THE CULVER CITIZEN. NO ARBITRATION FOR VENEZUELA

President Castro Holds Cases in Supreme Court Should Await Decision.

AMERICA NOT TO URGE CLAIMS

Suspicion Prevails That Trouble Is Due to Clash Between Rival Asphalt Concerns, and the Case Will Not Be Pressed.

Washington dispatch: The asphalt trust's campaign against Veneguela was sharply cheeked Friday when President Castro flatly refused to arbitrate the American demands and President Roosevelt decided to do nothing further toward urging the claims.

It is officially explained that the sitnation practically is unchanged and that no crisis exists.

There is a suspicion at the White House that the bands of the asphalt trust are not perfectly clean, and that the present trouble originated in a clash between the trust and rival asphalt interests.

Nothing to Arbitrate.

President Castro's refusal to acecde to the demand for arbitration is based on the assertion that there is nothing to arbitrate. The case of the asphalt trust, he said, is pending in the Venezuelan courts, where it must he decided, as the terms of the concession provide that all disputes shall be settled by the local courts. To take the case out of the courts now and submit it to arbitration would violate the constitution and be an admission that the Venezuelan courts are ignorant or corrupt.

The claim of the Orinoco Steam Navigation company, Castro asserts, was settled by an arbitration tribunal, presided over by a Dutch umpire, which awarded the company $28,000 damages. Under the agreement providing for the arbitration of all foreign claims, it is insisted that this verdict must be accepted as final and that the Orlnoco company is disregarding international law in seeking te have the case reopened.

Shall Submit Claims,

The claims of A. F. Jaurett, the alleged American editor, who was expelled from Venezuela, and Critchfield, an American engineer, who is operating an asphalt concession in the state of Maracalbo, it is asserted, have never been presented to Venezuela. It is stated that if there is a just claim for damages in either case it should be submitted to the Venezuelan courts for settlement, Critchfield's concession was seized some months ago for nonpayment of taxes. 11 was later returned to him, and it is alleged that it was then agreed that he would make no claim for damages, boing fully satisfied with the return of his concession. Critchfield has been operating the concession for a month,

No Cause for Action.

President Castro's reply was discassed at the Cabinet meeting, at which it was agreed that there now is no basis for coercive action against Venezuela, beyond the claim of the asphalt trust that its concession has been unlawfully confiscated.

To send warships to Venezuela before the case finally has been disposed of would be to champion the cause of the asphalt trust against the Venozuelan courts. The president thought that would be going outirely too fast Et the present stage of the proceedings, and the cabinet members agreed with him.

Therefore, no further instructions will be sent to Minister Bowen, though he asked what his next move should be.

EXPLOSION KILLS SIX IN MINE IN INDIANA

Connection With Firedamp, Ron-ders Rescue Work Perilous.

Princeton, Ind., dispatch: A windy shot in the Princeton coal mine caused a fearful explosion Wednesday afternoon, killing six men and injuring tombed in the mine and in spite of the they will die before the rescuers can reach them as part of the mine is on fire and the firedamp renders the work | here from Chicago. of rescuers hazardous.

The dead so far removed are: Willam Biggs, Hudson Weatherly, Albert George Dill, Injured: John Dill, George Cole, William Jones.

The cause of the disaster is not known, save that it resulted from a powder explosion. The miners were making their blasts previous to leaving the mine and the greater part of the miners had ascended. Whether it was a premature shot or an overcharge is not known now, or is it known who fired the shot.

The news reached the city about 4 o'clock and within a short time fifty women, relatives of the miners, surrounded the mouth of the shaft and anxiously awaited each ascension of the cage. The miners worked heroically and a number of them were overcome by the foul air which filled the mine. The explosion wrecked a portion of the mine and the supporting timbers were hurled in every direction. The supports gone, the slate roof gave way in many places, and the rescuers were in constant danger from this source.

SECURES BIG SUPPLY OF WHEAT

Minneapolis Mill Said to Have Purchased 2,000,000 Bushels.

Minncapolis, Minn., dispatch: One of the largest transactions ever recorded in the Minneapolis grain tradewas made just before the close of the market Woonesday. The F. H. Peavey company sold, in a single trade, about 2,000 cars of wheat to a single purchaser, said to be the Washburn-Crosby company. The transaction was for eash. Detalls as to prices, grades and terms of delivery were not obtainable and estimates of the quantity that changed hands varied from 1,500,000 to 2,000,000 bushels, the latter figure being probably nearer the truth. Two inferences could be drawn from the transaction; one, that the mills are doing a hig flour business, which does not show in the daily reports, being for future delivery; the other that the company fears a scarcity of good milling wheat later in the season and is getting ready to meet it.

SOCIAL SCANDAL IS BREWING

Green Bay Citizens Stirred by $50,000 Suit Against Wealthy Brewer.

Green Bay, Wis., special: The triat of the sult of Albert W. Hollman to recover $50,000 from Henry Rahr, the brower, for the alleged allenation of the affections of the plaintiff's wife has developed into one of the greatest social scandals ever known in this city. The bones of a number of Green Bay skeletons, which have long been slumbering peacofully, are railling noisly, and parties indirectly interested in the suit are making strenuous cfforts to have the matter quietly settled, but those directly interested say that the entire affair shall have an immediate airing. A Methodist minister is expected to be one of the most important witnesses for the plaintiff in giving important tostimony regarding numerous alleged claudestine

HINT AT BIG POSTAL SCANDAL

Allegation is Made That Department Knew of Failed Concern.

Indianapolis, Ind., dispatch: Colonel Russell B. Harrison is in receipt of a letter from B. St. John Hoyt of Pittsburg, in which Hoyt says he called the attention of the postoffice department last year to the Storey Cotton Company of Philadelphia, which recently failed, and that no investigation of the company was made by the department. "The last time I saw you, governor," remarked Mr. Eddy, "you expected to make a trip East this spring to Geiser, Ed. Geiser, Harry Taggart, attend the launching of your battle-

"That has been postponed until July," said Gov. Hoch.

"I would like to attend that launching and see you break the bottle of champagne over the Kansas," remarked E. J. Evans, attorney for the Standard Oil company in Kansas, who was present.

"The Kansas will not be christened with champagne," quickly responded the governor. "It will be christened with a bottle of oil-not Standard oil or independent oil, but just Kansas oil-Kansas crude oil.'

Mr. Eddy came to Topeka to consult with Gov. Hoch and Attorney General Coleman regarding the Kansas oil situation. Mr. Eddy says that the Standard's position is governed by the law of supply and demand and that as the Kansas daily production of oil exceeds the Standard's capacity for refining from the Kansas field the Standard therefore cannot take all the oil offered. He says the building of a refinery by the state will not help matters, but that when the fields in Indiana and Ohio are exhausted more oil will be taken from Kansas.

FOR SENATOR

THREE VOTES WITHOUT RESULT

Last Effort to Settle the Struggle Proves to Be Fruitless, and the Lawmakers Agree to Motion to Separate.

Dover, Del., dispatch: The legislature adjourned Thursday under the constitutional limitation, but although three ballots were taken for Senator, there was no election.

The first ballot resulted: Addicks, 15; H. A. Dupont. 14; Saulsbury, 13; Hughes, S; T. C. Dupont, 2, The only change on the next two ballots was that T. C. Dupont's two went to State Senator Pennewill.

The balleting for senator in joint session began Feb. S. The first ballot resulted as follows: J. Edward Addicks (Union Republican), 22; Henry A. Dupont (Regular Republican), 9; Willard Saulshury (Domocrat), 2. One member, a Democrat, was absent.

Refuse to Vote for Addicks.

Since then there have been changes, the Regular Republicans voting for a week for Harry A. Richardson of Dover, in order to show their willingness to vote for Union Republicans other than Addicks. Sovon of Mr. Addicks' followers joined them, and also cast their votes on various ballots for T. Coleman Dupont, but the other lifteen Union Republicans remain true to Addicks.

The vacancy in the United States sonate from Delaware will therefore continue until the next session of the legislature, which convenes in January, 1907, unless there is an election by an extra session.

Regulars Plan Coup. While no agreement had been reached during the morning relative to a choice for senator, there was still hope among many of the party leaders and members that a solution of the problem might be reached and the deadlock averted. It was intended by the friends of Addicks to cast but one ballot, but when the first ballot had been taken and an effort had been made to separate on the part of the Democrats it was found that the Regular Republicans had a scheme to prolong the balloting with the hope of electing one of their number to the office of senator. Final Coup for Unionists.

Three more ballots were taken, all resulting practically the same, with the exception of Representatives Lingo and Vandeburg, who changed their votes from T. Coleman Dupont to States Senator S. S. Pennewill.

Hy parliamentary tactics a recess of fifteen minutes was secured, at which time the Union men conferred, and upon information that the Democrats would assist them went back Ind. 157 bu., Ohio 180 bu., Tenn. 198 bu., into the joint session ready to move a separation, which was done, much to the chagrin and dissatisfaction of the Regulars and Union bolters.

A "broed" and a white man were engaged in what old man Donnelly called a "ranicaboo" when Stag-Hound Bill stepped into Sam Jeffrey's saloon one night.

Sam Jeffrey's saloon enjoyed a monopoly near an Indian reservation. There was a faro game in full blast and a spirited polier game. Bacon-Rind Dick was drunk again and speakfag like a mouse in the wall. The air was thick with smoke and a man had to order his drinks at the top of his voice in order to be heard above the uproar of the turnultous cowboys and stockmen.

Stag-Hound threw his pack-saddle in the corner and sat down.

Sergius announced that everyone sending money would be given a receipt, but those sending 1,000 rubles ($510) or more would be thanked personally by himself. It is said that the response was excellent. But, though no one sent in 1,000 rubles and asked to bo thanked personally by the grand duke, many sent in 999 rubles and asked for the recolpt.

The lady was masked, which betokened that she was a beauty. She was daintily slight. This I saw from the tight-fitting riding clock of a gray shade of grogram. When it blew open, as it often did as she danced, it showed gray potticoats with a white laced walstcoat. Covering her head was an ample hood. She danced divinely: And the graceful gallow's bird, as he whistled a tune to their dancing and twirled leg upon the green, was not far behind.

"Many thanks, milady, I have not tell when," he said.

"And my jewels?" she asked insinuatingly.

"They are yours," he replied. "They are as nothing in comparison to the pleasure you have given me."

At this the lady gave way to a pleased laugh, and taking the casket ! said:

"You are indeed my sort. To impart a kiss on the blushing cheek of the fair lady, I-I-have heard it said, is the customary anding to an episode such as this?"

"Ah! it would be too much-" he began.

"I assure you that you will not die of it," she ironically stopped him in the middle of his sentence.

He glanced at her inquiringly. She raised her mask in the slightest way, and dropped it again. What he saw was not what he had expected. "You are disappointed?" she said, and her words cut like a knife, "A gallant would not have shown it."

"Madame, I leave you with regret," he said, "and I promise you at my first leisure to think upon what you have said. It is all I can do-it is more than I have promised anyone these many days."

Then he swept her a bow. It would have done honor to Whitehall, and saying, "adien!" leaped upon his horse, which he sat as a Centaur. He motioned to his comrades, and they were off. He deigned not to glance in our direction or to show the least trepidation at our nearness, which he could not help but be aware of, for we came up with a great show enjoyed myself so, since-I cannot of speed, Oll oven sending one flying bullet after them.

We heard the lady say in an undertone to her maid: "Hide the jowels in the boots, quick. Who but they may be another band of robbers-one does not come off scot free twice in Solcly for our benefit she then proceeded to go off into hysterics. We were near enough now to make them effective.

"Oh, how unfortunate I am! how unfortunate!" she wept. "Oh, gentlemen, had you only arrived more speedfly I had not lost my jewelsworth ten thousand pounds, if a cent. Oh. the rascals!"

Her tears seemed as if they must drench her mask, but I think if tears were there they were tears of thankfulness at the generosity of her gallant robber.

"Had we not better give them a chase for them?" I asked, holding in check a smile.

"No, no, stay with me," she cried. "I beg of you. It would be of no use; they are miles away by now."

"As you say-but," I began.

Never a petticoat fluttered past me but I thought I saw some resemblance to my mistress.

"The scamp," I muttered.

"The fool," Gil hissed from between shut teeth still holding a pipe.

The highwayman, as he bowed with grace, said simply and with humility: "May I help you into your coach?"

The high clear voice rang out again, almost petulantly, as if the words would out against her will:

"Stay! I would say a word. 'Tis the old story, I suppose, of a patrimony spent among wine, women and dice. I am not wont to concern myself or to try to convert highwaymen from their ways-indeed, I oftener laugh when my lords come home from their trips with pockets as empty as their halrless pates. You have or had a gentle mother. Stop, ere it be too late. Tylurn is not where she would like to think of her son's ending his days. Only a few leagues back there rocks one who may have been all that you are. Young, with the blood leaping joyously through his yeins, who saw long years reaching before him in which to fight, to feast, to dance, and to enjoy himself; handsome, with that rude health which pleases: gallant, maybe among the maids, who e'en now await his coming. Behold what manner of thing he has become! Foul boyond description. Where the tar has left the smallest spot uncovered the daws have picked clean as a whittle, and the wind and rain have polished so white that they gleam in the sunlight, There he will hang a menace to men of your kind, a pollution to all who pass along this fair highway."

"Ab, Madame, that you should waste cloquence on a thing so contemptible," he said with a deprecating wave of his hand.

"Let my interest be my excuse if I have tired you-have you not given me back my jewels?" There was a coquettish uplifting of her voice. "And you will take heed, may the devil fly away with you."

evidently the lady's change of tone umused him. Nevertheless he said politely: "Again I thank you."

He uttered a ringing laugh at this,

Gil's horse now whinnying, the play was over for us.

The lady flung her hands out. "There," she said, "I hear a Lorse like the Jow in the "Merchant of Venice. "Rest assured I shall notify my lords how their roads are infested; 'tis time they swept them clean of all such vermin,"

I helped the lady into the lumboring affair, her maid after her. Then Gil taking one side and I the other we started on. So Milady, with her coachman, and postillion, and two outriders, looked not unlike royalty out for an airing.

After a time, I was riding near the open glass door on Madam's side, and often gazed idly at her, wondering what lay behind her mask. She sat slightly forward on the edge of the seat as though to attract my attention. She raised her hand to take off her mask. Ah! my heart leaped; my curiosity was to be satisfied. I noticed that her hands were beautiful; slender hands, gleaming like they were made of polished ivory. She hesitated, and her hand fell back again into hor lap, there to meet and clasp the other one. I withdrew my eyes and let them roam for a few seconds on the fields about, not wishing to be ill-mannered. They soon came back, drawn like a loadstone.

> "Nobuddy" Answered. The average small boy's opinion of himself is none too high, but the reply of a small stable-boy in Chicago may scarcely be taken as the average. A woman whose husband kept the driving horse in one of the many "boarding stables" in the city, telephonod the other day to have the horse and carriage brought to the house. A strange voice answered the telephone. "Is this So & So's stable?" queried the woman.

"Yes." came the answer. "Well, who is this?" "Aw, 'tain't nobuddy. Walt a min-When she next felt them on her, she nit and I'll call somebuddy,' came the again lifted her hands and this time answer .- "The Eunday Magaine."

disappearance of the high crown and also of the inordinately large hat should be welcomed by every one; the tall crown in particular was an offense to good taste and becoming to less than one woman in a hundred, and even the woman who could wear them and not look freakish would have looked better in some thing else.

Many of the new shapes show much variety in brims; many brims are wide. Many hats are egg-shaped, the erown appearing at the narrow end. Others are heart-shaped, like the one described last week, while still others are shaped like pears. In the egg-shaped hats with the crown at the narrow end, the wider part at the back is usually turned up very sharply, and this back is nearly covered with flowers or other decoration. It is probable that the oval shapes ventured last year will be more worn this summer, as the puffing of the halr over the ears renders them more becoming. In some hats the brims slope upward from the crown's base, and in others the brims roll but slightly at the edges.

Cleaning Gloves.

I have restored my own serenity and the freshness of my gloves by soap cleansing after an idea adopted from a demonstration of a cleansing paste, which I was told was merely a white soap bolled soft, says a writer. I take a soft cloth and rub it on the under side of some good soap where it has softened by lying in the dish. If the cake is perfectly dry, I let it stand for a minute in water, or sometimes I dampen my cloth very slightly. This last, however, is risky. The process is to put the glove on the hand, as if for wearing, and to ruh the solled portions with softened soap and no water. The result of the correct method will be a wiping cloth covered with inky stains and a spotless glove of perfect color, as soft and supple as over.

Binding a Skirt.

Shrink woolen dress braid before putting it on your skirt, and avoid the puckered effect that comes when the braid is wet after being put on the skirt where this is not done.

It is also best to allow a few inches for this shrinking when measuring for a new braid. Simply wet the braid thoroughly and hang it up to dry without wringing it.

In sewing it on care should be taken neither to hold it too tight to glvq has ruffied offect, especially if the serviceable brush braid is used.

Yoke Embroidery.

front, begins a row of narrow valenclennes, which runs down to the bell. and has three other rows set at regular intervals on each side. And a dainty voke is made of narrow valencionnes lace and insertion running around, the edging frilling out from each row of the insertion. The yoke is very shallow. Sleeves in nearly every blouse are rather full, and are finished with long, deep cuffs. They are tucked up and down, or around, as you please.

Mahogany Red Silk Gown.

Mahogany red is to be fashionable in slik this spring, and this New York model is an exclusive design.

For the Coming Season.

which is short, underneath the brim. of course, are small bunches of white and purple violets.

Pretty Gown for a Maid.

This exceedingly good style waist has two box-plaits, one on each side of the front, while the center is cut U shape, in order to reveal a chemisette of soft white or lacy material. The plaits taper to the waist line in tweek, giving the much desired slender appearance. The full bishop sleeve has a corresponding plait at the top and is confined at the wrist in a narrow cuff. This design may be carried out in any solid color of silk, wool or thin materials and the chemisette may be any of the mull or lace weaves.

Decorating the Neck.

The reign of the transparent yoke or guimpe seems assured for a long ilmo to come, Exquisite little guimpes are for sale in the best shops. They fit perfectly, and, although rather high priced, are hardly to be counted extravagant purchases, since, with care, they can be used on more than one gown. Another convenience is found in high, transparent cuffs made of musiin, lace, and embroidery. These too, are expensive, but temptingly dainty.

With all the popularity of these delicate adjuncts to dress, transparent yokes and collars and no collars at all, there is nothing more prominent at the present time than the stiff linen collar. Dozens of styles are shown, some mannish, but more made femia drawn effect, nor so loose that it nine by rows of fagoting, embroidery, or French dots.

Ribbon Plumes. Ribbon plumes are a feature of the most delicate of embroidery in de simulate a feather they arrive at very signs that form a deep yoke. Just much the same effect. They can be below the embroidery, directly in made from ribbon, but are usually made from crossway lengths of silk very lightly hemmed, and then, according to their breadth, gathered over one or two thick cords down the center, this giving the idea of the stem. Dahlias will figure largely on spring chapeaux, also primidas and lllac. Flowers will compete with flowered ribbons for trimming those shapes that turn up smartly at the back, a model that is sure to be popufar, as it is universally becoming, and a Paris vogue.

How to Make Your House Gown.

There is a house gown with Spanish ruffles that is sometimes called a Eulalle. Very full. very long, open in front and cut low in the neck, it is a thing of comfort and of beauty, Of course, all these small appointments must be in keeping and this calls for a soft taffeld petticoat harmonizing in color and for beautiful embroidered stockings and slippers whose heels and toes match the gown.

A Finishing Touch,

A new feature of a young womandress is an exquisite corsage of cream net applique, with disks of pale blue lace. The sleeves are unusually small, and the very deep corslet is the latest Paris fancy. The front of the lace jacket is caught together with tiny bows of pale blue velvet ribbon. The full skirt is of pale blue Parsifal silk, finished only by a deep hem.

A Possible Outcome.

The "Juliet cap," that dainty headdress composed of a net of gold or sliver mesh, set with jewels, has proved so universally becoming that it is whispered that a more practical adaptation of it will become fashionable for theater wear, in place of the much sinning and still more maligned theater bat. This would really be an excellent plan, aside from its quaintness, and it is to be hoped that this impending threat will come to some-

Concerning the Coat.

The embroblered muslin coat, rimmed with Swiss or valenciennes lace, is an innovation of the season. It may be worn with different skirts of thin material such as mousseline or voile.

These coats will be of the tight-fiting style, with a long basque effect.

The linings of some of the mantles and coats for spring are so beautiful that it seems a pity they must be Experimental Plots.

I must acknowledge that I have been slow in taking advantage of my opportunities. I farmed the old place for many years without attempting to find out what it needed in the way of fertilizer. In fact, I robbed a part of the farm and kept up another part and did not know what I was doing. I used to haul out the manure overy spring and put it all onto the fields in which I grow potatoes and corn. That was very good for those particular fields, but was a little hard on the land that did not get any of the manure. I put it on the same fields every year because I believed that every year the corn and potatoes took out all I put on. I am now satisfied that there was a residue left that was not really needed on those fields and would have been paying me better interest had it been put on some of the fields that have never had any barnyard manure.

In attending a farmers' institute I heard the matter of experimental plots discussed and thought I would try one on some of the poorest parts of my farm. I measured off two acres and put no fertilizer on one and various kinds of fortilizers on the other in strips. I left the first acre for a check. I put on the other acre about 1,000 pounds of lime and some phosphates, and a strip on that acre was treated with nitrogen and another with both phosphorus and nitrogen in a commercial form.

The results were remarkable, and I have since been wondering why I did not do it before. I found that the phosphorus and nitrogen were both deficient. I made an application per zere of about 150 pounds of bone meal on a forty-acre field and put on some barnyard manure, enough to give a little more nitrogen and humus to each acre.

It is astonishing how we will run along in the same rut for many years and never think of what is and what might be, till we have an object lesson that brings the truth home to us. I am but just beginning to teach myself by the help of experimental plots and I intend to continue the good

Seed Corn in the Ear. A circular letter sent out from the

Ottawa, Canada, station, says: The cost of the small quantity of seed corn that is required to plant an acre, in comparison with the cost for labor in cultivating and handling and the ultimate value per acre of a good crop, would seem to make it clear that the hest available seed of the most satisfactory type and variety should be obtained at any reasonable cost. It would be much better for Canadian farmers if they were able to A treatment that is sure to be adapt- new millinery. They are very decor- obtain their supplies of seed corn in ed to a hundred variations is the ative, and in so far as ribbon can the ear; they would then have a fair idea of what they were getting. While in the ear, the danger of injury to the vitality of the seed from damp and its after effects is reduced to a minimum. Corn that is shelled by a machine and left in sacks for six wocks or more will seldom germinate more than 75 per cent, unless the conditions for storage have been exceptionally good. The average vitality of seed corn, tested in the seed laboratory last year, were, for corn received in the ear, 95 per cent, and for shelled corn 68 per cent. It is much to be recommended then that, wherever possible, farmers obtain their supplies of seed corn in the ear only. To meet the demand for seed corn in this condition growers would do well to adopt the style of shipping crate that is used for this purpose in the states of Iowa and Illinois, This crate is two feet nine inches long, one foot wide, and one foot deep, and is made of half inch lumber three inches in width. Its capacity is one bashel, or between one hundred and one hundred and twenty ears. If the corn can be planted in hills, this crate will hold sufficient seed for five acres. While it is true that there may be oped in the minds of some eaters of cabbages relative to the so-called "cabbage snake." The superstition is that the snake poisons the cabbages and so renders them unfit to cat. The existence of such a creature is denied by our scientists, but so prevalent is the belief that at least one experiment station has issued a circular denying the existence of the so-called snake. In some parts of the country a small whitish "eel-worm" has been found to infest cabbages. The larvae of this worm proy upon the common green cabbage worm and hence are doubtless a benefit rather than a detriment to the cabbage-growing industry. Some of the more superstitious people in the South imagined that these worms poisoned the cabbages, and tests were made by scientific people to clear up the matter. Extracts were made from the worms and injected into the human system. These injections failed to produce the least effect. It is therefore considered that the character of the little worm has been cleared of the accusation.

Recently an absurd fear has devet-

FEMALE WEAKNESS

FORTLAND, MAISTR. Oct. 17, 1902.

I consider Wine of Cardui superior to any doctor's medicine I ever used and I know whereof I speak. I suffered for nine months with suppressed menstruction which completely prostrated me. Pains would shoot through my back and sides and I would have blinding headaches. My limbs would awell up and I would feel so weak I could not stand up. I naturally felt discouraged for I seemed to be beyond the help of physicians, but Wine of Cardui came as a God-send to me. I felt a change for the better within a week. After nineteen days treatment I menstructed without suffering the agonies I usually did and soon became regular and without pain. Wine of Cardui is simply wonderful and I wieh that all suffering women knew of its good qualities.

Treasurer, Portland Economic League

Periodical headaches tell of fe-male weakness. Wine of Cardui cures permanently nineteen out of every twenty cases of irregular menses, bearing down pains or any female weakness. If you are discouraged and doctors have failed, that is the best reason in the world you should try Wine of Cardui now. Remember that headaches mean female weakness. Secure a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui today.

Dr. Jacobi is authority for the statement that "Tuberculosis kills as many people, old and young, as diphtheria, eroup, whooping cough, scarlating, measles and typhoid fever taken together." In all of our cities active steps have been taken to protect the people from the above named diseases. Until quite recently, howover, a few years at most, nothing was done to reduce the meriality from tuber-

Now, however, the attention of the world, the common people and the health authorities, has been called to its carability and preventability.

The causes, the modes of scattering, and the prevention are all being studied, and an educational campaign is on to wipe out this "white terror."

The children suffer from tuberculosis of the bones, the bowels and lymph glands. Tubercular meningitis. is frequently found in early life and is uniformly fatal. Only by careful attention to the food and daily habits can the rising generation be made immune from these varied forms of tubereulosis.

Cause and Cure of Gastric Catarrh. Chronic congestion of the stomach, known as gastric catarrh, is usually caused by one of the following errors, or by all of them put together: Eating too much or too fast; swallowing foud lusufficiently masticated; the use of such coarse foods as cabbage, greens, etc.; mustard, peppersauce, gluger and other condiments and spices; pastry containing animal fats; free fats, which lodge in the stomach and remain there a long time; pork, griddle cakes and burned fats-these are the things that produce gastric

These treatments are useful, but the most important factor is the regulation of the dict. A fruit dlet is best, for the reason that in gastric catarrh there is a great accumulation of germs, which are destroyed by fruit juice. Bedroom Climate.

A person at the age of sixty years has spent about twenty years of his life in his hadroom. Have you investigated the average sleeping room climate? If you were sent as a mission- any form of spirits."-Journal of inary to some distant pestilential spot the climate of which was as unhealthful as that of the average bedroom, would you not feel that you were risking a great deal for the sake of the heathen?

On the tombstone of tens of thousands of those who have died from ruberculosis might appropriately be inscribed, "Discase and death were invited and encouraged by a deathdealing bedroom climate."

To show that this is no exaggeration it is only necessary to call attention to the fact that fully half of the tubercular patients placed in outdoor consumptive hospitals make a satisfactory recovery. If fresh air will cure the disease, it is certainly a wonderful preventice of it. It is not more reasonable to deliberately breathe impure air than it is to drink impure water or to cat unhealthful food or wear infected clothing.

Tender-Hearted Savages.

One of the most anomalous features if our Obristian civilization is the slaughter house, especially the abattoirs of our great cities, where veritable torrents of blood perpetually flow, the ebbing life of millions of innocents which die that man may feast. Indians are not noted for being over-sensitive; and particularly despise any exhibition of weakness. The interior of a slaughter-house, however, is said to have proved too much for their powers of self-centrol. The Chieago Record states that "a party of fifteen Blackfoot Indians recently vis-Ited the killing room of Armour's plant. One fainted, three more were III, the rest covered up their eyes They were hurried out of the place into the fresh air."

A Cure for Cold Feet.

an excellent and simple remedy for cold feet is the application of cold water. Step into the bathtub, let the cold water run in a little faster than it runs out. Standing in the water, rub one foot with the other, rapidly, ten or twelve times. Then change and treat the other foot in the same manper. Keep up this alternate rubbing for about three minutes. The feet will have become very red, and as you step out of the water, you will find them burning and glowing with the warm blood brought into them by this

A traveler in Mongolia writes; There are some hot springs on the read about twenty miles north of Chingpeng. The place is named Tangahan. In these sir fathers of every age and both sexes, with their heads protruding. Attendants with buckets continually refill the boxes from the springs. For less luxurious bathers there is accommodation in a pool which has been ments like Homburg and Aix-les-Bains nings."

Training the Skin, The usual effect of a draft of cold air upon the back of the neck is a cold and a sore throat. Many years ago Dr. Brown Sequard, an eminent French physician, devised a means by which sore throat from this cause might be prevented. By blowing upon the back of the neck with a pair of bellows, increasing the time each day, he trained his patients until they could endure this treatment for half an hour without infury.

It is not necessary to be exposed to a draft of air on the back of the neck in order to obtain this result. By means of the cold bath, the wet-sheet rub, the shower bath, towel friction, etc., the skin may be educated to con-

In Harmony with Nature.

Modern science as well as experience has shown that contact with natural surroundings, especially fresh air, sunshine and the ozoning emanations from growing plants, has marvelous health-imparting virtues. In these natural agencies is active the power which created and maintains all things and which is constantly communicated to all living things as the essential condition of continued life. The more closely man comes to Nature, the more deeply he may drink from the fountain of life and healing. To live in barmony with Nature in the fullest and truest sense is to live in harmony with God; and to live in divine harmony is to be happy.

How to Resist Old Age.

A chain is as weak as its weakest link. The body is as weak as its weakest organ. To combat the onward march of old age all organs must be marshaled to harmonious resistance. This roalstance can be developed best by cultivating "reaction." This means that the body forces act against some external stimulation and overcome it.

The best developer of reaction is cold-either cold air or cold baths. This must be done gradually, especially if one is already weak. Cultivate the power of resistance by daily exposure to cold air. Live out of doors as much as possible. The ability to resist cold will also enable one to resist pucumonia, dyspepsia, apoplexy, diabetes, obesity, old age.

The cold morning bath is a wonderful youth precerver. Try it. Begin carefully. At first rub face, arms and chost with the hands dipped in cold water. Then the rest of the trunk and the legs. Dry quickly and exercise for ing long skirts for the street is dying | ten or fifteen minutes. In a month out. Protty as it is to see a summer | you will hardly know yourself. Try it.

German Ruler Would Have Bayonets Bright and Cannon Ready for Action.

ARMAMENT MAKES FOR PEACE

Agrees With President Roosevelt That the Surest Way to Avoid War Among Nations Is to Be Prepared to

Bremen cablegram: Emperor Willlam on the eye of his departure for his cruise in the Mediterranean declared at a banquet here that he had vowed never to strike for world mastery, to let bayonets and cannon rest, but to keep them ready.

The occasion was the unveiling of a monument to Emperor Frederick. The ceremony was followed by a banquet in the town hall, which shelters the model of the admiral's ship of the first German fleet that had been sold under the auctioncer's hammer.

Emperor William said that when he was a youth he stood by that model and felt deeply enraged at the disgrace done the German flag. He then had sworn an oath of fidelity to the flag. and that when he became the head of the government he would "do everything possible to let bayonets and cannon rest, but to keep the bayonets sharp and the cannon ready, so that envy and greed from without would not disturb us in tending our garden or in building our beautiful house.

Doesn't Want World Mastery. "I vowed," the emperor continued, "never to strike for world mastery. The world empire that I then dreamed of was to create for the German empire on all sides the most absolute confidence as a quiet, honest and peaceable neighbor. I have vowed that if ever the time comes when history shall speak of a German world power or a Hohenzoilern world power this should not be based upon conquest, but come about through a mutual striving of nations after common purposes.

"After much has been done internally in a military way the next thing must be the arming of ourselves at sea. Every German battleship is a now guarantee for the peace of the world, and the less ready will our focs he to attack us and the more valnable will we become as an ally.

Would Avoid Discord. "The duty of youth is to avoid every discord. Give them the conviction that God has great things in store for the German people. We are the sait of the earth, but must prove worthy of being so. Therefore our youth must learn to deny themselves what is not good for them. Then we will be regarded on all sides with esteem and love, as a trustworthy people.

"With all my heart I hope that the

Besides 120 acres laying idle except a timothy meadow, which is not included in this estimate. Counting the value of the product and the increase of value of land will pay me more than 25 per cent on the investment. Two brothers in the same neighborhood bought 160 acres each six years ago. They have not done a single thing to this land except to fence it and break and cultivate about one-half of it. Harvested last year 28 bushels wheat per acre. This year 27 bushels per acre. Faithful to Dead Wife, Reed became a daily visitor to the tomb. He told curious ones who questioned him that his wife was as dear to him in death as she had been in life, and that it was his duty to be near her all the time. The notoriety which resulted caused the cemetery officials to object to his long visits.

Reed wanted to remain in the tomb by night as well as by day, and put a bed in it, but the cemetery superintendent refused his request, and the man finally was allowed to remain in the cemetery during the day only. Gradually the public's curiosity to see the tomb died out, and the old man recently had been bothered but little.

Communes With Loved One. According to his custom of years Reed went to the cometery Thursday morning. After sitting beside his wife's coffin for a time, talking to her body, he was seen by a grave digger to be rearranging things in the tomb. MISS BULL RECOVERS

FEARPUL DECLINE OF STRENGTH COMPLETELY ARRESTED.

Medical Skill Had Almost Exhausted Itself in Vain Attempts to Relieve Her-A Remarkable Result.

The recovery of Miss Gertrade L. Bull is of great interest to the medical world. A very bad cough followed a severe attack of pneumonia. It seemed impossible to break it up or to restore her strength, which had been sadly undermined. In spite of the best efforts of the doctors and the use of several advertised modes of treatment her condition daily grew more serious. She flually discontinued all medicine and gave herself up to despair.

"What was your condition at this time?" she was asked.

"My stomach was so weak I could not keep food down. I suffered from constant nausea. My kidneys were in terrible condition. My feet and ankles were swollen so badly that it pained me even to stand on them. I was very bilious. My heart was in bad shape so I could not go up and down stairs or stand any exertion or sleep in a natural position.'

"It seems a wonder that you should ever have recovered. How did it happen?"

"You may well call it a marvel, but Dr. Williams' Pink Pills wrought it. None of my friends thought I could live many months longer. My parents had no hope. Just then a pumphlet advertising Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pule People was thrown in our door. It was a great event for me. These pills saved me from the grave. Within a week from the time I began to take them I felt better, and in three months I was entirely well. I cannot praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills too highly and I dearly hope that my experience may bring good to some other sufferers."

Miss Bull, who was so remarkably eured, resides at Union Grove, Illinois. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act immediately on the blood, purifying and enriching it. In all debilitating diseases, such as lung troubles, grip, fevers, and in all cases in which the system is thoroughly ran down, these pills perform wonders. They are sold by all druggists throughont the world. A valuable booklet on diseases of the blood, will be sent free to any one who applies for it to Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

SHIP RIGGER BRAVES DEATH.

His Vocation is One of the Most Perllous There Is.

Men who delve deep into the bowels of the earth and those who rear buildings to great heights in the skies represent the extreme in perllous endeavor. The men who work downward, according to statistics, face far greater danger than those who toll slowly skyward. Yet here is an altitudinous calling fraught with peril every minute, says the Detroit Free Press. It is the ship rigger's job, and, compared with steeple climbing, it is much the more onerous.

The men engaged in it are as well trained as circus athletes, though in the rigging of a ship the performers are carefully safeguarded. The ship rigger, however, does not know at what minute a rotten bit of timber or a worn rope may give way and precipitate him to death. With a wider use of steam vessels the decline of sailing ships is a natural result, so that now the rigger does not find as much work to do as in the palmy days of the fast ellpper when American commerce whitened every sea.

Bills and Resolutions Introduced Show a Grand Total of 20,074.

CALENDARS NEARLY CLEARED

Measures That Are Left Are, in the Main, Private Pensions, Postponed Because of the Death of the Proposed Beneficiaries.

Washington, D. C., special: F. H. Wakefield, docket clerk of the house of representatives, has prepared a statement showing the amount of work done by the Fifty-eighth congress just closed, as compared with provious congresses as far back as the Fifty-second. The report shows that the number of bills and resolutions introduced aggregated 20,074 The various house committees reported on a total of 4,304 measures, including senate acts and resolutions.

The house passed 11,550 of its own bills and resolutions during the second session and 551 of the 620 senate acts and resolutions that had been reported from committees. At the close of the session it left on the union calendar unacted on 112 bills, of which thirty originated in the senate, having passed 247 of the 359 bills and resolutions referred to that calondar.

Upon the house calendar, to which there were referred 409 bills and resolutions, only sixty-four remained unacted upon, of which fifty-three were or house origin, and cleven of senate. Or the private calendar, to which was referred a total of 3,841 bills and resciutions, 232 remained unacted upon, of which twenty-eight were of senate orlgin.

Of the house bills sent to the senate for concurrence only 120 failed to be seed on, while twenty five house bills were indefinitely postponed in the senate. These were largely private pension bills and were postponed mostly because of the death of the proposed beneficiary. For the same reason the senate recalled twenty of its own bills after the house committees had favorably reported them. Of all the house bills sent to the president for his approval only one failed to receive his signature and become a law.

The Work Is Compared the Fifty-Eighthworkgof the as compared with the Fifty-Seventh congress, shows an increase of 3,514 in the number of bills introduced; an increase of 25 per cent, or 985, in the number of reports made, and an increase of 104 in the number of public acts. The number of private acts showed a gain of 1.156. From the Fifty-Second to the Fifty-Eighth congress the number of bills and resolutions introduced increased in number from 10,623 to 20,071; the number of reports made from 2,613 to 4,904; the public laws enacted from 598 to 574; the private laws from 324 to 3.467, and the number of pages of the Congressional Record from 2,620 to 4,246. The number of days of actual sessions of the house in the Fifty-Eighth congress were 190, as compared with 340 in the Fifty-Second, 447 In the Fifty-Third, 280 in the Fifty-Fourth, 242 in the Fifty-Fifth, 197 in the Fifty-Sixth, and 222 in the Fifty-Seventh.

Beverage Becoming Popular With Our Southern Neighbors.

M. Schick, who is at present in the city in the interest of a firm of distillers and shippers of whisky, enjoys the distinction of being a pioneer in the introduction of American whisky into the republic. He first visited the country twelve years ago.

"When I made my first trip to Mexico in the interest of an American. whisky house," said Mr. Schick, "there was very little whisky of any kind drank in the republic, and none whatever of American manufacture. Since that first trip I have made numerous ones to Mexico, and during each successive one I have seen the consumption of American Whisky and all othor kinds of whisky grow considerably.

"The demand for American whisky is constantly growing in Mexico. The American is of course the principal consumer of the liquor, but gradually the Mexicans are beginning to substitute whisky for cognac.

"The greatest competition that the manufacturers of cognac will have to meet will be from American distillers, who are pushing their liquor with much energy in Mexico. They can sell whisky at a lower price in this country and make a larger profit than they can in the United States, owing to the lower duties in Mexico. This is why you can buy the same whisky here for less morey than you could purchase it anywhere in the United States, which is a matter that seems sometimes to surprise people."-Mexican Herald.
