Sixty Years of Age.

Short History and Incidents of the Early Settlement of Culver and Union Township.

Simon Pokagon, the last of the Pottawatomie chiefs, died in the summer of 1900. He was quite an author writing "The Redman's Greeting." Chief Aubbeenaubee was killed by his son in a drunken spree.

The first resident minister in the county was Wm. Thompson, a Baptist, who lived on a farm near here in 1856. The first resident physician was Dr. Thomas Logan 1836. Cyrus Taber was the first white child born in this county. The first marriage in the county after its organization (Feb. 4, 1836) was solemnized by John Pomeroy a justice of the peace on June 23rd, 1836. The contracting parties were John W. Crusan and Mathilda Henderson.

The name of the town was first Yellow River Postoffice, next (1848) Union Town, then (1851) Marmont. It was changed to Marmont through the efforts of Dr. Durr. Marmont was the name of Napoleon Bonaparte's favorite marshal. The town was next called Culver City and finally Culver in honor of Henry Culver, founder of the Culver Military Academy.

The first postoffice was in a small building on the lot now occupied by Nathaniel Gandy's residence. The first shoe shop was kept by Samuel Martin. The first store was owned by Eph. More and Wm. Thompson followed by Robert Blakely. In 1867 there were only twelve houses in the town. At this time the people were mostly Methodists and Baptists, worshipping alternately in the old school house. The Methodist church was built in 1868 and rebuilt in 1899, the Reformed in 1890, the Catholic in 1897 and the Evangelical in 1899.

The first school house was a log, one standing east of the one used at present. The second was the residence of Albert Stahl, the third the building occupied by Oliver Morris, the fourth, built in 1877 is still in use.

The first steam boat was owned and run by William Davis in 1885. It was named Bessie in honor of his daughter.

N. F. Clark, postmaster in 1888, arranged to move the office to the depot but through the efforts of the business men it was retained. This was an important event for the reason that had he succeeded in changing the office the principal part of the town would now be Toner Ave.

The Vandalia railroad was built to this place in 1884 and the track was built on in 1885.

The town was incorporated in 1894 and July 5th of that year the following officers were elected:

Clerk, F. S. Carl; Treasurer, H. M. Speyer; Councilmen, John Souders, M. F. Mosher and S. E. Medbourn; School Board, George Garn, O. A. Rea and E. B. Vanschoiack.

MARRIAGE.

Frank Powell Vanderbilt, of Jersey City, and Miss Ethel L. Maxwell, of Yonkers, were married last evening at St. Andrew's Memorial Church, in Yonkers, by the Rev. James E. Freeman. The church was crowded with relatives and friends of the couple. The bridegroom, who is employed at the Fifth Avenue Bank, was attended by his cousin, Walter S.

bride, was the maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Sadie E. Korp, of Culver, Ind., Miss Mabel E. Atwood, of Newark; Miss Florence Sutherland and Miss May Kellock, of Yonkers. The ushers were Dr. W. B. MacBean and Dr. C. W. Fairchild, of Tarrytown; H. G. Hubbel, of Mount Vernon, and George S. Edie, of Yonkers. A reception at the bride's home, No. 43 Caroline Ave., was attended by several hundred guests. After a trip to Canada Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt will live in Yonkers.—New York Tribune, June 8th.

FORMER MONTEREY MAN KILLED BY HIS WIFE.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 14.—"I have tried to have Mr. Allen come to some agreement, and he will not. I can not stand it any longer. Forgive me all. I am driven to what I have done. Any young wife in my position would have done the same." "MAME."

This note was written by Mrs. L. D. Allen after she had shot and killed her husband and just preceding her own suicide by the same means.

Allen was 23 and his wife 20 years of age. The young woman evidently fired four shots at her husband, two of which took effect, after which she wrote the farewell note and then killed herself.

The young woman's mother is said to live in Meadville, Pa. while Allen came from Monterey, Ind.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

What's all this talk about "the superfluous woman"? There's no such thing.

YOUNG MEN ARE SLAVES TO THE ATHLETIC HABIT

Physicians in Convention Declare That the Strenuous Sports of Today Sap Vitality of Our Youth.

Atlantic City, N. J., special: The young men of the United States today are as decrepit as their grandfathers were at the age of 70 years, due entirely to the "strenuous life" and the introduction of the cinder path, the baseball diamond and the football field into the recognized courses in the colleges of the country. At least so say members of the American Medical association in convention here.

Members of the section of the practice of medicine devoted much time to a discussion of the physical deterioration of the youth of America. The "strenuous life," it was declared, had resulted in the alarming growth of an incurable disease that was sapping the vitality of the young men. "Arteriosclerosis," the physicians term it, and its symptoms are a stiffening and deterioration of the arteries, causing them to age prematurely, and bringing about a serious affection of the heart.

College athletics is a chief cause of the disease. Football and other "strenuous" games are productive of it. Ping-pong and tiddle-de-winks are declared safe. Dr. W. S. Thayer of Baltimore said that 62 per cent of the cases that came under his observation were the result of overwork, many being due to football.

PACKAGE OF DYNAMITE IS NEGRO'S PLUNDER

Black Man Steals Package of Deadly Explosive, Believing That It Contained Valuable Property.

Louisville, Ky., dispatch: "Hold on to it; don't drop it."

This unusual advice was given to Joe Evans, who was apparently running away with valuable property he had stolen. For three blocks Evans ran with a package of dynamite enough to destroy a city block and behind him followed a crowd of men crying to him to stop, but not to drop the bundle. The negro not knowing what was said to him ran the faster.

Evans had taken the package thinking it was jewelry. Alexander Stabler and other men who saw the act ran for the thief to tell him of the dangerous explosive in the package, but the negro ran too fast. The crowd started in pursuit, but feared to close in on the fugitive lest he drop the deadly contents of the bundle. The patrol wagon was summoned and as it dashed up Market street Patrolmen Grainger and Smoot saw the negro and the crowd. Patrolman Smoot seized the package and his partner took charge of the negro, who was then informed of the danger he had passed.

"I sho' didn't know what was in it or I never would have a taken that sack," said Evans as he was registered for larceny at central station.

A Russian, forgetting that he was in America, yelled, "He's going to kill the czar; catch him, catch him."

HEIR APPEARS IN A MYSTERY

Illinois Girl Causes Arrest for Alleged Murder of Missing Father.

Sibley, Iowa, special: Fred Hokuff, charged with the murder of Peter Johnson, who disappeared from his farm at Melvin, Iowa, in 1903, is in jail at Sibley, being held without bail for a hearing before Justice Miller. The arrest of Hokuff, who is charged with killing Johnson for his property, and who has been living on the Johnson farm since the alleged murder, was brought about by a claim for Johnson's $20,000 estate filed by a young woman of Gibson City, Ill., who says she has just learned that she is Johnson's daughter and that twenty years ago Johnson made arrangements with a Mrs. Paulson of Gibson City to rear the girl in ignorance of her parentage. Hokuff maintains his innocence and says Johnson will return.

ARMOUR & CO. TO PAY BIG FINE

Iowa Supreme Court Rules Against Them for Coloring Oleomargarine.

Des Moines, Iowa, dispatch: The Armour Packing company must submit to a heavy fine for violating the Iowa statute against coloring oleomargarine, according to a decision of the supreme court. The big Chicago packing company has bitterly contested the suit, confessing that the life of the oleomargarine business in this state hinged on the result. A conviction was obtained a year ago, but reversed on a technicality on an appeal from this conviction. The supreme court holds that no matter if oleomargarine is not colored artificially, so long as it contains the least bit of yellow, even if caused by natural ingredients it cannot be sold in Iowa, and the dealer and manufacturer are subject to a penalty.

ROMANCE LEADS TO THE ALTAR

Queen of Peoria's Corn Carnival Captivates Heart of Chicago Man.

Peoria, Ill., dispatch: The marriage of William L. Miller to Miss Mabel Schubach, which is to take place next Wednesday night, is the culmination of a pretty romance which had its beginning at the corn carnival in Peoria last fall. Miss Schubach was the queen of the carnival and Miller, who recently came here from Chicago, saw her in her festal robes and fell in love with her. They were introduced and it was a case of love at first sight.

MEANT TO KILL CZAR

Infernal Machine Found in Palace of the Russian Emperor---Japanese Armies Are Advancing in Force by Four Roads.

The London Daily Mail prints the following:

"Two infernal machines were found on the night of June 7 concealed in tobacco boxes in the Tsarskoye Selo palace, where the Russian emperor is now residing.

"One of the machines was in the dining room, the other in the audience chamber. The mechanism of each was working when discovered.

"The strictest secrecy is observed, and this statement, although true in every detail, is sure to be categorically denied."

Japanese armies are advancing in force on Liaoyang by four roads. The Russians are retreating at all points.

Japanese troops have occupied Siu-yen, and are pursuing the Russians along the road to Haicheng, toward Tomucheng. The Japanese also have occupied Saimatz, north of Fengwangcheng.

So far, in the various skirmishes the Japanese have lost ten killed and seventy-two wounded. The Russians left many dead on the field.

Gen. Kuroki reports that a detachment of Japanese troops June 7 routed a battalion of Russian infantry with two guns at Haimachi, the Japanese fighting the Cossacks were obliged to retire and our artillery opened fire along the pass, not allowing the Japanese to establish themselves.

"At this moment a Japanese mountain battery arrived and took a position to the south, but after firing a few rounds was silenced by our battery. A second Japanese battery did not succeed in getting into action, but was compelled to evacuate its position under the fire of our guns.

"In the course of the fight a flanking movement by several battalions of Japanese infantry was observed northeast of Siu-yen, threatening our line of retreat. Consequently, our Cossacks gradually withdrew five miles from Siu-yen, keeping up their fire from a battery on a dense column of the enemy at a range of 600 yards.

"The fire slackened about 5 in the afternoon. Among our losses were Cheremissineff, chief of Cossacks, Cornet Komarovsk, and Lieut. Col. Posokhoff. To all appearances the Cossacks were engaged with troops of the Tenth division."

Gen. Kourapatkin sends the following additional details of the fighting at Saimatz:

losing three men killed and twenty-four wounded. The Japanese captured two officers and five men. The Russians left on the field twenty-three men dead or wounded and probably lost seventy men.

A Japanese detachment despatched in the direction of Tungyuanpu repulsed sixty or seventy of the enemy's infantry at Linchatai June 6, an next day encountered six companies of Russian infantry and 300 cavalry at Chanchiashih.

After a two hours' engagement the Japanese drove the Russians off in the direction of Tungyuanpu. The Russian casualties were seventy or eighty men killed or wounded. The Japanese lost four men killed and sixteen men wounded.

June 8 a Japanese detachment co-operating with another detachment from the force landed at Takushan, encountered a Russian force of 4,000 cavalry, with six guns, near Siu-yen, and drove them back towards Tomucheng and Kaichou, losing thirteen killed and two officers and twenty-eight men wounded.

Russians Admit Their Defeats.

A dispatch from Mukden to St. Petersburg says that Gen. Kuroki has begun his forward movement. The Japanese have occupied Siu-yen. Russian scouts have discovered the Japanese in considerable force on the roads leading toward Haicheng and Liaoyang. The dispatch adds:

"We are retiring slowly before the superior forces of the enemy."

Gen. Kourapatkin telegraphs to the emperor the following details of the fighting around Siu-yen:

"June 7 the Japanese slowly continued their march toward Siu-yen by the Takushan and Fengwangcheng roads. Their advance guard did not approach nearer than five miles south and east of Siu-yen. On the morning of June 8 a Japanese infantry brigade, two mountain batteries and five squadrons of cavalry marched against Siu-yen. About 11 o'clock the Japanese appeared before the town on the south side, but were checked by a successful fire from our batteries.

"Japanese infantry then began advancing against the town from the east by the Fengwangcheng road, and came in contact with the Cossacks holding the pass. After two hours'

"On June 7 at 6 a. m. an outpost company on the Aivang road was attacked by the enemy. A detachment of chasseurs was sent as a reinforcement. More Japanese then appeared, one battalion with a mountain battery positioned before Saimatz.

"The Chasseurs at first pressed the Japanese, inflicting losses and taking rifles and equipment from the killed, but the advance was checked by a severe fire. Reinforcements now joined the enemy, bringing up their strength to a brigade of infantry, two batteries of artillery and three squadrons of cavalry. Thereupon the commander of our detachment ordered a retreat towards Fenchulin pass.

"The detachment withdrew slowly and in good order, holding successive positions. Our wounded included Capt. Makharoff and Lieut. Ronjitski. Both officers, however, remained in the ranks. About 100 men were killed or wounded. The enemy suffered severely. Accountments taken from the Japanese dead show that they belonged to the Twelfth division."

Gen. Kourapatkin's reinforcements are being pushed eastward. The first division, 20,000 men of the Tenth army corps, has crossed the Ural mountains, and following them is a continuous stream of troop trains. The last men of the Tenth and Seventeenth corps are scheduled to reach Liaoyang on Aug. 27.

The mobilization of the first army corps is being hurried. Two regiments of the twenty-second division are at Novgorod and one of the thirty-seventh at Pskoff (171 miles southwest of St. Petersburg), where the reserve men will join. The two divisions expect to start for the front on June 28.

Japanese Batteries in Position.

A dispatch from Chefoo received at Rome states after two days' hard fighting the Japanese have occupied a position at Wangtao, from which they are shelling the fortifications of Port Arthur.

A dispatch to the Echo de Paris from St. Petersburg says that extreme pessimism is shown in certain circles, due to a telegram from Admiral Alexieff drawing a gloomy picture of the situation at Port Arthur. He again urged the czar to order Gen. Kourapatkin to march to the rescue of the fortress. Gen. Kourapatkin has refused to do so, asserting that Port Arthur can hold out for two months at least. He said he is receiving troops daily and would be able to act energetically by July 15.

Port Arthur Fleet Will Fight.

It is believed that when the fall of Port Arthur become imminent the fleet will make a dash from the harbor. After the Japanese fleet has been engaged the uninjured Russian ships will try to effect a juncture with the Vladivostok squadron. The attempt may occur at the first favorable opportunity. The squadron is useless for the defense of Port Arthur, while if preserved entire or in major portion, even the fall of Port Arthur would be robbed of much of its importance.

Jap Volunteers Cut Mine Wires.

Wounded officers who have returned to Japan from the Liaotung peninsula give interesting details of the battle of Nanshan hill. After the first ineffectual attack on the hill the Japanese scouts discovered that there were mines at the foot of the hill. It was determined that they could only be located by the sacrifice of lives. Hundreds of volunteers led the second advance and found that heavy rains had washed away the covering of earth and had exposed the mines. Engineers cut the connecting wires, rendering the mines useless, and the troops sustained no loss. The volunteers, however, were nearly all killed in the subsequent ineffectual attack on the hill.

The Osaka men, from the right wing, while advancing through the water along the shore, encountered a body of Russians, also in the water. A fierce fight ensued, both sides being waist deep in the sea. When the Russians finally retreated the water was literally crimson. Both sides lost heavily.

In the trenches, after they had been captured, were found many articles of clothing belonging to women and children, making it evident that the Russians intended their defenses to be permanent.

Rumored Russian Naval Victory.

Rumors are in circulation at St. Petersburg to the effect that a great naval battle has taken place off Port Arthur, in which two Russians and four Japanese battleships were sunk. No confirmation of the rumor can be obtained.

Japanese Occupy Suenchow.

The London Daily Mail's correspondent at Japanese headquarters, telegraphing under date of June 11, says a strong Japanese column has occupied Suenchow, eighty-five miles east of Mukden.

Japs Die in Ambuscade.

A flanking movement of the Japanese around the Russian left from Fengwangcheng June 9 was repulsed, with a loss of two whole battalions.

A large Japanese force moved out in the morning along the Fengwangcheng and Haicheng road. The Russians had a force strongly posted in a ravine thirty miles east of Haicheng. The Japanese were preceded by two battalions, who walked into the Russian ambuscade. They received a murderous rifle and artillery fire at close range and were wiped out, only one or two escaping.

The main Japanese force, which was greatly superior to the Russian force, tried to outflank the Russians, who drew off without losing a man. The Japanese, closing in, found the ravine vacant save for their own dead.

Getting Close to Port Arthur.

A dispatch to the London Express from Nagasaki via Shanghai says that information from a high source is to the effect that Japanese engineers are sapping their way toward the fortifications of Port Arthur.

Under cover of artillery new earthworks are thrown up nightly. The garrison is using shells sparingly, and is evidently reserving its ammunition.

Over 200 Japanese field guns cover the operations of the trenchmakers. Siege guns have not been used yet. They are being mounted on cement platforms in commanding positions.

A dispatch to the London Standard from St. Petersburg says it is stated there that a telegram has been received from Admiral Skrydloff, commanding the Vladivostok garrison, stating that on June 7 he moved with the Vladivostok squadron toward Port Arthur. He arrived within thirty miles of the fortress, when he ran into a fog. It is asserted that Skrydloff found several Japanese torpedo boats and two battleships confronting him. The Japanese attacked fiercely and inflicted some damage. The Russians returned the fire, but as none of the Port Arthur ships appeared, as Admiral Skrydloff had hoped and expected, he returned to Vladivostok, which was reached by the squadron June 10.

On the other hands, another St. Petersburg rumor declares that the Vladivostok squadron is reported to consist of three cruisers and four battleships. It is therefore presumed in St. Petersburg that it has effected a junction with some of the ships of the Port Arthur fleet.

Kaiser Plays the Violin.

The kaiser has become an ardent violinist, and practices diligently and excruciatingly at every opportunity.

ADMIRAL LANDS TARS AT TANGIER

Marines Are Sent to Guard Belgian Legation at Request of Consul.

PRISONERS NEED MEDICAL AID

Surgeon Will Be Sent to Them if the Bandit Leader Will Guarantee His Safe Conduct—Sultan Will Accede to Demands of Outlaw.

Washington special: American marines have landed in Africa. Rear Admiral Chadwick has cabled the navy department from Tangier as follows:

"I have placed a guard at the Belgian legation, having been asked to do so by our consul general there."

The navy department also received a cablegram from Rear Admiral Chadwick to the effect that he has been informed that Perdicaris and his stepson, Varley, are in need of medical assistance and that the consul general has sent to Raisuli to inquire whether a surgeon will be given safe conduct. The admiral says that if so one will be sent in company with the shereef of Wazan.

Ample Precedents for Landing.

It is said at the state department that there is ample precedent for the employment of an American naval force for the temporary protection of the exposed interests of another power which has no available force at hand.

A few years ago it was the common understanding that British vessels should protect American interests in South American ports where the United States had no warships and that the United States gunboats should look after British interests exposed in the same way. The United States also has looked after German interests in San Domingo and elsewhere.

Sultan Yields to Bandit.

The state department has received unofficial assurance through Mr. Gummere, who had it from the British consul at Fez, that the sultan of Morocco will accede to all of Raisuli's terms. The bandit's demand that Great Britain and the United States shall guarantee the execution of the sultan's promises, however, is the sticking point. It is stated positively that under no conditions can the United States government execute these guarantees.

President Roosevelt and Sir Mortimer Durand, the British ambassador, had a brief conference. Primarily, the ambassador called on the president to pay his respects on the eve of his departure for Lenox, Mass., where the British embassy will be located this summer.

The ambassador said he did not discuss the Perdicaris abduction case with the president.

He suggested that it sometimes is embarrassing to bark if one is not in position also to bite.

What Sultan Promises to Do.

It is said by a person in the sultan's confidence that the sultan has given orders to grant all of the conditions demanded by Raisuli, the bandit leader, in order to expedite the release of the captives.

The sultan appoints Herid El Barada to be governor of Tangier, which step was included among Raisuli's demands.

SLAY FATHER AND DAUGHTER

Warrants Are Out for Parties Suspected of Committing Deed.

Crookston, Minn., dispatch: News of a double murder was received here and warrants are out for those supposed to have committed the crime. N. O. Dake and his daughter, aged 18, were murdered on their claim near Quiring, not far from Bemidji. The crime is supposed to have occurred in April and the motive is believed to have been robbery. The pair were last seen April 5. Their friends later began a search for them, but without result, and then Sheriff Bailey made an investigation which is said to have established the fact that they were murdered and their bodies hidden. So far no trace of their remains has been found.

FIND THAT MINISTER IS GUILTY

Baptist Council Holds Pastor's Conduct Unbecoming to Cloth.

Alton, Ill., dispatch: After an all night's session, which did not end until 6 o'clock in the morning, the council at the First Baptist church at Upper Alton brought in a verdict finding Rev. J. E. Reynolds guilty of conduct unbecoming a minister of gospel. The charge preferred was obtaining goods by false pretenses, by the Upper Alton church, when Mr. Reynolds made application several months ago for a letter to join the First Baptist church at Zanesville, O., of which he was at that time the pastor. The council consisted mostly of ministers representing fifty different churches.

J. P. MORGAN IS ILL IN EUROPE

Expected in London Before Coming Home After Seeking Health.

London cable: J. Pierpont Morgan has not been in particularly good health. After taking the cure at Aix-Jes-Bains he went to Italy for a change and was laid up for several days at Milan. He is now better, but still not quite himself. He is expected in London soon for a short stay prior to sailing for home.

THE GIRL AT THE HALFWAY HOUSE

A STORY OF THE PLAINS

BY E. HOUGH, AUTHOR OF THE STORY OF THE COWBOY
Copyrighted, 1903, by D. Appleton & Company, New York

CHAPTER XXVIII.—Continued.

One morning the little street car stood, as was its wont, at the terminus of the track, near the front of the wide grounds of the old mansion house. This was far out upon the edge of the little city, and few were the patrons that might be expected; but it was held but mere courtesy to offer the services of the street car line to this family, so long recognized as one of the unimpeachably best of this Southern city. This modern innovation of the street car was not readily taken up by the conservative community, and though it had been established for some years, it might be questioned whether its shares had ever paid much interest upon their face value.

At this terminus of the line at the outskirts of the town there was each morning enacted the same little scene. The driver slowly unhitched his mules and turned them about to the other end of the car, in readiness for the return journey. Matters having progressed this far, the mules fell at once into a deep state of dejection and somnolence, their ears lopping down, their bodies drooping and motionless, save as now and then a faint swish of tail or wag of a weary ear bespoke the knowledge of some bold, marauding fly. The driver, perched on his seat, his feet upon the rail, his knees pushed toward his chin, sat with his broad back drawn down upon his forehead, his hands clasped between his legs, and all his attitude indicative of rest.

Presently from a side street, faced by a large brick dwelling, there came with regular and unhurried tread a tall and dignified figure, crowned with a soft Panama, and tapping with official cane. As it approached the car the driver straightened a trifle on the seat.

"Good maw'nin', Judge Wilson," he said.

"Uh-ah, good maw'nin', James," replied the judge. "Uh-ah, Doctah Gregg, 'll late this maw'nin', eh?"

Franklin drew her closer to him.

"Yessah, seems like," said the driver, his head again falling.

In perhaps five or ten minutes, perhaps half an hour, there would be heard the tapping of another cane, and Dr. Gregg, also tall, not quite so portly, and wearing a white beaver instead of a soft Panama, would appear from the opening of yet another side street tributary to the car.

"Good maw'nin', James," said the doctor as he passed; and the driver answered respectfully.

"Good maw'nin', Doctah. You 'll late this maw'nin', seems like."

"Well, yessah, I may be a leetle late, just a leetle. Good maw'nin', Judge; how are you this maw'nin', sah?"

"Very well, Doctah, sah, thank you, sah. Step in an' seditown. Right wahn, this maw'nin'. Uh-ah!"

So the judge and the doctor sat down in the car, and conversed, easily and in no haste, perhaps for five or ten minutes, perhaps for half an hour. Now and then the driver cast a glance out of the side of his eye over toward the lion-headed gates, but no one was uneasy or anxious. The mules were to apparent view very sad and still, yet really very happy within their souls.

"Young lady 'll late this maw'nin', seems like," remarked the judge.

"Oh, yes, but she'll be 'long directly, I reckon," replied the doctor. "You know how 'bout these young folks. They don't always realize the impoliteness o' pressin' business matthees. But we must fo'give heh, Judge, we must fo'give heh, foh she suthinly is well woth waitin' foh; yes, indeed."

"Uh-ah! Quite right, Doctah, quite right! Fine young lady, fine young lady. Old stock, yes indeed! Beechams o' Fehginnay. Too bad—Cousin Sarann Clayton keeps heh so close like. She fitten to be received, sah, to be received!"

"Yes, indeed," assented the doctor. "Yes, sah. Now, ain't that the young lady a-comin' down the walk?"

Judge and doctor and driver now turned their gaze beyond the lion-headed gateway to the winding walk that passed among the trees up to the old mansion house. Far off, through the great columns of the trees, there might indeed this morning now be seen the flutter of a gown of white. The faint sounds of voices might be heard. Mary Ellen, conscientious marketer, was discussing joints and salads with her aunt. And then Mary Ellen, deliberately tying the strings of her bonnet under her chin, turned, answering her aunt's summons for replevin of a forgotten fan. Then, slowly, calmly, the gown of white became more distinct as she came nearer, her tall figure composing well with the setting of this scene. For her patiently waited the judge and the doctor and the driver.

"Good maw'nin', Miss Beecham," said the driver as she passed, touching his hat and infusing more stiffness into his spine.

"Good morning, sir," she replied, pleasantly.

"Uh-ah, good maw'nin', Miss Beecham, good maw'nin'," said Judge Wilson; and "Good maw'nin'," said Dr. Gregg.

"Good morning, Judge Wilson," replied Mary Ellen, as she entered the car. "Good morning, Dr. Gregg." The gentlemen made way for her upon the shady side of the car, and lifted their hats ceremoniously.

"'Lil late this maw'nin', Miss Beecham, seems like," said the judge, with no trace of resentment in his tones.

Dr. Gregg upon this morning began his customary reproach also, but it halted upon his tongue. "Miss Beecham," he said, "pardon me, allow me—are you ill?"

For Mary Ellen, settling herself for her regular morning ride with her regular companions, all at once went pale as she gazed out of the window. She scarcely heard the kind remark. She was looking at a man—a tall man with a brown face, with broad shoulders, with a long, swinging, steady stride. This man was coming up the side of the street, along the path between the fences and the burdocks that lined the ditch. His shoes were white with the limestone dust, but he seemed to care nothing for his way of locomotion, but reached on, his head up, his eye searching eagerly.

Not with equipage, not mounted as a Southern cavalier, not announced,

"Lucky dog!" said the judge; "lucky dog! But he seems a gentleman, and if he has propah family an' propah resources, it may be, yessah, it may be she's lucky, too. Oh, Northehn, yessah, I admit it. But what would you expect, sah, in these times? I'm told there are some vely fine people in the No'th."

"Deep through!" said the doctor, communing with himself. "Carries his trunk gran'ly. Splendid creatuah—splendid! Have him? O' co'se she'll have him! What woman wouldn't? What a cadaver! What a subject—"

"Good God! my dear sir!" said the judge. "Really!"

Franklin and Mary Ellen sat looking out before them, silent. At last he turned and placed his hand over the two that lay knit loosely in her lap. Mary Ellen stirred, her throat moved, but she could not speak. Franklin leaned forward and looked into her face.

"I knew it must be so," he whispered, quietly.

"What—what must you think?" broke out Mary Ellen, angry that she could not resist.

"There, there, dearest!" he said. "Don't trouble. I knew it was to be. I came straight to you." He tightened his grip upon her hands. Mary Ellen straightened and looked him in the face.

"I'll admit it," she said. "I knew that you were coming. I must have dreamed it."

There in the car, upon the public highway, Franklin cast his arm about her waist and drew her strongly to him. "Dear girl," he said, "it was to be! We must work out our lives together. Will you be happy—out there—again?"

Again Mary Ellen turned and looked at him with a new frankness and unreserve.

"That's the oddest of it," said she. "Out on the prairies I called the South 'back home.' Now it's the other way." They fell again into silence, but already, lover-like, began to read each other's thoughts and to find less need of speech.

"You and I, dearest," said Franklin, finally, "you and I together, forever and ever. We'll live at the Halfway House. Don't shiver, child; I've built a fine new house there—"

"You've built a house?"

"Yes, yes. Well, I'll confess it—I bought the place myself."

"Then it was your money?"

"And it is your money."

"I've a notion," began Mary Ellen, edging away, biting her lip.

"And so have I," said Franklin, stooping and kissing her fingers with scandalous publicity. "I've a notion that you shall not speak of that. It is ours. We've more than a thousand acres of land there, and plenty of cattle. Curly shall be foreman—he's married the little waiter girl, and has come back to Ellisville; they live next door to Sam and Nora. Aunt Lucy shall be our cook. We shall have roses, and green grass, and flowers. And you and I—you and I—shall live and shall do that which has been sent to us to do. Mary Ellen—dear Mary Ellen—"

Again the girl threw up her head, but her pride was going fast.

"Then—then you think—you think it is no sin? Is there no lapse in this for me? You think I shall not be—"

Franklin drew her closer to him. "That which is before us now is life," he said. "Dearest, how sweet—how very sweet!"

A caged mocking bird at a little near-by house burst out into a shrill pean, fellow to that of the wild bird of the oaks. Mary Ellen felt her senses melting into a mysterious, bewildering joy. Unconsciously she swayed slightly against the shoulder of her lover. In her heart the music of the bird thrilled on, even when the tinkle of the little bell ceased, even when Franklin, stepping from the car, held up his hands to her and whispered, "Come."

(The End.)

Buying a Good Fortune.

Four little green birds sat on a cage fronted with a tray. The tray held folded slips of paper. A man carried the whole. He strolled east in Grand street, near Mulberry. A woman, swarthy of complexion and with a shawl drawn around her head and shoulders, looked at the birds and hesitated in her walk. The man, keen to notice any indication of trade, saw her hesitancy.

"Fortune, lady?" he asked.

The woman stopped and passed a coin to his hand. He lifted a bird from its perch and placed it on the edge of the tray. The bird picked up a folded slip of paper. The man took the paper and handed it to the woman. The woman opened it, read, smiled, and passed on. The man nodded approvingly.

"Gave her a good fortune, did you?" asked a man standing by.

"Sure," said the man with the birds. "All the fortunes are good. Birds tell no bad fortunes."

Then he smiled wisely.—New York Press.

Not What She Expected.

An English lord was recently dining with a family in New York. The hostess's little girl sat opposite the lord and stared solemnly.

"Are you an English lord, really and truly, sir?" she said at last.

"Yes," he answered laughing, "really and truly."

"I never saw an English lord before," she said. "I've always wanted to."

"And now you're satisfied, aren't you?" said the young man, gayly.

"No, I'm not satisfied," responded the little girl. "I'm disappointed."—The Children's Visitor.

SIMPLY A WAR ON UNIONISM

Citizens' Alliance Issues Decree That Lays Bare Object of Its Organization.

LEAVE UNION OR THE DISTRICT

Edict to Workers in Vicinity of Cripple Creek Demonstrates That Mine Operators Mean to Deprive Employees of Right to Organize.

Cripple Creek, Colo., dispatch: A war of extermination has been declared against unionism by the Citizens' alliance, which sent a decree broadcast through the Cripple Creek Valley declaring that every person connected with a labor organization must renounce that allegiance or quit the valley forever. The edict of banishment issued by the vigilantes was strengthened by an act on the part of Gen. Bell in closing the Portland mine at Victor, a union working, on the ground that it employs and harbors "dangerous and lawless" men.

President James F. Burns of the company and his attorneys are preparing an application for an injunction, asking a restraining order stopping further interference with the Portland mine by the military.

The Portland mine does not belong to the Mine Owners' association. Last August it conceded the demands of the union and since has given employment to about 500 unionists. The mine will be allowed to reopen only with men holding cards issued by the Mine Owners' association.

War on All Unions.

The latest move on the part of the Citizens' alliance is the most drastic taken since it secured the upper hand in the district. The death grapple is to be taken not only on the Western Federation of Miners, but on every union in the camp, including those of the clerks, cooks and waiters, bartenders, carpenters, electricians, trainmen and stone and brick masons. The unionists insist that they will fight the movement to a finish.

The plan of extirpation took definite form when Tyson S. Dines, a Denver attorney, arrived and went into conference with the leaders of the alliance. A form is being prepared that will be presented to every business man, merchant and employer of labor in the district, pledging him not to employ any person affiliated with a union. No person who works for a living will be exempt, and the absolute annihilation of unionism in Teller county is predicted by the element now in power. The enforcement of the edict will affect 3,000 men and women belonging to the various unions in the gold camp.

As an earnest of what may be expected in the campaign to uproot unionism, the commission appointed by Gen. Bell reported a list of ninety-seven imprisoned union miners, with a recommendation that they be deported. The report was accepted and the military governor announced that the men would be sent over the foothills as soon as a special train could be secured. All men deported will be held on criminal charges.

Gen. Bell Closes Mine.

Gen. Bell's proclamation closing the Portland mine follows:

"Whereas, The governor of the state did, by proclamation, issued on the seventh day of June, 1904, declare the county of Teller to be in a state of insurrection and rebellion, and the territory encompassing the said county is now under the rule of military law, and now being held and occupied by the militia of said state, and

"Whereas, A reign of lawlessness, violence and crime has existed in said county for several months last past, inaugurated, encouraged and carried forward by certain evil disposed persons, resulting in wholesale assassinations of many peaceful and law-abiding citizens, and

"Whereas, Said reign of violence and crime still exists in said county, so that the peace of the community is threatened, lives and property of the citizens menaced, and mob rule and violence now threatens to overrule the law, and

"Whereas, the Portland mine, situated in said county, is, and for a long time has been, engaged in employing and harboring large numbers of dangerous, lawless men who have aided, encouraged and given comfort and assistance to those who have been so guilty of said crimes and outrages, so that said mine has become, and now is, a menace to the welfare and safety of the good people of said county and a hindrance to the restoration of peace and good order,

"Now, therefore, by virtue of the power conferred upon me as commander of the military forces in said county, and as a military necessity, it is ordered that said mine be at once closed, and all persons found therein or thereabouts, who are dangerous to the community be arrested and held until further orders."

Threaten to Arrest Employer.

James F. Burns of the Portland Mining company, in his petition for a restraining order, will also ask that the military be withdrawn from the vicinity of his property and that he be allowed to protect his men when they go back to work. The military authorities are credited with saying that when the injunction is asked for Burns will be arrested on the criminal charge that he incited riot, not personally, but by maintaining the unions in employing union laborers.

GROOM RIDES ON RAIL, PRISONER OF MAIDENS

Eight Mischievous Girls Capture Young Husband on Wedding Night and Duck Him in the Creek.

Nashville, Ind., special: A peculiar finale concluded the wedding ceremonies of a young couple who were married Thursday night. Rosa Moser and John David, who live a few miles west of this city, are the bride and groom. After the ceremony the young couple entertained a host of young people from the city and neighboring farms.

Among them were the bridesmaids, eight pretty but mischievous girls, who resolved to make the night a memorable one by an unheard-of prank. Late in the night, when the guests had all departed, the frolicsome girls returned to the house of the bridal pair. They persuaded the young man to come out in the yard and, seizing him, tied him on a rail, carrying him several blocks away to a creek and dumping him into it. As he scrambled out a desperate conflict took place. The eight girls pounced on him and he handled some of them quite roughly. In the scuffle his right arm was thrown out of joint and a finger broken.

CECIL RHODES' HEIRESS IS IN NORTH CAROLINA

While Millions in Fortune Has Been Awaiting Her She Has Been Barely Able to Eke Out Living.

Asheville, N. C., dispatch: Mrs. Mary Virginia Rhodes Baker, an heiress of Cecil Rhodes, the diamond king, whose whereabouts have been a mystery for several years, has turned up here. She has been advertised for far and wide.

Mrs. Baker has been engaged in missionary work in the mountains, and has barely eked out a living. It was by the merest chance that she discovered she was heir to Rhodes' estate. Her identity was disclosed while in conversation with some friends, one of whom recalled having seen the advertisement relative to Virginia Rhodes.

Mrs. Baker is 45 years old. At 14 she married and moved to Georgia. Her husband lived only a few years, and at 18 she was married to her second husband, a minister. He was killed by accident a year ago.

She has communicated with Consul General Evans relative to the fortune left her.

INDIANA SALOONKEEPERS ACT

To Make Determined Fight for Less Oppressive Legislation.

Laporte, Ind., special: For the first time in the history of the state there is a concerted effort in each of the ninety-six counties of Indiana to perfect an organization of the saloonkeepers. An organization will be perfected in each of the counties and a determined fight will be made to secure legislation which is not oppressive. The prohibitionists are waging a similar campaign. Politics will cut little figure in the new organization and the liquor men say that if it is necessary to turn the state they will do it. The new organization is about equally divided between democrats and republicans.

FLAMES MAKE 200 HOMELESS

Eighteen Buildings at Nahma, Mich., Are Destroyed.

Escanaba, Mich., dispatch: Fire which started in a boarding house in the village of Nahma, thirty-five miles east of here, burned eighteen buildings before it was extinguished. The loss is estimated at $40,000, fully covered by insurance. The entire village is owned by the Baydeno Lumber company, whose head offices are in Chicago. The buildings burned were the company's boarding house, carpenter and blacksmith shops, saloon, four storehouses and the remainder residences of men employed in the company's mills. About 150 boarders had rooms in the boarding house and, with the additional destruction of ten residences, 200 people are homeless.

TRIO OF CONVICTS GETS AWAY

Gone From Marquette Penitentiary Six Hours Before Missed.

Marquette, Mich., special: At Marquette penitentiary during the dinner hour Wednesday three convicts escaped, getting a start of upward of six hours of the officers, their absence not being discovered until the count of prisoners was made in the evening. The men are Asa Taylor, George Wilson and George Taylor, all long-term men, sentenced from lower Michigan. Escape was made through the roof of the kitchen, the attic of which was reached through a gallery running from the chapel. From the roof the men lowered themselves to the ground by means of an electric wire and escaped to the woods.

ZIONISTS CONVERTS ARE LANDED

Sixty-Two Australians En Route to Join the Dowie Colony.

Victoria, B. C., special: The steamer Manuka has arrived from Australia, bringing 413 passengers, including several leading Australians on their way to St. Louis. In spite of the reception accorded John Alexander Dowie in Australian cities he met with some success, as sixty-two recently converted Zionists arrived on the Manuka from South Australia, bound for Zion City.

IOWA VETERANS IN TRAIN WRECK

Old Soldiers Returning From G. A. R. Encampment Are Seriously Injured.

TRAILER JUMPS THE TRACK

Car on Electric Line Is Turned Completely Over, the Passengers Being Thrown From the Windows—Culvert Saves Their Lives.

Mason City, Iowa, special: While returning from the last camp fire of the state G. A. R. encampment Thursday night twenty-seven persons, including several prominent Iowa politicians and a number of old soldiers, were injured in an accident on the Mason City & Clear Lake electric line south of Mason City. A trailer on a heavily loaded train jumped the track while going at a high rate of speed and turned completely over.

A culvert prevented the car from falling upon the passengers who had been thrown from the windows. This was all that prevented loss of life.

A. B. Funk of Spirit Lake, a leading Iowa politician, was on the car and received a slight injury to one leg. Tom Way of Mason City was bruised about the head. His brother, Stitise Way, tenth district committeeman, escaped without a scratch.

It is believed that Gov. Cummins was on the car, but as his name is not in the list of injured he probably sought to avoid the notoriety by seeking to conceal his identity.

Mrs. R. T. St. John, wife of the newly elected department commander, received painful injuries.

J. E. Blythe, a brother of J. W. Blythe, who was in the car ahead, was active in the work of rescue.

List of the Injured.

The most seriously injured are:

C. L. Jones, of Bristow; veteran; nose cut off; internally injured; unconscious.

Mrs. W. C. Wallace, of Mason City; injured internally; badly bruised.

Thomas Hamilton, of Garner; veteran; leg broken; pinned under car. Mrs. A. M. Fuller, Osage; shoulder and back injured; face cut; at hospital.

Mrs. R. T. St. John, wife of newly elected department commander, of Riceville; internally injured and badly shocked; at hospital.

W. C. Claussen, Mason City; head cut; slightly injured.

William Colson, Gov. Cummins' valet; slightly injured. Mrs. William Colson, bruised and face cut.

Mrs. D. E. Ross, Ackley; side of face and head cut.

A. Fomey, Clarksville; leg cut.

Mrs. Leo Vernon, Mason City; bad cut on head; back hurt.

Mrs. J. R. Fowler, Hampton; shoulder bruised and face cut.

Mrs. Fifer, Muscatine; bruised in chest.

Mrs. G. McCarty, Emmetsburg; side bruised.

Mrs. Duncan, Emmetsburg; side cut.

J. J. Kane, Emmetsburg; hand cut. C. V. Sufus, Bristow; head cut. The Rev. Nolte, Belmont; back injured.

T. A. Way, Mason City; head bruised.

A. B. Funk, Spirit Lake; leg injured. M. W. St. Clair, Mount Vernon; bad cut on neck.

J. J. Thompson, Sheffield; bruised on head and arm.

Mrs. Huffman, Waterloo; bruised in side and face.

Mr. Huffman, same injuries.

J. M. Ernst, Luana; leg hurt.

T. D. Wallace, Carlisle; knee cut.

F. E. Scoville, Carlisle, bruised. There is no explanation as to the cause of the accident. The injured were at once brought here. A number of the dignitaries in attendance at the encampment went on the train, but none was injured.

SHOOTS MATADOR IN THE HEART

Fatal Quarrel Among Bull Fighters Takes Place at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., special: Don Manuel Cerevera, a Spaniard, who was introduced last Sunday, when a bull fight was attempted and stopped by the authorities, as a favorite matador of the King of Spain, was shot through the heart and killed by Carleton Bass, known as "the American matador." Bass and five other bull fighters who witnessed the shooting were arrested. The trouble resulted from a quarrel regarding the bull-fight fiasco Sunday, when the authorities stopped the fight and the angry crowd burned the arena structure. Bass is 28 years old and came to this country from Ireland. He went to Mexico, where he gained a reputation throughout that country as a matador.

HALT OFFICER'S CHINESE WIFE

Mrs. Riggs of Afong Family Delayed by Port Authorities' Act.

San Francisco special: Mrs. Riggs, wife of a lieutenant of the United States, one of the beautiful Afong girls of Honolulu and a sister of the wife of Rear Admiral Whiting, was halted by port officers as she was about to leave the steamer Coptic on the ground that she is a Chinese woman and her landing was delayed until explanations were made. Mrs. Riggs was accompanied by a millionaire brother, Tony C. Afong, and a nephew, who is about to enter college in this country.

The male shirt waist had had its day. Men not only do not take kindly to the feminine garment, but they hail with delight every attempt to drive it out of existence. The order prohibiting the shirt waist man from parading himself at St. Louis exposition, is therefore pleasing to most men who like to wear men clothes.

The authorities at Washington have fixed a penalty of $200 on anyone taking mail out of the postoffice other than their own. All postmasters are liable to make mistakes and get the mail in wrong boxes, and the law says that the people must examine their mail before leaving the office, and if they have mail other than their own, it must be returned at once. That it is the fault of the postmaster makes no difference. This law includes newspapers as well as first-class mail.

If there are country merchants who regard advertising as a scheme to help the editor, they can not too soon disabuse their minds of such an impression. With rural delivery that enables department stores to send out tons of advertising matter, personal appeals and alluring prices, the home dealer must get a hump on himself or be trampled under foot in the march of business activity. The remedy is in constantly occupying space in the advertising columns of the home paper that goes right into the homes of those from whom patronage is solicited.

OBITUARY.

Louis Fredric Stahl, the son of Jacob F. and Christiana Stahl, was born in Germany, Apr. 28, 1845, and died at his home near Culver, June 8, 1904, aged 59 years, 1 month and 10 days. He was married to Anna Catherine Wolfram Jan. 1st, 1870. The fruits of this union were three sons and six daughters: Ida Sophia, Albert Fredric, Christiana Margareta, Henry Simon, Otto Jacob, Edna Catherine, Clara Regina, Osie Mary and Grace Martha. Three daughters have preceded him to the spirit world. He was consecrated to the Lord in holy baptism when yet in his infancy and at a proper age was received into full church membership by the rite of confirmation at the hands of Rev. Jesse Schlosser. In his church relations he was ever faithful, being entrusted with the sacred offices of the church, Sunday-school superintendent, Elder and Deacon. As a christian, he bore the banner of the Lord faithfully, loyally and graced the name of a christian. In his social life he will be remembered by the sympathies and kindnesses he was able to bestow. More than wealth or worldly station will the memory of his life be precious to his dear family and friends. He leaves to mourn his departure a faithful wife, three sons, three daughters, two brothers, three sisters and other relatives and friends. Peace to his ashes. Farewell, husband and father, farewell, brother, farewell.

Funeral service were conducted by Rev. S. E. Klopfenstein from Zion's Reformed church.

SMILING AT DEATH

JAPANESE SOLDIERS GO TO MEET THE FOE.

Transport Talks of Its Strange Freight in Wonders and Admiration—The Call of a Country Answered by Her Sons.

I was weary with carrying of strange freights, but these men who smile and who wish to die give me back my youth again.

Three months ago ladies and gentlemen in white, starched clothes sat on my decks under awnings and drank tall, cool drinks and said that the trip from Bangkok to Yokohama was hot, crowded and tiresome. Besides, the cinders from my funnel were extremely annoying.

To-day ten times as many passengers fill me from rigging to keel. They lie on the hurricane deck. They lie on the main deck. They lie on the deck below that. And some of them have no deck at all, but are dropped into casual cavities with only their smiles emergent. And they have no awnings. And they all stay exactly where they are. And they smile. And their tall, cool drinks are rice and dried fish. And they feel sorry for their friends who are not going to die.

So I circle out of Nagasaki in the dark of the morning and turn myself head on for Asia. What part of that continental whale will the swordfish pierce? First, I seem to be bearing down on Fusan. I leave Fusan to the right. I wriggle up the western coast of Korea to Chemulpo. My passengers smile simultaneously when they see Chemulpo. But they only see it. The next morning they see Weihaiwei on the other side of the Yellow sea. Their smile fades as their death is delayed. One more day, however, and they see Port Arthur itself. The editors in Valparaiso in South America think so. I do not. Big with the destiny of Asia, I steer along the Liatung peninsula toward Newchwang, and then in all the papers of the world I am reported to be off Vladivostok, 1,000 miles away. But wherever I am, and no one knows where I am, I am carrying to Asia the smile of Japan.

Will that smile be buried between Newchwang and Mukden? If it is, its successor is growing up among the chrysanthemums behind Kobe. But perhaps it will not be buried so soon. Perhaps it will be seen in Harbin, on the banks of the Sungari. Perhaps it will ascend the shallows of the Amur and the rapids of the Shilka and appear looking for death at Stretensk. Perhaps—and this is what my passengers say over their rice and their dried fish—perhaps death lies half way to Europe on the shores of Lake Baikal, almost under the eyes of the czar.

I am weary with the carrying of strange freights, but this is the strangest that I have known—the smile that will ransack a continent, prying into all its corners for the boon pointed out by the imperial edict: "The Mikado gave you your life; now he requires it back again."—Utica Globe.

QUEER BELIEFS OF BUSHMEN.

Their Notions About Many Simple Things Are Vague.

The bushmen of Africa have a quaint belief, according to a recent book, that the world was made by a spirit with his left hand—so unsatisfactory a piece of work is it. The notions about astronomy are many and curious, including the familiar one that the old moons are cut up into stars; "but," as an old man told Mr. Kidd, the author, "we are only black men, and know very little about these things." The natives are very respectable to snakes, which they believe to be a revived form of their ancestors' backbones. They are afraid to look into deep pools lest a monster should lay hold of their shadows and drag them into the water; and they dread being photographed, on the medieval ground that if any enemy gets hold of your portrait he can work you all sorts of harm through its agency. Of course there are witch doctors and rain doctors—most of whom, by the way, come to violent ends at the hands of a disappointed populace—and in Zululand the women sometimes bury their children up to their necks in the ground in the expectation that the heavens will melt with tenderness at the noise they make.

Costly Railroad Tunnel.

One million dollars a mile is the estimated cost of constructing a tunnel, four miles in length, on the line of the new Moffat railroad, from Denver, Colo., to Salt Lake City, Utah. Contractors hesitate about bidding for the work, because of the hardness of the granite through which the tunnel must be bored. Sticks of dynamite make little impression on the rock, and the railroad company itself, may have to build the tunnel.

Emperor Her Fifth Husband.

The Emperor Menelik of Abyssinia is the fifth husband of his wife, Taitu, who was once a great beauty. Her first husband was one of King Theodore's generals, her second she divorced, her third was killed by King John, her fourth was "removed" and in 1883 she married Menelik.

"I don't think we could keep house without Thedford's Black-Draught. We have used it in the family for over two years with the best of results. I have not had a doctor in the house for that length of time. It is a doctor in itself and always ready to make a person well and happy."—JAMES HALL, Jacksonville, Ill.

Because this great medicine relieves stomach pains, frees the constipated bowels and invigorates the torpid liver and weakens kidneys is necessary in the home where Thedford's Black-Draught is kept. Families living in the country, miles from any physician, have been kept in health for years with this medicine as their only doctor. Thedford's Black-Draught cures biliousness, dyspepsia, colds, chills and fever, bad blood, headaches, diarrhoea, constipation, colic and almost every other ailment because the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys so nearly control the health.

No Doctor

TABLET FROM HEROD'S TEMPLE

Pennsylvania Museum Has Cast Taken from Priceless Relic.

A cast of one of the inscriptions on Herod's Temple, at Jerusalem, warning Gentiles not to enter, has been recently added to the collection in the University of Pennsylvania Museum. The Jewish temple was sacred to the followers of that religion, and upon the big slab imbedded in the doorpost was written in Greek and in Latin: "No foreigners shall enter within the balustrade and inclosure around the temple. Whoever is caught will have himself to blame for his death, which will follow." It will be remembered that the Jews were much stirred up against Paul because he "brought Greeks into the temple and hath polluted the holy place." According to Josephus, these inscriptions were at every gate, but only one has been found. While Prof. Hilprecht was working in the Imperial museum at Constantinople as director he discovered the stone and had the cast made for the university.—Old Penn Weekly Review.

MADE THE ANIMALS HAPPY.

Sydney Smith's Invention of "Scratcher" Very Popular.

Sydney Smith's love of animals led him into ludicrous mistakes at times, as when, having given his pigs fermented grains, he found them all drunk and "grunting." "God Save the King" about the style, and when he allowed one of his quadrupeds to swallow a mighty dose of pills, boxes and all. But his "back scratcher" was a good idea. He had a theory that every animal delights to stretch its backbone, so he put up his "universal scratcher," a sharp-edged pole, resting on a high and a low post, adapted to every height, from a horse to a lamb. Before, all the gates used to be broken; after the erection of the scratcher he never sustained any damage and the only question was which was the more pleased with the invention, he or the animals as they titillated their hides.

TOOK THE JUDGE SERIOUSLY.

Incident Probably Cured Jurist of the Use of Sarcasm.

Lord Bowen, an English judge of renown, was trying a case of burglary with a Welsh jury, and it was argued for the defense that the prisoner was in the habit of walking on the house-tops at midnight and had merely taken off his boots and dropped into the house out of curiosity. In summing up Bowen said to the jury: "If you believe that the prisoner considers the house-tops the proper place for an evening stroll, that the desire to inspect the inside of the houses was but a natural and excusable curiosity, you will acquit him and will approve his conduct in showing so much consideration as to take off his boots for fear of disturbing the sleepers." The irony was lost on the jury; they took him seriously and acquitted the prisoner.

Korean Widows Never Remarry.

Good society in Korea has many curious customs. One of these is that widows must not remarry. No widow in the really "smart set" would ever dream of remarrying, however young she may be or however soon the death of her husband may have followed her wedding. Married life is by no means an unmixed blessing to the woman, so perhaps perpetual widowhood might not be objectionable if it were not for the necessity of perpetually wearing mourning for the departed. This means that during the whole of her life she is limited to blue, black and green as colors for her costumes.

MCDONALD FAMILY REUNION.

Over fifty of the descendants of Thomas and Samuel McDonald and Martha McDonald-Thomas, among the early pioneers of Marshall county, assembled at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McDonald, five miles southwest of Plymouth, on Sunday June 5, 1904.

It was an ideal summer day, and the tables spread under the umbrageous trees, fairly groined with the good things provided for the occasion. Many of the relatives who had never seen each other before met there for the first time. The McDonalds, with many others came to Marshall county, arriving in Union township, a short distance east of Maxinkuckee lake, July 26, 1836, six days after the county had been organized and the county seat located at Plymouth. They assisted in setting the machinery of local government in motion and lived in every way honorable and upright lives. All of the original Brownlees, Logans, Dicksons, Thompsons and McDonalds—with the exception of Mrs. Martha McDonald-Thompson—have passed over that "Undiscovered country from whose bourne no traveler has ever returned." They were married and inter-married in so many devious ways that the most expert genealogist has never been able to decipher the relationship.

After the sumptuous dinner was disposed of, all joined in singing

"Should old acquaintance be forgot,
And never brought to mind,
Should old acquaintance be forgot,
In days of auld lang syne."

Many other songs appropriate to the occasion were sung with the spirit and the undertaking, after which short talks were made by Daniel McDonald and W. D. Thompson in regard to the early history of the family. Mr. Thompson related an interesting occurrence that happened in the life of his grand-father Thompson about a hundred years ago. His great-grand-father and his son had come down the Ohio river from Pittsburg, locating temporarily in Kentucky. In one of their exploring expeditions, his great-grand-father's son had promised to meet him at a designated time and place on the Indian side of the river. When he arrived his father was not there, but was informed that an hour or two before that a man on horse back had gone down the river and, as he had not been seen since, it was thought that he might be drowned, suspecting that such was the case, at once began searching the river for him and two hours later found him some distance down the river, dead. He had on his person a silver watch which was still running and which some fifty years ago was given to Mr. Thompson who still retains it in a good state of preservation as a valuable heirloom of the family. Many other interesting episodes were related, but space will not allow their repetition in this connection.

An organization was effected by the election of Thomas McDonald president; Mrs. Jane Mosher and Mrs. Rebecca Osborn, vice presidents, and John McDonald secretary. The object is for the purpose of providing for the holding of annual reunions.

NOT YET LOCATED.

Rochester Sentinel: "The Wabash-Rochester electric line power plant has got away from Akron again. It was reported that Akron had put up enough money to secure the location a jollifying mood when suddenly misunderstanding arose between the plant and the citizens were in town and the company.

From reliable sources it is learned that the company prefers Rochester as the point of location for the power house and car barns, as the company will eventually branch from here to Warsaw, Logansport, South Bend and Maxinkuckee Lake, and that reasonable liberality on the part of local business men would readily bring the headquarters of the road with the shops and power station to Rochester.

Whips from a Tree.

In the island of Jamaica there grows a tree with the botanic name Daphne Lagetto, from the branches of which native workmen make peculiarly strong and excellent whips, which have the handle and lash all in one piece. The handle consists of a part of the stem retaining the bark. For the lash the stem is deprived of bark and then split into strips, which are woven together in a flexible cord six feet or seven feet long. The proper taper is afforded by detaching more and more of the strips as the end of the lash is approached.

Startling Evidence.

Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in, declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds to be unequalled. A recent expression from T. J. McFarland Benterville, Va. serves as example. He writes: "I had Bronchitis for three years and doctor'd all the time with out being benefited. Then I began taking D. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles wholly cured me." Equally effective in curing all Lung and Throat troubles, Consumption, Pneumonia and Grip. Guaranteed by T. E. Slattery Druggist. Trial bottles free, regular sizes 50c. and $1.00.

Miss M. Cartledge gives some helpful advice to young girls. Her letter is but one of thousands which prove that nothing is so helpful to young girls who are just arriving at the period of womanhood as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly, for it is the only medicine I ever tried which cured me. I suffered much from my first menstrual period, I felt so weak and dizzy at times I could not pursue my studies with the usual interest. My thoughts became sluggish, I had headaches, backaches and sinking spells, also pains in the back and lower limbs. In fact, I was sick all over. "Finally, after many other remedies had been tried, we were advised to get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am pleased to say that after taking it only two weeks, a wonderful change for the better took place, and in a short time I was in perfect health. I felt buoyant, full of life, and found all work a pastime. I am indeed glad to tell my experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for it made a different girl of me. Yours very truly, Miss M. CARTLEDGE, 533 Whitehall St., Atlanta, Ga."—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

"IN AS MUCH." Is What He said. "In a low whisper, looking up, she said, 'I am so hungry—do not turn away. Give me one penny, please, to buy some bread. For I have eaten nothing all this day.' "The upturned face and whisper soft and low. Pleaded with a power that would not be denied. And as she spoke, her pale lips trembling so, Crush'd in an instant all my selfish pride. "She sits beside me, in these happier years. With angel face, tho' still a child in form. And when she prays, I hear thro' grateful tears. Her thanks to Him who shelters from the storm."

Twenty-one years ago three little children were suddenly bereft of father and mother—they were friendless and homeless; but it was only one of the many similar instances happening every day—only three little children left friendless and homeless; that was all. But it was a crucial moment in at least one life. Rev. J. G. Lemen was at that time pastor of a large church in Council Bluffs, Ia. This man, whose heart was large enough to find a place for every unfortunate one, took these children into his own home, where they shared the same loving, tender care that was bestowed upon his own little ones. It was not long before he learned of other children who had been left to the cold mercies of a selfish world. Moved with compassion, he took these, also, to his already overcrowded home. Then came the test; money was needed. He had a few thousand dollars which he had saved up for a rainy day. He little knew what the Master had in store for him; but he was obedient and when the news came that other little ones had been left alone, fatherless and motherless, with no one to care for them, and the command came to "take these also, to the ordinary man, with his house filled to overflowing and a large congregation looking to him, to be fed spiritually, it would have seemed like an impossibility; not so, however, with this man; it was enough for him to know that his Master approved of it and bid him to do it. As he stepped out upon his promises and obeyed the command to go forward, the way opened before him, and when he had exhausted his own competency, never doubting but that a way would be opened to supply their needs, He who owns the cattle upon a thousand hills moved upon the hearts of His faithful subjects to send of their substance that these little homeless ones might be cared for. Larger quarters became necessary, and they were secured. Other children were left homeless, and found under his roof not only shelter from the storm, but a loving, tender father, as all at the Home delight to call him, and more than this in his sainted wife, now deceased who presided over the household affairs and was continually looking after their welfare.

From a small beginning, twenty-one years ago, the Christian Home has grown until now about two hundred and fifteen children are cared for there, and two thousand have been placed in good Christian families. The real estate consists of about twenty-five cottages and other buildings, all owned by an organization which has been formed through the efforts of Mr. Lemen with a view of making it a permanent organization. Mr. and Mrs. Lemen have been blessed with four lovely children—three sons and one daughter. All of them take great delight in the work of the Home, and on them, no doubt, the mantle of their father and mother will fall. The oldest son is giving his entire life to this work also.

The scrupulous neatness and order that pervades the entire institution, the loving salutation of "Hello, papa!" that rings out from every quarter as he passes about the grounds, and the remarkable executive ability he displays in all the management of the affairs of the Home, are sufficient to impress every visitor that it is no ordinary man who has been called to this great and noble work. Children are taken here from any part of the globe, and have the best possible care and training. You, my readers, wherever you may be, may have a part in this grand work. It is a labor of love in behalf of all homeless, suffering children everywhere. The children are frequently adopted by Christian people, but are never allowed to go from the Home excepting into Christian families who are properly vouched for. The Christian Home is non-sectarian, but is heartily indorsed and supported by all denominations. It takes children from every state and it is not a local affair, but belongs to the world. We have given this brief description of the Christian Home with the hope that all who read it will become interested in its welfare. If you have money which the Master desires you to use for such purposes, send it to this Home. There is no institution that is more worthy of your gift than this.

They publish a valuable paper called the Word and the Way; subscription price, only twenty-five cents per year. We assure you that if you will subscribe for it, you will get more than your money's worth, and we hope you will forward at once twenty-five cents or $1 for yourself and three friends. Volumes might be written about this institution did space permit. For further information and proper description of the work, address Christian Home, Council Bluffs, Ia. A Friend of Homeless Children.

MEN WHO BURN MONEY. Smokers Who Use $1 and $2 Cigars Not Uncommon. "There are not many men who smoke cigars at $2 each," said the cigar man in a downtown restaurant much patronized by customers who do not have to worry about the cost of their luncheon; "but we have to keep them in stock. When they are called for it is usually by a couple of old chums who are lunching together after a long parting, who are feeling good, and who want a heavy smoke after a liberal meal. As a matter of fact, most men think they are burning money when they pay $1 for a cigar. Sixty cents for one cigar, and from that down to three for 50 cents is considered about the right thing. We sell a good many cigars at 35 cents each, or three for $1. In fact, they are the standard thing in high-priced cigars. Occasionally a customer will buy a box of two-dollar cigars, or even more expensive than that, for a birthday present, or to send to some friend going to Europe. These cigars are made only by skilled workmen and represent the highest perfection in cigarmaking."—New York Times.

Old Soldier's Story. Sonoma, Mich., June 13—That even in actual warfare disease is more terrible than bullets is the experience of Delos Hutchins of this place. Mr. Hutchins as a Union soldier saw three years of service under Butler Barke in the Louisiana swamps, and as a result got crippled with rheumatism so that his hands and feet got all twisted out of shape, and how he suffered only a rheumatic will ever know. For twenty-five years he was in misery, then one lucky day his druggist advised him to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. Of the result Mr. Hutchins says: "The first two boxes did not help me much, but I got two more, and before I got them used up I was a great deal better. I kept on taking them and now my pains are all gone and I feel better than I have in years. I know Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure rheumatism."

To the housewife who has not yet become acquainted with the new things of everyday use in the market and who is reasonably satisfied with the old, we would suggest that a trial of Defiance Cold Water Starch be made at once. Not alone because it is guaranteed by the manufacturers to be superior to any other brand, but because each 10c package contains 16 ozs., while all the other kinds contain but 12 ozs. It is safe to say that the lady who once uses Defiance Starch will use no other. Quality and quantity must win.

Chances in Journalism. M. Doumer, who is looked upon as France's coming man, and who, it is reported, may be the next premier if he wishes, is at present the leader in the race for the presidency of the republic. He is a journalist, but began life as a locksmith. "Journalism," he says, "leads to everything, provided one does not stick to it too long."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. # CATARRH IS THE CAUSE OF MOST KIDNEY DISEASES.

PE-RU-NA CURES CATARRH.

Samuel R. Sprecher, Junior Beadle Court Angelina, 3,422 I. O. O. F., 205 New High St., Los Angeles, Cal., writes: "I came here a few years ago suffering with catarrh of the kidneys, in search of health. I thought the climate would cure me, but found I was mistaken. But what the climate could not do Peruna could and did do. Seven weeks' trial convinced me that I had the right medicine, and I was then a well man. I know of at least twenty friends and members of the lodge to which I belong who have been cured of catarrh, bladder and kidney trouble through the use of Peruna, and it has a host of friends in this city." SAMUEL R. SPEECHER.

Catarrh of the Kidneys a Common Disease—Kidney Trouble Often Fails to Be Regarded as Catarrh by Physicians.

Catarrh of the kidneys is very common indeed. It is a pity this fact is not better known to the physicians as well as the people.

People have kidney disease. They take some diuretic, hoping to get better. They never once think of catarrh. Kidney disease and catarrh are seldom associated in the minds of the people, and, alas, it is not very often associated in the minds of the physicians. Too few physicians recognize catarrh of the kidneys. They doctor for something else. They try this remedy and that remedy. The trouble may be catarrh all the time. A few bottles of Peruna would cure them.

Pe-ru-na Removes the Cause of the Kidney Trouble.

Peruna strikes at the very centre of the difficulty, by eradicating the catarrh from the kidneys. Catarrh is the cause of kidney difficulty. Remove the cause and you remove the effect. With unerring accuracy Peruna goes right to the spot. The kidneys are soon doing their work with perfect regularity.

Thousands of Testimonials.

Thousands of testimonials from people who have had kidney disease which had gone beyond the control of the physician are received by Dr. Hartman every year, giving Peruna the whole praise for marvelous cures.

Pe-ru-na Cures Kidney Disease. Peruna cures kidney disease. The reason it cures kidney disease is because it cures catarrh. Catarrh of the kidneys is the cause of most kidney disease. Peruna cures catarrh wherever it happens to be located. It rarely fails.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Resolutions of the Consistory of Grace Reformed Church.

Whereas, in the Providence of God our Father the soul of our beloved brother Elder Lewis Fred-ric Stahl has been removed from our community and church;

Be it resolved that we bow in humble submission to the Divine will;

That we express our deep sorrow at the loss of an exemplary christian man. One who was always faithful to congregation, family and friends, to be depended on at any time to perform his whole duty to his brotherhood and to his God;

Be it resolved that we express our heart felt sympathy to the wife and family at their loss and commend them to the God whom husband and father so faithfully served. We believe that our loss is his eternal gain.
