Those Violins Are Found.

Last year, during the commencement exercises at the Culver Military Academy, two valuable violins belonging to certain cadets came up missing. We understand that one of the instruments was valued at $300 and the other $500. Consequently a most strenuous effort was put forth to locate the stolen property. Time rolled on and apparently the incident was forgotten by our people, but not so with the owners of the stolen instruments, who have had a detective on the trail of the thieves who finally found one of the instruments in certain house in town and the other in Fulton county. We understand that every effort will be put forth to have the matter hushed up, as the purloiners have no desire to serve the state several years. But as this is not the first time that thieves have helped themselves at the academy, an example should be set so that other light-fingered gentleman may know what to expect.

WEATHER BUREAU'S WEEKLY AGRICULTURAL REPORT.

Fourth Consecutive Week of Abnormally Cold Weather Retards Growth Over Nearly the Whole Country—Progress of Corn-Planting Slow.

The chief of the crop division of the weather bureau, in his weekly report, says that this is the fourth consecutive week of abnormally cold weather over nearly the whole country with the most marked temperature deficiency of the season in the central valleys and Southern States, and heavy precipitation throughout the Ohio valley and over the greater portion of the Atlantic coast and gulf districts.

Slow progress has been made with corn planting; none has yet been planted north of the Ohio river, and extensive replanting will be necessary over a large part of the Southern States, where the growth of the crop has been decidedly checked.

Where not interfered with by rain, oat seeding has made favorable progress, and is nearing completion in the central valleys, but in the more northerly sections and in the middle Atlantic States slow progress has been made.

The week has been unfavorable for cotton planting over a large part of the cotton belt, more particularly in the central districts, where much replanting will be necessary.

Illinois.—Cold weather during week retarded germination and growth of vegetation; conditions favorable for farm work in northern part of State, but work delayed by wet weather in southern part; wheat, rye and grasses look well, but growth is slow; oat seeding nearly finished and many fields coming up; some plowing done for corn, gardening, and potato planting, fruit prospects good, but some damage by frost feared.

Indiana.—Precipitation beneficial to crops, but delayed plowing and seeding; owing to cold weather crops advanced slowly; ice and frost in localities did no apparent injury; wheat, rye, clover and grass improved; tobacco plants coming up slowly; oat and barley seeding progressed slowly; oats coming up; potatoes planted; fruit trees, except apples, in bloom.

Ohio.—Unusually cold and stormy; heavy snow in east and south; damaging floods in Valley of Ohio and tributaries; farm work much delayed, especially in east; vegetation made little growth; wheat and grass not unfavorably affected, except in few instances; fruit backward, no bloom except in extreme south; opinions as to damage differ, impossible to determine extent at present.

Michigan.—Rains and snow beneficial to wheat, rye, and meadows, but delayed field work; oats, peas and barley seeding advancing slowly; plowing for corn and early potatoes begun; fruit trees generally promising.

Wisconsin.—Week generally cool, with heavy frosts during latter part and light snow; some seeding in southern portion, but little work on land in central and northern; ground remains frozen in many localities; winter wheat and rye generally uninjured and outlook promising; clover wintered fairly well.

Iowa.—Week unseasonably cold and work delayed two or three days by rain; spring wheat sown and seeding of oats and barley nearly completed, except in limited area; germination retarded, but no material injury caused by freezing; progress in plowing for corn.

South Dakota.—Generally frosty nights fore part of week, with rain or snow in east portion, delayed seeding and retarded germination and growth of spring wheat, oats and barley, but no injury reported; spring wheat seeding nearly completed in southeast; elsewhere fairly good progress made; grass growth slow.

Nebraska.—Cold week, with killing frosts on the first days; vegetation backward and nothing damaged.

CHICAGO TO LIVERPOOL.

Steamship Northwestern Begins Journey to the English Port.

PEDDLE SUNLIGHT IF YOU CAN.

Though you deal in liquid blacking,
Dismal bluing and such things,
When you have a sale to manage,
Do it as the robin sings.
Put shone cheer-up in your business—
Be a chipper sort of man,
And, with other lines of notions,
Peddle sunshine if you can.

There's an awful deal of meanness
In this busy world of ours;
But, mixed in with weeds the rankest,
Ofttimes grow the finest flowers.
Wear a posy on your lapel—
It won't hurt the trade you plan,
And, along with other samples,
Peddle sunshine if you can.

The Hand of Fate

Anton Stradeski sat at the table with his chin resting upon his hand, lost in thought. He was wondering why he had not heard again from the society, for he well knew what his disobedience of their commands would cost him—probably his life. Presently, a little boy clambered down from his high chair and toddled round the corner of the table towards him.

"Will Unkie please tate off my nap-tin?"

Anton turned and mechanically untied the serviette from the child's neck; then, as the little one put up his face for the usual morning kiss, a rush of tenderness came over the man, and he lifted the boy onto his knees, pressing the curly head to his bosom.

"Poor little Bobby," he said, as he stroked his face; "you do love Unkie, do you?"

"Ess, I do," answered the child, as his big, blue eyes sought those of his friend.

"And what would you do if Unkie had to leave you—had to go on a long journey?"

"You're not going to go; I won't let you, or you must tate me, too."

"But suppose some bad men were to take me away and not let you come," said Anton, with something like a sob in his voice.

"Then I would till them," said the youngster, and he clenched his little fist.

"Dear little chap," murmured the man, "you have all your mother's spirit in you. Well, Bobby," he continued, "I must be off to work now; you run along down to Mrs. Beston, and be a good boy, and perhaps I'll bring you home some sweeties."

"All right," said the little fellow, as he got down and marched off.

"Dear little boy; it is for your sake I dread what is coming more than for my own. I have no wife nor child, and you have only me to look after you. It was your face that came before me when I was about to kill Marinsky, as they had ordered. Perhaps, I said, he has a boy like Bobby, and for your sake I spared him; and now it is to be my turn."

Rising from the table, he hurriedly looked at himself in the mirror over the mantelpiece, then turned and went out of the house. He walked through the Square and down Tottenham Court Road, in the direction of the warehouse where he worked. As he reached the corner of Oxford street a peddler stopped him, and drew his attention to the various small articles displayed for sale upon his tray. Anton shook his head and was about to pass the man, when the latter picked up one of the articles wrapped in tissue paper and handed it to him, saying as he did so, "Monsieur has not seen anything like this before, and will surely buy it."

Anton opened the paper and found inside a small medallion portrait of a man whose face he remembered well. Turning it over, he saw the fateful signal written in French upon a piece of paper gummed to the back: "When we meet, thou wilt remember to obey."
"Ah! it's come at last!" he ejaculated, turning to look for the peddler, who had, however, suddenly disappeared. He thought he caught a glimpse of the foreign, bearded face looking at him from the window of a cab that was going up Oxford street, but nowhere else was there any trace of the man who had handed him his death warrant.

His first impulse was to call a cab and hurry after the one containing the messenger, but he said to himself, "Where is the use? Suppose I caught him; it would avail nothing, and would not save me from the avenger."

Crossing the street, he went down Charing Cross Road, looking about him in all directions for the original of the portrait, for he knew the ways of the society and that their warnings were soon followed by fulfillment.

When his day's work was done and he hurried homewards, he kept his eyes moving from side to side, occasionally turning round to see if his tracker were near him, for he did not doubt that the man was already in London.

As he reached the corner of Oxford street again, he remembered that he had promised to bring Bobby home sweeties. He accordingly went into a shop in Oxford street, and having made his purchases resumed his journey homewards. He was very much surprised at reaching the door of the house where he lodged without having been accosted by any one.

Bobby was overjoyed at seeing him and his burden, and the child kept his thoughts from brooding upon the message he had received in the morning by the laughter he made as he exploded the crackers in the bon-bons, and by his making "Unkie" decipher the mottoes he found therein, as well as by dancing round the room with colored caps upon his head and Anton's stick in his hand "playing soldier."

After supper and more romping, Bobby was put to bed in a little room adjoining the one that served Anton as bed and sitting room, and the latter was left alone to his gloomy reflections. He dared not go out, for his foe might be lurking for him around the first turning, but sat revolving in his mind some plan of escape from his pursuer. He even contemplated informing the police of the message, and the danger that threatened him.

He was no coward, but he knew well the daring of the men to whom the society entrusted the accomplishment of their revenge, and that they would stop at nothing to carry out their orders, for their own lives depended upon their doing so.

He had sat an hour or more, when he was roused by a knock at his door. He at once rushed to it, but was too late, for a man had entered, closing and locking the door behind him.

"I thought I would save the landlady the trouble of announcing me," he began, "so have introduced myself, as you see." Then, without waiting to give the other time to reply, he went on, "I suppose you know me?" at the same time pulling off his heavy beard and eyebrows, and disclosing the face represented in the portrait.

"Yes, I know you, Moritz," replied Anton, in French, the language in which the former had addressed him. "What want you with me?"

"The message I handed you this morning will surely tell a member of the society. You have been condemned for disobeying our orders."

Anton did not reply, but quickly pulled out a drawer of the table at which he sat.

"You need not look there," interposed Moritz. "The revolver was removed from there this morning by those in our employ, as well as all dangerous weapons of this character," showing him a knife which that morning had been secreted in another quarter of the room.

"It is useless for you to resist," he continued, "for two of our confreres are watching the windows from outside in the Square, and if you move or attempt to call for help I will slay you without further warning. Before you die, however, the society has instructed me to ask you a few questions."

"Go on," said Anton, doggedly, watching every movement of the other, and determined to fight when the decisive moment arrived. He knew there was no use in calling for help, for that would simply mean putting off the fulfillment of the vengeance, and it was almost certain from the revolver incident that the people in the house were in the society's pay, and would not come to his assistance, however much he needed them.

"The first question I have to ask you," went on Moritz, "is, why did you disobey the society's orders to kill Marinsky?"

"Because I did not think he deserved death, and—"

"Enough," interrupted the other; "you set up your own judgment against the verdict of the council—you know what punishment the rules accord for that?"

"Yes, I do; but I am bound no longer by your terrible rules."

"The second question," continued the other—before he could get further the door behind Anton was softly opened and a child's figure in a white night-robe with a pop-gun in his hand stole into the room to Anton's side, inquiring who the stranger was.

"Whose child is that?" said Moritz, hurriedly.

"I do not know, replied Anton, "and Bobby himself does not know. I found him at the bedside of his dying mother, not far from here. She said his father was a German, who had been suddenly called back to the Fatherland on some secret business. She would not tell me his name. She was English, and had resolved to remain in her own country. Ill health had broken her down, and as she lay dying she made me promise to look after her poor orphan boy, for she feared his father might never return."

"What was her name?" said Moritz.

"Clara Roberts."

"Great Heavens! my wife!" exclaimed Moritz. "They let her die, and now they would have me kill you who befriended her and have watched over my little one. Hang them all; I will not do it. Stradeski, thou knowest I would have killed thee in obedience to their commands, but thy hand, man—how can I do it? Together we will balk these bloodhounds of their vengeance."

Then, rushing to the boy's side, he lifted him in his arms, and covered his face with kisses.

"Bobby does not remember me," he said, "for when I was in London before I grew my beard."

Then, putting the child down, he turned to Anton. "Now for some plan of escape from the men outside. You must draw near to the window, and attempt to struggle when I rush upon you. I will then pretend to stab you, and push you down upon the floor."

Anton, half suspecting treachery, did as he was directed, but warily, so that when Moritz rushed upon him he actually struggled, but finding that Moritz did not attempt to use the knife he suffered himself to be struck down. Bobby screamed and rushed to his side, but Anton's smiling face reassured him as he bade him not to make a noise.

Moritz then went to the window, made some signal to the men, and drew down the blind.

"You are saved," he said to Anton, as he saw the men depart. "I have been a hard man, Stradeski, but have done no murder yet, thank God; though if it had not been for Bobby here I should have been a murderer this night. I quit this infernal service now—forever."

"This well," replied the other. "Life in this English land has driven all their madness out of me."

"We shall have to leave London at once," went on Moritz, "for unless I rejoin them at once they will grow suspicious and come back to look for me, when the game will be up. Is there a back entrance to this house?"

"No," replied Anton, "but we can climb the wall into a mews at the rear, and escape that way."

Late that night a boy and two men, carrying a hand-bag each, might have been seen hurrying into the Euston road to catch the first morning train for Liverpool, and be borne beyond the reach of pursuit.—Penny Pictorial Magazine.

CAT-AND-BIRD LAW.

Cats Are Not Property, and Nobody is Liable For Damage They Do.

A novel case was argued before Justice L. I. O'Neal a few days ago, involving the unique question as to whether the owner of a cat is liable for damages to the owner of a valuable mocking bird, killed by the cat.

It appears that Mrs. Elizabeth Q. Belt, of 1103 New Hampshire avenue, Northwest, is the owner of a feline which she prizes highly. Although this cat is fond of his home, it is impossible to keep him there all of the time. He insists on roving about the neighborhood. His visits have been particularly frequent at the home of W. R. Vaughan, 1201 New Hampshire avenue, which is one block away. No protests were entered to the cat's coming and going. It was thought that he was attracted to Mr. Vaughan's residence by the warblings of an unusually fine mocking bird. The other morning he entered the plaintiff's residence through an open window. He attacked the bird, which was in a cage on the table in the sitting room, dragged it from its frail prison, killed it, and was in the act of making a breakfast of it when discovered by a servant.

Mr. Vaughan brought suit for $100 damages, the price at which he valued the bird, against the owner of the cat. Papers were served upon Mrs. Belt, and the case came up for a hearing. The proposition presented for Justice O'Neal to decide was whether or not, under the circumstances, the defendant should pay the plaintiff the damages asked.

Both attorneys submitted exhaustive briefs. The subject of domestic and wild animals and the owner's liability for trespasses committed by them was elaborately treated and discussed. Cases of dogs, cows, monkeys, bees, and other animals, excepting cats, were cited—an opinion of the Supreme Court of the United States even being quoted from. But there was only one reported case that could be found in the United States which bore directly on the point. That was the case of McDonald vs. Jodrey in Eighth Pennsylvania County Court Reports, page 142. The case was furnished by Mr. Newman, after the most diligent research, and the book could only be obtained from the Law Library at the Capitol by special permission. It sustained the defendant's contention in all respects, that the owner of the cat was not liable for its depredations, under the exact conditions of the case then on hearing.

After this authority was read to Justice O'Neal he promptly decided in favor of the defendant and no appeal was taken.

Justice O'Neal afterward stated that cats are not personal property and that under existing laws the owner of one could not sustain an action against any person who might kill or otherwise make away with such an animal. It is the duty of the owners of birds to keep their pets out of the way of all cats. If in so doing it is necessary to dispose of the cat under the law no damage will have been done.—Washington Times.

Lord Salisbury isn't a bit scared by reason of the trade outlook with Germany. He blames much of it on "the national pessimism which attends too great success." This kind of pessimism is fear of what may be; the kind the British public is suffering from at present is the fear of what happened last year and is happening now. It is a Premier's religion always to be optimistic, unless he wants a budget.

Severe Test of Army Horses.

Chilian cavalry horses have been put through a remarkable test of endurance. Twenty-one officers mounted on their ordinary chargers rode 250 miles in three days, covering eighty-one miles the first day, eighty-one the second and eighty-eight the third. The route was over rough mountain roads, in some places 3,000 feet above the sea level. All the horses were bred in Chili.

A Doctor This Time.

Portland, May 6th.—Dr. E. A. Rose, a practicing physician, formerly of Yates Center, Kans., was on what everyone supposed was his death bed. He had Diabetes, and six of his brother doctors were in attendance and consultation at his bedside. They had done everything that medical skill could suggest to save his life, but they were at last reluctantly forced to tell him that he must prepare for death.

His aunt had been summoned to his dying bedside. After the doctors had given her nephew up, she insisted that as a last resort, he be given a treatment of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

From the very first dose the tide turned in his favor. His life was saved, and he is hale and hearty to-day.

This case and its cure has amazed the physicians, and is the sensation of the hour. It is interesting to note that while many others are being cured by this great discovery in medicine, the physicians themselves are among the first to benefit, and that while the simpler and more prevalent forms, such as Rheumatism, Sciatica, Bladder and Urinary Trouble and Female Weakness disappear before it, the more malignant forms, such as Bright's Disease, Diabetes and Dropsy, which have always been regarded as incurable, are yielding just as easily.

Dodd's Kidney Pills are fast superseding all other treatments for Kidney Disease, and as nearly all human sickness and suffering has its origin in the Kidneys, the use of this wonderful medicine is becoming almost universal.

Neighborly.

Husband—Isn't it about time Mrs. Borrore was returning our call?

Wife—Yes, but if she does return it it will be more than she does with the other things she gets from us.—Detroit Free Press.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly falling to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. What Do the Children Drink?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs about 1/4 as much. All grocers sell it. 15c and 25c.

If Your Wife

is nervous and your doctor's medicine does her no good, why don't you write to Dr. Greene about her and get his advice? This will not cost you anything, and it will probably be the means of making your wife a well woman.

Dr. Greene's address is 35 W. 14th St., New York City. He is the discoverer of Dr. Greene's Nervura and has the greatest success curing nervousness in all its forms. It is no exaggeration to say that thousands of women and men have been made well through his counsel. Absolutely no charge for advice by mail.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when they ask for it at a store. Anyway, write a letter to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and tell her all your troubles. Her advice is free.

Jefferson.

In one of the lobbies of the capitol is an oil painting of Thomas Jefferson. The little card attached to the frame simply says, "Jefferson." This may account for the remarkable story told by a giddy and gushing young man yesterday to a party of young ladies to whom he was showing the sights of the capitol.

"This," he said, pointing to the picture of the smooth-faced gentleman, "is Joseph Jefferson, taken in the costume of Bob Acres. You see, that the costume is the kind the gentlemen used to wear in the time of Bob Acres, but the portrait is considered a very fine one. It was placed here because Mr. Jefferson is the greatest American actor."

"Oh, yes," chimed in the girls. "Hasn't he got a lovely face? We always did like Joe Jefferson. And we are so glad to have seen his picture."—Washington Post.

It is made of pure selected grain and is healthful, nourishing and appetizing. It is a healthful table drink for the children and adults. Ask your grocer for Grain-O. 15 and 25c.

Local Notes Furnished the Herald's Special Reporter.

All doubt as to Culver's ability to play ball passed away last Sunday when our boys made the team from Upper Iowa University play ten innings before they claim a victory, and then it only by the close score of 7 to 6. Upper Iowa had previously defeated the Universities of Michigan and Wisconsin, and came here expecting to merely play a practice game with the "Little soldier boys." Imagine their surprise when Crawford opened the game by cracking a neat two bagger. Culver failed to score however, until in the second inning when Jackson came sailing home but was called out for cutting third base. Nowels followed with another tally which was placed on our credit. In the third inning, excitement ran high when with men out and the bases full, McQuinn knocked the ball in the lagoo three bagger, bringing in three runs. With the score standing 4 to 0 in our favor, Iowa took a brace and succeeded in making it a tie. Both teams drew blanks in the fourth, principle feature of the inning being Jackson's fine catch after a long run. In the fifth Culver made two more runs, but from that time failed to score. In this inning Masters was caught off from first base, but succeeded in making second in safety.

Shortly afterward, Iowa's second baseman made a brilliant catch of a fly that seemed to have been safely knocked over his head. Iowa secured a run in the sixth, and then again in the eighth, tying the score. Both teams were retired without a run in the ninth, but in the tenth, Iowa succeeded in crossing the plate, and the game was won. While it was hard to lose such a hard fought game, Culver can feel well satisfied, when their opponent's record is taken into consideration.

Prominent members of the clergy are giving Peruna their unqualified endorsement. These men find Peruna especially adapted to preserve them from catarrh of the vocal organs...

Mrs. Edward Stevens, of Carthage, N. Y., writes as follows: "I now take pleasure in notifying you that my husband has entirely recovered from catarrh..."

When the catarrh reaches the throat it is called tonsillitis, or laryngitis. Catarrh of the bronchial tubes is called bronchitis; catarrh of the lungs, consumption. Any internal remedy that will cure catarrh in one location will cure it in any other location.

"My home is never without Peruna, for I have found during the past six years that there is no remedy that will at once alleviate suffering and actually cure, as Peruna does. Four bottles completely cured me of catarrh of the head..."

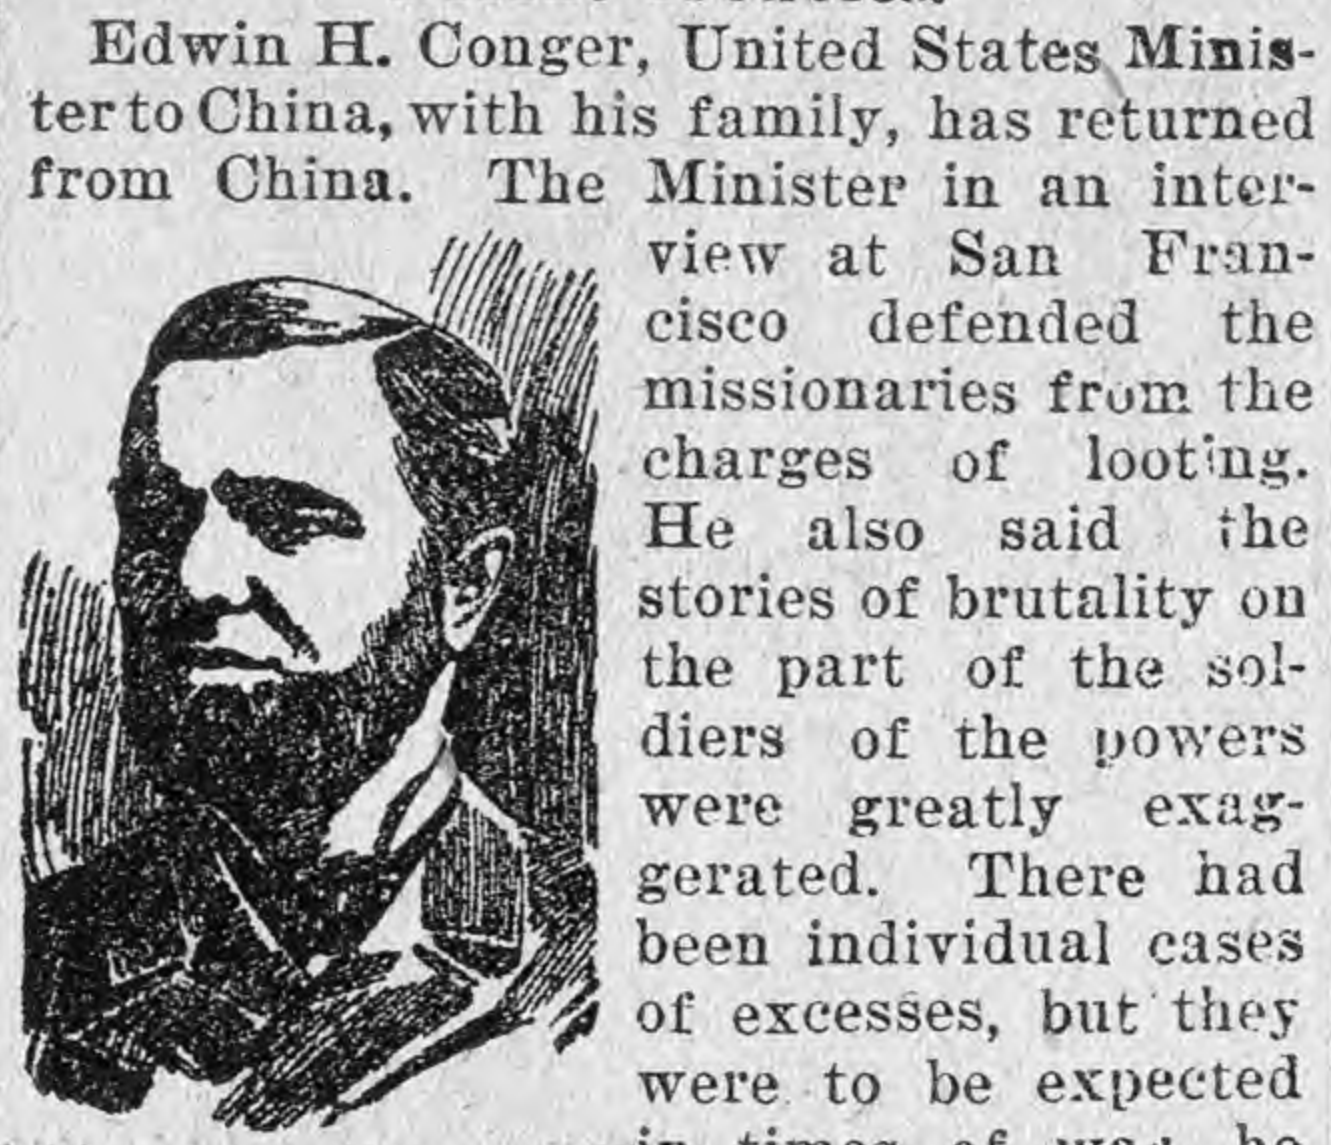

Mrs. W. A. Allison, of 759 Sheffield avenue, Chicago, Ill., is the Assistant Matron of the People's Hospital. She has the following to say about Peruna:

"I have had frequent opportunities to observe the wonderful curative effects of Peruna, especially on persons suffering with a congested condition of the head, lungs, and stomach, generally called catarrh. It alleviates pain and soreness, increases the appetite and so tones up the entire system..."

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Minister to China Back from Scene of Recent Troubles.

E. H. CONGER.

Edwin H. Conger, United States Minister to China, with his family, has returned from China. The Minister in an interview at San Francisco defended the missionaries from the charges of looting. He also said the stories of brutality on the part of the soldiers of the powers were greatly exaggerated.

Minister Conger's attention was called to the fact that there had been a good deal of gossip to the effect that he would become a candidate for the nomination as Governor of Iowa, and he was asked if he would make the race. He said he could not discuss the matter at present, but left the impression that he would not refuse the nomination if tendered him.

MOVES ON MANCHURIA.

Russian Expedition Takes Kulo by Storm After Hard Battle.

According to a dispatch from St. Petersburg official information has been received that renewed military activity is beginning in Manchuria. Chinese troops are strongly entrenched at three points around Mukden.

To the eastward of Mukden, near Turchausen, there are 12,000 men under the chief Boxer general, Lutanse. To the northwest, near Kulo, there are 6,000 Chinese under the former governor of Mukden.

Admiral Alexieff has accordingly organized an expedition under Gen. Zerpinsky, consisting of two regiments and five squadrons of Cossacks, sixteen guns and a body of volunteers, to operate against the three points mentioned.

The advance toward the Turchausen position was then begun.

MANY PERISH IN EXPLOSION.

Awful Catastrophe Occurs in a Factory in Germany.

A small fire at the electro-chemical works near Griesheim, Germany, ignited a quantity of picric acid used in making smokeless powder, causing an explosion which resulted in the death or injury of 200 people.

Troops were immediately ordered to Griesheim to prevent the fire spreading to the large benzene reservoirs near by. Fire brigades from every place in the neighborhood hurried to the scene, but owing to the dangerous nature of the disaster and the fear of a renewal of the explosions, the greatest difficulty was experienced in stopping the progress of the flames.

Only after five hours of strenuous effort was the conflagration to some extent controlled and the danger passed so as to make it possible to begin the work of extricating the bodies.

THE RAILROADS

Live stock shipments into Chicago from the West are light.

An order for ninety new locomotives has been given by the Southern Pacific road.

The Burlington has called in its corps of surveyors which has been locating a line between Guernsey, Neb., and Salt Lake City, Utah.

President and Cabinet Start on Their 15,000-Mile Jaunt.

President McKinley and five of the members of his cabinet and their wives started from Washington on a 15,000-mile trip at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning. The trip will include twenty-five States, over twenty-seven railways, and the train, in the matter of furnishings and equipment, beats anything ever seen on a railroad.

A remnant of the United States government remains in Washington. Secretaries Gage and Root do not accompany the President because of the illness of Mrs. Gage and Mrs. Root.

Not only is the chief executive accompanied by his private secretary and a majority of the members of his cabinet, but on board is a force of assistant secretaries and stenographers such as is maintained in the executive office at the White House, and with the assistance of these men the chief magistrate will conduct the affairs of the nation.

Most elaborate plans have been made for enabling the officials in Washington to keep in close touch with the presidential train. The telegraph and cipher bureau of the executive mansion has a complete itinerary of the trip, and by means of a system of reports from train dispatchers will be enabled to ascertain the exact location of the train at any hour of the day or night.

The train is made up as follows: The dining car St. James, which is handsomely finished in red leather and upholstery, and with extra wide vestibules to give the waiters room to pass in and out without crowding; the observation car Olympia, the most handsomely furnished car in the world; the Clarion, a sleeping car, finished in mahogany, with royal blue plush upholstery; the drawing room car Pelion, finished in satinwood, mahogany, and with royal purple upholstery; the smoking car Atlantic, which is fitted up with a barber shop and other conveniences.

A picked crew has been chosen and when the journey is over the American roads will have made a record which will eclipse all previous ones.

President McKinley has looked forward with great pleasure to the trip, as it will give him an opportunity to visit many sections of the country he has never seen. The party will arrive at San Francisco, via New Orleans, and returning through Yellowstone Park, at Washington on June 10.

Memphis, Tenn.; Vicksburg, Jackson, New Orleans, Houston, Texas; Austin, San Antonio, El Paso, Phoenix, Ariz.; Los Angeles, San Buenaventura, Santa Barbara, Del Monte, Santa Cruz, Palo Alto, San Francisco, Stockton, Sacramento, Redding, Ashland, Salem, Ore.; Portland, Butte and Helena, Mont.; Yellowstone Park (four days), Salt Lake City, Colorado Springs, Denver, Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago.

Jury that Acquits Cuhahy Suspect De-nounced by the Judge.

To the surprise of the court, and even the defendant, the Omaha jury declared James Callahan guiltless of any complicity in the kidnaping of Eddie Cuhahy, the millionaire packer's son. Judge Baker, who presided at the trial, followed the announcement of the verdict with one of the most bitter arraignment ever heard in the Omaha criminal court room.

HARD FIGHTS IN CHINA.

Severe Engagements Reported by Count von Waldersee.

The German war office received a dispatch from Count von Waldersee, dated at Pekin, saying that three engagements occurred April 23 and a fourth April 24 at the Great Wall, between four columns under Gen. Kettler and the Chinese troops under Gen. Liu.

Dispatches from Pekin show that the Germans had a difficult task in carrying the passes leading into Shan-Si province. The only approaches were steep mountain tracks, and the Chinese held commanding positions, from which they rolled huge rocks down the mountain sides on the advancing Germans.

Besides many old guns eighteen quick-firers were captured.

A 10-year-old son of Samuel Ward, residing near Larwill, was found dead in a hay mow with a rope about his neck, indicating suicide. The lad fifteen minutes previously had obtained permission to play in the barn. His parents claim death was the result of an accident.

OPENING OF THE BASE-BALL SEASON

LINCOLN'S BODY MOVED.

Remains of the Martyred President Placed in the New Tomb.

Wednesday afternoon the remains of President and Mrs. Lincoln, their three sons and grandson were transferred from the temporary vault in which they have been reposing during the reconstruction of the Lincoln monument to the catacomb in the new structure especially prepared for them. The transfer was made in the presence of the commissioners of the Lincoln monument grounds, Gov. Yates, Superintendent of Public Instruction Alfred Bayliss, State Treasurer M. O. Williamson, the surviving members of the Lincoln Guard of Honor and a few others who were prominently connected with the affairs of the State of Illinois and the city of Springfield at the time of the death of Lincoln.

When the hour set for the transfer arrived the huge stone slabs covering the caskets were removed with a derrick and the caskets were hoisted from the vault and placed in position in the new monument. The caskets containing the remains of the three sons and the grandson occupied the upper story of the vault and were the first to be taken out. With these removed, the boxes inclosing the caskets of the martyred President and Mrs. Lincoln were exposed to view. These were quickly lifted from the deep vault and, with uncovered heads, those present witnessed the placing of the remains in their final resting place. Formal dedication of the new monument will take place Oct. 15. This will be the anniversary of the dedication of the old monument and the plan is to make the occasion one of importance.

TO WED HIS CHAMPION.

It Is Said that Prof. Herron and Miss Rand Are to Be Married.

Rev. George D. Herron lectured in Brooklyn recently, and bitterly attacked existing religious conditions. When he said "the church has always put to death the man who dared stand for individual freedom; Christianity does not even know or believe the gospel of Jesus," he was roundly hissed. He is to be tried for heresy and Socialism. Herron lives in Grinnell, Iowa. Prof. Her-ron's wife secured a divorce a short while ago. Now it is said he is to marry Miss Carrie Rand, who champions his cause and believes in his theories.

Miss Rand is tall, pretty, pale, thoughtful and 25 years old. She endowed with $35,000 the Chair of Applied Christianity in the Iowa College, so that it might be occupied by Herron. When he was forced to resign because of his too radical teachings, she said that the college ought to pay the money back to her, but it never did.

GROWTH OF DIVORCE IN THE UNITED STATES.

In 1870 3 1/2 per cent of all marriages in the United States ended in divorce courts. In 1881 the percentage had risen to 4.8. In 1890 it was 6.2, and in 1900 it was 8 per cent. In other words, the percentage of divorces to marriages in this country has more than doubled since 1870.

The total number of divorces in the United States for a given year was 23,427. During the same year 20,111 divorces were granted in all the world outside of the United States. There was an excess of 3,361 divorces in this country as compared with the remainder of the world. Of foreign countries the smallest number of divorces in the given year was in Canada, where only twelve were granted. Next to the United States the largest number was in France, with 6,245 in the year. Germany was a close second with only 100 less.

More than 40 per cent of all divorces granted in the United States is on the ground of desertion, and divorces are five times as frequent in the city as in the country districts.

ANOTHER RUSSIAN FAMINE.

Fearful State of Destitution Prevailing in Siberia.

Famine has again appeared in Russia, this time in western and central Siberia, while in eastern Siberia the people are on the verge of want. In the two former sections of Siberia the famine was brought about by drouth, not a drop of rain having fallen during the spring of 1900. As a consequence the crop was a failure and even the grass was burned under the glaring heat of the sun. For want of fodder the peasants had to sell their cattle at ruinous prices. Thousands of immigrants who settled in that section of Siberia within the past few years and who had little or nothing to fall back upon are now wandering from town to town and perishing by scores. The more fortunate settlers are reduced to eating licorice, weeds and bread mixed with clay.

Among the Kirghiz tribe the suffering is awful, many women going to the extreme of killing their children to save them from the worse death of slow starvation.

In eastern Siberia the conditions are not much of an improvement over those in the other sections. All last summer it rained constantly, flooding the fields and rotting the crops. Bread has risen 600 per cent in price and children are dying from conditions consequent upon insufficient nourishment.

MAM-M-MA!! DON'T YOU HEAR BABY CRY?

Do you forget that summer's coming with all its dangers to the little ones—all troubles bred in the bowels.

The summer's heat kills babies and little children because their little insides are not in good, clean, strong condition.

Winter has filled the system with bile. Belching, vomiting up of sour food, rash, flushed skin, colic, restlessness, diarrhoea or constipation, all testify that the bowels are out of order.

If you want the little ones to face the coming dangers without anxious fear for their lives, see that the baby's bowels are gently, soothingly, but positively cleaned out in the spring time, and made strong and healthy before hot weather sets in.

The only safe laxative for children, pleasant to take (they ask for more) is CASCARETS. Nursing mothers make their milk mildly purgative for the baby by eating a CASCARET now and then. Mama eats a CASCARET, baby gets the benefit. Try it! Send for a 10c box of CASCARETS to-day and you will find that, as we guarantee, all irregularities of the little and big children's insides are Pale Women!

A bloodless face indicates trouble. Watery blood a menace to health. We know how pale people can get rich blood. Come let us tell you about VINOL.

When blood is watery and thin, or, as doctors would say, lacks red blood corpuscles, it is a sign that much is radically wrong. We would advise everyone who has such symptoms to start at once to take a proper remedy to overcome this trouble. That remedy is VINOL, the greatest and most modern tonic and builder. VINOL owes its virtues to the fact that it contains in a highly concentrated state the active principles extracted from God's Livers, the same elements that have made Cod Liver Oil famous for wasting diseases. Because we know so well, because we know so surely what it will do, and how it will accomplish the good it does in a scientific way, we unreservedly endorse and recommend it, and in every instance guarantee to refund to anyone what they pay us for VINOL if they do not find it entirely satisfactory.

This paper might be filled with items like the following, and every one be the absolute truth. I had rheumatism for years and tried almost everything, but got no permanent relief until I used Chamberlain's Pain Balm, three bottles of which have cured me. It is the best medicine I ever used.—Philip E. Rhoads, Pennville, Mo. Pain Balm is for sale by T. E. Slattery, druggist.

A fine display of Easter Hats, Panna Velvet, Wash Veils, and Persian Silk at Mrs. C. A. Francisco's, Plymouth, Ind.

"A neighbor ran in with a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy when my son was suffering with severe cramps and was given up as beyond hope by my regular physician, who stands high in his profession. After administering three doses of it, my son regained consciousness and recovered entirely within twenty-four hours," says Mrs. Mary Haller, of Mt. Crawford, Va. This remedy is for sale by T. E. Slattery, druggist.

You will waste time if you try to cure indigestion or dyspepsia by starving yourself. That only makes it worse when you do eat heartily. You always need plenty of good food properly digested. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is the result of years of scientific research for something that would digest not only some elements of food but every kind. And it is the one remedy that will do it. T. E. Slattery.

Keen Brothers' work will compare very favorably with that of any of the best photographers of our large cities.

Shudders at His Past.

"I recall now with horror," says Mail Carrier Burnett Mann, of Levanna, O., "my three years of suffering from Kidney trouble. I was hardly ever free from dull aches or acute pains in my back. To stoop or lift mail sacks made me groan. I felt tired, worn out, about ready to give up, when I began to use Electric Bitters, but six bottles completely cured me and made me feel like a new man." They're unrivaled to regulate Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Bowels. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed by T. E. Slattery.

A VALUABLE MEDICINE.

For Coughs and Colds in Children. "I have not the slightest hesitancy in recommending Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to all who are suffering from coughs or colds," says Chas. M. Cramer, Esq., a well known watchmaker, of Colombo, Ceylon. "It has been some two years since the City Dispensary first called my attention to this valuable medicine and I have repeatedly used it and it has always been beneficial. It has cured me quickly of all chest colds. It is especially effective for children and seldom takes more than one bottle to cure them of hoarseness. I have persuaded many to try this valuable medicine, and they are all as well pleased as myself over the results." For sale by T. E. Slattery, druggist.
