NEWS FROM THE COUNTY SEAT

A Record of Events as Observed by Our Correspondent.

The farmers of Marshall county are making intelligent notes on the condition of their land. With hardly an exception the soil does not produce as bountifully as it did at some former date, and yet our specialists in agriculture say that the well informed farmer can make each planting yield about as heavy as the first virgin crop. The way to do it is to study out what element has been drawn up into the crop each year, but which has not been placed back in sufficient quantities to stand the drain. In Marshall county, so it is said, there is a dearth of one element, which, if supplied, would rejuvenate the old, worn-out land. Even the best land hereabouts is beginning to suffer from its absence. That element is phosphorus. Experiments are now being tried which will determine the correctness of this surmise. Manure contains some phosphorus but only an atom in comparison to what would be needed to replenish the soil after harvest. There are other fertilizers holding it in context such as those put out by some firms in Chicago, but it is asserted that these are expensive, and also exert a tendency to sour the land. The very best substance which can be used is phosphorus rock. It is cheap, and supplies the desired element just as it rested in the soil before the first settlers cleared the forests sixty years ago.

The sweeping victories of the last election are beginning to exert themselves upon the people in more ways than one. The latest matter of moment is the imperial edict from the auditor of state compelling the penalty to be added to all tax the very minute it becomes delinquent. In Marshall county it has been the generous custom of our treasurers to hold the books open a few days, or even a few weeks, after the day set by law for adding the penalty. In this way, hundreds and hundreds of people hard pressed for cash were allowed to skirmish around and make the required payment without any additional cost. The few days of grace was a thing counted upon by the great mass of taxpayers. There are but few people who, at some time or other, would have to pay the ten per cent. penalty were it not for this custom. But now it is different. The proclamation from the auditor of state makes it imperative that all who wait must pay the price. Hundreds of old soldiers who have waited on their pension each year before visiting the tax office will now have to either borrow the money or stand the extra charge. The merchants and farmers will probably be in better shape than they to meet the new order of things.

Although there are twenty-four other counties having more population than we, the official report shows that Marshall stands third in the number of demented subjects she sends to the state asylum every year. Local humanitarians are worrying lest some mysterious fatality of climate or mental environment is responsible and of course an explanation is anxiously desired. It is not a pleasant thought even for the sane that he dwells in the very heart of a precinct made state-notorious on account of the number of its lunatics. A suspicion can not be kept back that perhaps the malady gets its contagion from the soil and that he whom is farthest away is safest. Some one has suggested to private asylums and hence statistics from state institutions could be no reliable standard for judging one county more infested than another.

The three recent township elections has ended all possibility of an interurban line through Plymouth. Politicians say that if a petition were circulated in Center township the railroad proposition would be sure to carry. But like many other possibilities it is now beyond recall. The only thing left for the people of Plymouth is to keep a solemn stillness or set up a wail "Too late, too late, too late!" It is understood that the managers of the new enterprise have given Bourbon a bonded assurance that their road will pass through its corporation limits, although there is a possibility that Plymouth may get a branch line extending through Bremen and taking in the Lake of the Woods. At some later date Culver also would be connected.

Elton Rainey, a farmer living near Mud Lake, developed startling symptoms of insanity last week and was taken in charge by officials at Plymouth. Wednesday he visited the court house and amused the various idlers by turning summersaults, singing songs, performing feats of strength and conversing at random. During the same week he spent some time at Argos and attended a public sale conducted by Sheriff Steiner. The day he was arrested he brought his two sons to town and intruded upon the hospitality of Mrs. Steiner at the noon-day meal. His actions became so queer that in the afternoon he was taken in custody. Rainey is a man with a magnificent physique as well as natural brightness and considerable education.

Auditor Hoy Singrey has the reputation of being the best checker player in the county. At the last State checker tournament, held at Indianapolis, he took third prize. In four friendly games with the champion he scored one victory and three draws. In the cult Mr. Singrey is looked upon as an authority of some repute.

James H. Matchett owns more land than any other man in the county. William Erwin follows as a close second, and then comes Maroon Packard, Franklin Overmyer, C. T. Mattingly and John R. Dietrich. Mr. Matchett owns in the neighborhood of sixteen hundred acres.

Physicians at Plymouth.

A meeting of the physicians of the Thirteenth Indiana District Medical society was held at Plymouth, Ind., Thursday. About 75 physicians from this part of the state were present. The society was permanently organized with the following officers: G. W. Thompson, of Winamac, president; J. C. Becknell, of Goshen, vice-president; J. B. Bertelling, of South Bend, secretary and treasurer. Seventeen physicians from South Bend were among the doctors who took part in the meeting.

The New Marriage Law.

The new marriage law imposes additional duties upon the county clerks, making his office a detective bureau. He must open up a set of books in which must be kept a perfect pedigree of applicants for a marriage license. Any violation of the law is punishable by a fine. Should a couple go to another State and be married, without gaining a residence there, and return to Indiana, such marriage shall be declared void. Make it more difficult

THE MAXINKUCKEE ASSEMBLY

Arrangements Completed for Next Session, July 20 to August 10.

The Board of Directors of Maxinkuckee Assembly held a very enthusiastic meeting at the office of the secretary, Frank O. Huston, Rooms 211 and 212 Law Building, Indianapolis last Wednesday. Plans were arranged for the improvement of the Park Grounds by fencing and grading; the grounds will also be fully platted and landscaped so that it will add much to its already abundant natural beauty.

Dr. Harry Granison Hill, of Indianapolis, a man of more than national reputation has been secured as General Manager for the Assembly, and arrangements have also been made for the sale of stock and season tickets so the future of the Assembly is now an assured success.

The dates for the season of 1905 are July 20th to August 10 inclusive. An exceptionally brilliant program will be put on this season and it is the purpose of the management to surpass any efforts heretofore, as with but few exceptions the attractions put forth will be of a national reputation. Special days will be had with excursions on all railroads, with features of sufficient attractive power that will bring thousands of people from all parts of the country. Extensive advertising will be done.

We feel that the citizens of Culver and Marshall county should bestir themselves now to give every assistance possible to this institution, which will mean very much not only to the little city, but to all the adjacent country. The management now purposes to make of this a great Chautauqua movement, where thousands of the very best people will attend yearly, and so will annually bring thousands of dollars to give in exchange for a delightfully beneficial outing on the shores of the most beautiful lake in the United States, where they may recuperate their wasted energies amidst surroundings that will not only build up the physical but the moral and spiritual part of man as well. Let us all do our part to assist this movement in every way possible.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hassey of Argos attended the funeral of A. N. Bogardus last week. Mr. Hassey sold his restaurant and is looking for a residence here. Township trustees who have been grafting are having troubles of their own just now. A firm of lawyers of Goshen are making investigations that are a revelation to the tax payers. It is estimated that 40 per cent of the trustees in Indiana have been systematically stealing and dividing with the supply houses, the money appropriated for the education of our children. In some cases of theft there may be mitigating circumstances, but the man who by virtue of his office becomes the custodian of a trust fund, set aside for the education of innocent and helpless children, and betrays that trust, should receive the severest punishment.

CULVER'S STRONG BALL TEAM

Gives Oak Park High a Drubbing Score—Nine to One.

Culver's team has reached that stage of its development where the average high school team is easy picking, as the result of Saturday's game shows. They played fast ball and good ball. There were few errors and there was not a loafer on the team. They took every chance that offered and generally made it good.

The first inning with Culver at the bat was the one that drove the spectators wild. Campbell lined out a clean two base hit. Warden's sacrifice beat him to first and center fielder McKelvey's long drive, scoring Campbell. Richardson fanned. Loucks hit for two bases, scoring McKelvey. Taylor beat a little one to first. Dazey smacked one out so far that it was lost to view while Loucks and Taylor raced home. Dazey's short legs simply blurred, and he beat the ball home by an eyebrow. Sheller beat a short one out and Moore's fly was pulled down. Moore found Struble and Templeton easy, and Cleary beat his little one through pitcher and short to first. Goodwillie took the stick, and with two on him, yielded to the blandishments of Dazey and hit at a "pasech."

Campbell flew out. Warden safe on error for first. Stole second and third, drawing a wild throw which scored him. McKelvey selected a short stick and Richardson was thrown out at first. Quale put one down in front of Moore and out at first. Nichol fanned. Johnson flew out to Sheller.

Loucks connected with a little one and out. Taylor safe on short's error; stole second and third. Sheller flew out to Goodwillie. Moore fanned. Skillen got to first on a little one. Moore tossed three over the plate for Benjamin. Struble hit it high and Dazey got under it. Temple placed one along first, scoring Skillen. Cleary thrown out at first.

In the sixth Campbell lined out to third too hot to hold. Warden sacrificed advancing Campbell. McKelvey drew a two bagger, scoring Campbell, and Richardson's long fly was hived by the left field. That particular young gentleman had a habit of gathering in anything that came his way that occasionally aroused enthusiasm. Templeton, Cleary and Goodwillie hit to the infield with fatal results.

Dazey singled. Sheller sacrificed and stole home. Moore gave right field a put out. Warden fanned, nullifying Campbell's good single. Quale, Nichol and Johnson went down before Moore's masterly delivery.

In the eighth, Louck's pretty catch of Struble's long fly was the feature.

The ninth was tame except for Jaquith's spectacular dash for second, cut down by the ruthless decision of an unseen umpire.

The game was pretty to look at. It is even prettier to think over. The lads from Chicago were not easy. They made no balloon ascensions. They had a bit of hard luck and a weak slab man. Culver hit freely and ran the bases well. They played ball all the time and good ball, too. But the season is just begun. There will be twirlers down to see us who are longing for revenge, and who have a card or so they won't show until it counts. There are many old scores which this year's team is expected to settle, so it will be well for Culver to work hard and work harder, and still to work.

Coach Crawford is certainly to be congratulated upon the improve-

AFTER THE PAINTING BY L. H. H. YAN

Easter

When mankind began to emerge from the brute condition, and to be dimly conscious of himself as related to others, and to what went on in nature all about him, one of the first things to impress him strongly must have been the changes from season to season, and especially the marvelous transition from the bleak frigidity and seeming death of winter to the opening life and abounding joyousness of spring, better during the long prevalence of cold to the dark caverns, where his remains are found with those of many extinct species of animals. It must have been like the dawning of a new existence when he was able to come out into the genial sunshine and feel the fresh life reclothing the trees and fields and renewing for him use the denizens of stream and forest. Everything that he could not explain was to him a miracle, and every separate manifestation of power, whether beneficent or hostile, he attributed to different deities. It was doubtless in the early stages of civilization, perhaps even antedating it, that the propensity of human nature to signify marked periods and great events in individual life or tribal and national existence by some observance first manifested itself, and among the earliest festivals established was the one which celebrated the Goddess of Spring, and which is perpetuated in our Easter. Her Anglo-Saxon name was Eostre, from which our name Easter comes.

There was no such observance in the early church, as testified by historians, but it soon grew up, and was at first preceded by only a single fast day. Gradually, based on a Babylonian fast of forty days, on legends of Buddha and Zoroaster having been tempted and having fasted forty days in the wilderness, and on the story of Jesus' fasting and temptation by the Devil, the period was prolonged to forty days, and after long disputes growing out of differences in the Gentile and Jewish churches the time for the celebration of Easter was fixed, supposedly by Pope Plus I.; but it was not till the Council of Nice that the controversy was finally settled and the rule established that Easter must be celebrated on the first Sunday after the 14th of the calendar moon which happens on or next after March 21. It commemorates, of course, as now in use, the story of the resurrection of Jesus. And at the same time bears evidence to the persistence with which old legends and customs survive.

The ecclesiastical historian Sozomen says that neither Christ nor his Apostles enjoined the keeping of this or any other festival. "The Apostles," he says, "had no thought of appointing festival days, but of promoting a life of blamelessness and piety," and he says Easter was introduced as the perpetuation of an old usage, "just as many other customs have been established."

We have seen that the ancient Anglo-Saxons had a spring festival, and we find that the Egyptians celebrated the death of Osiris with sad rites and his resurrection with joyful feasts and ceremonies for untold generations, with all the confidence and satisfaction that believers now experience. The great central fact was, and remains, the renewal of life. To us, as to all who have gone before us, life is the supreme mystery. The astronomers and microscopists sweep the skies and peer into the minutest organized forms, asking what it is, and whence, but no answer comes back. The chemist pursues its manifestations through all his manifold processes, till it seems almost within his grasp; but it eludes him. It seems to have deserted the bare branches, and the withered grass, but behold again the buds are swelling, fresh blades of living green clothe the sward, and everywhere, borne on the air, spread all over the earth, swarming in the mighty deep in forms of varied beauty, blooming in the flower, singing in the bird, striving and loving in men, frolics and pulses from shores beyond our ken the vast tide of life life—joyous, all-pervading life.

It is not alone to-day those who have their hope of existence unending on the bodily resurrection of Jesus, in which they believe, who are rejoicing, but millions the world over Buddhists and Mohammedans, Confucians and Brahmins, as well as men of no creed, find in the renewed vitality all about them the sign and promise that for all who share the abounding life which flows out from the bosom of the Great Father of all will dawn at last an Easter morning whose radiance shall never be shadowed by suffering or sorrow, and whose sun shall know no setting.

The Russian Festival.

The Russian Easter, with its festival joy, coincides with the beginning of spring. So very early is it—for that latitude—that on the preceding Sunday, Palm Sunday, pussy willows are used instead of palms, in every Russian dwelling, from the emperor's palace to the hut of the poorest peasant, simply because they are the only plant which shows a sign of life in that land of the far north. Easter in Europe corresponds with the Easter of the western world occasionally. Gradually it falls a week later, though occasionally the interval is much greater. Russia still uses the Julian calendar, which is now 13 days out of reckoning with the Gregorian calendar used by the nations of the west. A movement is on foot to provide an entirely new calendar, which the Russian mathematicians and astronomers guarantee shall be far more accurate than the Gregorian, and run for centuries without the need of a second's correction. As the Gregorian calendar emanated from Roman Catholic sources, they will have none of that, but something must be done; otherwise, say the progressive scientists who favor the change, Easter will eventually fall in July, Christmas in the spring, and so on.

Easter is the grand festival of the Russian year; therefore, for weeks beforehand every one is busy with the sort of preparations which people in America make before Christmas. A gift, be it only a gaily colored egg, is almost obligatory, though all gifts are known as "eggs." The grand feature of the day is, of course, the church service. In fact, the church festivals are also the national festivals of Russia (though the emperor is not, as for signers imagine, the head of the church), and almost every "function" in court or private life, begins with a religious service of some sort. About the only exceptions to this rule are balls and theatrical spectacles. The matins service begins at midnight, and is followed by the liturgy. The usual service in the middle of the morning is omitted, and most people are in their beds, recovering from the open-eyed night. Naturally, the most magnificent celebration is at the cathedral of the Winter Palace, in St. Petersburg, where the presence of the emperor, empress and all the court in full dress and uniforms adds to the magnificence of the service as a spectacle.

EVERY ONE ASKS HIM HOW HE GOT RID OF HIS OBSTINATE MUSCULAR RHEUMATISM.

Mr. Jones Tells of the Way by Which He Treated Himself Successfully When Doctors Failed.

Six physicians, all of them good, one of them a specialist, had done their best for Mr. Jones at different times during three years, and still he suffered fearfully from the tortures of rheumatism.

The rheumatism that had been dormant in his system was suddenly brought to an acute stage by exposure while he was drawing ice in February, 1901. From that time on for a period of more than three years he was a constant sufferer. He tried many kinds of treatment, but the rheumatism wouldn't budge. When regular doctors failed, and one remedy after another proved useless, many said: "I should think he would give it up and save his money."

Of his condition at this time, Mr. Jones says: "My rheumatism started in my right thigh, but in time it appeared in every muscle of my body. I lost the use of my left arm entirely and nearly lost the use of my right one. My feet were badly affected, especially the bottoms of the heels. When my right side was affected there was swelling, but the left side didn't swell when the disease settled there. The internal organs didn't seem to be involved at all. The trouble was all in the muscles and the nerves."

Among the few who still encouraged Mr. Jones to think that a cure might yet be found was a friend who had reason for great confidence in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and acting on her advice he bought a box of them in September, 1904. The story of what followed is brief, but nothing could be more satisfactory.

"When I was on the third box," says Mr. Jones, "I could realize a change for the better. I felt sure then that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were the right medicine for my case. I kept on with them for several weeks longer and now I am entirely well, and everybody is asking what I took."

Mr. William Jones lives at Oxford, Mich. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills effect wonderful cures in rheumatism, because they work directly on the blood which is the seat of the disease. They are sold by every druggist.

Sixth Sense in Birds.

In the animal kingdom the birds seem to be really the class highly favored by nature, says the New Century Path. Though they are not placed near the summit to the line of evolution, their ability to fly marks them off as having some advantages over nearly all the mammalia. Their mysterious power of changing their polarity or weight, in order to dive in water or soar in air, has often been discussed, and the almost incredible velocity of their motion when migrating, sometimes amounting to four miles a minute for vast distances, has no parallel among other animals.

And now a series of careful trials with carrier pigeons are reported from France, showing, apparently without doubt, their possession of a highly developed sense of direction. It was supposed that homing pigeons depended upon sight to find their way, but these new experiments have been conducted between Cereneas and Roanne in the darkness of night. In twenty minutes the first bird, dispatched at 10 p. m., reached its roost, a distance of seventeen miles being traversed. Half of the number arrived before midnight, and the remainder followed in a few hours.

A Wonderful Discovery.

Broadland, S. Dak., April 17.—Quite a sensation has been created here by the publication of the story of G. W. Gray, who after a special treatment for three months was prostrate and helpless and given up to die with Bright's Disease. Bright's Disease has always been considered incurable, but evidently from the story told by Mr. Gray, there is a remedy which will cure it even in the most advanced stages. This is what he says:

"I was helpless as a little babe. My wife and I searched everything and read everything we could find about Bright's Disease, hoping that I would be able to find a remedy. After many failures my wife insisted that I should try Dodd's Kidney Pills. I praise God for the day when I decided to do so, for this remedy met every phase of my case and in a short time I was able to get out of bed and after a few weeks' treatment I was a strong, well man. Dodd's Kidney Pills saved my life."

A remedy that will cure Bright's Disease will cure any lesser Kidney Disease. Dodd's Kidney Pills are certainly the most wonderful discovery which modern medical research has given to the world.

FIND AMERICAN ADMIRAL'S BODY

Workmen Under Gen. Porter Locate the Remains of John Paul Jones.

DOCTORS PERFORM AUTOPSY

Parisian Practitioners Declare There Are Well Developed Evidences of Disease From Which Naval Hero Is Known to Have Died.

Paris cablegram: The body of Paul Jones, the famous admiral of the American revolution, buried in the old St. Louis cemetery in Paris more than a hundred years ago, was found April 11, after a search lasting for five years.

The body will be conveyed to the United States by an American warship, possibly the flagship of the European squadron.

Paul Jones died in poverty and neglect in Paris on July 18, 1792. All record of his burial place was lost years ago. Gen. Horace Porter, the American ambassador, began a search for the body five years ago. After many false clues it seemed certain that the famous admiral had been buried in the old cemetery of St. Louis, a square of ground long since covered with buildings.

Gen. Porter's Work.

Gen. Porter employed a large force of workmen and tunneled and cross-tunneled beneath the basements of the buildings.

Hundreds of wooden caskets were found, but not until April 12 were unearthed four leaden caskets which gave promise of containing the body of the admiral. Three of them bore plates designating the names of the occupants. The fourth coffin was opened in the presence of Gen. Porter, Col. Bally-Blanchard, the second secretary of the American embassy, and Engineer Wells, who has been directed the excavation.

The body was found to be well preserved, owing to its being immersed in alcohol. It was wrapped in a sheet, with a packing of straw and hay. All present were immediately struck by the resemblance of the head to that of the medallions and busts of the admiral.

Uniform Is Lacking.

As was anticipated, no uniform, decoration or sword was found, as all such articles had been accounted for after the burial.

The coffin was taken to the medical school, where Drs. Capitan and Papillat, distinguished professors of the school of anthropology and recognized authorities on such investigations, were charged with making a thorough examination for the purpose of identification. To facilitate this the ambassador furnished them with portraits and medallions, two busts by Houdin and authentic descriptions of the color of the admiral's hair and the height and measurement of his body. After the most minute examination the following facts were fully substantiated:

Means of Identification.

Length of the body, 5 feet 7 inches; the admiral's exact height.

Hair dark brown, the same as the admiral's in places slightly gray, indicating a person of his age, 45 years. The hair is long, reaching below the shoulders, and is combed back and gathered in a clasp at the back of the neck.

The face is clean shaven, all corresponding exactly with the descriptions, portraits and busts of the admiral.

The linen is in good condition. One article bears an initial, either "J" or an inverted "P."

Findings that all the internal organs were singularly well preserved, the doctors made an autopsy, which showed distinct proofs of the disease from which the admiral is known to have died. The identification was pronounced complete in every particular.

The body will be deposited in the receiving vault of the American church on the Avenue de l'Alma until plans for its removal to the United States are completed.

CUTS THROATS OF HER BABIES

Mother Kills Herself by the Same Means, but Children Will Live.

Itasca, Wis., special: In a moment of apparent derangement, caused by the loss of sleep, Mrs. Oscar Lomoe arose from her sick bed and, procuring a razor, slashed the throats of her week-old infant girl and 6-year-old boy, after which she inflicted a long gash in her own throat. She died after remaining unconscious for several hours, but it is thought the children's lives will be saved. The husband and father is employed by the Omaha railroad as a cashier and dock agent at Itasca.

ILLINOIS LAWMAKERS AS VEGETABLE HURLERS

Actors Who Eclipse Cherry Sisters Bombarded With Miscellaneous Assortment of Garden Truck.

Springfield, Ill., dispatch: Illinois legislators threw cabbages and other vegetables at the performers in a vaudeville show by "home talent" at the opera house. The scenes eclipsed anything in the experience of the Cherry sisters.

Anticipating a show that would warrant a "rough house," the legislators flocked to the theater laden with the cabbages and other vegetables that they hurled at the actors. The climax was reached when a negro performer came on in costume to recite "Richard III."

The vegetables were all gone by this time, but the "gallery gods" pulled pieces of plaster off the walls and hurled them at the stage. Much of the plaster fell among the assembly-men and the body of the house as well as the stage was soon cleared of everyone except the negro, who held the boards until he had recited the last line and had won a wager that he would not be driven off. He wore an old set of armor and this protected him while he recited amid the fusillade.

CUT DOWN WHEAT CROP IN INDIANA COUNTIES

Cereal Will Soon Cease to Be Important Factor With Hoosier Farmers, Who Turn to Other Products.

Indianapolis, Ind., dispatch: The state statistician has figures that show alarming conditions in wheat production in Indiana, indicating that it will soon cease to be important. The average has fallen to one-third of what it usually was. In Howard county there are but 1,600 acres sown in wheat, against 8,000 in previous years.

Tipton county produced 17,657 acres of wheat in 1903. The yield was 246, 811 bushels. The following year 2,337 bushels were sown and a yield of 24, 694 harvested. This year there are only about 600 acres in the entire county in wheat.

Benton county produced 306,636 bushels of wheat in 1900. The grain averaged twelve bushels to the acre, but the two years following interest in the growing of this grain waned so much that for two years there has been scarcely any wheat grown in the entire county.

The other counties, with the exception of Benton, have tried the production of wheat to about the same extent as Howard county. For the last three years Benton county has been raising more than 50,000 acres of oats and about 100,000 acres of corn.

STEEL TRUST MAY HAVE RIVAL.

Schwab Helps to Form International Merger to Fight Combine.

New York special: Since Charles M. Schwab has been in Europe it has developed that his mission there is not alone to get contracts for the building of European navies, but principally to secure for the tremendous interests he represents the American interest in one of the most gigantic steel and iron combinations ever attempted.

For a long time it has been well known that a combination of the German, English, French and Italian steel and iron industries was being undertaken and that when perfected a company would be in existence formidable enough to combat the great United States Steel corporation.

There is no doubt that Mr. Schwab has captured the American end of the international trust, and that a war on the United States Steel corporation will soon begin.

SOCIALISM STIRS UP MORMONS

World Convention of Latter-Day Saints Indulges in Lively Debate.

Lamoni, Iowa, dispatch: The offer of resolutions proposing measures for a practical system of socialism aroused a lively discussion in the world convention of the Reorganized Church of Latter-Day Saints here. The resolutions provide, first, for the economic equality of all employees of the church and later the institution of the system whereby all members would likewise be placed on basis of economic equality. Efforts to get the resolutions before the body were unsuccessful, but the temper of the delegates is for free discussion and this may be had. Socialistic sentiment is growing within the church and some leaders predict that experiment will be tried before long.

BROKAW VALET IS SENTENCED

Servant Who Stole Auto Trophies Must Go to Sing Sing.

New York dispatch: Oscar Johnstone, formerly a valet in the employ of W. Gould Brokaw, was sentenced to Sing Sing prison for fifteen years. Johnstone was convicted of stealing half a dozen silver cups which had been won by Mr. Brokaw in automobile races and other articles from Mr. Brokaw's summer residence and then setting fire to the house to cover up the theft.

Modus Vivendi on Fishermen.

Washington, D. C., special: Premier Hon. of Newfoundland has provided for a suspension of the act excluding American fishermen from the waters of the island and this is taken to mean that an understanding soon will be reached with reference to the Hay-Bond treaty.

"MY WIFE'S PEOPLE COMING" In Western Canada.

Canada's influx this year is wonderfully great and considerably ahead of any previous year. It is always interesting to those who contemplate moving to read expressions of opinion from those living in the country. It is therefore our pleasure to reproduce the following, written to an Agent of the Immigration Branch of the Department of the Interior at Ottawa: Birch Hills, Sask., Canada, Feb. 1, '06.

Dear Sir:—I take pleasure in dropping you a few lines to let you know how we are getting along up here and how we like the place. We have been here close on to a year now and think the place is fine. We have been out every day this winter working in the bush getting out logs for buildings, etc., getting rails for fencing. We have not suffered with the cold as much as we did in Chicago. My little boys are out every day with their sleighs having a good time. The lowest the temperature has been this winter is 34 below, and it is very still, no wind.

We had a splendid summer. We put up about 50 tons of hay and will have about 20 tons to sell. Hay brings $8 per ton now and will be higher in the spring. We have 20 acres broke and ready for crop. We worked on the Can. Nor. Ry. for awhile this summer and am just 3 miles from the R. R. and town site. The steel is all laid to within 2 miles of the river and we often see the train bringing supplies for the bridge.

My wife's people are coming up about May. I wish you would write them and if there should be any one coming to Prince Albert that could do with a half a car let them know. The homesteads are all taken up within 12 miles of us. I often think if this land were only in the States what a rush there would be. It is the richest land and most productive I ever saw, and the climate is O. K.

I know that people back there that I write to do not believe me when I write them what a splendid winter we are having. They think we are all frozen up. We have only about 8 inches of snow, and there are cattle on the range that have not been roused up this winter. Day after day the thermometer rises up to 30 and 60, and I don't believe we have had a day this winter that it stayed at zero. My wife says that we used to think that zero was cold in Chicago. But we don't mind it one bit. Christmas night we went out and drove 5 miles with our 3 little boys, it was 20 below, and there was not a whimper from any one of them; I'd hate to do it in old Chicago.

Well, I guess I will close, and you can tell any one in the U. S. that they cannot do better than come to the Prince Albert District. I remain, Yours truly, (Signed) J. D. Head.

Every housekeeper should know that if they will buy Defiance Cold Water Starch for laundry use they will save not only time, because it never sticks to the iron, but because each package contains 16 oz.—one full pound—while all other Cold Water Starches are put up in 8-ounce packages, and the price is the same, 10 cents. Then again because Defiance Starch is free from all injurious chemicals. If your grocer tries to sell you a 12-oz. package it is because he has a stock on hand which he wishes to dispose of before he puts in Defiance. He knows that Defiance Starch has printed on every package in large letters and figures "16 oz." Demand Defiance and save much time and money and the annoyance of the iron sticking. Defiance never sticks.

About Rheumatism.

There are few diseases that inflict more torture than rheumatism and there is probably no disease for which such a varied and useless lot of remedies have been suggested.
To say that it can be cured, is,
therefore, a bold statement to make,
but Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which enjoys an extensive sale, has met with great success in the treatment of this disease. One application of Pain Balm will relieve the pain, and hundreds of sufferers have testified to permanent cures by its use. Why suffer when Pain Balm affords such quick relief and costs but a trifle? For sale by

Value of Self-Possession.

To lose self-control is to lose the key to any situation. No man who cannot hold himself in hand can expect to hold others. It has been well said that, in any discussion or disagreement with another, if you are in the wrong you cannot afford to lose your temper, and if you are in the right there is no occasion to. Or, as a lawyer has wittily put it, "possession is nine points of the law; self-possession is ten."—Colton.

An Unanswerable Argument.

This is the season of the year when a great many people find it hard to get up in the morning. But it probably never occurs to them, as it did to Gladstone's granddaughter, Miss Dorothy Drew, when she was not more than seven, that the Scriptures emphasize the vanity of early rising. Dorothy possively refused to get up one morning, and her grandfather had to be called to overawe the rebel.

"Why don't you get up Dorothy?"
he asked.

"Because the Bible doesn't approve of early rising, grandfather," was the unexpected reply.

"Really, Dorothy," said the astonished statesman, "you must be mistaken."

"Oh, no, I'm not," she persisted;
"here it is," and she turned up the second verse of the 127th Psalm:
"It is in vain for you to rise up early." The old parliamentarian had nothing more to say. The argument floored him.

New Book on California.

Colorado and California is a pleasantly written narrative anent the country between Chicago and San Francisco traversed by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul
Ry., and its western connections.
The story cleverly carries the traveler from place to place along the route, pointing out the prominent and attractive features en passant, and while it goes fully into particulars it does not become tiresome or dull, and the illustrations which adorn the tale are all ample, graphic, and well executed.

The make-up is admirable, showing discriminating taste, and that deftness which comes from long experience; the text is in leaded 10-point on coated book, with the marginal sub-heads in Bismarck brown, and the covers show mountain and canyon scenery in color-type on delicate azure-tinted plate, with the title embossed in bronze—

How Is Your Heart?

Is your pulse weak, too slow,
too fast, or does it skip a beat?
Do you have shortness of breath, weak or hungry spells, fainting, smothering or choking spells, palpitation, fluttering, pains around the heart, in side and shoulder, or hurt when lying on left side?

If you have any of these symptoms your heart is weak or diseased, and cannot get better without assistance.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure strengthens weak hearts, and rarely ever fails to cure heart disease. Try it, and see how quickly you will find relief.

"About January 1st, 1902, I took down with weakness and droopy, and gradually grew worse. I was told by my family physician that my case was hopeless. My neighbors and family had given me up to die. My limbs and body were swollen to such third degree that I could not sit, stand or walk. I was confined to my bed for at least three months. I had to sit propped up in bed to keep from smothering. I sent for five bottles of Dr.
Miles' Heart Cure, and by the time I had taken them all I was entirely cured. I feel better than I have for twenty years, and I am able to do any kind of work on my farm. My attending physician told me that if it hadn't been for Dr. Miles' Heart Cure
I would have died."

F. A. During the summer of 1904, the St. Paul Road made arrangements to cover all of its sleeping car berths with white spreads. The latter are long enough to admit of their being folded over the blankets, com-

SAFE ROBBERS SECURE $8,540

Four Men Dynamite Safe in Private Institution at Churubusco, Ind.

BANKER'S WIFE IS WOUNDED

One of the Bandits Shoots Woman in the Neck, but She is Not Seriously Hurt—Explosion Ruins Interior of Building.

Churubusco, Ind., dispatch: The safe in the private bank of Oscar Gandy & Co. was dynamited at 3:30 a. m. Thursday and robbed of $8,540. The four robbers, who are fleeing in a stolen rig, are being pursued in an automobile owned by Banker Gandy. Four suspects drove through Huntertown at 5 a. m.

Mrs. Oscar Gandy, wife of the banker, was shot in the neck by one of the bandits. She is not seriously wounded.

Hold Citizens at Bay.

The explosion that wrecked the safe was heard throughout the town and in a few moments many persons were on the street. They were received by shots from rifles in the hands of two men, who stood at the bank doors and fired up and down the street, all the time shouting to the people not to advance. The work inside was done by the other two robbers. The necessary tools were taken from the blacksmith shop of Homer Cutter at midnight.

Building is Damaged.

All the windows in the bank building were broken by the explosion, which wrecked the safe. The interior of the bank building and all the fixtures were so badly damaged that they are practically useless.

The robbers overlooked two packages of currency, containing $1,000 each, which were found on the floor under the safe door.

On Lookout for Robbers.

Surrounding towns have been notified to be on the lookout for and descriptions have been furnished of two suspicious characters who were in a local poolroom Wednesday afternoon. The bank is doing business as usual, but with crude facilities. New fixtures and a new safe have been ordered. The bank is insured against loss by burglary.

WARNER FINDS PENSION LEAK

Discovers Error by Which Undeserving Draw Government Funds.

Washington dispatch: Commissioner of Pensions Warner has discovered that in addition to granting pensions under the "old age" order to members of a Pennsylvania militia regiment, the pension bureau has allowed about 100 claims on applications made prior to April 13, 1904, the date on which the order went into effect. The amounts are trivial in all the cases, but the commissioner will require that they be refunded. He says that in this matter the mistake was due to an error in the construction of the law. The commissioner has not yet received explanations from all the examiners involved in the Pennsylvania militia matter, and is not, therefore, prepared to announce his decision. Those heard from admit their error, but plead mitigating circumstances.

STATE CANNOT TRY A SOLDIER

War Department Refuses to Surrender Sergeant Accused of Murder.

Washington special: The War Department has sustained the action of the commanding officer of the army post at Fort Caswell, N. C., in refusing to surrender to the state authorities of North Carolina for trial in the state courts Sergeant Lee Kye, who, it is alleged, shot and killed Corporal Thomas Harris of the Thirty-Eighth company, coast artillery, a few weeks ago. The action of the War Department is based on the fact that the alleged offense was committed on a government reservation, which is not under state jurisdiction. The prisoner will be tried in a United States court.

WOMEN USE TAR AND FEATHERS

Drive Out Young Feminine Resident Who Was Objectionable to Them.

Hudson, Mich., dispatch: A young and attractive woman was tarred and feathered here by fifteen women and four men, and forced to leave the town, in which she had lived only a short time. The woman's conduct was objectionable and complaints were made to the police. When no official action was taken the vigilance committee of nineteen took the law in their own hands. The victim left town.

Pythian Ranks Grow.

Richmond, Ind., dispatch: Charles E. Shively, supreme chancellor of the Knights of Pythias, received from R. L. C. White of Nashville, Tenn., supreme keeper of records and seal, the official count of the members of the order. The report shows that the total membership is 622,353, a net gain during the last year of 27,683.

Havana cablegram: Mgr. Chapell, the archbishop of New Orleans, has been definitely relieved from the office of apostolic delegate in Cuba. He probably will be succeeded by a prelate of the Curia.

AGED MAN REMEMBERS KINDNESS OF TEACHER

Woman who Went to Assistance of Stranger in Streets of Denver is Given $35,000 by His Will.

Denver, Col., special: Mrs. Walter G. Owen of 480 Central Park West, New York, has just been presented $35,000 as a bequest from a man she aided while he was in trouble in Denver many years ago. The giver is the late A. Grinnell, a wealthy property owner of Chicago. The clause in the Grinnell will reads: "To Dagmar Hansen, school-teacher of Denver, I bequeath $35,000." This codicil was added just before Mr. Grinnell left Chicago for Florida on what proved to be his last trip, for he died soon after. A member of the firm of Reed & Reed of Chicago came to Denver and located Miss Hansen.

It was during the winter of 1895 that Miss Hansen was hurrying along Sixteenth street one day when she saw an aged man slip and fall to the ground, where he lay unconscious. She went to his assistance, called a carriage and had him taken to the Brown Palace hotel. Her role of the good Samaritan was continued for several days and she frequently dropped in to the hotel to inquire for the patient. A pleasing though short acquaintance resulted. In the busy life of the schoolroom the incident was almost forgotten. Miss Hansen left Denver in 1896 to accept a position in the public schools of Chicago. She had won fame by originating a cleverly designed map in bas-relief which attracted the attention of educators all over the country.

Teaching was to be her life work, she declared, but she reckoned without considering the interference of Walter G. Owen, a wealthy and aristocratic broker of New York city. An affair of the heart abbreviated her sojourn in Chicago, and today she is the mistress of a comfortable New York home. This legacy from the aged man she had befriended comes as a complete surprise to the beneficiary.

ANDREW FREEDMAN IS JILTED

Miss Elsie Rothschild Breaks Engagement to Baseball Magnate.

New York dispatch: Almost as brief as the meteoric courtship was the engagement of Andrew Freedman, millionaire baseball magnate and intimate friend of Richard Croker, and Miss Elsie Rothschild, daughter of Jacob Rothschild, who owns the Hotel Majestic. The engagement has been broken by the girl's family.

"My daughter feels that she could not be happy and that is the only reason I care to assign," said Mrs. Rothschild. "We want to spare Mr. Freedman as much unpleasantness as possible. My daughter discovered her real inclinations in the nick of time."

May 25 had been selected as the day of the marriage and the wedding arrangements were almost complete.

CHADWICK PLEA IS NOT GUILTY

Ohio Woman and Banker in Court Deny Conspiracy Charge.

Cleveland, Ohio, dispatch: Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick when arraigned in the United States district court Friday pleaded not guilty to the charge of aiding and abetting Cashier A. B. Spear of the Oberlin bank in making false entries in the bank's books and in making untrue statements to the comptroller of the currency. Spear was also arraigned and pleaded not guilty to the joint indictment. The court increased Mrs. Chadwick's bail from $20,000 to $27,000. Mrs. Chadwick's attorneys are quietly at work in another attempt to secure bail for her.

PLAN TO GET CARNEGIE FUNDS

Steel Master to Be Asked to Give $12,500,000 to Fifty Colleges.

Des Moines, Iowa, dispatch: President Bradley of Iowa college at Grinnell has announced that a plan was recently presented to Andrew Carnegie which, if adopted, will mean the gift of a sum aggregating $12,500,000 to fifty colleges located in seventeen of the middle western states. It is proposed that this sum shall be apportioned among the various colleges at an average of $250,000 for each institution, $50,000 to be used by each school for a science building and the remainder for an endowment for that department.

SCORES ARE INJURED IN WRECK

Sixty-Seven Reported Hurt in Ditching of Train in Mississippi.

Vicksburg, Miss., dispatch: Valley passenger train No. 15, south-bound, was ditched near Hardee station, sixteen miles north of here. Reports state that sixty-seven passengers were injured. A special train carrying physicians has gone to the scene of the wreck. It is reported the entire passenger train rolled down an embankment.

Mob Murders Sheriff.

Senatobia, Miss., dispatch: Sheriff J. M. Poag of Tate county was shot and killed by a mob of masked men, who entered the jail for the purpose of liberating James Whit, a white prisoner, who is to be placed on trial on a charge of murder.

Gift for Tuskegee.

New York dispatch: The largest bequest ever made by a colored person to Tuskegee institute was recorded in New York when the will of Mary E. Shaw of Philadelphia was probated.

RUSSIAN WORKMEN ARE UNEASY

Labor Element in the Cities and Peasants in the Country, Preparing for Great Celebration on May Day, Cause Appeals for Protection.

Developments all point to a crisis in the present agitation among the workmen of the cities and the peasants in the country on May day, and appeals are pouring in from all quarters of Russia for military protection. The St. Petersburg workmen are preparing a great demonstration. Arms and bombs in large quantities have been smuggled in and bloodshed on a large scale is feared. Wealthy persons who ordinarily go to villas on the islands of the Neva, or to neighboring country places, this year are going abroad.

The government has taken few special measures to meet the situation, evidently relying on the troops and police to guard the capital. The latter are extremely active. All the prominent agitators are being arrested or have already been sent back to the villages from which they originally came. The prisons are filled to overflowing.

The news from the interior is alarming, especially from the Baltic provinces, where the entire population is in a state of intense excitement. The cities are being flooded with revolutionary proclamations calling on the people to rise on May day. The criminal classes are taking advantage of the situation to pillage and plunder, while in the country the landlords are powerless to cope with the peasants and demand troops at every station.

From Dunaburg, government of Vilna, come reports that the Jews are in a state of panic over the circulation of proclamations similar to those which preceded the outbreaks at Kishineff and Gomel.

At Ekaterinoklav three revolutionists who were surrounded by police fought their way to liberty, killing or wounding several of the latter.

A dispatch from Kars says the employees of the Trans-Caucas railroad are on strike and that 100 miles of the track have been damaged.

In receiving a delegation of workmen from Moscow Finance Minister Kokovsov gave notice to the workmen of Russia that a government commission is now formulating legislation to remedy the greater part of their grievances, including state insurance against sickness, accident and age, and for shortening the hours of labor, abolishing the prohibition of unions and criminal punishment for strikes, and for the establishment of an industrial court in which employers and employed shall be represented. He declared that the energy with which the commission is working gives it the right to demand sufficient time for the preparation and consideration of proposed laws and said that industrial disturbances such as have occurred hamper instead of furthering the work.

Rojevskensky Changes Course.

Admiral Rojevskensky's squadron is believed by the intelligence division of the German navy department to be lying off the Cuyo Islands, eighty miles south of Mindoro, Philippine Islands, receding and preparing for the last stage of its long voyage. Although these islands belong to the United States, they have fine anchorages outside the three-mile limit with hard bottom at twenty to twenty-five fathoms.

The German navy department received in a telegram from one of the East Indian ports an indication that the Russians, when off the southern end of Ceylon, April 11, changed their course and headed on a course which would bring them to Cuyo Islands, 800 miles distant, in four days at the rate of eight knots an hour. The Cuyo Islands lie tactically in such a position that the approaches easily can be watched by the Russian scouts. Three cruisers, it was added, had been detached, presumably for a diversion on the coasts of Japan, and probably in the hope of calling off Admiral Togo in pursuit.

Headed for Vladivostok.

According to a statement made by one of the doctors on board the Russian hospital ship Orel at Saigon, the ships of the Baltic squadron are going to Vladivostok.

April 11 being the last day the Russian vessels were sighted, it is the opinion of many that Rojevskensky has changed his course, possibly to the eastward, as otherwise it is considered certain the fleet would have again been sighted by passing steamers.

The correspondent at Hongkong of the London Daily Mail telegraphs a report made by a steamer on April 11 that the Russian warships presented a serviceable and businesslike appearance.

The London Daily Telegraph's Tokyo correspondent says:

"Owing to military necessities the residents of Vladivostok are suffering privations. Five submarine boats have arrived at Vladivostok from America. The cruisers Gromoboi and Rossia are kept in constant readiness to leave port."

Japs Have Ideal Base.

A British naval officer who knows the China sea well says the Mankung harbor in the Pescadores, between Formosa and China, which the Japanese have chosen as one of their naval bases for operations against the Russian squadron, is an ideal base for torpedo operations. The harbor is located in the southwest part of the miles, so that it is quite sheltered, even from typhoons. He thinks that the fact that the Japanese have now revealed this position indicates that they are satisfied that there is no longer any possibility of Rojevskensky hearing of it before he arrives in the Straits of Formosa, the southern entrance of which he must now be nearing.

No Naval Engagement.

The imperial ordinance which declares Mankung harbor, in the Pescadores Islands, in a state of siege has become operative. The naval department pronounces the reports of a naval engagement recently off Saigon to be unfounded.

Many Wounded on Orel.

Rear Admiral Train, in command of the American fleet in Asiatic waters, received a telegram from Saigon, the capital and principal port of French Cochinchina, reporting the arrival of the Russian hospital ship at Orel at 8 o'clock on the morning of April 13. The Orel had many wounded men on board.

The Orel remained at Saigon thirty-six hours and took aboard 900 tons of coal, as well as supplies of provisions and medicines.

The St. Petersburg admiralty's advice from Saigon do not mention any wounded men being on board the Russian hospital ship Orel. She probably has sick sailors on board. It is understood that the Orel will rejoin Rojevskensky's squadron, which, it is said, may be standing off somewhere up the coast awaiting the hospital ships. The admiralty has not received any dispatches lately from Rojevskensky.

Russian Army in Kirin.

It is reported that the main force of the Russians, which retired in the direction of Hsingking, has reached Kirin. The rear guard, which is estimated at 12,000 men, continues in the vicinity of Harlung Cheng, closely in touch with the Japanese vanguard. The main force, which retired from Kalyuan, over the Kirin road, is reported at Kirin with a rear guard of 8,000 men at Itschuw, Haklusu and Sulipo, keeping in touch with the Japanese forces. Changheng is evidently the rallying point for the Changtu and Pakumen forces. Although a force, estimated at 13,000 men, has been detailed to occupy Fenchua, and 3,000 to hold Pamencheng, the latter force seems assigned to check and retard the Japanese advance.

Russians Raid Railroad.

Russian troops have raided successfully the railroad in the direction of Kalyuan, about twenty miles north of the Pass. A dispatch from General Linovich, dated April 13, to Emperor Nicholas, says: "Our cavalry April 9 destroyed the railroad and wires near Yakutzu and between Kalyuan and the telegraph line near Kalyuan."

Sack Russian School.

The pupils of the Ecclesiastical seminary at Tamboff have struck. When the rector and priests attempted to induce them to return to their studies the pupils drove them out and later sacked the institution. Troops were finally sent to the scene of the disturbance and many of the pupils were wounded before order was restored.

Stoessel Not Condemned.

There is no truth in the report from Cracow that Lieutenant General Stoessel had been as a formality condemned to death by the commission appointed to inquire into the surrender of Fort Arthur.

Portions of Old Bastille Found.

Recent excavations in the Place de la Bastille, Paris, for the extension of the Metropolitan, the new Paris subway, have led to the discovery of the main postern and drawbridge of the historic prison fortress. Hewn stone and rusted iron and cannon balls have also been unearthed and taken to the Musee Carnavalet. The gate itself will be carefully excavated. All the stones will be numbered and the postern will be reconstructed on the avenue Henri IV, where a part of one of the towers of the Bastille has already been set up.

Old Men Still in Demand.

At least one London editor seems to be unimpressed by Dr. Osler's theory as to the uselessness of men after the age of 40. He advertises in the Globe as follows: "Editor-reporter wanted for old-established weekly, experienced in public affairs, and must be between 40 and 50; young and 'bravely' applicants need not apply."

CHAPTER XII.

"Had I Wist Before I Kist."

I returned to the Blue Boar, my spirits again soaring. I found there awaiting me a footboy with a scented note. It was from Lady Dwight, and in it she invited me to her house upon the following day.

What should Lady Dwight, a person I had never seen, and the mother of the man who was my cherished foe, want of me, I conjectured.

The next afternoon, as I dressed to go there, putting on white satin breeches, flowered waistcoat and point lace, Gil watched me with a sober face, lending a helping hand whenever I needed one. Presently he took a rapier from the rack against the wall, and striking an attitude went through many of the old tricks we had oft practiced at home, saying, "Dost remember this and this?"

I was undecided between two cravats; I tried on first one and then the other, finally deciding upon the first. When I had knotted it to my satisfaction I looked at him lazily. His solicitation was becoming annoying, and all on account of the duel I had told him I was booked for.

"Have done, Gil, have done," I cried petulantly. "The glitter of that steel makes my eyes to water. Wouldst have me attend on Lady Dwight—whenever in the devil she is—with red eyelids?" Then, as he persevered, I demanded, "Hast no confidence in thy pupil?"

"I like it not," he said; "if you should give him his quietus there would be a hue and cry throughout London, and then I would not give a pinch of salt for the relativity of the house of Waters."

"Ah, I see. 'Tis not over your pupil you are so concerned, but over the other fellow," I said banteringly. "I promise you I will not kill him, as you

I followed the footman in buff and gold livery to the door of her boudoir. There, crouching on a fur rug, was the quaintest little page imaginable, a negro black as ebony and all of a grin.

"The gemman am 'spected," he said, rolling his eyes and bowing to the floor. He opened a door.

"The gemman, Missy," he cried, and again making his bow lower, it possible, than before, vanished.

The lady was seated before the fireplace. A hand screen protected her delicate face from the rosy glow of its flame.

I bowed before her and then looked up. Another surprise! Lady Dwight was the world-worn beauty whom I had escorted into London!

She was exquisitely attired in some sort of gray cloth, soft and clinging, embroidered in delicate plaid buds. She never wore any other color, and I learned how many varying shades of gray there were, and how one might wear but one color and yet have a diversity of attire. Her hair was dressed a la negligence. Beautiful gray hair! and she had patches on her face. She was also rouged.

I kissed the hand she extended to me—I trusted she had not heard of the enmity between her son and myself; I even felt my heart soften a little toward him for his mother's sake.

"Hast found London to your liking, Mister Waters?" she asked, after she had greeted me.

"Indeed, yes," I replied. "'Tis vastly interesting."

"With what do you occupy your self?" she questioned.

"Need you ask in London?" I said with a smile.

"As the other sparks, no doubt; wine, women and music?" she said. I shrugged my shoulders.

"Or, perhaps, you are more serious—

open the door for her, when Lady Dwight said:

"Stay, Rosemary."

She turned and came back.

"Rosemary, this is Master Quentin Waters, of whom you have heard me speak," she said. To me, "My niece, Mistress Rosemary Allyn."

The lady made me a low courtesy. I returned it with quite as low a bow, my hand upon my heart. Thus was I introduced to my Mistress.

"Lad, Aunt! not the gallant highwayman with whom you danced the minuet?" she cried. "Know, sir," she continued to me, "you were honored, indeed, Lady Dwight is the toast of five counties around for her grace and beauty."

"Nay, Rosemary, was, my dear, was," she admitted with pride. "That time is long past—long past. I now yield my place to you, my dear."

"When you are no more, dear Aunt Elaine," she said, kissing the still smooth cheek of her aunt, "not till then shall I hear the palm."

"And, Rosemary, you certainly know that this gentleman is not the highwayman, but he who escorted me into London after the robbery," she explained. "You would not expect to meet a highwayman here—you are but trifling, as usual."

"Oh, lad!" she ejaculated, "what a mistake." To me, "Will pardon me?" "With pleasure," I answered; "for he was a gallant slip of a fellow."

"Without doubt," said she. "Aunt quite lost her heart, and if he be brought to London to hang on Tyburn 'twould be the ending of her, I do believe."

"Tush, Rosemary," cried her aunt; "cease your little-tattle."

"You know, Aunt Elaine, you did say that he had both grace and daring, and was so handsome," she continued, unheeding. "Oh, to meet a man like that some day—our Londoners are but women dressed in men's clothes."

"It is hard to obtain favor in Mistress Rosemary Allyn's eyes," I said. "And you can do not else than let thy tongue run, Rosemary, let it run to a purpose," said Lady Dwight, gently. "Get thy lute and sing for us."

The spoiled beauty made a move at me as she took her lute from the corner nearby. She sat down facing us and began to sing, lightly touching the strings of her instrument with her fingers.

"'Tis had I wist before I kist. 'Tis love had been see fit to win. I had lockt my heart in a cage of gold, And plann'd it with a silver pin."

Lady Dwight now took the opportunity to ask me many questions about my home. She should have stopped that sly little babbling from those wine-colored lips of my love had she wanted rational answers. "You said you came from what part of England?" she queried.

I did not at first hear her and she had to repeat her question. "The southern part of Sussex," I managed to say.

"One of the Waters of East India fame?" she asked.

"No, I believe we do not boast of descending from that branch of the family," I murmured; "Waters of Long Haat."

"Your father," she whispered, "is he dead? I cannot bring him to mind."

"No madame," I answered, "but he has not been in London for years—Roderick Waters."

"And I myself were dead and gone! And the green grass growing over me!" The sweet voice sang on; my eyes were glued to her face. With a little cry she flung down her lute. I followed her glance of distress. It rested on Lady Dwight, fallen back in her chair in a dead faint.

For a second there was great excitement, maids rushing hither and thither with smelling salts, wine and spirits; calls for a chirurgeon. Upon the lady's regaining consciousness I made my adieu, with Rosemary's anxious face before me and her words, "What did you say to her?—she has not fainted so in years," ringing in my ears.

BIT OF REED'S HISTORY.

Building Where He Once Taught School in California.

Until recently there stood in a pretty oak grove in the heart of Stockton, Calif., a forlorn-looking brick building, which perhaps in its palmy days had some architectural beauty to recommend it; but for a long time, as age and neglect began to show disfiguring hands upon the structure, its windows stared blankly and its shutters creaked upon their rusty hinges until people fancied the old place was haunted.

If the old walls could have spoken, what interesting anecdotes they would have been able to relate of bygone days! What tales might be told out of school! for this building was once Van Dorn hall, "built expressly for school purposes," and famous as the place where Thomas B. Reed, late speaker of the house of representatives, taught school for several months.

He was then a young man, a giant in size and strength, fresh from Bowdoin college, and he came to Stockton to fill the position vacated by his former classmate, W. E. Greene, who recommended him highly as his successor.

It was the first and last position held by Tom Reed as a school teacher; for soon afterward he received the appointment of assistant paymaster in the U. S. navy, and he then returned in 1864 to his eastern home.—William S. Rice in Sunset Magazine.

Old Laces the Fashion.

"What are the new laces?" asked a woman shopper of the head of the lace department. A polite look of surprise greeted her. "Madame," said the head of the department, "we do not handle new laces here. The novelty laces will be found upon the bargain counters and at the notion department. Here we keep the old laces and the laces of standard makes. This year we have old laces of China and Russia."

All the same, there are pretty novelty laces which might worthily find their way into any wardrobe. These come in the imitations and are in new forms and patterns. One can do an immense deal with the handsome laces, which are made of a combination of two kinds of lace, heavy and fine, and which look really elegant in consequence of their make and pattern. They are novelty imitations and come cheap.

The standard laces of the year include the Oriental list and are intrinsic and beautiful. They are nearly all hand-worked, in colors, and they are fascinatingly lovely. One can use them to great advantage in the making of the cloth gowns of the season. They form the most beautiful revers, which are turned back from vests of pale silk.

Attractive Togue.

The new millinery is very interesting, one of the very newest models being an exact reproduction of a toque worn by Marie Antoinette, of which a picture is extant. This little hat has a wide Tam O'Shanter crown, plaited to a narrow inverted saucer shaped brim, the space filled with a "smoke" feather, the end of which curls down low on the left with several small tips forming an aigret at the left back. This hat, like all the little new turbans, is worn forward, slightly tilted up at the left, but showing the hair full and fluffy in front—in fact, the new wrinkle with most of the new hats is to deftly pin the hair waves up over the bandeaux.

Return of Pendant Earrings.

Cluster settings for earrings such as emeralds surrounded by pearls, or by diamonds, are at present the correct thing among stage women and others who like pronounced effects, says the Jewelers' Circular Weekly. These earrings are made up in the same forms as the jeweled buttons now in vogue in velvet frocks.

Pendant earrings in old-fashioned silver and gold, with added settings of gems are being displayed in some of the oriental shops, while antique shows offer their quaintest in earrings. If the rage for costumes of certain periods should continue jewelers predict that the pendant earrings, much bejeweled, may return.

Overshirts Not Worn.

Skirts, here and there, still strive gently for tunic effects, but the always-discussed overskirt is still in the purgatory of dead and offending styles. There is not the least prospect that it will be revived, any more than the hoop as a hoop will be revived, for after tentative efforts with wired hoops and stiffened underbodies, petticoats are once more definitely limp in fall. Three deep flounces deck some dressy models, while another skirt may be entirely in box plaits, with sometimes a most eccentric employment of two materials.

Going-Away Gown.

Of dark blue taffeta, with vest of white moire etched in gold. Hat to correspond.

Easter Bridal Robe.

A very beautiful bridal robe for one of New York's Easter brides is of white peau de soie. The blouse bodice is gathered with a deep pointed belt, on which simple buttons are set. Brussels lace borders the fichu silk muslin, ending in front with a cord, beneath which rich trimming of lace is to be seen. And there is a bouquet.

lace, and the entire garment is made up over a trained petticoat of white chiffon.

To meet the elbow sleeves, which are close fitting, are worn long white suede gloves, which are not allowed to wrinkle at all, but are close fitting as a button glove. There is Brussels lace, an heirloom, which is the ultra smart thing for the American girl, who is now beginning to count generations of ancestors.

If there were no heirloom the veil would be silk, fine, net edged with real lace.

Fetching Negligee.

Here is shown one of those attractive boudoir jackets that is picturesque and dainty without being in the least expensive or difficult to fashion. The broad ripple collars forms a graceful drapery, while the black velvet ribbon outlining the V neck and defining the waist renders this garment one of individual charm. A robin's egg blue chalice or silk would serve admirably for this model.

Chicken Pie.

Use two young chickens which are too large for broilers. Cut them up, put into skillet, season with one teaspoonful of salt, one-half teaspoonful of pepper, and fry brown; add one pint of water, cover closely and let them simmer on back of stove until pie crust is made.

Make a soft dough of sour cream and soda, as for biscuits. For gravy take one-half cup of butter, one tablespoonful of flour; mix thoroughly and stir into the skillet with the fried chicken; add one pint of water, that gravy may be plentiful.

Now line a stone milk crock with the dough, rolled to one-quarter-inch thickness, and pour into it the chicken and rich gravy; cover with a layer of dough and bake thirty minutes. The best ever tried!

An Evening Wrap.

A favorite type of garment for evening wear is of shawllet, descending in the back to within a yard of the ground, and rather less long in front, and a peculiar but very satisfactory idea is to mount this sort of wrap on to a round yoke reaching almost to the shoulder.

These wraps are made of all descriptions of materials, from fur to lace, the latter, of course, lined, and very frequently completed by a fur yoke. On to the latter it is mounted in folds, some sort of garniture descending on the edge of each fold at least half way down the garment, which has a corresponding trimming on the hem. In no case are both yoke and wrap of the same material.—Montreal Herald.

Fashion's Changes.

As to styles—at first glance you would say everything is good; for short coats, long coats and in-between coats seem jumbled up in a hopeless confusion. But everything isn't good by long odds, although there never was a season before which started with such a bewildering variety. Most of the changes—except for sleeve styles—are subtle rather than radical, so that you have to look deep into things to discover why your last year's clothes are not right. Yet you recognize at first glance that they are not. It's the why and wherefore that you have to ponder over. The differences are not radical, yet they most definitely exist. Skirts are quite a little fuller around the feet, and if you can discover a new way to increase that fullness still more you will be beating Dame Fashion at her own tricks.

Silks in New Designs.

The quaintest of silks are back-checked and flowered and pin-striped—but in the softest, most "chiffony" of qualities, and with curious distinctions of weave and design. Some of them have the changeable effects so soft. In some cases, as to be subtle—to lose the actual sense of an extra color, and instead to give nothing but a light and a life to the silk.

Blouses and Coats.

In blouses and coats there is a gradual leaning to the lines brought out by the new corsets—the little, graceful curve at the waist line that the last corset so rebelliously hid.

ALL BROKEN DOWN.

No Sleep—No Appetite—Just a Constant Backache.

Joseph McCauley, of 144 Sholto street, Chicago, Sacbom of Tecumseh Lodge, says: "Two years ago my health was completely broken down. My back ached and was so lame that at times I was hardly able to dress myself. I lost my appetite and was unable to sleep. There seemed to be no relief until I took Doan's Kidney Pills; but four boxes of this remedy effected a complete and permanent cure. If suffering humanity knew the value of Doan's Kidney Pills they would use nothing else, as it is the only positive cure I know."

No More of Herculeanum.

The proposed formation of an international organization to conduct extensive excavations at Herculeanum is regarded at Naples as impracticable, because it is known that the greater part of the buried city was destroyed by incandescent lava, which has penetrated every fissure, and has now become with the old city itself an impenetrable vitreous mass too hard to excavate. The only successful work done by the Italian government at Herculeanum was in places where the ashes of the volcano had prevented the lava from penetrating. The success of the excavation at Pompeii was due to the fact that the whole city had been buried in ashes before the incandescent lava reached the place.

BABY'S AWFUL ECZEMA.

Face Like Raw Beef—Thought She Would Lose Her Ear—Healed Without a Blemish—Mother Thanks Cuticura.

"My little girl had eczema very bad when she was ten months old. I thought she would lose her right ear. It had turned black, and her face was like a piece of raw meat, and very sore. It would bleed when I washed her, and I had to keep cloths on it day and night. There was not a clear spot on her face when I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and now it is completely healed, without scar or blemish, which is more than I had hoped for. (Signed) Mrs. Rose Ether, 291 Eckford St., Brooklyn, N. Y."

Bluestocking Fond of Gayety.

Miss Sallie Heath White Carroll, a Baltimore belle and one of the Carrolls of Carrollton, graduated from the New York university law school a few days ago in brilliant style and will begin the practice of her profession there shortly. As a child she had the run of the finest law libraries in America, collected by generations of Carrolls, for which her father refused an enormous sum. All those volumes go to Miss Carroll, every other member of her family having generously waived his right to them. She is no blue stocking, but a society girl who likes dancing as heartily as every healthy young woman must, and refuses to become poky merely because she is learned.

Preventive of Influenza.

In the year 1890, when influenza was epidemic throughout Europe, many workmen contracted the disease in three watch factories at Madretsch, Germany, and a number died. At one factory at Madretsch, however, the disease did not appear. Investigations showed that oil of turpentine was used in the burning of the metals used for watchcases. The oil became warm and evaporated and the workmen inhaled the air laden with it. This seemed to protect them against the disease. Since then oil of turpentine has been always evaporated in that factory upon a stove and not a case of influenza has ever occurred there.

HONEST CONFESSION.

A Doctor's Talk on Food.

There are no fairer set of men on earth than the doctors, and when they find they have been in error they are usually apt to make honest and manly confession of the fact.

A case in point is that of an eminent practitioner, one of the good old school, who lives in Texas. His plain, unvarnished tale needs no dressing up:

"I had always had an intense prejudice, which I can now see was unwarrantable and unreasonable, against all much advertised foods. Hence, I never read a line of the many 'ads.' of Grape-Nuts, nor tested the food till last winter.

"While in Corpus Christi for my health, and visiting my youngest son, who has four of the ruddiest, healthiest little boys I ever saw. I ate my first dish of Grape-Nuts food for supper with my little grandsons. I became exceedingly fond of it and have eaten a package of it every week since, and find it a delicious, refreshing and strengthening food, leaving no ill effects whatever, causing no eruptions (with which I was formerly much troubled), no sense of fullness, nausea, nor distress of stomach in any way.

"There is no other food that agrees with me so well, or sits as lightly or pleasantly upon my stomach as this does. I am stronger and more active since I began the use of Grape-Nuts than I have been for 10 years, and am no longer troubled with nausea and indigestion." Name given by Postum

"I told you, sir," I replied with dignity.

are so anxious, Gil. He must be one of your old friends' some methinks, you are so mawkish over him."

"Kill him and be damned, for all I care," he said. "It is about Lord Waters I am concerned."

"You are right," I nodded, turning myself about before the glass, "and I shall only slightly wound him; for the sake of a pair of blue eyes I would not like to put an end to the butterfly existence of 'Cousin Raoul.' A goodly dose of steel, however, might limber up some of his cursed pride."

"Men are not always so fortunate in doing exactly as they wish when fighting for their lives," he retorted. "Men are as well versed in dueling here in London as in the old Manor of Long Haat. It is all they do know outside of love-making—in that they are equally expert."

I would not take time to argue the point, and went to the street, Gil following. My sedan chair was waiting and I put myself into it, although I liked not its swaying motion. It was like a ship rolling on the ocean, or a dromedary loping along the sandy desert, and its smallness of interior made me feel as though mewed in a church pew. But I was too fastidious to go on foot and off we started, leaving Gil leaning against the lintel of the inn door, with a long face. As we turned the corner I looked back. I saw him give a shrug to his shoulder and re-enter the inn. In other words, he threw responsibility to the winds.

I gave the order to the chairmen, "Lady Dwight's." They seemed familiar with the lady's name and residence. When they set the chair down and I stepped forth I was surprised to find that he had stopped in front of the house I had visited yesterday—the one where Mistress Rosemary Allyn had held her levee. The men assured me that it was the residence of Lady Dwight, and I was abashed for the moment. I trusted I should not again meet that lady's son.

What position did Mistress Rosemary Allyn occupy in that household? It looked not at all like a dependent or degraded one. Gads zook! it mattered not to me. Were I King Coburn and she the beggar maid I

Obituary

MRS. ANNA TERRY.

Anna Terry was born Dec. 26th, 1880; died April 13th, 1905; aged 24 years, 3 months, 17 days. After two years' illness patiently endured, dear Anna leaves husband and little son, now almost one year old, father, mother, two sisters, one brother and a large circle of friends and relatives to mourn her sad departure. After all these months of suffering the Lord has seen fit to call her to that peaceful home where pain nor sorrow shall ever come, and though homes are darkened and hearts are saddened by the shadow of death, may there be comfort and consolation in knowing that our earthly loss is her heavenly gain. She left us fully resigned to him and knew she was going to sleep in Jesus.

Funeral services were conducted from North Union Church, by S. E. Klopfenstein, on Sunday April 16th, at 11 a. m.

MRS. SARAH A. LAHMAN.

Sarah A. Lahman was born in Wayne county, Ohio, May 30th, 1830, and departed this life April 14, 1905, aged 74 years, 10 months and 14 days.

She was the daughter of Peter and Sarah Young, who, when Sarah was eleven years old, came to Pulaski county, Indiana, and settled near Monterey. She had four sisters and four brothers, of whom two brothers and three sisters survive. She was married to Daniel Lahman in 1853, to which union were born seven children, three sons and four daughters. One son and a daughter have preceded her to the spirit world. Those living are Oscar and Simon Lahman, of Delong; Mrs. John Bush, of Columbiana, Ohio; Mrs. Fred Shott, of Preston, Ia.; Mrs. David Heeter, of Rochester, Ind. David Lahman,

A Strange Co-Incident.

It seems rather strange that the three townships in Marshall county that have voted a subsidy to the Logansport and South Bend Traction Company, are each to have a spur extending from the principal town in the township to some other desirable point. Walnut township is to have a spur from Argos to Lake Maxinkuckee; Bourbon, from Bourbon to Winona, and German township from Bremen to Lake of the Woods. Is there a man with sufficient brains to accumulate the necessary money, through his own efforts, to finance a traction line, that would recommend the building or invest a dollar in either of the spurs mentioned? Argos has men of wealth. Is there one who would invest his money in building a spur from Argos to the Lake as an investment, with the expectation of realizing interest on his money? No, the Argos man with money is too shrewd for that kind of proposition. The spur question has answered its purpose of influencing the elections, and will now be consigned to oblivion.

From John C. Kuhn.

Permit me to refer to the article wherein you say that every saloon in Plymouth, except two, are controlled by brewing companies, and mention the Burghoff Co. This could only refer to my place because it is well known that I handle the Burghoff goods exclusively in this city. I desire to say that neither the Burghoff Brewing Co. nor any one else except myself has any interest in my business. The license is in my own name as the actual owner and proprietor of the business. Not only that, but I own the building occupied by me as a place of business. I do handle the Burghoff beers because they please my trade and my customers demand them. Like most people in business, I am in debt to some extent, but I am able to meet my bills and have not had to call upon any brewing company to do more than to give me the reasonable credit that the wholesale people and manufacturers give their customers. Very respectfully,
JOHN C. KUHN.

Cross ties were placed on the Vandalia railroad track north of Plymouth Thursday night by persons who ought to be apprehended and severely punished for jeopardizing the lives of innocent and unsuspecting people. The obstruction was discovered, however, before any injury was done.

The Maxinkuckee Assembly, under its re-organization has perfected arrangements and prepared a program that will make it one of the greatest attractions the Lake has ever had. The citizens of Culver and vicinity should in every way possible encourage and assist this worthy enterprise.

The Bell telephone company has been making a survey of Culver and vicinity, with a view to establishing a rural telephone system. No progressive farmer can afford to be without a telephone, and as the Bell is the best, there seems to be no reason why the line should not be a success from the start.
