Last Sunday morning, Rev. Forest C. Taylor, pastor of the M. E. church of Culver, preached a sermon upon Thanksgiving, which should have been heard by every person in this community. He prefaced his sermon by reading the President's message, which designated the day set apart for worship and praise to that Omnipotent God that gives all the good things in life, and helps smooth the pathway over the uneven places. In the meantime the young divine stated that as he understood it, the day is set apart for special prayer and Thanksgiving to God for his wonderful kindness to us during the past year. But how is the day spent by His people? The answer is, by feasting, dancing and participating in other amusements not calculated to draw one very near to the throne of grace. The young divine did not say this method of observing the day was wrong, but it was not his conception of the way the day should be spent. He also stated that while we were feasting and having a good time, we should remember that there were those whose circumstances did not permit them to partake of only the husks, and it should be the duty of the more favored to help cheer, and comfort such homes by tendering them a share of their abundance. All in all it was a grand sermon, and was delivered in a manner that was convincing, and should be far-reaching and heeded.

A Busy Half Hour.

The Rev. Dr. Sixteenthly was just concluding an eloquent sermon on "Getting Square With the World." The large congregation was wrought up to a high state of enthusiasm.

"Beloved, get square with the world! Owe no man a dollar. I wonder how many of you are free from debt. I believe I will try to ascertain. All who are square with the world financially will please rise to their feet."

"One moment, please, Brother Sixteenthly," said a gentleman, whose fingers bore the stains of printer's ink and whose clothes fit loosely around the waist. "One moment, please, I have no desire to take undue advantage of the people. Before asking them to rise, please allow them thirty minutes to secure receipts for the Weekly Banner."

So saying the gentleman pulled a blank receipt book from his pocket and was soon busy making change.

Did You Give Thanks?

Did you give thanks? There are a great many people who claim that they have nothing to feel thankful for. We do not agree with them. We feel thankful that our lot is not as bad as hundreds of others. And when a country editor is thankful it is time for the balance of the world to shout for joy. A country editor has more ups and downs than any other individual on earth. Yet he is usually cheerful, and keeps right on sending his paper to delinquent subscribers in hopes that their conscience will eventually trouble them and cause them to call and settle up. Yes, the country editor is a thankful sort of a cuss, for he feels that his efforts to please the people are appreciated.

Foreign Immigration.

Commissioner Powderly, of the immigration bureau, in his annual report shows the total arrival of foreigners in this country this year for the purpose of remaining permanently to be 562,868, an increase of 39,346 over the former year.

Mr. Powderly says that the character of the immigrants was much superior over last year, the rejections being 730 less although the arrivals were very many more. The larger number it is shown had for a destination the states of Illinois, Massachusetts, New York, Pennsylvania and Maryland. Italy, Sicily, Sardinia, and Austro-Hungaria furnished the most of the immigrants and England the least. There were 117,587 of the total number who could not read or write, and the average amount in money each had on landing was $30. During the year 363 were returned to their respective countries having become public charges.

Commissioner Powderly suggests the amendment of the immigration laws in relation to the punishment of persons who induce aliens to come to the United States to engage in labor or service of any kind, and also the making of laws by congress, with or without the co-operation of the states, that will distribute the alien population over the country according to the industrial law of supply and demand.

It is easy to recognize the new member of congress. You can almost see the burden of the nation on his shoulders. His election made him the biggest man in his district, and he feels lonesome when the brass band fails to conduct him from the railroad station to his boarding house. Ere long, he will return to his native state, a smaller and a humbler man.

Governor Stone of Pennsylvania has thrown down the gauntlet to Senator Quay, and referring to the statement that he had accepted a bribe of $150,000 says: "I deny this charge and all other false charges. I am not afraid of the papers or their cartoons. If they could ruin me, I would have been ruined long ago."

Wanted, Bids on a Shirt.

A Missouri editor who has bucked bids on job printing until exasperated, feels better since moved to publish the following: "The editor is soon to buy a shirt. Strange and extravagant as it may seem, we have determined to do so. With this end in view, we wish the dealers to submit sealed bids, so that the job may be let to the lowest bidder. Quality and style don't count. Any old thing will do. Send in your bids."—Newcastle (Pa.) News.

South African War.

At this time old England is in very sore straits. She has been trying for the past three years or more to wipe from the face of the earth the Boers of South Africa, and by following the methods of the brutal Weyler of Spain, in concentrating women and children, ravishing and starving them, she has brought the censure, of the whole world upon her and to-day it looks as though England would have to face other nations, or cease her brutal warfare. The common people of England are beginning to protest against awful taxation, and to deplore the methods of warfare that are bringing disgrace upon the nation, that is posing as a Christian race, who employs savages to help crush a nation whose sole aim is to preserve home and its rights. The Boers are not subdued yet, and to all appearances will hold out against her foe for years to come. Like Washington, the Boer leaders will compel England to give them what they ask, because the British empire will go into hopeless bankruptcy if it continues the struggle.

Few Questions.

Here are a few questions asked by the Morocco Courier, that should be thoughtfully pondered by those who have been and are patronizing the big department stores at Chicago and elsewhere.

Who sympathized with you when your little girl was sick? Was it your home merchant or was it Sears & Roebuck? Who carried you last winter when you were out of a job and had no money? Was it Montgomery, Ward & Co., or was it your home merchant? When you went to raise money for the church or for some needy person in town do you write to the Fair store in Chicago or do you go to your home merchants? How much does Siegel Cooper and Co. give towards keeping up the sidewalks in town or paying the ministers salary? When you were sick, how many nights did Hibbard, Spencer & Co. sit up with you? When your loved one was buried was it the home merchant who dropped the tear of sympathy and uttered the cheering word or was it Marshall, Field & Co.? Reflect!

Lookout for Them.

We would advise the farmers of this community to sign no hunters' permits unless they know positively the parties asking for same. A few days ago two gentlemen (apparently such, in reality scoundrels) who represented themselves as Chicago bankers, dropped down near Andrews, this state, and sought the wealthiest farmers there. They told him they knew the Indiana law demanded a written permit to hunt, and as they had an abundance of money and desired only two days' sport, offered $5 to each farmer for the privilege of hunting. The scheme was successful and the signatures of over ten good farmers secured. These turned up in the bank last week as promissory notes calling for $500 each.

COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL

New York

Encouraging reports continue to come from all jobbing lines. Interior merchants have had a larger trade than anticipated and dry goods houses are well supplied with reassuring orders for all classes of goods.

Chicago

A review of the markets for the past week develops these facts: While sentiment has been favorable to better grain prices, the changes last week, as during the week before, were really not large or important.

Shipping and export demands for wheat have been relatively small, milling demands very fair, while for corn demands have come largely again from sections in the South, Southeast and Southwest.

The Western situation continues to be the factor in corn. It has not changed to any extent within a week, except that previous predictions of a scarcity are being confirmed. Hushing operations show that the yield is more disappointing as work progresses, and this may lead to a reduction in the estimates by the Agricultural Department in its final figures.

Provisions last week, after being weak and lower on heavy receipts of hogs, suddenly started up and pork advanced 80c a barrel in three days, lard advanced nearly 1/2c a pound, and ribs 3/4c. The week's hog receipts were surprisingly heavy, being the largest at this season in ten years...

THE OLD GARDEN.

I know of a haunted garden where the old-time flowers grow;
There are hollyhocks and lilies in a long and stately row;
There are lilac trees by the gateway, and roses white and red
And the Southern wood's spicy fragrance follows the careless tread—
A memory haunted garden, out of life's busy way,
Where the spell of vanished summers lingers the livelong day.

The hands that planted these flowers have moldered back to dust,
But their hearts are true and steadfast, and they seem to hold in trust
The memories of the old-time, and those whom men forget.

Perhaps for the lilac and lily the dead are living yet,
Those whom our eyes can see not may tend them still—who knows
Of the strange, sweet secrets hidden in the red heart of the rose?

Does grandmother come to gather its pinks and its pansies still
From the grave which kind hands made her in the churchyard on the hill?
Does she know when the lilacs blossom that she planted long ago?

The question must go unanswered, but I fancy it may be so.
And so from the dear old garden not a flower I take away,
But leave them all to be gathered by the hands that are dust to-day.

"When Tom Proposed."

TOM was wont to declare that his environment had eradicated every vestige of sentiment that he had originally possessed.

"How can a fellow retain any feeling of sacredness in regard to proposal or an engagement after hearing such things canvassed by the girls as I have?" he would say, pathetically. "It's my firm belief that most women have no more sentiment than oyster. If ever I propose it will be in such a way that the girl can't make fun of it afterward among the other girls."

Tom was an only son. He had seven sisters and innumerable girl cousins. Tom was thoroughly conversant with the love affairs of all of them.

There was good ground for his belief that he knew more of the inside facts as to how men propose than any other man living. His presence had never interrupted or postponed any account of a girl's adventure, a flirtation or a proposal.

"It's only Tom," the girls would say. "It's Tom rather enjoyed the revelations."

From the height of his superior knowledge, Tom occasionally advised his comrades, who were less blessed with sisters and cousins.

"It's no use, Billy," he said to Billy Baxter, who had suggested a proposal by letter as an easy way; "it's no use trying to dodge the inevitable. If there is any particular 'she' in your case, don't try writing, for even if she intends to refuse you she will write asking you to call, and you must go over the whole thing by word of mouth, before she drops you into the depths with a 'no.'

"Besides, it gives the girls an awful chance at a fellow," he continued. "I'm not calling any names, but less than a week ago I heard a letter proposal read by the recipient, and a dozen girls assisted in composing a suitable reply. I furnished the stamps and posted the letter. The poor devil is in Germany. I also cabled my condolences. I know they will be appreciated when that letter reaches him."

Billy groaned dismally. "I infer you've already sent your letter," said Tom, cheerfully.

Billy groaned again in reply. "Now, I like the 'Barkis is willin' plan," went on Tom. "You know Bob—Bob Treherne? Well, Bob has what Sam Weller calls 'the gift of gab ver gallopin'." He made elaborate preparations; rehearsed before the glass; left hand in coat front, right used in appropriate gestures, head thrown back, chest expanded—favorite attitude with men who are photographed in dress suits. Told the story of his love (to his own reflection in the mirror), using the choicest diction and the most beautifully rounded sentences. Make big stock of 'ideals,' 'passionate devotion,' 'life's inspiration,' and all that sort. Pictured to himself Bessie's downcast eyes, softly flushed cheeks and trembling lips.

"Bob confessed all this to me recently. I was about 8 years old, and was in the room when the actual occurrence took place. Bob took my sister's kitten on his lap and said 'Pussy, ask your mistress if she will marry me.' And Bess pulled Kitty's tail, saying, 'Tell him yes, Pussy.' Then she said: 'Tom, go tell father and mother that Bob and I are engaged.'

"I suppose the regulation things happened after I went out. But that goes to show of how little avail are great preparations."

"But such abruptness might displease some girls," suggested Billy.

"So it might," admitted Billy; "for instance, when Silvie was visiting Barbara in western Kansas, a good-looking ranchman whom Silvie had met twice

NURSE OF CIVIL WAR FAME.

"Mother" Bickerdyke, who died recently, was 84 years old. She was in most of the great battles of the Civil War as a nurse, and was with Sherman on his march to the sea. She established various hospitals in the South to care for Union soldiers, and was in charge of field hospitals at the siege of Vicksburg, at Lookout Mountain, Missionary Ridge and Chattanooga. She died at Bunker Hill, Kan., and was buried at Galesburg, Ill.

galloped up one day, and when Silvie came to the door he said: "I just rode over to see if you would marry me."

"No, indeed!" gasped Silvie. "Well, the thing's off my mind, anyhow," and he put spurs to his horse and galloped away. I admire that style myself."

"But, Tom," wailed Billy, "you don't know—you've never in love."

"Much you know about that," returned Tom promptly. "I've been desperately in love ever since Alice Dainty came to visit Marie."

"Waiting a good chance?" questioned Billy, eagerly.

"Not at all. I've had plenty of chances. I'm waiting until circumstances are such that she can't make me feel I'm dirt under her feet."

The next day Tom took his sister's guest for a sail to Plymouth. Alice was fresh and dainty in a crisp white suit and a becoming yachting cap. Tom's heart thumped violently.

"No chance for me to-day," he thought; "she is as imperious as a queen."

But the day proved unfavorable for pleasure seekers. The water was rough and the great steamer rocked and plowed until even Tom felt qualms. Alice sat watching the unhappy passengers, her face very pale and her lips tightly pressed together.

"Alice," said Tom, kindly, "I hope you're not going to be sick."

She gave him a wild, startled look—there was a convulsive movement, a quick rush to the rail, and Alice had joined the rank and file paying tribute to old Neptune. Tom was at her side in an instant, with a firm arm around her waist and a strong hand supporting her head. It was not a romantic situation, but Tom felt that his opportunity had come.

"Oh, Tom, I am so mortified," gasped poor Alice, presently; "please go away."

"No need of my going away now, Alice," answered Tom, composedly, "for the past ten minutes there has been no concealment of your emotions. Your whole past (gastrologically speaking) has been open to my view. And as we are soon to be married there is no reason why I should not dry your eyes and wash your face, and straighten your cap, and make you presentable." And Tom deftly and tenderly suited his actions to his words. "A man likes to see his fiancée look pretty. There, now you are your own sweet self again."

"Tom," said Alice, humbly, "please don't tell the girls that I was sick."

"Not a word," answered Tom, promptly; "we'll just announce our engagement, and we'll never tell any one how it happened."

HALF A LIFETIME IN PRISON.

Why Michael Werner Knows that Honesty Is the Best Policy.

There is no man in the United States who could better testify to the truth of the adage, "Honesty is the best policy," than Michael Werner, who never lived up to it.

His hair gray, his eyes sunken in, with pale, sallow cheeks, the marks of thirty-two years and one month behind prison bars, he sat in court in Paterson a few days ago, again a prisoner.

Werner is 67 years old and has been a burglar for thirty-four years, all but two of which has been spent in prison. He was born in Chicago and received a good public school education. His parents were respectable and well-to-do. He learned the trade of a blacksmith and made a good living. In 1867, being out of work, he fell in with bad company and was induced to come to New York. Here he took part in a burglary in October, 1867, and was sentenced to five years in Sing Sing. Having served that time, he went back to Chicago, and in October, 1878, was caught in the act of burglary. This time he got fifteen years in Joliet prison. After completing his term he returned to New York. In 1888 he was again arrested in Brooklyn for the same offense. This time he got four years and seven months in the Kings County penitentiary.

Being released, he kept straight until 1894, when he was caught at burglary, and under the name of George Collins he was sent to Sing Sing again for two years and six months. Again in October, 1897, he bungled a job in New York, and was arrested. This time it was five years in Sing Sing and his term expired on July 5 last.

Then he went to Hoboken and was arrested as a suspicious person. Burglars' tools were found on him, but he managed to slip the law.

Then he started for Paterson, but got off at Passaic by mistake. He entered Lawyer William Scott's residence and got away with $100 worth of jewelry.

He was caught and sent to the county jail to await trial. He had a full set of tools for picking locks. On his trial he pleaded guilty.

The old man sat in the prisoners' row in tears, and an aged woman, his only friend, tottered to the bar, and spoke a few words for the prisoner. She meant well, but she knew nothing about the prisoner that would help him.—New York Journal.

Sahara's Water Supply.

The wells of Erg, in the Sahara desert, occupy the bottom of the depressions. As the surface of the ground in which they are excavated is covered with a thick layer of sand they have to be protected against the falling in of the latter. Their very narrow orifice is, therefore, hermetically closed by means of wide stones sealed through a mortar composed of sand and mud. Each caravan undoes the work in order to obtain water and then carefully seals the wells up again before departing.

State of Portugal.

Among European nations Portugal ranks most decidedly as one which has fallen from power and high estate and conspicuously degenerated. Emigration at an alarming rate robs the country of its best and strongest young men. Whole districts in Portugal are deserted and stand in need of colonization, while the peasants who remain in the land are illiterate to the extent of 80 per cent.

Locomotive Statistics.

One hundred and nine thousand locomotives are at present running in various countries. Europe has 65,000, America 40,000, Asia 3,300, Australia 2,000 and Africa 700.

There is something radically wrong with the small boy who wouldn't rather go to a circus than be an angel.

HAY DEFINES POLICY.

Addresses a New York Banquet on "Our Diplomacy."

Secretary of State John Hay was the principal speaker at the 133d banquet of the New York Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night. He spoke to a company of prominent men, including Ambassador Choate, Gov. Odell and Mayor-elect Seth Low, his theme being "Our Diplomacy." Secretary Hay filled the place of the late President McKinley, who several months before his death promised to make an address at the banquet. The Secretary paid an eloquent tribute to his dead chief.

Coming to the theme of his speech, Mr. Hay said:

"There was a time when diplomacy was a science of intrigue and falsehood, of traps and mines and countermines. It may be another instance of that credulity with which I have often been charged by European critics when I say that I really believe the world has moved onward in diplomacy as in many other matters."

"In my experience of diplomatic life, which now covers more years than I like to look back upon, and in the far greater record of American diplomacy, which I have read and studied, I can say without hesitation that we have generally told squarely what we wanted, announced early in negotiation what we were willing to give, and allowed the other side to accept or reject our terms. During the time which I have been prominently concerned in our foreign relations I can also say that we have been met by the representatives of other powers in the same spirit of frankness and sincerity."

Secretary Hay referred hopefully to the outlook for American trade in the Orient. He continued:

"We consider our interests in the Pacific ocean as great now as those of any other power and destined to indefinite development. We have opened our doors to the people of Hawaii; we have accepted the responsibility of the Philippines which Providence imposed upon us; we have put an end to embarrassing conditions in which we were involved in Samoa, and while abandoning none of our commercial rights in the entire group we have established our flag and our authority in Tutuila, which gives us the finest harbor in the south seas."

"Next in order will come a Pacific cable and an isthmian canal for the use of all well-disposed peoples, but under exclusive American ownership and American control—of both of which great enterprises President McKinley and President Roosevelt have been the energetic and consistent champions."

"We frankly confess we seek the friendship of all the powers; we want to trade with all peoples; we are conscious of resources that will make our commerce a source of advantage to them and also profit to ourselves. But no wantonness of strength will ever induce us to drive a hard bargain with another nation because it is weak, nor will any fear of ignoble criticism tempt us to insult or defy a great power because it is strong or even because it is friendly."

Other speakers were Gov. Odell, Mayor-elect Low, Ambassador Choate, Senator McLaurin of South Carolina and Governor-elect Cummins of Iowa.

BONINE TRIAL BEGINS.

Sensational Murder Case Is Opened in Washington.

The trial of Mrs. Lola Ida Bonine, indicted for the murder of the young census clerk, James Seymour Ayres, Jr., in the latter's room at the Kenmore Hotel in Washington last May, began Tuesday. After the preliminaries of calling the names of witnesses and of jurors were disposed of Mrs. Bonine was asked to stand and plead to the indictment. She listened calmly to the reading of the document and when it was concluded pleaded "not guilty" in low but distinct tones. After a brief statement of the case by Judge Anderson the examination of jurors was begun.

The killing of Ayres caused a great sensation at the time, as he was a popular man among his associates. He met his death on the morning of May 15 in his room in the Kenmore Hotel, where Mrs. Bonine also boarded. It was at first supposed Ayres had committed suicide, but an investigation of the case revealed the fact that a murder had been committed, and at the inquest all doubt on this point was removed when Mrs. Bonine, walking from the rear of the room, interrupted the proceedings by exclaiming: "You needn't ask the witness any more questions. I killed Ayres."

She then told of having had a quarrel with Ayres in regard to his drinking and that she had gone to his room for the purpose of smoothing over the trouble when he locked the door behind her, threatened to kill her, and, in the struggle for the weapon which he had, it was discharged. Three bullets were found in Ayres' body.

The time would have been shorter had one of the witnesses not been a woman.—Buffalo Times.

The Mother Bird's Love.

When my mother was a little girl she lived in Virginia near the Potomac River. One bright May morning she mounted her pony and started for a ride with her father. Soon their road brought them to the edge of the woods near the river. They saw a thin cloud of smoke rising from the woods near the river. They saw a thin cloud of smoke rising from the woods, and the smell of burning leaves was in the air. They stopped to watch the fire. What cry do they hear? Above them a fish-hawk is slowly flying and making cries as if she were in trouble. Near them is an old oak—its dead trunk covered with the stems of last year's vines—and among the top-most boughs is a nest. Round and round that nest flew the fish-hawk. Her little brood were lying in the nest, and the mother knew that they were in danger. Swiftly the flames drew nearer to the oak. They seized upon the vines that clung to it. Quickly they mounted this light ladder. The twigs of the nest caught the flame. The fish-hawk ceased her cries and flew to the nest. With her beak she pulled out the blazing bits of wood and straw. Long she fought against the fire, till at last she saw that she could not save her little ones. What will she do now? There is but one thing left for her to do, she can die with them. So she cling round and round, the mother bird sunk slowly down upon her nest, covered her brood with her wings, and was burned to death. So sweet and strong and self-forgetful is mother love! My mother looked up and saw tears in her father's eyes. They turned their horses and rode slowly home. But the bright May morning had suddenly grown dull and dim.—May Wilson in our Dumb Animals

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 26.—Edward Geiselman of this city has finished a statue of William McKinley. Congressman Brick and Senator Fairbanks say the statue is a remarkable likeness of the late president, and this fact is all the more remarkable because the work was all done from photographs. Young Geiselman has been offered a big price for his statue, but he refuses to sell. He will exhibit in Chicago.—Chicago Record.

This famous sculptor is a son of Josiah Geiselman of Culver, and is fast approaching the point where he will be recognized as one of the most famous sculptors of the age. He was born near Bremen and has exhibited wonderful ability from his youth. One of his finest pieces of sculptor work, is a life-sized street urchin holding a newspaper which he is offering for sale, and surely depicts the happy-go-lucky news-boy in his natural state. He also has several other specimens of his artistic skill.

We have recently taken pictures of the three lowest rooms of the Culver City Public Schools. We have spared no pains in our endeavors to make these as fine pictures as it is possible to produce. The negatives have all been carefully retouched and the very best material has been used throughout. To get all the orders together so they may be printed at one time, we have arranged for Arthur Porter to call on the patrons of the school and show samples. You will oblige us by giving him your orders.

KEEN PROS.

Isaac Wolfe, the great clothier, fed ten thousand children Thanksgiving Day, a trick he has performed on said day for many years. Mr. Wolfe at one time was a poor little street urchin, and by experience knows all about poverty, hence, has great sympathy for the poor waifs who see very little of the bright side of life. Suppose all the wealthy men of America would follow the example of Chicago's great clothier, what large rays of sunshine would enter the homes of the poor of this country for at least one day in the year.

Big Machior Ditch Is Opened—Fire in Circus Winter Quarters in Peru— Crawfordsville Wire Mill Burns— Odd Fellows Elect Officers.

The big Machior ditch in Laporte County, which has been under construction for the last eighteen months and which is one of the largest drainage canals in northern Indiana, is completed. The ditch is ten miles long and cost about $40,000. It begins near Thomaston and the Nickel Plate Railway, and joins the Kankakee river three miles from the Panhandle Railroad bridge. It is estimated that it drains and improves about 17,000 acres of land, although only 14,000 acres have been assessed for its construction. When the connection between the ditch and the Kankakee river was made the released water in the canal rushed down with such a velocity as to carry the big dredge into the river in spite of its heavy anchors, and in twenty minutes the water in the canal had lowered four feet three miles from its mouth, and five feet at the point where it joins the river.

Odd Fellows' Officers.

The following officers were elected at the recent session of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows in Indianapolis: Grand Master, George P. Bornwasser of New Albany; Deputy Grand Master, E. E. Pryor of Martinsville; Grand Warden, Alexander Johnson of Fort Wayne; Grand Secretary, W. H. Leedy of Indianapolis; Grand Treasurer, W. H. Morris, Frankfort; Trustee, Benjamin Franklin of Indianapolis; Thomas R. Jessup of Richmond, Grand Representative to the next convocation of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, which meets in Des Moines, Iowa, September, 1902.

Wire and Nail Mill Burned.

Fire started from a gasoline engine at the Crawfordsville wire and nail plant, and in two hours the entire establishment was in ruins, entailing a loss of $150,000. The plant was built by local capitalists last spring and was outside the trust. The wire drawing mill had been in operation only two months. The loss includes $50,000 of finished product awaiting shipment. There is but $25,000 insurance, distributed among several companies. One hundred and fifty men are thrown out of employment. The stockholders say they will rebuild at once.

Elephants in Peril of Fire.

The elephant barn at the winter quarters of B. E. Wallace's circus at Peru was destroyed by fire, but safety, all animals were taken out in safety, although with considerable trouble. Fortunately the fire was confined to the one building and this prevented the destruction of a $5,000 hippopotamus and other animals that could not have been moved in time. The fire started in the hay mow of the barn, and seven elephants were taken out with live coals raining upon their backs.

A YOUNG FINANCIER.

How a Small Boy Made Double Profits Out of a Dog.

"There is a small cross-eyed boy living in this city, who if he doesn't lose his life through just retribution will grow up to become a great financier," declared Jones. "For some time my wife has possessed a yellow pup that has no earthly excuse for living. But she thinks that he is the finest dog in the city and spends most of her time hugging and kissing his dirty little nose. Finally the dog worship became so unbearable to me that I resolved to end the nuisance. Chancing to meet a small cross-eyed boy one day, I said to him:
"See here, boy, do you want to earn a dollar?"
"Sure," said he.
"Well, then," said I, 'you go up to my house, watch your chance and steal the yellow cur that you will find hanging around there. When you get him bring him down to my office and get your dollar.'
"Within two hours the boy was back with the cur tied to a rope.
"What will I do with him, boss?" he asked after I paid him.
"I don't care," I snapped. 'Drown him if you want to.'
"That night I discovered my wife in tears and I was informed between sobs that poor, dear little Fido was missing. The next day she had an advertisement inserted in all the papers offering $10 for his return. The third day she met me joyfully at the door and announced that Fido had been found.
"Where?" I asked, concealing a groan.
"A little boy brought him back," she answered.
"What kind of a boy?" I asked, suspiciously.
"A small, cross-eyed boy, with the most honest face that I ever saw on a boy. I gave him $10, it being all I had, and told him if he would go down and see you that I knew you would be glad to add $5 to it."
"But the boy didn't show up," continued Jones, according to the Detroit Free Press. "As a matter of fact I hadn't the slightest idea he would. I wouldn't mind giving him $5 if he would call."

On Japanese Copper Mines.

The total number of persons employed in various services at the Ashio mines and furnaces is about 10,000, and these with their families make up a small city of 17,000. Of these 75 per cent have been born on the spot, as were their fathers and grandfathers, and some have never seen beyond the red hills which close in the village and town. They are cared for by the promoters, fed and sent to school until twelve years of age.

The village has a well-equipped hospital, at which the operatives and their families are tended without charge. Only men are employed below ground to dig the ore, working in shifts of eight hours each, while those employed at lighter labor work shifts of twelve hours. Women are employed at the light tasks, such as sorting and washing ore by hand, most of them being the wives of the miners. The average pay per diem for those engaged in manual labor, says a writer in Engineering, is 13 cents in silver money and a stated quantity of rice and fuel, while the miners are paid by the quantity of ore extracted. The furnace and shaft men receive from 11 to 30 cents per day and the women are paid 7 cents.

They Were Whispering.

A conspicuous corner in the business district of Chicago is a favorite resort of deaf-mutes on Sunday afternoons. Here they meet for a social hour, often to the great amusement of the passers-by. One interesting incident of these weekly reunions is reported by the Chicago Tribune:

Two men were at some distance from the others. They were standing three feet apart and talking energetically in the sign language. One of them leaned over to the other, grasped his coat lapels and drew him toward him. When they were close to each other the second man caught hold of the other's coat, and they stood face to face. From where the other deaf-mutes stood it was impossible to see the movements of their hands.
Intensely interested in the performance, one of the spectators, who was not a deaf-mute, took out a pencil and a piece of paper and wrote this question, which he handed to the mute:
"Why are you two standing away from the rest and talking with your fingers hidden behind your coats?"
The mute read the question and scribbled the answer:
"I am telling him a secret, and we don't want the others to hear."

Blue Back.

The first spelling book printed in this country was entitled "The American Spelling Book," by Noah Webster. It was issued in 1783, and for considerably more than half a century was the standard work used in all American schools.

Every time you buy an article you do not want, from an agent, you play his game, and he uses loaded dice.

David R. Francis, who has just thrown all of his powerful influence against postponing the great St. Louis fair from 1903 to 1904, is the president of the exposition and one of the foremost men in Missouri. Mr. Francis is a product of the educational, commercial and political life of St. Louis, although a native of Kentucky. His first public office was that of Mayor of St. Louis, to which he was elected in November, 1884. He was at once mentioned for Governor and was elected four years later. Toward the close of President Cleveland's administration he was made Secretary of the Interior. Mr. Francis is a little on the other side of 50 and in the prime of his intellectual vigor. He has been the chief spirit in the Louisiana Purchase Exposition from the start of the enterprise two years ago.

D. R. FRANCIS.

Abdul Hamid II, Sultan of Turkey,

who conceded the demands of the French government, thus saving the seizure of Smyrna by the French fleet in the Smyrna Gulf, is now in the sixtieth year of his life, and probably a sicker man than ever before. The Sultan's sickness is not merely metaphorical; it is literal. For years he has been in bad health, and while he has had to face constant political menace from blustering powers abroad, he has been threatened with assassination and revolution at home, together with all the other evils flowing from the despotic form of government. It is now twenty-five years since he ascended the throne of his ancestors, and although he is the most execrated monarch on the face of the globe he has many warm sympathizers and friends among the foreign diplomats who have visited his court and have learned the exasperating trials of which the Sultan is the victim.

William Drew Washburn of Minnesota,

elected president of the Universalist general convention, is one of the wealthiest manufacturers in America and a well-known citizen of Minneapolis, where his large flour mills are located. Mr. Washburn has participated in political life since 1861, when he was appointed United States surveyor general of Minnesota. He was subsequently elected to Congress for three terms, and in 1889 was chosen United States Senator, his term expiring in 1895. Like his late associate in business, former Gov. Pillsbury, Mr. Washburn was born in New England, and spent his early years in a hard struggle for success. He settled in Minnesota in 1857, and took a large part in the railway construction of the Northwest. Mr. Washburn is 60 years old.

Alfred Dolge, who, beginning as a mechanic, twenty-five years ago, built up a $3,000,000 mill and a model town for his workmen at Dolgeville, N. Y., filed a petition in bankruptcy at Los Angeles, Cal., the other day, scheduling liabilities of $1,647,043 and assets of $2,565,004. Dolgeville, which was visited and written about as an example of the model town by sociologists from all over the world, has lost over half its population since its founder made an assignment in 1898. Dolge attributes his business failure to false friends, and says he will start all over again. He went to California after the assignment, three years ago, and has now recovered his health.

ALFRED DOLGE.

Edward A. Evans, who for years has been superintendent of the bureau of identification of Chicago, has been chosen superintendent of the national bureau of identification, with headquarters in Washington, to which city the files and records of the National Police Chiefs' Association will be removed. This identification bureau will be so managed that the police department of each city and the officials of each established prison will send in photographs and complete Bertillon measurements to the national bureau. Congress is expected to endow this national bureau liberally, the different cities paying a fixed sum, probably, for each identification required of them.

E. A. EVANS.

Mrs. Kate Berg, Secretary Ladies' Auxiliary of Knights of Pythias, No. 58, Commercial Hotel, Minneapolis, Minn., After Five Years Suffering Was Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Whatever virtue there is in medicine seems to be concentrated in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I suffered for five years with profuse and painful menstruation until I lost flesh and strength, and life had no charms for me. Only three bottles of your Vegetable Compound cured me, I became regular, without any pains, and hardly know when I am sick. Some of my friends who have used your Compound for uterine and ovarian troubles all have the same good word to say for it, and bless the day they first found it."—MRS. KATE BERG.

$5000 FORFEIT IF THE ABOVE LETTER IS NOT GENUINE.
When women are troubled with irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhoea, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, bloating (or flatulence), general debility, indigestion, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues, and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine, for you need the best.

NEWS FOR THE HERALD,

Written by Our Special Reporter.

The scrubs ran away with the LaPorte High School foot-ball team last Saturday, and managed to roll up 102 points in about 35 minutes of play. The score breaks all records for these grounds, and will probably stand for some time to come as a monument to the sprinting ability of Messrs. Herron, Nicols, Brown, McIntire, Deming, Stersburg and Barrett. At one time only did the High School succeed in holding for downs, and the game from the start proved to be little more than an obstacle race, with LaPorte's full-back the only real obstacle. Line up:

C. M. A.	LaPorte H. S.
Denning, Clarke, I e.	Thomas.
Bergman, I. t.	Copp-
Lonn, I. g.	Wickersham.
Larabee, Blakeny c.	Cadwell.
McIntire, r. g.	Mays.
Carlisle, r. t.	McLaughlin.

The following general order, published last week, filled the official position in the battalion:

General Orders, No.—

I. Sergeant, H. J. Noble, Instructor in Cavalry, is hereby promoted to the grade of captain, and will be respected and obeyed accordingly. The troop of cavalry will be directly under his command. He will be assisted by two cadet Lieutenants and a complement of non-commissioned officers.

II. Upon the recommendation of the commandant of cadets, the following promotions and appointments are ordered in the battalion of cadets; they will be respected and obeyed accordingly:

To be Captain—J. W. Woodward.
To be 1st Lieutenant, J. R. Grace.
To be 2nd Lieutenant, E. W. Coate.

To be 2nd Lieutenant and Quartermaster J. B. Blair.

To be 1st Sergeants—W. C. Kramer, and F. A. Schaff.

To be Sergeants—W. Colt, C. W. Beeker, J. A. Pope, A. J. Elian, and S. C. Rathbun.

To be Corporals—H. C. Bays, J. R. McCann, F. E. Solier, C. W. Adams.

Upon the recommendation of the musical director the following appointments are hereby made in the cadet band; they will be respected and obeyed accordingly.

To be 1st Sergeant—T. B. Ely.
To be Sergeants, M. B. Craig, C. C. Chase.

To be Corporal—F. S. Clarke.

Upon the recommendation of the Instructor of Cavalry, the following appointments are ordered in the cadet troop; they will be respected and obeyed as such from the sounding of first call for any cavalry formation until the troop, squad, or detachment has been dismissed, and whenever engaged in the performance of any duty whatsoever connected with the department of cavalry.

Officers of the cavalry will be designated by a removeable metal device attached to the collar of the blue shirt, or by a similar device embroidered thereon in yellow silk.

Non-commissioned officers, by the regulation army chevron of yellow cloth, removeably attached to the sleeve of blue shirt, in accordance with regulations.

To be 1st Lieutenant, H. C. Henderson.

To be 2nd Lieutenant, E. C. Butler.

To be 1st Sergeant, V. R. Gould,
To be Sergeants, W. Colt, W. B. Judson, J. H. Queal.

To be Corporals, F. McNelley, J. E. Gilbo, E. L. Dorsett, H. L. Power.

The largest and most enthusiastic Thanksgiving crowd on record saw the minstrel performance under the auspices of the Saturday night Club in the Gymnasium, Wednesday evening. The performance was excellent, and in every way merited the hearty applause with which each number was received. The curtain goes up on eleven fellows at a "stag" dinner, and after the stein song, the end men Patchin, Doggett, Chase and Schaff came on as waiters and began their stunts. The idea is distinctly original and is very cleverly carried through. Too much cannot be said for the work of the four end men, and it is hard to understand how, without any experience, they could have done their part so well. The solos by Adams and Blair were exceedingly well-rendered. The mandolin club were encored three times. Barrett and Horne, the monologue artists, were fine. Herron's juggling was worthy of a place in the best vaudeville theaters and the Jeffries-Rublin fight made the hit of the evening.

LOCAL BREVETIES.

Items Gathered Here and There and Put in Shape for the Herald.

Congress will soon convene.

Quite a number of visitors were in Culver Thursday.

Not very much sickness in this neck of the woods at present.

The Vandalia company is making marked improvements upon its line between South Bend and Terre Haute.

A large factory burned at Crawfordsville Saturday night. Loss $2,000,000.

Chadwick and party who have been hunting in the wilds of Wisconsin the past 10 days, returned Thursday with five deers. They are beauties.

The Democratic State Committee met at Indianapolis and decided to hold the congressional district meetings the first week in January and the meeting to organize the state committee January 8th.

Those that have an abundance and to spare, could do no better deed in the sight of God, than help an aged widow woman living in the south part of Culver near the ice houses. She needs help right away. Here is a chance for home missions.

The high school and B. room of Culver, met on the grid-iron Wednesday afternoon, the score standing 6 to 7 in favor of the high school. This was a remarkable game considering that boys ranging from 13 to 15 years of age held down to such a close score Prof. Hahn and his high school students. We say hurrah for the boys of B room.

In a collision on the Wabash R.R. Nov. 27th, near Seneca, Mich., from 60 to 150 people were killed and many more injured. One whole passenger train was consumed by fire, many persons perishing in the flames. Three engines were badly wrecked.

When Melvin Osborn and Miss Esther Bauer were married at the residence of the groom's parents a week ago last Thursday, the invited guests were treated to an elegant dinner, and the bride and groom were the recipients of numerous valuable presents. The bride came all the way alone from the state of Washington to be united to the man of her choice and was detained in the mountains seven hours owing to being caught in a railroad wreck.

Rock Salt at Ferrier's.
Christmas will soon be here.
You can soon write it 1902.
Oil has been struck at Bremen.
The extensive improvements at the grist mill are finished.

Bring the HERALD office some wood or cash.

Rev. H. N. Smith will preach his farewell sermon at Bruce Lake December 8th.

McCormick, the Knox banker, was in Culver Thursday.

Fox's "Forex" crackers cannot be imitated, the shape is original and covered by patents.

Frank Easterday and family visited J. J. Cromley and family at Burr Oak Sunday.

Frank Zink and wife have returned from a two week's visit with friends in Ohio.

Teachers' Institute is being held at Argos to-day, and will continue over Saturday.

Grandma Vanderweele of Knox spent Sunday with her son William at Burr Oak.

A number of people of Burr Oak were entertained at G. M. Osborn's last Sunday.

Amos Friend of Burr Oak visited friends at South Bend over Thanksgiving.

Some women don't like to be called the better half because they want to be the whole thing.

The Culver M. E. Sunday school will give a Christmas entertainment in the church on Christmas eve.

The Burr Oak school gave a Thanksgiving entertainment at the U. B. church Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Edward Bradley and Mrs. Ida Clark are doing a rushing business keeping roomers at South Bend.

Ethel Clark of South Bend made her grand-parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Bradley a visit over Sunday.

If you want rich, wheaty flavored cracker, buy Fox's "Forex."

A rose by any other name would smell as sweet, but a butter cracker called by any other name than Fox's "Forex" would not taste as good.

J. H. Koontz, who is engaged in business at Charleston, West Virginia, spent Thanksgiving with his family in Culver.

The Christian Endeavor Society's Thanksgiving breakfast proved a financial success, as a large number took the opportunity to test the abilities of the young ladies as pan-cake bakers. We understand that several young men have acknowledged that the marriageable ladies of the society would make tip-top house-keepers.

The ladies of the M. E. church society gave a dinner in the basement of the church Thanksgiving Day, and are well-pleased with the financial result.

The Palmer house is literally packed with guests from all over the country, who are participating in the Academy's Thanksgiving festivities.

Hon. Clem. Studebaker of South Bend died Wednesday after a long and painful illness. Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon.

Geo. W. Voreis was called to Fairmont, Minn., Sunday to the bedside of his brother who is very ill.

Mr. Z. Hagenbush, who has been living with J. H. Overmyer near Burr Oak, died Friday, Nov. 22nd. He was 55 years of age and unmarried. He was buried Saturday in the Stringer cemetery.

What good does it do a fellow to hear it announced that the average per capita in this great country is $28.52 when the prospects are that the menu for his next meal will be climatic climate.

The Sunday school convention which was held at the Zion Reformed church, south of Culver, was well-attended, and all questions ably discussed by the various schools. The ladies of the Zion church society prepared a most excellent dinner, which was partaken of in the school house near the church. Everyone was highly pleased with the event.

The father of Marbaugh Bros. of Monterey was buried Monday. The deceased was one of the oldest inhabitants of Aubbeenaubbee township and was highly respected.

SCORES DIE IN MINE.

A HUNDRED BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN LOST.

Entrapped in Mine at Telluride, Col., Two Hundred Workmen Battle Against Flame and Smoke—Many Escape by Old Exits—Damage, $50,000.

One hundred miners are believed to have lost their lives as the result of a fire in the Bullion tunnel, at the works of the Smuggler-Union Mining Company, just outside Telluride, Colo. Many bodies have been taken from the tunnel, and scores of the 200 miners who were underground at the time of the disaster are unaccounted for.

The fire, which is believed to have been accidental, started about 7 o'clock from a defective flue in the buildings at the mouth of the tunnel. At this point is the upper terminal of the tramway to the company's new mill at Pandora, and it was in the bunk house attached that the fire started. From this it spread to the terminal station, which, with its ore bins, machinery and supplies, is a mass of ruins.

The flames quickly communicated with the other buildings. The dense smoke from the burning converter house which was saturated with oil began pouring into the tunnel, which with the shafts of the mine acted as a chimney.

The day shift had just gone on duty before they could be warned of their danger in the levels, and the slopes were filled with gas. As soon as the men became aware of their danger efforts were made to reach the surface through various exits, and about half of those in the mine escaped.

The Smuggler-Union is one of the oldest mines in the district, and has several abandoned openings, some of which were available. Most of those who escaped did so through the old Union workings and the old Sheridan tunnel. A rescuing party cut a connection through from the Commission workings adjoining and took out part of the men.

After the fire in the buildings was under control the dense smoke continued to pour into the tunnel, and it was not until 3 o'clock in the afternoon that it occurred to the management to shut off the draft by blasting rock into the tunnel. It is believed by mining men that had this been done as soon as the fire started all loss of life might have been avoided. The property loss is about $50,000, fully covered by insurance.

SEVEN KILLED IN WRECK.

Seventeen Injured in Collision of Limited Train on the Santa Fe.

Two Santa Fe flyers, one the limited from Chicago for the Pacific coast, crowded with Eastern tourists, came into collision with fatal results near Franconia, Ariz. Seven trainmen were killed; three passengers and fourteen trainmen, ten of them from Chicago, were injured.

That there was not great loss of life among the passengers is due to the fact that the three engines, two dining cars and two composite cars in the forward part of the trains acted as a buffer and saved the sleepers and their occupants from destruction. The travelers, however, were all severely shaken up, for the trains were running at a high rate of speed when the accident occurred.

The collision is said to have been due to a disregard of orders on the part of the crew of the west-bound limited, though full particulars on this point are lacking. The east-bound train had orders to take the siding at Franconia and await the passing of the west-bound flyer, which was running two hours late and trying to make up time. The east-bound train failed to reach the siding, and as the west-bound train did not wait for it the two came together without warning.

The boiler of the west-bound train exploded immediately, scalding to death those of the engine crews who had not been killed outright. The bodies of Firemen Case and Armitage and Waiter Sam Brown are missing, and it is believed they were cremated.

A scene of awful confusion followed the collision. The massive engines piled up in a mass of broken and twisted steel, while the scalding steam hung in a dense, suffocating cloud over the debris, from which the cries of the injured and dying men could be heard. The heavy Pullman and composite cars jammed the dining and baggage cars upon the heated pile of debris, carrying death to the dining car crews and setting the cars afire.

KILL BIG RAILWAY COMBINE.

Holders of Preferred Northern Pacific Stock Defeat Consolidation.

The plan of the Northern Securities Company to combine the Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, Union Pacific and the Southern Pacific under one management has been defeated by holders of preferred stock of the Northern Pacific.

The plan proposes to retire 750,000 shares of preferred stock of the Northern Pacific at par, and the stockholders announce that they will bring action to prevent it.

They say it is not within the province of the directorate to take such a step, that the company alone can retire the preferred stock and that in this instance the directors neither ask for nor receive such authority from the company.

Didn't Come Right.

"Yes," he said, "I've quit, and I want to say that I think these stories of the way men get ahead in the world are all fairy tales. I've tried the method and know. Only a few days ago I read about Tom L. Johnson making his first big hit with the manager of a street railroad by picking up the scrap iron he found lying around. 'You're the kind of a careful man I want,' said the manager, and he promoted him right away. That was enough for me, so I began picking up things whenever the boss was near."

"What are you doing?" he demanded yesterday.

"There's no use letting these things go to waste, sir," I answered, for that's what Tom Johnson said.

"Of course not," he said, "and we hire men for a dollar a day to do just that class of work. But we can't afford to have clerks wasting their time over it. Hump yourself back into the office, now, or I'll have you on the pay roll as a day laborer."

"So I quit. Somehow things don't seem to happen in real life the way they do in print."—Chicago Post.

CANADA'S CAPITAL AROUSED.

Never Was There Such Excitement—Physicians' Association Trying to Explain.

Ottawa, Canada, Nov. 25.—This city is stirred up as never before. Some seven years ago the local papers published an account of a man named George H. Kent, of 408 Gilmour street, who was dying of Bright's Disease and who at the very last moment, after several of our best physicians had declared he couldn't live twelve hours, was saved by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

People who know how low Mr. Kent was refused to believe that he was cured permanently, and the other day, in order to clinch the matter, the papers published the whole case over again and backed up their story by sworn statements made by Mr. Kent, in which he declares most positively that in 1894 he was given up by the doctors and that Dodd's Kidney Pills and nothing else saved him, and further, that since the day that Dodd's Kidney Pills sent him back to work, seven years ago, he has not lost a single minute from his work (he is a printer in the American Bank Note Printing Company).

Mr. Kent is kept quite busy during his spare hours answering inquiries personally and by letter, but he is so grateful that he counts the time well spent. Indeed, he and his wife have shown their gratitude to Dodd's Kidney Pills in a very striking way by having their little girl—born in 1896—christened by the name of "Dodds."

Altogether it is the most sensational case that has ever occurred in the history of medicine in Canada, and the perfect substantiation of every detail leaves no room to doubt either the completeness or the permanency of the cure.

The local Physicians have made the case of Kent and Dodd's Kidney Pills the subject of discussion at several of the private meetings of their Association.

$100 Reward, $700.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

"WHAR DEW I CUM IN?"

(Being the Soliloquy of a Farmer on the Free Raw Sugar Question.)

Thar's a mighty lot er talkin' about farmers 'n thar rights, 'N the wonderful prosperity thet beet growin' invites. Thar's er heap of foolish crowin' 'n the "beats" begin ter shout 'N holler fer the Tariff ter keep free sugar out! But I notis that the beet-producin' farms are very few, An' the farmers through the country ain't got much of it ter dew. The hull land ain't a-raisin' beets, 'n ain't goin' ter begin, Beet growin's right fer sum, I guess—but, whar dew I cum in?

The farmer gits four dollars now fer every ton o' beets—A hansum price, I must allow—but hidin' sum deceits. Beet sugar manufacterers admit es they hev found Thet "granulated" costs 'em sumthin' like tew cents a pound. In fact that leaves a profit on which they'd greatly thrive—And—if it kin be sold fer three, why should we pay 'em FIVE? It seems ter me es thet's a game thet's mighty like a skin—But—if thar's any benefit—waal—whar dew I cum in?

When Uncle Sam's in want o' cash we're glad ter help him out, 'N we'll stand all the taxes thet are needed, never doubt, But when his pocket-book's well lined an' nary cent he lacks, Et seems ter me his duty's ter repeal thet sugar tax. Them fellers wot is interested sez it's to protect Thet beet-producin' farmer thet the duty they collect, But I guess thet explanation es a little bit too thin—The sugar maker,—he's all right,—but—whar dew we cum in?

Take off raw sugar duty an' the price will quickly fall, To everybody's benefit, fer sugar's used by all. The poor will bless the Government thet placed it in thar reach—('N millions of our citizens free sugar now beseech) The dealer 'll be delighted—less expenditure fer him—More demand 'n bigger profits—which at present are but slim. An' the farmer 'll be as well paid as he ever yet has ben—But he'll buy his sugar cheaper—thet's whar he an' 'll cum in.

Now, whar's the sense er reason of the sugar tax to-day, When our treasury's a-bulgin' an' we hev no debts ter pay? Thet duty on raw sugar's Fifty million every year—An' the people's got ter pay it—thet's a fact thet's very clear. Fifty million! Great Jerusha! Ter protect beet magnates, too, Why should they tax ALL the people—just ter help a scattered FEW? And the FEW? Beet-sugar MAKERS! Don't it really seem a sin Thus ter help an' fill thar coffers? Whar dew you an' I cum in?

The farmer growin' beets hes got a contract price fer years,—Free raw sugar wouldn't hurt him, an' of it he has no fears, But mebbe, like myself—he's also growing fruit so nice—Ter preserve it—at a profit—he needs sugar—at a price! The repealin' of the duty, surely cuts the price in two—Thet'll make a mighty difference, neighbor, both ter me an' you! Let the sugar manufacterer make such profits as he kin—Ter him it may seem right enuff—but whar dew I cum in?

An' I ain't agoin' ter swaller all the argyments they shout Thet the farmers need protection—an' must bar raw sugar out. Common sense is plainly showin' that the people in the land Want raw sugar free in future—an' its freedom will demand. 'Tis a tax no longer needed—hateful to the public view,—Taxin' millions of our people to enrich a favored few. They can't blind me any longer with the foolish yarns they spin,—While they're busy makin' money—whar dew you an' I come in?

I'm agoin' ter keep on hustlin', talkin', pleadin' with my friends,—Ain't no sense in lettin' others gain thar selfish privet ends. I'm agoin' ter write termorrer to my Congressman 'nd say Thet he oughter do his best ter will that tax without delay! Feller-farmers, do your utmost—whether you grow beets or not—To repeal the tax on sugar—you can but improve your lot! Cheaper sugar helps your pocket, greater blessings you can win—When we've three-cent granulated—that's whar you an' I cum in!
