NEWS FOR THE HERALD,

Written by Our Special Reporter.

With seven straight victories and not a defeat behind them, the football team from Lewis Institute came to Culver Saturday determined to break the string of defeats they have received here for the last four years. It was a bitter pill for coach Garoste and his husky team to swallow, but the sportsmanlike spirit always shown by the teams representing this institute was evident all through the game Saturday. After the first five minutes of play, it was very clear that the cadets could more than hold their own with their opponents. Before the game had fairly started, Lewis had gotten the ball in the center of the field and rushed it to our five yard line. Here they had all kinds of trouble in getting it across, but finally managed to push it over for their only score. It looked then as if we would be beaten by quite a large score, but Lewis was playing up to the last ounce of their strength and Culver was loafing. After the second kick-off, the team woke up and began a march to the goal. Baucus would crash through the line for from five to ten yards with good interference. VanRyper, Koontz and Wood circled the ends, Morse and Knight tore holes through tackles, and Referee Voris kept the linemen on the jump registering the first downs. On the five yard line, Lewis braced and threw a Culver player for a loss, and it looked like they would stave off a touch-down, but on the next play Baucus breaking through tackle fell with the ball just behind the line for a touch-down. Time was called two minutes after Horne had kicked goal. In the second half, Lewis was forced to play almost entirely on the defensive and they fought desperately to keep the score down. Twice the cadets pushed the ball to within a yard or two of the goal, only to lose it on downs. Score Culver 6, Lewis, 5. Line up:

Last Saturday morning, the football teams of B and C Companies met in what proved to be the deciding game in the company championship. By winning the game with a score of 6 to 0. B company gets the banner offered by the Academy. The game was close and exciting, both teams played well on the defense and both sets of backs gained consistently. B company's line held better and turned the tide. Spellman, Henderson, Kramer, Blair, and Garotte did most of the work for B company, while Dodson, Gibbs and Ely for C were in the game from start to finish.

John Hoover. Pioneer of Huntington County.

The subject of this sketch was born in Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, July 8th, 1821, and died at home in Huntington, Ind., last Friday, and was the father of E. F. Hoover of this city.

His father died when he was a mere youth. He had four brothers. The mother re-married, but prior to that event he had been bound out to a turner and cabinet maker, and after her marriage he preferred the home of his employer rather than that of his step-father.

In 1845, having served his full apprenticeship, he first came to Huntington, but not finding the town sufficient to justify remaining here in his avocation, went to Logansport, in which city he was married to Agnes E. Hubric. He returned to Huntington in 1848, and having secured a location for the conduct of his business, opened a shop in the old frame house on Warren street opposite Library Hall. The family occupied the second floor as living apartments, while his work shop, lathe etc., were upon the ground floor.

The wife of his youth died in 1874. Nine children were born to the marriage, all of whom are still living. In 1887, he was married a second time, the bride being Catherine Long. She died in 1893.

In 1867, Mr. Hoover joined the M. E. church, near his home in Whitley county. Later on, after his second marriage, he transferred his church membership to the English Lutheran church, with which he was identified until his death.

For some time he had made his home with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh S. Null, at No. 99 Oak street, at which place his death occurred.

The funeral service was conducted from the Lutheran church on East Washington street, Sunday afternoon, Rev. Pence officiating. It was largely attended, indicating the warm esteem in which he was held by the community.

Mr. Hoover was an honorable, upright man, and his life was one which is worthy of emulation. His passing marks the close of a career which was a credit to his descendants, and his name is honored and respected in every circle.—Huntington Evening Herald.

THE CAMPFIRE!

OLD VETERANS MEET.

Their Experience in The Sunny South Vividly Portrayed.

Arouses the Enthusiasm of the Old Veteran Till he Imagines he is Marching Through Georgia Again.

The Henry Speyer post of Culver gave its first public camp-fire Wednesday evening, which was attended by a large and appreciative audience. There was quite a number of visitors present, including Rev. Clifton of Iowa, who gave a very interesting talk of those trying times when the brave boys in blue faced shot and shell, in fact were ready and willing to sacrifice their lives for the preservation of the union. Dr. Kea, George Ulery, and other old veterans, gave very interesting sketches of the days when they marched upon Southern soil, and like "Mr. Peck" helped put down the rebellion. It was a most glorious meeting, and reminds us that ere many more years roll around, the last old veteran will answer to the final roll call, and the planting of flowers upon their graves and their achievements in history will be all there is left to remind us of the men who fought to a successful finish, the greatest and bloodiest war of modern times. And when we see what the result has been, and know that we are the greatest nation on earth, with unlimited credit and prosperity, we claim that enough cannot be done for the few remaining heroes of that great army, and if any one of them suffers on account of neglect, the country which they saved and perpetuated, should blush with shame.

Thursday—the Plymouth Democrat entered upon its 47th year as a newspaper, and looks as hale and hearty as it did when it was a youngster. Its proprietor, Daniel McDonald, one of the veteran editors of the state, announces that a daily will soon be issued from the Democrat office, and we will wager when that time arrives that "the distinguished representative" will have to look sharp or he will get left in the shuffle. But then, as all great men can't always get "a little bit off the top" he will probably survive.

Broker Supposed to Be Very Rich Lies and Money Could Not Be Found for Twenty-five Years—An Unprofitable Hold-Up in Chicago.

The mystery of the disappearance of the fortune of $3,000,000 left by Isaac S. Holbrook, a New York stock broker who died suddenly in 1876, is at last to be cleared up. When he died he was regarded as a millionaire, but on the settlement of his affairs his wife and his three children were unable to get track of the bulk of his property. Holbrook's home at East Marion, L. I., worth $75,000, passed out of the hands of his family on a small claim and is now owned by the wife of Commodore Latham Fish. Suit has been brought to recover this property and the investigation prosecuted in respect to it has revealed the existence of other property of the estimated value of $3,000,000. Isaac S. Holbrook, Jr., was a baby when his father died, but is now 26 years old. He has been prosecuting the search for his father's estate with vigor. There are now, as a result of his exertions, in a lawyer's office two big battered tin boxes in which repose the original title deeds to millions of dollars' worth of real estate purchased by his father in the early 70's and which could not be traced before owing to the fact that the deeds were not in Holbrook's name. In those boxes are the deeds to 462,000 acres of land in Kentucky, part of which is said to be rich in oil and mineral deposits. The value of this tract of land is said to exceed $2,000,000. Then there are deeds to a tract of land in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., a conservative valuation of which is not less than $500,000.

HOLD UP 19, BUT GET ONLY $6.

Robbers Ought to Have Known Better than to Visit a Lodging House.

Two men, armed with twice as many revolvers, held up nineteen guests and the clerk of the Barnett House in Chicago. When they had partly completed their job they were interrupted and calmly backed out of the hotel and mingled with the crowd on the street. The clerk and the roomers were lounging in the office when two men entered and adjusted masks. Then they drew two pairs of revolvers and commanded the roomers to line up against the wall. When this order was obeyed they cleaned out the money drawer and then rifled the safe. Their reward in this direction was but $6.

Held Up by Masked Men.

While a bus was on its way to North Valley City, S. D., about 7 o'clock the other evening, it was held up by masked men and a number of the passengers relieved of their valuables. There were seventeen passengers aboard the vehicle and about half of them lost money and other valuables, the amount secured being about $400.

FROM THE FOUR QUARTERS OF THE EARTH

FIND HOUSE OF TRAGEDY.

Chicago Police Say the Natoli Murder Mystery Is Solved.

The murder of Antonio Natoli has been explained to the satisfaction of the Chicago police. The wagon in which it is supposed the body was carted away and thrown out on the prairie has been discovered, and the house in which the police believe the murder was committed has been located. The occupant of the house, Felipe Rini, is under arrest. With him was found Giovanni Scarafai, but it is not believed he had anything to do with the murder. Natoli, the police say, was decoyed to the home of Felipe Rini, 192 North Union street, murdered, his body placed in a barrel, and removed, with the assistance of a gray horse and covered wagon. Frank Colby, a private watchman, informed the police that he saw two men take a barrel out of the basement and place it in a wagon, which was backed up to the front door. Of the two he recognized one as Felipe Rini, the peddler occupant of the house. When the police entered the house they found nothing to indicate that a tragedy had been committed there. The first floor apparently had not been occupied for several days. Passing down the half dozen narrow steps leading to the basement, the searchers found a different scene. The walls and floor were bespattered with blood. Clothing hanging against the wall was damp, showing that a seeming effort had been made to remove the blood stains. Concealed in the corner of the basement were two hatchets, while a knife lay on the table. All bore blood stains upon them, although efforts had been made to remove the dark marks. The crime was undoubtedly committed to obtain the $300 which Natoli was known to have had.

"CORPSE" WANTS TO GO TO WORK.

Man Pronounced Dead Proves to Have Had a Fit.

John Sesler gave a Painesville, Ohio, undertaker the scare of his life by his refusal to consider himself dead. Sesler is subject to fits. He had one on his way to work and fell unconscious to the sidewalk on the main street of the town. A passing physician pronounced the man dead. Some one telephoned an undertaker, and an ambulance was soon on the scene. The body was placed within the ambulance, and the horses started towards Sesler's home on the outskirts of the town. Half way there the supposed corpse sat up and asked where he was going. The driver gasped that they were taking him home. "I don't want to go home," said Sesler. "I want to go to work." So the driver had to turn about and take him back to town. There Sesler climbed down and walked away whistling.

THREE HUNDRED HORSES BURN.

Excelsior Hauling and Transfer Company Stables at St. Louis Destroyed.

In St. Louis fire completely destroyed the stables and barns of the Excelsior Hauling and Transfer Company. Together with the buildings, sheds and about $12,000 worth of feed in the lofts, 300 head of horses and mules lost their lives in the flames. Col. Ed Butler, president of the company, said that $150,000 would be a low estimate of the total loss. He said that the stock was insured for $100 per head and that there was insurance on the contents possibly covering one-half or two-thirds of their value.

Jumps from Steamer in Midlake.

The Barry steamer Stafford, which reached Grand Haven, Mich., from Chicago the other morning, reports that a well-dressed young man, who secured passage on the boat, jumped into the lake. He was not seen to make the jump, but his hat, overcoat, shoes and other effects were found on the deck. In his stateroom was found a note, in which he signed himself J. H. Bissell.

Woman Commits Fiendish Crime.

Thomas Kelley, 38 years old, an engineer of Williamsburg, lies in the Eastern District hospital in New York, blinded and his face shockingly mutilated by carbolic acid. The attack upon him, for which Kelley claims to be unable to account, was made by his wife Elizabeth, he says.

Big Fire in Bradford, Pa.

One of the worst fires in the history of Bradford, Pa., occurred the other morning. It originated in the livery stable of Frank P. Beamer and consumed a dozen buildings, including the $35,000 city hall. Thirty-seven horses in the livery stable perished in the flames.

BOYS SENT TO WAR IN AFRICA.

Shipped to Cape Town from an Employment Agency in St. Louis.

Frank L. Porter, a merchant of Logansport, Ind., has complained to Congressman George W. Steele of the Logansport district that his son, Lenon Porter, aged 16, who left his home Aug. 13, in answer to an advertisement of a St. Louis employment agency, is being shipped, with twenty-two other boys, to South Africa, where, it is said, they will be forced into the British army to fight against the Boers. Congressman Steele has promised to submit the complaint to the State Department with a view to having young Porter intercepted when he reaches Cape Town. The senior Porter went to St. Louis to see the manager of an employment company which ships muleteers to South Africa. His visit was prompted by the receipt of a letter from a man named Cable in New Orleans, telling him that Lenon has shipped from New Orleans for South Africa, Oct. 17, on the steamer Monterey. After his return to Logansport he announced that he had discovered that the St. Louis employment agency was virtually a British recruiting station and that the management received $3 for each recruit. The manager of the agency denies Mr. Porter's charges and says he knows nothing about the latter's son.

MAY BE THE TRAIN LOOT.

Woman Arrested Carrying $50,000 Believed to Be Robbery Proceeds.

In St. Louis the police have made another important arrest in connection with the Great Northern express robbery of July 3 near Wagner, Mont., and took a valise containing between $30,000 and $50,000 in notes of the National Bank of Helena, which are supposed to be a part of the proceeds of that haul. A woman who registered at the Laclede Hotel as "Mrs. Rose" was taken into custody by city detectives and escorted to Chief Desmond's office, where she confessed that she had forged the signatures of officers of the bank to the notes. Beyond that statement the woman would not say a word other than to deny any knowledge of the man named Arnold, whom the police arrested the previous night in connection with the robbery. The arrest was made just as "Mrs. Rose" was leaving the hotel. She carried a bag in which was a bunch of $20 bills. This, with her trunk, which was being loaded into an express wagon, is at police headquarters. "Mrs. Rose" did not know how much money the valise contained. When she counted it last she said there was on hand between $30,000 and $50,000. She had spent much money since her arrival in St. Louis.

LIVES LOST IN THEATER FIRE.

Flames Quickly Devour Frame Buildings in Hurley, Wis.

Eight persons, one of them a woman, were burned to death at Hurley, Wis., in a fire which consumed the Klondike Theater. Three women and one man, members of the troupe that had been playing at the theater nightly during the week, were injured by leaping from their sleeping rooms when awakened by the roar of the flames. The theater, as also five other buildings destroyed, was of frame and burned with terrible swiftness. The sleeping actresses and actors, when they were awakened at 4 a. m., found themselves surrounded by flames, from which escape seemed almost impossible. Those who saved themselves leaped from the second and third story windows, receiving severe injuries. None had time to dress or save valuables.

ANARCHIST UP FOR MURDER.

New Jersey Weaver Arrested on Charge of Slaying Traitorous Comrade.

Antonio Livenro, a silk weaver, was arrested in New York charged with the murder of Frank Panizzone at Summit, N. J., on the night of March 17. Livenro is an avowed anarchist. It is asserted that he killed Panizzone, who was a friend of Bresci, the slayer of King Humbert, because Panizzone was believed to have given information to the authorities about Italian anarchists. Panizzone conducted a boarding house in Summit, N. J.

Oil Trust Wins a Victory.

Judge A. S. Tibbets and C. C. Wright, referees of the Supreme Court of Nebraska, filed a reply in the case of the State against the Standard Oil Company. The suit was to debar the company on the ground that it was a trust and doing business contrary to the anti-trust law of Nebraska. The referees find that the evidence does not sustain the allegations of the State.

Guilty of Child's Murder.

At Fort Wayne, Ind., Charles Dunn was found guilty of murder in the first degree and sentenced to the penitentiary for life. The jury was out twenty hours. The crime with which Dunn was charged was the murder of 10-year-old Alice Cothrell, whose body was fished from a cistern beneath Dunn's kitchen at Wallen, July 7 last.

Where Nature Is Upset.

Nature is all turned topsy-turvy in Iceland. Most people regard the island simply as an out-of-the-way spot of no particular consequence to anybody under the sun, yet it supports a frugal, industrious and pious people. It has almost a right to be called fireland, for there frost and fire are strangely mingled. The lofty mountains, towering skyward, are clad with snow fields and glaciers, yet at the same time send forth fire and steam and molten rock. At times the eruption, bursting forth suddenly, melts the ice and snow on the mountain sides, and great floods rush down into the valleys. On the cooled surface of the lava flow ice and snow accumulate, and then perhaps a new flow of lava covers up the ice without melting it. The ice is thus shut up as in a great natural icehouse, and may be so preserved for thousands of years. Dr. Geikie mentions a case in which a layer of ice occurs between two beds of lava in a geological section. The antiquity of such a bed of ice is to be measured in thousands and tens of thousands of years.

On a smaller scale is the famous Eis-hohle, a natural icehouse not far from Casselburg, in the Eifel. There on the hottest day in summer ice is to be found. This ice is famous, and was always served at the table of the elector of Cologne.

AN HONEST NAME.

An Illinois Statesman Tells a Good Story—Knew His Father's Son Would Not Lie.

The Honorable Alva Merrill of Chillicothe, member for the Twenty-fourth District State of Illinois House of Representatives, tells an interesting story: Some two years ago Mr. Merrill gave a testimonial stating that Dodd's Kidney Pills cured his rheumatism. This with Mr. Merrill's portrait were published in thousands of papers all over the United States.

ROB A WINDOW OF DIAMONDS.

Brilliant Electric Lights Do Not Prevent Daring Thieves.

Tuesday morning between 1 and 5 o'clock the Duhme Jewelry Company's show window, on Fourth street, Cincinnati, was broken by burglars who got away with about $20,000 worth of diamonds. They left a trail of diamonds clear to Fourth and Vine streets, dropping them as they ran and showing the direction of their flight. Further than Fourth and Vine there was no trace and there is absolutely no clue to the identity of the burglars. Several gems were found by messenger boys and the detectives picked up ten on the street. An ordinary cobblestone was hurled through the show window at a point where a tray containing seventy-five loose diamonds was located on a shelf. This they took and several pendants, but their work was evidently done in a hurry and many valuable stones were overlooked. The window was brilliantly lighted. Herman Kock, president of the company, said: "We are out about $20,000 if we don't get our diamonds back."

WOMAN SAVES FORCE.

Reveals Plot of Filipinos to Massacre Moncada Garrison.

A plot to massacre the American garrison at Moncada, province of Tarlac, Island of Luzon, has been revealed by the wife of one of the conspirators. Several of the town officials are implicated in the murderous scheme. The woman who revealed the plot hid a detective beneath a house in which the leaders of the conspiracy were meeting. Arrests followed, and many incriminating papers were seized. The plan was to set fire to a house close to the barracks, after dark, and when the soldiers came out to assist in extinguishing the flames, 150 conspirators, armed with bolos, were to rush on the guard, capture their arms and proceed to massacre the garrison.

Convicts at Liberty.

While Warden R. W. McLaughry was absent 400 convicts mutinied and seized arms at the new federal prison in Leavenworth, Kan. A long and desperate battle with the thirty guards followed. As the result one convict was shot dead, one was injured, four guards were wounded by the mutineers and twenty-six desperadoes escaped into the woods.

Three Trainmen Meet Death.

Three trainmen, all of Springfield, Mo., were killed on the Frisco road in North Springfield, in a collision between a switch engine and a "double-header." The engineer and the fireman were caught between the tank and the boiler of the rear engine of the "double-header" and scalded to death.

THE POWER OF WEALTH.

Little Francis, who has three brothers but no sister, got the part of the chicken containing the wishbone the other evening, and after dinner he discussed the subject of wishes with his father.

"S'posing," he said, "that you got a wishbone and could make just one wish that would come true, and I wanted a little baby sister and a pony and a million dollars, which would you wish for?"

"Well, let me see," his father answered. "It seems to me that it would be best to wish for the baby sister, because I might be able to make a million dollars in some way, and then of course I could buy the pony for you."

Francis sat solemnly thinking the matter over for a while, and then said: "Oh, well, wish for the million dollars. If we have that we can hire the doctor to keep on coming till he brings a little sister anyway."

Smoking in Cuba.

Cuba produces no tobacco for chewing or for pipe-smoking. The Cubans who smoke pipes might be counted on one's fingers without making a second round on the fingers. The cigar and the cigarette prevail. To what extent the Cuban cigarette might ever become popular with American smokers is a matter beyond determination. It is certain that most Americans of prolonged residence become, if they be smokers, addicted to the Cuban brands and find difficulty in weaning themselves back to American brands on their return.

No man has a right to do as he pleases, except when he pleases to do right.—Simmons.

Whate'er betide, man must toil on;
He may not pause too long to smile;
He must toil on with brain or brawn,
For life is such a little while.
When joy too strongly may beguile,
'Tis written, joy must be denied;
We may not pause too long to smile,
We must toil on, whate'er betide.

And when a sorrow comes to him
Man may not pause too long to weep,
Grief chastens, tasted at the brim,
But it destroys when quaffed too deep.

The onward march we still must keep
Howe'er the spirit may be tried,
We may not pause too long to weep,
We must toil on, whate'er betide.

AN ADVENTURE WITH WILD DOGS.

Ranging along the border where the territories of New Mexico and Arizona join are bands of wild dogs. They are commonly spoken of as the wild dogs of Arizona, and they are so bold and troublesome that ranchers and cowboys in the vicinity of their raids sometimes organize to destroy them.

These animals form a peculiar species, no naturalist having given us any history as to their origin. Some, however, think them to be a cross between a combination of the Siberian bloodhound and bulldog stock with that of the larger timber wolf of Arizona.

About seventeen years ago some resident cattlemen of New Mexico introduced for the first time some of these dogs on their ranches. A few years later the present species of wild dogs, now creating much trouble, put in an appearance. Hence the supposition as to their origin.

For a time these wild dogs, being limited in numbers, the depredations committed by them were comparatively slight. The timber wolves were not noticeably plentiful there, and while a sheep, a calf, or a colt was occasionally taken by them from one of the ranches, no regular effort on the part of the residents was put forth to exterminate the raiders.

At the present time, however, the short barks and long howls of these fierce denizens of the hills and mountain gorges are heard with more frequency than is agreeable to one living on a remote Arizona ranch. The din which a band of these hairy raiders can make on a quiet night is terrifying enough, being a hideous union of the mangled cries of the jaguar of the wolf and the jaguar, and the wolf. The deadliness of their bite, coupled with the uncouth appearance of the brutes, seems to cool one's ambition to secure a living specimen.

A full grown one weighs about one hundred pounds, and is from two and a half to three feet in height. The head is round-shaped, with short, sharp ears, and they are heaviest about the shoulders and neck. Their general color is dull gray, but long black hairs come straggling and bristling through their coats, giving them an aspect of the most forbidding uncouthness. The hunting of these brutes is attended with no small degree of danger. Once attacked they are quick to make a ferocious defense.

Hal Howard, a young ranchman, whose home is in an isolated canyon in the rugged mountains of Arizona, had an experience with these savage wolf dogs that he will never forget.

One morning he mounted Flash, his spirited Navajo pony, and rode off up the canyon in search of a fine mare that had a colt. He had ridden only a few miles from the ranch when a wild barking and howling up an adjoining arroyo attracted his attention.

Galloping swiftly away in the direction of the sounds he presently came in sight of the mare and colt running at full speed. They were coming in his direction, the mare snorting in terror and quivering in every limb. Pursuing her along the steep bank of the arroyo were a half-dozen wild dogs. They were gaunt and hungry-looking, and it was evidently their purpose to kill the colt to satisfy a craving for food. The mare and colt were in the bed of the arroyo, whose walls at that point, and for a considerable distance, were too perpendicular to allow even those daring brutes in hot pursuit a safe descent. With hunger intensified by delay, they hurried along the high, rocky bank, emitting horrible howls every time their victim darted beyond their sight behind a sharp turn in the arroyo's course.

With a quick movement Hal Howard turned the mare and colt down the canyon toward the ranch. Then he galloped back to where the arroyo opened to leave the canyon. The brutes were still pressing forward with hot speed. Just as the leader sprang from an overhanging ledge to scent the course of their suddenly vanished prey, the young ranchman took aim with his Winchester and fired.

With a howl of pain the wounded brute now turned in rage toward Hal. It dashed savagely up the bank to where a rugged slope steeply descended into the canyon. Hal galloped forward to oppose this movement. Just as the rest of the band came barking after their wounded leader, he fired again. This time the ball sped home, the animal with great commotion falling back upon the rocks dead.

Uttering yelps of rage, the others undaunted, sprang upon their fallen comrade and began licking up the blood as it flowed from the wounds. These were soon joined by several others that came howling out of the brush near by and began regaling themselves on the blood of the slain.

They made no effort to eat the carcass as wolves, when very hungry, are known to do. The taste of blood, however, rendered them more fierce, and they soon manifested signs of renewing the chase.

Hal had succeeded in getting their attention transferred from the mare and colt, but he now saw it would be necessary for him to give them another check, so his pony could get a good start of the wolf-dogs down the canyon.

Two more charges of his Winchester brought down another of the angry band. Instantly such a wild uproar broke loose among them that Flash took fright and went dashing madly up the canyon in an opposite direction from the ranch. The wild dogs descended into the canyon and came in swift pursuit.

Hal did not curb the speed of his pony. He merely drew lightly now and then on the rein to guide the animal's steps as carefully as possible up the rocky bed of the canyon. An occasional glance over his shoulder convinced him that the pursuing brutes were gaining.

Just before the canyon narrowed into a deep pass a high mountain loomed. At the opposite end of the mountain the pass terminated in a chasm of more than fifty feet.

It would be a terrible leap, and Hal's face paled with apprehension as Flash, with every second bound, carried him nearer and nearer to the chasm. Death to both seemed certain, but there was no way known to the young man to avoid the precipice, only to halt and run the fearful risk of being torn to pieces by the enraged animals on his track.

This was the less agreeable fate of the two to contemplate. He resolved, however, to check once more the advance of the wolf dogs. Just before entering the pass he turned in his saddle and gave two shots in rapid succession at the gang in close pursuit. With a howl of pain the foremost dog fell dead on the trail, and the others paused again, uttering hideous cries and licking up the blood of their freshly fallen companion.

Newly alarmed, Flash leaped toward the steep slope of the mountain. The Winchester caught in the scraggy branches of a juniper, and in frantically trying to wrench it loose the rider was jerked violently to the ground. Flash, too highly terrified to remember his good training, rapidly scaled the height before him by a hidden trail unknown to Hal, and disappeared in the trees above.

Before Hal could secure his Winchester the energetic vibrations of the juniper branch flung it into the canyon bed nearly seventy feet below.

The wild dogs gave him no time to recover it, for, having licked up the last drop of blood oozing from the carcass, they came rushing with an acceleration of savage fury. Escape now looked utterly impossible to Hal, but he sprang up the dizzy slope with a desperate effort to evade them.

At first he ran aimlessly. Then his eyes fell on a bushy juniper that leaned against a jutting ledge of the towering mountain. By exerting every muscle and nerve he was able to gain the foot of the tree and climb into its lowest branches just as the savage dogs sprang up the slope after him. They made frantic lunges upward, trying to brush him from the juniper. The branch was decaying and Hal could hear it cracking under his weight. Suddenly it gave way and went down with crashing force upon the heads of the dogs.

As the branch broke under him Hal grasped a stronger limb just above his head and pulled himself higher up the tree. The juniper was old and half-uprooted and the weight of the young man made it snap and sway fearfully.

Hal realized that the tree could not endure the strain, and he looked around him trying vainly to discover some means of escape. There was absolutely none. When the tree went he would be hurled down the almost perpendicular slope into the rocky pass below. The wild dogs seemed to understand his hopeless situation, and braced themselves on the rocks below the tree to witness his doom.

There was a quiver all through the decaying juniper, then a sudden cracking in all its parts, and Hal felt himself going. The dogs renewed their hideous barking, sprang back out of the danger, and waited. In that moment of peril Hal did not lose his courage. He resolved to meet death bravely. As the tree toppled over, the branch to which Hal clung brushed against and rested for a second on a point of the projecting ledge. It was just long enough, however, to enable him to scramble from the branch to a place on the narrow shelf of rocks. Then the tree went crashing downward into the pass, a distance of more than two hundred feet.

The baffled dogs sprang high into the air in a vain effort to fling themselves upon the ledge where Hal was. They struck against the rocks, then fell back with a thud, emitting howls of disappointment. Hal's foot dislodged a fragment of the shelving ledge, which fell into the midst of the gang below, causing a temporary stampede.

It was a dangerous position in which Hal found himself on a narrow ledge overlooking a wild mountain gorge. There was no way to climb down, and there was nothing else for him to do, except to lie as close to the mountain as he could and hope for deliverance. All day the dogs kept up the siege, watching the slightest movement on the part of the man.

Weary and exhausted Hal lay watching the sun set beyond the mountains. He was wondering how much longer he could lie on that shelf of rock without rolling off in the rocky gorge below him. The occasional yelping of the dogs seemed to mock his despair. He looked over the ledge into the yawning pass far below him. He drew back with a shudder.

Then a series of shouts from up the canyon reached him. The next minute a party of cowboys, leading Flash, dashed into view. The wild dogs were speedily routed, and after considerable exertion the young ranchman was rescued from the perilous ledge.—California News.

TESTING NEW THEORIES.

Very Simple Sort of Apparatus Will Often Serve the Purpose.

Inventors sometimes make the mistake of supposing that an elaborate workshop and a lot of money are necessary in order to test the soundness of their ideas. While a finished machine would no doubt be an expensive thing, the vital and essential feature is often some principle which can be tried on a small scale with crude apparatus. Some of the most important experiments which looked to the possibility of aerial navigation were mere toys, made with a jackknife, a little paper, some glue, a rubber band or two and a good supply of brains.

Another illustration may be found in the electric dynamo and motor, one a device whereby mechanical power is used to develop electricity and the other a mechanism which converts electricity into mechanical power. These are both rather costly machines, as made for the market. The construction is rather complicated, and the mechanical finish is beautiful. Yet the fundamental idea was tested in an exceedingly simple fashion.

The principle of a motor is that a magnet can be induced to move if a current of electricity be sent near it in the right way. The first man who got a hint of this fact was Oersted, who held a straight horizontal wire just above a compass and deflected the needle by sending a feeble current through the former. Faraday employed means whereby he secured a complete revolution instead of a slight swing, and his apparatus was equally cheap and crude. The great philosopher then proceeded to experiment in order to produce a current in a wire that was moved in front of a magnet. It took a long time to get the desired result, because he did not know just how to manipulate them. But the equipment was no more elaborate or expensive than that required by his other tests.

A writer in the American Machinist, referring to this simplicity of mechanism, says: "This, I think, may be accounted for, not only by the antipathy which Faraday had for work that appeared to him to go beyond his own more subtle sphere of mental action, but also by what is natural under all such conditions of investigation, viz., that between a discovery and the purposes to which it may afterward be put, there is generally a more pressing call and necessity for thought than for mechanical skill. This, I think, accounts for the small attention bestowed on the mechanical side of those discoveries, both by Oersted and Faraday, and which afterward gave such unlimited scope to those whose task it was to watch the gradual development of electro-magnetism, telegraphy, electrolysis, and the electric light, and furnish machinery for the grandest attainments of these."

Rare and Curious Fish.

The East Anglian Times says that perhaps the most interesting of the many piscatorial rarities captured in British seas to which allusion is made in Dr. Wemyss Fulton's report to the Fishery Board of Scotland, is the open or king fish, a fine specimen of which was caught alive at Shetland. This beautiful fish, which in consequence of its show colors has been humorously described as one of Neptune's lords dressed for a court day, is esteemed by the Japanese as the peculiar emblem of happiness. According to Yarrell, the upper part of the back and sides are of a rich green, reflecting both purple and gold in different lights, the fins being a bright vermilion.

The growing popularity of King Alfred ought to be a lesson to those hasty spirits who despair if recognition is not forthcoming in a mere century or two.

LI HUNG CHANG DEAD.

The Veteran Chinese Statesman Passes Away in Peking.

Earl Li Hung Chang, the veteran Chinese statesman, is dead. For some months back Earl Li had been suffering from a complication of ailments and it was with great difficulty that he had been able to carry on his duties. His disease took the form of ulceration of the stomach and had become more acute in the last few weeks. His death occurred in Peking.

Li Hung Chang was born in 1822 at Hefei, a little city in the province of Anhui, one of the provinces of central China. The Li family is purely Chinese, without mixture of Manchu blood. Young Li was studious, entered Han-lin College and made rapid progress. The Taiping rebellion (1851-64), ranking as the greatest in modern times for devastation of property and destruction of life, called Li from a life of study to a military activity for which he had no fit training, but in which he showed unusual ability. Li raised a regiment of home troops, with which he harassed the rebel army, hanging on their rear and cutting their communications. His conspicuous patriotism and ability in the crisis which ended in a general repulse of the rebels brought him to the notice of Tseng Kwofan, commander-in-chief of the Chinese armies, then the greatest Chinaman known to foreign nations, father of Marquis Tseng, long the Chinese minister to Great Britain. Li's militia were incorporated into the main army and he was given important military commands.

LI HUNG CHANG.

After the Anglo-French invasion of China, ending in the capture of Peking (1860) had given the almost quenched rebellion a revival which again endangered the imperial dynasty, Li was appointed (1861) viceroy or governor of the province of Kiangsu, with his residence at Shanghai. This was an important epoch in his life. He was at the age of 40 years.

Earl Li has held, almost continuously through many years, several high offices in the imperial government, such as secretary to the grand council of state, superintendent of foreign trade for the northern ports, superintendent of coast defense for the northern district and senior guardian of the heir apparent. The burdens which this man has carried during all these years and the range both of his responsibilities and of his opportunities as a ruler of a vast empire are amazing.

NEW PENSIONS ARE INCREASED.

Bureau's Report Shows Large Percentage Seeking Enrollment.

In his annual report the Commissioner of Pensions discusses at length the faults of the present system of pensioning and the difficulties in the way of determining the merits of claims for pension and increase.

The report presents a number of interesting features connected with the filing of claims for pension on account of the war with Spain and the insurrection in the Philippine Islands. It is shown that the soldiers of these wars enjoy much greater benefits than were accorded to the soldiers of the Civil War. In 1895 the minimum pension was established at $6 per month. Nearly 100,000 soldiers of the Civil War received from $1 to $4 per month from 1865 to 1895, and a disability from loss of arm or leg, which now entitles the soldier to $45 per month, gave him only $8 per month in 1865.

While the Civil War lasted for four years and the casualties were enormous, and the Spanish-American war lasted only about four months, with comparatively few casualties, it is shown that three years after the close of the Spanish-American war, claims for pension amounting to about 20 per cent of the number of soldiers engaged in that war had been filed, while in 1872, or seven years after the close of the Civil War, only about 6 per cent of the soldiers engaged in that war had filed claims.

The Commissioner says that he is not prepared to believe that those who engaged in the war with Spain, many of them sons of veterans of the Civil War, were less patriotic than their ancestors or more covetous, but in his opinion it is the fault of the system of pensioning, with its active army of attorneys, solicitors and drummers, who are practically licensed by the government with the promise of $25 for each claim allowed.

Attention is directed to the friction and unkind feeling that attends the administration of the act of Aug. 7, 1882, which provides that the open wrong-doing of a widow pensioner shall operate to terminate her pension. The absence of such a law, it is stated, would encourage and permit such pensioners to dishonor the memory of their soldier husbands, while still enjoying the bounty of the government, and, on the other hand, the widow who respects the law and marries loses her pension. The Commissioner says that, while the law is a most delicate and difficult one to administer, yet he cannot recommend its repeal.

RECORD OF THE WEEK

INDIANA INCIDENTS TERSELY TOLD.

Woman Sacrifices Her Life for Her Children—Gov. Durbin Goes Through Train Wreck—Girl's Dream Was Prophetic—Bookkeeper Hangs Himself.

Martha Russell, aged 40, died at Anderson from starvation. The woman was assisted by the township for more than two years, and six months ago was threatened with being separated from her four small children and sent to the poor farm if she called for assistance again. She never called, and nothing was heard from her until the other night, when the county doctor was called. She was removed to the hospital, but was beyond all medical aid. A post-mortem examination was made and it was revealed that starvation was the cause of her death. The children are all in good condition. One of the little ones said that their mother would work all day and then spend the money for something to eat, which she would give to them and go without herself.

Governor in Train Wreck.

The fast Monon train for Chicago was wrecked at Cedar Lake, and a number of passengers had a narrow escape. The train was under fair headway when a rail spread and one of the rear sleepers left the track and turned over. Gov. Durbin and W. H. Hart, Auditor of State, were in the rear sleeper, which careened and finally settled down partially on one side. Mr. Hart was slightly bruised about the shoulders, but Gov. Durbin was uninjured. The passengers were transferred to the other cars and after a delay of forty minutes the train went on to Chicago.

Insures Because of Dream.

John Ellaberger, a brakeman on the Vandallia Railroad, who was to have been married to Miss Palmateer of Terre Haute soon, called on his sweetheart and found her in despondent spirits. She told him that she had dreamed that she saw him killed in a wreck with a freight train. Partly to soothe her and also partly from superstitious fears, Ellaberger went downtown that night and took out insurance policies for $2,200 in the name of his betrothed. The next night, while out on his run, he was killed by runaway cars.

Goes Singing to His Death.

Joseph Straughan, bookkeeper for the Park County Coal Mining Company at Rosedale, went singing from his office, which he had just opened, to a woods near by, speaking pleasantly to a passing friend, and immediately hanged himself to a rafter. Straughan was 23 years of age and had been employed by the mining company for some years in different capacities. He had worried lately over the amount of work he had to do. He leaves a widow and child.

Fatal Collision on Vandallia.

Two men were instantly killed and two probably fatally injured in a collision on the Michigan division of the Vandallia at Judson. The accident was due to a collision between an extra freight and a runaway cut of cars from another freight train. The runaway cars had traveled ten miles down grade at a terrific rate of speed when they crashed into the extra freight at Judson. The cars of the runaway were piled in the ditch, and the engine of the extra freight was demolished.

Corn Shredder's Harvest.

There has been a remarkable series of accidents during the past few days in the Poplar Grove neighborhood. Four well-to-do farmers, ex-Representative Luther McDowell, John Bick, William Burnes and John Hendricks, have each had their fingers torn from their right hand while engaged in shredding corn fodder.

State News in Brief.

The President has appointed John R. Bonnell of Crawfordsville collector of internal revenue for the Seventh Indiana district.

A message from Switzerland says Miss Jane Reed, noted violinist of Kokomo, was seriously injured while traveling in the Alps.

Myron Beard, a cigaret smoker, aged 15 years, committed suicide in Terre Haute just after leaving his sweetheart at her home after a ride she had taken with him in his buggy.

The 2-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Woods of Muncie upset a tub of boiling water from a chair. The child is said to be fatally scalded.

Housewives of Spencer avenue, the aristocratic thoroughfare of Marion, will try to solve the servant girl problem by organizing a community club.

While operating a buzz saw in a mill near Laporte, Frank Wagner, aged 16, fell on the saw, which cut his head in two diagonally. He died instantly.

Capt. Joseph Martin, leader of the Salvation army in Lafayette, dropped dead from heart disease in the pulpit of the Adventist chapel while singing a hymn.

Myrtle Young of Wheatland is mysteriously missing. She left, saying she was going to visit a sister at Winslow, but instead she went to St. Louis. She had considerable money and it is feared she has been lured away and met with foul play.

George Morgan and Charles Steadman were probably fatally burned by an explosion at the Zeller mine at Cloverland. The men had lighted the fuse to a charge of powder and were walking down the entry when the gas exploded, hurling the men against the wall with such force as to render them unconscious. They were fearfully burned about the head and face before being rescued.

BATTLE OF BALLOTS

Results of the Fall Elections in Many States.

TAMMANY IS ROUTED.

New York City Elects Seth Low as Mayor After a Hot Contest.

Republican Gains Shown in the Central and Western Sections of the Country—Slight Loss in East—Nash Re-Elected Governor of Ohio with 66,000 Lead—Iowa Breaks Its Record—Fusion Ticket Defeated in Pennsylvania.

Elections were held in eleven States other than New York Tuesday. In six of these Governors were chosen and the Republicans were successful in New Jersey, Ohio, Massachusetts, Iowa and Rhode Island. The Democrats elected a Governor in Virginia. In five other States, where purely local issues prevailed, the Democrats carried Kentucky by increased majorities. Nebraska remained in the Republican column, the regular Quay Republicans were victorious in Pennsylvania, while Mississippi and perhaps Maryland remains in the Democratic column. This means a gain of two Democratic United States Senators from Maryland and Kentucky, should the Democrats in the former State win. In IMPORTANT RESULTS OF THE ELECTIONS.

- NEW YORK CITY—Tammany defeated. Low elected Mayor. Jerome gets a plurality. Van Wyck is beaten.
- OHIO—Carried by Republicans. Nash elected Governor by 66,000. Both branches of the Legislature are Republican.
- KENTUCKY—Democratic Legislature elected, which will name the successor of United States Senator Deboe, Republican.
- IOWA—Cummins, the Republican candidate, elected Governor.
- MARYLAND—Democrats carry the Legislature. Gorman regains control of the Legislature.
- NEW JERSEY—Again in the Republican column. Franklin Murphy elected Governor.
- NEBRASKA—Shows Republican gains over 1900. Democrats are beaten by about 10,000.

than is usual in an "off year" was evidenced from the manner in which they turned out at the elections Tuesday. Even when little interest had been shown before the election an unexpectedly large percentage of the voters cast their ballots. While interest centered in the result in Greater New York, many of the State elections had national importance. The election of Seth Low as Mayor of New York City could scarcely be considered a Republican victory, as the fusion candidate had the indorsement of many Democrats.

Reports received from the various sections of New York State show that the Republicans will retain control of the lower house of the State Legislature, the number of Republican and Democratic Assemblymen not differing materially from the figures of preceding years.

Of the State elections probably the most important was that of Ohio, which gave Nash, the Republican nominee and present Governor, a plurality estimated at 66,000 votes over Col. Kilbourne. Republican gains were shown in almost every county, except Franklin, Kilbourne's home. The Legislature will be Republican by a big majority.

Iowa piled up a record-breaking plurality, it being estimated early Wednesday morning that A. B. Cummins, the nominee for Governor, has nearly 85,000 more votes than his Democratic opponent.

South Dakota elected judges and minor officers, the indications from meager reports being that Republicans had made gains.

EVERY ONE TO SHARE IN BUILDING M'KINLEY ARCH.

PLAN FOR THE PROPOSED ARCH.

THE William McKinley National Memorial Arch Association, which has been incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia, with the purpose of erecting a memorial arch in honor of the late President in Washington, will depend upon voluntary contributions from Americans, both at home and abroad. It is the present purpose of the committee to have the arch span the entrance to the proposed memorial bridge across the Potomac river from Washington to the Virginia shore.

The arch, with its bas-reliefs and statues, will be entirely the work of American architects, artists and sculptors, and no limit has been put upon its cost, this depending entirely upon the amount of contributions received.

The association will have headquarters in Washington, but every State and large city will have a vice-president and an organization to encourage subscriptions. Bishop Henry C. Potter is one of the vice-presidents for New York. President Roosevelt has accepted honorary membership in the association and Hon. Lyman J. Gage, Secretary of the Treasury, is treasurer. Admiral Dewey is also a vice-president, and prominent men in every State and large city and in the cities abroad where Americans live are accepting vice-presidencies in the association and aiding in the work of raising funds. The association has just secured a charter and now invites contributions.

VOTE IN MANY STATES.

Iowa.
A. B. Cummins, Republican candidate for Governor, has been elected over T. J. Phillips by a plurality of over 90,000. The Prohibition vote has been largely increased, advancing from 9,000 last year to 25,000 this year. Practically every precinct shows a falling off in the Democratic vote. Out of the ninety-nine counties in the State the Democrats carried only six. The Legislature from early returns will contain 125 Republicans and 25 Democrats, a gain of ten for the Republicans. Chairman Spence contended that when all the returns were in they would show more than 100,000 majority for the Republicans and that the gain in the Legislature would be fourteen instead of ten. The total vote shows a falling off of 25 per cent. Senators Allison and Dolliver will be re-elected.

Ohio.
Gov. George K. Nash has been re-elected by an increased plurality. The Republicans have a majority in both branches of the Legislature, insuring the return of Senator Foraker to the United States Senate. Early returns indicated a Republican plurality of 66,000 for Gov. Nash and the whole State ticket, and that the Democratic gains are confined to Franklin County, where Kilbourn, for Governor, has not less than 2,500 majority, as against a majority of 1,728 for Nash two years ago. The result is due to the popularity of Kilbourn at home and the fight put up by the saloon inter-

Nebraska.
Republicans elected their State ticket by fully 6,000 plurality. The vote cast was 20 per cent below that of last November. The Republican State Central Committee made an estimate placing the plurality for Judge Sedgewick at 7,000. On figures from nearly 400 precincts outside of Lincoln and Omaha the State Journal Wednesday morning estimated Judge Sedgewick's plurality at not less than 5,000 and said it might be 11,000. The few early returns on regents of the university show they do not differ greatly from the heads of the tickets. All calculations were upset by the vote in some counties heretofore fusion, notably Nehama, Buffalo, Nuckolls, Clay and Kearney, which this year gave small or pronounced Republican pluralities.

Pennsylvania.
The fusion leaders in Philadelphia conceded their defeat by the Quay Republicans. More votes were cast than in a presidential year. The State candidates are elected by 70,000 plurality. Frank G. Harris (Rep.) has been elected State Treasurer over Elisha A. Coray, Jr., the fusion candidate, by between 50,000 and 55,000 plurality. In 1899 Barnett (Rep.), for State Treasurer, had a plurality of 110,588 over Creasy (Dem.). William P. Potter (Rep.) has defeated Harman Yerkes (fusion) for judge of the Supreme Court by about 50,000. Common pleas, or orphans' court, judges were chosen in sixteen judicial districts in the State and in a great majority of these the Republicans were victorious.

Maryland.
Early Wednesday both sides claimed the State Legislature, which, if Democratic, will insure the return of Arthur Pue Gorman to the United States Senate. Under the new election law the count was effectually blocked. The State printer and two members of the election board were arrested, charged with conspiracy with fraudulent intent in printing the ballot.

Massachusetts.
W. Murray Crane, Republican candidate for Governor, is re-elected by 64,000 over Josiah Quincy. The Republicans made no campaign. Democrats gained several members of the Assembly, but the Legislature is safely Republican on joint ballot.

Turns Chieftainship of Tammany Over to Carroll After Election.
According to a New York dispatch, Richard Croker abdicated the leadership of Tammany Tuesday night after the result of the election was known. Croker, Maurice Untermyer and Senator T. D. Sullivan were together at dinner and it is said that a little later Mr. Croker declared this was his last political fight. Mr. Croker asked Senator Sullivan whom he desired as leader. Sullivan answered that John F. Carroll would be pleasing to him. Then and there, it is said, Croker abdicated his leadership of Tammany Hall and turned it over to John F. Carroll.

SULTAN BACKS DOWN.

DEMANDS OF FRANCE ARE CONCEDED BY TURKEY.

Abdul Hamid, Driven by Alarm, Pays Lorando and Tubini Claims in Full—Convicts Overpower Guards at Leavenworth Prison and Escape.

France has scored a complete triumph in the Turkish disputes. The French foreign office Friday morning received advices announcing that the Sultan had yielded to the entire demands formulated by the French government and only the question of form regarding the execution of the engagements remained to be settled.

The Sultan, having become thoroughly alarmed at the situation in which he found himself because of the energetic measures adopted by France, sent Friday to the French embassy drafts on the customs department in full payment of the Lorando and Tubini claims and in settlement of all other claims urged by France.

President Loubet presided Friday at the cabinet council. The foreign minister, M. Delcasse, announced that the Porte had advised him that it had decided to give satisfaction in the case of the various French demands, to which M. Delcasse replied that so soon as the Sultan's order regarding the Porte's decision was communicated to him Admiral Cailard's squadron would leave the island of Mitylene.

CONVICTS IN A MUTINY.
Overpower Guards and Escape from Leavenworth Prison.
Two men were killed and three injured in a battle between prison guards and convicts Thursday at the new United States penitentiary building, Leavenworth, Kan. After the guards were overpowered by the leaders of the jail breakers the gates were thrown open and all the 450 convicts given a chance to escape. Only twenty-six broke out and they made good their escape, hiding in the tall woods near the prison. The attack on the guards and the escape was the culmination of a well-laid plot, carried out in the most daring manner.

The meeting took place at the new prison building, where the convicts were at work. The thirty guards in charge of the men were surprised. Then the ringleaders in the mutiny urged all the prisoners to join in the revolt. The movement spread, and the stockade was in wild excitement. Twice repulsed in efforts to break from the stockade the convicts finally carried the main gate by assault, and once outside started a reign of terror. They drove the persons living near into their homes, captured wagons, buggies and more arms, and holding close together they started on their flight. As they went the mutineers spread terror through the country. The escaping convicts started in to get citizens' clothing by making farmers, either in the fields or roads, strip and exchange for the numbered and striped convict suits.

Meantime all the prison guards had been using every effort to prevent a general uprising. The military at Fort Leavenworth was called on to help restore order at the new penitentiary site and held in check the convicts who did not leave the stockade. Some unknown person had passed in three revolvers to the ringleaders. Gus Parker, one of the plotters, secured the weapons unnoticed and he was joined by Frank Thompson, a big negro, and the two men held up the office of Frank Hines, the contractor, and compelled Mr. Hines and his assistants to march before them as a shield while they attacked the guards on the towers. Ford Quinn, a convict, and J. B. Waldrup, a guard, were killed. Three other guards were injured.

Early Friday morning an increased number of guards, well armed and mounted, were started out from the penitentiary, and the day was spent in an exciting a man hunt perhaps as has been experienced in that part of the country since the border days. The convicts and the pursuing party—forty guards and a troop of federal cavalry—met in fierce battle about seventeen miles southeast of Leavenworth, and a desperate conflict was waged.

COMMERCIAL FINANCIAL

New York. That gold shipments should be made at this season is somewhat surprising, but without bearing on the financial situation except as it tends to draw down the surplus reserves of the New York banks. As gold goes out at New York it comes in from the Klondike and Australia, and besides those two sources there is a steady and large supply from the mines in this country. About $12,000,000 has been received from the Klondike, and nearly as much from Australia, so far this year. The mere sending of this metal that comes in at the back door out of the front door is ineffective so far as it concerns the gold store of this country, now at its highest point. England is still cut off from its base of supplies in South Africa. The war completely stopped the output, and latterly troubles with Kafir labor, resulting from the demoralizing effects of the contest with the Boers, have presented new obstacles.

Under the circumstances, with the money markets relatively easy here and more or less demoralized throughout Europe, America can spare considerable gold. It owes some for loans contracted in Europe this spring to raise funds for bridging over purchases in connection with the Northern Pacific difficulties. These loans are maturing, and Paris and England are unwilling, perhaps unable, to renew them.

Chicago. Business in the interior districts of the country, no less than in the large centers, remains active. Colder weather has helped retail trade. Iron and steel mills are sold well ahead for domestic consumption. This industry is suffering more than any other for the lack of freight cars. Greater attention has been attracted to the New York stock market by the improvement of prices, but this is the result more of professional trading than of public interest. Wheat prices on the Board of Trade advanced during the week 2 1/2 to 2 3/4 cents and sentiment seemed more in favor of the buying side than it has been for months. There has been a lot of buying on the belief that with corn at 60 cents and oats at 40 cents wheat should be selling at least at 80 cents. Corn is selling at 60c in the West, and around 62c to 63c in Kansas City, but receipts everywhere are small and the primary movement for the week was only 1,735,000 bushels, or about 800,000 bushels less than last year. The western farmer has become thoroughly imbued with his importance as a master of the situation, and while he has little corn to sell, he expects fancy prices. In Chicago December advanced above 60c last week, and May touched 62 3/4c, or within 3 3/4c of the high point of the crop. Oats sold at the highest price on the crop—40 1/2c for May, equaling the top figure on the August bulge.

CAR FAMINE STILL SERIOUS.
Steel Furnaces Closed Owing to Inability to Secure Fuel.

According to R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade, little relief has been afforded the leading manufacturing industry in the matter of transporting facilities. In fact, the situation on the whole is less satisfactory since inability to secure coke has brought about the banking of twenty furnaces. This in turn tends to burden the market for pig iron, though no actual alteration in prices has occurred, except at Philadelphia, where 25 cents more a ton is readily paid. As this industry is considered the best business barometer, present conditions and future prospects are certainly most encouraging, for orders are abundant and plants enlarging capacity in order to handle the growing business. Material is purchased now for much structural work in the spring, and additional contracts are seeking acceptance.

Illegally Married.

The Rochester Sentinel gives the following particulars of the troubles of a Marshall county couple "before and after marriage:"

Charles Chisenberg and Grace Snokes, of the Maxinkuckee neighborhood, in Marshall county, came to-day and contracted more trouble than is customary in matrimonial contracts. They went to the clerk's office, represented that they live in this county near Richland Center, and that they are aged 21 and 19 respectively. On this representation they were granted a marriage license, and Judge Troutman was called and performed the marriage ceremony.

Soon after they were gone word came from Plymouth that they had applied for a license there, but it was refused for the reason that the girl's guardian had warned the clerk that she is not yet 16 years old. She draws a pension as a soldier's orphan and her marriage not only stops this but puts both of the young people in a position liable to severe punishment for misrepresenting their ages. It also makes the clerk and the officiating magistrate liable to prosecution if any one should institute proceedings but they say the couple applied to them with such apparent earnestness that they were completely deceived. It is reported that the Judge and the clerk took a fast team to overtake the couple and unmarry them but this could not be verified up to the time of going to press.

News Note.

Friday, November 22nd, will be known as "Harrison Day" in the public schools of Indiana. It has been designated as such by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The Benjamin Harrison Monument Association has reported in this connection that the contributions in hand, no appeal having hitherto been made in Indiana, outside of Indianapolis, aggregate about thirty thousand dollars. The hope of the organization is that the contributions from all sources, including the other states, will amount to one hundred thousand dollars.

It is expected by Senator Fairbanks, the president of the association, and the other officers, that the observance of Harrison Day will stimulate interest among the parents as well as among the pupils. Subscriptions should be sent to the secretary, Evans Woollen, at Indianapolis.

The Youth's Companion in 1902.

To condense in a paragraph the announcement of THE YOUTH'S COMPANION for 1902 is not easy. Not only will nearly two hundred story-writers contribute to the paper, but many of the most eminent of living statesmen, jurists, men of science and of letters, scholars, sailors, soldiers and travelers, including three members of the President's Cabinet.

In a delightful series of articles on military and naval topics the Secretary of the Navy will tell "How Jack Lives;" Julian Ralph, the famous war correspondent, will describe "How Men Feel in Battle," and Winston Spencer Churchill, M. P., whose daring escape from a Boer prison pen is well remembered will describe some experiences "On the Flank of the Army."

And this is but a beginning of the long list. A complete announcement will be sent to any address free. The publishers also announce that every new subscriber who sends $1.75 for the 1902 volume now will receive all the issues for the remaining weeks of 1901 free from the time of subscription, also the Companion Calendar for 1902—all in addition to the fifty-two issues of the Companion for 1902.

SLAYS BIRDS BY SCORES.

Feathered Songster that Destroys the Young of Other Species.

A bird which from both an ornithological and popular point of view is probably the most interesting of the feathered kind which finds a congenial summer home in the vicinity of Baltimore is the cowbird. As the name implies, the birds are the associates of cows, or, in fact, cattle of any kind. When this is said the entire list of their friends is complete, for the birds seem to be shunned as a serpent by others of their kind. This is not strange when the fact is known that, although the cowbirds are by no means birds of prey, they indirectly slay more feathered songsters than many of the larger and carnivorous members of the family. In appearance the birds are unassuming little creatures of somber hue, about the size of a bluebird and with a faint, dry voice which could not possibly sing its owner either into the good graces of man or beast.

In the springtime they come to the fields of Maryland from their winter haunts in the South. In flocks of six or eight they roam restlessly about among the pastures, following the cattle, catching the flies and other insects that make life miserable for the dumb beasts. They are fearless of their animal friends.

When mating time comes the birds develop their slaying proclivities in a peculiar manner. Possibly they have no intention of killing the young of other birds. The end is accomplished just the same. They build no nest, but the females shift the duties of motherhood by laying their eggs in the nests of other and usually smaller birds, forcing them to incubate and rear the offspring. A peculiarity of the eggs of the cowbirds is that they hatch from one to two days earlier than those of the other birds, and as the young cowbirds by this start are given time to gain strength before the rightful occupants of the nest are ready for food the result is that they are crowded to death by the foster child. At no time during the growth of the changeling do its real parents come to aid in providing food to satisfy its voracious appetite.

The strangest part of the whole procedure is that the birds which are thus imposed upon do not rebel. Usually only one egg is laid in a nest, and to deposit their usual clutch of four eggs the cowbirds travel from nest to nest. To every cowbird egg deposited four or five deaths result, and their presence in the vicinity of a nest is the death blow to the domestic hopes of the rightful proprietors.—Baltimore Sun.

Riches are apt to betray a man into arrogance.—Addison.

Looking Ahead.

A good story is told of one of the dignitaries of the Scottish church. Before he became known to fame he was minister of a remote country parish, and was not considered a particularly attractive preacher.

At his suggestion extensive alterations were made in the transept of his church, and these had the effect of sweeping away considerable seating accommodation.

One day after the alterations had been effected, he visited the church to see how it looked.

"What do you think of the improvements, John?" he asked the beadle.

"Improvements?" exclaimed John, in disdain; "they're no improvements at a'."

"Oh," said the minister, "we have abundance of room, John, considering the size of the congregation."

"That's a' very weel the noo," retorted the beadle; "but what will we do when we get a popular meenister?"—London Tit-Bits.

A Good Dreamer.

"May I dream that you will be mine?" pleaded St. Clair Maginnis, addressing the fair Minerva McGillicuddy.

"Really, Mr. Maginnis," repeated the stately girl, "I should not presume to exercise a censorship over your dreams. Dream as you please, but do not fail to remember that dreams go by contraries."

"Thank you for the suggestion, Miss McGillicuddy. I had not thought of that. I shall dream that you will not marry me."

"I am yours," she hastened to add, for she saw it was useless to hold out against so efficient a dreamer.—Detroit Free Press.

HANDSOME AMERICAN LADY, independent rich, wants a good honest husband. MRS. E. 87 Market St., Chicago, Ill.

C. N. U. No. 46-1901

WHEN WRITING TO ADVERTISERS PLEASE SAY you saw the advertisement in this paper.

Mrs. Ellen Ripley, Chaplain Ladies Aid, Grand Army of the Republic, No. 7, 222 10th Ave., N. E., Minneapolis, Minn., Strongly Endorses Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Your Vegetable Compound cured me of ulceration of the womb, and getting such a complete cure I felt that the medicine had genuine merit and was well worth recommending to other sick women.

"For fifteen years I have been your friend. I have never written you before, but I have advised hundreds of women to take your medicine, in fact it is the only real reliable remedy I know of for a sick woman.

"I have not yet found a case of ovarian or womb trouble which has not been relieved or cured by the faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"You have brought health to hundreds of women in Minneapolis as you have no doubt to others over the country."—MRS. ELLEN RIPLEY.

$5000 FORFEIT IF THE ABOVE LETTER IS NOT GENUINE.

When women are troubled with irregular or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhœa, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, flatulence, general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles.

No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine.

He is a first-class business man and a gentleman, and we regret his departure from our midst.

Very Sick.

A little man recently walked into a dry goods store and said:

"I do not know how to use the telephone. Will you please call up this number. Thank you"

"Here is the number. What shall I say to the doctor?"

"Tell him that his paralyzed patient is walking around this morning."

"Yes."

O e ear fall off during the night, and I think he is blind in one eye. I find that there is no use in giving him medicine. It makes him howl. His tongue looks as if it had been put through a wringing machine. What does he want me to do?"

"He says to let the patient alone until he gets down town. By the way, Mr. Blank, I don't know your patient, but it must be a sad case."

"Yes," said the little man as if looking for sympathy. "I think that he was at one time the finest collier that ever cracked a bone."—Ex.

Boy's Life.

"I believe I saved my (nine year old) boy's life this winter with Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says A. M. Hoppe, Rio Creek, Wisconsin. "He was so choked up with croup that he could not speak. The U. S. civil service commission will hold examinations at several places in each state, during March and April, to secure young men and young women for the government service. 9,380 persons secured positions last year through these examinations. Probably 10,000 appointments will be made this year. All appointments are for life and for most positions only a common school education is required. Salaries at appointment vary from $860 to $1,200 a year with liberal promotions afterwards. This affords a good opportunity for people between 16 and 45 years of age. Those desiring places of this kind can get full information about them, free, by writing to the Columbian Correspondence College, Washington, D. C., and asking for its civil service catalogue number three.

The Children's Friend.

You'll have a cold, this winter. Maybe you have one now. Your children will suffer too. For coughs, croup, bronchitis, grip and other winter complaints, One Minute Cough Cure never fails. Acts promptly. It is very pleasant to the taste, and perfectly harmless. C. B. George, Winchester, Ky. writes "Our little girl was attacked with croup late one night and was so hoarse she could hardly speak. We gave her a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure. It relieved her immediately, and she went to sleep. When she awoke next morning she had no signs of hoarseness or croup."

A Physician Testifies.

"I have taken Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, and have never used anything in my life that did me the good that did," says County Physician George W. Scroggs, of Hall county, Ga. "Being a physician, I have prescribed it, and found it to give the best results." If the food you eat remains undigested in your stomach, it decays there and poisons the system. You can prevent this by dieting, but that means starvation. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. You need suffer from neither starvation. The worst cases quickly cured. Never fails. T. E.
