the Schools be Made Self-Governing?" The following points were discussed: The importance and difficulty of school government, the nature and purpose of the school, education and its aims; the child must be shown the effect of his conduct upon himself; the moral nature and will must be cultivated so the child may form righteous judgments and act accordingly.

Miss Rose Miller, who was to follow Miss Scheureman, was absent and the subject was opened for discussion by the teachers. Some thought that the question of self-government was being carried to an extreme, that young America needed to be taught obedience. They must obey because it is right to do so. The discussion closed and an opportunity was given the teachers to register. The association adjourned to meet at 1:15.

At the beginning of the afternoon session Earnest Zechiel favored the audience with an instrumental solo and the quartette sang a song. The subject, "Decoration as a Means of Discipline," was taken up by Miss Alice Norris and discussed by Misses Mabel Logan and Gertrude Peterson. The ideas emphasized were, that the influence of art upon the child's conduct was as great as any other environment, a pupil's conduct is affected unconsciously by entering a rude, barely furnished schoolroom daily; by being surrounded by ideals in art the child is gradually raised to higher ideals in conduct. The association was then given a few minutes for discussion of the subject. A short intermission was given after which the two Misses Wisemans and Mr. Otto Stahl furnished the association with some good music.

Elementary Science was presented by Mylo Hale and discussed by Miss Anna Kannegar. The subject was discussed from a nature study point of view. Knowledge must be experienced to be effective. Knowledge of nature makes life mean more. Nature study may be used in connection with literature. We do not need books to teach nature. It is all around us.

After the second intermission the German class of the Culver High School sang a German song. Mr. Parker, who was to take up the last half hour's work, was not present and the subject, "The Rise of the Common Man" was discussed by Mr. Greiner and Mr. Eiver. On account of the lateness of the hour, discussion by the teachers was omitted and the association adjourned to meet at an early hour Saturday morning.

The evening session met on 7:30 Friday evening and a half-hour musical program was given. The lecture by Rev. R. W. Halstead on "Fun on the Farm" was delivered to an appreciative audience.

The association was called to order Saturday morning by the president and the Misses Wiseman sang a duet. After a Scripture lesson and prayer by Rev. Smith, the business of the association was transacted. The place of meeting was decided first, Lapaz, Bourbon and Argos were spoken of as places for the next meeting. The name of Lapaz was withdrawn and by a standing vote Argos was chosen. It was thought best to elect as president the superintendent of the schools of the place where the association was to be held. Prof. Hoskinson was elected president, Harry Curtis vice president, L. D. Vanactor treasurer, and Miss Rose Miller secretary.

Prof. Hoskinson took up the subject of "Teaching Pupils to Help Themselves." The paper advanced the laboratory method as a good one for this purpose. By this method pupils are given material and are expected to work out the lesson themselves. In the discussion by Mr. Harrington he said there were too many passive teachers. The pupils should be taught to think, not cram facts. They should be given work and left as far as possible to develop their own powers. After discussion by the association a few minutes' intermission were given. Before taking up the next subject on the program Mrs. Ella Davis sang a solo and two children of the third and five grades entertained the audience with a dialogue.

Miss Mae Romig gave a splendid talk on "Teacher's Reading Circle" work as embracing all literature beginning with the authors who first contributed to what we call literature up to the authors of the present day whose writings are classed as literature.

Katurah Rhoades, who was on discussion of the paper, was absent and Delph McKesson took up the work. Mr. McKesson gave a list of the works and their subject matter which had been placed in the teachers' reading circle. At the close of the discussion an invitation was given to those teachers who remained for the afternoon to visit the Culver Military Academy.

Mr. Hahn thanked those teachers who had responded to their work on the program and hoped the teachers would give their hearty support to the incoming president as much of the success of the association depended upon the response the teachers gave to the work assigned them. The association then adjourned "sine die."

GERTRUDE WOODBURY, Sec'y.
I. S. HAHN, Pres.

NOTES ON THE ASSOCIATION.
One hundred and fifty teachers enrolled as against 131 last year, notwithstanding Bourbon teachers were quarantined.

The association was pronounced one of the best, and by many, the best ever held. Culver's musical talent surprised many. The music was much appreciated.

Teachers that visited the Culver school rooms seemed well pleased with the work as shown.

It was impossible for the local committee to send teachers to all the homes that had agreed to take them owing to the fact that many drove in the country Friday night, many had gotten places for themselves, and some did not go where they were assigned.

A vote of thanks was extended the citizens of Culver for the way in which they entertained the teachers, special mention being made of the large attendance at the sessions, especially at the lecture.

The visit to the Military Academy Saturday afternoon was a feature highly appreciated by the teachers. About seventy visited it, and were in time to hear two recitation periods and witness the drill and dress parade which followed. They expressed themselves as highly pleased with the work of the school and also the courteous treatment received by the management of the school.

The lecture was composed of humorous instances in which were woven some of the grandest and most ennobling sentiments of life.

Stories in the Youth's Companion.
In the 52 issues of the year The Youth's Companion publishes more than 200 stories, yet so carefully are they selected that they prove inexhaustible in variety; unending in the power to delight. The stories already in hand for The Companion's 1901 volume show that this feature of the paper will be as strong as ever.

Among the groups of stories will be one of "Old Settler's Day Tales"—stories actually told at some of the gatherings of pioneers in the West. There will be four stirring "Tales of Our Inland Seas," picturing the adventures of the sailors on the Great Lakes; and there will also be four "True Tales from the Zoo," told by famous keepers and trainers of wild beasts. And this is only a beginning. We shall be glad to send Illustrated Announcement of the volume for 1901 with sample copies of the paper free to any address.

All new subscribers will receive The Companion for the remaining weeks of 1900 free from the time of subscription, and then for a full year, 52 weeks, to January 1, 1902; also The Companion's new Calendar for 1901, suitable as an ornament for the prettiest room in the house.

LIEUTENANT PETERSON

Says Peruna Is the Finest Tonic and Invigorator He Ever Used.

Lieutenant Charles Peterson, Hook and Ladder Co. No. 21, writes the following letter to The Peruna Medicine Co., from 827 Belmont avenue, Chicago, Ill.:

"Last year I had a severe attack of a gripe which left me very weak, so that I was unable to perform my duties. Several of my friends advised me to build up on Peruna, and I found it by far the finest tonic and invigorator I had ever used. In two weeks I was strong and well, and if ever I am exposed to unusual hardship incident with my duties at fires, I take a dose or two of Peruna and find that it keeps me in good health.

Charles Peterson."

Lieut. Chas. Peterson.

The above is only one of fifty thousand letters we have on file attesting the merits of Peruna.

There are a great multitude of people in all parts of the land who have entirely lost their health as a result of a gripe; who have recovered from an attack, but find themselves with weakened nerves, deranged digestion, and with but very little of their former powers.

There is no disease known to man that leaves the system in such an outrageous and exasperating condition as the gripe.

For this class of sufferers, Peruna is a specific. Peruna should be taken according to directions and in a few weeks the sufferer will be entirely restored to his accustomed health.

DIE IN MOLTEN GLASS.

DISASTER CAUSES THE DEATH OF THIRTEEN BOYS.

Over One Hundred Persons Injured and Many of Them Fatally—Roof of Factory Overlooking Football Game Collapses—Scene of Terrible Suffering.

The collapse of the roof of a glass factory in San Francisco from which a large number of people were watching a football game between Leland Stanford and the University of California, caused the death of thirteen people and serious injuries to nearly 100 others, several of whom are fatally injured and many others will be maimed for life. Those who were injured fell into the furnaces and seething glasspots below and terrible torture was suffered in many instances.

About twenty minutes after the game had commenced, and without any warning, a corner of the roof collapsed, carrying with it in its fall all those who had been standing thereupon. Luckily the whole roof did not give way or the disaster would have been even more fearful. As it was at least 200 feet into the interior of the works, and a few more in the rush that ensued in the other portion of the place to get down were hurled to the ground.

The portion of the roof which collapsed was the covering over the ventilator bars at the apex of the building and was not constructed to sustain any heavy weight. The horizontal timbers in the center, corresponding to the ridge pole of an ordinary structure, broke near the center, and the light framework underneath, with its covering of corrugated iron, turned inward, forming a chute through which the men and boys were precipitated into the furnaces beneath.

Most of those killed or injured were boys between 9 and 16 years of age. Nearly all of the victims had their skulls fractured or limbs broken and sustained serious internal injuries.

The factory has been shut down for some months, and for the first time the fires in the furnaces had been relighted and in all the vats glass in its various forms was being melted and refined. Into these seething pots of molten matter the victims of the accident were hurled, some being bodily cast into the fires, others falling into vats where the matter was glowing, and still others being incinerated by falling into those huge pots where the glass, seething and bubbling, was being purified. Some of these were killed instantly and others were roasted slowly to death, their position being such that help could not be given them.

The few who were so fortunate as to escape death by the furnaces suffered injuries by falling upon piles of glass slag with sharp, jagged edges, by falling upon the sides and, stunned by the shock, being scorched and burned by their proximity to the intense heat. Seidman has an accident happened wherein the victims who were not killed had been subjected to such tortures, and the cries of those who in their helplessness and the inability of those to succor them were being burned to death were piteous to hear.

To add to the terrible calamity the falling of the timbers into the fires set the building ablaze. The fire was not put out until the greater part of the factory had been consumed.

BIG CRUISER IS SUNK.

Yosemite Goes Under in a Typhoon Near Island of Guam.

During a terrific typhoon which visited the Island of Guam the United States auxiliary cruiser Yosemite was wrecked and thousands of houses, among them the headquarters of Gov. Schroeder, were demolished. The towns of Indraján and Terraforó were swept away, and it is estimated that hundreds of natives met their deaths.

The typhoon was of unprecedented violence. The Yosemite had two anchors down, but both were dragged a mile across the harbor entrance. At 11 a. m. it struck the reef and stove in forward. It drifted for an hour, and at noon struck the rock near Somaya, carrying away the rudder and damaging the propeller.

A launch had been sent to find shelter, but it capsized and the occupants, five of the crew, were drowned.

Meanwhile the Yosemite was blown seaward, her head down and the forward compartment filling. The boiler and engine rooms, however, were free of water and the pumps were kept going. The cruiser was kept afloat until the afternoon of the second day afterward, when the United States collier Justin, which also had suffered damage to its anchors and had narrowly escaped the reef, was sighted. The Justin attempted to tow the Yosemite with two chains and two cables, but these parted. Finally 138 of the Yosemite's crew, 26 marines and 9 officers were transferred to the Justin, together with $68,000 Mexican. The Yosemite soon plunged head foremost and sank.

The Yosemite was a second-class converted cruiser which was purchased by the United States government from the Morgan Line during the war with Spain. Her name when she belonged to the merchant marine was El Sud. Her gross tonnage was 4,659. When she came into possession of the government she was a comparatively new and staunch boat, with a steel bottom. She was built at Newport News, 1892, and was purchased with three other ships from the Morgan Line for the auxiliary navy. She was armed with ten six-inch quick-firing guns, six six-pounder quick-firers and two machine guns. Her complement was 285 men, peace footing, and 350 men, war footing. Her service during the Spanish war consisted in patrolling the coast of Cuba, but she did not take part in any action. She was manned by members of the naval militia, chiefly from the State of Michigan.

One of John Brougham's Jokes.
At the close of a performance given as a benefit to John Brougham, the actor and dramatist, one of the audience threw upon the stage a purse of gold. Brougham picked it up and after examining it said: "Ladies and gentlemen, circumstances compel me to pocket the insult, but" (looking grim) "I should like to see the man who would dare to repeat it!"

WOES OF WORKERS.

The American man or woman is industrious. Our leisure class is small, our working world very large. Many of our leading citizens of great wealth are hard workers. Our laboring classes are found in herds and hordes in the "hives of industry." What is all this work for? In most cases it is for daily bread, in many for maintenance of others. Great numbers also work to acquire wealth. Some for great commercial prominence. Some to preserve intact a splendid inheritance. Necessity, generosity and ambition are the inspiration of all classes of industry, and the object of every one falls to the ground when ill-health attacks him.

Maintaining health is the most vital thing in the world for workers of every class, and the usefulness of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, as a strengthener of the constitutional and vital powers, is beyond all question. This great remedy enters into partnership with Nature and helps human beings do their work without giving up to premature decay. The strain of work is on the minds of some, on the bodies of others, but the nourishing of either, or both, is in the nerves and blood. Nervura acts directly on the fountains of health and its strengthening power is wonderful.

Dr. Greene's NERVURA for the Blood and Nerves.

What does the worker do when some chronic trouble manifests itself? He takes some stimulant or something which is designed for temporary effect, and simply weakens his already overworked system. How different from this is the work of Nervura! How beautiful its support to the natural powers! Without shock of any kind its purely vegetable elements seek out the weak spots and build them up. Immediately the circulation of the blood improves and the sluggish elements are expelled. The nerves are quieted, the quality of the blood is enriched and the new and strengthening tide communicates itself to every muscle of the body.

Mr. JOHN D. SMITH, Electrician for the Thomson-Houston Electric Co., of Lynn, Mass., says:

"When a man has been sick and is cured, it is his duty to tell others about it, that they, too, may get well. Three years ago I had been working almost night and day, could not eat regularly, and got only a few hours' sleep at night. No man can stand that long, and I soon began to be prostrated. I could not sleep when I tried, and my food would not stay on my stomach. I was in a terrible condition, and was much alarmed.

"I went to doctors, but they did me no good. Learning of the wonderful good done by Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, I determined to try it. It cured me completely of all my complaints. I eat heartily and sleep well, thanks to this splendid medicine. I believe it to be the best remedy in existence."

Dr. Greene, Nervura's discoverer, will give all health seekers his counsel free of charge. His office is at 35 West 14th Street, New York City, and his advice may be secured by personal call or by letter through the mail; no charge is made in either case. The worn-out in body, mind, or sexual powers will get prompt help from Dr. Greene. His advice is absolutely confidential and is free to all.
