An Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Osborne entertained Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Thompson, Miss Olive Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Willey, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Underwood and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McDonald Tuesday. A number of friends and relatives called in the afternoon, among them being Mrs. Jane Mosher and Miss Flora Morris. July 26th, being the anniversary of the arrival of the Thompson family upon the banks of Maxinkuckee, they have established a custom of visiting the lake and old homestead at that time.

Mr. Osborne, Mr. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Willey spent the forenoon in driving along the lake front. Many pleasant as well as many painful incidents of pioneer life were brought to mind. They returned with sharpened appetites to join the others in doing justice to the bounteous dinner prepared by Mrs. Osborn. A very different scene greeted the weary pilgrims sixty-eight years ago. Instead of covered carriages laden with produce for the summer visitors that now line the lake, statuesque Indians peered from behind the poplars. Instead of the reveille the song of the mosquito, the hiss of the rattle snake and the howl of the wolf was heard, even from the marshland since converted into the grounds of the Military Academy. Instead of the white winged cutter and commodious steamers of today, only the Indians log canoe rippled the surface of this, the most beautiful of lakes.

A NEW USE FOR MUSIC.

An Exchange says that perhaps the strangest use to which music can be put is to stop the flow from a wound. An army doctor noticed that when a wounded soldier was taken within hearing distance of music, hemorrhage was greatly reduced or stopped. Neither he or others, who confirmed his observations, could understand how this phenomenon was brought about, but it is now believed that the vibration of the air produce by the music causes the patient to become faint, in which case the action of the heart is so considerably lessened that the over flow of the blood is reduced. Of course music makes anyone faint, and in some cases where the player is a new beginner and lives close to you, its effects are more deadly.

Excursions.

SATURDAY.

Last Saturday the Cincinnati, Chicago & Louisville R. R. ran an excursion in here. The people came mostly from Marion and Muncie. There were five coaches with about 400 people.

SUNDAY.

The train from the north brought in about 400 people Sunday. The regular excursion from the south carried eleven coaches well filled. The crowd, considering the size, was the most orderly that has been in this season. The Maxinkuckee band furnished music on the Nees-waugh-gee, and the Smith-Butler orchestra was on the Peerless.

TUESDAY.

The Methodist Sunday School picnic from Plymouth, Tuesday, brought in several hundred people. Special cutter drills were given at the C. S. N. S. for them. A number stayed over to hear the band concert in the evening.

WEDNESDAY.

A crowd of about 75 citizens of Argos—members of the M. E. Sunday-School, enjoyed a picnic here last Wednesday.

THE WORLD'S FAIR TRIP.

Arrangements Completed For The School.

Major Giguilliat returned Thursday morning from St. Louis after having made provisions for the school's visit to the Exposition. These arrangements surpass in attractiveness and completeness even the most sanguine expectations and there will be little to suggest which will add to the comfort and enjoyment of the outing.

Those who went with the winter school need expect no such a repetition of events as to produce any feeling of monotony, while those who make the trip for the first time may look for nothing but the most pleasing impressions. It was feared that the exposed position and variety of occupants of the barracks occupied before would combine to make these lack coolness and cleanliness, so a change of location was deemed advisable. The camp occupied by the West Point cadets, provided with cinder streets and shower baths and situated in a charming grove near station 13 on the intra-mural is by all odds the choice site for an encampment, and that is the location secured. Tent floors are already in place and the authorities have agreed to provide excellent wall tents with a fly and comfortable camp cots for the accommodation of the school. It only remains to carry blankets and the sleeping outfit will be complete. The battalion will have their meals in the second story of the East pavilion of Festival hall which is under the supervision of Mrs. S. T. Rorer of Cook Book fame, whose name is a guarantee that the food will be all that is desired in quality and savoriness. From the windows of the dining room, situated above the cascades, a most charming view of the grounds is offered through windows open to all the winds of heaven.

When the Electric Concession Co., the concessionaires of all rights to the lagoons, was approached on the subject of securing privileges for the cutter drills, the secretary replied that the manager, who alone could make grant, was in Paris. This somewhat startled the envoys as the time was rather short for negotiation across the Atlantic, but when it appeared that Paris was no farther than the Pike they took heart, and soon arrangements were made for the naval manoeuvres on condition that no passengers be carried on the cutters.

The battalion leaves Culver Friday afternoon, Aug. 12th, arriving at the Wabash station Saturday morning marching thence to the camp grounds.

The Fair has changed so much in appearance since May, and the improvements have been so vast that even to those making the trip a second time there will be hundreds of new and beautiful sights.

Gloomy For Boom Town.

The big steel industries at Indiana Harbor and East Chicago shut down indefinitely and the outlook is decidedly gloomy for both towns. The immediate cause of the shutdown is the dullness of the steel industry, though other reasons are assigned. There is not a mill running in either East Chicago or Indiana Harbor now.

Col. Josiah Farrar and wife, of Peru, and their daughter, Mrs. Dougherty and two children, of Wabash, have opened their cottage at the south end of the lake for the remainder of the summer.

Fred Cook made a business trip to Logansport Wednesday.

GEORGIA LAWMAKERS IN FISTIC ENCOUNTER

Two Members of the Legislature Knock Each Other Down and Pistoals Are Talked Of.

Atlanta, Ga., dispatch: A duel may follow an encounter between two members of the Georgia legislature in representative hall. The two men, Steed and Buchanan, have had trouble for several days over a pending bill, and the trouble culminated when Buchanan called Steed a "knave and a liar."

Steed instantly seized a big ink well and hurled it at Buchanan. The ink well caught Buchanan squarely in the face, cutting a deep gash and almost knocking him down. Buchanan then knocked Steed down with a copy of the revised statutes.

A rough and tumble fight followed, in which other legislators joined. Then some cried: "He's going to shoot," and the crowd scattered.

Steed and Buchanan are in the hands of their friends and it is said unless an adjustment is reached there will be a duel or a street fight.

MRS. NYE ACCUSES A BANKER

Widow of the Famous Humorist Loses All Her Property.

Charlotte, N. C., dispatch: Mrs. E. W. Nye, widow of the humorist and who resides at Arden, N. C., was on the witness stand in the Breeze trial. Mrs. Nye told of intrusting her property and all the money she possessed, $7,500, to the keeping of Mr. Breeze and said she lost it all when the First National bank, of which he was president, collapsed. After the death of her husband she desired to take her children on a trip to Europe and before leaving Asheville she gave Breeze her papers and documents and instructed him to invest her money. Mrs. Nye also said she owned property in New York which was left in charge of Breeze, and lost this also. Mr. Breeze testified that while it was true he had charge of Mrs. Nye's papers he was in no wise responsible for the loss of her property.

HOME RULE FOR TRANSVAAL

Representative Institutions to Take Place of Present System.

London, cablegram: During the discussion of South African affairs in the house of commons Colonial Secretary Lytton announced that the government intended next year to give the Transvaal representative institutions, by substituting elected for nominated members of the legislative council.

Joseph Chamberlain, defending the introduction of Chinese labor into the Transvaal, which policy was inaugurated while he was colonial secretary, contended that white laborers would not work side by side with black laborers on equal terms, and he thought the white men were right. He added: "As the dominant race, if we admitted equality with inferior races, we would lose the power which gave us our dominance."

PUNISH PIRATE FISHERMEN

Three Men Must Pass 166 Days in Jail for Killing 166 of Finny Tribe.

Johnstown, Pa., dispatch: Justice David Gildner at Rockwood, Somerset county, has just imposed what is probably the heaviest fines ever made under the present fish laws of the state upon Herman Fogle, Austin Schrock and Madison Romesberg. The men were convicted of catching 166 carp and catfish by building a fence across Buffalo creek, driving the fish into wire pens and killing them with clubs and then selling them at 10 cents per pound. The fine was $10 for each fish, or a total of $1,660, in lieu of which they must serve 166 days in jail. The men had caught thousands of fish and practically cleaned the stream, but proof applied only to 166. The state fish commissioner has been summoned to investigate.

HOLDS BOUCK'S WILL IS VALID

Oshkosh Judge Decides That Undue Influence Claim Is Baseless.

Oshkosh, Wis., special: In the contest of the will of Col. Gabriel Bouck Judge C. D. Cleveland of the probate court decided that the evidence did not show that any undue influence had been exerted on the decedent by any of his relatives or anyone else and that the will which he drew as his last testament was that which expressed his wishes. The judge admitted the will to probate. Attorney George Hilton was named as executor without bonds.

CARRIE NATION IS ASSAULTED

Kentucky Saloonkeeper Strikes Her Over Head With a Chair.

Elizabethtown, Ky., dispatch: Carrie Nation was assaulted by J. R. Neighbors, a saloonkeeper. While en route to a lecture hall she was ordered out of Neighbors' saloon. On returning she stopped in front of the saloon and told Neighbors he was engaged in a dirty business. Neighbors picked up a chair and struck Mrs. Nation twice, once over the head and once over the shoulders. She bled freely on the pavement from the wound on her head.

Great Production of Copper.

Boston, Mass., dispatch: The annual report of the Calumet and Hecla Mining company for the year ended April 30 shows the surplus of funds $6,583,039, against $6,557,023 last year. During the year 76,620,290 pounds of copper were produced.

FORCE THE RUSSIAN LINE

Gen. Kuroki's Army Pierces Enemy's Left and Pushes on to Mukden—Anglo-Russian War Feared in Many Quarters.

According to a special dispatch to London from Moscow, the Russky Listok of that city confirms the Associated Press report from Liaoyang that the Japanese have broken through the Russian left flank and are marching on Mukden.

A Russian correspondent of the Daily Telegraph at Mukden, under date of July 19, says:

"A fierce fight has been raging during the last two days and continues. The Japanese, who are in superior strength, attacked with great daring and coolness.

"The Russians are contesting the ground splendidly. The Japanese flanking movements to the east are the real cause of our retirement. Heavy losses have been sustained. The Japanese artillery again has shown its superiority."

ity of the country to respond to the severe demands of the present war is indicated.

Kuroki Takes Kiaotung.

Gen. Kuroki, after a severe fight, occupied Kiaotung July 19. The place had been fortified by the Russians, who defended it stoutly. In the fighting Gen. Kuroki's troops drove the Russians from their strongly fortified position on the Chi river, which is northwest of Motien pass and east of Anping, inflicting upon the enemy more serious losses than they sustained themselves. The fight began on the 18th and ended on the 19th. The Japanese lost 424 men in killed and wounded. The Russian losses are estimated at 1,000.

Gen. Kuroki began his advance early in the morning of the 18th. He unengagement the Japanese had seventeen men wounded.

Russians in Bad Shape.

As a result of five days' activity the Japanese have secured much better strategic lines from their advance and the Russians have lost their best defensive positions both on the Liaoyang and Mukden roads.

Heavy rains have recommenced.

British Steamer Released.

The steamer Malacca is at Suda bay, Island of Crete, where, under the agreement reached between Great Britain and Russia, she will be perfunctorily inspected jointly by the consuls of the two countries and released, together with her cargo, unless palpable contraband of war is found. In the latter case only the contraband will be held. British government stores on board the vessel will not be examined.

The Russian reply to the British protest was handed to Ambassador Harding July 22. Russia agrees that the Malacca shall not be brought before a prize court and undertakes that no similar incident shall occur in the future.

A claim for damages as a result of delaying the steamer will be presented in due course of time through the British embassy.

In usually well-informed quarters the belief is expressed that the recall of the volunteer fleet steamers has been ordered.

Attack Port Arthur.

Thirty Chinese refugees who have arrived at Chefoo from Port Arthur report that the Japanese made another torpedo attack on the Port Arthur fleet last Thursday night. The stories of the refugees vary in detail. Some state that the Japanese were repulsed with a loss of three torpedo boats, while others declare that the movement was merely an attempt which failed owing to the vigilance of the Russian searchlights, and that the Japanese escaped unhurt.

British Steamer Sunk.

A letter was received at Tientsin from Newchwang saying the commander of a Russian torpedo boat had reported that while in the Gulf of Pechili he had accidentally torpedoed a British steamer. It is surmised here that the vessel referred to is the Hipsang, now five days overdue from Newchwang. The Hipsang belongs to the Indo-China Navigation company.

Russians Patrol Sea.

The Russian volunteer fleet vessels continue to patrol the Red sea. They did not attempt to interfere with the Peninsular and Oriental steamer Palawan. Steamers of the French line are allowed to pass unchallenged.

Japanese Troops Near the Russian Supply Base.

Tien-Tsin cable: A report from New-Chwang also states that Saturday's battle was at Ta-Hsul-Tong, six miles distant, and that the Japanese were successful. The Russian losses are reported to have been 700.

The Japanese are slowly nearing New-Chwang. Many Chinese refugees arriving at New-Chwang have reported that nine Japanese gunboats from Port Arthur have arrived at Tah-Ting-Shan.

Closes the Dardanelles to the Boats of Russia.

Constantinople special: It is stated that as a result of the protests made by Sir Nicholas O'Connor, the British ambassador, Tewfik Pasha, the Turkish foreign minister has given the necessary orders to prevent any attempt which may be made to take the Peninsular and Oriental

M.A.P. OF PORTION OF MANCHURIA, SHOWING APPROXIMATE POSITIONS OF THE OPPOSING ARMIES AND OF MOTIEN PASS.

The scene of the fighting is not mentioned by the correspondent.

Vladivostok Fleet Seen.

A fisherman reports to Tokio that the Vladivostok squadron was off Miyako July 21, going in a southeasterly direction at a speed of ten knots. If this course and speed is maintained the squadron will soon be off Yokohama. The eastern coast of Japan is shrouded in fog. Shipping has been suspended, awaiting the location of the Russian fleet.

Russians Cut Up Outpost.

Gen. Kuropatkin in a dispatch to the czar dated July 20 says there has been no particular change in his sphere of operations.

"Last night," the dispatch says, "our sharpshooters and Cossacks surprised a Japanese outpost at the village of Khudanzan, ten miles south-east of Ikhavuan. Twenty-one of the Japanese were bayoneted. Those who escaped were fired upon by mistake by the Japanese who came to their assistance."

The most sensational piece of news from the front is the dispatch from Liaoyang reporting persistent rumors that the Japanese have broken through the Russian left wing and are marching upon Mukden.

The report received from Gen. Kuropatkin bearing the same date says there has been no change of importance in the situation, and a close study of the dates shows that the rumor probably refers to the Japanese advance against Gen. Rennenkampf on the northern Samatza-Liaoyang road, when they drove the Russians back as far as Houtsiatze, twenty-six miles east of Liaoyang.

Further but incomplete details of Gen. Keller's attack at Motien pass July 17 show that the fight lasted all day and was a bloody affair. The Sevsky regiment rushed eight of the Japanese guns with the bayonet, but later were compelled to abandon them.

A Russian detachment which crossed the Liank river at dawn on the opening of the fight discovered a Japanese detachment under a hill dressed in the Russian uniform and hailed the soldiers in Russian as friends, but when the Russians got within easy range the Japanese opened fire.

Armies Now Are Close.

Lieut. Ziegler has returned to Tatchekiao from a reconnaissance, bringing exact information regarding the Japanese forces. The Japanese have been inactive for several days. Less than four miles separate the outposts. A constant exchange of shots is taking place.

Vladivostok Is Prepared.

Work on the fortifications at Vladivostok is being actively pushed and everything is in a state of preparedness. The troops are anxiously awaiting the appearance of the Japanese. Otherwise all is quiet.

War Costs Japan $360,000,000.

According to an official statement just received by the Japanese legation at Washington, Japan's war account up to this time aggregates $360,000,000. The publication, printed in English, contains a mass of statistical information touching Japanese resources that is without parallel in corresponding publications in this or any European country. The financial abil-covered and followed the enemy along the Chi river. The Russians seemed to be retiring to the northward, when suddenly two battalions with eight guns turned and attacked the Japanese advance guard vigorously. At this point the Japanese suffered before relief came, one company losing all its officers.

At a late hour in the afternoon the Russian position was developed. They occupied an eminence on the banks of the Chi. This river guarded their left and high precipices protected the Russians on the right. The only approach to their position was through a narrow defile. The fighting continued until dark, when the Japanese forces bivouacked. The Russians made two counter attacks, but were repulsed in each case.

The Japanese renewed the attack at midnight, posting their artillery in the valley below and on high ground to the south of the Russian position. The main Japanese body was assigned to attack the Russian center; a small detachment was sent toward the right flank and another to watch the enemy's left flank. After these positions had been taken the fighting ceased for a time, but it was resumed at dawn.

The Russians had thirty-two guns in action, and they vigorously shelled the Japanese. To this fire the Japanese replied, and the bombardment lasted for four hours.

During this time the Japanese infantry moved forward, the flankers had succeeded in scaling the heights on the Russian right by 3 o'clock in the afternoon, at which hour the main force was ordered to storm the Russian center. The Japanese artillery protected this movement splendidly, but the infantry met with a severe fire and lost heavily in gaining the heights.

The final successful charge was delivered at 5:30 in the afternoon. The Japanese succeeded in partially cutting off the Russian retreat and this soon became a rout. The enemy went in two directions, to the northward and to the eastward.

The Russian forces engaged included, in addition to the artillery, seven battalions of infantry and a regiment of Cossacks. The enemy left 131 dead and 300 rifles on the field. Prisoners taken estimated the Russian losses at 1,000. The Japanese lost one officer and fifty-four men killed and eighteen officers and 351 men wounded.

On July 19 Japanese forces attacked a battalion of infantry and a thousand cavalry who occupied Chechiato, to the northward of Shaotientszu. After four hours of fighting the Russians retired across the Taitsu river. In this steamer Malacca or the Russian volunteer fleet steamers St. Petersburg and Smolensk through the Dardanelles into the Black sea.

British War Ships Sail.

The British cruisers Leander and Lancaster, accompanied by three torpedo boat destroyers, left Malta to rejoin the Mediterranean squadron. The British cruiser Pyramos, the torpedo depot ship Vulcan and the torpedo gunboats Speedy and Harrier sailed to join the fleet.

Heavy Losses on Both Sides.

In the battle which took place July 20 at Chantau, the Japanese casualties numbered 424, including sixteen officers. Major Hiraoka, who was Japan's military attache in the South African war, was among the killed. The Russians lost more than 1,000 in killed and wounded and forty-seven were taken prisoners.

Intelligent Customs Collector.

Robert B. Armstrong, assistant secretary of the treasury, relates that a newly appointed collector in one of the interior ports had occasion recently to pass upon the appraisal of a statue of the Venus de Milo imported for a local magnate. The collector ordered the case opened, found the statue was without arms and entered upon his returns "of no commercial value; damaged in importation."

A Trip to Colorado, Utah or California is not complete unless it embraces the most beautiful resorts and grand scenery in Colorado, which are found on the Colorado Midland Railway, the highest standard gauge line in the world. Exceptionally low summer round trip rates to Colorado interior state points, Utah, California and the Northwest are offered by this line. For information address Mr. C. H. The tramp organist and hymn writer, Victor Benke, who was burned in New York a few days ago, was the author of "Abide in Me," "Just for Today" and "Peace, Be Still."

In the July "Craftsman" Irene Sargent takes up the subject of "Art in the City," giving an article, "Municipal Art from the Foreign Point of View."

The Ward of King Canute

A Romance of the Danish Conquest.

By OTTILIE A. LILJENCRANTZ, author of The Thrill of Lief the Lucky.

Copyright, 1933, by A. C. McCLURG & CO.

CHAPTER V.—Continued.

For such a stroke there was no parry. Canute threw his shield before him, but the blade cleft wood and iron and golden plating like parchment, and falling on the horse's neck, bit it to the bone. Reeling and plunging with pain, the animal crashed into those behind him, missed his footing and fell, entangling his rider in the trappings. Bending over him, the Ironside struck again.

But the son of Lodbrok had still his left arm. Bearing his shield, it shot out over the body of his king. The falling brand bit this screen also, and lopped off the hand that held it, but the respite was sufficient. In a flash Canute was on his feet, both hands grasping the hilt of his high-flung sword.

It was a mighty blow, but it fell harmless. A sudden surge in the tide of struggling bodies swept the Ironsides out of reach and engulfed him in a whirlpool of Danish swords. He laid about him like mad, and was like to have cleared a passage back, when a second wave carried him completely from view.

Canute cursed at the anxious faces that surrounded him. "What means it, this swaying? Who are flying?" "The English!" bellowed Rothgar. "The English are flying—Edmund's head! Yonder!"

Frode's daughter had Viking blood, but she hid her face with a cry. There it was, high upon a spear-point, dripping, ghastly. Could the sun shine upon such a thing?

To stare before him, Rothgar let the blood pour unheeded from his wounded arm. "Yonder Edmund rides now!" he gasped. "You can tell him by his size—Yonder! Now he is tearing off his helmet—"

"Her wide bright eyes sought his, with the terror of a snared bird."

Nor was he mistaken; within spear-throw the mighty frame of the Ironside towered above his struggling guard. As he bared his head, they could even distinguish his face with its large elegantly-formed features and Ethelred's prominent chin. Brandishing his sword, shouting words of reassurance, exposing his person without a thought of the darts aimed at him, he was making a heroic effort to check the rush of his panic-stricken host.

Randall stared about her, doubting her senses. But light had begun to dawn on Canute. He wheeled sharply, as Thorkei pushed his horse to their sides.

"Whose head was that?" he demanded.

"Thorkei's face was a lineless mask. 'I believe his name was Osmaer,' he answered without emotion. 'It was unheard-of good fortune that he should be so like Edmund in looks.'"

The young king's face was suffused with bitterness. "Good fortune!" he cried sharply. "Good fortune! Am I a fool or a coward that I am never to win except by craft or good fortune? Had you let me alone—"

But what else he said Randall never knew. Some unseen obstacle turned in their direction the stream of rushing horsemen. In an instant the torrent had caught them in its whirling eddies, and they were so many separate atoms borne along on the flood. To hold back was to be thrown down; to fall was to be trampled into rags. The battle had changed into a hunt.

Thundering hoof-beats, crashing blows, shrieks and groans and falling bodies—a sense of being caught in a wolf pack took possession of the girl; and the feeling grew with every side-long glance she had of the savage, sweating, dust-grimed faces, in their jungles of blood-clotted hair. The battle-madness was upon them, and they were no longer men, but beasts of prey. Amid the chaos of her mind, a new idea shaped itself like a new world. If she could but work her way to the edge of the herd, she might escape down one of those green aisles opening before them.

A little opening showed on her right. Though she could not see the ground before her, she took the risk and swung her horse into the breach. His forefeet came down upon the body of a fallen man, but it was too late to draw back. The man turned over with a yell, and used his one unbroken arm to thrust upward his broken sword. The blade cut her leg to the bone, and she shrieked with pain; but her startled horse had no thought of stopping. Making his way with plunges and leaps, he carried her out of the press sooner than she could have guided him out. Once on the edge, he broke into a run. The agony of the shaken wound was unbearable. Shrieking and moaning, she twisted her hands in the lines and tried to stop him. But her strength was ebbing from her with her blood. By and by she dropped the rein altogether and clung to the saddle-bow.

They reached the wood at last, cool and sweet, and hushed in holy peace. The frantic horse plunged into one of the arching lanes, and the din of the hunt died behind her; silence fell like a curtain at their heels; even the thudding hoof-beats were softened on the leafy ground. Randall lay along the horse's neck now, and her senses had begun to slip away from her like the tide from the shore. Somewhere, there was the soft thud of a falling body; then the cool greenness closed around her and held her tenderly, a crumpled leaf that the whirlwind had dropped from its sport.

CHAPTER VI.

Taken Captive.

Lying drowned in cool silence, the girl came slowly to a consciousness that someone was stooping over her. Raising her heavy lids, her eyes rested on a man's face, showing dimly in the dusk of the starlight.

He said in English, "Canute's page, by the saints! Were I a Pagan Dane, I would run my sword through him. But I am a Christian Englishman. Let to cut away the blood-stiffened hose. Darkness closed around Randall again, darkness shot with zigzag lightnings of pain, and throbbing with pitiful moans.

She came to herself to find that soldiers were lifting her up to the horseman, where he sat again in his saddle. She recognized the squareness of his shoulders; and she knew the gentleness of his touch as he slipped his free arm around her and drew her carefully into place, making of his stalwart body a support for her weakness. No strength was in her to struggle against him; only her wide bright eyes sought his, with the terror of a snared bird.

Meeting the look and understanding a small part of its question, he said in a reassuring word in his pleasant low-pitched voice: "Be of good cheer, youngling; there is no thought of eating you. I will bring you to a cup of wine before moonrise, if you hold fast."

It is doubtful if the girl so much as heard him. Her eyes were passing from feature to feature of his face, as the stars revealed it above her—from the broad, comely brow to the square young chin, from the clean-cut fine-tempered mouth to the clear, true eyes. One by one she noted them, and shade by shade her strained look of fear relaxed. With eyes still turned up toward his face, her lids drooped and fell; and her head sank upon his breast and lay there, in the peace of perfect faith.

Tap—tap—tap—tap, like water dripping slowly. Drop by drop the sound filtered through the thick wrappings of Randall's slumber, till she knew it for the beat of horses' hoofs, and stirred and opened her eyes.

The silver shimmer of starlight falling through purple deeps had given way to the ruddy glare of a camp fire, and she was lying just beyond its heat, cloak-wrapped, on a bed of leaves. Above her, interlacing beech boughs made an arching roof, under which the shadows clustered as swallows under eaves. Within the sylvan alcove, some four-score battle-stained warriors were taking their ease after a hard day. Through the fog of her drowsiness Randall recognized them slowly. Yonder was the Englishman who had found her in the bushes. Beyond him, across the fire, the soldiers who had lifted her up to the horseman. Here, just in front of her, was the leader himself. Her gaze settled upon him dreamily.

He had finished his meal, if meal it could be called, and was making some attempt at toilet. His captive's eyes were not the only ones upon him, and he was laughing a little at the comments his performance drew forth from three old cnihts lounging near him.

"These are good days, comrades. The last time I followed the old chief, of honored memory, we held our war-council standing knee-deep in a fen. We had neither eaten nor drank for two days, and three days' blood was on our hands."

The young chief took it with careless good humor.

"When you leave off eating, in memory of that brave time, I will leave off washing," he returned. "I tell you, nothing but a warrior's life becomes ethel-born men, nor sluggishness nor junketings, but day under fire and nights among the Wise Men of council. By Saint Mary, I feel that I have never lived before! One week at the heels of Edmund Ironside is worth a lifetime under the banner of any other king."

A pause met his warmth somewhat coolly; and the warrior who broke the silence lowered his voice to do it.

NOT EQUAL TO POSITION.

"Groom of the Feather Cloak" Fell from Grace.

When King Kalakaua of Hawaii visited Japan twenty years ago he was very anxious to exhibit to the Japanese his famous royal feather cloak. It did not look well draped over the regular costume of the king, which was based on European military models. It was out of the question to wear it draped over brown cuticle, as was the ancient fashion. Finally it was decided to let Robert, one of his attendants, wear it. William N. Armstrong, the king's attorney-general, says: "This additional service delighted Robert, who now, according to a confidential statement made to his Japanese attendant, was 'keeper of the royal standard,' 'groom of the feather cloak' and 'valet in ordinary.' While in the imperial car, on the way to Tokyo, the king's suite had suddenly seen Robert, sitting in state in the luggage car, dressed in a silk hat, white gloves and with the gorgeous royal cloak hanging over his shoulders, the tableau being completed by a group of Japanese attendants who were standing before him, lost in admiration." But Robert was scarcely equal to the dignity that was his. In his capacity of valet he preceded the party to the palace assigned to them, and discovered there abundance of wines and spirits, which he consumed until they arrived. He was found asleep in the king's bed chamber, with the silk hat far down over his head and the gorgeous cloak askew on his shoulders. He was at once deposed from his office of 'groom of the feather cloak.'"

Python on the "Nest."

At the zoological gardens, Manchester, England, a python laid fifty eggs over the heat inlet of her cage and is now incubating, being coiled about them. The eggs, which are shell-less, are about the size of a turkey's, are dirty white in color and in texture like parchment.

A Hat for Summer.

An excellent way to utilize a last year's lace collar (the collar which came about to the shoulder seam) is to use it as a trimming for one of your summer hats. With a wreath of flowers and a last year's lace collar the prettiest sort of a hat can be made. Use a frame without much crown, and face it with shirred or plaited chiffon in some becoming shade. Gather the neck of the collar until it forms a tiny crown. Place on the frame, allowing about one and one-half inches to hang over. Tack securely, but loosely. Join the back as invisibly as possible. Surround the crown with a wreath of roses, forget-me-nots or any flower preferred, which will add width to the crown. Arrange the wreath so as to allow a spray of leaves to droop a trifle over the back of the hat, to conceal the joining of the collar.

Any of the soft sash-ribbons which are so charming this season will make a very dainty crown for a hat. The pompadour ribbons scattered with flowers are the prettiest for this purpose. The crown may be in the form of a tam-o'-shanter, or the ribbon may be put over a rather high-frame crown and shirred a trifle at the top. The brim may be of lace, or of tulle or chiffon matching the color of the flower seen in the ribbon.—July Woman's Home Companion.

Recommended for Cook.

Back of the pantry door hang a long white apron, white oversleeves and a white cap; not the pretty coquettish cap worn at cooking school, but a cap of large proportions, fitted with an elastic tape which holds it close around the face. Under this cap not a hair can escape, which precludes any possibility of hairs in the food when one is cooking. The apron and sleeves cover the gown perfectly, so that it is unnecessary to change one's dress when it is time to prepare dinner. If one is careful it is possible to cook without allowing a drop to fall, and having on a good gown teaches one to be careful. The apron and sleeves, as well as the cap, are of white linen—a cheap quality of table linen. They wear for years and are easily washed, besides looking clean at all times. At least when they are soiled one can see it at a glance, and this does away with any chance of cooking with a soiled apron. We insist on our trained nurses wearing white aprons in order to have everything clean about the sickroom. There will come a time when we will realize that it is as important to be surgically clean in the kitchen when people are well, in order to keep them so, as it is to be thus clean in the sickroom, in order to cure them when they are ill.

Box Coat.

Box coats of linen, taffeta and pongee make the smartest of all the season's wraps and are as comfortable as they are fashionable. This one is made of natural colored linen with pipings of red and matches the skirt, but white and all colors are used and silk and veiling are greatly in vogue for odd wraps as well as for costumes. When liked the collar can be omitted and the neck finished with a facing only.

The coat is made with fronts and backs, and is fitted by means of shoulder, under-arm and center back seams. The sleeves are in regulation coat style, with roll-over cuffs, and a pocket is inserted in each front. As illustrated the closing is made invisible by means of buttons and buttonholes worked in a fly.

The quantity of material required for the medium size is 3½ yards 27 inches wide, 2½ yards 44 inches or 2 yards 52 inches wide.

Girl's Blouse Costume.

No style of frock suits little girls better than this simple one, which consists of blouse and box plaited skirt. The model is made of white linen trimmed with banding of blue and white, and is charmingly dainty and attractive; but natural colored linen and all the simpler washable fabrics of the season are equally appropriate for immediate wear and flannel and serge for the cooler days.

The costume consists of the skirt, body lining and blouse. The skirt is box plaited, each plait being stitched at its edges to yoke depth, and is joined to the body lining, the two being closed at the centre back. The blouse is made with fronts and back, and is finished with a box plait at the centre front beneath which the closing is made. At the neck is a big sailor collar and the sleeves are full, laid in box plaits above the elbows and forming plaits below.

The quantity of material required for the medium size (10 years) is 8 yards 27 inches wide, 6½ yards 32 inches wide or 4½ yards 44 inches wide, with 2½ yards of banding to trim as illustrated.

Of Silk Handkerchiefs.

A writer in the current number of Good Housekeeping tells how she made a concert waist out of four large silk handkerchiefs. She was soprano in a glee club and had gone out of town for a concert. On opening her suit case at the theater she found that the bodice of her gown was missing. Consternation reigned, for there could be no concert without a soprano, and in half an hour the curtain was to go up. But the sister of the soprano was an ingenious person, and, dashing to the men's dressing room, she demanded all the white silk handkerchiefs they possessed. The handkerchiefs were produced—four of them. One made the back of the bodice and one the front, and the other two did duty as sleeves. Some spangled tulle, stripped from the skirt, hid the pinned sleeves, and a bunch of chrysanthemums covered up the peculiarities of the waist line. Even at the reception which followed the concert no one detected the impromptu character of this garment and some one remarked: "What a pretty little waist that soprano has on."

"Machine for Magnifying Time."

"A machine for magnifying time" is the misleading name given to a new electrical invention which makes it possible to observe rapidly moving wheels and other parts of machines more clearly. By its means one may watch the stitch of a sewing machine and see exactly how it is made, or observe the flying spokes of a bicycle wheel, which, to the naked eye, would appear but a flimsy spider's web, and note exactly the vibrations and strains. The machine that produces this result is simple once the principle is clearly understood. By means of electric sparks fired at rapid intervals the machine is illuminated. If the flashes coincide exactly with the revolutions of the machine they will show it always in one position, and the machine will seem at rest. By slightly retarding the flashes so that they lag behind their time the machine under observation will seem to move slowly. This is because at each revolution the machine is shown at a slightly later stage. The machine is called the stroboscope, and will prove of great use in studying the effects of rapid motion.

Not for Rude Boreas.

"Twentieth century fashions," sighed a dame, "forgot there were such things as winds. These plaited skirts we wear are veritable wind traps. These large hats draped in lace, with broad, floppy brims, are like so many balloons for catching the wind and flying up from their moorings unless we grab them and hold them firmly down. Our coats and our stoles, how they rise up and bit us in the face or wind themselves round and round our neck like a hangman's noose! These fashions were devised for wear in a country where it is always afternoon, not in blowy, blustering, wind-swept America."

And Now It's Wicker!

The newest thing in parasol handles is the wicker finish. The knob or crook end is used, and a bow of ribbon matches the color prevailing in the cover. These wicker handles are especially effective with pongee parasols.

The Curtain Veil.

Among the recent importations are lace veils, 52 inches square, which are just now the rage on foreign race tracks. They are draped over the entire hat and permitted to fall over the face like a curtain.

The Codling Moth.

The codling moth is without doubt the most important insect enemy with which apple growers in the United States have to contend. The pest does not at the present time appear to have reached all the apple growing regions of the United States, notably some parts of the northwest regions of the country, including Oregon and Washington. Yet how soon it will become a destructive pest there no one can tell. The insect is easy to distribute, as everyone that has purchased apples can well understand, for the worm travels incognito in the fruit itself. The part of the apple with the worm in it is thrown out on the ground and in due time the moth emerges. This is doubtless the way in which the pest has been spread. Of course no man in making a shipment of apples has taken a second thought of this matter. When fruit is shipped long distances in boxes and barrels the worms have frequently emerged from the fruit and spun cocoons in the corners of the boxes and the moths have come out before the apples were disposed of. When the boxes were opened the moths, of course, went out and sought the nearest apple trees. Where there are large commission houses the larvae crawl out of the apples and often get into cracks and under boards and spin their cocoons, and thence the moths emerge to become the means of infesting the orchards in that vicinity. When the spreading of this pest is so easily accomplished, it is a wonder that any part of the country remains where the codling moth is not.

Had our people at first well understood the importance of this pest and the method it uses in spreading from locality to locality it would have been comparatively easy to have prevented its spread altogether, for then only perfectly sound apples could have been shipped to new localities. But with this, as with most of the other pests that have made trouble, we ourselves imported it and carried it about with us, never thinking about the possible results. Now it must be fought and at great expense year by year in a million orchards. Our improvidence is costing us dearly. The spraying of the trees with arsenical poisons at the time the codling moths are laying their eggs is the only remedy that is very effective.

Guard Against Forest Fires.

Many readers of The Farmers' Review have small wooded areas that are of value. It has been shown that the greatest injuries come to these areas from fires, which not only kill the standing trees, but when they are well fed by underbrush and loppings of trees cut down, so destroy the soil that little will grow on it for many years. Too often these losses are occasioned largely by the negligence of the farmers themselves, who take no precautions to keep the dried branches away. The time of the year is here when fires are annually reported in large numbers. The first thing to do at this time is to collect all the loppings of the trees and either draw them to the house to be used for kindling and fire wood generally or pile and burn them in places where a conflagration will not result. This is easy enough to do, but if they are left uncut for the whole wood lot is liable to suffer to the extent of hundreds if not thousands of dollars. We hear annually of a great many fires, but we must remember that only the largest fires get into print. The little fires that destroy only a few hundred dollars' worth of trees are never reported outside of the local press, as a little item of news. Thus it seems likely that there are in the country thousands of wood lots ruined by fires every summer. Now is the time to take precautionary measures.—Farmers' Review.

Patent Absurdities.

If farmers would read more they perhaps would be caught by the sharpers less often than they are. It seems of little use however to warn farmers against being caught by the various swindles that are being worked; for the reason that the farmers that are the dupes are the ones that do not read agricultural papers. We believe that very few of our readers are food for such sharks. Some time ago a farmer in Oklahoma was worked by a man that was selling patent rights for a preparation that he claimed would, if put on trees, kill all the borers and that if buried in the ground of an orchard would cause all the gophers there to leave. He also told the farmer that the experiment station had offered $3,000 for a half interest in the patent. The farmer wrote to the Oklahoma station asking if the thing was a fraud and received a reply that it was. The remarkable thing about such games is that they give enough revenue to keep the men that work them in good condition. This does not speak well for the acumen of the farmers that are swindled. The truth should be patent to all that there is no "cure-all" for any disease or insect. Gophers do not care what is buried in the ground nor care away and the borer does not care what preparation is put on the tree, so long as it is kept out of his hole.

It is believed that the value of cheese exported from Canada last year will prove to be about $30,000,000, though the figures have not yet been compiled.

Soldiers' Ranks Thinning.

That the ranks of the old soldiers of Indiana are rapidly thinning is shown by the semi-annual report of the G. A. R. department commander, D. R. Lucas.

On Jan. 1 there were 15,574 veterans enrolled in 412 G. A. R. posts in the state; on July 1 there were 417 posts, but a decrease in the membership of 15,505. The financial report of Commander Lucas shows a balance on hand in cash and collateral of $36,952.50. Value of post property is placed at $102,029.74.

Don't Fight Others' Battles.

Scarcely a day passes but someone with a grievance requests us to rip somebody up the back, says an exchange. We don't rip. Who ever heard of any one tearing their shirt and making enemies just to help an editor out of trouble or defend him from an attack of some kind. Nobody. If you are badly used, have the manhood to fight your own battles. Editors have learned by experience that individuals whose axes they grind, often use those axes to chop the stuff out of the editor. If you have anything to say to a man through the medium of the press, take it to the editor, sign your name, pay for the space, the same as the merchant does, and let her go gallagher; but don't ask the editor to father your grievance.

Cruelty to Livery Horses.

Hardly any class of animals suffers so much from ignorance, carelessness and cruelty on the part of drivers as the livery horse. Many of the people who hire horses know nothing about driving or caring for them; many others, since they do not own the horse, care nothing about any injury to him, provided they do not have to pay for it, and still another class takes pleasure in driving him at the top of his step as long as he can go, regardless of his distress. Then there are the drunken drivers, reckless of everything, the drivers who race with everybody who comes along, and the people out for a "good time," and whose idea is to "let 'er go." There are the people who overdrive, who do not water, who water when the horse is overheated, who do not blanket, and others who commit all remaining kinds of offenses against horse flesh—the one idea being that since the horse is not their own it don't make much difference.—Our Dumb Animals.

LETTER FROM OREGON.

Portland, Ore., July 18, 1904
Dear Sir:

If you will allow me a little space in your most appreciated paper I will endeavor to torture the minds of the people of that vicinity with a few lines from Oregon.

We have been here just seven months and find the weather to be as an old Bishop said, "Never too cold or warm and never too dry or wet, but just right." Although it has been quite wet part of the time since we arrived here. During Feb. and March it rained 40 days without missing a day, of course it was quite damp but not too wet. During June and the first of July it has been quite dry, in fact when you see a team coming, you don't see the team but a cloud of dust around it.

The coldest it got here last winter was 27 above zero or 5 below freezing and only lasted three days.

The warmest we have had it was 99, but that is the warmest weather since the weather bureau was established. Even when it is warm in the sun a coat is comfortable in the shade. The weather is quite cool so that we sleep under a comfort, quilt and a blanket. Suppose that would be a hard dose to take back in the Hoosier state these nights. Was in town last evening and there were hundreds of overcoats walking around the streets with men buttoned up in them.

This is certainly a very fine climate, everything in the line of fruit is raised except oranges, lemons and bananas, and all kinds of grain except corn. This is an excellent place for raising hay many fields affording three cuttings per year.

Stock raising is followed quite extensively. Some of the finest cattle in the world being raised here, also many sheep and Angora goats.

If a man wants to hunt this is the place, there are plenty of deer, wild cat and bear within 40 miles of Portland, and a few elks a little farther back in the hills. But do not get the idea that we are living in a wilderness, for we are not. We have a city here of 140,000 inhabitants, which is expected to number 200,000 within five years.

The buildings are not built as substantial as in the east owing to the absence of high winds, especially the public buildings here are not as attractive as in the east.

There is lots of work here of all kinds, at Portland, but there are two men for every job and the wages are some lower than a year ago. The day laborer gets $2 per day, carpenters from $3 to $3.50, day of eight hours, plasterers, brick and stone masons $5, farm hands from $20 to $40 per month, owing to the work.

Some may ask about thunderstorms and earthquakes. During the seven months we have been here it thundered twice in the afternoon of the 16th of May, and it sounded as if it might be about 500 miles at sea. And as to earthquakes they are almost unknown here.

The Lewis and Clark Fair buildings are being pushed along very rapidly and the grading of the grounds which employs several hundred men. It is going to be a very beautiful place. Come over and I will show you around.

You have all heard of the large timbers of the northwest but to give you an idea how large they are I will tell you a story that was told to an Easterner about as soon as he gets here. A man having a drove of 5,000 cattle and was driving them to another part of the pasture when he came to a river that was too deep for the cattle to ford and there was no bridge so they started the cattle across on a large tree that had fallen across the river when after they got across the river they rounded up the cattle and counted them and found they were 500 head short, they started back in search of the of the lost and when they found them they were grazing around a knot hole.

About the first question a fellow is asked when he goes on a new job is "What part are you from?" or "What state turned you loose?" so if any of you people come out here don't be surprised if that is the first question I ask you.

I guess I have taken enough of your time so will close.

Very Respectfully,

ELMER M. SHUEYMAN.

Dragging Pains

2825 Keeley St.,
CHICAGO, ILL., Oct., 2, 1902.

I suffered with falling and congestion of the womb, with severe pains through the groins. I suffered terribly at the time of menstruation, had blinding headaches and rushing of blood to the brain. What to try I knew not, for it seemed that I had tried all and failed, but I had never tried Wine of Cardui, that blessed remedy for sick women. I found it pleasant to take and soon knew that I had the right medicine. New blood seemed to course through my veins and after using eleven bottles I was a well woman.

Maudie Bush

Mrs. Bush is now in perfect health because she took Wine of Cardui for menstrual disorders, bearing down pains and blinding headaches when all other remedies failed to bring her relief. Any sufferer may secure health by taking Wine of Cardui in her home. The first bottle convinces the patient she is on the road to health.

Miss Milly Gray.

The tenderness of Milly Gray. No one has mentioned; If mothers only had their say, She would be pensioned.

She comes in daytime or at night, With woman's quickness, To bid sad sorrow take its flight, To heal its sickness.

She kneels beside the widow's chair, Softly caresses, The cheek that's pallid with despair, And soothes her troubles.

She holds upon her breast the child That's ill and dying; She breathes a lullaby as mild As angels' sighing.

She should be pensioned, for they say, These village mothers: "There's no one like Miss Milly Gray—She lives for others."

—Horace Seymour Keller.

Parted.

Alas!—how light a cause may move Dissension between hearts that love! Hearts that the world in vain has tried, And sorrow but more closely tied;

That stood the storm when waves were rough, Yet in a sunny hour fall off, Like ships that have gone down at sea, When Heaven's light is all tranquility;

A something light as air—a look, A word unkind, or wrongly taken— Oh! love that tempests never shook, A breath, a touch like this has shaken.

And hearts so lately mingled seem Like broken clouds—like the stream That smiling left our mountain's brow, As though its waters ne'er could sever, Yet ere it reach the plain below, Breaks into floods, that part for ever.

—Thomas Moore.

Dowry of a Bride.

A marriage recently celebrated at Partick, Glasgow, has a curious story attached to it. The bride's father and mother, who had been abstainers for over twenty years, gave as a marriage dowry to their daughter the sum of £120. Every week since they became total abstainers the amount formerly spent in alcoholic liquor was banked for the little one who caused her parents to take the pledge. The little girl had seen her father slightly inebriated, and reproved him for it the next day. The parents have eschewed drink ever since, with the above result.

WARSHIPS FORCE TURKEY TO YIELD

United States Minister Finds
Them Potent Power for Good.

AMERICAN DEMANDS ARE MADE

Mr. Leishman Had Difficulty in Securing an Audience With the Sultan Until the Arrival of the Vessels in Turkish Waters.

Washington dispatch: In view of the fact that the American government is pressing its demand on Turkey that discrimination against American interests in the Turkish empire shall cease the diplomatic correspondence in the current volume of foreign relations is timely. It discloses the persistence with which Mr. Leishman, the American minister to Turkey, has acted and the extreme difficulties he has encountered in his efforts to negotiate with the sultan.

In the original instructions sent him by the state department, directing him to bring to the attention of the sultan the existing embarrassment to American educational and religious institutions in Turkey, Mr. Leishman was informed that the president was deeply in earnest in the matter, and while instructed to approach the sultan in the spirit of utmost friendship he was advised to impress on the sultan the fixed desire and expectation of the president that this country and its citizens be treated the same as the most favored nation.

Awakes to America's Power.

In one of his communications to the state department Mr. Leishman expressed the belief that the Ottoman government gradually was awakening to the fact that this is a great and powerful country—slow to take offense, but capable of enforcing its just demands.

Mr. Leishman's first trouble resulted from his efforts to secure a personal audience with the sultan. Several weeks having elapsed after Mr. Leishman's demand for an audience had been made, Secretary Hay, in a note to the minister, said he had im- pressively informed the Turkish minister of the displeasure and amazement of the president at the manner in which his minister's request for an audience with the sultan had been treated.

Later Mrs. Leishman had an audience with the sultan.

Ventures Toward Threat.

In another dispatch Mr. Leishman said existing conditions had ceased to furnish an excuse for prolonged delay in settling pending questions and that he had somewhat strained his instructions and had ventured pretty close to a threat that unless the matters were settled without further delay something unpleasant might happen. Later he informed the department that the sultan had taken a strong stand against complying with the demands of this government relative to schools, resting under the impression that no forcible measures could be taken without congressional action.

Warships Command Respect.

It also is disclosed that pending the arrival of the American squadron at Beyroot, when one American consul was mobbed, Mr. Leishman said the sublime porte appeared to treat the expected arrival of the American warships as a friendly visit. Later the state department advised Mr. Leishman that the Turkish minister had informed the secretary of state that the Turkish government considered the presence of the American squadron in Turkish waters a cause of excitement and asked its withdrawal, and that the Turkish minister was informed that the state department did not share that view; that its representations had not received the friendly attention it had a right to expect and that compliance with the request for withdrawal would have an unfortunate effect on the relations of the two countries.

Frightens Spectators.

Liberty, Mo., dispatch: Alonzo Haggard, an insane man, took possession of the dome of the county courthouse here. The dome is 150 feet from the ground and the police fear to attempt to capture the man, believing that he may either harm them or jump to the ground and kill himself. Haggard entered the courthouse at daybreak. Going out on the railing surrounding the dome, he pulled himself to the base of the Goddess of Liberty by means of the lightning rod. A crowd watched him from the street, afraid that he would lose his balance and fall. Haggard is 25 years old and came here from Delits, O. T.

ATTEMPTS TO END LIFE IN JAIL

Self-Confessed Iowa Murderer Inflicts
Probable Fatal Injuries.

Sibley, Iowa, dispatch: Fred Hoku, the self-confessed murderer of Peter Johnson, who has been confined in jail here for the last few weeks, shot himself in the stomach with a revolver. He is in a very critical condition and is not expected to live. The prisoner says he has had the revolver in his possession from the time of his arrest, but this is not thought possible. It is thought that the firearm was handed him by one of his relatives who visited him in his cell.

WIFE MURDERER HOLDS POLICE FORCE AT BAY

Officials Are Forced to Use Chloroform Before They Can Secure Their Prisoner.

Peoria, Ill., dispatch: Frank Pierce shot and killed his wife at their home in Canton, Fulton county, and then held the entire Canton police force at bay. The sheriff's force was summoned from Lewistown, but in the meantime Undertaker Messler, who had been summoned by Pierce, visited the house and while the two were discussing arrangements for the burial of Pierce's wife, the officers rushed in and after a desperate struggle overpowered the slayer. They were forced to chloroform him before he could be removed from the house.

After shooting his wife three times Pierce barricaded himself in the upper portion of his home and through the closed shutters announced he would kill the first officer to set foot on his premises. His mother passed in and out of the house at will, but he would not permit her near the death chamber. He requested his brother-in-law, Charles McCaslin, to come to the house to talk regarding the disposition of his effects, and Fred Messler, an undertaker, to care for his wife's remains. Both at first declined, but Messler finally assented, which resulted in Pierce's capture.

BOILED BEEF POISONS COUPLE

Man and Wife Have Narrow Escape
From Death After Meal.

Dubuque, Ia., special: Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Strayer of Waterloo were poisoned by eating some boiled meat which came from a beef which Mr. Strayer had recently slaughtered. They had the meat for dinner and about one hour after Mr. and Mrs. Strayer were taken violently ill, neither of them being able to utter a word. When a physician arrived they were in a precarious condition. For a time slight hopes were entertained for their recovery, but they are now gradually improving and may recover.

VOTE FOR COTTON MILL STRIKE

Thirty Thousand Employees Will Quit
If Owners Enforce Lower Wages.

Fall River, Mass., dispatch: Unless the cotton mill managers of this city, who operate what are known as union plants, abandon their announced intention of enforcing a new scale of wages which would reduce the earnings of their employees 12½ per cent, 31,000 operatives will stop work. This will be the result of a strike vote cast by the Textile Workers' union. By a vote of 1,510 to 396 the union men decided to strike, disregarding the suggestion of the textile council that a strike was inadvisable at this time.

INDIANA WOMAN JAP PRISONER

Mrs. G. A. Johnson of Elkhart in Custody, but Is Later Released.

Elkhart, Ind., special: A letter received by Mrs. Harry Chester tells of the arrest in Korea of Mrs. G. A. Johnson of Elkhart. She was taken by Japanese, being suspected of being a spy. She writes that her release was effected through the persuasiveness of a Danish sea captain, who pointed to her prematurely white hair as evidence of her advanced age, thus playing on the Japanese reverence for old people. Even after this she was kept under armed guard four hours.

YOUTH STRIKES CARRIE NATION

Boy Fells Her When She Knocks
Cigarette From His Mouth.

Louisville, Ky., special: Carrie Nation, who is attending the annual fair now in progress in Guthrie, Ky., has been up to her old tricks. In the grandstand she walked up to a young man named John Williams, from Trenton, Ky., and slapped a cigarette from his mouth. He warned her not to repeat the act, but she did not heed the warning, again knocking the cigarette from Williams' mouth, whereupon he knocked her down. Mrs. Nation was not hurt.

What Brought a Reply.

A popular Washington youth remained out a great deal later than usual a few nights ago, and for obvious reasons thought it wise to remove his shoes in the vestibule of his home and ascend the stairway as quietly as possible, in the hope of not arousing his parents. It was an old, old scheme, of course, but he thought it would work.

All went well until the son of the house was a little above the second story landing. Then he was startled to hear his father thunder:

"Is that you, Walter?"

No answer. Walter thought his sire might conclude that he had not heard anything after all, so remained quiet as a mouse, but again came the demand, more emphatic than before:

"Is that you, Walter?"

Still no answer. There was a pause and then the significant and startling click of a revolver. Again, in calm, but determined tone:

"Is that you, Walter?"

"Yes, sir," Walter hurriedly shouted, his teeth chattering with fright. He has decided to walk upstairs boldly and loudly on all occasions hereafter.—Washington Star.

Proved Beyond a Doubt.

Middlesex, N. Y., July 25.—(Special.)—That Rheumatism can be cured has been proved beyond a doubt by Mrs. Betsey A. Clawson, well known here. That Mrs. Clawson had Rheumatism and had it bad, all her acquaintances know. They also know she is now cured. Dodd's Kidney Pills did it. Mrs. Clawson tells the story of her cure as follows:

"I was an invalid for most five years caused by inflammatory Rheumatism, helpless two-thirds of the time. The first year I could not do as much as a baby could do; then I rallied a little bit and then a relapse. Then a year ago the gout set in my hands and feet. I suffered untold agony and in August, 1903, when my husband died I could not ride to the grave.

"I only took two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and in two weeks I could wait on myself and saw my own wood. I dug my own potatoes and gathered my own garden last fall. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me."

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills put the kidneys in shape to take all the uric acid out of the blood.

THE SPIRIT OF THE AGE.

Boy Showed All the Signs Which Mark Great Financiers.

The seven-year-old son of a prosperous publisher had come to town with his father. The journey had been devoted largely to a discussion over the purchase of a most desirable pony, and the plan had been voted by the stern parent with a mumbled explanation about business uncertainties in a presidential year.

When they reached the father's private office the boy stood in the open doorway and studied the double line of clerks, bookkeepers, stenographers and helpers which extended the length of the floor. Finally he crossed to his father's desk.

"Father," he said, earnestly, "do all those people work for you?"

"Yes," replied his father, not looking up from his mail.

"Do you pay their salaries?"

"Yes."

"Well, say, if you'd take a dollar out of each of their salaries this week, wouldn't that money pay for my pony?"

"For several of them," replied his father dryly.

"Very well; I think you'd better take it out. Each one of 'em would not miss the one dollar much, and it would make a lot for us. You can have what's left over from the pony."

RACE DONE?

Not a Bit of It.

A man who thought his race was run made a food find that brought him back to perfect health.

"One year ago I was unable to perform any labor and in fact I was told by my physicians that they could do nothing further for me. I was fast sinking away, for an attack of grip had left my stomach so weak it could not digest any food sufficient to keep me alive.

"There I was just wasting away, growing thinner every day and weaker, really being snuffed out simply because I could not get any nourishment from food.

"Then my sister got after me to try Grape-Nuts food which had done much good for her and she finally persuaded me and although no other food had done me the least bit of good my stomach handled the Grape-Nuts from the first and this food supplied the nourishment I had needed. In three months I was so strong I moved from Albany to San Francisco and now on my three meals of Grape-Nuts and cream every day I am strong and vigorous and do fifteen hours' work.

"I believe the sickest person in the world could do as I do, eat three meals of nothing but Grape-Nuts and cream and soon be on their feet again in the flush of best health like me.

"Not only am I in perfect physical health again but my brain is stronger and clearer than it ever was on the old diet. I hope you will write to the names I send you about Grape-Nuts for I want to see my friends well and strong.

"Just think that a year ago I was dying but to-day, although I am over 55 years of age most people take me to be less than 40, and I feel just as young as I look." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason.

MRS. MAYBRICK OUT OF PRISON

Famous American Woman Is Released by the British Authorities.

TICKET OF LEAVE IS GRANTED

Quits England for France, Where She Will Be the Guest of Her Mother,
the Baroness de Roques—Nuns Utter Prayers for Peace.

Truro, Cornwall, cable: "Free at last."

A pale-faced, white-haired woman, clad in sober gray, stood in the shadow of the arched gateway of the Convent of the Sisters of the Epiphany early Wednesday morning and murmured the words over and over again. Near her a little group of black-robed nuns stood praying in whispers.

The woman in gray was Mrs. Florence Maybrick. Tuesday night the order came to the convent for her release. Wednesday she was in France at liberty and in peace.

In the shadow of the whitewashed convent's gateway she tasted the sweetness of liberty for the first time in almost fifteen years. She tried to bear up, but tears came fast as she gazed down the stretch of sunlight road and watched for the coming of the carriage that was to bear her to the station and a new life. No clang of prison doors rang in her ears at the last. The softly uttered prayers of the nuns beseeching a higher power that peace might fall upon the remainder of her life followed her from the convent, which has been her prison since five months ago she left the cell in Aylesbury, where almost fifteen years of her life were passed.

Prisoner in a Convent.

Those who have talked with Mrs. Maybrick say in the main that the five months spent at Truro were happy ones. She was compelled to observe the rules of the sisterhood strictly, as the sisters were required to carry out the regime of the prison, but the rules were not enforced by warders hardened by contact with criminals, but by friendly sisters, who have been companions as well as guardians, and Mrs. Maybrick expressed her gratitude to them on her departure. Her past life was not referred to at the convent, and Mrs. Maybrick never spoke of it.

When Mrs. Maybrick left her peaceful retreat she was dressed in gray. She wore a white boa around her neck and she had a gray hat, with flowers, upon her whitened head. These garments were sent by her mother, the Baroness de Roques, and were the first colors worn by Mrs. Maybrick since her imprisonment, fifteen years back.

Avoids Newspaper Men.

The fact that people at Truro knew her by sight, and that newspaper correspondents had established themselves near the convent, caused Mrs. Maybrick to determine not to leave Truro by train on departing from the town, but to go to Staustell, where an express stopped. After her departure it was said by a sister at the convent that Mrs. Maybrick had given no trouble whatever and that her conduct had been most exemplary, she observing without question all the regulations. She had not asked for and had not been given unusual favors. Nevertheless, the mother superior was glad to be freed from her responsibility.

Mrs. Maybrick is not freed unconditionally. She is out on ticket-of-leave, but to all intents she is as free as any other person, can go where she will, and will not have to make a report to the British authorities, as once Mrs. Maybrick is abroad, she will be outside British jurisdiction.

The Baroness de Roques has made preparation at Rouen for Mrs. Maybrick's arrival at her quiet home there where she will begin a new life.

TO BAR ALIENS FROM THE NAVY

Policy of Americanizing Service Is to Be More Stringent.

Washington special: In accordance with the navy department's policy of Americanizing the United States navy, Capt. Pillsbury, acting chief of the bureau of navigation, and other officials of the navy department, are considering further restrictions on naval enlistments. A tentative regulation which has been prepared for the action of the secretary of the navy and likely to be adopted reads as follows: "Hereafter no aliens will be enlisted in the naval service of the United States except those who may be entitled to re-enlistment under the provisions of law relating to continuous service and except also Asiatics on the Asiatic squadron who may be enlisted on the messmen branch to fill vacancies, but not to serve elsewhere than on that station."

Miss Chilson left last autumn for Arizona for her health. On the train she met the millionaire and a friendship began which soon ripened into love. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell left in Mr. Campbell's private car for their Arizona home.

TWO COMMIT SUICIDE FOR MAN THEY LOVED

Jealousy Leads Women to End Their Lives Six Months Apart in Exactly Same Manner.

Marion, Ind., dispatch: Six months ago Miss Cora Bowser killed herself because her lover, Ross Stevens, paid too much attention to Miss Bertha Ellison. Friday Miss Ellison ended her life because Stevens was paying too much attention to other girls.

Between the two suicides there are these remarkable parallels:

Both girls killed themselves for the same man.

Both lived in the same house.

Both were engaged to the same man.

Both took morphine.

Each told a friend that she had decided that Stevens loved somebody else.

Each said that she had nothing to live for.

That two young women should kill themselves in six months in fits of jealousy over one man is considered remarkable, especially as the man in this case is an ordinary appearing young fellow.

After the death of Miss Bowser it was said that Stevens and Miss Ellison were engaged. The couple attended the races and had a violent quarrel because Stevens was attentive to other girls. Immediately after returning home Miss Ellison went to her room and was found an hour later unconscious, dying. She told a friend that she and Stevens had quarreled and she had nothing to live for.

SOCIETY DAMES SHINE SHOES

Women Become Bootblacks for Day to Raise Money for Hospital.

Elkhart, Ind., dispatch: Elkhart's most exclusive society women turned bootblacks and shined the shoes of all customers for the sake of the hospital fund. "Shine, mister? Your nickel will go to charity," was the salutation with which the handsome dames and the youthful belles greeted the passing men. Soft hands, accustomed to the glitter of diamonds, glistened with shiny but black graphite and plied the brushes all day. There never were so many neatly polished shoes in Elkhart in one evening as there were when the society bootblacks ceased their day of labor. The patrons were liberal with "tips" and the receipts of the day large.

Counterpanes Displace Blankets—Ad- ditional Comfort for Travelers on "The Southwest Limited."

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Company owns and operates the sleeping cars in service on its various lines, and has just inaugurated an innovation which will appeal to all sleeping car travelers.

On its "Southwest Limited" trains between Chicago and Kansas City white counterpanes or bedspreads have replaced the heavy woolen blankets which have heretofore been in evidence twelve months in each year, much to the discomfort in hot weather of sleeping car patrons.

Blankets will be held in reserve and within reach for cool nights.

This innovation is calculated to not only add to the comfort of passengers, but it will appeal to all who like a bed that is inviting in appearance.

The ability of David Graham Phillips to write a clear-cut, straightforward story of modern life is unquestioned, and a new book from his pen is eagerly awaited by the readers who revel in his graphic pen pictures of the evil of money getting, and the dwarfing of all the other faculties in the struggle. "The Cost," his latest, (recently published by Bobbs-Merrill & Co., Indianapolis), is already a pronounced favorite. It is a curiously interesting mixture, treating of politics, Wall street tactics, social life and love affairs.

The Rock Island System has done and is doing notably good work in encouraging immigration to the Southwest. The agricultural and industrial opportunities of that section of country have been persistently and systematically set forth, as a result of which the number of people who have settled in Oklahoma, Indian Territory and Arkansas this spring has been greater than in years. On three days in February and March, over six thousand homeseekers took advantage of the low rates to the Southwest and removed themselves and their belongings to the "Land of Opportunity."

In "The Leopard's Spots" the author (Thomas Dixon, Jr.), showed his mastery of the expression of powerful human emotions. His new story, "The One Woman," recently published by Doubleday, Page & Co., appeals to a far wider audience on the greatest of all subjects for a novel, the power of love, as affected by the movement toward socialism which marks the new century. The book grips the reader and holds him. The five figures of the drama are very vivid.

Canada's Attractions.

The Dominion Exhibition is one that attracts hundreds of thousands each year. This year it will be held in Winnipeg, Manitoba (Canada), and with the material assistance given it by the Dominion Government, it will be one of the most successful ever held. Besides the number of special attractions that will be offered, there will be brought together an exhibit of the Agricultural and Industrial resources of Canada such as is rarely attempted by any country. Visitors will be there in large numbers from the United States, owing to the low rates offered by railways, connecting with the Canadian roads. It is expected that Hon. Clifford Sifton, Minister of the Interior, will be there on the opening day to declare the exhibition open. A splendid opportunity will be afforded by this exhibition to meet friends. Hotel accommodations will be quite ample.

To the housewife who has not yet become acquainted with the new things of everyday use in the market and who is reasonably satisfied with the old, we would suggest that a trial of Defiance Cold Water Starch be made at once. Not alone because it is guaranteed by the manufacturers to be superior to any other brand, but because each 10c package contains 16 ozs., while all the other kinds contain but 12 ozs. It is safe to say that the lady who once uses Defiance Starch will use no other. Quality and quantity must win.

LABOR TROUBLES RETARD TRADE

Butchers' Strike Is the Greatest Disturbing Element at the Present Time.

OTHER BRANCHES ARE SOUND

Demand From Country Merchants Is Good in the Staple Lines, With Satisfactory Collections—Splendid Outlook in the Farming Districts.

Chicago special: R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of Chicago trade says: "The usual midsummer quiet pervaded the prominent branches of business and was intensified to some extent by labor controversies, the latter being mainly hurtful to the packing and live stock industries, and forcing onerous prices upon the public. Relief from the burden affecting consumers unfortunately has been postponed, and the ranks of the unemployed swelled rather than diminished."

"In other respects business appears to be sound, with the tendencies toward improvement. Iron and steel developments indicate a return to increased production and larger forces of workers, while better demand is seen in the markets for general merchandise and breadstuffs. Notwithstanding adverse local conditions, distribution in the staple lines was of fair volume in both wholesale and retail branches."

Country Demand Is Good.
"Country buying for fall delivery exhibits a healthy advance, the southwestern sections contributing good orders in dry goods, clothing and footwear. Western railroad returns reflect sustained gains in the traffic movement, and the season is close at hand for larger tonnage in the marketing of farm products. Winter wheat harvesting being over, more attention is directed to other maturing crops, in which the outlook is excellent for splendid returns to agriculturists. Mercantile collections generally were satisfactory and fewer defaults occurred."

"Full activity prevails at the rail mills, and larger output was made of structural steel, wire and pig iron. Price schedules were steady for finished iron and became firmer in furnace product. Specifications for railroad requirements are now more numerous, and much new business is impending. Farm implement and electric works are more active and make larger purchases of material, while needs for new buildings have continued strong, lumber dealings showing well. Shoe factories and other leather workers are running steadily, but tanners felt pressure in the demand."

Grain Shipments Shrink.
"Grain shipments, 2,490,500 bushels, are 38.2 per cent under those a year ago. Demand was stronger in flour and grain. Compared with the closings a week ago, advances were made in wheat of five-eighths of a cent a bushel, in oats half a cent and in corn one-eighth of a cent. Transactions in provisions were of fair volume, with export buying better, and values were firm in pork and lard, but slightly lower in ribs. Live stock receipts were largely curtailed, owing to the strike of butchers, and prices were irregular, closing 25 cents higher for choice hogs, 5 cents lower for heavy hogs and 50 cents lower for sheep."

"Failures reported in the Chicago district number twenty-eight, against forty-four last week and twenty-two a year ago."

La Porte, Ind., dispatch: A movement has been started to organize the sheriffs of northern Indiana and southern Michigan counties for protection against the operations of horse thieves. Demand From Country Merchants Is Good in the Staple Lines, With Satisfactory Collections—Splendid Outlook in the Farming Districts.

Chicago special: R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of Chicago trade says: "The usual midsummer quiet pervaded the prominent branches of business and was intensified to some extent by labor controversies, the latter being mainly hurtful to the packing and live stock industries, and forcing onerous prices upon the public. Relief from the burden affecting consumers unfortunately has been postponed, and the ranks of the unemployed swelled rather than diminished."

"In other respects business appears to be sound, with the tendencies toward improvement. Iron and steel developments indicate a return to increased production and larger forces of workers, while better demand is seen in the markets for general merchandise and breadstuffs. Notwithstanding adverse local conditions, distribution in the staple lines was of fair volume in both wholesale and retail branches."

Country Demand Is Good.
"Country buying for fall delivery exhibits a healthy advance, the southwestern sections contributing good orders in dry goods, clothing and footwear. Western railroad returns reflect sustained gains in the traffic movement, and the season is close at hand for larger tonnage in the marketing of farm products. Winter wheat harvesting being over, more attention is directed to other maturing crops, in which the outlook is excellent for splendid returns to agriculturists. Mercantile collections generally were satisfactory and fewer defaults occurred."

"Full activity prevails at the rail mills, and larger output was made of structural steel, wire and pig iron. Price schedules were steady for finished iron and became firmer in furnace product. Specifications for railroad requirements are now more numerous, and much new business is impending. Farm implement and electric works are more active and make larger purchases of material, while needs for new buildings have continued strong, lumber dealings showing well. Shoe factories and other leather workers are running steadily, but tanners felt pressure in the demand."

Grain Shipments Shrink.
"Grain shipments, 2,490,500 bushels, are 38.2 per cent under those a year ago. Demand was stronger in flour and grain. Compared with the closings a week ago, advances were made in wheat of five-eighths of a cent a bushel, in oats half a cent and in corn one-eighth of a cent. Transactions in provisions were of fair volume, with export buying better, and values were firm in pork and lard, but slightly lower in ribs. Live stock receipts were largely curtailed, owing to the strike of butchers, and prices were irregular, closing 25 cents higher for choice hogs, 5 cents lower for heavy hogs and 50 cents lower for sheep."

"Failures reported in the Chicago district number twenty-eight, against forty-four last week and twenty-two a year ago."

Women who work, whether in the house, store, office or factory, very rarely have the ability to stand the strain. The case of Miss Frankie Orser, of Boston, Mass., is interesting to all women, and adds further proof that woman's great friend in need is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered misery for several years. My back ached and I had bearing down pains, and frequent headaches. I would often wake from a restless sleep in such pain and misery that it would be hours before I could close my eyes again. I dreaded the long nights and weary days. I found that their medicines did not cure me, I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it was highly recommended to me. I am glad that I did so, for I soon found that it was the medicine for my case. Very soon I was rid of every ache and pain and restored to perfect health. I feel splendid, have a fine appetite, and have gained in weight a lot."—MISS FRANKIE ORSER, 14 Warrenton St., Boston, Mass.

Surely you cannot wish to remain weak, sick and discouraged, and exhausted with each day's work. Some derangement of the feminine organs is responsible for this exhaustion, following any kind of work or effort. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you just as it has thousands of other women.

The case of Mrs. Lennox, which follows, proves this.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Last winter I broke down suddenly and had to seek the advice of a doctor. I felt sore all over, with a pounding in my head, and a dizziness which I had never experienced before. I had a miserable appetite, nothing tasted good, and gradually my health broke down completely. The doctor said I had female weakness, but, although I took his medicine faithfully, I found no relief.

"After two months I decided to try what a change would do for me, and as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was strongly recommended to me I decided to try it. Within three days I felt better, my appetite returned, and I could sleep. In another week I was able to sit up part of the day, and in ten days more I was well. My strength had returned, I gained fourteen pounds, and felt better and stronger than I had for years. I gratefully acknowledge its merits. Very sincerely yours,
MRS. BERT E. LENNOX, 120 East 4th St., Dixon, Ill."

Something New For Culver.

Gentlemen of Culver:

I have been here in town for several months working for the Academy and will still continue here. There has been a great demand from some of the citizens of Culver and a few of the better dressers of Culver, why I don't make tailor made suits for people of Culver as well as for the Academy.

They say they have no tailor in town to make good clothes, therefore I have secured one of the finest lines of woolen that could be put up by any wool mill, in order to satisfy the citizens of Culver. Guaranteed for perfect fit as well as for the material.

So what's the use of wearing ready made clothes, which you have to take just what you can get and what is the use of having clothes made to measure when the man does not know how to take the measure, and the clothes are made like ready made suits. Come and inspect my line of goods and I will guarantee you for the money. The prices are very low, suits from $16 up, pants $4.50 up, very fine material. J. Phillips, Academy tailor.

Do you know that water is the cheapest stock-fattener in the land? Feed without plenty of water is partly wasted; less feed and plenty of good water will produce better results. If you investigate you will find that fat stock has plenty of water. Make your future vital interview with St. Peter more pleasant to yourself by giving all of your animals plenty of water several times a day—especially the horses that work for you so faithfully. It will be dollars in your pocket as well as rest to your soul. Ex.

FORETOLD BIG FLOOD

AGED MAN'S PREMONITION OF GALVESTON DISASTER.

His Prophecy is Vouched For by Well-Known Priest of the Texas City—Man Was Undoubtedly Gifted with Strange Power.

Father James M. Kerwin, rector of St. Mary's cathedral, has returned from Dallas, where he officiated at the funeral of Michael Rennie, known throughout the United States as the "old telescope man," says a dispatch from Galveston, Texas. Rennie died suddenly at the Salvation Army Workmen's hotel in Dallas several days ago. Upon the window near his bed was found an open Bible and a well worn hymn book. On the flyleaf of the Bible was written: "Give this book to Father Kirwin, Michael Rennie, Galveston." Inside the flyleaf was written:

"If anything should happen to me, sudden death, this is my will. You will find enough money in the box of my telescope to pay my expenses, and a mass for my soul, the remainder to be given to Father Kirwin for the use of the little orphan school, the telescope and one microscope. One microscope for Father Kirwin himself, a present from me. Michael Rennie."

Death had come suddenly, as he had always predicted it would, for Michael Rennie was something of a seer and a prophet.

The time or place of Rennie's birth is not known, but somewhere in Scotland more than three score years ago he first saw the light of day. He received some education and soon drifted out as a sailor before the mast to the ends of the earth.

For more than twenty years he followed the rough ways of the sea, and, according to his own account, was very wicked. He came to Galveston in a jute ship in the early '80s, and left the sea for the interior of Texas. He settled at Dallas and became the moving spirit of the Liberal Club, an agnostic organization.

He soon tired of life away from the sea, and eventually landed in Australia during the period of the Melbourne exposition. One day by chance he wandered into the Catholic cathedral at the moment of the elevation of the Host, and afterward declared that he saw in the priest's hands the infant Child.

He returned the following day and witnessed the same sight. Immediately he applied to the priest for instruction in the Catholic faith.

At the close of the exposition in Melbourne he purchased a street telescope and two binocular microscopes sent out by Crouch & Son of London. He continued his travels, finally returning to the United States. He gave exhibitions in every large city and gradually worked his way back to Texas.

Rennie always declared that the spirits of his dead friends held close communication with him, and Father Kirwin vouches for the following story:

"On the Thursday evening preceding the great Galveston storm I encountered him at the corner of Market and Tremont. He was not busy as a showman, and I engaged him in conversation. He made arrangements for a mass for his deceased parents on the following Tuesday, and promised to be present thereat."

"Much to my surprise he came in the following morning—he was a regular attendant at the early mass—and said he would not wait over until Tuesday, as he had been warned to leave the city."

"I see a terrible, engulfing flood," was the way he worded it. "I see thousands struggling in it and hundreds floating dead. Then I see a steel gray wall, stretching from one extremity of the city to the other, and then I see the wall disappear."

"Rennie left the city on an early morning train. The following day the storm bore down upon us, and after events, the world's charity and Galveston's pluck have built the steel gray wall, and now the grade rising and the gradual secretion of sand upon its seaward side are about to cause it to disappear from view."

Motherhood.

Come to my arms, my darling,
Come, for the nightfall is near,
Come, and thy mother shall send thee
To dreamland with never a fear.

Come and thy mother shall sing thee
A lullaby softly and low—
Sing thee to rest and to dreamland
Ere darker the day doth grow.

And as thou sleepest, my dear one,
I come to her eyes—
Visions of thee, strong in manhood,
Noble and gentle and wise.

Her heart will glow at the picture,
Thrilling with joy and with pride,
Yet the tears sadly fall as she presses
Thine close, little one, to her side.

And she knows that always at twilight,
Wherever, whatever thou art,
The same little lullaby, darling,
She'll sing to thee down in her heart.

—Mary Putnam Gilmore in Boston Transcript.

Good Samaritan Rewarded.

Gregorio Zelich, keeper of a restaurant in Oakland, Cal., taking pity upon the apparently urgent needs of an old Mexican, Magin Castro, gave him food and a place to sleep for a considerable time. Castro died the other day, and in his will bequeathed to his benefactor all he possessed, which proves to be a large interest in an estate in Mexico valued at several hundred thousand dollars.

School Boards Can Issue Bonds.

A case has just been tried in the Dearborn circuit court that is of interest to the public generally. The court sustained the demand of the school board of Lawrenceburg to the complaint of a citizen who brought suit to test the validity of the law passed by the legislature of 1903. The complaint alleges that the entire valuation of taxable property within the city limits is $1,265,535; that the bonded indebtedness of the city is $50,000 and that the school board, on March 2, ordered the issuance of $10,000 of school bonds made payable in ten years, in annual installments, the proceeds to be used in erecting a school building. It is also represented that the city is already indebted beyond the constitutional limit of two per cent of taxables, and that the school officers had no authority to issue the bonds. An injunction was asked, Judge Downey holds that the school city is a distinct and separate municipality from the city of Lawrenceburg, and the act of 1903 gave the school board the right to issue bonds, regardless of the amount of the indebtedness of the city.

German Agricultural School. The Prussian government has decided to found an agricultural school at Delitzsch, in the province of Saxony, near the Saxon frontier. Delitzsch has a population of 10,500. It is on the line of the railroad extending from Leipzig to Magdeburg, which belongs to the Prussian government, in the heart of a most prosperous section of the country, where agriculture is the chief occupation of the people.

Condor Being Exterminated.

The California condor is practically the rarest bird living in the world today, being much scarcer than the Andean condor of South America, and is rapidly following the great auk and Labrador duck into extinction. Its skin is valued at from $25 to $75 by taxidermists, while the egg is worth from $100 to $200 according to its condition, and there is always a market for both skin and egg open to the collector who is so fortunate as to take either. Within a few years these huge birds, whose wing spread is often thirteen feet, will all have passed away.

Translation of Some Native Idioms.

In New Britain a missionary, in translating, was seeking some native idiom to convey the idea of a binding oath when a chief suggested that the desired phrase was, "I would rather to speak to my wife's mother than do such a thing." In British Columbia a missionary wanted his catechists to translate "A crown of glory that fadeth not away." This was done to the satisfaction of all concerned, but ultimately the missionary found to his horror that it had been rendered, "A hat that never wears out."

Origin of Scotch Names.

The Scotch prefixes Mac, Mc and M', each mean son, and are nearly as common among them as "son" is among the Scandinavians. The Scotch have a relatively few number of surnames, however, owing to entire clans sometimes having the same family name. Indeed, most of Scotch names were originally not surnames at all, in our sense of the word, but clan names.

Childish Comfort.

Father Ducey is laughingly relating a recent experience of his. He was walking along Fourth avenue when he saw a little boy crying bitterly. As he stopped to inquire the cause of the tears he was forestalled by a small girl, who asked sympathetically:

"What ails you, boy? Why are you crying so hard?"

"Because mother's gone to heaven," sobbed the child.

"Oh, don't fret so," replied the girl consolingly, "sure maybe she hasn't."

Miss Cogley received President Lincoln's message calling for volunteers in Pennsylvania. She is 66 years old.
