LAKE MAXINKUCKEE.

News Captured Around the Lake by Our Special Reporter.

Dawn at Lake Maxinkuckee.

WRITTEN BY CHARLES EDWARD HUGHES. When the gray clouds of morning fade, And sunshine gleams o'er lake and glade,— In woodland haunts a whirr of wings,— And day-dawn's greeting the feathered chorus sings. The merry birds,—with ringing melodies,— will praise The coming of the morn,—the sun's bright rays. Beyond "Long Point," the white-winged boats appear. The scene is joyous, for the smiling day is here. Our lake's broad waters may not be more fair— Than when the sunshine flits o'er meadows wet with dew, Along the verdant shores,—deepens the azure hue Of Maxinkuckee. Then, when the happy day has lost its gladsome light,— The glowing stars appearing in the coronet of night! And o'er the lake the sombre darkness rests. The crescent moon,—in splendor, does the night invest. The stately yachts, like phantoms gliding past,— Their masts and sails, upon the waters, east Black shadows,—darker than the gloom That hides the bay near Aubbeenaubee's tomb. Though day is fairer, we will feast our eyes Upon the sparkling waters and the star-lit skies,— At Maxinkuckee.

Sunday was the last excursion day for the season. Several excursion trains arrived in Culver, bringing large crowds of people. Everybody seemed to enjoy themselves.

Mr. G. E. Sherman and family, and Dr. Hager and family, have returned to their home at South Bend, after a week's sojourn at the Arlington. Mrs. Sherman is a daughter of Hon. John B. Stohl.

Miss Helen Graham and her little brother Gregory met with painful accidents Monday. The young lady badly sprained one of her ankles and the boy fell and cut his upper lip in a shocking manner. Dr. Rea was called, who gave them proper medical treatment.

The following made a very charming and interesting party at the lake last Sunday, and registered at the Lake View Hotel: H. O. Johnson of South Bend, Mrs. Helen Ripley of Indianapolis, and Mrs. Dina Moore of New York.

Sunday evening, the guests at the Lake View Hotel held a song service, which was conducted by the three Southern sisters of St. Louis, young ladies of marvelous vocal talents, who rank among the very best in the musical arena. It was a soul-thrilling affair, and was highly appreciated by the numerous guests of this popular house.

Allen G., of Altoona, Pa., son of Hon. John G. Williams of Indianapolis, is a guest at the Lake View Hotel, and will remain for two or three weeks. The young man is a graduated mechanical engineer, and is completing a model in the locomotive line that is bound to revolutionize the railroad engine business.

J. W. Darling arrived from Cincinnati Saturday, and returned with his wife Monday, the latter having been a guest at the Lake View Hotel the past four weeks. He was accompanied to Culver by a few friends, who were loud in their praises of Lake Maxinkuckee and its surroundings.

The Duenwegs leave for their home in Terre Haute to-day.

B. A. Knapp left Tuesday for Chicago, where he will transact business a few days.

The Heywood cottage on the east side is being rapidly pushed toward completion.

E. W. LeBaume, a prominent gentleman of St. Louis Mo. was a guest at the Lake View Sunday.

P. H. Vail of Chicago spent a few days at the lake last week. He was a guest at the Lake View.

Mrs. H. Vinton and Mrs. T. J. Levering of Lafayette returned home after a three weeks' sojourn at the Lake View Hotel, Monday.

W. H. Albrecht and family returned to their home in Terre Haute Tuesday, after a two months' vacation in their beautiful and picturesque home, near the Palmer.

B. F. Folrath and son, of Decatur, Illinois, were guests at the Lake View a few days last week. Mr. Folrath contemplates building a cottage on Long Point, next spring.

While you are boasting of your crack fishing, we want to inform you that Mrs. J. K. English of Indianapolis comes very near to the championship this season, as she landed last Saturday without losing a fish, 14 fine black bass. Now, if there is anyone that has beaten this of late, we would like to hear from them.

His Dead.

When the Mr. S. E. Howe family arrived this spring, and took possession of the Caffyn cottage on Long Point, they also brought with them a magnificent specimen of the bulldog fraternity, which seemed to be the pet of the family and to a casual observer was a model dog. But like all dogs of his kind he seemed to like to "chaw up" all other dogs that were luckless enough to come in reach of his ferocious jaws, and the canine that lived after an encounter with the aforesaid bulldog was a dandy and deserved a leather medal. Saturday, we understand, the Howes went to Plymouth, and a young man from Logansport coaxed the bulldog into a row-boat and landed at the Arlington Hotel docks, and then the trouble commenced which cost the dog his life. The proprietor of the hotel has a fox terrier, a peaceful unassuming dog, whose greatest ambition is to be peaceful and contented.

The bulldog spied the small dog upon the broad porch in front of the hotel, and immediately commenced to "chaw him up." Mrs. Knapp, being there alone, frantically appealed to the young man to take the bulldog off from his small victim, but the young man replied that the bulldog would never let go his hold, and that the small dog would soon be dead. Mrs. Knapp told the young fellow that she would make the big brute quit fighting, and securing a revolver, shot the dog in the back. At this stage of the game, the big brute, who was now in a state of frenzy, turned upon Mrs. Knapp with the ferociousness of a tiger, and she only saved herself from being severely bitten by rushing into the hotel and closing the screen door.

At this juncture, she gave the dog another cartridge, which, although it did not kill him, took all the fight out of him, and he became very quiet. The wounded brute was taken to the Howe cottage, and a veterinary surgeon summoned from Logansport, but in spite of every effort to save the dog, he became rapidly worse, and in order to put him out of his misery, S. S. Chadwick ended his career by a well-directed bullet.

It is a sad loss to the Howes, but it is quietly whispered on Long Point that the citizens of said point, are glad that said bulldog has "bassed in his cheeks," and that his spirit is forever at rest in dog-heaven.

Ignorance of the Law Caused Him to Off for Ft. Wayne.

Next Sunday, the Nickel Plate will run an excursion train from Hibbard to Ft. Wayne. The fare will be 75 cents for the round trip, and gives you an opportunity to visit a magnificent park, where all kinds of amusement are in progress to entertain the people, including a first-class theatrical entertainment, all of which is free of charge. Here is an opportunity to visit one of the finest cities in the country for a very small sum. The train leaves Hibbard at 7 a. m., and Burr Oak about 6:50 am. Remember the date, Sunday, Sept. 8th, 1901.

Pay a Fine.

Last Sunday, when the passenger train arrived from the north, a gentleman alighted from a coach, having in his possession a minnow net. An unpretentious Logansport man approached the man with the net, and asked permission to see it, which was granted. The net proved to be over 12 feet long, hence the Logansport man put the South Bend man under arrest, took him to Logansport, and he was fined $10 and costs by a local justice, and the South Bend man returned home Monday—a sadder and wiser man, as he claimed he was ignorant of the law relative to nets. Now this is all right, but why one man should be arrested and fined, while others are violating the law every day, relative to nets and fishing in general, and go scott free, is a mystery. But perhaps the reason is that this man was not from Logansport. There is a lot of difference between "tweedledee and tweedledum."

There will be preaching services at Poplar Grove M. E. Church, next Sunday, September 8th, at 11 a. m. This will be the last sermon at that place during the present conference year and will, in all probability, conclude Rev. F. C. Taylor's services as pastor.

The pastor, Reverend H. N. Smith, preached a sermon upon the subject of marriage, after which he met the bridal party at the door, and led them to the chancel amid the strains of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," played by Mr. Earl Waters, "the boy

Mrs. John Osborn gave a dinner on Tuesday evening, September 3rd, in honor of her guests, Mrs. Frank Oliver and daughter, and Miss Minnie Koenig of Logansport. Those present were Mr. Clyde Walter and Miss Myrtle Nearpass, Mr. Arthur Morris and Miss Josie Overman. A most enjoyable evening was passed. violinist of Chicago," accompanied by Miss Bertha Kline, a sister of the bride. The bride and groom were attended by Mr. John Foster of Evanston and Miss Mattie Stubbs of DeLong. After the ceremony, the guests were entertained at dinner in the beautiful grove surrounding the home of the bride. The bridal party were the recipients of many beautiful presents, and will make their future home in Evanston, Illinois.

New School Books.

We see it stated in many of our exchanges that patrons of the common schools all over the state will be compelled to buy new books for their children at the opening of the school year. The change in the school books has been made necessary because of the expiration of the five years' contract under which books are furnished by the publishing companies. The expiration of the contract means a revision of the books.

In several instances the revision has been so radical that the old books cannot be used in connection with the new, in which case the new books will necessarily have to be purchased. Of course the school patrons will have to be bled again, in order to gratify the greed of a large publishing company. The purchasing of new school books by most parents will mean a considerable sum, which they can ill afford to spare, yet the books must be revised, and a certain amount of tom-foolery indulged in, in order to give someone an opportunity to draw fat salaries.

Free school system,—bah! It is a free robbery system, and the poor have to pay the fiddler.

The Country School Teacher.

This is the season of the year when the country school teacher is summoned to attend the county institute. At the institute she becomes a personage of more or less importance, as she should, for the country school teacher is about the most essential personage in the advancement of the human race. Her life is different from that of her city sister, who exists in an atmosphere of comparative luxury, for the city teacher is merely a teacher. The country teacher is teacher, custodian of the building, janitor of the flock, and general servitor and helper of the budding sprouts in whatsoever manner she may be called upon. She scours at no muddy road, nor inelemency of the weather, no matter that she must pick her way to school and warm a cold house and sweep and dust be-re her charges arrive. She relies upon her own tact in dealing with the bad big boy and the spiteful big girl. She is alone in her resources when called upon to answer troublesome questions propounded to her by the village wisacares, who want to see how much or how little she knows.

The country school teacher is the leader, the example, the instructor, the encouragement of youth along the thorny paths of education, and she does all of it for about $35 a month, and pays her board out of that. Her job lasts a few months in a year, and is rarely certain for the next year, but compels her to be a diplomat in her campaign with the school directors, just as though she was playing for a treaty between nations on some grave subject like the canal or the Chinese affair. That she earns her money is shown by the intelligence in the rural districts of the United States,—proof that ought to compel sincere reverence in every town where she attends institute.

High School Possibilities.

With the last decade the consolidation or centralization of schools in a large number of states has passed the experimental stage, and has in a large number of cases been an unqualified success.

As early as 1863, the state legislature of Massachusetts provided for the transportation of children of school age, who did not live at convenient walking distance from a school house, to and from school, at the expense of the public funds. Since that time the legislatures of eighteen different states have adopted similar measures, and of these at least thirteen have taken advantage of the laws. In the State of Indiana, schools have been centralized with marked success in forty different counties. In almost every instance, the system of centralization has at first met with opposition from school patrons; but time has shown the successful issue, and many of its most radical opponents have become its most ardent supporters.

In no department of public school work, has the good effect of consolidation been so apparent as in the high school.

At least three things are necessary for the maintenance of a first-class high school: Well educated and well trained teachers, a considerable number of pupils and a good working equipment, such as laboratories, libraries, apparatus, etc.

In a large number of schools where some high school work is being done, usually a very limited amount of all three of these elements are lacking. This condition exists necessarily, first—because of lack of funds, and secondly, because of lack of pupils.

Teachers who are qualified to do first-class high school work are in great demand and consequently command good salaries, often more than a rural school can afford to pay. Moreover, a good high school equipment is expensive. Even though the funds be adequate to supply both of these elements there is a third which funds cannot supply—that is, pupils.

One of the chief sources upon which the school teacher must rely for successful work is the inspiration and enthusiasm that results from number of students working together. A school of any sort, and especially a high school of six or seven pupils is analogous to a cripple, it can at best struggle for the desired end.

The only satisfactory remedy for these conditions that has yet been discovered is centralization. In several townships of the state good high schools have been built up in this way.

In one township high school work was being done in three different schools. The township trustee caused the most central school building to be enlarged, and transported all pupils desiring to do high school work to this central point. The result was that a first-class high school was established, which soon became an object of pride to every citizen of the township and is, at the present time, the educational center and the chief promoter of good feeling and upward development in that community.

Aside from these general effects, the effect upon each individual pupil is certainly good. Those pupils who have been transported have infused life and vigor into the high school, and they in turn, have been benefitted greatly by coming in contact with the new conditions and surroundings.

Flames were shooting out of the roof, and every window of the four-story brick structure when the firemen arrived. While fighting the stubborn blaze, the east wall of the building fell, and members of engine company 17 were nearly caught under the falling bricks. It was expected that the floors of the building would collapse, on account of the weight of the glass, and H. M. Hooker, president of the concern, who arrived early, warned Chief Musham. The building being of modern construction, however, withstood the strain. The fire started on the second floor from some unknown cause, and soon spread through the building.

Effect of Cold on Seeds. Experiments with plant seeds subjected to extreme cold have shown that the power of germination is not destroyed, but merely suspended by the cold. By the use of liquid air, seeds of barley, oats, squash, cucumbers, peas, sunflower and some other plants were recently kept for 110 hours at a cold of from 183 degrees to 192 degrees centigrade. They were then carefully and slowly thawed for fifty hours. They were then planted and sprouted as well as if they had not been frozen. The experiments were made by Messrs. Browne, Escombe and Horan in London.

A Happy Boy.

Oldenburg, Ill., Sept. 2.—The doctors all failed in the case of little thirteen-year-old Willie Keil, who suffered with acute Rheumatism.

For over three months, the poor little fellow suffered excruciating torture. His father, who had done everything he could think of, saw a new Rheumatism Remedy advertised—Dodd's Kidney Pills. He bought some, and soon his little son showed signs of improvement. Three boxes cured him completely, and he has not a symptom of Rheumatism left.

This miraculous cure of a case which had been given up by the physicians, has electrified Madison County, and Dodd's Kidney Pills are a much-talked-of medicine.

"Bulls" and "Bears."

The names "bulls" and "bears," applied respectively to the persons interested in raising and depressing prices in the stock market, are not modern slang. At any rate, Colley Cibber makes use of the terms in his play, "The Refusal," produced in 1720. Asked by Grainger if all his money has been on 'change, Witting, who had been boasting of his gains, replies, "Every shilling, sir; all out of stocks, puts, bulls, shams, bears, and bubbles."

Day was o'er and they must die.

THE DERVISH AND THE BOWL OF PEAS.

AN ARMENIAN FOLK TALE,
BY FANNY D. BERGEN.

Once there was a husband and wife who had no children. The man kept a shop in the city where they lived. The wife was very fond of children and often felt very lonely in her home while her husband was away at his work. She often used to go out and sit on the doorstep as the children passed, going to and from school. Then she would sigh and look longingly at the little boys and girls who were going by her door and wish that she had children of her own.

One afternoon as she sat thus, a Dervish who was passing along the street, stopped to speak with her. He asked her why she sighed and looked so longingly after the school children.

She replied: "We have no children of our own and I love to watch these children and hear them talk. I sigh, wishing that I had children of my own." The Dervish reached into the bag which hung from his girdle and took out some dried peas. He filled a small bowl with these peas and gave them to the woman, saying: "Put these peas under your pillow to-night when you go to sleep and when you awaken your house will no longer be childless."

The Dervishes are supposed to know many things and to be able to accomplish many wonders, so the woman did as she had been commanded. That night she went to sleep with the peas placed safely under her pillow.

Sometime after midnight she was awakened and found her bed full of small children who were running and crawling about, clamoring for food. She rose very early in the morning and kneaded a great pan of bread to feed the many little children that thronged about her, but these little ones were so hungry that they would not wait for bread was baked, but continually seized portions of the dough and ate it. This vexed the woman very much for she saw there would be no dough left to bake into loaves. At length she stopped kneading, and taking a large stick in her hand, in her anger she beat the children so hard that she suddenly found she had killed them. Then she began to weep and said: "Alas! alas! What have I done? I have killed all my little children. Now there is no one to take their father's dinner to him in his shop."

Then the woman heard a small voice calling from one corner of the kitchen where stood a pair of her shoes. Going to look she found that one baby had hidden himself in one of her shoes and was safely concealed there. He called out: "You have not killed me. I am still alive. I will carry my father's dinner to him."

The mother was pleased, and after lifting the little fellow out of her shoe gave him food, then bade him sit down and wait until she had baked bread and prepared his father's dinner. When the dinner was prepared and packed in some small saddle-bags she went out and led the donkey, for they owned one, to the door. After the saddle-bags were put on the donkey's back she said: "But where will you sit, my child? You are too small to ride on the donkey." The little boy said, "I can ride in his ear." Put me there and you will see that I will be quite safe."

So the mother put the little fellow in one of the donkey's ears.

The donkey knew the way to the shop, for he had often gone with the dinner before. As he was going along the street the queer little fellow sitting in one ear began to sing to himself. The people along the street stopped to listen, and some ran toward the donkey to see what it could mean, for they could hear someone singing in a clear voice and yet no person was to be seen. At length the donkey turned into the right shop, the man took out his dinner, lifted his little son from the donkey's ear and began to eat. After a while he said: "My little son, can you go to the spring under a large apple tree that grows out in yonder field and bring me some fresh water?" The little fellow took the red earthen water vessel in his hand and started to fetch the water. When he got to the spring he saw that the tree overshadowing it was full of beautiful red apples, so he placed the vessel on the ground and climbed up into the tree to gather some of the fruit. The apples were very good and as he sat on a branch eating some and gathering others to carry away, a great giant came stalking along. There are many of these giants who live outside the cities in caves in the mountain sides. They are very large of stature, have seven eyes, and talk in a loud, roaring voice.

Now the apple tree which the little son of the shop-keeper had climbed belonged to this particular giant. "Why are you stealing my fruit? Come down this minute!" But the little boy was frightened and kept quiet, away up in the tree. The giant, however, insisted that he must come down, and at last said: "Well, if you will not come down, you must at least hand me some of the apples which belong to me. Bring me some apples and put them in my hand and you may remain in the tree." The giant spoke more kindly, so the little boy being less frightened did as he was told, but as he reached some apples out to the giant the latter quickly seized him in one great hand and shut him up in the game-bag which hung from his girdle.

The little fellow did not like being stuffed down among the various kinds of birds and other small animals which the giant had taken while out hunting, but he could not help himself and so had to lie still until the giant opened the bag when he reached his own home. Then the giant lifted the little boy out of the bag and handed him to his wife, saying, "There, keep this boy safe until evening, when you may serve him up for my supper."

The giant's wife carried the little boy out into the yard and there turned over him a large basket, but although so young, the little boy was very cunning, and he soon lifted the basket on one side, and crawling out, quickly made his escape.

When the giant returned and called for his supper, he was very angry on finding that the little boy had run away. He immediately walked off over the fields to the great apple tree, for he felt pretty sure he would find the little boy there.

Sure enough, there he was high up in the branches, eating a big red apple. The giant asked him to come down and hand him some more apples, and he said, "This time I will not touch you." At first the little boy was frightened, but finally he trusted to the good promises of the giant and climbed down towards him. As soon as he came within reach of the latter he was caught with no gentle hand and again carried back in the bag. The giant now bade his wife very sternly to be sure that the little fellow should not escape, and said to her, "Tomorrow night you may serve him up for my supper."

The woman locked the little boy up in an empty room, where she felt sure he would be safe. He looked about for a long time, seeking some way by which to free himself. At last he saw a very small window up in the ceiling of the room. The walls of the room were very high, and he felt that if he could get to this window perhaps the giant could not reach him.

Next day the giant looked into the room to see that all was secure, and at first he could not see the little boy, but presently he spied him sitting on the ledge of the small window away up near the ceiling.

"How did you get there?" said the giant.

"I put one chair on top of another," said the little boy.

The giant tried this plan, but he was very clumsy, and when he attempted to step on the chairs they slipped and he fell to the floor. Then in a very stern voice he ordered the little boy to tell him how he reached that high window.

The little boy said, "I climbed here by piling eggs one on top of another, then I climbed up the stack of eggs."

The giant tried this plan, but of course the eggs would not stay one on top of another, but rolled off over the floor. He was very angry by this time and said, "You must tell me, or I will surely kill you when I reach you."

Then the little boy said, "You see that large hook in the side of the wall? I stood on a chair and hung myself by my coat to that hook. Then I kicked away the chair, and that made it possible for me to jump from the hook to this window."

Then the giant followed this plan, and of course when he kicked away the chair, according to the directions of the little boy, he was hung by the hook and choked to death.

By and bye his wife came in and found him dead. Then she cried, for she loved the cruel giant who was her husband.

Meantime, the little boy climbed down and fled away to his father's shop. He had been gone almost two days, and his father was much troubled. He said, "Why, where have you been, my little son? Where is the fresh water I sent you to bring me?"

The little boy narrated all that had happened to him. His father told him that he had done very well for so small a boy, but that he had better not meddle again with other people's property or try any more strange adventures. Then he took him home to his mother, who had been weeping these two days. She rejoiced over having him back safe and well, and they all lived happy forever after."—Ladies' World.

A Vegetable Phenomenon.

A strange phenomenon in vegetation, says the Baltimore Sun, exists on the farm of Mr. A. W. Cullison, of near Mount Zion, Fifth district. In one field grass over a considerable area is growing in concentric circles. The rings of grass are very nearly perfect, and vary in diameter from eighteen to forty-five feet, and are about eight inches in width.

KNIGHTS IN CONCLAVE

TEMPLARS HOLD ANNUAL ENCAMPMENT IN LOUISVILLE.

Thirty Thousand Plumed Warriors March Through the Streets, While Ten Times That Number Watch from the Sidewalks—The Order Growing.

A parade of 30,000 plumed knights marching to the music of three score brass bands marked the formal opening of the twenty-eighth triennial conclave of the grand encampment of the Knights Templar in Louisville, Ky., on Tuesday. Railway officials state that nearly 100,000 visitors were in the city.

The Grand Parade.

The parade started at Seventh and Main streets and moved up Main to Brook street, where officers of the grand encampment in carriages joined the marchers. Then the paraders moved up Market street, Sixth street, Jefferson street, Fourth street, passing the court of honor, Chestnut street, Floyd street, Broadway, Fourth street, passing under the grand arch, Kentucky street, Third street, Hill street, Fifth street, St. James court and to Central Park, where the parade disbanded.

The sidewalk were a solid mass of spectators, while every window along the course and every other vantage point was occupied to the limit. The official reviewing stand was at Thirty-ninth and Hill streets, but there were a number of oth-

While the knights were drilling, the business end of the conclave—the meeting of the grand encampment—got under way at the Girls' high school. When Grand Master Lloyd called the meeting to order there were about 120 knights present to transact business. The grand master's, the grand treasurer's, the grand recorder's and a number of other reports were received and referred to their proper committees.

Knights' Order Grows.

The report of Grand Master Reuben H. Lloyd contained the following: "The order is in a most satisfactory and healthy condition and steadily growing. The present term, which began July 1, 1899, commenced with 114,540 members and closed with 125,108. The order is in a much more healthy condition than it was before the promulgation of the decision that voluntarily remaining a non-affiliate in lodge or chapter for six months would affect membership in a commandery, for now every member of the order is sustaining it, root and branch.

"Since our last session a formal treaty of peace has been entered into between the United States and Spain. By ninety days of actual warfare over 10,000,000 people, occupying more than 260,000 square miles of the earth's surface, were freed from oppression. Where it was dangerous to be a Mason, our order may now securely spread its humanizing and elevating influences. The school house and the lodge can labor together to brush aside ignorance and superstition and teach the down-trodden people the blessings of civil and religious liberty. We should indeed feel proud—as we do—that a Templar was the guiding spirit in

INDIANA INCIDENTS TERSELY TOLD.

Nurses the Man She Shot—A Burning Tent Causes Panic at Sullivan Street Fair—Freight Wreck at Burdick—Toughs Mob Negroes.

Maddened by insane jealousy, Frances E. Fry, a young woman who recently came to La Porte, from Chicago, shot and seriously wounded J. Fry, a saloonkeeper. The shooting took place at Fry's country home. It is alleged that Fry had paid marked attention to the woman and she had insisted that their marriage take place. Fry refused to consent to an alliance and the other night, when she found him in company with another woman, she fired a bullet into his head. The woman is a nurse at his bedside at the Holy Family Hospital.

Fatal Fire at a Street Fair.
A show tent belonging to a New York vaudeville company burned to the ground at Sullivan, where a street fair is in progress. A performance was going on and the tent was packed with women and children, who rushed over one another in trying to get out. Several small children were trampled during the panic. Lillie May, aged 16, an actress, inhaled the flames to her fatal injury. She was badly burned about the face and arms. A man was also badly burned in trying to save some of the belongings.

Seriously Hurt in Wreck.
Seventeen cars of a west-bound Lake Shore freight train were piled up in a wreck at Burdick. The air brakes failed to operate and the train was cut into two sections, which collided with terrific force, piling up an immense amount of wreckage. J. C. Teeter, of Garrett, received serious injuries. He was taking a car of cattle to Chicago and was pinioned in one of the wrecked cars. The other cars were loaded with merchandise and the loss to the company may reach $20,000.

Negroes Mobbed by Roughs.
The riotous gang known as the Bungaloes, which has defied the Indianapolis police authorities for several years, occasionally running amuck and usually singling out negroes for attack, gathered in force the other night at Fairview Park, five miles from the city, and compelled every negro to flee for his life. There were a number of assaults, and one negro named Harris, who refused to leave when ordered, was knocked down with a boulder and his arm was broken.

Find Oil at Hartford City.
The biggest oil gusher yet found in that field was struck in wildcat territory on a small tract of land just east of the corporation line at Hartford City. The well is owned by Pierce & Thomas, and after being drilled fifty feet into the Trenton rock flowed over the casing. There is no salt water and very little gas in the well, and it is a vast scope of new territory and there is a wild scramble for leases in the vicinity of the well.

State News in Brief.
Richard Darling, a Pennsylvania brakeman, fell between cars at Donaldson, and was cut to pieces. His home was in Chicago.

Leroy K. Stimmel, aged 16, shot himself at Richmond and died soon after. It is not known whether the shooting was accidental.

Miss Anna Kohr, 19 years of age, a society girl of Mt. Olive, committed suicide by taking carbolic acid, because she imagined her sweetheart, Albert Butts, was becoming cold toward her.

The Margaret Smith Home for Aged Women at Richland has received from William B. Leeds, of New York, a gift of $25,000 in the name of his mother, Mrs. Hannah Leeds, who resides at Richland.

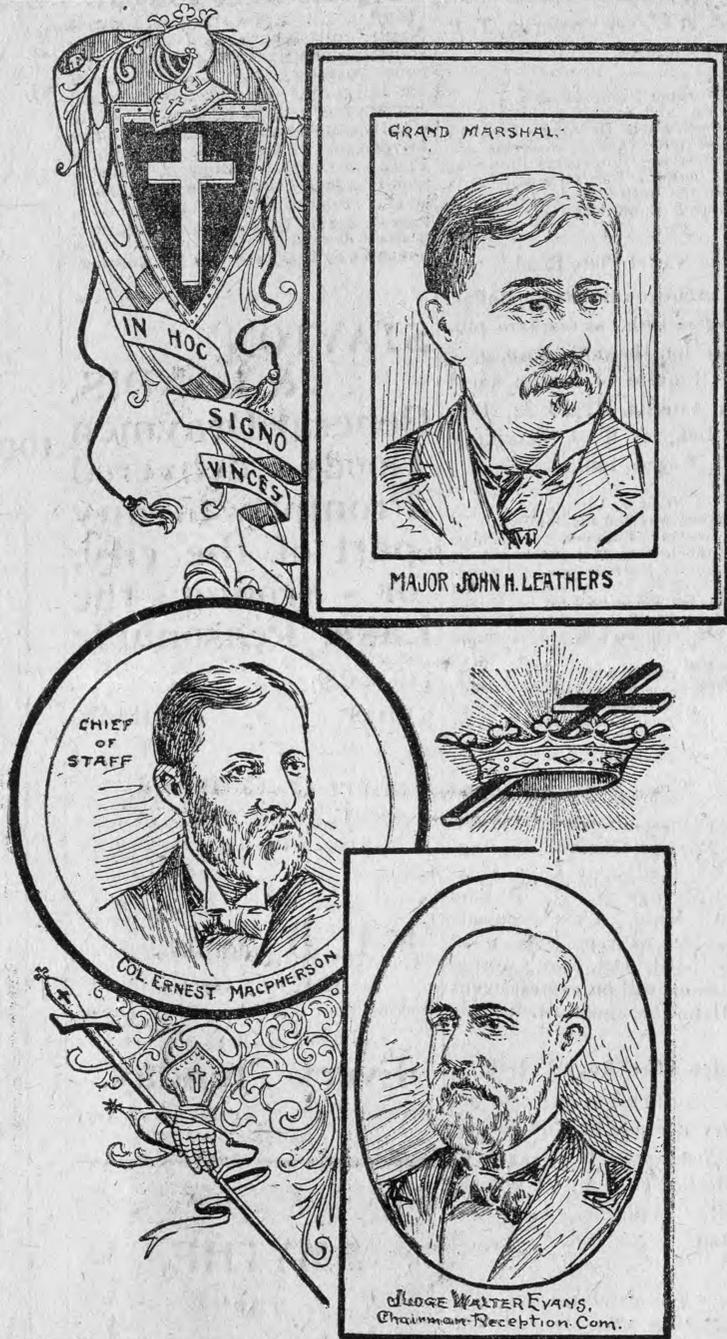

The farm residence of Laurin Humbarger, in Thorn Creek Township, was struck by lightning and Mrs. Humbarger and her 14-year-old daughter were seriously injured. The house was badly wrecked.

Mrs. Lucy Washington, a colored woman 112 years old, who recently fell down a stairway in the county infirmary at Kokomo, and sustained serious injuries, is rapidly recovering and expects to live twenty-five years yet.

Ora Jennings, who was umpiring a game of baseball at Farmersburg, was struck over the head with a ball bat by Marcellus Forbes, one of the players, who was incensed by one of the decisions. Jennings' skull is fractured, and he cannot recover.

Washington Colton, a merchant at Mill Creek, engaged in a fight at 3 o'clock in the morning with a robber whom he found in his store. The two men fought a duel in the dark with their revolvers, four shots being exchanged. Then they grappled and began beating each other with the butt of their revolvers until both were bathed in blood and their heads and faces were a mass of wounds. The robber became weak from loss of blood and Colton finally felled his antagonist. The robber refuses to give his name.

It is believed Charles Campbell, of Lafayette, a soldier in the Spanish-American war, was murdered in service, instead of dying a natural death, as relations have supposed. His regiment went to Savannah, en route to Cuba. His body was sent to his brother's home, in Albion, with a certificate of death from spinal meningitis, and theasket was not allowed to be opened. Some of his friends raised his shroud, however, and found a gunshot wound, and they recently told his father. The young man had hinted at trouble with an officer, and the war department will be asked to investigate.

THREE OFFICERS OF THE KNIGHTS TEMPLAR CONCLAVE.

ers at various points. An extra force of police kept the crowd in order and maintained a perfectly clear path for the marchers. The parade was a magnificent spectacle of life and color. Mile after mile of tossing plumes and fluttering pennons and band after band discoursing stirring marches had the crowd of spectators jammed against the wires till the last knight left the ranks. The commanderies of Illinois, Pennsylvania and Indiana, numbering about 1,200 each, made up an entire division. The formal welcome to the knights was extended by Judge Barker of Louisville, acting for Gov. Beekham, and ex-Congressman W. C. P. Brockbridge.

- A spectacular competitive drill by the crack commanderies of the country attracted a crush of Knights Templar conclave visitors to Churchill downs on Wednesday. Following were the contestants in the drill:
- Columbia Commandery, No. 2, Washington, D. C.
- Colorado Commandery, No. 1, Denver, Colo.
- Hanselman Commandery, No. 35, Cincinnati, Ohio.
- Allegheny Commandery, No. 35, Pittsburgh, Pa.
- St. Bernard Commandery, No. 1, Chicago.
- Calvary Commandery, No. 3, Parkersburg, W. Va.
- Golden Gate Commandery, No. 16, San Francisco, Cal.
- California Commandery, No. 2 (mounted), San Francisco, Cal.

The actions of some of the girls who are employed at certain hotels as waiters etc., this summer, have been scandalous. In many instances, their language and actions in public places, would have caused a blush of shame to mantle the cheeks of the lowest prostitute that ever graced the streets of a large city. If there is not a halt called, the HERALD will expose the vile creatures, who, if they had received their just deserts would have been run out of town long ago. They are not only a menace to society, but are working the ruin of some of the boys that are just blooming into manhood. No hotel should boast of respectability that will knowingly keep such people around.

Consolation and Comfort.

Who is it that does not wish to be out in the open air or alive in some field of sport, whether it be with the bat, rod or gun; whether we go coasting over the hills and vales on the wheel or sailing over rough waves or into serene coves, it is all sport, and the springing muscles seem to need it. It is bound to happen that some mishap will occur. Thus it is that we have sprains in abundance. Light sprains, sprains that cripple, sprains that give great pain, sprains that rob us of sleep, but sportsmen of all kinds have come to know that there is nothing better than the old, reliable St. Jacobs Oil. Have it with you for use; you may rely on its cure of the worst sprain and restoration to the comforts of life.

Hazardous

Life Insurance Agent (filling out application)—Your general health is good, is it not?

Applicant—Never had a sick day in my life.

Agent—Um! You do not contemplate entering upon any hazardous undertaking, I suppose?

Applicant—Well, yes, I am afraid I do. I am going to get married next Wednesday.—Answers.

Excusable.

First Sheep—But the young folks are so giddy and thoughtless! They don't consider the future!

Second Sheep—Oh, well, my dear, you can't expect a young lamb to spend all its time thinking of roast mutton!—Puck.

Couldn't Wear Shoes.

Sumpter, Ill., Sept. 9.—Mrs. J. B. Flanigan of this place had suffered with Dropsy for fifteen years. She was so very bad that for the last three years she has not been able to wear her shoes. She had doctored all the time, but was gradually getting worse.

Last winter Mr. Flanigan, who was very much discouraged, called for some medicine at Mr. J. J. Dale's drug store in Carmi. Mr. Dale persuaded him to have his wife try Dodd's Kidney Pills, and he bought six boxes. His wife used five out of the six, before she was entirely cured. She is now as sound and well as ever she was, completely restored to health, and free from any symptom whatever of Dropsy.

To say that Mrs. Flanigan is pleased at her wonderful deliverance does not half express her feelings, and she and Mr. Flanigan are loud in their praises of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and of Mr. Dale for recommending this wonderful remedy to them.

The fact that Dodd's Kidney Pills cured Mrs. Flanigan of such a severe case of Dropsy, after the doctors had given her up, has made them the most talked of remedy ever known in White County.

DOCTORS GIVE HOPE

Express Opinion Tuesday that McKinley Will Live.

THINK DANGER PAST.

First Part of Critical Time Shows No Evidence of Complications.

Watchers at the Patient's Side Cheered by Change in His Condition—First Nourishment Given Since Tragedy Is Injected in Liquid Form—Final Medical Judgment Withheld for the Sake of Prudence, but Physicians Expect No Unfavorable Turn.

"President McKinley will live." This, according to a Buffalo dispatch early Tuesday morning, was the private opinion of the attending physicians, although for the sake of prudence they decided to withhold this assertion from the public bulletins for several hours. While the doctors were evidently of the opinion that the chances were all in favor of the President, medical experience with similar wounds caused enough anxiety to make them extremely cautious in their public statements.

The hazardous period of seventy-two hours immediately following the shooting and the operation was passed without the first sign of blood poisoning. The President late Tuesday afternoon seemed to be recovering rapidly. Monday his surgeons said if he could pass another twenty-four hours without complications he would surely get well. The twenty-four hours showed nothing but improvement.

Monday night's official bulletin was of such tenor as to add confidence of the soundest and most rational sort to the hopefulness of the day. As yet the surgeons in charge of the case did not feel that they were professionally warranted in officially declaring the President out of danger. It is well understood that Drs. McBurney, Park, Mann and Rixey are conservatism itself. They are not going to affix their signatures to a declaration that all danger has disappeared until they are doubly sure of it. At the same time they stated privately to the family of the President, to the members of the Cabinet and to immediate friends that the danger line had been crossed.

SPEAKS AT THE FAIR

M'KINLEY IS PROUD OF OUR NEW GLORIES.

President's Day at the Buffalo Exposition the Occasion of His Speech—He Draws Attention to Our Wonderful Progress in Commerce.

President's Day at the Buffalo exposition brought out crowds who took the opportunity to see the nation's chief. What was probably the greatest crowd that ever assembled on the Esplanade at the Pan-American grounds greeted the President with cheers as he entered the stand erected there. The Esplanade was crowded to suffocation and the vast assemblage overflowed to the court of fountains. President McKinley's address was the great feature of the day and its telling points were welcomed with repeated applause.

After the formal exercises the Presidential party made the tour of the grounds under the escort of the exposition officers.

Speech by the President.

President Milburn, Director General Buchanan, commissioners, ladies and gentlemen: I am glad to be again in the city of Buffalo and exchange greetings with her people, to whose generous hospitality I am not a stranger, and with whose good will I have been repeatedly and signally honored. To-day I have additional satisfaction in meeting and giving welcome to the foreign representatives assembled here, whose presence and participation in this exposition have contributed in so marked a degree to its interests and success. To the commissioners of the Dominion of Canada and the British colonies, the French colonies, the Republic of Mexico and of Central and South America and the commissioners of Cuba and Porto Rico, who share with us in this undertaking, we give the hand of fellowship and felicitate with them upon the triumphs of art, science, education and manufacture which the older has bequeathed to the new country.

Expositions are the timekeepers of progress. They record the world's advancement. They stimulate the energy, enterprise and intellect of the people and quicken human genius. They go into the home. They broaden and brighten the daily life of the people. They open mighty storehouses of information to the student. Every exposition, great or small, has helped to some onward step. Comparison of ideas is always educational; and as such instructs the brain and hand of man. Friendly rivalry follows, which is the spur of industrial improvement, the inspiration to useful invention and to high endeavor in all departments of human activity. It exacts a study of the wants, comforts and even the whims of the people and recognizes the efficacy of high quality and low prices to win their favor.

The quest for trade is an incentive to men of business to devise, invent, improve and economize in the cost of production. Business life, whether among ourselves or with other peoples, is ever a sharp struggle for success. It will be none the less so in the future.

My fellow citizens, trade statistics indicate that this country is in a state of unexampled prosperity. The figures are almost appalling. They show that we are utilizing our fields, forests and mines, that we are furnishing profitable employment to the millions of working men throughout the United States, bringing comfort and happiness to their homes and making it possible to lay by savings for old age and disability. That all the people are participating in this great prosperity is seen in every American community and shown by the enormous and unprecedented deposits in our savings banks. Our duty in the care and security of these deposits and their safe investment demands the highest integrity and the best business

A METHODIST BISHOP GIVES PE-RU-NA GREAT CREDIT.

BISHOP GRANT, OF INDIANAPOLIS.

Bishop A. Grant, of Indianapolis, Ind., writes the following letter:

Indianapolis, Indiana,
3349 N. Pennsylvania Street.
Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.:

Gentlemen—"I have been using Peruna for catarrh and can cheerfully recommend your remedy to anyone who wants a good medicine."—A. Grant.

Prominent members of the clergy are giving Peruna their unqualified endorsement. These men find Peruna especially adapted to preserve them from catarrh of the vocal organs, which has always been the bane of public speakers, and general catarrhal debility incident to the sedentary life of the clergyman. Among the recent utterances of noted clergymen on the curative virtues of Peruna is the above one from Bishop Grant.

Writes His Recommendation For the Famous Catarrh Remedy, Pe-ru-na.

The day was when men of prominence hesitated to give their testimonials to proprietary medicines for publication. This remains true to-day of most proprietary medicines. But Peruna has become so justly famous, its merits are known to so many people of high and low station that none hesitates to see his name in print recommending Peruna.

The following letters from pastors who use Peruna speak for themselves:

Rev. E. G. Smith, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, of Greensboro, Ga., writes:

"My little boy had been suffering for some time with catarrh of the lower bowels. Other remedies had failed, but after taking two bottles of Peruna the trouble almost entirely disappeared. For this special malady I consider it well nigh a specific."—Rev. E. G. Smith.

Rev. A. S. Vaughn, Eureka Springs, Ark., says: "I had been prostrated by congestive chills and was almost dead; as soon as able to be about, I commenced the use of Peruna. I took five bottles; my strength returned rapidly and I am now enjoying my usual health."—Rev. A. S. Vaughn.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

Endurance.

A gentleman who attended a lecture delivered by the late Miss Mary Kingsley at the Imperial Institute relates a very interesting anecdote of her. It brings out strongly the spirit of endurance and sense of humor, without which this well-known traveler could not have accomplished her various and arduous undertakings.

"I dare say you noticed last evening," said Miss Kingsley, dryly, "that I was jumping about like a cat on hot bricks."

She was assured that no signs of such Memorial Services.

Thursday, all over this broad land the last sad tribute was paid to the nation's hero, statesman, and President. Services were held throughout the United States, and Culver was not found wanting when the time came to memorize and dwell upon the noble deeds and goodness of our martyred President. At two o'clock p. m., the M. E. Church, which was appropriately decorated for the occasion, was well filled with citizens from this community, who with tear-dimmed eyes to addresses made by the Reverend gentlemen, Smith and Browns, Prof. Hahn and Dr. Rea. The choir sang the deceased President's favorite hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee" and other beautiful hymns appropriate for the occasion. The speakers, although bowed down with grief over the national calamity, spoke touchingly of the life and character of our departed chieftain. And now, the current of life will move on, saddened and chastened by this awful experience, and while we deplore the loss of this great and noble man, we can rejoice to know that his successor is a man who is in general accord with the policies of the government and will in his own way work them out. He is a man of noble impulses, the highest motives and the loftiest courage. He is a true American in spirit and purpose, and there need be no fear that he will lack the high qualities of heart, intellect and temperament necessary to a successful management of the affairs of our country.

A Great Day for Cleveland.

The city of Cleveland will certainly remember Wednesday, Sept. 11th, as one of the greatest days in her history, and those who walked her streets will remember it as a great day in their lives.

On every hand gay flags and beautiful decorations met the eye of the incoming traveler, to give him a hearty welcome and stir up the patriotic blood within him.

Great crowds of people moved to and fro, about the Public Square, and before the parade began had gathered in large numbers along the line of march, even going far out on Euclid Avenue towards the starting point. My friend and I, finding it impossible to secure a good position near the Square started out Euclid, but after walking a long distance, gave up in despair and contented ourselves with standing on a fence about one hundred feet away from the street.

For more than three long hours, those blood-stained veterans marched by keeping step to the beat of drum. We looked upon them as aged men of war about to make their last long march, but they saw us again through the eyes of youth, as their pulse-beats quickened at the strains of martial music, and their thoughts went back to the days of long ago.

At the end of the line of march, near the place of review was a large stand on which sat 1470 girls, dressed and arranged so that, when viewed from a distance, they resembled a large flag. Each girl carried a handkerchief of the same color as her dress, and it was a beautiful sight as they raised to their feet, waved their handkerchiefs, or sang to the passing heroes.

A representative of the Boston Herald, with whom I chanced to talk a day or two later, concerning the encampment, estimated the number who marched in the parade at 20,000, while another report placed the number at 27,000. What an army of noble men! May God ever bless those heroes who went forth to fight for home and country that the Union might be preserved and become a leader among the nations of the world.
