MATHEMATICIAN IS PENITENT

Man Who Started the "How Old Is Ann?" Problem is Now Lying in Seclusion.

People Who Have Worked at It Are Looking for Him.

Perkin Worbeck, the man who is responsible for it all in setting the world to figuring on the age of Ann, announces from his stronghold in Newark, New Jersey, to which he has fled, to escape the wrath of that pursueth, that Ann is eighteen years of age—and may heaven have mercy on his sinful soul.

It has been little more than a fortnight since Perkin Worbeck—isn't there something strangely suggestive of calamity in that name?—with apparent innocence of purpose that seems to have concealed a deep design put this seeming simple problem before a waiting world:

"Mary is twenty-four years old. Mary is twice as old as Ann was when Mary was as old as Ann is now. How old is Ann?"

The problem has bulled the lead pencil market. Every man and woman who could "figger," and many who thought they could but could not, went into the "calculatin'" business to the neglect of all ordinary affairs of life.

The heart of Worbeck was touched by a young woman, who he says, wrote him remorsefully that the riddle had lost her a beau.

She said Ann was sixteen and he said Ann was eighteen. Such heat developed from the argument that they have grown cold to each other and now she says: "Having risked so much for your aggravating old Ann (for I believe now she is eighty), I might as well have the satisfaction of knowing if I am right or wrong."

"While from painful personal experience, I knew the terrors of this question," says the artful Perkin Worbeck, "the devastating way in which it has swept the nation has astonished me. Since I am the primary cause of the trouble, I will do what I can in atonement by endeavoring to make clear the answer."

"Mary, at 24 years, is twice as old as Ann was when Mary was as old as Ann is. So Ann was then 12. It stands to reason that the time between 12 and Ann's present age (the age Mary then was) and 24. In other words, as several solvers put it, since the time Ann was 12, she has caught up to where Mary was, while Mary has slipped to 24. Then, of course, each is six years older. We have it—Ann is eighteen."—Ex.

C. M. A. NOTES.

The Infantry officers of the military staff will soon be wearing a different trouser stripe for the War Department has changed the Infantry color from the much-criticized robin's egg blue back to white. The Department appears to be vying with Dame Fashion for a record in changeableness.

The carpenter work on the new fourth story is practically completed, the iron stairway have been shipped, and it will not be long now before classes are tramping through its hallways and busy students in biology, chemistry and physics are seeking out nature's secrets in the new laboratories.

An interesting sermon was delivered to the cadets on Sunday by Dr. Matthews of the University of Chicago. The Doctor's many apt illustrations were drawn from a source that boys are keen to appreciate, that of athletics. The training of the physical self for the team was paralleled with the training of the moral self for the highest efficiency in life.

Ex-cadets Joe Patchin and Glen Wood paid the Academy a visit last week and were interested spectators of Saturday's game. It hardly seemed natural to see Wood on the side lines dressed in civis, but Patchin was in his old accustomed place before the roofers and even under a dignified stiff hat there was little difficulty in recognizing the same old Joe.

An interesting feature of the past week for old cadets has been the wall sealing drill under Captain Thomas. The wall is twelve feet high and is perfectly smooth, and it is something of a trick to scale it without apparatus. The record so far is four men in twenty seconds. The squads having this record are Smith D., Clark, Moe, Moore A., and Raymond, Heinley, Banks, Rummel.

More than the usual number of visitors have been at the Academy during the past week. The following parents were at Culver over Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Briant of Huntington, Mr. and Mrs. W. Jaquith of Des Moines, Mr. and Mrs. Knight of Bowling Green, Ohio, Mr. F. Woods of Indianapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, of Chicago, Mr. M. S. Larrabee, of Jackson, Mich., Mr. H. W. Fagley, of St. Paul, Minn., Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Mix, of Mishawaka, Ind.

An interesting feature of the fourth story, at least to the devotees of the camera, is the model dark room. An ingeniously constructed entrance permits cadets to enter or leave the room at will without admitting the faintest ray of white light. The work bench is fitted with water facilities, automatic washers, a developing machine for films, and is illuminated either by day or by night with a subdued red light that cannot hurt the most sensitive plate. In order to make use of the facilities of the dark room to the best advantage a camera club has been formed. The following are its members: Portman, Black, Reiter, Bemis, Page H., Loucks, Morse, Knight C., Wilson J., Judson, Lambertson, Perry, Whittington, Kay, Vawter, Woods P., Barber, Brown S., Mix, Krug, McGrath, Donnell, Lieberman, Moore R., Fagley A., Fleet R., McCullough, Hamilton, Miller A., Schnyler, Saalfeld.

Broke Into His House.

S. Le Quinn, of Cavendish, Vt., was robbed of his customary health by invasion of chronic constipation. When Dr. King's New Life Pills broke into his house, his trouble was arrested and now he's entirely cured. They're guaranteed to cure, 25c at Slattery's drug store.

PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTES.

There will be teachers' institute at Culver Saturday.

The new basketball is here. The girls will now play basketball.

Much interest has been shown in work as well as play by nearly all the pupils.

The ninth year is showing much interest in Shakespeare's Merchant of Venice.

The truant officer has not thought it necessary to visit Culver yet this year.

Weather has been very favorable for school work and enjoyable games on the play ground.

The members of each class in the high school have beautiful class pins. The high school color is white.

Mrs. Curtis has been sick a few days this week. Pupils from the high school have aided in teaching her room.

The class in physics has been very successful with most of their experiments. The apparatus is not costly, but the results have been just as good.

Hawthorne Club and Lew Wallace Club are the names selected by the literary societies of C. H. S. Constitutions are being adopted and programs will soon be given.

Teachers are required to report all absence each week, and the only excuse that the law recognizes is sickness. Parents should try to keep the pupils in school regular so the officer will not need to visit us.

Carl Woodbury.

Promptly at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, October 21, Mrs. Frank Humrichouser started to play Mendelssohn's wedding march, and the guests assembled at the home of Mrs. M. F. Woodbury two miles north of this city, saw her daughter, Miss Ellen Gertrude, accompanied by her brother John, stepping to a beautiful bower that was arranged at one end of the room. There she was met by the groom, Mr. Fred T. Carl, and Rev. W. S. Howard using the ring service of the Episcopal church, made the happy pair one, after which they received the congratulations of their friends.

The rooms were tastefully decorated with palms, smilax and cosmos. The presents, consisting of silverware, dishes, table linen, furniture, books, pictures and many other articles, showed the good judgment of the donors, as all were useful and valuable. After the ceremony the guests, to the number of about ninety, repaired to the dining hall where a sumptuous wedding supper was served.

The bride's dress was white organdie with embroidery, and was indeed handsome. The groom appeared in the usual black. Miss Woodbury was one of the popular teachers in the Culver schools, and the groom is the machinist in charge of the pumping and tool stations of the Vandalia railroad between Terre Haute and South Bend, with headquarters at Logansport.

Amid showers of rice, and with the best wishes of their friends, the happy couple left on the evening train for their home in Logansport, where after Nov. 10th, they will be "at home" to their friends at No. 1212 Linden Ave.—Plymouth Tribune.

The contracting parties are well and favorably known in our community and they have the best wishes of their numerous friends. The CITIZEN joins with them in extending congratulations.

The Union township Sunday school convention will be held at the Evangelical church, Saturday, Nov. 7, 1903.

FORTY-TWO TO NOTHING

Is the Sad Story—Logansport High School Proves Easy.

The football squad nearly ran itself to death Saturday making eight touch downs on Logansport. The day was just a bit too warm for a comfortable game, for the contestants. It was cold enough on the sidelines but a little more frost in the air would have made it much harder for Logansport to explain upon their arrival home. And they had been claiming the championship too. Well there cannot be two champions.

The tale runs thus: Culver won toss and kicked to Logansport's twenty yard line with but eight yards return. Routh rounded left end for a short gain. Next down there was a fumble and the man from Mexico fell on the ball. First down Barrett, right end, two yards. Second, Bemis, same place, held. Third, Barrett, same territory, six. Knight and Bays made it in two. Bemis held, Knight four yards and Barrett two. First down Bemis found a hole and made four yards. Knight, left guard, two. Bays, left end three yards. Hunter went next around right end. He had six to go forward but a matter of fifteen or twenty to the right. He was tackled hard two yards from the line but he fought it out as he was going and the ball was over the line when he lit. Goal missed.

Logansport kicked to the five yard line and the ball was run back twenty. Logansport getting the ball on a fumble. They only had it two downs when a fumble was nailed by Bemis. Madero left end, six yards. Hunter, Barrett and Bays A. eight. Bays H. and Barrett made it in two. Knight and Bays F. in the next pair. Knight went for a touch down, got over, fumbled and Hunter fell on the ball. Goal missed.

Logansport drank some water and kicked to the thirty yard line, Burnside returning the ball twenty yards. Bays F. on a double pass made fifteen. Bemis took the ball around left end and down the line thirty-five yards on one down and four yards around right end for another. Barrett, right end three, Knight, left tackle, six. Barrett touched down next down. Goal missed. This was the feature of the game. The signals got crossed twice during the game and two goals were kicked but it was not intentional. Culver was generous and kicked to the five yard line and the ball stopped on the fifteen. Logansport made the distance in two downs, then Culver got a penalty for offside. The ball was in play twice and someone dropped it in Barrett's way and it was Culver's ball. Culver got to kidding and among other things got a penalty, tried a place kick which was blocked and lost the ball on a fumble. Logansport could make no impression on the line, however, and had to punt, Bemis bringing the ball back almost to the punter, but was downed outside. Larrabee punted the ball back into the field and Bemis caught it and jogged easily over the line. Culver kicked again and Logansport put up a fine exhibition of good ball for a minute when time was up.

SECOND HALF.

Logansport kicked to the twenty yard line with twenty-five return. Third down. Barret took exercise. He sprinted down the field for eighty yards and selecting a nice grassy place, touched down. Goal missed.

Culver kicked to the ten and Routh, who by the way played for Logansport when they were not in his way, ran the full back twenty.

It was no use so they punted.

Culver held the ball a minute and fumbled. Logansport lost on downs and first scrimmage Bays F. ran a long, long ways and touched down. Goal kicked!

Culver kicked and recovered the ball on a fumble. Everybody carried the ball ten yards and Knight touched down. Goal kicked!!

Culver kicked and soon Logansport punted. The visitors took a brace and got the ball on downs. They toyed with it a while and Culver got it on a blocked punt. Everybody carried it some and when the sign was right Bays F. touched down. Goal missed.

Culver kicked, Logansport punted, Bemis ran back fifteen yards. Heinley was at quarter and how he did run that team. Bays F. five yards, Barrett, ten, Bays F. ten, Hanlon ten and time was up!

NURSES STRUGGLE WITH MAD WOMAN AT HOSPITAL

Make Vain Attempt to Prevent Hysterical Patient From Jumping From Window.

Philadelphia, Pa., dispatch: Three female nurses and a woman physician, assisted by a patient, proved themselves heroines at the Woman's hospital, Twenty-second street and North College avenue, in a vain attempt to prevent a hysterical patient from leaping from the fourth story window to the ground.

For fully five minutes the nurses held the woman by the shoulders and arms, she dangled outside the window. Their strength became exhausted, and so desperately did the patient struggle that to save themselves the plucky young women inside the window were compelled to let her drop to the ground. She sustained injuries that it is feared may result fatally.

The victim was Elizabeth McGowan, 35 years old, of 2431 Carpenter street. She was admitted to the hospital suffering from nervousness and insomnia.

While the struggle was going on at the window, a nurse and a woman physician hurried outside and stretched a blanket in the hope of breaking the woman's fall. When the body came hurling down it just missed the edge of the blanket.

DEATH FOR INCURABLES STARTLES PHYSICIAN

Speaker at Banquet Advocates Relief for Sufferers Who Are Beyond Aid of Doctors.

New York special: Rev. Marle St. C. Wright of the Lenox Avenue Unitarian church startled the guests at the annual banquet of the New York State Medical association by advocating euthanasia or the putting of incurables to an easy death.

"I appreciate the practical difficulties in the way of the application of the doctrine," said Mr. Wright, "but it seems to me that it is not beyond the bounds of possibility. Of course, it would be necessary to have the advice and approval of men of the highest scientific attainment. The city might be divided into districts and every application should be considered most carefully, not merely by physicians, but by some eminent clergymen selected for the purpose. And, of course, there should be the consent of relatives and the consent even and request of the patient himself.

"But where all these conditions are fulfilled and where the prolongation of life is simply the prolongation of hopeless agony, it seems to me that it would be proper that such a patient should quietly, decently, modestly be allowed to end his sufferings. It seems to me that such a course would be a step forward in civilization and a step farther away from barbarism."

FOOTBALL PLAYER DIES DURING HOT SCRIMMAGE

Game Between Naval Cadets and Medical Students Ends When Contestant Drops Dead.

Annapolis, Md., special: Robert E. Lewin of Plainfield, N. H., was killed in the football game between the naval academy and the Baltimore Medical college teams. The death ended the game in the last five minutes of the first half.

The tragedy came like a thunderbolt to the 2,000 spectators. The opposing teams had swayed back and forth over the field without scoring, as two evenly balanced giants as ever met on the gridiron. Then the naval team by hard line bucking pushed the ball to within ten yards of the visitors' goal and the latter by Herculean efforts hurled the midshipmen back. The medics made gains of three and five yards and lined up for another effort, when Lewin, right guard for the Baltimoreans, fell to the ground. He was carried from the field and five minutes later was dead. The cause of death is given out as cardiac syncope. The body was taken to the academy hospital for a postmortem examination.

She had been picking cotton, and feeling ill, was sent from the field. When search was made for her she was found near her doorstep apparently dead. A great number of friends assembled that night. They sang and prayed until 1 o'clock in the morning, when suddenly and without warning Hannah sat bolt upright in bed. The singing and praying ceased and the crowd scattered in terror.

BIG HARVESTER PLANT IN STRAITS

Concern at Peoria Places Its Affairs in the Hands of Creditors.

TO CONTINUE THE BUSINESS

Committee Intends to Conduct the Trade of the Company Until All Obligations Are Met in Full—Hundreds of Employees Are Idle.

Peoria, Ill., special: The Acme Harvester Company, the largest single industry in Peoria and a concern which employs over 1,000 men, has shut down and has been obliged to place its affairs in the hands of a committee representing the creditors, who will arrange for an extension of time with all creditors. One of these is the First National Bank of Chicago, but it is stated by those who know that this bank is absolutely secured. Conservative estimates place the assets at $2,000,000, while the liabilities are considerably less.

Creditors Confer. This action is said to have been taken at a meeting of the creditors held in Chicago, though nothing was given out for publication.

D. R. Forgan, vice-president of the First National Bank of Chicago, is one of the committee, the others being A. G. Becker of Becker & Co., G. H. Burr of Steer & Burr, Boston, and Martin Kingman and Ferdinand Lutly, Peoria.

It is the intention of the committee to continue the business of the company until every creditor is paid in full. Already about 75 per cent of the creditors have agreed to the extension. Although the plant is idle at present, 700 employees having been laid off, it is stated that this is the usual lay-off for this season of the year, and that the plant will soon start again.

World-Wide Trade.

Among the assets are accounts, most of which are started to be good, owed not only in the United States, but in South Africa and Europe, the business having extended all over the world. It is said that the stock is held by four men, and that W. H. Binman of Peoria is the largest holder.

Reasons assigned for the embarrassment are a bad season, bad collections, pushing of liabilities and tight money. Three suits in assumpsit, aggregating $28,000, have been filed in the Circuit court at Peoria against the company. Catlin & Co. of New York sue for $20,000 on protested notes.

There is an intimation that the harvester trust has waged an unrelenting warfare upon the Acme, and that this partially explains its crippled condition.

DAN PATCH IS KING OF PACERS

Stallion Lowers All Records by Going the Mile in 1:58 1/4.

Memphis, Tenn., special: Dan Patch is now king of harness horses, beyond dispute or cavil of any kind. Before a great crowd he not only did what every one expected he would—lower his own record of 1:59—but also did what no one expected him to do—lower Prince Alert's mark of 1:57, going a beautifully rated mile in 1:56 1/4.

The magnificent stallion when Driver M. E. McHenry brought him out for the work, looking fit and handsome, confronted conditions that were ideal. The track was as fast as a bullet. The flags hung limp from their staffs, while the atmospheric conditions were perfect.

He kept the galloper so close in front of the flying champion that he proved a very effectual wind shield. Another pacemaker came alongside after the half was passed, and the three made a picture long to be remembered as eighth after eighth was reeled off in practically the same time, which was as follows: 0:14 1/4, 0:29, 0:43 1/4, 0:58, 1:02 1/2, 1:27 1/4, 1:42 1/4 and 1:56 1/4.

ACCUSES JERUSALEM CONSUL

Mme. Lydia Mountford Says American's Aspersions Injure Her.

Washington dispatch: Mme. Lydia Mountford, a well-known lecturer on manners and customs in the Holy Land, has filed charges at the state department against Dr. Selah Merrill, the United States consul at Jerusalem. These charges are to the effect that he has persecuted her personally on all occasions, that he has unnecessarily gone out of his way to write and say harmful and prejudicial things of her, many of which she says he knew to be false; that he has used his office to try to interfere with her business engagements and affairs.

PASTOR BETS TO SECURE PROOF

Hamilton, O., dispatch: Rev. F. E. McFadden, who gambled and lost at the county fair, made the bet to secure evidence for the grand jury against the gamblers operating in sheds just outside the fair grounds. He is pastor of the United Presbyterian church and has given the grand jury the proof of gambling which he obtained.

ANARCHIST MURDERS CIVIL WAR VETERAN

Follows Up Abuse of Soldiers by Attacking Them With a Club, Causing Death of Hero.

Danville, Ill., dispatch: The unexpected death of Patrick Buckley, a veteran of the civil war, in the soldiers' home hospital, has furnished another murder case to add to the list of crimes committed by anarchists in Illinois.

Buckley and a comrade were in a saloon when Frank Lehmann, a carpenter, residing at Westville, entered and began abusing them. Lehmann declared he was an anarchist, that the veterans were "old coffee coolers" and "government paupers" and that he hated the sight of their uniforms.

He was thrown out of the saloon, but a few minutes later appeared at a side door with a club. With the announcement that he was going to kill somebody he rushed inside and began beating the veterans over the head. Buckley was knocked senseless by the first blow. John Ryan, the other veteran, grappled with the avowed anarchist and the struggle only terminated when a couple of policemen arrived and placed Lehmann under arrest.

Buckley was taken to the hospital at the soldiers' home, where it was at first thought he would recover, but he had a relapse and died. Lehmann was placed in jail and the grand jury indicted him for assault with a deadly weapon. A special session of the grand jury probably will be held to indict him for murder.

Lehmann is believed to be a member of the anarchist circle that has been in existence at Westville for several years.

BLIND JUSTICE DECIDES ON FISHERMAN'S CATCH

Sportsman Accused of Capturing a Black Bass Under Ten Inches in Length is Fined One Cent.

Logansport, Ind., special: A local court has decided the length of a fish and assessed a fine against the man who caught it, although the fish in question was not produced in court. The fisherman has carried the case to the Circuit court. Elwood Cramer was arrested, charged with illegal fishing. The state produced one witness, who swore that he had seen Cramer on Sept. 4 in possession of a black bass "under ten inches in length." The defendant testified that he had not captured a game fish this year, except on Sept. 27, and that that one was twelve and one-half inches long. He produced two witnesses, who swore that they had been with him on Sept. 4 and that he had caught nothing but two goggle eyes and a sunfish. The court held that the state's evidence was the strongest, and assessed a fine of 1 cent and costs.

SENATOR'S RELATIVE A SUICIDE

Claude B. Cullom Shoots Himself at Moline From Despondency.

Moline, Ill., special: Claude B. Cullom, aged 27 years, reputed to be a nephew of Senator Cullom, shot and killed himself at his desk in the factory of Deere & Co. Despondency from financial troubles and an unsuccessful love affair several months ago is ascribed as the cause. His death was premeditated and he spent the day before settling up his affairs and the night in writing a will and several letters to friends. When his fellow workers arrived at the office they found him apparently cheerful and two of them stood talking for a few minutes. As they turned to go he placed a revolver to his temple and fired.

MANY MONTANA MINES ARE IDLE

Judge Clancy Decides Amalgamated Copper Company Has No Standing.

COURT ORDERS PLANTS CLOSED

Twenty Thousand Men Are Thrown Out of Employment by Ruling in Favor of F. A. Heinze and Against Great Mining Combine.

Butte, Mont., special: Judge William Clancy of the District court has granted injunctions against the Boston and Montana and the Parrot Mining companies to prevent the payment of any dividends to the Amalgamated Copper company, and in effect declared the Amalgamated Copper company an outlaw, without rights as a stockholder in the subsidiary companies. He held in abeyance the matter of appointing a receiver for the Boston and Montana and Parrot, but intimated that he might appoint one later if the necessity for it appeared. The injunction prevents the Amalgamated company from collecting dividends, of which more than $3,000,000 is already tied up by the injunction.

Closes Many Plants.

The action is the result of the bitter warfare between the Amalgamated companies and F. A. Heinze, the district judge being uniformly in favor of Heinze in all litigation.

The result of the injunctions has been an order from Amalgamated officials to close down all the Amalgamated properties in Montana, including the mines in Butte, the big smelters in Anaconda and Great Falls, the coal and coke mines and plants at Diamondville, Wyo., Horr and Belt, Mont., and the timber mills at Bonner, Hamilton, Mont., and other places. The order has gone into effect and the shut-down will be indefinite. About 20,000 men will be thrown out of work. The shut-down will continue until the mining companies can get a final decision from the Supreme court as to their rights. No orders regarding the shut-down have been received from New York, the matter being left solely to the local officials.

Amalgamated Has No Rights.

In his decision Judge Clancy holds that, notwithstanding the state law that one corporation can hold and control stock in another, the common law prevails against the Amalgamated and that the latter is nothing more than a stranger without any right as a stockholder in the Parrot, or Boston and Montana.

At the same time Clancy also decides the famous Minnie Healey mine case in favor of Heinze again, and against the Boston and Montana, turning the property valued at $5,000,000 over to Heinze on an alleged oral contract entered into with Miles Finley, a former owner of the lease and options on the property, and who subsequently sold to the Boston and Montana, repudiating any agreement with Heinze. The Minnie Healey is the mine out of which grew the judicial scandal a year ago involving Judge Harney, who tried the first case and was accused of corruption.

WHITE CAPPERS WHIP VICTIM

Sexagenarian of Athens, Ind., Is Half Hanged During Thrashing.

Rochester, Ind., dispatch: White Cappers with guns and whips took from his bed Isaac Moore, aged 65 years, of Athens, Ind., and whipped him unmercifully. While Moore was being whipped his wife and son remained peacefully in bed and made no attempt to protect him. There were twelve men in the gang, masked with pillowslips. They broke open the door of the bedroom, seized Moore and threw him on the floor. Two men held his hands while another bound him. He was then taken to the barn and a rope placed around his neck was thrown over a cross bar. He was pulled up until his toes barely touched the ground and each man took a turn in whipping him with buggy whips or hickory switches.

RUMOR THAT JAPAN HAS DECLARED WAR ON CZAR

Big Steamer Will Stop En Route to Yokohama, Fearing Capture by the Russians.

Honolulu cablegram: The steamer Nippon Maru, which sailed from here for Yokohama, will stop at Midway island for orders, through fear of capture, caused by the circulation of a report here that the Japanese consulate at Honolulu had received a cipher cablegram that war with Russia had been declared. The passengers on the steamer were very much alarmed.

St. Petersburg cable: A request for a statement from the foreign office indicating Russia's position in connection with the far Eastern question elicited only the significant reading of a less reassuring dispatch from Tokio.

The newspapers here say the Russian Pacific squadron consists of fifty-four warships, including six battleships, eight first-class and five second-class cruisers, seven sea-going gunboats, two torpedo cruisers, two torpedo transports and 24 torpedo boat destroyers, having an aggregate of 750 officers and 13,200 men. There are now on the way to the far East two battleships, three first-class cruisers and eleven torpedo boats of various classes, with 164 officers and 3,284 men.

The Novoe Vremya declares that many of the most influential Japanese newspapers are subsidized by Americans and Englishmen.

SACRIFICES HER LIFE TO EXTINGUISH A FIRE

Woman Member of Single-Tax Colony Dies in Effort to Save Property From Destruction.

New Orleans, La., special: Mrs. T. G. Burton, wife of a prominent land owner and a member of the single tax colony established at Fairhope, Ala., sacrificed her own life to save the homes, the property and lives of the little colony. It seems that a fierce forest fire was raging through that country, sweeping everything before it. The single tax colony, however, felt secure and practically all of the inhabitants of Fairhope went away on an outing.

Mrs. Burton was among those who remained at home. Her husband was away and she alone was at the Burton residence. Without warning the fire had broken out again and crept up to the limits of the village. It was burning a fence surrounding the Burton place when Mrs. Burton attacked the flames. She battled with them stubbornly but her skirt became ignited and there being no one near she was burned to death before the other colonists could reach her. However, her screams brought help to the scene and the rescuers extinguished the flames and saved the colony.

WEED RESTORES SPEECH TO LIGHTNING VICTIM

Afflicted Man Follows Remedy Suggested to Him in a Dream and Recovers.

Indianapolis, Ind., dispatch: F. M. Wolf, who lives near Ridgeville and has been dumb for more than two years, is now able to carry on a conversation as a result of chewing tobacco for several hours. Two years ago last June Wolf was struck by lightning while sitting in the door of his farmhouse. From that time until recently he had not been able to utter a sound. Some of the best specialists in the state are said to have been consulted and to have passed the opinion that Wolf was afflicted with permanent paralysis of the vocal organs. Wolf reports that he dreamed that if he took a chew of tobacco he would be able to speak again. A few hours after he had taken the tobacco he was able to make slight vocal sounds. He continued chewing and he was soon able to talk.

It now develops that his creditors will be losers to the extent of over $40,000, and most of his money has been gambled or speculated away. Buck was popular during his stay at the bank, but now there is hardly one man in the city who will say a good word for him.

THAT GIRL of JOHNSON'S

By JEAN KATE LUDLUM.

Author of "At a Girl's Mercy," Etc.

Entered According to Act of Congress in the Year 1900 by Street & Smith, In the Office of the Librarian of Congress, at Washington, D. C.

"I hope so," replied one of the doctors gravely. "It is a severe case."
"Yes," young Green said. A furrow of thought appeared on his forehead. He stood silent a moment, his blue eyes meeting the black ones of the doctor, squarely, as though he would see down into his very soul. Then he passed from the room, noiselessly closing the door behind him. For a moment he stood behind Dolores poring over the books in the fire-light. She neither heard nor saw him; she was tracing out one of the constellations on the map before her, her lips were parted as though she was smiling. The face of the watcher underwent many changes in the short minute he stood there in the flickering light and darkness behind her chair; then he turned silently away and passed out of the room without disturbing her. He took down his hat and coat from one of the nails in the room and went out into the storm as though he were dazed by some sudden startling thought!

By and by, when the nurse came out of the room, Dolores closed her book slowly, as though with regret, and gathered up her hair, twisting it about her graceful head carelessly. The color and fire died out of her face and eyes as she arose to prepare supper. But Mrs. Allen interrupted her.
"Sit still, Miss Johnson," she said, cheerily, "and read your book, but not by this light; I will fetch a candle."
She took down a candle from the shelf and lighted it with a strip of pine wood from the fire. She pulled out the clean pine table noiselessly, and set it; she cut some thin slices of bread and toasted them before the fire. When they were done to an exquisite turn, she buttered them deftly and set them on a plate on the hearth to keep warm. When all was ready the nurse drew up the table and placed it beside the fire, placing a chair for her.

"Come, child," she said, gently. The professional tone had left her voice utterly; the girl felt a sudden rush of tears that burned her eyelids. They were the first she had shed in her life as she remembered.

"It's a dreary night," the nurse said, cheerfully, taking no special notice of the girl apparently. "The fire brightens one like a merry face. I always have a fire on stormy days if it is possible. My girl calls me Cinderella; I will tell you about my girl; I call her my sweetheart, her heart is so sweet. She has no mother."

"She is an invalid," the mellow voice went on; "she has been an invalid for six years, and I have been with her during that time. Dora is eighteen now, and I wish you could see her. She is like a picture; sometimes I believe I love her as a lover would."

Dolores knew nothing of love or lovers, but she listened quietly. Perhaps this woman would tell her what love was.

"Dora has gray eyes," the nurse continued. "Her hair is golden brown, soft as silk, and long; arranging it is one of my greatest pleasures. She has a beautiful home in New York, and everything that heart could wish to

"It's a dreary night," she said, and make her happy; her father considers her his richest possession, and he has many possessions.

"But Dora has consumption, and a short time ago her physician ordered for her a thorough change of air and recommended the mountains. Her father lived here when he was a child, and has a brother living here—or he supposed he was living here; he had not seen or heard of him since he started out at twelve years old to make his way in the world, leaving this brother the homestead, the patch of garden and the shop. He worked his way to New York, now at this thing, now at that. His life is a marvel to me, and Dora is never tired of listening to him when he tells of his life. He is a rich man now with his word as good as his bond; my girl is proud of her father, as well she may be.

"As to his brother, he has not forgotten him, but he lost trace of him; he leads a busy life with little time for hunting anybody's brother. Long ago, when he began to succeed, he wrote to his brother offering to help him along if he cared to join him, but the letter was returned unopened. His brother could neither read nor write, and had no correspondence, or else was dead.

"As to Dora, she has had all the teachers and masters necessary to an excellent education; she is an exquisite musician; her touch on the piano is like magic, and her voice is soft and sweet, but she does not sing now. Her singing used to be her father's delight."

A shadow fell over the face of the nurse, and she was silent for a moment, looking into the fire with a far away expression on her face.

The bedroom door opened noiselessly, and she turned calmly in answer to Dr. Dunwiddie's summons, every trace of emotion gone. She left the room for a few minutes, and when she returned her voice and manner were quiet, as usual.

"Dora draws and paints very well," she said, resuming her seat and her story; "she teaches several children from the mission school. None of her time is idled; she has her father's ambitious spirit, and her life is full of work in spite of the fact that this disease is slowly eating her life away."

"Each one of the children loves her; she sometimes tells me, laughing, that she has so many blessings she cannot count them. To hear her talk one would never imagine the nights I have held her up in my arms that she might breathe while she coughed her beautiful life away."

Dolores leaned forward, with luminous eyes; for the time she forgot her father, and the dread awaiting for the men to come to prove the malice pre- sence in the laming of the mare. The world of which the woman told was outside of her world; it was the world of her dreams.

Silence reigned in the room for a few minutes; the nurse arose and drew the little half curtains across the windows. When all was arranged for the night, even to preparing a bed in the corner on the settee, Mrs. Allen drew her chair up to the fire again, and resumed her story.

Dolores' face was troubled—her thoughts had returned to her father, to young Green and his efforts to save her father somehow mixed with his words lately uttered, of love and its sadness; and of the trial that was to come off as soon as her father was able to go to prove— She started at sound of the nurse's voice and grew white to the lips. This did not escape the watchful eyes of the nurse. There was little that did escape her watchful eyes.

"Dora's father did not know whether or not his brother was living," she went on. "That the letter had been returned uncalled for, went to prove that he might be dead; but he knew that his brother had no friends outside of the settlement and was not in the habit of receiving letters. That he could neither read nor write still left it possible that he was living, and when Dora made known her wish to come here, to see her father's old home, arrangements were made at once. We arrived in the town over the mountain yesterday. They are stopping at Judge Green's for the present and Dora sent me here at once when Mr. Charlie wrote for help. She said it was one of God's providences; that he had arranged things for us and were only to obey."

The interest died out of Dolores' eyes. She knew nothing about God or his providences; she had never heard either except as a wandering preacher stopped at the settlement on his way through the mountains, and was jeered at by the men and listened to by only a handful of women.

The nurse leaned back so that her face was in shadow, but so that the girl's face was full in her sight.

"Dora had been in the town but a day, yet she had found out a great deal that she wished to know. Every one in the town has heard of your father. Of you no one knew much excepting Mr. Charlie. He told my girl over and over what he knew about you; she never tired of hearing and planned such pleasant things for you and your father, and knows she will love you at once."

Dolores' face was full of wonder. That any one heard of cared to hear of her strange enough, but that Dora, the beautiful, golden-haired, gray-eyed girl from the midst of the marvelous world of her dreams should love her or wish to love her was beyond her comprehension.

"Do you not wonder, child," the nurse said, slowly, "why my girl is so interested in you? Have you never thought of this uncle of yours of whom you have never heard or seen, or wondered that he never came, or let your father know he was living?"

Dolores' voice was unmoved, her eyes still gravely questioning.

"Yes," she replied, "I think if he is living he is happy in his life, and prefers to leave us out."

The nurse made a quick movement as of indignation. When she spoke, however, her voice was gentle, as usual.

"Your father is not like his brother, Dolores. You will not blame him when you see him, and Dora will win your heart at once, as you have already won hers. As soon as the storm is over they will come. Dora's father is your uncle, Dolores, and they came here on purpose to find you."

CHAPTER XII.

Its Effect.

A flush crept into Dolores' face, then died out, leaving her deadly white. The room grew dark around her; the roar of the storm died away—everything died away save the dim horror in her heart and an echo that grew and grew until the air throbbed and filled her ears deafeningly. What would Dora say and think if she knew—and of course she knew.

She endeavored to speak, to cry out, to struggle with them, but she was as one struck dumb and motionless with the dread words thundering in her ears weirdly their terrible meaning:

"Every one has heard of your father and could tell her of him because of the trial that was to come off—the trial—trial—your father—trial—"

"Child," the voice of the nurse sounded leagues away, scarcely distinguishable in the roar of words around her. "Child, what is the matter? Why do you say nothing? Are you not glad to know it?"

"Glad to know it—glad to know it—father—trial—know it—know it—"

The girl roused against the terror that was holding her down. She sat erect, white faced, but with a quiet dignity that hid the tumult within. She lifted one hand and pushed back the stray soft curls from her forehead in a dazed fashion.

"Surely you have no hard feeling toward your uncle because he has not come to your father before. You can-

"Do you not wonder, child?" not blame him. His is not like your father's life. You should be just, Dolores—just, and not judge harshly."

"His life is not like your father's life—judge harshly—judge harshly—"

"Your father could have been such another man as his brother had he so chosen. You cannot blame your uncle for your father's choice any more than you can blame your father for your uncle's choice."

"You cannot blame your uncle for your father's choice—your father's choice—"

The words rang over and over, around, above and below, out of which the half scornful voice sounded far away.

"Dora will be so disappointed; she has thought and talked of nothing but plans for you. You will have all the advantages a girl could have, and it will be your own fault if you do not improve them. This would be the best time, too, when your father needs perfect rest and few around him. No doubt he will be glad for this chance for you, if you are not for yourself."

BRIGANDAGE IN ITALY'S HILLS.

Standing Rewards for Capture of Bandits Seldom Paid by Government.

Brigands are constantly giving trouble to the Italian government, which seems rather strange in view of the fact that rewards are assured to any persons who wage a successful war against these law-breakers. According to an edict which dates back to the time when the Pope was all powerful in Italy, and which is still in force, anyone who captures a brigand alive and who hands him over to justice is entitled to a reward of $500; anyone who kills a brigand will receive a reward of $500; anyone who captures a brigand chief will get $1,200, and any brigand who betrays an accomplice will be pardoned for his past crimes and will receive $100 as an additional reward. This last reward has seldom been paid, since Italian brigands are not accustomed to betray each other.

High Living Under Charles II.

The following was considered the "best universal sauce in the world," in the days of Charles II, at least what was accounted such by the Duke of York, who was instructed to prepare it by the Spanish ambassador.

It consisted of parsley and a dry toast pounded in a mortar, with vinegar, salt and pepper.

A fashionable or cabinet dinner of the same period consisted of "a dish of marrow bones, a leg of mutton, a dish of fowl, three pullets and a dozen larks, all in a dish; a great tart, a neat's tongue, a dish of anchovies, a dish of prawns and cheese."

At the same period a supper dish, when the king supped with Lady Castlemaine, was "a chine of beef roasted."

Pennies Make Dollars.

A church recently dedicated in St. Paul, and costing $7,000, was paid for in seven-cent contributions, the novelty of the request bringing pennies from all over the country.

Glasgow to Sell Milk.

Writing in the Glasgow Evening Times, Councillor Joseph Burgess refers to the probability of a municipal depot being opened for the supply of milk for the infants of Glasgow. He says: "I believe we are on the eve of another new departure in municipalization in Glasgow. I hope it is one that will commend itself to the good sense and hearty support of the citizens. The deaths of infants under one year of age in Glasgow during 1901 was 3,602, which represents a death-rate per 1,000 born of 149. In 1899 the rate was 152, and in 1900 it was 153. The general improvement in the health of the community is not traceable in the bills of infant mortality. Taking averages of five years, the rate for 1886-1890 equalled 143 per 1,000 births; for the five years, 1891-1896, it was 146 per 1,000 births; for the five years, 1895-1900, it was 151 per 1,000 births. The general death-rate of the city, averaging the 10 years from 1881 to 1890, was 24.2 per 1,000. From 1891 to 1900 it was 21.5. Most of this decrease is due to the addition of the suburban districts, but that factor has not affected the infant mortality favorably. It is higher than it was fifteen years ago. Density of population in the districts and density per room undoubtedly are factors in producing these differences in diarrheal death-rates. But an important contributory factor is the ignorance of the mothers. Infantile deaths from food diseases are multiplied by the necessity which compels many mothers to leave their children to go to work in factories. This is the cause of the high death-rate in Lancashire."

Referring to Dr. Lister's statistics as to infantile mortality, the writer says: "About three-fourths of these deaths occur in infants artificially fed, and the disease is set up by contamination in the milk supply. This contamination is present not only in cow's milk, but in condensed milk. It is just as easy to contaminate condensed milk after the tins are opened as to contaminate cow's milk. To save infant life, therefore, a perfectly pure and uncontaminated milk supply must be provided. Hence the necessity for a municipal milk depot for the feeding of infants. I submit that there is sufficient evidence in the foregoing figures to justify an experiment being made in Glasgow. It is not intended to interfere with the ordinary milk dealers. In fact, it may be possible to make them, or some of them, the agents of the corporation. The system is to supply milk, sterilized, and mixed with water in the proper proportions for children of varying ages, in hermetically-sealed bottles. Empty bottles are exchanged for full ones. The staff at the depot does all the bottle-washing and milk-mixing. All the nurse has to do is to warm the milk by immersing the bottle in hot water. In this way there is no possibility of contamination, and the infants obtain food suited to their delicate digestive powers.—The Dairy (England).

Danish Butter Not All Danish.

It is quite evident that the reputation made by Danish butter is being traded upon by the other continental nations. Some letters have recently appeared in a daily paper of London to the effect that several European nations are shipping butter to Denmark for the sake of having it shipped out again under the name of Danish. Russia and Sweden in particular are given to this practice. One of the letter writers declares that he watched a Swedish steamer unloading in Copenhagen and among the casks landed were several branded "Danish Butter." The brand was in English. These casks were consigned to a large exporting firm. The inevitable conclusion was that the butter was intended to be consumed in England as Danish butter. The same man saw large consignments of Russian butter being landed at the same time. The British consul general in Poland has been investigating the matter and finds that much Polish and Lithuanian butter is shipped to Denmark, from which country it is sent to England under brands unknown to it in the country of its origin. The English writers declare that the nearly 90,000 tons of so-called Danish butter shipped into England last year could not all have been produced in Denmark.

Dairy Animals in the United States.

We have no reliable statistics on the numbers of the breeds of dairy cattle, but estimates have been made by students of dairying. The numbers registered can be taken as no criterion of the numbers now alive. The following is, however, approximately correct, both sexes being counted: Jerseys, 90,000; Holsteins, 60,000; Guernseys, 11,000; Devons, 10,000; Ayrshires, 6,000; Brown Swis, 1,200; Polled Durhams, 1,200; Dutch Belted, 500; Red Polled, 5,000. There are about 140,000 pure-bred Shorthorns in the country, many of which are good dairy animals.

Indiana Dairy Convention.

The fourteenth annual convention of the Indiana Dairymen's Association will be held at Plymouth, December 10-12, 1903. A good program is being prepared and includes prominent speakers from Indiana and other states. For further information address H. E. VanNorman, secretary, Lafayette, Ind.

DIRECTORS CLOSE PITTSBURG BANK

Federal National Is Unable to Stand Heavy Raid on Its Resources.

DECLARES THE LOSS IS SMALL

President Issues Statement in Which He Holds That the Assets Will Cover the Liabilities—Has Undivided Profits to Pay Claims.

Pittsburg, Pa., special: The Federal National bank failed to open for business Wednesday morning, and the following notice, posted on the doors, explained the situation:

"Closed by the authority of the comptroller of the currency."

"John B. Cunningham, Receiver."

Some such action as this has been within the possibilities for some days, forecasted by the determined raid made upon the institution's stock on the Pittsburg stock exchange. The positive statements, however, of the president, J. A. Langftt, to the effect that the bank was not in need of money, and that its losses would not affect its capital or surplus, did much toward allaying distrust on the part of its depositors, thus preventing a run.

United States Depository.

The bank is a United States depository and reported on hand, Sept. 9, $50,000 of United States deposits.

The stock of the company has been subjected to sharp declines on the Pittsburg exchange. On Monday the stock sold down from 116 to 85, but was forced up again to 101. All day Tuesday it sagged and the closing quotations were 80 bid and 85 asked, a number of transactions having been made at 80.

The bank was chartered Nov. 15, 1901, with a capital stock of $2,000,000. Joseph A. Langftt is president and George W. Eisenbes cashier.

President's Statement.

J. A. Langftt, president of the Federal National bank, issued a signed statement, in which he says:

"The Federal National bank has finally yielded to the combined assaults of its stockholders and depositors, and has closed its doors until arrangements can be made to discharge all depositors' claims. The question of reopening will then be decided."

"Two weeks ago our deposits exceeded $4,000,000, and, until Tuesday, 'when the floods came,' we had maintained our full legal reserve. Nobody has defaulted, or committed suicide, or absconded. The board of directors is and has been always loyal to the bank, and in full accord and harmony. We have had no actual losses, and with one exception our combined probable losses up to date would not aggregate one-half of 1 per cent of our capital. The exception referred to is our claim against the Eastern Tube company, which may or may not result in loss, and even if a total loss should there ensue, it could be paid in full out of our undivided profits of $160,990, without touching either our capital of $2,000,000 or surplus of $400,000."

Close to Escape Run.

"When our doors closed we had approximately $1,900,000 of deposits to secure which we had on hand in cash, time, and demand loans, and other good securities about $4,600,000. This was our condition after having paid out to depositors, in addition to current receipts and disbursements, over $2,000,000 within fifteen days in a period of generally strenuous financial conditions. Despite this full and ample security, quickly available, our depositors seemed almost frenzied in their haste to get their money lest they should lose it all."

SCHEME TO SMUGGLE CHINESE

Prisoner Confesses to Organization Operating From Canada.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., dispatch: Jack Lynch, who was arrested with three Chinamen, whom, it is alleged, he was trying to smuggle across the border, has confessed that an organization is in existence which had for its purpose the smuggling of Chinamen and opium into the United States. A Chinaman in Toronto is one of the gang and there are several persons in the Canadian Soo engaged in the traffic. An effort will be made to capture the other members of the organization, although nearly all are Canadians.

FOUR FAMILIES ARE FAMISHED

Driven From Homes by a Mob That Sets Fire to Houses.

Vernon, Ind., dispatch: A mob marched to the four houses occupied by the Bushfield families and ordered them to leave. The Bushfields, after moving their household goods into the street, were ordered to go south, which they did. The mob then set fire to the four houses. It is supposed that the action of the mob was taken out of resentment at the light penalty imposed by the court on Len Bushfield, who, as charged, attempted to kill Frank Van Pleasee Aug. 24.

Gives Birth to Triplets.

Milwaukee, Wis., dispatch: Mrs. George Heidelberg of South Milwaukee gave birth to triplets, two boys and one girl. The infants weigh six and one-half pounds each and both they and the mother are doing well. The father is foreman of a blacksmith-shop. The couple have one other child, a girl 13 years of age.

POULTRY

Walls of Poultry Houses.

In the warmer parts of the United States poultry house walls are constructed solid or single. Such walls are all right for localities where there is little very cold weather or where very cold weather endures for but a short time. But in the colder states it is better to build the walls double, which gives an air space. This air space prevents the passage of both cold and moisture. The heat inside of the poultry house is therefore more uniform, and this makes it possible for the poultryman to get better results from his work. Sudden changes of temperature are doubtless very undesirable in a poultry house. Thus, after a sudden change from warm to cold weather the fowls will quit laying altogether for a time, but if the cold weather continues will soon renew, showing that it was not so much the cold as the change that affected them. Where there are hollow walls the buildings are warmer in winter and correspondingly colder in summer.

If the walls of poultry houses become very cold in winter, dampness is the result, as the moisture in the warmer air inside is condensed. This occurs more frequently with single and solid walls than with double walls. It is advisable to use building paper between the walls, thus doubling the air space. In buying this paper endeavor to buy the best. Much of the tarred building paper on the market is very poor stuff, but there is some that is very impervious to wind and air. The local dealer may not carry it, but send away for it if necessary. When the tarred paper is put on be sure that the work is done right. Many carpenters will neglect this work if permitted to do so, especially if they have a contract for the job. The tarred paper should be lapped enough to prevent the passage of air around the edges. The boards on the outside of the double wall should have the joints broken with the boards on the inside, so that the places of joining will be opposite, which would encourage a small draft through the apertures.

In the more southern sections of the country where the single wall is to be used, the cracks between the boards should be battened with building paper and laths. This is too often neglected and the writer has seen out-buildings in the south where the cracks were so large that one could see through the entire building when rods away. A good many poultry houses are constructed and maintained in the same way. Where the climate is warm the poultry-keepers do not seem to realize that the cracks are undesirable. They say that the boards "strain out the coarsest of the cold and this is enough." But when the cold night comes the birds catch cold, and roup and other diseases develop. Battering cracks is such an inexpensive operation that there would seem to be no excuse for not doing it, except lack of time. In such a case, why keep fowls at all? What is known as a "shiftless" poultry raiser can never be a successful one.

Loss of Incubator Chicks.

Throughout the winter I have watched more or less closely the incubation. I have also opened a large share of the unhatched eggs. These conditions have been taken into account, together with the relative strength or weakness of chickens as they have been turned over to me for brooding. While the faults of incubation are responsible for many of the deformities found in the chickens and undoubtedly weaken others in ways which are not so apparent to us, one cannot state that the chickens which come from the egg in developed condition and can eat ever die on account of the weakness due to the incubation.

In my experience so far, the weak chickens, when properly handled, seem to have developed and grown as rapidly as the stronger. However, those which were hatched incompletely developed or with crippled members, as the legs or beak, have not been able to survive in all cases. Under the even temperature system, however, the weaklings, when separated into hovers by themselves, grow unexpectedly well and may attain some weight. As a practical matter, however, all such weaklings and cripples should be destroyed as soon as hatched. To the poultryman who can devote but little attention to them they would prove an annoyance. The incubated eggs that I have examined have been those which died after the fourteenth day of incubation. In most cases they contained embryos which had reached some stage of the incubation between the eighteenth and twenty-first days. The stage of growth of the embryo was merely a matter of judgment, and was estimated upon the stages of growth attained in a lot of part of which hatched in twenty-one days. Recently, however, a lot of chickens hatched in twenty days. It is plainly evident that the corresponding stages of development in these chickens were earlier than those which hatched in twenty-one days, and that the stage of incubation is within limits of comparative estimation only.—Cooper Curtice, R. I. Station.

Scientists are of the opinion that the flashes of light emitted by fireflies are the signals by which they communicate with each other. Insect collectors at Vera Cruz have utilized the knowledge and use lights to attract the beetles.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Put Me On Active List.

Are you well? Do you sleep well? Do you get up rested, fresh and vigorous? Is your mind clear and active? If not read the following. See what another has suffered and how he recovered.

"Some years ago I was afflicted with sun stroke which left me with a shattered nervous system and exceedingly poor health. I suffered terribly with pain in my head, the top of my head would feel hot. I could not study, and after striving for two years to wear the trouble off, I was compelled to give up my pastoral labor and retire to my farm where I spent nearly two years trying to recuperate. It was all of no avail. Physicians' treatment and patent medicines failed to relieve me. I was exceedingly nervous and irritable and sometimes would shake terribly. I could not bear any noise. At the least excitement the blood would rush to my face and head. Two years ago I was induced to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. After using one bottle I could see improvement in my condition so I continued taking it for nearly a year. I am happy to say I no longer have those pains in my head or nervous spells. My appetite is good and I am able to preach three times on Sunday without fatigue. I consider Dr. Miles' Nervine the most wonderful medicine ever discovered."—Rev. D. Alex. Humen, Pastor U. B. # WRAPS AND GOWNS

Coats as They Are to Be.

New shapes and new and delightful materials in the form of silk chinchilla of a light tender gray and silk beaver of a darker gray tone have been evolved for this season's wear. Anything softer or prettier it would be difficult to imagine. Three-quarter coats are lined with gray brocade, have wide hanging sleeves and are intended for motoring and for general wear.

Other coats in serge double-breasted are very smart and trim. A Scotch cheviot reversible and semi-fitting is made with a black strap and strapped seams. The Fife coat, as it is called, is one of the novelties of the year. Some of the coats are single-breasted, some double, and there are long waterproof coats semi-fitting which are simply delightful.

They are introducing upon them the twentieth century buttons in hammered copper and unburnished silver and also in the beautiful enamels which are so successfully reproduced by amateurs.

Empire Coat.

Empire coat—for smart walking wear. The short bodice is double-breasted, turned back with a double, slightly fluted collar. The skirt portion is cut to set perfectly on the bodice and hangs in graceful folds in the back. It is a pretty model for Liberty satin for theater wear.

Chintz Draperies.

Among the season's equipments for country homes the English chintz as a room upholstery is in more favor than ever. In popular patterns pink is the color most favored. The designs show carnations in bunches on a rich cream white background, roses with their long stems and green leaves, pretty bouquets of wild flowers dotted here and there in narrow and broad stripes and rich pink peonies of brilliant colorings, which form set figures for draperies and hangings.

Rub out ink stain with milk. Iodine stains will disappear if dipped in liquid ammonia.

Rinse the mouth with soda water to prevent decay between the teeth.

To clean zinc wash thoroughly with hot soda water, and then rub it with a flannel, dipped in turpentine.

If soot falls on the carpet cover it thickly with salt. It may then be brushed up without fear of doing damage.

Don't be afraid to use hot suds for blueberry stains, they boil out. Pour clear boiling water on peach, cherry, tea and coffee stains.

To rub off paint spots from window glass dip a penny or other coin in water and then, with its edge, scrape off the paint from the glass. It is easily done.

THE WELL DRESSED WOMAN

The blues and prune shades so well received this summer promise to keep their place in the autumn gaitings.

Ruchings are fairly ubiquitous on the sheer summer frocks, and by their aid one of the charming thin materials may be made up with practically no other trimming and at slight expense.

Pinked ruches and pinked flounces are another step toward our grandmothers' day.

Pepper red is a new Parisian shade. While not generally becoming, it is effective and modish.

Jet fringes, jet collars and jetted trimmings of all sorts have increasing prestige, but chiefly in connection with sheer fabrics.

Bright red satin-finish rain coats and waterproof red silk parasols with club handles are swell, and yet practical for conching in dubious weather.

The cambric or batiste collar, elaborately hand-embroidered, is newer and more modish than the collar of lace, and such a collar will give distinction to the simplest tub frock.

The odor of onions may be removed from the hands by rubbing them with celery.

Any green vegetable, like spinach, Brussels sprouts, cabbage or peas, retains its color much better if left uncovered during the cooking process.

Never use soda for washing china that has any gliding on it, for the soda will in time surely remove it all. Instead of soda use a little soap; that has no bad effect.

Brass pans should be cleaned before use. Rub them with salt and vinegar, then rinse thoroughly with water and dry, with a soft cloth. Thus you may be sure that the pans are free from verdigris, which is a strong poison.

Ham and Eggs.

To make a dish of ham and eggs as good as possible, cut the ham nearly half an inch thick, boil it in plenty of water till barely cooked through, pour off the water and put the pan in a place just hot enough to brown the fat part of the ham slightly, but not hot enough to make smoke, or to brown the lean meat much. When this is finished, remove the frying pan from the fire, take up the ham, pour off the fat into a cup, and wipe the pan till it shines like a mirror, without a single speck to mar the polish. Then put in a spoonful of the clear part of the fat, break in the eggs and set the pan in a place scarcely hotter than boiling water; cover it, and let the eggs cook as slowly as possible for four or five minutes, taking them up as soon as they can be lifted out. Place them around the ham, and do not pour any of the fat on the dish. Eat with mashed potatoes.

Tulle in Table Decoration.

The women of Canada have a unique way of decorating their lunch and dinner tables. Around the centerpiece of flowers or ferns they fluff a lot of tulle. They use pink, green, yellow or white to match the flowers, but usually white for dinner or for a bridal feast. The tulle is pulled out

AUTUMN GOWNS FROM PARIS.

The gown at the left is of black cloth trimmed with blue velvet and black silk galloon. The skirt is made with a hip-yoke forming a sharp point in front extending almost to the bottom of the skirt, which is encircled with the trimming. To this yoke the skirt is plaited, the plaits opening out below the hips.

The bolero, with lengthened shoulders, is elaborately trimmed with the

its full width, then crushed at intervals, upon which flowers are nestled. Sometimes a bit of soft-colored silk is laid underneath the tulle to intensify the color scheme. Upon one occasion American beauty roses formed the central decoration, while underneath pale pink tulle was scattered silk tissue roses and in the center of each rose was a tiny incandescent light. Lilies of the valley and green ferns formed the end pieces, as it was an oblong table, and roses and lilies of the valley were at each cover, the roses for the ladies and the lilies for boutonnières.

Novel Sofa Pillows.

There promises to be a revolution in sofa pillows, brought about by a new process in photography. There has been put upon the market a sensitized cloth upon which negatives may be printed in sepia so indelibly that soap and water and a hot iron will not injure them. Kodak, as well as larger prints, can be cut stitched down on denim or coarse linen. The pictures are printed for detail rather than for depth. This will make them peculiarly appropriate for the souvenir pillows of summer girls.

Gown of white cloth with Chantilly lace on sleeves and cravat. It has a wide girdle of black moire with a pearl buckle.

For the Toilet.

A simple method of softening hard water for the toilet is to throw orange peel into the bath or jug. Not only will the peel have a good influence on the skin, but it will perfume the water deliciously.

velvet and galloon and opens over a blouse front of white silk. The sleeves are plaited at the top and finished in a triple effect at the bottom, the edges bordered with galloon or passementerie motifs. The outside of the sleeves is loose and the inside is drawn in to form a cuff finished with a turnover of the velvet and galloon. The girdle is of black satin or velvet. The other gown is of light brown

The skirt is gathered at the top and encircled below with scalloped bands of the cloth and applique motifs of the embroidered cloth. The girdle is of brown satin.—Chic Parisien.

HARD TO BEAR.

J. W. Walls, Superintendent of Streets of Lebanon, Ky., living on East Main street, in that city, says:

"With my nightly rest broken, owing to irregularities of the kidneys, suffering intensely from severe pains in the small of my back and through the kidneys, and annoyed by painful passages of abnormal secretions, life was anything but pleasant for me. No amount of doctoring relieved this condition, and for the reason that nothing seemed to give me even temporary relief I became about discouraged. One day I noticed in the newspapers the case of a man who was afflicted as I was and was cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. His words of praise for this remedy were so sincere that on the strength of his statement I went to the Hugh Murrey Drug Co.'s store and got a box. I found that the medicine was exactly as powerful a kidney remedy as represented. I experienced quick and lasting relief. Doan's Kidney Pills will prove a blessing to all sufferers from kidney disorders who will give them a fair trial."

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine, which cured Mr. Walls, will be mailed to any part of the United States on application. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. For sale by all druggists, price 50 cents per box.

FATALITIES IN THE ALPS.

Craze for Edelweiss Has Cost Many Lives.

The craze for edelweiss has caused many accidents, such as happened to a man named Custer, who was killed on the slopes of the Herranrueti while trying to gather a bunch of these flowers. Quite seventeen deaths during this year are attributed to the foolhardiness of people in endeavoring to gather this flower in nearly inaccessible places, says the London Express.

During the last fortnight of August twenty-nine people lost their lives, including two ladies. The saddest accident, however, of the year took place on the 26th of last month, when Rev. John Hartley, vicar of Exton, near Oakham, lost his life near the Red Shelter, St. George, in the Engadine. The clergyman was accompanied by the best guide of the district, a man named Sebastian Platz. Mr. Hartley was on his honeymoon, and took his wife half way up the mountain with him, leaving her at the Bovat Shelter Hut. He then proceeded toward the summit, but on reaching the Crast Aguzza he fell over a precipice, dragging with him the guide Platz.

During the last few days many more accidents have taken place, the most remarkable one happening on Mont Blanc to a famous guide named Balmat, who died from heart failure when descending the giant of the Alps. Only two days ago six more Alpine disasters were reported.

BUSY DOCTOR.

Sometimes Overlooks a Point.

The physician is such a busy man that he sometimes overlooks a valuable point to which his attention may be called by an intelligent patient who is a thinker.

"About a year ago my attention was called to Grape-Nuts by one of my patients," says a physician of Cincinnati.

"At the time my own health was bad and I was pretty well rundown but I saw in a minute that the theories behind Grape-Nuts were perfect and if the food was all that was claimed for it it was a perfect food so I commenced to use Grape-Nuts with warm milk twice a day and in a short time began to improve in every way, and now I am much stronger, feel 50% better and weigh more than I ever did in my life.

"I know that all of this good is due to Grape-Nuts and I am firmly convinced that the claims made for the food are true. I have recommended and still recommend the food to a great many of my patients with splendid results, and in some cases the improvement of patients on this food has been wonderful.

"As a brain and nerve food, in fact as a general food, Grape-Nuts stands alone." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

POSTOFFICE MEN ARE DISMISSED

Postmaster General Acts on Report of His Fourth Assistant.

SERIOUS CHARGES ARE MADE

Superintendent of Supplies is Said to Have Been Extravagant, While Clerks Are Said to Have Mulcted Their Fellow Employees.

Washington dispatch: As a result of the report of Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow, Postmaster General Payne has removed from office Michael W. Louis, superintendent of supplies; Louis Kemper, chief of the registry division of the third assistant postmaster general's office, and C. B. Terry, a $900 clerk in the department. He also directed the postmaster at New York to remove Otto Wels, a clerk.

The postmaster general made an official announcement of his action, as follows:

Alleges Extravagance.

"Michael W. Louis has been removed because the recent investigation shows that he influenced the awarding of contracts for supplies to favored bidders; that he has been extravagant and wasteful in the administration of his office; and that he has paid excessive prices for supplies to favored contractors.

"Louis Kemper has been removed for incompetent and negligent administration; for wasteful and reckless extravagance in sending expensive manifold registration books to a large number of small fourth-class postoffices, and for violating the revenue laws by a system of petty smuggling.

"Grafting" is Charged.

"C. B. Terry, a clerk in the division of supplies, has been removed for making false affidavits; attempting to obtain money from clerks under the guise that he could influence their promotion, and general inefficiency.

The Postmaster General also stated that the postmaster at New York had been directed to remove Otto Wels for collecting money from clerks to influence legislation and to procure promotion.

Wels is said to have enjoyed confidential relations with George W. Beavers, late superintendent of the salary and allowance division, and he is charged with having acted as a medium through which other clerks in the New York postoffice were communicated with.

Statement by President.

President Roosevelt will soon issue a public statement on the postal frauds, and leading members of the administration believe that this statement will, incidentally, forestall an investigation of the postoffice cases by Congress. The President has already read the exhaustive report of Mr. Bristow.

There is a story that Secretary Shaw and the President are at outs over the findings of Attorneys Conrad and Bonaparte against Comptroller Tracewell, who, the investigators charged, had improperly approved certain postal accounts. By a high authority this story was called as a lie. The President accepts Mr. Shaw's view that Mr. Tracewell is an efficient and conscientious officer, and the comptroller will not be disturbed.

BURDETTE IS TO HAVE TEMPLE

Large $1,000,000 Church Will Be Built in Los Angeles, Cal.

Los Angeles, Cal., dispatch: A $1,000,000 building will be erected here for the New Temple Baptist church, of which Rev. Robert J. Burdette, the noted humorist and lecturer, is pastor. The plans contemplate as a part of the gigantic structure a public convention hall, the whole making a double building. The Baptist auditorium will resemble the mormon tabernacle at Salt Lake City. A stock company is being formed to construct and operate the building, and assurance is given that an eastern multi-millionaire Baptist is ready to put up $500,000 for the project, while the remaining half will be provided locally. Burdette is in the east and will interest financiers if necessary. The temple is to be built in the business center of the city.

PYTHIANS ARE TO BUILD HOME

Illinois Knights Will Expend $100,000 for Orphans of Members.

Rock Island, Ill., special: The Illinois Knights of Pythias at their closing session here took action on the plan to build a home for orphans of the members of the order, which has been under consideration for several years. The committee to which this question had been referred reported unfavorably, but the convention adopted the minority report favoring it. Over $100,000 will be expended upon it, the site to be determined later.

SENATOR FORAKER INDISPOSED

Ohioan Becomes Ill at Sandusky During Campaign Tour.

Sandusky, O., special: Senator Joseph B. Foraker is ill at a hotel in this city. He arrived to fill a political engagement, but was taken with chills and has been unable to leave his room. The physicians in attendance hope to break the fever speedily in order to enable him to meet future campaign appointments.

Faith in Franklin.

In the middle of the severe electrical storm of a recent Sunday afternoon a reserve policeman, at Ninth and Chestnut streets, found a negro boy shivering and wet to the skin clinging to the base of the Franklin statue in front of the postoffice building. The street was deserted by everybody else. The policeman went up to the lad and asked him why he was standing out in the rain. The little fellow replied: "Gee, boss, I see orfully afraid of lightning, and Franklin invenshened the lightning, didn't he? Certin' he ain't a gwine to hit heeself. Dis am de safest place for dis chicken." The policeman passed on.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Puzzled Englishman.

In a certain beach front pavilion at Atlantic City a very stout man from London said to a chance acquaintance from Philadelphia: "I believe that old bath house keeper likes English people. He told me that he would rather serve a dozen Englishmen than one American."

"Why is that?" lazily asked the Quaker City man.

"I don't know. He said it would be twelve times as much money. I wonder what the bloomin' idiot meant?"—Philadelphia Ledger.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When the tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever. ### Attention Farmers.

Why remain in the north and stay in doors six months in the year consuming what you raise during the other six months?

Go south where you can work out doors every month in the year, and where you are producing something the year round. If you are a stock raiser you know your stock are now "eating their heads off" and, besides, have to be protected from the rigors of winter by expensive shelter.

Economical stock feeding requires the combination of both flesh-forming and fat-forming foods in certain proportions. Alabama and Florida produce in abundance the velvet bean and cassava, the first a flesh producer, and the latter a fat producer, and they are the cheapest and best fattening materials known to the world.

More money can be made and with less labor, in general farming, fruit and berry growing and truck gardening along our road in the south than in any other section of the Union.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Put Me On Active List.

Are you well? Do you sleep well? Do you get up rested, fresh and vigorous? Is your mind clear and active? If not read the following. See what another has suffered and how he recovered.

"Some years ago I was afflicted with sun stroke which left me with a shattered nervous system and exceedingly poor health. I suffered terribly with pain in my head, the top of my head would feel hot. I could not study, and after striving for two years to wear the trouble off, I was compelled to give up my pastoral labor and return to my farm where I spent nearly two years trying to recuperate. It was all of no avail. Physicians' treatment and patent medicines failed to relieve me. I was exceedingly nervous and irritable and sometimes would shake terribly. I could not bear any noise. At the last excitement the blood would rush to my face and head. Two years ago I was induced to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine. After using one bottle I could see improvement in my condition so I continued taking it for nearly a year. I am happy to say I no longer have those pains in my head or nervous spells. My appetite is good and I am able to preach three times on Sunday without fatigue. I consider Dr. Miles' Nervine the most wonderful medicine ever discovered."—Rev. D. Alex. Hoaman, Pastor U. B. # WRAPS AND GOWNS

Coats as They Are to Be.
New shapes and new and delightful materials in the form of silk chinchilla of a light tender gray and silk beaver of a darker gray tone have been evolved for this season's wear. Anything softer or prettier it would be difficult to imagine. Three-quarter coats are lined with gray brocade, have wide hanging sleeves and are intended for motoring and for general wear.

Other coats in serge double-breasted are very smart and trim. A Scotch cheviot reversible and semi-fitting is made with a black strap and strapped seams. The Fife coat, as it is called, is one of the novelties of the year. Some of the coats are single-breasted, some double, and there are long waterproof coats semi-fitting which are simply delightful.

They are introducing upon them the twentieth century buttons in hammered copper and unburnished silver and also in the beautiful enamels which are so successfully reproduced by amateurs.

Empire Coat.
Empire coat—for smart walking wear. The short bodice is double-breasted, turned back with a double, slightly fluted collar. The skirt portion is cut to set perfectly on the bodice and hangs in graceful folds in the back. It is a pretty model for Liberty satin for theater wear.

Chintz Draperies.
Among the season's equipments for country homes the English chintz as a room upholstery is in more favor than ever. In popular patterns pink is the color most favored. The designs show carnations in bunches on a rich cream white background, roses with their long stems and green leaves, pretty bouquets of wild flowers dotted here and there in narrow and broad stripes and rich pink peonies of brilliant colorings, which form set figures for draperies and hangings.

With the Housewife
Rub out ink stain with milk. Iodine stains will disappear if dipped in liquid ammonia. Rinse the mouth with soda water to prevent decay between the teeth. To clean zinc wash thoroughly with hot soda water, and then rub it with a flannel, dipped in turpentine. If soot falls on the carpet cover it thickly with salt. It may then be brushed up without fear of doing damage. Don't be afraid to use hot suds for blueberry stains, they boil out. Pour clear boiling water on peach, cherry, tea and coffee stains. To rub off paint spots from window glass dip a penny or other coin in water and then, with its edge, scrape off the paint from the glass. It is easily done.

THE WELL DRESSED WOMAN

The blues and prune shades so well received this summer promise to keep their place in the autumn suitings. Ruchings are fairly ubiquitous on the sheer summer frocks, and by their aid one of the charming materials may be made up with practically no other trimming and at slight expense. Pinked ruches and pinked flounces are another step toward our grandmothers' day. Pepper red is a new Parisian shade. While not generally becoming, it is effective and modish. Jet fringes, jet collars and jetted trimmings of all sorts have increasing prestige, but chiefly in connection with sheer fabrics.

waterproof red silk parasols with club handles are swell, and yet practical for coaching in dubious weather. The cambric or batiste collar, elaborately hand-embroidered, is newer and more modish than the collar of lace, and such a collar will give distinction to the simplest tub frock.

The Kitchen
The odor of onions may be removed from the hands by rubbing them with celery. Any green vegetable, like spinach, Brussels sprouts, cabbage or peas, retains its color much better if left uncovered during the cooking process. Never use soda for washing china that has any gliding on it, for the soda will in time surely remove it all. Instead of soda use a little soap; that has no bad effect. Brass pans should be cleaned before use. Rub them with salt and vinegar, then rinse thoroughly with water and dry, with a soft cloth. Thus you may be sure that the pans are free from verdigris, which is a strong poison.

Ham and Eggs.
To make a dish of ham and eggs as good as possible, cut the ham nearly half an inch thick, boil it in plenty of water till barely cooked through, pour off the water and put the pan in a place just hot enough to brown the fat part of the ham slightly, but not hot enough to make smoke, or to brown the lean meat much. When this is finished, remove the frying pan from the fire, take up the ham, pour off the fat into a cup, and wipe the pan till it shines like a mirror, without a single speck to mar the polish. Then put in a spoonful of the clear part of the fat, break in the eggs and set the pan in a place scarcely hotter than boiling water; cover it, and let the eggs cook as slowly as possible for four or five minutes, taking them up as soon as they can be lifted out. Place them around the ham, and do not pour any of the fat on the dish. Eat with mashed potatoes.

Tulle in Table Decoration.
The women of Canada have a unique way of decorating their lunch and dinner tables. Around the centerpiece of flowers or ferns they fluff a lot of tulle. They use pink, green, yellow or white to match the flowers, but usually white for dinner or for a bridal feast. The tulle is pulled out

odd little cravat of black velvet. The full sleeves, plaited at the top, have little scalloped sleeve caps of the material, and are finished with cuffs trimmed with the cord embroidery. At the wrists are frills of lace. The skirt is gathered at the top and encircled below with scalloped bands of the cloth and applique motifs of the embroidered cloth. The girdle is of

its full width, then crushed at intervals, upon which flowers are nestled. Sometimes a bit of soft-colored silk is laid underneath the tulle to intensify the color scheme. Upon one occasion American beauty roses formed the central decoration, while underneath pale pink tulle was scattered silk tissue roses and in the center of each rose was a tiny incandescent light. Lilies of the valley and green ferns formed the end pieces, as it was an oblong table, and roses and lilies of the valley were at each cover, the roses for the ladies and the lilies for boutonnières.

Novel Sofa Pillows.
There promises to be a revolution in sofa pillows, brought about by a new process in photography. There has been put upon the market a sensitized cloth upon which negatives may be printed in sepia so indelibly that soap and water and a hot iron will not injure them. Kodak, as well as larger prints, can be cut stitched down on denim or coarse linen. The pictures are printed for detail rather than for depth. This will make them peculiarly appropriate for the souvenir pillows of summer girls.

A simple method of softening hair water for the toilet is to throw orange peel into the bath or jug. Not only will the peel have a good influence on the skin, but it will perfume the water deliciously.

FATALITIES IN THE ALPS.
Craze for Edelweiss Has Cost Many Lives.
The craze for edelweiss has caused many accidents, such as happened to a man named Custer, who was killed on the slopes of the Herranueli while trying to gather a bunch of these flowers. Quite seventeen deaths during this year are attributed to the foolhardiness of people in endeavoring to gather this flower in nearly inaccessible places, says the London Express.

ILLINOIS KNIGHTS WILL EXPEND $100,000 FOR ORPHANS OF MEMBERS.
Rock Island, Ill., special: The Illinois Knights of Pythias at their closing session here took action on the plan to build a home for orphans of the members of the order, which has been under consideration for several years. The committee to which this question had been referred reported unfavorably, but the convention adopted the minority report favoring it. Over $100,000 will be expended upon it, the site to be determined later.

J. W. Walls, Superintendent of Streets of Lebanon, Ky., living on East Main street, in that city, says:
"With my nightly rest broken, owing to irregularities of the kidneys, suffering intensely from severe pains in the small of my back and through the kidneys, and annoyed by painful passages of abnormal secretions, life was anything but pleasant for me. No amount of doctoring relieved this condition, and for the reason that nothing seemed to give me even temporary relief I became about discouraged. One day I noticed in the newspapers the case of a man who was afflicted as I was and was cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. His words of praise for this remedy were so sincere that on the strength of his statement I went to the Hugh Murrey Drug Co.'s store and got a box. I found that the medicine was exactly as powerful a kidney remedy as represented. I experienced quick and lasting relief. Doan's Kidney Pills will prove a blessing to all sufferers from kidney disorders who will give them a fair trial."

POSTOFFICE MEN ARE DISMISSED

Postmaster General Acts on Report of His Fourth Assistant.

SERIOUS CHARGES ARE MADE
Superintendent of Supplies is Said to Have Been Extravagant, While Clerks Are Said to Have Mulcted Their Fellow Employees.

Washington dispatch: As a result of the report of Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow, Postmaster General Payne has removed from office Michael W. Louis, superintendent of supplies; Louis Kempner, chief of the registry division of the third assistant postmaster general's office, and C. B. Terry, a $900 clerk in the department. He also directed the postmaster at New York to remove Otto Weis, a clerk.

The postmaster general made an official announcement of his action, as follows:
"Alleges Extravagance."
"Michael W. Louis has been removed because the recent investigation shows that he influenced the awarding of contracts for supplies to favored bidders; that he has been extravagant and wasteful in the administration of his office; and that he has paid excessive prices for supplies to favored contractors."

"Louis Kempner has been removed for incompetent and negligent administration; for wasteful and reckless extravagance in sending expensive manifold registration books to a large number of small fourth-class postoffices, and for violating the revenue laws by a system of petty smuggling."
"C. B. Terry, a clerk in the division of supplies, has been removed for making false affidavits; attempting to obtain money from clerks under the guise that he could influence their promotion, and general inefficiency."
The Postmaster General also stated that the postmaster at New York had been directed to remove Otto Weis for collecting money from clerks to influence legislation and to procure promotion.

Weis is said to have enjoyed confidential relations with George W. Beavers, late superintendent of the salary and allowance division, and he is charged with having acted as a medium through which other clerks in the New York postoffice were communicated with.

Statement by President.
President Roosevelt will soon issue a public statement on the postal frauds, and leading members of the administration believe that this statement will, incidentally, forestall an investigation of the postoffice cases by Congress. The President has already read the exhaustive report of Mr. Bristow.

There is a story that Secretary Shaw and the President are at odds over the findings of Attorneys Conrad and Bonaparte against Comptroller Tracewell, who, the investigators charged, had improperly approved certain postal accounts. By a high authority this story was called a lie. The President accepts Mr. Shaw's view that Mr. Tracewell is an efficient and conscientious officer, and the comptroller will not be disturbed.

BURDETTE IS TO HAVE TEMPLE

Large $1,000,000 Church Will Be Built in Los Angeles, Cal.
Los Angeles, Cal., dispatch: A $1,000,000 building will be erected here for the New Temple Baptist church, of which Rev. Robert J. Burdette, the noted humorist and lecturer, is pastor. The plans contemplate as a part of the gigantic structure a public convention hall, the whole making a double building. The Baptist auditorium will resemble the mormon tabernacle at Salt Lake City. A stock company is being formed to construct and operate the building, and assurance is given that an eastern millionaire Baptist is ready to put up $500,000 for the project, while the remaining half will be provided locally. Burdette is in the east and will interest financiers if necessary. The temple is to be built in the business center of the city.

The physicians in attendance hope to break the fever speedily in order to enable him to meet future campaign appointments.

Faith in Franklin.
In the middle of the severe electrical storm of a recent Sunday afternoon a reserve policeman, at Ninth and Chestnut streets, found a negro boy shivering and wet to the skin clinging to the base of the Franklin statue in front of the postoffice building. The street was deserted by everybody else. The policeman went up to the lad and asked him why he was standing out in the rain. The little fellow replied: "Gee, boss, I've orfuly afraid of lightning, and Franklin invenshened the lightning, didn't he? Certin' he ain't a gwine to hit hesself. Dis am de safest place foh dis chicken." The policeman passed on.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Puzzled Englishman.

In a certain beach front pavilion at Atlantic City a very stout man from London said to a chance acquaintance from Philadelphia: "I believe that old bath house keeper likes English people. He told me that he would rather serve a dozen Englishmen than one American."

"I don't know. He said it would be twelve times as much money. I wonder what the bloomin' idiot meant?" —Philadelphia Ledger.

AGRICULTURE

Value of Good-Sized Seed.

A plant has inherited its internal and vital power from all the crops through which it came—all the ancestors through which it ascended or descended, says Professor Robertson of Canada. An appreciation of the inherited as well as the acquired power of plants will be of assistance in selecting the kind of seed that will do best on each farmer's land. What I want to make clear is the difference in the vigor of growth between the seeds of the same variety when sown in different localities, and the difference—the amazing difference—in the productiveness of selected large, plump seeds over small seeds of the same variety.

The seed of a cereal is a plant in embryo, and a store of food for the nourishment of the young plant after it wakens into activity (germinates); and until it takes in food through its rootlets and leaves. The germination of the seed is not the so-called creation of life. That happened when the plant was fertilized; and the seed is an embryo, with a store of food lying close by it and within the same skin. The store of food which composes the greater part of the seed is for the maintenance of the young plant until it is able to take nourishment through its leaves and rootlets. A young plant is wakened up as soon as the moisture and warmth are sufficient, and its food close by is prepared under the same conditions.

Sometimes an embryo plant is imperfectly formed and weak; and tests show that imperfectly ripened seeds, under ordinary conditions, do not give nearly as good a crop as fully ripened seeds in each of which both the embryo and its food have been fully prepared. Those seeds which germinate most quickly are the best, and it has been proven over and over again that heavy seeds give larger and better crops than small seeds of the same sort. This has been proven over and over again. The reason seems to be that in one case (large seeds) the supply of food for the young plant is plentiful when it most needs it, while in the other case (small seeds) the food supply may be insufficient to nourish the young plant adequately at the most critical time when it is tender and struggling for survival. Under the most favorable conditions of temperature, moisture and food supply in the soil, small seeds might give as much in crop as large seeds. On comparatively poor land, in unfavorable seasons, is where the small seeds give their worst returns. The farmer who has rich soil in a fine condition of tilth is the only one who can afford to sow small seeds, and the risk of comparatively small crops is great even then.

it should not be left within reach of animals nor should its trimmed-off branches be thrown over into the pasture. The shrub also grows wild and where existing in pastures should be taken out. It is a fine shrub, growing from 4 to 8 feet high, but has sometimes been known to reach 30 or 40 feet. It has thick, flat and shining leaves, showy clusters of pink flowers, which appear in May and June, and globular and dry fruit. It grows abundantly on rocky hillsides and on mountain slopes up to 3,000 or 4,000 feet. The honey derived from the flowers appears to be poisonous under some conditions.

Peas and Beans as Horse Feed.
Peas and other leguminous seed resemble the cereal grains in having a low water content. In Europe horse beans are a common feeding stuff for horses. Though such feeds are known to be useful and valuable, they are seldom given to horses in the United States and few, if any, tests have been made with them at the American experiment stations. Muntz found that beans were quite thoroughly digested even when fed in such large quantities as fourteen pounds per day. According to an English authority, this amount would prove harmful, and five pounds of beans per day or a slightly larger quantity of peas is considered all that is desirable to feed.

AN ANECDOTE OF DISRAELI.

Statesman's Adulation Staggered the Fair Recipient.

On one occasion this habit of exaggerated adulation led to so bold an attempt by the fair recipient to turn it to her advantage that he was driven to save the situation in a way that was very far from being appreciated. The charmer, a young lady of "advanced views," finding the great man so exceedingly profuse in his attentions, thought it an excellent opportunity for making him a convert to her utopian ideals, which were of the most daringly democratic order. After a long recitation of her propaganda she wound up with a fervid appeal to the prime minister to immortalize himself by espousing her ingenious panacea for remedying the wrongs of humanity! As she finished her impassioned harangue, with flushed cheeks and flashing eye, Disraeli, who had been silently watching her with apparently the profoundest sympathy and admiration, suddenly dropped his eyeglass and softly murmured, "Oh, you darling!" "If it had been at dinner," she afterward declared, "and I had had a knife, I would have stabbed him!"—Blackwood's.

The McBride Case Again.
St. John, Kans., Oct. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. William McBride and Jesse L. Limes, M. D., have gone before Mr. George E. Moore, Notary Public, and have sworn and subscribed to written statements confirming the story of the awful illness and subsequent cure of the little son of Mr. and Mrs. McBride.

Dr. Limes is particularly emphatic in his statement, and there does not now seem to be any room for doubt as to the fact that Dodd's Kidney Pills, and nothing else, saved the little boy.

He was so bad that he had Epileptic spells which seized him with increasing frequency. He was semi-paralyzed in the right side, and his mind was badly affected.

In their sworn statement, Mr. and Mrs. McBride say:
"The very day we began to use Dodd's Kidney Pills our boy had twenty-seven of these Epileptic spells or fits. In less than a week he ceased having them entirely."

The case has caused a great sensation in the neighborhood. The sworn statements have confirmed the whole story.

A PROMINENT CHURCH WORKER SAYS SHE OWES HER LIFE TO PE-RU-NA.

Mrs. Hattie LaFountain, Treas. Protected Home Circle and Catholic Ladies of Ohio, writes from Galion, O., as follows:

"After my first child was born I suffered for several months with bearing down pains accompanied by dreadful headaches. I was afraid my health was ruined for life, and felt very downcast about it. One day when a friend was visiting me she told me of Peruna and what it had done for her when she suffered with irregular menstruation. My husband procured a bottle the same evening and I began to take it daily according to directions. Before the first bottle was used I was entirely well, and you certainly have one grateful woman's blessing. I have also advised my friends to use it."

HER GREAT FORTUNE. A Woman Saved From Life-Long Misery and Made Happy and Useful.

A woman confined to the house for several years with a chronic female derangement had finally given up hope of being cured.

She had tried physician after physician, and remedy after remedy, without any permanent improvement.

Her treatment had cost her husband, who was a poor man, hundreds of dollars. They had been obliged to deny themselves many comforts of life in order to get money enough to pay the physicians.

The woman had become weak, nervous and wretched, and scarcely able to keep out of her bed. Her children were growing up neglected and ragged because of the want of a mother's care. Her husband was becoming discouraged and broken down with overwork.

Picking up the paper one day she happened to read an item which contained the news that Dr. Hartman would treat such cases free of charge by letter. She immediately wrote the doctor describing her case, and giving him all her symptoms.

She soon received a letter telling her exactly what to do, and what medicines and appliances to get. She began the treatment (the principle remedy being Peruna) at once, and in a few weeks she was well and strong again, able to do her own work.

This offer of free home treatment to women is still open to all who may need the services of this eminent physician. All letters applying for treatment will be promptly answered, and be held strictly confidential.

Miss Annie Hoban, Post Pocatones of Yemassee Council of Red Men (Women's Branch), writes from 872 Eighth Ave., New York:

"Three months ago I was troubled with backache and a troublesome heaviness about the stomach. Sleep brought me no rest for it was a restless sleep. The doctor said my nervous system was out of order but his prescriptions didn't seem to relieve me. I was told that Peruna was good for building up the nervous system. After using it for two months I know now that it is. I want to say that it made a new woman of me. The torturing symptoms have all disappeared and I feel myself again. Peruna did me more good than all the other medicines I have taken."

ANNIE HOBAN.
Miss Mamie Powell, Lake Charles, Louisiana, writes:

"I sincerely believe that Peruna is woman's best friend, for it has certainly been that to me. I had had headaches, backaches and other aches every month for a long time, but shortly after I began taking Peruna this was a thing of the past, and I have good reason to be grateful. I take a bottle every spring and fall now, and that keeps my health perfect, and I certainly am more robust now than I have been before and am weighing more. I do not think anyone will be disappointed in the results obtained from the use of Peruna."

MISS MAMIE POWELL.
If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis. Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.
