It is said that there are more people from a distance attending the commencement exercises of the Culver Military Academy than ever before in the history of the Academy. The hotels are all full and a few private families are giving accommodations to some of the strangers.

Mrs. George Garn presented us with a plate of the finest strawberries we have ever seen. The average weight was about one ounce each. A few of the larger ones weighing more than an ounce. It is pleasure to raise fine fruit, especially as the labor and expense is no greater than in raising scrub fruit. Thanks for the favor.

Marshall county has a fair promise of the most bountiful crop of wheat that we have had for many years. Wheat is the money crop for the farmer. Without wheat he lives, but with a good wheat crop he lives and has money.

The lawn social given by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Reformed church on Nathaniel Gandy's lawn last Thursday evening was a marked success. The Culver Band proved to be quite an attraction and the cream and berries were fine.

M. H. Ingram, editor of the Winamac Democrat-Journal and an ex-confederate soldier, has been decorated with the southern cross of honor by the Daughters of the Confederacy, for the three years service in behalf of the "lost cause."

The W. C. T. U. ladies will hold a Mother's meeting at the home of Mrs. E. Parker, Friday June 16 at 2:30 p. m. An interesting program will be given and a free will offering taken. All the ladies of the town and vicinity are very cordially invited to be present.

Two excursions were here Sunday. A train of eight coaches from Indianapolis and one of six coaches from Richmond. The two trains and the regular Sunday trains brought about 1000 people. The crowd was an orderly one throughout the entire day. In the evening there was a little excitement caused by some of the local boys.

The Summer Naval School is growing rapidly in favor. Its patrons are of the best families in the United States and rank high politically, financially, socially and intellectually. No parent need hesitate in sending a son to a school where the course of instruction is so thorough, the discipline so well enforced, the associations so desirable and the environments so ideal.

The residence of E. Poor is nearing completion. It will be a nice, comfortable and roomy house at a moderate cost. Mr. Jones, the contractor has rushed the work as fast as possible consistent with good work. When completed it will be such a home that any man might be proud of.

J. C. Cauffman, who last Thursday resigned the office of town marshal, had held that position nearly thirteen years with the exception of one two year interval. In addition to being guardian of the town's peace, in which position he has performed the duties of street commissioner and superintendent of the water works, discharging the duties of those positions in a manner as nearly satisfactory to everybody perhaps as it could be done. All this was done for $30 per month, and he came to the conclusion that 11 years of such work, in which a man gets more kicks than pennies, was enough.—Bremen Enquirer.

Death of Mrs. Emily Quick.

After an illness of several months, Mrs. Emily Ross Quick died Monday, June 12. She was born at Big Prairie, Ohio, June 30, 1847 and was united in marriage to John W. Quick, of Ohio, in 1876, who departed this life Aug. 16, 1904. Three daughters survive her, Nellie, Fawn and Cora, Florida dying in infancy. She was a member of the Christian church. The funeral services were held at the home Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Rice, of the Christian church of South Bend officiating assisted by Rev. Streeter. The floral offerings were very beautiful.

Will Rebuild at Kewanna.

The Kewanna Herald says: A. D. Toner, the Kewanna elevator man, whose elevator was destroyed by fire, has decided to rebuild, and Beyer Bros. will decide as to the packing house later on. Niccum & Ridenour will not rebuild and will probably leave Kewanna this fall. The Vandalia depot will of course be rebuilt, but just how soon is not stated. A caboose and box car have been set off on the site of the old depot to be used as an office, waiting room and freight house temporarily. Mr. Toner has fitted up an office just across the street from the Herald office, and has his old bookkeeper, Alvah Miller, bustling up collections. Beyer Bros. are using one of their sheds, which escaped burning, as an office and are ready for business as usual.

Legal Holidays During 1905.

Last year Decoration day was not a legal holiday, but now it is. An item which went the rounds of the press last week saying Decoration Day was not a legal holiday proves wrong. New laws discovered since, however, passed by the last legislature names the days of the year in Indiana that are legal holidays, and for the benefit of the public the CITIZEN will publish the different days that are specially designated holidays by the law. They are: Sunday, New Year's Day, July 4, Christmas, Washington's birthday on Feb. 22, Memorial Day on May 30, first Monday of September—Labor Day, any day appointed or recommended by the President of the United States, or the Governor of the State of Indiana as a day of public fasting or Thanksgiving, and the days of any general, national or state election.

When any of the said holidays come on Sunday the Monday next succeeding shall be the legal holiday.

The Private Banking Law.

The private banking law of this state enacted by the last legislature, and signed by the governor provides that by July 1st, private bankers shall file with the auditor of the state, a statement showing the name and location of the bank, a copy of the articles of copartnership, the amount of the capital stock and a statement of net worth with the name of the party in charge. It is further provided that capital stock shall be at least $10,000 and that two sworn reports shall be made annually. For violations of the act a fine of not more than $1,000 is provided.

FINAL EXERCISES AT C. M. A.

Large Crowds Present to Witness Work of the Cadets.

The commencement exercises at the Academy attracted many people from a distance as well as farmers from the surrounding country. The exercises being of a military nature are very fascinating and form a great attraction to the people generally. We have seen the same people here for a number of years, never tiring of the competitive drills, hurdle riding and sham battles, some of the feats performed on horse back are equal in skill and daring to those performed in the best circus on the road, while the drills are almost perfect in execution. It is easily seen why the cadets at once win the admiration of every one. Four companies of strong muscular young men, dressed in uniforms that are of the finest made, neat, clean and well fitting, answering every command with unequalled precision, make an impression upon the mind not soon to be forgotten. Several railroad companies have ticket agents upon the ground. The cadets will leave for their respective homes Thursday noon.

Cruelty In Fishing.

Live bait ought never to be used. To take a living minnow and thrust a hook through its back, and then to jerk it 50 or 60 feet through the air in order that it may wriggle in agony at the end of the line until it attracts some other fish to swallow it, is about as wanton a piece of cruelty as any one could invent, and unsportsmanlike. The skillful fisher will use a fly or some other device by which the fish he wishes to capture may be deceived and caught. The live minnow is the bait of the blunderer, not of the expert.

Even experienced fisherman sometimes commit another sort of cruelty which ought never to be practiced. They think that their fish must be kept alive as long as possible, and therefore run a string through its gills and throw it overboard, to be hauled after the boat.

This is as foolish as it is cruel. When the fish has a string through its gills it cannot breathe. It is slowly strangled to death, and if it is hauled through the water after the boat it is simply drowned in its own element. Fish, when taken, should be immediately killed. That is the only way to prevent needless suffering, and we may add that it is the best way to bring the fish home in good condition.

Our best fisherman now carry little batons or clubs and kill the fish, as soon as taken from the water, by a sharp blow on the back of the head.—Greenfield Courier.

Last Subsidy Election.

Madison township, St. Joseph county, yesterday, voted a subsidy of $8,000 to the proposed traction line between Logansport and South Bend. The subsidy is the last to ask for by the promoters of the company and a meeting will be held the latter part of this week for the purpose of furthering plans for financing and pushing work of constructing the line.

In a conversation with Attorney Swigart, of the Michigan Road Line interurban company, he said to the Sentinel that eastern capital is asking to get in on the road instead of the company having to go after it as is usual in such cases.

The fact is, a line from South Bend to Logansport is a most promising investment, and beside there is over a $100,000 in subsidies voted to the proposed road.—Rochester Sentinel.

PEOPLE SEND NOTE TO CZAR

Zemstvo Congress Demands Voice in Ending the War With Japan.

CARRY BOLD ADDRESS TO RULER

Delegates' Petition Forwarded to St. Petersburg, Studiously Avoids Terms of Endearment and Servility, but Demands Power.

St. Petersburg cable: The voice of the delegates of the zemstvos and of the municipalities demanding the immediate convocation of a national assembly to pass upon the question of peace or war, to heal internal strife, and to unite the people for the reformation of Russia will be heard.

It is expressed in an address adopted by the all-Russian zemstvo congress at Moscow, which a deputation, headed by Count Hayden and M. Shipoff, is bringing to present to the emperor.

The document bids fair to become history. The customary phrases of respect at the opening and the closing are omitted, and it is otherwise unceremonious, employing the direct personal pronoun.

Does Not Mince Words. The address is a lengthy document, from which the following are extracts:

"Sire, Russia has been drawn into a disastrous war by criminal abuses and the negligence of your counselors.

"Our army is powerless and our fleet has been annihilated, but more menacing than this extreme peril is the prospect of a civil war waged by your people against all the vice of a dangerous and ignorant bureaucracy."

Proceeding, the address declares that the emperor's reform intentions have been distorted and miscarried, while the police have been given unrestricted power.

"Martial law has been declared," the address says, "and the path to enable the truth to reach you is barred to your subjects. . . . Sire, before it is too late, for the welfare of Russia, command a convocation of representatives of the nation, elected by equal franchise, and let these elected representatives decide with you the vital question of war or peace, thus transforming the war into a national one.

Let them establish in agreement with you a renovated national organization.

Haste is Urged. "Sire, don't delay. Great is your responsibility before God and before Russia in this terrible hour of national trial."

The address will not be published in the newspapers, but its contents will be spread with the mysterious rapidity characteristic of Russia.

Throughout the address the word "majesty" is not used, and there is not a single conventional expression of loyalty.

There is a significant change in tone on the part of some of the Russian newspapers like the Novoye Vremya, which never heretofore have ever admitted the possibility of the conclusion of hostilities until Russia had recovered her military prestige by a victory.

The papers discuss calmly the advisability of ending the war if Japan's terms are reasonable. The payment of a big indemnity, they declare, would be too humiliating.

The Novoye Vremya says bluntly that if Japan asks too much it pay Russia to prolong the contest indefinitely; while the Russ argues that if representatives of the Russian people are called together Japan will see herself confronted by the whole nation and she will readily agree to reasonable terms.

"Even the revolutionists," the Russ adds, "are not traitors. They are fighting the present rotten bureaucracy and not the mother country. They would not tolerate a disgraceful peace."

Royal Family Wants Peace. It now transpires that Ambassador Meyer's audience with Emperor Nicholas had been preceded by a family council at Tsarskoe Selo, at which it is understood the decision was reached that peace was untenable if Japan's conditions were not too onerous. Nevertheless this cannot be officially confirmed, and doubt is cast upon it by a prominent official, who declares that on the contrary the council consisted mainly of high army and naval officers, and that the discussion was devoted to the ways and means of prosecuting instead of ending the war.

President Roosevelt is now the central figure of the world's stage. One of the main obstacles, it seems, will be overcome once both Japan and Russia have agreed to accept his good offices for the arrangement of the preliminaries. The belligerents are expected to be able to arrange the peace terms direct.

The president is believed to share with Emperor William the view that the belligerents should be allowed to settle the actual terms without outside interference. Evidence also exists that President Roosevelt has secured the support of several continental powers and that at the proper time they will appear at his back.

Death of Mine Manager. Milwaukee, Wis., special: Amos S. Shephard, general manager of the Minneapolis & Gogebic division of the Corriean and McKinley mines, is dead at Whitewater, Wis. He broke his skull March 28, when he fell at the Kitchegannia club at Duluth.

TOGO GETS FULL CREDIT FOR CLEVER STRATEGY

Japanese Fleet Reserved Its Fire Until Within Striking Distance of the Enemy's Ships.

London cablegram: The Tokio correspondent of the Times in an interesting account of the naval battle in the Straits of Korea says:

"Admiral Togo entered the arena with the best fighting material of his own squadron, four battleships and the cruisers Nishin and Kasuga, and Vice Admiral Kamimura's squadron of six armored cruisers, Togo steaming fourteen and Kamimura sixteen knots. The Russians opened fire at 12,000 meters. It was wholly ineffectual. The Japanese reserved their fire until 7,500 meters, when they fired six trial shots and scored three hits. The battle then became general.

"The Russians perpetually essayed to force their way northward, but the Japanese as constantly headed them back, so the Russian course described a loop, their ships flung past the Japanese, who poured in a deadly fire from three directions.

"The Russians maintained much the higher rate of fire, but their aim was bad and ineffectual, Togo's strategy completely succeeded. But the most important part of his plan remained for night, losing his squadron of torpedo boats upon the disabled Russians. These rushed from three quarters, reserving their missiles till within 200 meters, and making practice so deadly that it redeemed all previous failures.

"The battle shows no novel features. Nothing was more notable than the Japanese skill in using torpedoes, contrasting markedly with their previous ill-success and evidently resulting from the special course of training they recently pursued, together with the teachings of experience."

FLOOD WIPES OUT DAM AND ENDS DIETZ FIGHT

Many Wagon Bridges Are Carried Away When Pressure of Water Destroys Bone of Contention.

Milwaukee special: Cameron dam on Thornapple river, over which the Dietz controversy with the Chippewa Logging and Boom company hinges, went out Wednesday, and with it the destruction of many wagon bridges, according to advices from Chetek, Wis. Several towns in the county have been cut off. Only one steel bridge in the vicinity remained in its place.

Ourand and vicinity is having the worst flood since 1884. The Chippewa has risen thirteen feet and is still rising. Business men worked all night trying to save their goods. The water is running in the streets. No trains are running on the Chippewa valley division of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul. Launches were kept running all Tuesday night taking people from the low lands to places of safety.

Manitowoc river is the highest on record. Reports from Haysion, are that a large stone bridge has been undermined and swept away. The town of Haysion is flooded and it is feared the opera house under construction will be destroyed.

Further damage at Fond du Lac is past and the damage will not exceed $100,000.

High water has wrought extensive damage in the vicinity of Meunomie. The total bridge loss on the Red Cedar river in this county will reach $75,000. Several miles of track of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road between that city and Red Cedar have been swept away. The loss to farmers is estimated at $150,000.

WIFE BEATER FEELS THE LASH

First Penalty Inflicted Under Oregon's New State Law.

Portland, Ore., dispatch: Charles McGinty, a wife beater, received twenty lashes on the bare back Wednesday, being the first sufferer under the new state law. The lashing was performed by the county jailer under the direction of the sheriff and a physician. The whip was a braided blacksnake made of rawhide, with four lashes. McGinty after receiving the sentence was hustled to jail, where he was stripped to the waist and his manacled hands tied to a door in the jail corridor high above his head. Blood was drawn at the fourth blow. McGinty writhed and groaned and strained at the manacles binding his wrists.

SCORES GAMBLING IN COTTON

Speaker at Congress in England Attacks Speculation in Futures.

Manchester cable: The international cotton congress discussed the question of speculation in cotton. Baron Carloni of Italy protested against the practice of buying cotton for delivery at distant dates, alleging that it gave gamblers an opportunity to bring disaster to the trade. Continental nations, he pointed out, conducted their business without recourse to this practice. Other delegates agreed with the baron, but the congress was not unanimous on the subject.

Scores Public School English.

New York dispatch: Henry James, the novelist, told Bryn Mawr graduates that the public schools keep their speech untidy and slovenly. He said in millions of so-called educated homes they talk about "vanilla" ice cream and "Riccio" and "Cubar" and the other "feller."

REPUBLIC FOR THE NORWEGIANS

Arrangements Are Under Way for Calling a National Convention.

MAYNOT RECOGNIZE NEW STATE

Russia and Germany Await King Oscar's Consent to Disunion Before Permitting Representatives to Present Their Credentials.

Copenhagen cablegram: It is understood that arrangements are actually under way for a national convention in Norway, and this, it is believed, will inevitably result in the declaration of a republic.

All hope that King Oscar or Crown Prince Gustave will yield to the request of the storting to place a prince of the house of Bernadotte on the throne of Norway has disappeared, according to a high authority.

The Danish royal family also has set the stamp of disapproval on the acceptance of the throne by a Danish prince.

Must Have King's Sanction. According to well informed persons here, Russia and Germany will refuse to recognize a Norwegian government until King Oscar consents to the disruption of the union. Strong efforts are being made to secure similar action by other governments, including that of Denmark, and it is stated that these efforts are meeting with encouragement.

The Norwegian press and people, according to advices received here, remain singularly undemonstrative. Premier Michelsen wants no demonstrations, and refused to permit a large procession of Christiansians in approval of the action of the storting. The premier said:

"It is too early to claim a victory which has not yet been definitely gained. Our most serious difficulties are probably ahead."

King Oscar is quoted as saying that he would avoid war at any cost.

Raise Flag of Norway. Christiania dispatch: The Norwegian tricolor was hoisted Friday over Akershus fort and throughout the country in place of the union flag. The substitution was attended with great ceremony at the fort, where the members of the storting and 30,000 of the public were assembled. The garrison was paraded and the commandant read the resolution of the storting dissolving the union with Sweden. As the clock in the tower of the fort chimed ten, the union flag, which had floated there since 1814, was hauled down, the troops presented arms, the band played the patriotic air, "Sons of Norway," and a national salute was fired. The people cheered wildly and all joined in singing national hymns.

Baron von Wedel-Jarlsberg, minister of Sweden and Norway at Madrid; Minister Grip, at Washington, and the minister at Rome, all of whom are Norwegians, have resigned and are leaving their posts for Christiania.

Riksdag is Called. Stockholm cablegram: King Oscar decided at a meeting of the council of state to summon the riksdag for an extraordinary session June 30.

HENDERSON IS TO LIVE IN IOWA

Former Speaker Decides to Locate Permanently in Dubuque.

Dubuque, Iowa, dispatch: After traveling about the country from coast to coast since he left congress three years ago former Speaker David R. Henderson has decided to spend the remainder of his days in Dubuque. He has purchased three lots in a fashionable residence district and will erect a modest residence. The site is an excellent one, commanding a grand view of the Mississippi. Since his return from California some months ago Colonel Henderson and wife have occupied apartments in a local hotel. Mr. Henderson is strong and robust despite the conflicting rumors of the condition of his health.

DOES NOT OPPOSE GRAND JURY

Attorney General Moody Leaves Responsibility With Chicago Body.

Washington dispatch: Attorney General Moody, Assistant Attorney General Pagn and District Attorney Morrison have practically concluded their joint analysis of the evidence submitted to the federal grand jury at Chicago in the beef trust cases. The attorney general, in spite of the influences that have sought in behalf of the packers to prevent indictments, does not care to place himself in the position of antagonizing the grand jury. His position, briefly stated, is that the responsibility for finding indictments lies with the grand jury, and therefore that body ought to be given as much latitude as it desires.

BURGLARS MURDER AN OFFICER

Two Thieves, Barricaded in House, Defy Columbus Police.

Columbus, Ohio, special: Barricaded in the residence of Horace L. Chapman, former Democratic nominee for governor of Ohio, two or more burglars defied the police for a half hour and then, seeing that they could no longer sustain their position, attempted to bore through the guard of police which surrounded the house. In the battle which followed a number of shots were exchanged and Dan Davis, a policeman, was killed.

WARM WEATHER IMPROVES TRADE

Advent of Summer Gives a Healthy Impetus to Business at Chicago.

STRIKE IS DETERRING FACTOR

End of Trouble With Teamsters Does Not Appear to Be Approaching, Though Manufacturing is Not Affected.

Chicago dispatch: The weekly review of trade in the Chicago district, published by R. G. Dun & Co. mercantile agency, says:

"With the advent of summer weather, business conditions continue to improve, and prevailing strike trouble is the only disturbing feature. The virulence of this has not abated, and its end does not appear to be in sight. Manufacturing operations, however, are being vigorously carried on, and other important activities show no slackness except in a limited way in building trade, owing to some check in the delivery of material. Production of finished goods in all lines is heavy, and orders are coming in freely. Wholesalers in staple merchandise report a fair volume of trade and larger deliveries.

Country Advances Satisfactory. Money has been in fair demand without change in rates and bank exchanges show a large increase over those of the corresponding week in last year. Financial conditions are regarded as sound. Trading in local securities has been active. Advances from country points are of a generally satisfactory nature, although tempered by reports of heavy rains and floods in certain sections. Harvesting is in progress and growing steadily in breadth.

Shipments of mill and furnace product are large. East bound rail shipments of flour were 56,114 barrels against 171,914 a year ago, and provisions 24,661 tons, against 23,028 a year ago. Receipts of lumber were 56,785,000 feet, against 32,929,000 a year ago. Live stock receipts were much heavier in all classes, and especially in sheep. Receipts of hides were 4,313,100 pounds, against 3,524,327 a year ago.

Grain Movement is Decreased. Grain receipts were 5,416,214 bushels, against 5,567,592 a year ago, and the shipments were 3,273,029 bushels, against 3,384,274, being a decrease of 3.3 per cent. Hoard of trade operations were upon an erratic market throughout the week, and closed at some decline in speculative values of the two leading cereals.

Compared with closings a year ago, prices practically are unchanged in lard and ribs and show an advance of 5 cents a hundred weight in pork. Cash wheat is down 7 cents a bushel and corn 1 cent. Oats are unchanged. There is some small decline in cattle values, but those of hogs and sheep remain the same as last week.

Failures in the Chicago district were nineteen, against thirteen last week and twenty-two a year ago."

MILLERS APPEAL TO CONGRESS

Secretary Reports Effort is Making for Reciprocity to Save Industries.

Kansas City, Mo., special: At the national convention of millers Louis T. James of Chicago, the secretary, read his report, in which he urged the extension of reciprocity. "The work commenced by the federation will, we believe," he said, "within the space of twelve months assume the character of a great national movement, placing clearly before congress the fact the industrial activity and the natural resources of this country demand opportunities for reaching the markets of the world; that the prosperity of numerous industries may be perpetuated only by the ability to find a ready, unrestricted outlet for the surplus over and above what our people can absorb."

PLAN NEW LOBSTER FISHERY

Canadians Will Try an Experiment in Waters of Pacific.

Halifax, N. S., special: The Canadian government has decided to make an attempt to establish the lobster fishery on the Pacific coast. This industry in Canada is confined to eastern waters and all previous experiments on the Pacific have proved failures. A carload of live lobsters will be shipped from this city to Vancouver, B. C. They will be placed in the waters of the Pacific and experts will observe what becomes of them and a determined effort will be made to ascertain if this fish can thrive. A large number of oysters also will be shipped for similar experimental purposes.

Engineer is Exonerated.

Detroit, Mich., special: Patrick S. Kelleher, who was engineer of Detroit express No. 6 on the Pere Marquette railroad in a collision with a Saginaw train at Elmdale when a number of persons were killed, was found not guilty of manslaughter by a jury.

Know Writer of Letters.

Oswego, N. Y., special: The mysterious writer of the death and kidnapping threats against 12-year-old Rosamond Tonkin, daughter of the millionaire inventor, is known to the detectives, but it is doubtful if any arrest will be made.

NAMES BEST DOCTOR

MR. BAYSSON PUBLISHES RESULTS OF VALUABLE EXPERIENCE.

A Former Pronounced Dyspeptic He Now Rejoices in Perfect Freedom from Miseries of Indigestion.

Thousands of sufferers know that the reason why they are irritable and depressed and nervous and sleepless is because their food does not digest, but how to get rid of the difficulty is the puzzling question.

Good digestion calls for strong digestive organs, and strength comes from a supply of good rich blood. For this reason Mr. Baysson took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for the cure of indigestion.

"I have been my best doctor," he says. "I was suffering from dyspepsia. The pains in my stomach after meals were almost unbearable. My sleep was very irregular and my complexion was sallow. As the result of using eight boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, about the merits of which I learned from friends in France, I have escaped all these troubles, and am able again to take pleasure in eating."

A very simple story, but if it had not been for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills it might have been a tragic one. When discomfort begins with eating, fills up the intervals between meals with pain, and prevents sleep at night, there certainly cannot be much pleasure in living. A final general breaking down must be merely a question of time.

Mr. Joseph Baysson is a native of Aix-les-Bains, France, but now resides at No. 2439 Larkin street, San Francisco, Cal. He is one of a great number who can testify to the remarkable efficacy of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the treatment of obstinate disorders of the stomach.

If you would get rid of nausea, pain or burning in the stomach, vertigo, nervousness, insomnia, or any of the other miseries of a dyspeptic, get rid of the weakness of the digestive organs by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They are sold by druggists everywhere.

Proper diet is, of course, a great aid in forwarding recovery once begun, and a little book, "What to Eat and How to Eat," may be obtained by any one who makes a request for it by writing to the Dr. Williams Medical Co., Schenectady, N. Y. This valuable diet book contains an important chapter on the simplest means for the cure of constipation.

Noon and High Noon.

The following definition of these terms is given by the London Chronicle: Noon was originally at 3 o'clock in the afternoon—if the "bull" be permitted—the hour when the monks said their "nones," or noon song. The reason that it was put back to 12 o'clock may lie in the fact that the monks were not allowed to eat their dinner until after they had said naves, for in time they anticipated the service—and their dinner—by saying nones immediately after the midday service, and that is probably how midday came to be called noon. In the old almanacs noon is generally marked at midday and high noon as at 3.

Literature for Alaskan Miners.

A member of a government party which journeyed through Alaska during the Tanana rush was horrified at the lack of entertainment and good literature available for the miners.

"Doesn't it get very dull here?" he asked an old prospector at Fairbanks. "What do you do for amusement?"

"Do?" echoed the gray-haired prospector, gravely. "Do? Why, bless you, we have very genteel amusements. As for reading 'an' literature, an' all that, why, when the first grub comes in the spring we have a meetin' an' call all the boys together an' app'nt a chairman, an' then some one reads the directions on the labels of the bakin' powder cans."

FEED YOUNG GIRLS.

Must Have Right Food While Growing.

Great care should be taken at the critical period when the young girl is just merging into womanhood that the diet shall contain all that is up-building and nothing harmful.

At that age the structure is being formed and if formed of a healthy, sturdy character, health and happiness will follow; on the other hand unhealthy cells may be built in and a sick condition slowly supervene which, if not checked, may ripen into a chronic disease and cause life-long suffering.

A young lady says: "Coffee began to have such an effect on my stomach a few years ago, that I was compelled to quit using it. It brought on headaches, pains in my muscles and nervousness."

"I tried to use tea in its stead, but found its effects even worse than those I suffered from coffee. Then for a long time I drank milk alone at my meals, but it never helped me physically, and at last it palled on me. A friend came to the rescue with the suggestion that I try Postum Coffee."

"I did so, only to find at first, that I didn't fancy it. But I had heard of so many persons who had been benefited by its use that I persevered, and when I had it brewed right found it grateful in flavor and soothing and strengthening to my stomach. I can find no words to express my feeling of what I owe to Postum Food Coffee!"

"In every respect it has worked a wonderful improvement—the headaches, nervousness, the pains in my side and back, all the distressing symptoms yielded to the magic power of Postum. My brain seems also to share in the betterment of my physical condition; it seems keener, more alert and brighter. I am, in short, in better health now than I ever was before, and I am sure I owe it to the use of your Postum Food Coffee." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

There's a reason.

"Five days!" I repeated. "This is the night when I am to meet Lady Felton and receive it back again. I must get up—help me, Gil!"

"You cannot; you are not able," said he.

"She will think I do not care," I pleaded; "I must get up."

"It does not matter, my lord; the lady is not in London," said he.

"Ab, yes, you said that you had seen her—where has she gone?" I asked.

"I do not know," he returned.

I fell back exhausted from talking, big drops of sweat stood upon my face. I made a motion for him to explain.

"Three nights ago," he began, "at the close of another day of unrequited search, tired out, I was dozing in my chair. You see, sir, I have not slept in a bed since our parting."

"Poor Gil!" I murmured.

I remembered how he had ridden to and from Long Haut without rest, and now this wearying search.

"You were right—it may be some consolation for you to know—there is nothing to beat this looking after young sparks for taking the pounds off one, hey Gil?" I said drolly. "You will be as slender as our friend, Noel, when next you meet!"

"I had not finished my supper," he went on, heedless of my interruption. "I intended to go out again as soon as my cloak was dried; and, as I said, I fell asleep in my chair. I was awakened by Torraine, who came and said that the lady was at the lodge door. You will know that I am not at the Blue Boar, but in an old house on the fringe of town."

"What lady?" I asked him.

"The handsome one that came to the Tabard," he explained.

"I hurried on my clothes to be decent and went down to the door, where the fool had left her standing. I begged her to come in. She was ing other profuse apologies, when he discovered that the mirror was broken, shattered into a thousand tiny bits. "A bad omen, ma cousin," he said, "a death!" His face glowed with the liveliest interest, and malignity was not far off. I twitted him with being spiteful because of losing the wager—I was not gentle with him.

"I may say I believed her, for upon the telling of the circumstance, her eyes sparkled like glow worms on a summer's night," was Gil's comment.

"He dalled with 'the locket,' the lady continued her narrative, in a disdainful manner, turning it now this way, now that, while I waited his pleasure. Finally he gave it an extra filip and the thin gold partition, which backed the mirror, fell out, and with it a bit of paper folded into a tiny square to fit the locket. Again there was a scramble, and again Raoul Dwight was the successful one.

In spite of my expostulations, he opened and read what was written on the paper aloud—the dishonorable bound! "A love letter," he cried mockingly; "a rendezvous, too!" He then held it up so that all the dandies present might see. I was in distress, for now I thought I understood why Mister Waters had been so sollicitous about the locket—he should have trusted me if it is of any value to him.

"It is not mine," I cried, scarcely knowing what I said. "I see it is not, cousin," he replied, "for the date on the billet doux, although almost indistinguishable, antedates your birth by some years—and I beg your pardon, coz," he added. The men's muttered cries of "Shame!" helped him to fasten his slipping temper.

"Then he hastened to hand it to me, for he had seen what I too saw; my father watching us. You must know," she explained to me, "that I have a father here in London, although 'tis little indeed I see of him, living, as I mostly do, at Lady Dwight's. My father now came to and impressively: 'You are wasting your strength, my dear; better build a new fire upon the ashes of this old one—you will never see Quentin Waters—your lover—again. I think that you will not care to go unloved, no, not unloved, you could never be that, but unloving to the grave. Moreover, have your maid prepare your clothes; to-morrow I am going to take you away with me. I have left you too long to your own devices; and your lovers.'

"You have called Quentin Waters my lover," I replied. "I am more than happy to introduce him to you as such. When a father gambles away his daughter's hand in a room crowded with gamblers, holding her name as light as a thistle down—oh, I hate the thought of it!—he should thank her if she meet him in any spirit whatsoever. But if she acquiesces in what he has done, something more than thanks, are, I think, her due." Of course he told you that? he said. His aplomb was admirable. "And you believed him?"

"Of course—he did not tell me that," I retorted. "He only lately became aware of the fact that Lady Mary Felton and Rosemary Allyn, whom he had seen at Castle Drout, were the same person. I saw—and possessed the paper the day he won it—I recognized my father's writing!" He winced now, and the blood came to the surface of his face. "Then to make assurance doubly sure, I asked one who had witnessed the proceedings that night at the Lodge, and from him I learned the facts of the case. You and Cousin Raoul need not have been so anxious about the paper, since it has been in my possession all the time. Quentin Waters is not the man to force an unwelcome bride."

"I'm afraid he'll have to take a bride in heaven," he said harshly; "he'll get no earthly one."

"Then will I be that bride," I returned. Seeing there would be no end to the argument, he left me, after requesting my presence at home on the morrow.

"He had hardly gotten out of the door before Raoul Dwight put in an appearance. I had undergone my limit that night; patience not being a cardinal virtue with me, and I had no words for him. I was passing to my room, when he barred my way.

"A moment, sweet coz, I would have a word with you," he said. "I pray you grant me pardon for what happened at the ball to-night. I wished to know what that locket contained; I have found out! At that I cried, 'You dared make a fool of me for your base deeds!' 'Everything is excusable in love and war,' he answered. 'Again I crave your pardon—it seems there was no need of such rough measures, for I am confident that Quentin Waters is dead.'"

"If he is dead," I violently cried, "you have killed him!" He answered, "I would have killed him joyfully in a duel, face to face, but I am no knave to stab a man in the back." "No?" I tauntingly questioned; "but perhaps hire men (and there are plenty about town who ask no better way to coin money) to do your delicate work for you?" He retorted, "I think you would not care to know, if such was the case, the name of the man in whose brain the plan was created."

"I looked scornfully at him and cried: 'Coward! You not only make light of a woman before an assembly, but strike in the dark the character of one older than yourself—better not tell him your suspicions—coward.' 'Peace, cousin, peace,' he said. 'I have proof that Quentin Waters was struck from his horse, and then mysteriously disappeared. At first I thought his man, Gil—the ape—had taken care of his body. But he has been hanging about the Duke's theater, obviously as much at sea as the rest of us as to the destiny of his master. I firmly believe that he is dead. Sweet coz, turn your thoughts from a dead man to me, a quick one, who has loved you for years—am I never to be rewarded for my fidelity?' (To be continued.)

JUDGING BY THEIR COLOR.

Fisherman Employed Somebody to "Break in" His Shirts.
The late Capt. Alfred Rice, the noted shad fisherman of the Delaware river, was no less remarkable for personal cleanliness than for his unequalled handling of the mile-long shad seine.

Capt. Rice was not only clean and neat himself, he insisted upon cleanliness and neatness in his men. If a new man proved to be a sloven, he very soon mended his ways under the captain's criticisms, or else he sought another job.

There was a new man, one shad season, who always wore a dirty white shirt. In shad fishing it is best to wear a black jersey. If, however, a white shirt is chosen, there is no reason why it should not be a clean one. So, at least, Capt. Rice thought.

He stood his new man's dirty white shirts for a month. Then, calling the fisherman up to him, he said: "Friend, who the deuce is it that you always got to wear your shirts the first week for you?"—Los Angeles Times.

Wit Worth Overcharge.

A commendable characteristic of W. L. Douglas, governor of Massachusetts, is his enjoyment of a joke on himself as much as on the other fellow. Not long ago he dropped into a strange barber shop to have his scant hair trimmed. After the job had been completed, the barber handed Mr. Douglas a check for fifty cents.

"How's this?" said Mr. Douglas. "Doesn't that sign over there say 'first-class haircut for twenty-five cents'?"

"Yes—yes," replied the barber, "but you haven't first-class hair."

FOURTEEN DROWN IN SUBMARINE

Three Explosions Precede Disaster on British Boat at Plymouth.

LIEUTENANT RESCUES SEAMEN

Officer Manages to Keep Afloat Until a Passing Trawler Comes to His Aid—Advance No Explanation of the Occurrence.

Plymouth, England, cable: Submarine-boat "A-8" was lost off the breakwater Thursday morning. Three explosions are said to have occurred before she foundered. She had on board eighteen officers and men, including her regular crew and men who were in training. Fourteen of the number were drowned. The others were picked up.

The disaster occurred while the "A-8" was proceeding to sea for practice accompanied by another submarine-boat. Three explosions were seen from the shore to occur on board the "A-8," which suddenly disappeared. Tugs and divers immediately proceeded to the scene.

Signals Distress to Consorts.

The boat lies in eighteen fathoms of water. The first intimation of the disaster came from the boat herself signaling that she was submerged and could not come to the surface. A signal was received shortly before noon which said: "All right up to the present time."

Diving parties immediately proceeded to the scene. Those who were saved were standing in the vicinity of the conning tower at the time of the disaster and were picked up by a passing trawler. They were Lieut. Candy, commander of the boat; Sub-Lieut. Murdoch, a petty officer, and a seaman. The lost boat was of about 300 tons displacement and was launched in 1904.

One of the survivors who was interviewed said he was unable to explain the cause of the accident to the "A-8." He added that she suddenly dipped while her hatches were open and that the boat immediately filled and sank.

"Lieut. Candy," the man added, "came to my assistance when I was almost exhausted and kept me afloat until we were picked up by the trawler."

This is the third submarine-boat disaster within a little more than a year, the others being the "A-5," run down by a liner in the Solent, by which eleven officers and men were engulfed in the bottom of the sea and the "A-5," which sank off Queens-town after an explosion by which six of her crew were killed.

WOMAN IS TOO SMOOTH FOR URGENT CREDITORS

Telegraphs Ahead for Railroad Transportation and Meets Train at Station Little Frequented.

Marion, Ind., special: Racing overland to board a train, having telegraphed ahead for the station agent to send her transportation with the conductor of the train, Mrs. Joseph Hatfield cleverly outwitted a horde of creditors who sought to collect a number of bills which Mrs. Hatfield and her husband had incurred while conducting a hotel in this city. June 2 Mr. and Mrs. Hatfield sold their hotel for $4,000, and having, according to Mrs. Hatfield, accumulated $3,000 while running the hotel, they were in possession of $8,000 in cash.

The creditors, it is said, were put off with the promise of payment in full in two weeks, but in the meantime Mr. Hatfield departed, ostensibly on a business trip. He was followed by a son and daughter, then Mrs. Hatfield in the early morning. Mrs. Hatfield was driven across country to Sweetser, where she boarded a train and, it is thought, went to Chicago.

PROPOSE THE LEVEL RATE PLAN

Knights of Columbus Instruct Directors to Take Up Matter.

Los Angeles, Cal., special: The national council of the Knights of Columbus adopted a resolution instructing the board of directors to consider the advisability of adopting a level rate plan of assessment to operate in connection with the present plan of an increasing scale of premiums for advanced age. The directors will report on this matter at the next annual meeting. A proposition to affiliate with the Federation of American Catholics was defeated, chiefly on the ground that by doing so the order of the Knights of Columbus would lose its individuality.

EARLY SETTLERS VISIT ELGIN

Veterans of Fox River Valley to Hold Annual Reunion June 17.

Elgin, Ill., special: Next Saturday, June 17, the annual reunion of the early settlers of Fox river valley will be held at Lord's Park, in Elgin. Addresses will be made by some of the early settlers in the valley, but the chief feature will be that informal sociability which is best enjoyed by the old people. A basket picnic will occupy the noon hour, though refreshments will be furnished by a caterer to those who do not care to come sup-

HORN WILL FOLD UP.

Invention Adds Horror to the Fiendish Megaphone.

A megaphone to be effective at any distance has to be made of such large proportions that it is about as inconvenient to carry as a bass viol, and this inconvenience of transportation has done much to prevent the more general use of the instrument. Even in the smaller sizes a megaphone is a particularly clumsy and conspicuous object, so that the idea of a Cleveland inventor of furnishing such devices in rollable form has many meritorious features. He proposes manufacturing the trumpets from a blank of any flexible material having parallel side edges and an outwardly curved edge at one end and an inwardly curved edge at the opposite end of such shape and curvature that when folded upon itself a cone of usual shape is produced. When not desired for use as a megaphone the sheet of flexible material may be rolled up into a small cylinder, resembling a music roll, that can readily be carried in the hand without attracting attention, or that can be stowed away in a suit case or grip. Of course there are eyelets and buttons or clasps at proper points to hold the trumpet in shape when in use as such.

Swarm Locates in Chimney.

Mrs. F. B. Chaffee of Court street is in a quandary as to how to get rid of a swarm of bees which has taken possession of one of the chimneys of her house.

Yesterday afternoon after shooting a number of them out of the house with various expressions of wonderment as to how they came there, she noticed a peculiar noise from one of the fireplaces, and further investigation showed that the bees had swarmed there.

Mrs. Chaffee wants to get rid of the intruders, but refuses to have them smoked out, as she regards this method as too cruel. In the meantime the bees are enjoying their snug quarters, and Mrs. Chaffee is making diligent inquiry as to how she can coax them to leave.—Middletown correspondent Hartford Courant.

All Gentlemen.

From "the agony column" of a London daily: "If the Gentlemen who took a dark blue Chesterfield Overcoat from the coach of the 21st Lancers at Greenford on 8th April will kindly forward same to Rimmell & Allsopp, tailors, 69, New Bond street, he will greatly oblige one."

Parisians Munching Raw Cabbage.

Who would have supposed that fashionable Paris, which has such esteem for the niceties of the cuisine that it will argue warmly about an extra pinch of salt in a soup, should come to munching raw cabbage? Yet that vegetable is served now on the tables of the elite, and the best Paris restaurants recommend it as one of the season's delicacies. True, this cabbage is imported from China, but it is much the same thing as the common variety. It was introduced in England a short time ago, and folk of fashion there say they like it.

Tobacco Improved with Age.

Dr. W. G. Kiebler of St. Marys, Ohio, has some tobacco which he grew on his farm at this place twenty-nine years ago. At the time he resolved he would keep some of it and prove that age added to the quality. He is now making some of it into cigars, and those who have smoked them declare that his theory is correct.

Campaign Medal of 1840.

J. K. Butler of Burlington, Vt., has in his possession a campaign medal of the Harrison-Tyler campaign of 1840. The obverse side bears a bust of Gen. Harrison and the date of his birth, while the reverse has the traditional log cabin and the words, "The choice

MORTON HEADS THE EQUITABLE

Secretary of the Navy Becomes Chairman of the Board of Directors.

JAMES HAZEN HYDE RESIGNS

First Vice-President of the Society Disposes of the Controlling Interest in the Insurance Company, but Retains Seventy-five Shares.

New York dispatch: Paul Morton, secretary of the navy has been elected chairman of the Equitable directorate, with plenary power over all officers and directors of the society.

James Hazen Hyde, the society's first vice-president, and the controlling factor in its management, has sold a majority of the society's capital stock to a group of policy holders represented by Thomas F. Ryan, the street railway operator whose financial interests are interwoven with the Mutual and New York Life insurance companies.

The resignations of James W. Alexander, president; Hyde, Gage E. Tarbell, second vice president; George T. Wilson, third vice president, and William H. McIntyre, fourth vice president, have been placed in the hands of Mr. Morton, subject to whatever action he may deem necessary after State Superintendent of Insurance Francis Hendricks has made public the report on his investigation of the Equitable's affairs.

Stock in Trustee's Hands.

One of the conditions of the sale was that the stock shall be placed in the hands of trustees in perpetuity, these trustees to be vested with the power to elect twenty-eight directors as designated by the policy holders. This is the plan by which the mutualization of the society is to be carried into effect.

Secretary Morton was the almost unanimous choice of the board, only two directors—Brayton Ives, who was a member of the Frick investigating committee, and Charles Stewart Smith—voting against him.

Morton was escorted into the board room by a committee of three directors and accepted the place after he had made it plain that he would come into the society only with the understanding that there should be no strings on him and that he be free to recommend the retirement of present officers as he saw fit.

He announced after the meeting that he would resign the position which he accepted recently as the head of the Metropolitan syndicate for the construction of a new subway in this city. At that time he stated that he would retire from the cabinet on July 1. It is understood he will not assume the control of the Equitable affairs until after that date.

Associated with the Ryan group of policy holders who have bought Hyde's stock are eleven men. Among them are George Westinghouse, who carries $100,000 in the Equitable; Samuel Newhouse of Salt Lake City, who has a $420,000 policy; and Moran J. O'Brien of the supreme court of this state, who is insured in the society for $160,000.

Sells Controlling Interest.

The exact number of shares which the group bought from Hyde is 501, the total issue of capital stock being 1,000 shares. The price paid is not stated officially, but is reported to be between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000. On behalf of Hyde it is said that he was well satisfied with the deal, although he had been offered more than he got from the policy holders' syndicate by two other persons representing railroad interests, E. H. Harriman and George J. Gould. It is said they had offered him $5,000,000 for his holdings. Hyde retains seventy-five shares of stock, and is himself a member of the policy holders' syndicate. If Morton declines to accept his resignation, it is said that Hyde pretty thoroughly is reconciled in his belief that he will continue to hold his position as a director of the society.

Great Power for Ryan.

It was stated in the financial district, as soon as the news of Ryan's purchase of Mr. Hyde's stock became known, that he was now in a position to finance the construction of any underground railway system that he may see fit to undertake. It was also stated that Mr. Ryan's control of the Equitable life makes him practically the dominant figure in American finance, and places him in an invulnerable position in his dealings with rival financiers.

In taking this view of the matter the man in Wall street regarded the mutualization part of the program as a good deal of a sham. They seem to think that Mr. Ryan would be in a position in which he can always dominate the affairs of the society and the disposition of its funds.

IOWA COURT STOPS HANGING

Prevents What Would Have Been First Legal Execution in Ten Years.

Des Moines, Iowa, special: Just in time to stop what would have been the first legal hanging in Iowa in ten years, an appeal was filed with the supreme court in the case of Charles Rucker of Rock Rapids, under sentence for murder. Rucker was to have been hanged at Anamosa, but a half-hour before the time set for the execution the papers for an appeal arrived. Rucker killed his wife

A NOBLE LIE

(Original.)

During that period of the American Revolution when Washington was at Morristown, Captain Leon Slade fell desperately in love with Alene MacArdle, the sweetest maiden of that New Jersey village. But the young lady's heart was already given to Theodore Hutchinson, a Tory lieutenant in the British army.

One evening Captain Slade went to call upon Miss MacArdle to plead a cause that he knew was hopeless. He rapped several times with the brass knocker before being admitted, and then it was Alene who opened the door. On seeing Slade she paled, but recovered herself at once and cordially invited him into the living room. The two seated themselves before the great open fireplace, on which blazed a heap of logs, and Slade used every argument at his command to induce the girl to give up her Tory lover and marry him. She was an ardent American, but she loved Theodore Hutchinson and declined firmly though kindly to give him up. During the interview she was ill at ease, constantly casting glances over her shoulder, as if expecting to see something she dreaded. To lose the girl, without whom his life would not be worth living, through a ruse worked the young man into a frenzy, and he vowed that he would go into the British lines, call his rival out and shoot him.

He had scarcely uttered the words, spoken in the heat of passion, when the closed door opened, and Theodore Hutchinson, in citizen's dress, stepped out, his eyes flashing and his face hot with anger.

"You do not need Captain Slade," he said, "to come into our lines to call me out. I am here to give you all the satisfaction you require."

While the two men stood regarding each other defiantly, their choler rendering them oblivious of the danger of the situation to Hutchinson, Alene was bitterly cognizant of it. Stepping between them, she held the palm of a hand to each, meaning to forbid their meeting, and said:

"Theodore, are you mad? Suppose Captain Slade should consider it his duty to inform upon your presence here. Being in civilian's dress, you will be arrested and hanged."

The remark brought Slade to his senses. He was conscious that Miss MacArdle had stated his duty exactly. A change came over his face that bespoke his thoughts.

"A man," said Hutchinson, with a sneer, "who would attempt to force himself on a lady who is betrothed to another would not hesitate to take so base a method of getting rid of his rival."

The imputation lashed Slade into a fury. "There is but one solution," he said, "to this matter. Let Miss MacArdle withdraw, and we will settle the matter right here with swords. If I die, I shall not need to turn you in for what you are a spy. If you die, our condition carry back information of 'Agreed,' said Hutchinson, with ever increasing wrath.

Alene stood aghast. At that moment the front door opened, and the commander in chief walked into the house. He was in frequent consultation with Mr. MacArdle and came and went at his pleasure. Entering the living room, he bowed deferentially to Miss MacArdle, returned Captain Slade's salute with a nod, glanced at Hutchinson, whom he had never seen, and asked Miss MacArdle if he could see her father. She managed to gather sufficient voice to say that he was not at home. The general was about to withdraw when the embarrassed appearance of every one of the party arrested his attention.

"I have not been introduced to your friend," he said to Miss MacArdle, looking scrutinizingly at Lieutenant Hutchinson.

There are times when a noble man by nature will temporarily look above his duty. Captain Slade's nobility came out like a flash.

"My friend, rather, general," he said. "Mr. Parks is a friend of mine whom I have brought to call upon Miss MacArdle."

The general looked from one to the other. "These are critical times," he said, "and it behooves us to be guarded. But since you vouch for the gentlemen, Captain Slade, I am satisfied. Only pledge him if he does not belong here not to reveal our condition when he leaves. He has the face of a gentleman and can be trusted."

With that the commander withdrew. As soon as he had gone Miss MacArdle said hurriedly:

"Splendid man! He suspected us, but was content to leave the matter in our hands. Promise me, Theodore, that you will reveal nothing you have seen."

"I promise."

"Now go," said Alene. "Not before I have expressed my gratitude to the rival who held a terrible vengeance in his hand and instead of casting it upon me told his commander the noblest lie ever uttered by mortal lips."

"Since I have your promise," replied Slade, "a promise which I have no doubt you will keep, and the implied permission of the general in chief to permit you to return to your lines, I will be happy to insure your safe exit through our velveties by escorting you myself. You owe your life to the man who knew by instinct that you had come here through love or friendship."

The men left the house together, and Hutchinson was passed through the American lines. He lost his life soon after at the battle of Monmouth, and Slade afterward married Miss MacArdle. She had been won from the moment he had told his splendid lie!

Cuban Diarrhoea.

U. S. Soldiers who served in Cuba during the Spanish war know what this disease is, and that ordinary remedies have little more effect than so much water. Cuban diarrhoea is almost as severe and dangerous as a mild attack of cholera. There is one remedy, however, that can always be depended upon as will be seen by the following certificate from Mrs. Minnie Jacobs of Houston, Texas: "I hereby certify that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy cured my husband of a severe attack of Cuban diarrhoea, which he brought home from Cuba. We had several doctors but they did him no good. One bottle of this remedy cured him, as our neighbors will testify. I thank God for so valuable a medicine." For sale by T. E. Slattery.

Japan has a hard job on her hands. She has licked Russia but Russia don't know it and may be slow in finding it out.

Just What Everyone Should Do.

Mr. J. T. Barber of Irwinville, Ga., always keeps a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy at hand ready for instant use. Attacks of colic, cholera morbus and diarrhoea come on so suddenly that there is no time to hunt a doctor or go to the store for medicine. Mr. Barber says: "I have tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy which is one of the best medicines I ever saw. I keep a bottle of it in my room as I have had several attacks of colic and it has proved to be the best medicine I ever used." Sold by T. E. Slattery.

The Lingerie Frock.

The vogue of the lingerie gown increases daily, and the most exquisite embroideries are now supplemented with the real laces to increase their costly extravagance. In the charming example pictured an all-over embroidered batiste is used, with flouncings and handings to match. The chemise is in beige Irish crochet, and the inserted sleeve puff in a plisse Valenciennes; and yet, with the union of all these various materials there is no hint of patchiness or scrappiness, suggestive of the remnant counter or the family piece bag. The chemise of the frock is backed with white chiffon, and Valenciennes and banding make a surprise line below this, the all-over blouse beginning only at the bust, and dropping with soft fullness into the feather-boned satin girdle. The sleeve shows all of the materials cleverly combined, the batiste, Valenciennes and crochet succeeding each other in the order named. The skirt is cleverly fitted with tucks over the hips, and at the knee the flounces begin, a wavy band of insertion serving for a heading. The skirt length is round, just barely clearing the ground all around.

How to Shirr Fabric.

With shirring occupying so important a position as it does at present on dresses and blouses and clothes of every description, a way to do it by machine is worth knowing.

Of course, it will never take the place of hand work—nothing could; but at least it is a fairly good substitute for many things. Girdles (and so many of them require row after row of shirring), and even dress yokes and cuffs, are especially good done on the machine.

It is all a trick of the tension. Loosen the lower tension, leaving the upper tight, and stitch your rows exactly as if you were doing plain stitching. When it is all stitched, pull the loose threads underneath, drawing the material up until it is as full as you want it. Then fasten both ends of your threads, and your shirring is done, only about ten minutes having been needed instead of an hour or two. But don't try it on delicate stuffs—the stitching is sure to show.

Evolution of a Smart Toilet.

What could be smarter wear for any occasion than a corselet shirt of silver-gray cloth, embroidered in gray and white braid with a thread of silver, the same embroidery accentuating the lines round the corsage, taking a point downward in the front and upward at the back.

The cloth may be slightly swathed at the waist, and the princess effect may be becomingly carried out.

This skirt may be worn with a gray crepe de chine blouse and a bolero of small dimensions cut up the back, with cap-like sleeves reaching well above the elbow, and turned back with fluted revers of gray taffeta heavily embroidered all over.

Surmounting this may be a small gray ermine hat with a cluster of white ostrich plumes at the left side and a long curling ostrich feather forming the trimming round the brim.

Ideas for the Little Ones.

Bishop sleeves and short puff sleeves are the two leading vogues in connection with frocks for little children. Nothing of its class has superseded in favoritism the long-waisted French frock with a sash drawn well down to the hips and tied into a big bow at the back or a knot at the left side. A simple dress of this sort of pale blue china silk has an insertion of lace running round the skirt, and the bodice is hung to a scalloped yoke of lace to match, the cuffs to the bishop sleeves being also of lace.

Charming Shirt Waist Suit.

For a spring frock, the model shown will develop well in tweed, etamine, laffeta or Burlington. Should a summer suit be desired, canvas, one of the new mercerized cotton goods or plain linen will answer admirably. The waist is tucked, as is the straight flounce, and tucks confine the fullness of the skirt at the waistline. If a thin goods is to be used the skirt and flounce can be shirred instead of tucked.

The Round Yoke.

Not new, but charming for batiste blouses, is the round yoke composed of high, full shoulders are the dressier era, the sloping shoulder has not been altogether elbowed out of fashion, and is attractive in the soft materials and in this model. The slope must not be too pronounced, and it must be balanced by width. Round, wide yokes of lace may be bordered with crossway bands of the batiste running right across the arms. The whole blouse may be of lace alternating with crossway bands, running all around the figure. The sleeves can carry out the same idea.

Handsome Satin Waist.

Blouse of white satin, shirred at the top to a yoke, which also forms a plastron. This yoke is embroidered with little dots and ornamented with beautiful motifs of guipure. It is bordered with bands of the satin fagoted together.

The puffed sleeves are trimmed and finished with bands and cuffs composed of the fagoted bands.

Beautiful Hosiery.

Self-embroidery is much preferred to colors at present, and quite elaborate designs on black and pastel colored hosiery in the delicate shades are worked out in silk of the same hue.

A very smart pair of emerald green silk stockings had a medallion design in white silk. This was, of course, an exception to the general rule of self-embroidery. Lisle and cotton stockings may also be embroidered, though except in the better qualities the work entailed will not be recompensed by the wear.

Very beautiful hosiery may be made from plain black silk of the finest quality. If lace inserts are applied and the patterns outlined in jet or silver spangles.

Trimmings for Summer.

The characteristic trimmings of the summer are of two sorts, intricate—almost painfully elaborate—insertions of Valenciennes and a mixture of heavy embroidery, with the lightest and finest conceivable.

Suitable for a graduate ready to become a summer debutante was a dress of white silk muslin made in princess form and fitted to the figure with a broad girde band of shirring. The full skirt, laid in fine plaits, was hooped with two wide bands of lace insertion, the lower heading a flounce that added fullness to the draperies. The bands of lace. The sleeves formed two puffs of moderate fullness, then tapered to the wrists in diminishing ruffles.

Color in Stockings.

Colored silk stockings are going to be fashionable. Every wearable color is represented in the new hosiery; greens, browns, golden yellows, reds, and mauves being among the available schemes.

Notwithstanding black is, as usual, to the front, and the black stockings by no means savor of monotony, but display pleasing variety in the way of decoration. Simplest of all are the tide thread stockings, with small ribs all the way up the leg, white, for gaintness, the lisle lace hose are especially noticeable, the lacework extending half way up the leg only, or the entire length.

Spanish Fritters.

Cut the soft part of a fresh baker's loaf into pieces about two inches long and half an inch thick. Have ready three half pints of milk, well sweetened; add to the milk six eggs beaten to a froth. Dip the pieces of bread into the eggs and milk and when they become thoroughly saturated take them out and fry a delicate brown on both sides. These may be eaten with run's butter or wine sauce.

Linen Sets.

The girl who likes to have dress accessories correspond is making up embroidered linen "sets" to be worn on sludgy made "tub" morning frocks. These sets consist of a collar and embroidered straight length the width of a shirtwaist, center box plait, deep cuffs and a belt. Heavy, coarse linen is used, the edges of each piece are all buttonholed, and some kind of a simple pattern is worked in the center.

Girl Ties Ribbon Under Chin.

If a girl has a long oval face she can not do better than to frame it with broad soft bands of ribbon fastened to her hair. These should be at

QUESTION HARD TO ANSWER.

Student Knew of Fact, but Where the Explanation?

Dr. Hopkins, teacher, and president for many years of Williams college, was especially happy in the classroom. His method was to call up one after another of the students to get their views upon the topic under consideration. He delighted to lead a student on from point to point until he found himself involved in some ridiculous situation.

The president on one occasion, taking up a card from the table, called the name upon it, "Smith." "Smith," he said, "what do you think is the distinguishing feature between man and other animals?"

"Man is the only animal who laughs."

"Very well." Taking up another card bearing "Jones." Jones stood up. "Jones," he said, "what do you think of the proposition of Smith?"

"I do not accept it, sir. I find when I have been absent some time and return home that my dog really laughs when I take him up on my knees."

"When one laughs he laughs at something, does he not?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, Jones," said the president, "tell me what your dog was laughing at?"

At the conference of the managers of the New York Central Lines, held in New York June 6th, all lines being represented by their General Managers and Passenger officials, it was decided, beginning with the regular summer change, Sunday, June 18th, to quicken the speed of the "Twentieth Century Limited" so as to make the time between New York and Chicago eighteen hours instead of twenty hours, the New York Central Lines having made the twenty hour time during the past three years, and having also made the run between New York and Chicago in twenty hours with their "Exposition Flyer" for the one hundred and eighty days of the Columbian Exposition in Chicago in 1893, twelve years ago.

The New York Central Lines make the point that the New York Central has had in service the "Empire State Express," which has been the fastest train in the world for its distance, 440 miles for fourteen years, having held the world's record for that time, and for three years and 189 days having held the world's record for a thousand mile train in twenty hours.

The proposed schedule of eighteen hours is simply the extension of the time of the "Empire State Express" through from Buffalo to Chicago, the time having been made for fourteen years between New York and Buffalo. On this new schedule, the train will leave Chicago at 2:30 p. m., arriving Grand Central Station, New York, at 9:30 next morning, and returning, will leave New York at 3:30 p. m., reaching Chicago 8:30 a. m. following day.

At the same time, the "Lake Shore Limited" will be quickened up an hour, and will make the time from Chicago to New York in 23 hours instead of 24, leaving Chicago 6:30 p. m., by the Lake Shore and arriving New York 5:30 p. m., by the New York Central.

The "Southwestern Limited" train, No. 11, which now leaves Grand Central station at 1 p. m., will, beginning June 18th, leave at 2:04 p. m., saving an hour to an hour and a half on the present journey to St. Louis and Cincinnati.

New Road to the Coast.

A new transcontinental road has been opened to Los Angeles, California. It is the San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake Railroad, popularly known as the "Salt Lake Route." A palatial, limited, vestibuled train leaves Salt Lake City, the famous Mormon capital, every evening at 8:30. All trans-continental roads from the Mississippi and Missouri rivers, or the Great Southwest leads to Salt Lake, and as they arrive early in the day it affords ample opportunity for a stopover in this, the most interesting city of America.

When buying tickets to the Pacific Coast ask any railroad agent to ticket you via the San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake. Remember every coupon ticket agent has these coupons, or can arrange to sell a ticket via this new road which traverses the great mineral belts in Utah and Nevada, the plateaus, mountains, valleys and orange groves of California, ending at Los Angeles and San Pedro, the new harbor on the western shores of the continent. For illustrated books write to J. L. Moore, D. P. A., Salt Lake City, Utah.

Mrs. Crawford Fond of Society.

Mrs. Crawford, wife of P. Marion Crawford, the novelist, although the mother of two grown daughters, is said by an American woman, who recently met her abroad, to look not a day over 26. She is a blonde, slender and graceful, and exceedingly fond of society; quite a butterfly, in fact, and altogether different in her tastes from her husband. The home of the Crawfords is in Sorrento, on the bay of Naples, and there Mrs. Crawford spends most of her time. Mr. Crawford spent several months in New York only a short time ago.

During the summer months The California Limited on the "Santa Fe road" will run semi-weekly only, between Chicago, Kansas City, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Westbound, it will leave Chicago Tuesdays and Saturdays, beginning June 3. Eastbound, it will leave San Francisco and Los Angeles Mondays and Thursdays, beginning June 5.

FRESH-AIR TREATMENT

Most Potent Means of Restoring Consumptive Patients to Health

Dr. F. R. Walters in his study on the various sanatoria for consumptives calls the open-air life the keynote of sanatorium treatment. He further says that the patient, instead of being kept in a carefully warmed room ventilated from other parts of the house, according to the popular notions of old, lives in the open air from morning till night, at all seasons and in all weathers. Lack of fresh air is the greatest predisposing cause of consumption; fresh air is the most potent means of restoring him to health.

Now this prescription is very easy to carry out in dry climates such as those of Egypt, the Alpine health resorts, South Africa or Colorado; but it requires special arrangements and special precautions in a damp and rainy climate. The credit of showing how this may be accomplished belongs mainly to Brethner, Detweiler and their followers. The open-air method may perfectly well be carried out in any climate which is healthy for those who are not consumptive. As Leon Pettit observes: "Here the climate may help the cure, . . . there it may hinder it; but it only exerts a secondary influence on the treatment." (1) Moreover, just as the pleasantest climates are not always those which are best for healthy people, (2) so it may be that the most pleasant climates for an out-of-door life—where the air is warm and dry and little rain falls—are not best for those consumptives who have later on to return to a less favored place. It is bracing climates rather than warm and equable ones which have the greatest influence in restoring the consumptive to health, in all but exceptional cases.

For the open-air treatment, a four-foot shelter should be provided against wind, excessive cold, extreme sun heat and rain. Wind raises dust, increases cough in consumptives, and intensifies the chilling effects of cold. The foreign sanatoria with few exceptions have both natural and artificial shelter against wind. Cold within certain limits is useful to the consumptive; but it should be a windless cold, and suited to the individual power of reaction. As damp intensifies the climatic effect of both heat and cold, the chilly consumptive will be able to withstand a lower temperature in a dry than in a humid climate. Protection against rain and snow will seem to most people an obvious necessity, although at Nordach rain is often disregarded. It is not enough to provide resting places in the sanatorium which are protected against rain. At certain stages exercise is imperative, and sheltered paths and open covered corridors are needed for exercise in rainy weather. At Falkenstein there is such a corridor 200 feet long.

In places where the sun's rays are very powerful, as at Canigou in the Pyrenees, direct exposure to the sun is found to increase the tendency to fever. Even at Hohenhausen on the Rhine, which is not far south, a large veranda has been provided which in hot weather can be artificially cooled by a stream of water. Protection against wind and weather is afforded in most sanatoria by large verandas, which may be fitted with movable glass screens, as the Adirondack Cottage Sanatorium. In our own climate it would be useful to have a veranda with a hollow floor, which could be warmed, as cold and damp can be more easily borne if the feet are kept warm. Other similar ways are the provision of hot bottles and warm clothing. Recumbency also helps a chilly patient, the blood circulating with less cardiac effort in this position. According to Dr. Weicker and Dr. Jacoby, the recumbent position also favors the flow of blood to the apices of the lungs. In most foreign sanatoria summer houses or sun boxes are also provided; at Falkenstein some of these can be rotated according to the direction of the wind. Dr. Burton-Fanning, in his experimental sanatorium near Cromer, has modified the well-known shelters of our seaside resorts by providing them with reversible glass screens.

Stable and Conditions.

"The condition and health of a horse," says the National Builder, "depend very much upon the kind of stable it is kept in. There are horses which suffer from disease of the eyes, from conjunctivitis, from scratches and other skin diseases, all of which are produced by the pungent, foul air in the stables. Farmers and others who have horses will take pains to keep their carriages and harnesses protected from the strong ammoniacal air of the stables, lest the leather may be rotted or the varnish dulled and spotted; and at the same time they will wonder why their horses cough, or have weak eyes or moon-blindness, or suffer from other diseases which, if they would only think for a few minutes they would readily perceive are due to the foul air the animals are compelled to breathe every night in the year while confined in close, badly ventilated stables. The remedy is very easy. The stable should be kept clean; this will prevent the greater part of the mischief, and it should be well ventilated. The floor should be properly drained, so that the liquid will not remain on it, washed off at least twice a week with plenty of water. A solution of copperas (sulphate of iron) will have the same result. Lastly, the floor should be supplied with absorbent litter, which should be removed when it is soiled. Ventilation should be provided in such a way as to avoid cold drafts. Small openings, which may be easily closed with a slide, may be made in the outer wall near the floor, and similar ones near the ceiling, or in the roof, through which the foul air can escape. Pure air is of the utmost importance to the well-being of horses."

Insomnia.

This very common condition is most often due to six o'clock dinners or eating in the evening. To secure sound sleep, no food should be taken after 4 p. m., or at least nothing more than a little ripe stewed fruit, without cream, and with as little sugar as possible, better with none. Oranges or some other juicy fruit are preferable for an evening's lunch. Avoid bread and butter or milk, and similar articles which digest slowly. Fruit juices and completely predigested food substances may be added in moderation.

Tea and coffee also produce sleeplessness. Sedentary habits conduce to sleeplessness by promoting the accumulation of uric acid, which is a nerve excitant, and gives rise to restlessness and disturbing dreams.

Said the wise man, "The sleep of the laboring man is sweet." Eccl. 5:12. Gentle fatigue produced by exercise out of doors is wonderfully effective as a means of producing sleep. A prolonged bath, fifteen to forty minutes, or even longer if necessary, at a temperature of 92 degrees to 95 degrees F., taken just before retiring, is an excellent remedy for sleeplessness. The moist abdominal bandage, consisting of a towel wrung quite dry out of cold water and wound around the body, covered snugly with mackintosh and then with flannel in sufficient quantity to keep it warm, is an exceedingly helpful measure in producing sleep in cases in which sleeplessness is due to excess of blood in the brain. Care must be taken to keep the feet warm. If necessary, a hot bag may be applied to the feet or a moist pack to each leg. If the head is hot, a cool compress may be applied.

Still Saws Wood at 91.

The Rev. Jacob Chapman of Exeter, N. H., is the only nonagenarian, and one of the few clergymen in New Hampshire who saw all the wood used in their staves for cooking and heating purposes. The amount of wood used by a family during the long New Hampshire winters is something enormous, yet Mr. Chapman goes out into the woodshed every day and saws almost enough to keep the parlor and bedroom stoves well supplied, as well as to furnish what is needed for the kitchen.

Mr. Chapman celebrated the 91st anniversary of his birth this week. Though never robust, Mr. Chapman's physical powers are remarkably well preserved. A day seldom passes in which he fails to cut a little wood, an exercise which he considers very beneficial. In good weather he takes long walks. His mind is alert and his memory very retentive.

He was born in Tamworth, and in 1827 entered Phillips Exeter academy, of which he is the oldest living graduate. He was graduated from Dartmouth college in 1835, and from Andover Theological seminary in 1839. For many years he was a teacher. Since his retirement Mr. Chapman has lived here, devoting himself to genealogical research. He has written a number of family histories, and contributed to secular, genealogical and religious publications.—Exchange.

Why the Body Needs Water.

Someone has asked: "What would be the cause of death of a person who drank no water?" This subject has been studied considerably; animals have been experimented upon, and it is found that without water they lose their power to eliminate the natural poisons; they must have water in order to eliminate them, otherwise the secretions become too dense. Without water, the amount of urea which should be secreted becomes diminished, and so with the other secretions. We need water, not only to dissolve the food and carry it along, but we need it to dissolve and carry out of the system the poisonous and worn-out material of the body, after it has served its purpose. Water forms a circulating medium for carrying substances back and forth in the system, conveying nourishment to the various parts of the body, bringing back the used-up material and carrying it out by way of excretory ducts. The amount of water daily required is from two to three pints. In very hot weather a larger amount is needed, as much water is lost by perspiration. If one's diet consists largely of the juices of fruits, the quantity of water may be considerably diminished.

Is Water a Food?

Butchinson, an English authority, who has published the latest and best work on foods, includes water among food substances. Water enters the body, not only as a solvent, but as destined to become a constituent element of the tissues themselves. Water adds to the energy of the body by increas-

GAS AND WATER

IS ONE AS NECESSARY AS THE OTHER?

Citizens of Large Cities Say It Is.

New York, June 13.—In the recent agitation here about the price of gas, the demand for lower rates was supported by the argument that every resident is as dependent upon a supply of gas as upon a supply of good water.

It has come to pass that the day laborer uses gas as his only fuel for cooking, because of economy, and the rich man uses gas on account of its convenience. Gas for lighting, with modern improvements in burners, is cheaper, better and more satisfactory than any other kind of light. Gas sells at $1.00 per thousand cubic feet in large cities and from that to as high as $3.00 in smaller towns.

The consumer of gas in the country uses Acetylene (pronounced a-set-a-lene), and each user makes his own gas and is independent of Gas and Electric Companies. Acetylene is a more perfect illuminant than the gas sold by the big gas companies in the cities, and the cost to the smallest user is about the equivalent of city gas at 85 cents per thousand.

Acetylene is the modern artificial light, the latest addition to the many inventions that have become daily necessities.

The light from an acetylene flame is soft, steady and brilliant, and in quality is only rivaled by the sun's rays. If water and a solid material known as Calcium Carbide are brought into contact, the immediate result is the making of this wonderful gas. The generation of acetylene is so simple that experience or even apparatus is not necessary to make it. If it is desired to make it for practical lighting, and to keep it for immediate use, then a small machine called an "Acetylene Generator" is employed. There are many responsible concerns making acetylene generators. In practice, this gas is distributed in small pipes throughout buildings, grounds, or entire cities and towns, in the same manner as ordinary city gas. Acetylene is the only satisfactory means of lighting isolated buildings located in the country or suburbs at a distance from city gas or electric plants.

STRANGE MISUSE OF A WORD.

It is Found in the Application of the Term "Species."

The strangest misuse of language is in the application of the term "species" to about everything it does not mean, writes Dr. C. C. Abbott in Lippincott's Magazine. In our newspapers, especially, we continually see such absurd statements as "W. X. killed a bird of the owl species," or "Y. Z. caught a strange animal of the raccoon species." However indifferent one may be to knowledge he cannot be so to speech. He must use correct words or be misunderstood. Herein we are all slaves. No one can claim to be educated who does not know the meaning of the three terms, "family," "genus" and "species." For instance, there is a group or order of birds of prey—eagles, hawks, falcons, buzzards, kites and owls—and these are families under the name given; but the eagles are different, as the golden eagle and the bald eagle; these are species. We have the sparrow hawk, peregrine falcon and red-tailed buzzard; each is a species. The newspaper reporter should have said "W. X. killed a species of owl." This is good English. What he did say is nonsense. A genus is a group of lesser importance than a family, which may comprise many genera, and is too difficult of comprehension to be used with safety by the average reporter. But the true "species" is so simple that misuse is inexcusable.

RAILROAD RATE LEGISLATION.

Testifying before the Senate Committee at Washington, Inter-State Commerce Commissioner Prouty said in discussing the proposition to give to that Commission the power to regulate railway rates:

"I think the railways should make their own rates. I think they should be allowed to develop their own business. I have never advocated any law, and I am not now in favor of any law, which would put the rate-making power into the hands of any commission or any court. While it may be necessary to do that some time, while that is done in some states at the present time, while it is done in some countries, I am opposed to it. . . . The railway rate is property. It is all the property that the railway has got. The rest of its property is not good for anything unless it can charge a rate. Now it has always seemed to me that when a rate was fixed, if that rate was an unreasonable rate, it deprives the railroad company of its property pro tanto. It is not necessary that you should confiscate the property of a railroad; it is not necessary that you should say that it shall not earn three per cent or four per cent. When you put in a rate that is inherently unreasonable, you have deprived that company of its rights, of its property, and the Circuit Court of the United States has jurisdiction under the fourteenth amendment to restrain that. . . . I have looked at these cases a great many times, and I can only come to the conclusion that a railroad company is entitled to charge a fair and reasonable rate, and if any order of a commission, if any statute

Assemblyman Tighe's letter should be read by every brain worker leading a strenuous life.

Hon. John Tighe, No. 25 Remsen St., Cohoes, N. Y., Member of Assembly from the Fourth district, Albany county, N. Y., writes as follows:

"Peruna has my hearty endorsement as a restorative tonic of superior merit. At times when I have been completely broken down from excess of work, so that my faculties seemed actually at a standstill, Peruna has acted as a healing restorer, starting the machinery of mind and body afresh with new life and energy.

"I recommend it to a man tired in mind and body as a tonic superior to anything I know of and well worthy serious consideration."—J. Tighe.

Excess of work so common in our country causes impaired nerves, leading to catarrh and catarrhal nervousness—a disease that is responsible for half of all nervous troubles.

Peruna cures this trouble because it cures catarrh wherever located.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Boy's Adroit Answer.

In a Cleveland hotel the other day a manufacturer told this anecdote of the late Senator Hanna:

"Senator Hanna, like all good managing heads, was continually walking through his mill, examining this, watching that—picking up, in a word, all sorts of good ideas for the betterment of his business.

"One morning in the machine shop the Senator overheard a little red-headed boy say:

"I wish I had Hanna's money, and he was in the poorhouse."

"Rather amused, the Senator returned to his office and ordered the boy to be brought in to him.

"The little fellow came and stood, a tiny, embarrassed figure, before the shrewd and kindly millionaire.

"So you wish you had my money and I was in the poorhouse, eh?" the Senator said. "Well, suppose your wish came true, what would you do?"

"Why," stammered the lad, "the first thing I'd do would be to get you out, sir."

"This adroit answer so pleased Senator Hanna that he raised the boy's pay."

Cox, Wis., June 12.—Frank M. Russell of this place had Kidney Disease so bad that he could not walk. He tried doctors' treatment and many different remedies, but was getting worse. He was very low.

He read in a newspaper how Dodd's Kidney Pills were curing cases of Kidney Trouble, Bright's Disease and Rheumatism, and thought he would try them. He took two boxes, and now he is quite well. He says:

"I can now work all day, and not feel tired. Before using Dodd's Kidney Pills, I couldn't walk across the floor."

Mr. Russell's is the most wonderful case ever known in Chippewa county. This new remedy—Dodd's Kidney Pills—is making some miraculous cures in Wisconsin.

ARMY GENERALS TAKE THE OATH

Obey Decree of Department of National Defense and Swear Allegiance to New Government, Which Eliminates Union From Flag.

Stockholm cablegram: King Oscar's refusal to receive a deputation from Norway, his denunciation of Norway's secession as a violation of the constitution and as revolutionary, and the hurried arrival of Crown Prince Gustave from Berlin, have given a new phase to the situation.

There is uneasiness on every side and fear is expressed, openly in some quarters, secretly in others, that the situation may develop into a quarrel.

Much will depend on the attitude taken by Crown Prince Gustave. He has always opposed Norway's wishes and more than once has been quoted as declaring that he would compel Norway's adherence to the union by force of arms if necessary.

The crown prince held a conference with Emperor William before departing from Berlin and a second conference with Crown Prince Frederick of Denmark. Gustave landed at Malmö late Thursday night and was welcomed with unbounded enthusiasm by a crowd of 10,000 Swedes.

Demonstration of Loyalty.

Inhabitants of Stockholm to the number of several thousands assembled in front of Rosenthal castle Thursday evening and made a demonstration of their loyalty to and affection for King Oscar. His majesty, accompanied by Queen Sophia, Crown Prince Gustave, the other members of the royal family appeared on a balcony of the castle and was greeted by the national anthem, which was sung by the enormous crowd, accompanied by brass bands.

The king listened to a short address, to which he replied in a voice loud and clear but shaken by emotion. His majesty assured his subjects of his deep gratitude for their demonstrations of love, and, in conclusion, said:

"Long live our ancient, glorious and loyal country, so good and so dear. Long live Sweden!"

Thunderous cheers greeted the close of the speech. The king then called for cheers for "Our beloved grand-grandson, Prince Gustavus Adolphus" (who is to marry Princess Margarete of Connaught), which were heartily given.

The national anthem was repeated, and a march past followed which lasted until a late hour, the crowds incessantly acclaiming King Oscar as they passed under the balcony.

NORWEGIAN ARMY IS LOYAL.

Christiania cablegram: The department of national defense has issued a decree to the army acquainting it with the resolution of the storting and the assumption of the government by the council of state, and intimating that the army must comply with the new conditions, rendering allegiance to those now conducting the government. The generals have taken the oath as required.

Minister of State Loveland has been appointed foreign minister, and the council of state has decided to divorce the foreign office from the departments of commerce, navigation, etc., with which heretofore it has been amalgamated.

Change the Flag.

The council also resolved to eliminate the emblem of the union from the war flag of Norway. The new Norwegian flag was hoisted throughout the country at 10 o'clock a. m. Friday. The council of defense has ordered the flags over all the fortresses and warships of Norway to be saluted with twenty-one guns. The substitution of the new for the old flag at Christiania will take place at Akershus fort in the presence of the garrison of the capital.

The prayer book of the Norwegian church has been modified in accordance with the change in the political situation, the prayers for the royal family being omitted.

The ecclesiastical authorities have issued a notice calling on the clergy at the first celebration of divine service after the deposition of the king to offer an appropriate prayer for the fatherland.

RELEASE RUNAWAY FROM NAVY

Leo Fleischman, Who Cost Parents $10,000 in Search, Starts for Home.

Norfolk, Va., special: Leo Fleischman, the navy boy from New York who was discovered an enlisted hospital apprentice at the Norfolk naval training station last month, after his parents had spent over $10,000 in an unsuccessful effort to locate him, has been released from the navy and will leave for his home in New York, accompanied by his cousin, Miss Wilhelm, who arrived here and met him.

Lipton to Try Again.

Rothsay, Scotland, cable: It has been decided that if Mylne, the designer of Glasgow, is successful in the coming English regatta with his new yacht the Britomart, he will begin next month designing a yacht for Sir Thomas Lipton as a fourth challenger for the America's cup.

THREE YEARS AFTER.

Eugene R. Lario, of 751 Twentieth avenue, ticket seller in the Union Station, Denver, Col., says: "You are at liberty to repeat what I first stated through our Denver papers about Dean's Kidney Pills in the summer of 1899, for I have had no reason in the interim to change my opinion of the remedy. I was subject to severe attacks of backache, always aggravated if I sat long at a desk. Dean's Kidney Pills absolutely stopped my backache. I have never had a pain or a twinge since."

Victory Owed to Diplomacy.

When Thurlow was lord chancellor of England he was much at outs with the bishop of London. The latter was visited one day by a clergyman who sought appointment to a fat living then vacant. He wanted a letter of recommendation to Lord Thurlow, but the bishop said such a letter was likely to do more harm than good. Nevertheless he wrote it. When Thurlow read the missive he said: "Well, as that scoundrel, the bishop of London, has introduced you, you won't get the living." "So the bishop said, my lord," was the meek reply. "Did the bishop say so?" roared Thurlow. "Then I'll prove him a liar, for you shall have the living." And he was as good as his word.

AN AWFUL SKIN HUMOR.

Covered Head, Neck and Shoulders—Suffered Agony for Twenty-five Years Until Cured by Cuticura.

"For twenty-five years I suffered agony from a terrible humor, completely covering my head, neck and shoulders, discharging matter of such offensiveness to sight and smell that I became an object of dread. I consulted the most able doctors far and near, to no avail. Then I got Cuticura, and in a surprisingly short time I was completely cured. For this I thank Cuticura, and advise all those suffering from skin humors to get it and end their misery at once. S. P. Keyes, 149 Congress Street, Boston, Mass."

English Artist is Cynical.

Harold Speed, the London artist, is pleasantly cynical and witty in speech. One of his sayings is: "No gentleman (in the ordinary acceptation of the word) should be an artist, for either the gentleman or the artist must suffer." Another favorite observation of his: "Look a fool, but don't be one." Mr. Speed is a bit of a dandy, but everything about him betrays the artistic temperament.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. It cures the most obstinate and chronic cases. It is a powerful purgative, and gives the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The doctor has one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Sold by Dr. J. C. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by all Druggists.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Gorky a Wealthy Man.

So much has been written and said about Maxim Gorky as the "tramp author," the associate and leader of the poorest workmen in Russia, that it is surprising to learn that he has made a fortune in the publishing business with four other Russian authors. So successful has this venture been that it is said that Gorky has made more than 250,000 rubles ($125,000) in the business.

Injunction is Issued.

A stringent injunction has been issued against the malignant activity of dyspepsia, amongst all people, by Dr. Caldwell's (Laxative) Syrup Pepsin. Do not fail to invoke the powerful aid of this great enemy of all stomach and bowel disorder at the least sign of trouble in any of your digestive organs. It will promptly and surely set them right, and make you well. Try it. Sold by all druggists at 50c and $1.00. Money back if it fails.

A Reasonable Proposition.

Bumper—"You owe me $20,000 which you say you can't pay. Why don't you marry Miss Oldgirl? She's worth twice that amount?"

Jumper—"No, I can't do that, but you might marry her yourself and pay me the difference."—Fliegende Blätter.

Butter from Uruguay.

Butter is now shipped to England in large quantities from the fertile plains of Uruguay.

Don't you know that Defiance Starch besides being absolutely superior to any other, is put up in 16 ounce packages and sells at same price as 12-ounce packages of other kinds?

Contradictory.

Jinks—"I said it and I stick to it."
Blinks—"Oh, be honest, Jinks, and confess you lied."

Hundreds of dealers say the extra quantity and superior quality of Defiance Starch is fast taking place of all other brands. Others say they cannot sell any other starch.

Self-Reliance of the Jap.

Whether we look to the dockyards which she has built for the making and repairing of her own fleet, to her strenuous maintenance of her own agriculture and industry or to her self-reliant retention of the financial responsibility for her own undertakings, we find revealed the same determination to stand independent and self-contained. It is a patriotism so comprehensive that it can stoop without loss of dignity to the consideration of the minutest detail and it holds the secret of the great future which seems to be opening up before the youngest of the nations.—London Express.

San Francisco's Destiny.

Statistics derived from the highest possible authorities are sufficient to establish the claim of San Francisco that it is the financial New York of the Pacific coast. They also point clearly to the observing person the fact that much greater things are in store financially for San Francisco. Many prominent persons in all parts of the world believe that San Francisco is destined to become eventually one of the great money centers of the world. There are sufficient facts to make interesting, and possibly instructive, a consideration of the possibilities of the future in this direction.—David H. Walker in Sunset Magazine for June.

Every housekeeper should know that if they will buy Defiance Cold Water Starch for laundry use they will save not only time, because it never sticks to the iron, but because each package contains 16 oz.—one full pound—while all other Cold Water Starches are put up in 4-pound packages, and the price is the same, 10 cents. Then again because Defiance Starch is free from all injurious chemicals. If your grocer tries to sell you a 12-oz. package it is because he has a stock on hand which he wishes to dispose of before he puts in Defiance. He knows that Defiance Starch has printed on every package in large letters and figures "16 ozs." Demand Defiance and save much time and money and the annoyance of the iron sticking. Defiance never sticks.

The season of hot weather is a trying time for most every one, particularly the housewife, upon whom depends in large measure the well-being and good nature of her family. Hot weather health and comfort is discussed, with many practical recommendations by Isabel Gordon Curtis in the July "Delineator." The paper being a chapter in "The Making of a Housewife." Other reasonable suggestions are given in "Milk as a Food," "Fruit Fantasies," and "New Ways of Serving Strawberries," containing the recipes for many refreshing summer preparations.

Dickens Books Sell Well.

The abiding popularity of Dickens is attested by the fact that more than 200,000 copies of his various books were sold in England alone during December last.

If you don't get the biggest and best it's your own fault. Defiance Starch is for sale everywhere and there is positively nothing to equal it in quality or quantity.

But few women would enjoy going anywhere if it wasn't for the pleasure it affords them to talk about it after they return home.

Storekeepers report that the extra quantity, together with the superior quality of Defiance Starch makes it next to impossible to sell any other brand.

TWO OPEN LETTERS

IMPORTANT TO MARRIED WOMEN

Mrs. Mary Dimmick of Washington tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well.

It is with great pleasure we publish following letters, as they convincingly prove the claim we have so many times made in our columns that Mrs.

Mrs. Mary Dimmick

"Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., is fully qualified to give helpful advice to sick women. Read Mrs. Dimmick's letters."

Her first letter:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— I have been a sufferer for the past eight years with a trouble which first originated from painful menstruation—the pains were excruciating, with inflammation and ulceration of the womb. The doctor says I must have an operation or I cannot live. I do not want to submit to an operation if I can possibly avoid it. Please help me."—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, Washington, D. C.

Her second letter:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— You will remember my condition when I last wrote you, and that the doctor said I must have an operation or I could not live. I received your kind letter and followed your advice very carefully and am now entirely well. As my case was so serious it seems a miracle that I am cured. I know that I owe not only my health but my life to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and to your advice. I can walk miles without an ache or pain, and I wish every suffering woman would read this letter and realize what you can do for them."—Mrs. Mary Dimmick, 50th and East Capitol Streets, Washington, D. C.

How easy it was for Mrs. Dimmick to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., and how little it cost her—a two-cent stamp. Yet how valuable was the reply! As Mrs. Dimmick says—it saved her life.

Mrs. Pinkham has on file thousands of just such letters as the above, and offers ailing women helpful advice.

THE OPPORTUNITY OF TO-DAY

The opportunity for the man with true means is probably better to-day in the entire history of the nation. To be sure, there is not the vast open choice of land for the homesteads that existed in the '80s. The lands then taken up under Government laws are now prosperous farms and ranches. There is need of more hands to develop the country. In the Southwest, Indian Territory, Oklahoma and Texas, are vast areas of unimproved land not yet producing the crops of which it is capable. Practically the same thing is true of the tows. Few lines of business are adequately represented. There are openings of all sorts for wide-awake men. Are you one? If you are interested, tell us what you want, how much you have to invest, and we will gladly furnish the information. Write for a copy of our paper, "The Coming Country." It's free.
