CULVER CITY INDIANA, FRIDAY DEC. 6, 1901.

NO. 18

LOCAL BREVETIES.

Items Gathered Here and There and Put in Shape for the Herald.

Rock Salt at Ferrier's.

December is here and fine weather along with it.

There are no cases of diphtheria in Culver.

Thanks to Arthur Castleman for some fine rabbits.

Call on Porter & Co. for your holiday goods.

Miss Alice Shultz has returned to South Bend.

A full line of excellent holiday goods at Porter and Co's.

The churches are preparing for the Christmas entertainments.

Do not be caught fishing. If you do it is liable to unlead your pocket-book.

Farmers have been doing a good job of road graveling on the east side of the lake.

A splendid 75c all wool dress plaid at 33c per yard at Porter & Co's.

It is rumored that Mr. Emanuel Bush of Culver has fallen heir to forty thousand dollars. If this is true, the HERALD extends congratulations.

Just received a large new line of dress goods at Porter & Co's.

A steam engine and boiler are being placed in the elevator. For a long time Mr. Castleman tried to do business with a gasoline engine, but failed to connect. He will now have the power to transact business at the old stand with a vim.

Special line of 25c dress goods just in at Porter's & Co's.

The attempt of the Boers to fit out a ship in Loudon deserves to succeed if only as a reward for the nerve of its projectors.

There are over a thousand towns and cities in the United States which have curfew laws, compelling all children to be in doors by nine o'clock at night. In spite of this however, it is claimed that juvenile crime is increasing.

The cadets, including a number of their parents and friends attended the M. E. church in Culver Sunday morning, and heard an able sermon preached by Rev. Forest C. Taylor.

Many people are wondering why they have to go prowling around in the dark, when a man is employed by the year to light the street lamps. J. K. Mawhorter says when the honorable town board furnish him something to repair the lamps with they will be lighted just the same as usual. Either the buying of these lamps was a mighty poor investment of the people's money, or there is something wrong in "Denmark." What is the matter?

A nice selection of goods follows Mr. Spyer's visit to Chicago.

The new machine shop for Young & Carl has been finished, and is not only built on the plan of furnishing the company plenty of room, but is erected in a most substantial manner, in order to hold heavy machinery without racking or disturbing the structure. With additional machinery, when the firm is settled in its new quarters, it will be prepared to repair anything from a sewing machine to a locomotive.

Who will bring us some wood? There will be an entertainment at the Church of God in Burr Oak on Christmas evening.

McGovern and the turkey both got it in the same place on the same day--in the neck.

We are pleased to announce that Mr. J. H. Koontz has so arranged his business affairs that he will remain in Culver this winter. He has been engaged in map and school supply business in West Virginia the past two or three years and has met with deserved success.

John Friend, well-known in this section, is now in northern Wisconsin, running a section on a railroad, and is doing fine. He has quit drinking, and is a man from the word go. His many friends congratulate John on his good luck, and hope he will stay by his good resolutions.

Chicago people are seeing comets now. Judging from the activity of the foot-pads, highwaymen, and plug-uglies in that city for the past several months, the majority of the people have been seeing stars, and it is not to be wondered at that by reason of the constant practice the scope of their vision is being enlarged.

While you are lingering upon purchasing holiday goods, just remember that Porter & Company are receiving a large and magnificent stock. In fact, they will excel all former years in catering to the wants of the holiday buyers. As they purchase for cash, hence save the discount, they are prepared to give you unheard of bargains in these goods this year. Give them a call.

Thomas Houghton and wife returned last week from Missouri, where they have been visiting relatives and friends. While there Mr. Houghton visited his brother Edward, whom he had not seen for 36 years, and found him and his family well. Mr. Edward Houghton was a soldier in the civil war, and participated in a large number of hard fought battles. He went out with the 15th Indiana, and was one of the few who survived of the glorious old 15th. Mr. and Mrs. Houghton report that they had a splendid visit.

Christmas, the joyous day of all the year, will soon be upon us. The day when everyone should strive to make each other happy. It is a present-giving time, and you should begin to think carefully as to what you are going to purchase for your various friends. Take time by the forelock before the rush commences, and call upon our merchants and they will help you make splendid selections, just suited to the tastes and desires of your individual friends. But, if you wait until the very last minute, you are hardly ever satisfied with your purchases. You will find Culver's merchants doing business at the old stand, ready to accommodate at rock-bottom prices.

A. J. Sael wanted to attend a party but was afraid to do so on account of pain in his stomach, which he feared would grow worse. He says, "I was told to try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and I bought a bottle and I am glad to say that two doses cured me and enabled me to have a good time at the party." Mr. Sael is a resident of St. Albans, N. Y. This remedy is for sale by E. S. Slatery, druggist.

That Electric Line!

From Rochester to Culver a Sure Go,

So Say Those on the Inside of the Deal. An Enthusiastic Meeting at Rochester Tuesday.

Last Tuesday, a large number interested in the electric line which is to run from Rochester to Culver, met at Rochester, and were unanimously in favor of the project. A large number of farmers living between Rochester and Maxinkuckee were present and heartily endorsed the sentiments of the meeting. As we understand, the road will run straight across the country from Rochester to Maxinkuckee, thence around the north end of the lake to Culver depot, Culver to be the western terminal. It is stated by those on the inside that the road is a sure thing, and that an eight-foot right-of-way has been secured without any trouble. Just when the work upon the line will commence, we have not learned. If this road does become a reality, it will do great things for Culver, as it will open direct communication with a large section of the country which is now nearly impossible to reach. It will bring hundreds of people to the lake who were unable to reach here, owing to insufficient railroad accommodation.

Culver to Have a Saw Mill.

J. L. Anderson of Preston, Ind., is in Culver and will at once erect a saw mill. His machinery is all here and it is expected that the mill will be in running order in the very near future. We understand that Mr. Anderson has purchased a large amount of timber in this section, which will keep the mill running for several years. He thoroughly understands the lumber business and will make things hum.

To Whom It May Concern.

THE SOUTH BEND COLLEGE OF OPTICS.

SOUTH BEND, IND., Oct. 13, 1900.

This is to certify that E. R. Wood has taken a complete course of instruction in our college, and has thoroughly mastered all of the subjects pertaining to physical and physiological optics. He was one of our best students and graduated with high honors.

The college takes an especial pride in recommending him to the public as thoroughly versed in his profession and as a careful and skillful refractionist. We sincerely wish him the success that he so well deserves.

Very respectfully,

Dr. H. A. THOMPSON,
President of the College.

Dr. Wood will be at the Morris House in Culver on Dec. 16th from 1 to 6 p. m. If you need glasses, or your eyes trouble you in any way don't fail to see him. Examination free. Satisfaction guaranteed.

Elopers Heard From.

Mrs. William Riley, the Flora woman who left her husband and children two weeks ago to go away with a colored man Alex Pompey, has been located. She is in South Haven, Mich., and claims to be working out. Mr. Riley received a letter from her last week in which she declared she was never coming back. She said she wanted a divorce, and asked regarding her children.

Amidst Life There Is Death.

Death in any form is sad, but when it enters our homes, and takes the bright jewels from our midst, and deprives us of those we love and cherish, it seems doubly sad. Yet the old must die and the young may, hence, no man knoweth when the grim monster will stalk forth and demand that a soul shall appear before that great tribunal where it will receive its final reward, either for weal or woe. When Jessie, the 18 year old son of Finley Johnson, who lives south-west of Culver, was called to his final rest, one of the brightest and most promising young men in this section of the country, bid farewell to earthly friends, there was certainly a jewel taken from a home, one whom the lustre of an extraordinary career had already begun. This young man, although but 18 years of age had already attained a wonderful advance in a literary career. He was a graduate of the common school branches, and had attended the high school in Argos, and at his death was a graduate of the Rochester Normal. Jessie was taken sick about four weeks ago with symptoms of sore throat. Dr. Overmeyer of Leiter's Ford was called, and after a careful and thorough examination pronounced it diphtheria. The young man was confined to his bed about two weeks with this dreadful disease, but through medical skill and careful nursing he was pronounced out of danger, so far as diphtheria was concerned and was up and around the house for a few days. But owing to some cause, the young man had a relapse and again had to take his bed; and, even when his parents thought their darling boy was practically out of danger, death was lurking near. Monday morning, December 2nd, about 1:50 o'clock, he complained of a pain in the stomach. His mother applied hot cloths, but he continued to complain, and at three o'clock he suddenly expired, the physicians claim of paralysis of the heart. His remains were laid to rest in Monterey cemetery, Wednesday at 10 a. m. The deceased leaves a father, mother, one brother and a sister, and a large circle of relatives and friends to mourn his untimely demise. His death was a severe shock to the entire community, as he was an exemplary young man, and had just accepted a position as book-keeper for a firm in Chicago, and was to have departed for that city in the very near future.

This community was terribly shocked the fore part of the week, when it was announced in Culver that one of our townsmen, Mr. Chas. Irving, had answered to the final roll call, and that his soul had taken its flight to parts unknown. It did not seem hardly possible that this young man was no more of earth, as only a few short weeks ago, he and his charming young bride, formerly Miss Edie Finney, whom he married August 3rd, 1901, walked the streets of Culver, he happy and contented, and she happy in his love and tender care. About four or five weeks ago, Charley went to the home of his brother in law Mr. Lester Miller, who lives near Argos, to help him about some work. While there, Charley's driving horse was taken with the distemper and the animal's throat swelled so badly that it had to be lanced. In a few days, Charley complained of sore throat, which the physicians say he caught from coming in contact with the horse, and in spite of medical skill, blood poison set in which caused his death, which occurred suddenly Sunday evening at 11 o'clock. Before his death, he gave his heart to the Saviour, and died with the blessed assurance that Jesus had washed away his sins. Funeral services were held at the Miller residence Tuesday, at two o'clock, the pastor of the M. E. church at Argos officiating. He leaves a young wife, a father, one brother and two sisters and scores of relatives and friends to mourn their loss. The deceased was well and favorably known in Marshall county, especially in the southern portion of the county. He was a carriage painter by trade, and had he lived, he and his father who, lives at Walkerton, would have opened a carriage paint shop in Culver in the spring. When in Culver, he and his wife lived with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Finney. He was a young man of business ability, and his integrity was unquestioned. We are sure that his young wife and mourning friends have the sympathy of a large circle of acquaintance.

Died at Fairmont, Minnesota, December 1st, of Bright's disease, Benjamin F. Voreis, aged 47 years. The deceased was born in Union township and passed his boyhood on his father's farm near Burr Oak. He was an attorney and unmarried. He was a resident of Fairmont 22 years and his friends could be numbered by the hundreds in that section, who wreathed the casket containing his remains with the most beautiful flowers we ever saw. His brother Geo. Voreis of this city, accompanied by a member of the masonic fraternity of Fairmont, brought the remains to Burr Oak, arriving there Wednesday. Funeral services were held in the U. B. church in the afternoon, Rev. Forest C. Taylor officiating. His remains were laid at rest in the Burr Oak cemetery under the auspices of the masonic lodge of Culver. The deceased leaves three sisters, two brothers, and numerous relatives and friends to mourn. Obituary next week.

FATHER AND SON.

Begin a Life Sentence in Michigan City Penitentiary.

A father and son were received at the northern prison Tuesday to serve life sentences for murder. The father Nelson Fritz is nearly seventy years old, while the son is but sixteen. Wife, husband and son were implicated in the tragedy in which the life of John Pfeister was taken at Bedford. The state fought for the infliction of the death penalty for the father and son, but the jury gave a verdict which fixed life imprisonment as the punishment. The wife was acquitted. Fritz is patriarchal in appearance, while the son is a mere stripling. Pfeister was an inoffensive neighbor who was brutally slain by the two men, the son doing the bidding of the father in committing the crime. The prison officials say this is the first case on record in Indiana where father and son have been convicted of capital crime and given life sentences.

THIEF WAS MARSHAL.

REASON WHY OFFICER DID NOT FIND BURGLAR.

Detective from Outside Investigates and Reveals Jekyll and Hyde Case in Ohio—Valuable Discoveries of Oil Are Made in Alaska.

For about eighteen months the general store of John Banta at Willshire, Ohio, has been robbed very often, and up until a few weeks ago there was no clew to the intruders. The village marshal was appealed to in vain. Finally Detective George Harrod of Fort Wayne went to work on the case and found a wagon load of the stolen goods, which had been sold to farmers, in the vicinity of Hoaglin, Ind. A description of the men who sold the articles tallied with Charles Painter, the marshal of Willshire, and Charles Tague, a bartender. They were arrested and both pleaded guilty and are now in the county jail awaiting sentence. Painter was elected marshal of Willshire last spring, and according to his own confession he was a professional burglar before he was elected marshal and night watchman of the village.

FALSEHOOD ANNULS A POLICY.

United States Appellate Court Holds Insurance Agreement Invalid.

The validity of an insurance policy depends on the truthful answer to questions propounded by the company when application for insurance is made, according to an opinion handed down by the United States Court of Appeals at St. Louis in the case of John Q. Meyers, administrator of the estate of Paul B. Swetlick, against the Home Life Insurance Company of New York. The plaintiff was a Kansas farmer, who died in November, 1892, and his heirs sought to recover $25,000, in which amount his life was insured. At the trial it developed that when Swetlick applied for the policy he denied he had any other insurance, when in reality he had. The Circuit Court found for the plaintiff and the insurance company appealed the case. Judge Elmer B. Adams, who delivered the Appellate Court's decision, remanded the case to the Circuit Court for a new trial.

REPORT MUCH OIL IN ALASKA.

Steamers Arriving at Tacoma Tell of Remarkable Discoveries.

Steamers from southern Alaska bring news of important petroleum discoveries in the Cook Inlet region. Oil is found floating from numerous springs and in one place there is a lake covering thirty acres filled with oil from springs. Most of the oil is around Innerskin bay and Coal Oil bay. One drilling plant is now in operation, having reached a depth of several hundred feet. During the summer over 50,000 acres were set aside as oil lands. Many locations were made for a Philadelphia syndicate. Several drilling plants will be sent north next spring. The Standard Oil Company has experts on the ground investigating.

ISLES ARE AMERICAN.

The Supreme Court Decides Against Government.

By the decision of the United States Supreme Court the Philippine Islands are domestic territory of the United States, this status being acquired at the moment of the ratification of the peace treaty with Spain. This decision was handed down in the case of Emil J. Pekar vs. the United States government, commonly known as the "Fourteen Diamond Rings" case.

New Terror to Warfare.

The invention of a new machine gun, which, it is stated, is capable of firing bullets at the same rate as a Maxim gun with a range of 6,000 yards, is interesting London military circles. The bullet is of 5-inch caliber.

Congress is in Session.

The Fifty-seventh Congress formally assembled on Monday, the roll call showing the absence of a number of unique characters from the Senate and several changes in the House.

Appropriations Not So Large.

Estimates of appropriations required for the government service for 1903, presented to Congress, foot up a total of $610,827,688, which is $18,000,000 less than the estimates for 1902.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S MESSAGE

THE views of President Roosevelt on the great questions which concern the nation were officially promulgated to Congress Tuesday. The new President's first message is a voluminous document, containing nearly 20,000 words, and is written in that forceful style characteristic of Mr. Roosevelt. No presidential communication in recent years has been awaited with more interest.

The President refers to the assembling of Congress this year under the shadow of the great tragedy at Buffalo. He considers that the circumstances of this, the third assassination of an American President, have a peculiarly sinister significance. Both President Lincoln and President Garfield were slain by assassins of types unfortunately not uncommon in history, but President McKinley was killed by an utterly depraved criminal belonging to that body of criminals who object to all governments, good and bad alike, who are against any form of popular liberty if it is guaranteed by even the most just and liberal laws, and who are as hostile to the upright exponent of a free people's sober will as to the tyrannical and irresponsible despot. Mr. Roosevelt finds no baser deed in all the annals of crime. The shock, the grief of the country, are bitter in the minds of all. We mourn a good and great President who is dead; but while we mourn we are lifted up, the message says, by the splendid achievements of his life and the grand heroism with which he met his death.

Turning from the man to the nation, the harm done is so great as to excite the President's gravest apprehensions, and to demand wise and resolute action. The blow was aimed not at President McKinley, says Mr. Roosevelt, but at all Presidents; at every symbol of government. The anarchist, he declares, is a malefactor and nothing else. No man or body of men preaching anarchistic doctrines should be allowed at large any more than if preaching the murder of some specified private individual. Anarchistic speeches, writings and meetings are essentially seditious and treasonable. I earnestly recommend to the Congress, says the President, that in the exercise of its wise discretion it should take into consideration the coming to this country of anarchists or persons professing principles hostile to all government and justifying the murder of those placed in authority. If found here they should be promptly deported to the country whence they came; and far-reaching provision should be made for the punishment of those who stay. Anarchy is classed as a crime against the whole human race, and, the message says, it should be so declared by treaties among all civilized powers. Mr. Roosevelt is also of the opinion that the federal courts should be given jurisdiction over any man who kills or attempts to kill the President or any man who by the constitution or by law is in line of succession for the presidency, while the punishment for an unsuccessful attempt should be proportioned to the enormity of the offense against our institutions.

Prosperity of the Nation. The President speaks of the restoration of business confidence during the past few years and congratulates the nation on its present abounding prosperity. The tremendous and highly complex industrial development has meant a startling increase, not merely in the aggregate of wealth, but in the number of very large individual, and especially of very large corporate, fortunes. The creation of these great corporate fortunes, says the message, has not been due to the tariff nor to any other governmental action, but to natural causes in the business world. It is not true, the President says, that as the rich have grown richer the poor have grown poorer. On the contrary, never before has the average man, the wage worker, the farmer, the small trader, been so well off as in this country at the present time.

There have been abuses connected with the accumulation of wealth; yet, as expressed in the message, it remains true that a fortune accumulated in legitimate business can be accumulated by the person specially benefited only on condition of conferring immense incidental benefits upon others. The captains of industry who have driven the railway systems across this continent, who have built up our commerce, who have developed our manufactures, have on the whole done great good to our people. We should recognize the immense importance to this material development of leaving as unhampered as is compatible with the public good the strong and forceful men upon whom the success of business operations inevitably rests. Combination and concentration should be, not prohibited, says the message, but supervised and within reasonable limits controlled.

Immigration Laws Unsatisfactory. In the opinion of the President our present immigration laws are unsatisfactory. All persons should be excluded, he says, who are below a certain standard of economic fitness to enter our industrial field as competitors with American labor. Both the educational and economic tests in a wise immigration law should be designed to protect and elevate the general body politic and social. He also regards it as necessary to re-enact immediately the law excluding Chinese laborers and to strengthen it wherever necessary in order to make its enforcement entirely effective.

The President finds that there is a general acquiescence in our present tariff system as a national policy, and he is of the opinion that nothing could be more unwise than to disturb the business interests of the country by any general tariff change at this time. Yet, he says, it is not only possible, but eminently desirable, to combine with the stability of our economic system a supplementary system of reciprocal benefit and obligation with other nations. Such reciprocity was especially provided for in the present tariff law. Reciprocity must be treated as the handmaiden of protection. The gold standard and act of March 14, 1900, is approved, but it is urged that the currency of the country should be made responsive to the demands of our domestic trade and commerce. Attention is called to the need of strict economy in expenditures. Congress is asked to amend the interstate commerce act and then to see to it that its provisions are strictly complied with.

The Department of Agriculture is commended and it is pointed out that government aid must be given toward solving the irrigation problem in order that there may be early reclamation of the unsettled arid public lands. In Hawaii, the President says, our aim must be to develop the territory on the traditional American lines. As to Porto Rico, the island is found to be thriving as never before, and it is being administered efficiently and honestly. In Cuba such progress has been made toward putting the independent government of the island upon a firm footing that before the present session of Congress closes this, it is declared, will be an accomplished fact. In the Philippines our problem is larger. The message says it is hoped to make our administration of the islands honorable to our nation by making it of the highest benefit to the Filipinos themselves. Already, says the President, a greater measure of material prosperity and of governmental honesty and efficiency has been attained in the Philippines than ever before in their history.

Nothing better can be done for the islands than to introduce industrial enterprises. The connection between idleness and mischief is proverbial, and the opportunity to do remunerative work is one of the surest preventives of war. It is, therefore, necessary, the message says, that the Congress should pass laws by which the resources of the islands can be developed, and every encouragement be given to the incoming of business men of every kind. In this connection the President calls attention to the crying need of a cable to Hawaii and the Philippines. The Isthmian Canal. The President considers the building of the isthmian canal, in point of consequences to the American people, the greatest single material work remaining to be undertaken on this continent. Its importance to the nation is by no means limited merely to its material effects upon our business prosperity; and yet with view to these effects alone, it would be to the last degree important for us immediately to begin it. It is, he says, emphatically a work which it is for the interest of the entire country to begin and complete as soon as possible; it is one of those works which only a great nation can undertake with prospects of success, and which when done are not only permanent assets in the nation's material interests, but standing monuments to its constructive ability. The President is glad to announce that negotiations on this subject with Great Britain have resulted in his being able to lay before the Senate a treaty which if ratified will enable us to begin preparations for an isthmian canal at any time, and which guarantees to this nation every right that it has ever asked in connection with the canal.

The President thinks the Monroe doctrine should be the cardinal feature of the foreign policy of all the nations of the two Americas, as it is of the United States. Our people, he says, intend to abide by the Monroe doctrine and to insist upon it as the one sure means of securing the peace of the Western hemisphere. The navy offers us the only means of making our insistence upon the Monroe doctrine anything but a subject of derision to whatever nation chooses to disregard it. We desire the peace which comes as of right to the just man armed; not the peace granted on terms of ignominy to the craven and the weakling. The President therefore points out the need of not only more ships, but of more men, and recommends that there be no cessation of the work on our greater navy.

No Army Increase. As to the army the President is of the opinion that it is not necessary that it should be increased beyond its present size at this time. But it is necessary to keep it at the highest point of efficiency. The paper work in the army, as in the navy, he says, should be greatly reduced. What is needed is proved power of command and capacity to work well in the field. Constant care is necessary to prevent dry rot in the transportation and commissary departments.

The remarkable growth of the postal service is commented upon, and among recent postal advances the success of rural free delivery wherever established is mentioned as having been so marked, and actual experience has made its benefits so plain that the demand for its extension is general and urgent.

The President tells in some detail of the satisfactory settlement of the trouble in China and ends the message with a reference to the death of Queen Victoria and again refers to the great sorrow of the American nation, saying: "In the midst of our affliction we reverently thank the Almighty that we are at peace with the nations of mankind; and we firmly intend that our policy shall be such as to continue unbroken these international relations of mutual respect and good will."

COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL

New York

Encouraging reports continue to come from all jobbing lines. Interior merchants have had a larger trade than anticipated and dry goods houses are well supplied with reassuring orders for all classes of goods. The big rush among the jobbers for holiday goods has reached its maximum, but there will be enough buying to keep houses busy for the next two weeks. The buying of clothing of late has been the best ever witnessed at this season. Complaints still exist about the slowness of deliveries, but manufacturers are gradually catching up. Buying of iron and steel continues active in all lines and there is a great deal of speculation going on as to what effect it will have on future prices. There has been the largest tonnage of pig iron placed for delivery in 1902 that has ever been known at this season.

Dun's review says: Careful search discloses few unfavorable factors in the iron and steel situation. Probably the least satisfactory conditions are found at plate mills, which report an uneven distribution of orders. A few large concerns appear to secure the bulk of new business, but heavy orders for cars will largely expand the buying, while the new combination will put this class of mills on a stronger basis. It is certain that the greatest force on record is now engaged in the various departments of iron and steel making. Raw material at the South has advanced, but at central points pig iron is steady, though rapidly absorbed.

A review of the markets for the past week develops these facts: While sentiment has been favorable to better grain prices, the changes last week, as during the week before, were really not large or important, so sentiment has really counted for little excepting, perhaps, in preventing declines. Fluctuations, too, have been narrow, even though there has been a pretty fair speculative trade in all the cereals, much of it, however, local and professional, outside interest being only moderate.

Shipping and export demands for wheat have been relatively small, milling demands very fair, while for corn demands have come largely again from sections in the South, Southeast and Southwest, where the crop of 1901 was largely a failure. The best demands have been for oats, and for this reason that grain has been relatively stronger than the others, best prices on the crop thus far having been reached last week. Some little improvement in export demands were noted. The Western situation continues to be the factor in corn. It has not changed to any extent within a week, except that previous predictions of a scarcity are being confirmed. Husking operations show that the yield is more disappointing as work progresses, and this may lead to a reduction in the estimates by the Agricultural Department in its final figures.

Provisions last week, after being weak and lower on heavy receipts of hogs, suddenly started up and pork advanced 80c a barrel in three days, lard advanced nearly 1/2c a pound, and ribs 3/8c. The week's hog receipts were surprisingly heavy, being the largest at this season in ten years, and were the best of the year, aggregating 281,000, against 241,000 last year. At Western points there was also a big run, and receipts aggregated 626,000, compared with 548,000 the previous week, and were 98,000 more than last year.

THE MARKETS

Thrown from His Cab and Killed.

The following is a most interesting and, in one respect, pathetic tale: Mr. J. Pope, 42 Ferrar Road, Stratham, said: "Yes, poor chap, he is gone, dead—horse bolted, thrown off his seat on his cab he was driving and killed—poor chap, and a good sort, too, mate. It was him, you see, who gave me the half-bottle of St. Jacobs Oil that made a new man of me. 'Twas like this: me and Bowman were great friends. Some gentleman had given him a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil which had done him a lot of good; he only used half the bottle, and remembering that I had been a martyr to rheumatism and sciatica for years, that I had literally tried everything, had doctors, and all without benefit, I became discouraged and looked upon it that there was no help for me. Well," said Pope, "you may not believe me, for it is a miracle, but before I had used the contents of the half-bottle of St. Jacobs Oil which poor Bowman gave me, I was a well man. There it is, you see, after years of pain, after using remedies, oils, embrocations, horse liniments, and spent money on doctors without getting any better, I was completely cured in a few days. I bought another bottle, thinking the pain might come back, but it did not, so I gave the bottle away to a friend who had a lame back. I can't speak too highly of this wonderful pain-killer."

Safe Occupation.

Bridget, the pretty young maid of all work employed in a Boston family, confided to her mistress when taking service that she had lately become engaged to be married. She stated, however, that she and Tim would have to wait two years; and in the meantime she wished to be earning money. When Tim made his first call, one evening, the family remarked that they had never known so quiet a man. The sound of Bridget's voice rose now and then from the kitchen, but Tim's words were apparently few and far between. "Tim is not much of a talker, is he, Bridget?" said the mistress of the house the next morning. "I should scarcely have known there was any one with you last evening."

"He'll talk more when we've been engaged a while longer. I'm thinking, ma'am," said little Bridget. "He's too bashful yet to do anything but eat, ma'am, when he's wid me!"

A Clergyman's Discovery.

Fredericksburg, Ind., Dec. 2.—According to the positive declaration of Rev. E. P. Stevens of this place that gentleman has found a remedy for all diseases of the Kidneys and urinary organs. For years he suffered severely with these complaints, incontinence of the urine, making life a burden to him, but he never ceased experimenting in the hope that some day he would discover a remedy. After many failures he has at last succeeded and is to-day perfectly cured and a well man, and explains that his recovery is due to the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills. This remedy has been successfully applied to many cases of lame Back, Rheumatism, Bright's Disease, Diabetes and other Kidney Diseases, and there seems to be no case of the kind that Dodd's Kidney Pills will not cure. This is the only remedy that has ever cured Bright's Disease.

INDIANA INCIDENTS.

RECORD OF EVENTS OF THE PAST WEEK.

Big Machior Ditch Is Opened—Fire in Circus Winter Quarters in Peru—Crawfordsville Wire Mill Burns—Odd Fellows Elect Officers.

The big Machior ditch in Laporte County, which has been under construction for the last eighteen months and which is one of the largest drainage canals in northern Indiana, is completed. The ditch is ten miles long and cost about $40,000. It begins near Thomaston and the Nickel Plate Railway, and joins the Kankakee river three miles from the Panhandle Railroad bridge. It is estimated that it drains and improves about 17,000 acres of land, although only 14,000 acres have been assessed for its construction. When the connection between the ditch and the Kankakee river was made the released water in the canal rushed down with such a velocity as to carry the big dredge into the river in spite of its heavy anchors, and in twenty minutes the water in the canal had lowered four feet three miles from its mouth, and five feet at the point where it joins the river.

Odd Fellows' Officers.

The following officers were elected at the recent session of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows in Indianapolis: Grand Master, George P. Bornwasser of New Albany; Deputy Grand Master, E. E. Pryor of Martinsville; Grand Warden, Alexander Johnson of Fort Wayne; Grand Secretary, W. H. Leedy of Indianapolis; Grand Treasurer, W. H. Morris, Frankfort; Trustee, Benjamin Franklin of Indianapolis; Thomas R. Jessup of Richmond, Grand Representative to the next convocation of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, which meets in Des Moines, Iowa, September, 1902.

Wire and Nail Mill Burned.

Fire started from a gasoline engine at the Crawfordsville wire and nail plant, and in two hours the entire establishment was in ruins, entailing a loss of $150,000. The plant was built by local capitalists last spring and was outside the trust. The wire drawing mill had been in operation only two months. The loss includes $50,000 of finished product awaiting shipment. There is but $25,000 insurance, distributed among several companies. One hundred and fifty men are thrown out of employment. The stockholders say they will rebuild at once.

Elephants in Peril of Fire.

The elephant barn at the winter quarters of B. E. Wallace's circus at Peru was destroyed by fire, but the bulky animals were taken out in safety, although with considerable trouble. Fortunately the fire was confined to the one building and this prevented the destruction of a $5,000 hippopotamus and other animals that could not have been moved in time. The fire started in the hay mow of the barn, and seven elephants were taken out with live coals raining upon their backs.

Within Our Borders.

Michigan City has a Bueltingsloeven building.

Wm. Cromer, 35, Salem, was killed by the limb of a falling tree.

Fireman David Shoemaker was injured in a wreck on the L. E. & W. at Lafayette.

Benton Hough, Bloomington, tried to stop a runaway horse, and was seriously injured.

Walter Bennett, Elwood, was perhaps fatally injured by a horse throwing him into a ditch.

Fred Black, an employe of Wallace's circus, was ground to pieces under a train in Peru.

Ernest Livezey, near Muncie, was perhaps fatally shot by his brother Joseph, while they were hunting.

Nelson Williams, 67, a New Castle carpenter, fell from a scaffold and fractured the bones of both legs at the ankles.

Charles Seegars, 30 years old, was almost instantly killed in an explosion at the Val Gruber stone quarry, eight miles south of Vernon, caused by a defective boiler.

Jesse V. Bright, cashier of the Bank of Flora and son of R. R. Bright, president of the institution, was married in Chicago to Miss Theresa Clويد. The bride is a musician of considerable note.

Mistaking him for a burglar, John Cole of Plevna shot and mortally wounded his brother-in-law, Milton Kendall. Young Kendall had been out late and sought to enter the house without knocking.

The people of Peru are proud that Captain Hiram Bearss, who has just been commended for bravery, is of that city. The young man has been reported as one of the leaders of an attack on a Filipino stronghold in the Philippines.

In the federal court at Indianapolis Richard C. Davis, bank cashier of Washington, indicted on the charge of embezzling $70,000 from the funds of the People's National Bank of that city, pleaded not guilty through his attorney, Smiley Chambers.

Thirty ministers of St. Joseph County have adopted resolutions agreeing not to perform the marriage ceremony for divorced persons except where the decree was granted for biblical reasons, and where the facts are positively known to the minister.

A 50,000,000-foot gas well has come in on the Hobbs farm, four miles south of Tipton. Gas was struck, the tools were thrown out, and the drillers had to run for their lives. The well is equal to if not larger than the Wallace well, struck near Postoria, Ohio, seven years ago.

MAN WHO IS CREATING A NEW GOVERNMENT.

JUDGE WILLIAM H. TAFT

THIS picture of Judge Taft is said to be the best likeness of the first American Governor of the Philippine Islands, to whom has fallen the great task of making order out of chaos, substituting American methods for Spanish bribery, organizing courts and municipalities, giving the right to vote to those fit for the franchise, and, generally, "creating a government from the ground up" where nothing but semi-barbaric ideas of government have prevailed. Judge Taft is from Ohio, is a graduate of Yale, and is a son of Alphonso Taft, Secretary of War and Attorney General under President Grant. He was judge of the United States Court of Appeals when appointed chairman of the Philippine Commission, from which he stepped into the governorship when that office was created.

WIFE CHARGED WITH MURDER.

The Deserted Husband Is One of Her Main Prosecutors.

The crime of having murdered her own child has been charged against Mrs. Elizabeth Howe Dale of Hoboken, N. J., a woman of good connections, of former good reputation, but for the past two years living separated from her husband, Harvey S. Dale, an insurance man of Chicago. Unfortunately Mrs. Dale formed an attachment for another man, Elbert Waller, a German, whom she met in Europe, and to this is due her condition, with her husband pressing against her the charge of murder.

Some seven years ago Harvey S. Dale and Elizabeth Howe were married in New York. Their relations were happy and harmonious until a little over two years ago, when Mrs. Dale began an intimacy with Waller. Husband and wife separated and by agreement the father obtained the custody of their child, Emeline, then 3 years old. He placed her with his family physician, Dr. Stubbs, meantime awaiting the expiration of two years to begin suit for divorce, being averse to institute proceedings for any other cause than that of desertion. A short while ago Mr. Dale allowed Mrs. Dale to take Emeline to her home, where also Waller lived. Then he returned to Chicago. Emeline was not returned to her guardian and afterward Mrs. Dale and Waller, with Emeline, left the Belden avenue house, saying they were going to Philadelphia. They put up at a Hoboken hotel, however, and shortly after a doctor was summoned to their apartments to attend Emeline. He administered medicine and left her apparently in good condition. Early Tuesday morning he was summoned again. He found Emeline dead.

The circumstances surrounding the child's death aroused the suspicions of some of Mr. Dale's relatives and when these spoke to Mrs. Dale of the matter she said that the child had died through the mistake of having eaten strychnine tablets for candy. Whereupon the authorities, upon the representations of the husband, took charge of the case.

ESTIMATES OF APPROPRIATIONS

Amount Is $16,000,000 Less than Was Asked for 1902.

The Secretary of the Treasury Monday transmitted to Congress the estimates of appropriations required for the government service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1903, as furnished by the heads of the several executive departments. The total appropriations asked for are $610,827,688, which is $16,000,000 less than the estimates for 1902 and $4,000,000 more than the appropriations for that year.

Following is a recapitulation of the estimates by departments:

Legislative .....	$10,188,000
Executive .....	294,160
State Department .....	2,446,328
Treasury Department .....	156,484,925

Department of Agriculture .....	5,509,540
Department of Labor .....	130,550
Department of Justice .....	6,917,330
Total .....	$610,827,688

Following are the principal items under the several departments which show increases or decreases as compared with the appropriations for the year 1902:

Congress, public printing, etc., increase	$420,000.
State Department, foreign intercourse, increase	$233,000.
Treasury Department, mints and assay offices, increase	$133,000.
Internal revenue, increase	$340,000.
Public works, increase	$4,405,000.
Miscellaneous, increase	$1,000,000.
District of Columbia, decrease	$503,000.

Permanent annual appropriations, decrease	$650,000.
Navy Department, naval establishment, increase	$8,545,000.
Public works, increase	$14,600,000.
Interior Department, Indian affairs, decrease	$325,000; per-sons, decrease $5,400,000; public works, decrease $585,000; miscellaneous, decrease, $1,375,000.
Postoffice Department, salaries and expenses, increase	$115,000.
Department of Agriculture, salaries and expenses, increase	$82,000.
Department of Labor, salaries and expenses, increase	$12,000.
Department of Justice, public works, increase	$52,000; miscellaneous, increase $60,400.
Civil Service Commission, salaries and expenses, increase	$65,000.

AN INDIAN CONGRESSMAN.

Charles Curtis, Representative of the First Kansas District.

Charles Curtis, who represents the First Kansas District in the House of Representatives, enjoys the distinction of being the only Indian in Congress. By his colleagues he is held in high esteem, because of his thorough mastery of public questions, his extraordinary intellectual qualities and his delightful manner. He is one of the brightest men in the House, a brilliant speaker and excellent in debate.

CHARLES CURTIS.

To the people of his own blood he appears as an almost worshipful figure, second only in importance to the Great White Father.

Curtis is still a young man, being in his 41st year. He belongs to the Kaw tribe and annually draws his share of the money allotted to his people by the government. He is a lawyer by profession. He went to the House of Representatives when the Fifty-third Congress assembled and has ever since been a member, serving on important committees.

CONGRESS AT WORK.

LVIITH NATIONAL LAW-MAKING BODY IN SESSION.

Great Throngs Assemble at the Capitol to Witness the Opening—Henderson Re-Elected Speaker of the House—Large Amount of Work in Sight.

Washington correspondence:

The opening of the first session of the Fifty-seventh Congress at noon Monday drew to the capitol a great throng of spectators eager to witness the scenes of animation which mark the annual re-assembling of the national lawmakers.

Although the actual work of the two houses was not to begin until 2 o'clock, the historic old structure—now refurbished from end to end until it shone with marble, gilt and rich decorations, was astir long before that hour. It was an ideal day to bring out the public—sunny and warm, with just enough breeze from the south to lazily stir the flags over the capitol, some of which were raised for the first time since the adjournment of Congress nine months ago.

Senators and members began arriving early in the day and there was the usual handshaking among old friends and informal talk of the work ahead. The veteran Senator from Iowa, Mr. Allison, was one of the first to reach the Senate wing and resume his work as chairman of the committee on appropriations.

Senator Jones of Arkansas, the Democratic floor leader in the Senate, was another early arrival and soon had a circle of his Democratic colleagues in the cloak room discussing the session's program. Speaker Henderson did not reach the House wing until shortly before the session opened and remained in his private office conferring with members during the formalities preceding his re-election as Speaker.

Since the adjournment of the Senate last spring the chamber has been redecorated and recarpeted. The principal features of its beauty and individuality have been retained, but they have been added to by the artistic decorations. A bright green carpet with old-gold figures has taken the place of the old-gold carpet of the Congress, and the desks and furnishings of the chamber have been notably improved.

The very handsome interior of the hall of Representatives added much to the impressiveness of the general scene at the south end of the capitol when Alexander McDowell of Pennsylvania called the new House of Representatives to order at noon. The vast chamber had been repainted, regilded and completely refurbished during the recess and many changes made for the comfort and convenience both of the members and spectators.

The Senate was called to order by President Pro Tem. Frye, and Speaker Henderson again held the gavel in the House. In the Senate Dietrich and Millard, Nebraska; Gibson, Montana, and Kittredge, South Dakota, were sworn in as Senators. After the usual resolutions and the appointment of a committee the Senate adjourned out of respect to the memory of Senator Kyle.

The House organized, members drew seats and then adjourned.

Congress did not adjourn Monday out of respect to the late President McKinley, as not until it heard the President's message Tuesday did it know officially that Mr. McKinley was dead.

Plenty of Work Ahead.

Congress has plenty of work ahead. This growing nation of ours has furnished a vast amount of material for its statesmen to weave into laws for the advancement of the people and the betterment of those across the sea who are dependent upon the United States government. With the legacy of uncompleted work bequeathed by the last Congress and the problems which since then have arisen the program is truly a formidable one. Following are some of the more important subjects this Congress will have to consider:

Commercial treaties desired by foreign countries and tariff revision demanded by sections of this country.

The new Hay-Pauncefote Isthmian Canal treaty and necessary legislation authorizing the construction of the canal.

Various subsidy schemes to foster American shipbuilding.

The proposed Pacific cable to the Philippines.

Reduction of the taxes in view of the treasury surplus.

Legislation for Porto Rico and the Philippines.

Amendments to strengthen the interstate commerce law.

Re-enactment of the Chinese exclusion law.

Legislation to deport or control anarchists and guard the President and the cabinet.

Legislation for the irrigation of arid lands in the West.

Regulation of trusts.

Creation of a department of commerce and industry whose chief shall be given a place in the cabinet.

PLANS ARMY REFORM.

Root Favors Formation of Well-Drilled Reserves.

Secretary of War Root in his annual report recommends sweeping reorganization of the National Guard, reciprocity with Cuba, rebuilding of West Point, and lieutenant generalships for Merritt, Brooke and Otis when they retire.

According to the report of the Secretary, the regular army now consists of 3,258 officers and 76,084 enlisted men. There are, in addition, 4,336 men in the hospital corps, 172 volunteer surgeons in the Philippines, 4,973 native scouts, under command of 98 officers, in the Philippines, and 250 officers and 315 men of the Porto Rico provisional regiment.

This army is apportioned as follows: United States, 33,874; Philippines, 43,239; Cuba, 4,914; Porto Rico, 1,541; Hawaiian Islands, 256; China, 162; Alaska, 527. The death rate per thousand of troops in the United States during the year was 10.14; in Cuba, 9.72; in Porto Rico, 7.90, and in the Philippines and China was reduced from 19.31 to 16.76.

The Secretary does not think it practical to discontinue the transport service upon the Pacific, but is not in favor of the United States maintaining our fleet in times of peace.

A detailed project for the defense of San Juan, Porto Rico, at a cost of $1,800,000 has been prepared.

There have been added to sea coast armament fifteen twelve-inch guns, seven ten-inch guns, eleven eight-inch guns, thirty-five rapid-fire and twenty-three mortars.

The Secretary notes that as the militia law stands to-day as enacted in 1792 it is desirable that Congress exercise the powers conferred upon it for organizing, arming and disciplining the militia. The organization and armament of National Guards of the several States should be made, the same as those provided by Congress for regular and volunteer forces.

He recommends that the National Guard be armed with small arms used by the regular army; that the guard should be treated as first reserve to be called into service to suppress insurrection and repel invasion, and that the President be authorized to organize the volunteer forces when called out in the manner provided by the act of March 2, 1899.

The Secretary says it is the design of the department not to subject any of our forces to tropical climates for a longer period than three years without intervening service in a colder climate.

The church question in Cuba has been satisfactorily adjusted by the military government paying a rental of 5 per cent upon appraised value of church properties, amounting to $2,000,000, with a five-year option to the government of Cuba to buy the property at appraised value, receiving a credit of 25 per cent of rentals paid.

The matter of the Cuban government is treated extensively.

The Secretary believes that as the period of American occupation draws near, Cubans, realizing more and more the debt of obligation they owe this country, he says:

"Cuba has acquiesced in our right to say that she shall not put herself in the hands of any other power, whatever her necessities, and in our right to insist upon the maintenance of free and orderly government throughout her limits, however impoverished and desperate her people. Correlative to this right is the duty of highest obligation to treat her not as an enemy, nor at arms' length as an aggressive commercial rival, but with generosity which toward her will be justice; to shape our laws so that they shall contribute to her welfare as well as our own."

He claims our duty to be the framing of such reciprocal tariff arrangements with her as President McKinley urged in his Buffalo speech. The peace, health and independence of Cuba are necessary to the peace, health and safety of the United States.

MCKINLEY ESTATE APPRAISED.

Total Value of Late President's Personal Property Is $135,890.18.

The appraisers of the McKinley estate, through Judge Day and Secretary Cortelyou, administrators, have filed their report with the probate judge at Canton. The schedule shows the following: Value of personal property and chattels, $2,655.88; securities, bank deposits and life insurance, $133,105.15; moneys, $129.15. Total of $133,890.18.

As the real estate was left to Mrs. McKinley during her lifetime no appraisal was made of that, but the appraisers estimate the real estate is worth from $60,000 to $65,000, which makes the entire estate worth nearly $200,000.

With the shortest corn crop on record Kentucky will probably consider it a sin to eat the stuff this year.

Mr. Rathbun of Louisville is more than ever convinced that life insurance is a game one must die to beat.

That three-weeks armistice in Colombia on account of rain will probably have to be put down to the credit of strategy.

Belgium is threatened with a crisis, but if it is going to be a very bad one they will have to hire another country in which to pull it off.

Carnegie tossed $2,000,000 more at Pittsburg the other day and still had enough change left in his pocket to pay car fare home.

Pindlay, Ohio, is offering $100 a piece for dead burglars, the conclusion being that a good Indian and a good burglar should occupy the same box.

NEWS FOR THE HERALD,

Written by Our Special Reporter.

Three days before Thanksgiving, the North Division H. S. of Chicago cancelled our game, and we were left in the lurch, with a very short time before the most important game of the season. Mr. Hemple went to Chicago immediately and by strenuous efforts arranged a game with the Northwestern University scrubs. The noon train Thursday brought several parties of over a hundred people from Ke-wanna and other adjacent towns, so that a crowd of almost a thousand people witnessed the game from the side lines, and a cheer with some volume behind it, went up as the team trotted out in their new sweaters. Northwestern soon appeared, and a comparison of the two teams, as they ran through their preliminary work, gave all the advantage in size and weight to the husky team from Evanston. Culver won the toss and chose the west goal which was protected by a stiff breeze with icicles on the edge of it. Northwestern's full-back booted the ball against the wind to Culver's 20 yard line, where Masters captured it and brought it back ten yards. Then the game was on in earnest and Culver began hammering the line. With saort but steady gain, the ball was slowly pushed up the field into Northwestern territory, till it rested on the thirty yard line, and it was first down for Culver. Van Ryppe went around left, end for one yard. Bays got two more through tackle. Koontz smashed into the line, but it was held without a quiver and the ball went to Northwestern. It took the cadets just 25 yards to solve the Northwestern riddle, introduced in the University by Hollister, and which proved almost as effective as the famous guards-back of Pennsylvania. In the middle of the field, McIntire, who at first handled the plays aimed at line rather poorly, tore through his man twice like a runaway automobile, ripped two plays in the end, and forced Northwestern to kick on her third down. Koontz brought the ball back ten yards, and on the first down the prettiest play of the game occurred. Masters signalled for an end run, and gave the ball to VanRypper. Koontz smashed into the end like a steam engine. Horne took care of the half-back. Masters dived into Northwestern's quarter, just as he grabbed for VanRypper's shoe-strings. VanRypper sailed on, but Williamson, the big tackle, was coming up from behind, with seven league strides, and was just reaching out to fold the little half-back in his arms, when Woodward took him amidship, with his right shoulder, and as he went over on his head, he tore up two handfuls of dirt from around first-base. Horne kicked an easy goal, score C. M. A. 6. Northwestern 0. Northwestern's only score came about five minutes before the first half was over. Both teams had been forced to punt in the middle of the field, and it was Northwestern's ball on Culver's 45 yard line. Northwestern tried the line twice without gain and in the third down Hall kicked to Koontz on Culver's ten yard line,—the wind stopped the ball somewhat, anyway it struck Koontz on the forearm, and rolled off to the right, where Caras captured it for Northwestern, and the heavy-backs pushed it over. Hall missed goal. The whistle blew a few minutes later and the half ended. Culver 6, N. 5. In the first part of the second half, the side lines were treated to about the most agonizing twenty minutes they will suffer for many a day: Try as they would Culver's line could not hold the plunging backs and foot by foot and inch by inch they were shoved back. Captain Newman announced five minutes more to play, with both both teams fighting desperately only ten yards from Culver's goal. Knight hurt his knee, and McQuaid took his place at defensive half. The first play was aimed at the supposed substitute and McQuaid dived through the interference before it started and nailed the runner for a loss. Twice more the line was tried, but it held like a stone wall,—the ball went to the cadets and the agony was over. After the game, the enthusiastic cadets, with their parents and friends, carried the team to the barracks, and then adjourned to the cannon, where a salute of eleven guns and a special cheer was given for the coach and each member of the team.

The forty young ladies, who made our Thanksgiving festivities this year such a thoroughly enjoyable and successful holiday have flown away in search of other fields to conquer. They left us behind, and we have left only pleasant memories of the past, and the hope that at our next dance we shall have the pleasure of seeing again the pretty girls who danced with us at the ball, cheered with us at the football game, and laughed with us at the minstrel. Thanks to the skill of McCormick, we scarcely knew the old Gym on the evening of the dance. With every post and rafter hung with the bunting of the school colors, interspersed with different colored electric lights, it presented quite a brilliant appearance; it is hard to find a more striking or attractive sight than a military ball, the gay colored dress uniforms of the cadets, with here and there a crimson sash, set off by the rich dresses of the ladies, and the sombre black of the "old boys" and fathers, to say nothing of the blue uniforms of the captains, who are sitting quietly around the wall make a beautiful, every-varying picture.

Health and Beauty.

A poor complexion is usually the result of a torpid liver or irregular action of the bowels. Unless nature's refuse is carried off it will surely cause impure blood. Pimples, boils, and other eruptions follow. This is nature's method of throwing off the poisons which the bowels failed to remove. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are world famous for remedying this condition. They stimulate the liver and promote regular and healthy action of the bowels but never cause griping cramps or distress. # DEAD ARE IN ASHES.

Bodies of Wreck Victims Consumed in Blazing Ruins.

HORROR ON WABASH.

Crash, Explosions and Fire Add Terror to Smash Near Seneca, Mich.

Estimate of the Dead Is Eighty and the Fatalities May Yet Reach One Hundred—Corpses of the Victims Are Taken Out of Wreckage in Fragments Not Recognizable—Blame Placed on Engineer of the East-Bound Limited Train.

A whole car load of Italian immigrants eaten up by fire as completely and almost as rapidly as straws in a furnace; another car full of Italians squeezed together till it occupied a space less than eight feet long on the tracks, half its occupants killed and the car and the bodies then burned to ashes; these are the two central horrors in a fearful railroad wreck on the Wabash road near Seneca, Mich.

Though only fifteen persons are positively known to be dead, and very few bodies have been recovered, the full death list, it is thought, will prove to be very close to eighty. In addition seventy-six men, women and children were injured, some of them seriously. The dead and injured together will foot up about half of the 300 passengers who were carried into collision on the ill-fated trains.

Italians Bound for Colorado.
The Italians, of whom there were about seventy-five, were all on their way to work in the coal mines at Trinita, Colo. They were riding in two light, and in comparison with vestibuled cars, flimsy, second-class coaches. Of the thirty-five in the front car none is accounted for. From the second car about half were rescued. The bodies of the dead were burned so completely that the fragments are not only impossible to identify, but they cannot even be separated from one another as different human bodies.

The blame for the collision is placed on Conductor George M. Martin and Engineer A. F. Strong of the east-bound train, No. 4, known as the Continental limited. They had been ordered to stop for the west-bound train, No. 13, with which they collided, at Seneca, and to stop at Sand Creek, four and a half miles farther east, for another train. Consequently the train for the west was obeying

UNCLE SAM'S RESTRAINING HAND AT COLON.

LIEUTENANT-COMMANDER HENRY McCREA.

LIEUTENANT-COMMANDER HENRY McCREA of the United States gunboat Machias, whose prompt action at Colon prevented the bombardment of the town and saved much property and probably many lives, is regarded as one of the ablest all-around officers in the navy. His discretionary powers while in command at Colon have been wide, and his actions at various stages of the trouble there have met with the full approval of the State and Navy Departments. He prevented the landing of troops for an attack on the town, which would have been extremely dangerous to the life and property of foreigners, and at a conference held with the commander of the Colombian gunboat General Pinzon secured an indefinite postponement of the proposed bombardment. Lieutenant Commander McCrea has been in the navy since 1866, when he was appointed to Annapolis from Indiana.

GOVERNORS FIGHT COMBINE.

Heads of Northwestern States Agree to Co-operate with Van Sant.

The Governors of the Northwestern States have replied to the invitation of Gov. Van Sant of Minnesota asking their co-operation in an effort to prevent the impending railway consolidation. All agree in extending their moral support to Minnesota's Governor.

Gov. White of North Dakota and Gov. Toole of Montana are willing to arrange for a meeting of Governors and the latter appears very much in earnest. Gov. Geer of Oregon would favor a conference, but cannot come East for that purpose. He would attend it if held on the coast.

Dr. Abraham Knypner, the present prime minister in Holland, is the first cleric who has ever held that position.

Miss Kate Livingstone, a sister of Dr. Livingstone, the explorer, has just celebrated her 100th birthday at her home on the Isle of Mull.

Gen. Greeley, the meteorologist, who has been seeing the London fogs, expresses the opinion that with proper data it would be quite possible to forecast them.

Helen Gould's savings Bank.

Standing in almost the center of Helen Gould's white dressing table in her boudoir, says the New York Times, and seeming oddly out of place among the silver-topped toilet pieces, a young lady friend of hers saw one of those little iron penny savings banks such as the children of the less wealthy commonly have.

"Why do you disfigure your dresser in this fashion?" asked the friend. Miss Gould looked at her questioner with a mild expression of reproach. "That," said she, "is for my babies. It's just one of those ordinary little fresh air fund boxes. I have pennies sometimes to save, and why shouldn't my babies profit by them?"

"You dear thing!" said the girl, who, as soon as she got home, impetuously had a $5 bill changed into pennies, which she forwarded to Miss Gould with the following note:

"Dear Miss Gould: Here are 500 pennies. Pray fill the box and spare your dresser."

She hasn't yet been reproved for her impertinence. Possibly Miss Gould was able to find some reason for excusing and forgiving it.

Thorough Dramatic Criticism.

Two young men sat through the first act at a local theater, then adjourned to a neighboring tavern for refreshment. The acting was bad and would have excused the use of stimulants by any but the players. When about to re-enter the building only one could produce his return check.

"It's all right," said he of the check, airily. "You remember him, he's with me."

"Yes," answered the gatekeeper, more doubtful than polite, "but he may have given his check to some other person."

"But he didn't," was the convincing reply. "He's a stranger here and hasn't an enemy in the city."

The gate opened wide.—Boston Record.

Sand Creek, four and a half miles farther east, for another train. Consequently the train for the west was obeying orders and they were not.

Engineer Strong has been taken to Detroit, badly injured. He asserts positively that he was ordered to stop at Sand Creek and not at Seneca. That he either forgot his orders or misread them are the only two alternatives which Superintendent Burns sees.

The disaster had its marvelous escapes, as well as its fearful deaths. On the west-bound train the Italians became a vicarious sacrifice for the passengers in the six cars behind them. Their two trail coaches broke the force of the crash for the rear cars, and before the latter burned the occupants, little injured, got safely away.

As for the other train, the east-bound one, only one of its cars suffered severely. It was a day coach, between the smoker and the dining car. There is left besides the iron work just the roof of the car and some splinters. Its body has been utterly destroyed. In it were fifteen to eighteen passengers.

Some Miraculous Escapes. Six were taken out dead, five were severely injured, and the others escaped almost miraculously, with slight bruises.

The engineers of the two trains knew what was coming when they were still three miles apart. The track between Adrian and Sand Creek is straight and clear. Each engineer saw the other's headlight and thought it waiting at the coming station for him. The east-bound train slowed from sixty-five to fifty miles an hour. The west-bound train was running at thirty miles.

The few miles of separation when the engineers realized the situation were cut down so quickly that they had barely time to reverse their engines and jump. The little margin of time saved the engineers, but not the firemen. The two firemen on the engines of the rear train both jumped too late, and were crushed to death.

The crash of the collision shook houses 300 yards away. The big mogul engine No. 609, east bound, fairly ate up the little engine, No. 88, at the head of the other train. After this destruction of one engine and half of another, the big mogul reared backward, turned a half somersault, plowed a hole several feet deep in the ditch on the right side of the track and lay with her cupola toward the station from which she had just come, and her machinery shrieking and belching steam.

Fire Spread Rapidly. The front cars of each train piled themselves upon the engines. The flames, whether started by the stoves, the lighting plant or the engine fire, had full possession almost on the instant. The unhurt passengers swarmed out, and rushed to the rescue of those imprisoned under car seats and broken beams in the burning cars. But those outside were as helpless to save as those inside were to escape. Five minutes and the fire was so hot that no one could approach within 800 or 400 feet.

WHAT A LEADING AGRICULTURIST SAYS OF WESTERN CANADA.

Prof. Thomas Shaw of Minnesota University Gives an Unbiased Opinion.

In a letter to "The Farmer," St. Paul, dated Sept. 1, 1901, Prof. Thomas Shaw of the Minnesota State University has the following to say, after having made a trip through Western Canada:

"The capabilities of the immense area known as Western Canada are but little understood on this side of the line. Our people are apt to look upon it as a region of frost and snow, a country in which but a small portion of the land relatively will ever be tillable because of the rigors of the climate. True, the climate is cold in winter, but Western Canada has, nevertheless, just that sort of climate which makes it the most reliable wheat producing country in all the continent.

An Immense Area.

Western Canada is not only an immense area, but the same description will apply to those portions of the country that are capable of being successfully tilled or grazed. Nearly all of the prairie Province of Manitoba can be brought under cultivation, although probably not one-third of its surface has been laid open by the plough. Assiniboia to the west is a grain and stock country. Saskatchewan to the north of Assiniboia has high adaptation for the same. This also may be said of Alberta to the west. Here lies what may be termed a grain growing and stock producing empire, the resources of which have been but little drawn upon comparatively, viewed from the standpoint of the agriculturist. When it is called to mind that even in the Peace river country in Athabasca, and several hundreds of miles north of the Canadian boundary, wheat was grown which won a premium at the World's Fair in 1893, the capabilities of this country in wheat production loom up more brightly than even the brilliant Northern Lights of the land that lies toward the pole.

Adapted to Stock and Grain Production.

The region under consideration is, however, mainly adapted to growing grain and grazing stock. Much of it is adapted to growing both grain and stock, but certain areas, especially towards the mountains, are only adapted to ranching, except where irrigation will yet be introduced. This, of course, can be done successfully along the many streams that flow down from the Rockies and water the country towards the east and north. The adaptation of the country for wheat production is of a high character. The cool nights that usually characterize the ripening season are eminently favorable to the filling of the grain, and to the securing of a plump berry, and consequently large yields. The crop this year is a magnificent one. In Manitoba and the territories it should certainly give an average of more than twenty bushels per acre. But should the yield be not more than twenty bushels, the crop will be a most handsome one, owing to the large area sown to wheat. Many farmers only grow grain. But those who do succeed as well in growing oats and barley as in growing wheat, hence these foods for stock should always be abundant. Some grow cattle mainly and others combine the two. The last named, of course, is doubtless the safest of the three during a long course of years; that is to say, where such farming is practicable.

Quality of the Live Stock.

It was a pleasurable surprise to note the high quality of the stock. The average of quality in cattle is higher than the average of cattle in our State, unless in the dairy classes. This opinion is not reached rashly or without ample opportunity for investigation. I spent three long days in the show ring at Winnipeg making the awards in the beef classes. I question if any of our States, single handed, could make such a showing in cattle. It was my privilege to make the awards at several shows, and at all of them were evidences that much attention is given to the improvement of the stock. I noted carefully the character of the herds that grazed along the railroad and everywhere the high average of the quality of the stock was in evidence.

Reasons for Quality in Stock.

The quality of the grass is good. Many of the settlers came from Ontario and had been schooled as to the value of good stock before going west. The railroads and the government have taken a deep interest in making it less difficult and costly to the farmers to secure good males.

Those who are anxious of changing their residence should bear in mind that the lands in Western Canada are many of them free and others reasonably cheap.

Information will gladly be given by any agent of the Canadian government, whose advertisement appears elsewhere.

ELY'S LIQUID CREAM BALM is prepared for sufferers from nasal catarrh who are used to an atomizer in spraying the diseased membranes. All the healing and soothing properties of Cream Balm are retained in the new preparation. It does not dry up the secretions. Price, including spraying tube, 75 cts. At druggists or Ely Bros., 56 Warren street, New York, mail it.

Gaiety is not a proof that the heart is at ease, for often in the midst of laughter the heart is sad.—De Geslis.

Mrs. Austin's Buckwheat is the real thing; gives you the real, genuine old buckwheat flavor. Be sure you get the genuine.

Wall paper has been in use in China for over 700 years.

Nasal CATARRH

In all its stages, Ely's Cream Balm cleanses, soothes and heals the diseased membrane. It cures catarrh and drives away a cold in the head quickly.

Cream Balm is placed into the nostrils, spreads over the membrane and is absorbed. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. It is not drying—does not produce sneezing. Large Size, 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; Trial Size, 10 cents

Corn Smut and Disease.

Probably never in the history of corn growing in this state, has there been more smut present on the fodder than can be found this fall. The conditions for development were very favorable and some fields are badly infected. The presence of so much smut on fodder, is popularly believed to cause disease among stock. A number of communications have been received during the past two weeks, reciting losses due to this cause. This belief is very old, as one of the earliest writers upon smut in 1784 felt it necessary to make experiments to demonstrate the truth or fallacy of the belief at that time.

If we take the results of all available experiments from that date to the present time as a basis for conclusion rather than the statements of those who have lost animals thought to be due to this cause, the real danger of stock from eating corn smut is very small. In the experiments of feeding smut, the quantity has often been made many times greater than it would be possible for an animal to obtain in the ordinary grazing on stalks. The periods have been from a few days to two or three weeks. With few exceptions the results have been negative. At this station extracts were made and given by mouth and hypodermic injection. The dose obtained in this manner represented very large quantities of crude smut. Only slight illness followed the administration by mouth and serious results occurred only after administration of large quantities by injection.

The conclusion cannot be other than that only under rare circumstances could an animal get a fatal dose or that only under rare circumstances could an animal get a fatal dose or that death might come to a specially susceptible individual. The loss due to this cause must be very small.—Purdue University Agricultural Experiment Station.

How Coin Is Tested.

Out of every fresh batch of silver dollars made at the United States mint, half a dozen are sent to the treasury at Washington to be tested as samples. If they turn out to be of the requisite fineness and weight, it is taken for granted that the whole edition is correct. For the test, the coin, after being weighed, is rolled out in a thin flat strip more than a foot in length. Then the strip is placed beneath a row of punches, which punches holes in it, so that after passing beneath the instrument it has the look of a colander. A great many little silver disks are thus obtained, and of these a dozen or so are taken and assayed to find out how much silver they contain. Being obtained from various parts of the coin they represent fairly the average fineness of the dollar throughout. If the weight is too little, beyond a very tiny fraction, the whole batch of coins must be melted and made over again, and the same thing must be done if the fineness is not up to standard. Otherwise, the assayer indorses the mintage and the dollars go into circulation.

A Good Cough Medicine.

From the Gazette, Toowomba, Australia. I find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is an excellent medicine. I have been suffering from a severe cough for the last two months, and it has effected a cure. I have great pleasure in recommending it.—W. C. Wockner. This is the opinion of one of our oldest and most respected residents, and has been voluntarily given in good faith that others may try the remedy and be benefited, as was Mr. Wockner. This remedy is sold by T. E. Slattery, druggist.

Coughs and Colds in Children.

I use and prescribe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for almost all obstinate, constricted coughs with direct results. I prescribe it to children of all ages. Am glad to recommend it to all in need and seeking relief from colds and coughs and bronchial affections. It is non-narcotic and safe in the hands of the most unprofessional. A universal panacea for all mankind.—Mrs. Mary R. Melendy, M. D., Ph. D., Chicago Ill. This remedy is for sale by T. E. Slattery, druggist.

Saved His Life.

"I wish to say that I feel I owe my life to Kodol Dyspepsia Cure," writes H. C. Christenson of Hayfield Minn. "For three years I was troubled with dyspepsia so that I could hold nothing on my stomach. Many times I would be unable to retain a morsel of food. Finally I was confined to my bed. Doctors said I could not live. I read one of your advertisements on Kodol Dyspepsia cure and thought it fit my case and commenced its use. I began to improve from the first bottle. Now I am cured and recommend it to all." Digests your food. Cures all stomach troubles. T. E. Slattery, druggist.

An Evangelist's Story.

"I suffered for years with a bronchial or lung trouble and tried various remedies until I commenced using One Minute Cough Cure," writes Rev. James Kirkman, evangelist of Belle River Ill. "I have no hesitation in recommending it to all sufferers from maladies of this kind." One Minute Cough Cure affords immediate relief for coughs, colds and all kinds of throat and lung troubles. For croup it is unequalled. Absolutely safe. Very pleasant to take, never fails, and is really a favorite with the children. They like it. T. E. Slattery, druggist.

We have recently taken out of the three lowest rooms of the New York City Public Schools. We spared no pains in our endeavors to make these as fine pictures as it is possible to produce. The negatives have all been carefully retouched and the very best material has been used throughout. To get all the orders together so they may be printed at one time, we have arranged for Arthur Porter to call on the patrons of the school and show samples. You will oblige us by giving him your orders.

KEEN PROS.

Health and Beauty.

A poor complexion is usually the result of a torpid liver or irregular action of the bowels. Unless nature's refuse is carried off it will surely cause impure blood. Pimples, boils, and other eruptions follow. This is nature's method of throwing off the poisons which the bowels failed to remove. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are world famous for remedying this condition. They stimulate the liver and promote regular and healthy action of the bowels but never cause griping, cramps or distress. Safe pills. T. E. Slattery, druggist.

Fresh oysters served by the dish or furnished at retail by the pint, quart or gallon, guaranteed first-class at Bills place, opposite depot. 3rd St.

To Get Rid of a Troublesome Corn.

First soak it in warm water to soften it, then apply a corn plaster. It will fall out in a few minutes at each application. A corn plaster should be worn for a few days to protect it from the shoe. A corn plaster is not a permanent cure. It is a temporary relief. For sale by T. E. Slattery, druggist.

FOR SALE.
Now is your chance. The property consisting of a first-class residence, outbuildings, and 3 1/2 acres of ground, with a good fruit orchard, apples, plums, pears and berries, about 20 rods from the lake shore will be sold at a great sacrifice, as the owner, Jason Rhodes, desires to go west. No better place in the state for raising chickens which bring a high price in the market. Write or call on JASON RHODES, Culver, Ind.
