LOCAL AND PERSONAL NOTES

Happenings of the Past Week in Culver and Vicinity.

Borrowing trouble never strengthens a man's credit.

Trustee F. M. Parker transacted business at Plymouth Friday.

A man is known by the things he seeks rather than those he finds.

H. M. Spyer and S. C. Shilling were at Plymouth on business Monday.

Mrs. J. P. Shambaugh, has been visiting friends in Chicago for the past two weeks.

Major Gignilliat went to Chicago Monday in the interest of the Summer Naval School.

FOR SALE—One second hand Birdsell wagon and one Champion mower.—Urias Meuser.

Mr. and Mrs. Verdo Smith and family, of Mentone, visited George Davis and family last Sunday.

Mrs. Elias Jones went to Forest, Ohio, Tuesday morning for an extended visit with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Swigart, of Peru, are visiting his parents and will remain a week or more.

Henry Overman has been engaged for the past week in mowing weeds along the streets and alleys.

The Bell telephone company has 95 subscribers here and more names are being added almost daily.

Mr. Keys, of the Hoosier Democrat, Florida, made us a pleasant call Sunday. He came to the lake on the excursion.

Rev. Herbert Garn and wife, of New Antioch, Ohio, are visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Garn, for a few weeks.

Mrs. J. W. Busart spent last week in South Bend and returned home Saturday accompanied by Miss Anna Busart.

Mrs. Wm. Porter, Mrs. Korp and daughter Sadie went to South Bend Tuesday to attend the Stover-Haasler wedding.

Mrs. James Riorden returned to her home at Erie, Ill., Saturday accompanied by her sisters Misses Nellie and Cora Quick.

Mrs. Delbert Wills and daughter have returned after a week's visit with the family of her uncle, Sime Johnson, of Butler, Ind.

Dillon and Medbourn are making preparations to handle their share of the new wheat crop as soon as it brought to market.

Miss Edna Stahl purchased the Wm. Foss bakery.—Plymouth Independent. This will be news to the many friends of Miss Stahl.

Mrs. Ralston gave a dinner at the Academy Sunday in honor of the sixteenth birthday of William Jennings Bryan, jr. All present enjoyed the occasion.

One of our exchanges is addressed to the Herald, Marmont, Ind. The name of the town was changed eight years ago and the Herald passed in its checks two years ago.

The voters of Syracuse have turned down a proposition to build a $12,000 school building. Syracuse seems to have troubles as well as some other towns we could name.

Capt. Frank Swigart and H. J. Crismond, of Logansport, were in Argos Tuesday, looking after the franchise of the I. L. & S. B. Railroad through Argos.—Argos Reflector.

Mrs. Arthur Upham and Miss Vera Baker, of Toledo, Ohio, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Hessel. Mrs. Upham is a sister and Miss Baker a niece to Mrs. Hessel.

I have a few hats left which I will close out regardless of cost. My place of business is small therefore must close out present stock to make room for an elegant fall stock.—Mrs. E. E. Lord.

Misses Anna De Mond and Fannie Hoine took Miss Minnie Kuehl of Chicago fishing last Monday morning. Would you think a Chicago girl could catch a mud turtle weighing almost 200 pounds?

Joseph Geiselman, formerly of this place, but now living at Plymouth, has been sick for some time. He was afflicted with a complication of diseases which finally resulted in dropsy. There is hope of his recovery.

There are at present, three manufacturers of ice cream represented here. We have two as fine soda fountains as can be found in this part of the state. There should be no scarcity in the very best ices and ice cream this season.

Following a long established custom of preaching anniversary sermons by the pastor, there will be a patriotic service at the Methodist church next Sunday evening. The subject of the sermon will be, "Our National Independence or the Rise of the Republic and the Progress of Religion."

A few of the cross walks on Toner Ave. are dangerous and should be replaced with substantial brick crossings. This walk is used as much as any walk in town, and frequently by strangers who take a stroll up town to see what there is of Culver. Walks and crossings in a dilapidated condition leave a bad impression upon those sight seers.

There are eleven bankers and sixteen preachers in the Ohio penitentiary. This is rather a discouraging piece of news. But it is a consolation to know that but one newspaper editor is on the inside. He was sent up for murder from Dark county. He shot a delinquent subscriber. The provocation was great, no doubt, but an editor should have stamina and set a good example for the banker and preacher.—Logansport Chronicle.

Vandalia officials Wednesday received word by letter that the management of the Union News Company had been notified that in the future detective stories and blood-curdling stories of every nature will be barred from the trains and stations of the Pennsylvania system. It is explained by railroad men here that the order is in accordance with a decision of the Pennsylvania higher officials to eliminate what they consider one of the breeders of crime in the country.

At the Methodist church last Sabbath morning two persons were baptised and twelve were received into the full membership of the church. Mrs. Dr. Rogers, of Kewanee, and Mrs. Steel and Mrs. Dr. Collier and son, of Terre Haute, were visitors in the congregation. Despite the "heated term" there was a good sized audience at the evening services. The Epworth League service was made especially interesting by a report of the Epworth League Convention, recently held at Argos. Harley Davis read the report.

An exchange says. Ten years ago a farmer put his initials on a dollar and went to town and spent it with a merchant. Before the year was out he got the dollar back. Four times in six years the dollar came back to him for produce and three times he heard of it in the pockets of his neighbors. The last time he got it, four years ago, he sent it to a mail order house. He has not seen that dollar since and he never will. That dollar will never pay any more school or road tax for him, will never build up or brighten a home of the community. He sent it entirely out of the circle of usefulness to himself.

ZIMMERMAN NOT INDICTED.

No Evidence of Foul Play in the Bass Lake Case.

As was foretold in last week's issue of this paper, the grand jury made a thorough investigation into the drowning of Alice Mays at the lake two weeks ago. While the public in general did not share in the belief that Zimmer was in any manner criminally liable for the young woman's death, yet so persistent were a number of responsible persons in their belief of Zimmer's guilt that the grand jury concluded to sift the whole affair clear to the bottom. Accordingly about twenty persons of the Bass lake vicinity were summoned into the presence of the jury and asked to tell what they knew about the death of Miss Mays. As was expected, the jury learned nothing on the subject beyond what had already been published in the papers. Not a bit of incriminating evidence was given in, and it developed in the hearing that the feeling of suspicion rested upon Zimmer more because he is a stranger in these parts and that being so much older than the girl he ought not have been out on the lake alone with her than because of any incriminating circumstances surrounding her death. The family of the dead girl take no stock in the foul play theory and have caused a letter to be written to this office saying that for the sake of the deceased and also for Mr. Zimmer they wish their conclusions published as they hold him entirely blameless. The men who held to the foul play theory are not to be blamed for it, and the suggestion contained in a local paper last week to the effect that Zimmer might bring suit against them is ridiculous. Many a crime has been brought to light and the perpetrators thereof brought to justice through the seemingly groundless suspicions of just such such men as those who appeared before the grand jury last week. The whole affair is most deplorable, and Mr. Zimmer should be satisfied that his innocence has been established beyond cavil.—Starke County Republican.

Arranging Change of Route.

(Horace Crismond and Capt. Frank Swigart, of South Bend, promoters of the Indianapolis, Logansport & South Bend electric road, drove from Logansport to South Bend Wednesday over a new route that is being considered. The promoters have found it impossible to finance the road by taking the circuitous route which they had contemplated. This was our opinion from the start and we so stated. A road running from South Bend to Logansport or Peru will pass through Plymouth. Any proposition which contemplates of cutting out of Plymouth will not likely be financed.—Plymouth Independent.

Rochester is to have a most distinguished guest this summer in the person of Miss Helen Gould the famous New York heiress and philanthropist. She has promised to come for a few days visit with Col. I. W. Brown, in August, and while on this visit will take in Winona as a side trip. Miss Gould is greatly interested in Col. Brown's crusade for bird protection and insect extermination and believes firmly in his unique methods of educating the boys and girls to be humane that she will furnish ample means to push the good work all over the country.—Rochester Sentinel.

She was brought to her home here on the noon train and taken in charge by Dr. Rea and is now much improved. Mr. Wm. Osborn, with his brother Samuel, was visiting at Leiter's Ford and was summoned at once. Mrs. Osborn is 74 years of age and her husband is 78. They were married 57 years ago within a mile of Culver, and have lived in Culver the past eight years, and within five miles of Culver the remaining time. INDIAN FRAUDS TO BE EXPOSED

Eight Officials in the Territory Are Mixed Up in Gratt Charge

STOPS PAYMENT ON WARRANTS

Secretary Hitchcock Discovers That Employees of the Chickasaw Nation Schools Are Victims of Heartless Speculators.

Washington dispatch: As a result of patient and persistent work on the part of Secretary of the Interior Hitchcock, eight officials and lawyers in Indian Territory have been indicted for frauds in connection with the issuance of school fund warrants. They are Treasurer Ward and Gov. Johnson of the Chickasaw nation, United States Marshal Colbert, Banker Pardon, Attorneys Mansfield, McMurray and Cornish and ex-Gov. Moseley of the Chickasaw nation.

Congress at its last session voted an appropriation of $300,000 to pay the warrants held by teachers and other employees of the schools of the Chickasaw nation. Some of them had been bought by speculators for from 40 to 60 per cent of their value, in the expectation of receiving 100 per cent from the government.

Probe Exposes Corruption.

Before making the distribution Secretary Hitchcock directed an investigation to be made and it developed some of the warrants after having been paid had been reissued.

In this way $60,000 or $100,000 had gone into the pockets of the men making the payments on behalf of the government. The secretary at once stopped payment and turned the facts over to the department of justice. The district attorney was ordered to present the cases to the grand jury.

Arrest Likely to Clear Murder of Child in Shelbyville, Ind.

Shelbyville, Ind., dispatch: Detective Hawkins, ex-United States marshal, has collected evidence which he believes is sufficient to unravel the mystery surrounding the murder of little May Hill, and it is thought an arrest will be made. Frank Henry Thurston, 42, white, lived in the double house immediately south of the Hill home and moved away the day after the murder. He had worked in a table factory under Hill, who was foreman of the finishing room, but for some cause was discharged a month or so ago and has been unemployed since. From his window he could see Mrs. Hill leave the house, which is only four feet away. At the hour the girl was killed he was home in company with another well-known character who may figure largely as a witness. Officers, however, are not disposed to abandon the first suspect, a colored man, who was at the place that morning.

Secured Large Fee.

The firm of Mansfield, McMurray & Cornish is the same one that held the government up for a fee of $750,000 in connection with the legal proceedings relative to the distribution of tribal lands. Secretary Hitchcock endeavored to compel them to accept $250,000, which he thought an exorbitant fee, but was unsuccessful. There was considerable satisfaction in the department that the grand jury has found sufficient evidence to warrant the prosecution of all three.

Secretary Hitchcock Has Been Watching the Indian Territory Matter for a Long Time.

He has devoted twelve months especially to the Indian school scandal. The president heartily approves of his policy the effect of which has been not only to protect the treasury of the United States but to save the lands and funds of Indian tribes.

TRIES TO BLACKMAIL BY PHONE

Taunton, Mass., Police Seek Unknown Who Threatens Citizens.

Taunton, Mass., dispatch:—The police department is using every method to learn the identity of the person who has been writing threatening letters to prominent and wealthy Taunton people, apparently in an endeavor to extort money from them. Not satisfied with letter-writing, he telephoned to one of the women to whom he sent a letter repeating his demands and narrowly escaping capture by the police. The attention of the police was first called by Mrs. George Hartshorn, a prominent society woman, who received a letter. The writer stated that he had been chosen to inform her that she was requested to pay a ransom of $1,000 before 5 o'clock that night or her son, Dean Hartshorn, would meet his fate.

BROKER GASKILL ALIVE AWAITS CHANCE TO SKIP

Persistent Rumors in Philadelphia That Man Who Manipulated Securities Did Not Die in May.

Philadelphia, Pa., dispatch.—Financial circles have been stirred by the persistent rumor that Benjamin H. Gaskill, whose manipulation of stock certificates was one of the causes of the crash of the City Trust company, did not die in May, but was still alive and in hiding, awaiting an opportunity to slip away to Europe.

This was strengthened by the statement from the administrators of Gaskill's affairs that his body was taken from North Laurel Hill cemetery and shipped to Boston. Inquiry at the cemetery showed that the box had been removed by a man who had the necessary permit. After the supposed death of Gaskill the body was placed in a vault temporarily.

When the crash in the City Trust came the street began to revive rumors to the effect that Gaskill had committed suicide. It was remembered that there had been no funeral and for several days no one knew where the body had been buried.

Heldie London, manager of Gaskill's company, declared that he had seen the body and went into the details of its appearance. Coroner Dugan, who gave the death certificate, said if any one would make affidavit declaring that Gaskill was still alive he would begin an investigation which would lead to the bringing back of the box from Boston and examining its contents.

Col. H. W. Gray, a heavy depositor in the City Trust company, said that Hampton Moore was brought from Washington with the understanding that the company was about to fail and that it was understood his post was to be receiver and not president. Gray will organize the depositors, cause a legal investigation, and take steps to upset the receivership.

MAY SOLVE A MURDER PUZZLE

Arrest Likely to Clear Murder of Child in Shelbyville, Ind.

SEIDEL WILL EXPOSE FELLOWS

Says He Is About to Reveal Boondoggling Extending Over Six Years.

Milwaukee, Wis., dispatch.—Otto Seidel, Jr., who resigned as register of deeds, said he would tell the grand jury about every boondoggling deal in which members of the county board had participated for the last six years. "Deals involving between $14,000 and $20,000," he said, "will be laid bare." The principal cases in which money was used, Seidel said, were in the purchase of a site for a morgue and furniture for the county hospital. Proceedings in the contempt cases against a number of supervisors came to an abrupt ending in Justice Brzee's court, with the understanding that the committee of supervisors would take no further steps toward investigation of alleged corruption among its own members which would interfere with the work of the grand jury. The grand jury began its work of investigating corruption. A large number of indictments is expected.

WALLACE WILL KEEP POSITION

Chief Engineer of the Panama Canal Comes Home for Consultation.

SPEAKS FOR SEA LEVEL TRENCH

Expert Favors Building What He Considers a Model Waterway at the Start, Even Though the Cost Is Larger Than Estimated.

New York, dispatch.—John F. Wallace, chief engineer of the Panama canal and chairman of the engineering committee of five members, arrived Thursday night from Colon on the steamer Oriaba. He was accompanied by Mrs. Wallace and his two secretaries. His departure from the Washington was so unexpected that the Washington authorities became alarmed, fearing he intended to resign.

Chairman Shonts of the isthmian canal committee hurried from Washington to this city, arriving in time to confer with Mr. Wallace before he should meet Secretary Taft. Mr. Shonts was relieved and notified Washington.

Engineer Wallace is not going to resign. He has simply come home for a long conference with Secretary Taft before the latter starts on his four month's trip to the Philippines.

Mr. Wallace left here two months ago. He had spent altogether a year on the isthmus. Some time ago he had a touch of yellow fever on the isthmus and considers himself immune. He would not mention the word "resignation."

For Sea-Level Waterway.

Mr. Wallace favors a sea-level trench, costing $240,000,000, exclusive of the $60,000,000 for the purchase of the rights. He considers such a canal will be a perfect one; that it will remove all restrictions on navigation; that there will be no delays in locks, and that it is better to have, instead of "shoddy and a counter sale," a canal "all wool and a yard wide."

The chief engineer will utilize his leave of absence in compiling his annual report and as chairman of the engineering committee, preparing plans which will be submitted by the engineering committee to the board of advisory engineers, which consists of twelve members.

Use Big Steam Shovels.

All the work done thus far, he says, has been useful and will not affect construction along the lines of any of the general plans that have been suggested. There are now ten large steam shovels in commission in the Culebra cut, the biggest a ninety-five-ton machine, scooping up five cubic yards at every dip. Before Jan. 1 there will be twenty-nine of these large shovels at work.

There are now 7,600 laborers in the trench. These are in the engineering and contract departments. Of this number 1,200 are Americans and the remainder aliens.

Russians Go to Work.

One hundred Russian immigrants, crossing the isthmus on their way to California three or four weeks ago, saw what they thought was a good opening, and they all jumped into the trench, literally speaking, and grabbed shovels. They are much pleased with their jobs.

Dr. John L. Undy, a scientific consulting engineer and friend of Secretary Taft, also accompanied Chief Engineer Wallace home. Yellow fever was pronounced not epidemic.

Boston, Mass., special: Gen. Miles denied his engagement to Mrs. Rush Shippen Huldekooper of Philadelphia and said: "There is not an iota of truth in the story, and you may deny it most emphatically. SWEDEN AND NORWAY TO REACH SETTLEMENT

King Oscar's Government Is Willing to Dissolve the Bonds of Union Between the Countries.

Stockholm cablegram: The government introduced in the riksdag a bill requesting power to draw up a conditional settlement of the question involved in the separation from Norway, King Oscar himself being in favor of this measure.

The extraordinary session of the riksdag summoned by King Oscar to deal with the momentous question raised by Norway's declaration dissolving the union met for business Wednesday morning. The government immediately introduced a bill asking for authorization to enter into negotiations with the Norwegian Storting, and draw up a conditional settlement of the questions involved in the partition of the heretofore dual kingdom.

The session was opened by King Oscar in person, with the usual ceremonial. The members of the royal family and the members of both houses, having previously attended divine service in the royal chapel, assembled in the immense state hall of the parliament building.

King Oscar, arrayed in the royal robes of purple and ermine, with the crown on his head and the scepter in his hand, the princes and the high court functionaries, marched in procession into the hall, while the national anthem was played. The king seated himself on the throne, a massive, high-seated structure, of solid silver, raised on a high dais. There his majesty's commanding figure and white hair under the glittering crown, his gray beard and fine-cut features, wearing an expression of great gravity, attracted the sympathy of the whole concourse.

The state marshal, having taken the king's orders, gave a signal, the audience rose, and the king, in a clear, sonorous voice, which was heard throughout the hall, read his speech.

His majesty protested against the charge that by a violation of the constitution he had provoked the steps taken by Norway.

HEAD CAMP ELECTION FAVORS OLD OFFICERS

A. R. Talbot Again Heads the Modern Woodmen of America, This Time for Three Years.

Milwaukee, Wis., special: Election of head officers was the most important of Wednesday's sessions of the head camp of the Modern Woodmen of America. With a single exception the more conspicuous positions were filled by the re-election of incumbents, the exception being that of head banker. The elected officers are:

Head consul—A. R. Talbot, Lincoln, Neb.

Head adviser—Dan B. Horn, Davenport, Iowa.

Head clerk—Mayor Charles W. Hawes, Rock Island, Ill.

Head banker—S. H. McNider, Mason City, Iowa.

Board of directors—George W. Rell, chairman; R. R. Smith, C. J. Byrnes, E. E. Murphy, A. N. Dort.

All the former members of the board were re-elected with the exception of C. G. Saunders of Council Bluffs, who declined further official honors.

The head camp adopted by an almost unanimous vote the resolutions to extend the term of head officers from two years to three years, thus making the head camp a triennial instead of a biennial affair.

At the close of the session the delegates to the head camp visited the encampment of the Foresters at Lake park, where there was a grand review of the uniformed rank of the society.

Joliet camp, No. 2892, won the first prize in the senior class of Foresters' drill; Grand Rapids, Mich., camp 2314, was second.

In the union class Denver, $250, with a score of $420, captured the first place and $300; Merrill, Wis., camp 882 was highest in the pony class, score $2.83, prize $175. In the battalion drill battalion No. 2, Lincoln, Neb., Major H. C. Herrick, score $5.53, was first, $450.

GIRL TRIES TO POISON COUPLE

Ten-Year-Old Sentenced for Attempt to Kill Foster Parents.

Bloomington, Ill., dispatch: Nanny Piper, a pretty little girl of 10, a foundling from the Milwaukee home for dependent children, was sentenced by Judge Russell of the county court to the girl's institution at Geneva. Complaint was made by her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Zearfas of Randolph township, who adopted her July 14, 1908. After nearly two years of care the parents were forced to ask for relief. They told the court that the child had on several occasions attempted to poison them by placing carbolic acid in the food they ate and that she had fed the chickens corn saturated with kerosene. The girl admitted on the stand that she had tried to poison the couple, but said that she could not explain why she did so, that she loved them dearly and that they had treated her kindly.

MISS GENEVIEVE MAY.

CATARRH OF STOMACH CURED BY PE-RU-NA.

Miss Genevieve May, 1317 S. Meridian St., Indianapolis, Ind., Member Second High School Alumni Ass'n, writes:

"Peruna is the finest regulator of a disordered stomach I have ever found. It certainly deserves high praise, for it is skillfully prepared."

"I was in a terrible condition from a neglected case of catarrh of the stomach. My food had long ceased to be of any good and only distressed me after eating. I was nauseated, had heartburn and headaches, and felt run down completely. But in two weeks after I took Peruna I was a changed person. A few bottles of the medicine made a great change, and in three months my stomach was cleared of catarrh, and my entire system in a better condition."—Genevieve May.

Rich Men Would Evade Taxes.

Some of the wealthiest Newport cottagers have decided to fight the tax assessors at that fashionable resort, claiming that this year's levy on personal property is outrageous beyond endurance. John R. Drexel of Philadelphia and several other millionaires are seeking legal redress. By a tacit understanding the cottagers are to boycott Newport tradesmen. Despite the early season, thus far 175 cottagers have ordered their meats, fish, vegetables, etc., sent from the New York market in ice boxes. They have engaged a society woman who has seen better days to be their agent in New York and who is to visit the markets and buy the stuff for Newport cottagers. She is paid $100 a month and is not allowed to accept a commission.

UNSIGHTLY BALD SPOT.

Caused by Sores on Neck—Merckless Itching for Two Years Made Him Wild—Another Cure by Cuticura.

"For two years my neck was covered with sores, the humor spreading to my hair, which fell out, leaving an unsightly bald spot, and the soreness, inflammation and merciless itching made me wild. Friends advised Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and after a few applications the torment subsided, to my great joy. The sores soon disappeared, and my hair grew again, as thick and healthy as ever. I shall always recommend Cuticura. (Signed) H. J. Spalding, 104 W. 104th St., New York City."

The Greatest Number.

Hume, the historian, found himself one day, at a social dinner, next to Lord John Russell. In the course of conversation his lordship said: "What do you consider the object of legislation?" "The greatest good to the greatest number," was Hume's answer. "And what do you consider the greatest number?" continued Lord John Russell. "No. 1, my lord," was the historian's prompt reply.

The Happy Ignoramus.

"I wonder if there is any way to carry explosives safely by rail?" "If there is, I don't care to know it." "Why not?" "Because it would be just my luck to get on a train where the safety system wasn't in vogue. No, I'd rather take my chances in happy ignorance."

Millionaires never become poets,

Mistress Rosemary Allyn

By MILLICENT E. MANN

Copyright, 1904, by LUCAS-LINCOLN CO.

CHAPTER XXII.—Continued.

I sat down on the boulder outside of the postern gate. How long ago it seemed—though in reality not so many weeks—since I had sat in that same place, and unconsciously I assumed the same attitude of that other time when I had watched and waited even as a Sistrus for his Phoebe. Here Nell Gwyn, in all a serving maid's masquerade, had purposely surprised me. Had I then seen her as I did later on the stage doing her inimitable mimicry I had not been so taken in, for once seen she was never to be mistaken for anyone else.

I called to mind another and a prettier picture—sweet Rosemary in her farthingale! Rosemary (had ever name so pleasant a sound?) as she appeared when I killed her falcon. Some day she should have another like unto it, I thought fondly, and my lips curved as I recalled how she had flouted me. The rose in her hair had paled in beauty beside her, its cream that not so delicate as the skin which it caressed.

I heard a little quivering sigh or sob. It was so like that other day of which I was thinking that I started up. There in the pathway she stood; out of the mist she grew, until from a wreath in pale cerements she came to be Rosemary of flesh and blood. Rosemary with eager eyes dilated and hands fluttering toward me.

"You!" she whispered. "They told me you were dead."

"Quick enough, love," I cried, as I took her trembling hands in mine and drew her to my breast. For a moment she lay there.

"I felt you were alive," she cried joyfully. "Would earth be so sweet if you were dead? Oh, no! I told myself so again and again, while I yet chided myself for being gay when they assured me that you were no more!"

I would have taken her again to my heart, but she held me off.

"You are pale and thin—you have been ill?" she asked.

"We Feltons are not loath to stand up before one we deem our enemy—but we could not strike a blow in the dark!"

"No doubt of that, love," I said to still her suspicions, which, while she yet silenced, cut her to the heart; witness how a slender youth stood before my long arm and rapier, and made me do penance for the killing of a falcon."

"Yes," she cried, throwing off her depression; "and to think you did not recognize me. I trembled in my boots for fear you might. The next time when Nell and I were at the White Swan and passed you, we were on our guard, for from the window we had seen you enter the court yard. Immediately I gave the order for our coach to be gotten ready, although we had intended to rest there most of the day. How we chuckled when you let us go, for in my pocket snug and safe lay the little paper you had won in so disgraceful a manner—de, sir, how could you?" She shook her finger at me, and before I could reply in a manner that permitted of no words, she added: "I thought, we shall see whether Mister Quentin Waters gets so much enjoyment out of that piece of paper as he expects to in London town. I will acknowledge, sir, that I did not love you then."

"And I loved you from the first moment my eyes lighted upon you," I said, reproachfully.

"And I, sir, I know not when," she said. "There is an old verse, old but true; I have oft heard it. I will repeat it for you:

"Pray how comes love?
Love comes unthought, unseent.
Pray how goes love?
That was not love that went."

"Now it is proverbially known that we Feltons are good haters, still this is the time when the exception proves the rule. I began by being angry with you about the falcon, and when I found the paper on the floor—oh, I assure you I was wild! I decided to punish you by not letting you know

"No," I replied. "My father gave it to me to find out, if possible, the writer—it is strange where it could have disappeared to."

"I am sure I could not have lost it," she affirmed. "I slept with it attached to a slender chain about my neck."

"You are sure you never laid it down?" I still persistently inquired.

"Yes, sure," she began, and then stopped. "Once, now I remember, while at my bath it lay for a few moments on my dressing table," she added.

"Could anyone have entered your room then?" I asked.

"No one but my maid or Aunt Elaine," she admitted.

"Then rest assured that one or the other of them have it," I returned.

"What would either of them want with that old love letter?" she said; "besides I heard no one at the time."

"You say that Lady Dwight is with you?" I said. "I must see her at once—I have a message from the dead which admits of no delay—I have also to claim Raoul Dwight as a brother."

"Brother!" she exclaimed.

"Yes," I nodded. "Let us hasten to the Castle—too long has this news been on the way—there you shall learn all."

"It is dangerous," she returned; "for if the men see you they would set upon you and—" she shuddered.

"I shall try to hold my own," I grimly said; "but against Raoul Dwight I will never lift hand nor sword—I would be no second Cain."

"Ah, you would not, but would not he?" she asked. "He hates you!"

"Yes," I sighed, "we were ever biting and snarling. I would I had known sooner that he was my brother. I long to take his hand in good fellowship."

"With him love and hate war equally, as good and evil do, but then, you must remember he thinks he loves me," she whispered.

"I would he did not—I would he did not," I said. "Then it would be comparatively easy sailing. He would understand when he knew all. But how can he help it?" I looked at her with all a lover's fondness. I deemed the world might envy me and with cause.

She laughed deliciously at my look, whereat I took her into my arms and lifted her high (it was not such a weakling but I could do that) and kissed her lingeringly on her mouth.

"Come let us to Lady Dwight," I said soberly, when I had put her down.

She led the way through a dimly lit kitchen and I followed. We met no one. The few servants were busy in the rear. We could hear them talking as we mounted the staircase. We had hardly reached the landing when Rosemary cried:

"Quick, in here."

She opened the door of a large room and we passed hurriedly in. Then I heard the sound of a man's heavy tread. She pushed me behind a hanging arras and stepped beside me, pulling the curtains together. I could almost hear her heart beat.

"I say you do wrong," said a high voice. It was Lady Dwight who was speaking. "I care not if he is my son—you shall not force her into a distasteful marriage—I shall not consent to it."

"Wrong! not at all, Madame," the strenuous voice of Lord Felton replied. "You should be pleased—she will bring to your empty coffers much gold."

His tone was ironical in the extreme.

"Gold—gold is not all in this world, let me tell you, my Lord Felton," she said. "Moreover, it is outrageous to keep us here in this ruinous old place. The damp is like to kill us—I felt a twinge of rheumatism yesterday."

"I am sorry, Madame," he said politely. "Why need you stay? The door is open."

(To be continued.)

Senile Concert.

James B. Hammond of New York, the noted typewriter inventor, was describing a conceited man.

"He is as conceited," Mr. Hammond said, "as an old fellow who lived in Germany while I was a student at the University of Halle."

"This old fellow sat one night in conversation with a group of men, and the talk turned to greatness."

"Numerous instances were mentioned in proof of the fact that the great die young. Finally it was agreed that there was more truth in this claim than there is in most proverbs."

"Yes," said the leading spirit of the party, "it ought to be a proverb, for it is true. The great die young. There is no doubt of it. The great, alas, die young."

"The old man, who had sat silent and impatient for a long time, now spoke up:

"If I'm not dead already, is it my fault?" he said."

Farming in the White House.

Mrs. Jackson died just before the general's first administration, and during the eight years that he was at the White House he practically managed the plantation himself from Washington, says Oliver Bronson Capen in Country Life in America. As a farmer Andrew Jackson was more successful than George Washington, and as a breeder of horses he was more successful than Henry Clay. And yet, so great were his achievements in pursuits as far removed from the pastoral as the poles, that popular tradition does not reckon with one of the most important sides of his character. Lawyer, politician, judge, statesman, soldier—closer to his heart than all these were a country home and a f.e.m.

In Women's Interests

Lovely Confections in Negligees.

Summer is the season for becoming negligees and every woman should count several among her dearest possessions. These appear in a host of pretty designs, and if one cannot afford those displayed in the shops she can fashion quite as dainty ones at home and with little expense. These are in the dressing sack, wrapper, kimono and lounging robe modes. The daintiest of these confections of ribbon and lace are white, and this is sure to be popular because it is the most appropriate for warm weather wear.

The soft silk kimonos of oriental silk are always worn in season and out, and are sure to be liked by some. While the negligees in the sheerest of silks are extravagantly trimmed, those in lawn and dimity and dotted muslin are less adorned, though quite as fetching for the woman of moderate means. Many of the choicest of these negligees will display the Broderie Anglaise or English eyelet work, often embroidered at home, but quite as much a source of pride to the owner. In all of this comfort apparel sleeves are full and flowing and in most cases of elbow length. Necks are cut low in round, Dutch square or pointed effect and adorned with the dreamiest laces and furbelows.

Hot Weather Costumes.

The separate skirts of Sicilienne, or lightweight wool, with the sheer white blouse and the suspender effect, are rather good style for girls from 10 to 16. These skirts may be bought ready-made in blue, black and brown brilliantine or light gray homespun, but if one has a good dressmaker at home they may be made up for half the price asked and made a little more modishly. The sheer blouses are always becoming and may be changed and laundered when soiled, thus keeping up the fresh appearance which is so desirable in children's gowns. A whole dress of wash material soils quickly, while the brilliant skirts are serviceable and do not show dirt; dust shakes out quickly and when occasion arises for a thorough cleansing the brilliantine washes well and presents an entirely fresh appearance.

Green the Favorite Color.

Green is surely the favorite color for spring and summer fashions and one sees green hats, gowns, green pajamas and even the shoemaker is showing green shoes. Great care should be exercised, however, in the selection of shade, as unless the right one is chosen it is an exceedingly trying color. Green taffeta was used in constructing the above gown. The skirt is perfectly plain, except for the plaiting around the hips, but these plaits are alternately box plaits and side plaits. The blouse has a decided point in front and fastens on left side under the arm. Ecru lace makes a chemise and stock and a small jabot of same falls from underneath the shaped collar. The puffed sleeve has a tight-fitting cuff just below the elbow, bordered by a narrow frill of lace fastened with two fancy buttons.

For the Amateur Seamstress.

When a skirt is to be made just to clear the ground, measure the person from the waist to the floor and make the skirt one inch and a half shorter. This will prevent its touching the ground anywhere.

When putting on a collar be careful to make the neck of the blouse slightly smaller than the collar band, and notch it at intervals while sewing on the band to avoid wrinkles.

A Fetching Bodice.

The woman to whom a yoke is becoming and who dislikes the regulation affair, will be pleased with the design shown above, as shirtings in their effect are more distinctive as well as more becoming generally. The sleeve is exceedingly full, being doubly shirred along the front seam, while the cavalier cuff and deep undersleeve complete a charming design. Silk or crepe meteor in any of the new shades will develop a bodice decidedly smart. If an evening waist is desired, this model may be made low neck and with sleeves ending at the elbow.

In Lighter Material.

The sheer silken stuffs are lovelier than ever, and though there is nothing radically new among these materials there are many modifications of the crepes and mousselines and gauzes. A crepe mousseline, somewhat like crepe of the sheersort with a satin or mousseline luster, is a beautiful fabric and is particularly charming where the ground is shot in pale bluff and white with a most delicate stripe and little white vines running over its surface. Tiny tucks take away the fullness over the hips, and three big tucks finish the bottom of skirt. Broderie Anglaise is used for the yoke and ruffle edging same, and also for the pointed vest. The material is drawn from sides to front in small gathers, giving a bolero effect and the bottom of bodice is trimmed with a fold of shaded blue velvet. Velvet bows in same color ornament the front and the elbow sleeves have cuffs formed of shirred strips and finished with two tiny ruffles of the mousseline.

For Heavy Wear.

Here is a trim little outfit of coat and knickerbockers, which may be made of serge, chevrot or butcher's linen, and finished with a belt of the same or leather. For a wear-and-tear suit this will be found very useful and at the same time fetching.

Elaborate Shirt Waists.

The name shirt waist seems misapplied to the elaborate conceits shown as such, and while the lingerie blouse leads in favor, embroidered blouses of heavy linen are none the less fashionable. One model is of the latter material and different from the regulation shirt waist. It closes in the back, and the front has a chemise and stock beautifully embroidered, around which the blouse proper is cut in scalloped designs. Here also, as well as on the turned cuff, is handwork embroidery applied. Small pearl buttons trim each side and a frill of Irish lace falls from the cuffs.

Coat Model in Linen.

An extremely popular coat model in linen that is made up both in the plain and the embroidered qualities has the plaited or full waist, with attached skirt and shaped belt. It is to be found in so many of the ready made gowns that the first smartness has worn off, and yet the model with some modifications—especially if made in the embroidered linen—is a great favorite. One thing in its favor lies in the fact that it is a generally becoming fashion, and also that it is not so difficult of accomplishment as the plainer and more severe designs.

Costume for Display.

A charming shade of pale-blue mohair, soft and silky, is combined with a heavy oriental lace in deep cream for this dressy creation. The corsage is cut out square at the neck, and this filled in with handkerchief folds of white chiffon, with the ends reappearing below the bust. The mohair is shirred to the lining in lengthwise mode, the flat emplacement across the bust fastening at the side with tabs and buttons, and the lace making a square collar over the shoulders. This square tab arrangement is carried down the skirt, where it is made to fasten at the left side of the front, and fanshaped plaits are inserted at intervals above the hem.

Pongee Silks in Favor.

The handsome silks, including pongee, in all its variations, are in high favor as the season advances, and the smoother surface pongees are regaining the prestige they lost last year. One model is in natural color pongee and the full skirt is in small tucks over the hips. The bottom is trimmed with three bands of almond-green velvet ribbon in graduated widths. On the bodice, a yoke pointed in front is made of all-over lace; a circular collar of two deep ruffles is joined to same by a band of velvet ribbon matching that used on skirt and which also edges the collar. A jacket effect is given by plaited pieces of the material drawn from each side to bust line over a vest of pongee and held in place by a bow of velvet ribbon. An odd but artistic sleeve is made with a puff pongee from shoulder to elbow and finished there with two ounces of lace and a strap band of material edged with lace.

New Colors.

The new colors that will prevail in French gowns are brown and green, though one ought to mention blue, which is used so much with green, and gooseberry, which is used so much with brown. It is very difficult to separate the colors, for they are combined and made into one in such artistic fashion.

MAY FRUSTRATE PLANS OF PEACE

Russia Holds Back When It Comes to Asking for Armistice.

JAPAN IS WILLING TO CONSENT

Victors, However, Decline to Take the Initiative, Depending on Result of Coming Battle to Enhance Their Right to Indemnity.

Washington dispatch: President Roosevelt is trying to show Russia that it will be to the advantage of that nation to make overtures to Japan for an armistice. Japan has informally expressed to the president a willingness to consent to an armistice provided Russia will ask such an arrangement. Strangely enough, Russia, with everything to lose and nothing to gain from a clash between the armies in Manchuria, hesitates to accept the president's advice and wants Japan to make overtures for an armistice. Japan will never consent to make the advance, and unless the president makes better progress with Russia in the next few days the world will hear of a great battle. It would not be surprising to those who are informed of the situation if the dispatches should report the annihilation of the Russian army.

Pride May Block Peace.

Russia's pride, and her peculiar methods in diplomacy, may frustrate all the good work the president has done in the direction of peace. No assurances whatever can be given of the extent to which the Japanese demands may be changed in the event of another big battle. Nevertheless, with peace within their grasp, and to be had for the asking, Russia hesitates. President Roosevelt appreciates the seriousness of the situation, and Ambassador Meyer at St. Petersburg is making frequent calls at the foreign office to impress the president's views upon the Russian government. At present the indications are that Russia will permit the waste of much blood and greatly embarrass her position by another battle rather than have hostilities suspended simply because the czar does not like the idea of asking Japan to agree to an armistice.

May Repair Russian Ships.

In response to a request cabled the war department by the governor general of the Philippine Islands in behalf of the Russian Admiral Enquist that he be allowed to return his sick and wounded officers and men upon giving their parole not to engage in hostilities during the war, and to be allowed to bring certain war material and for repairing damaged ships, material has been sent to the czar's army, the secret following cablegram:

"You may allow Russian admiral to embark his sick and wounded officers and men on Russian hospital ship, daily expected, upon their giving parole not to engage in hostilities during the war. You may also allow them to bring from Shanghai material for repairing vessels, other than munitions of war, such as cordage, sail cloth, waste and oil, for machinery, etc., but the vessels are still to remain in internment."

Russians Are Puzzled.

Gunshu Pass, cablegram: The Japanese are no longer pressing the Russians from the south and doubt is now entertained as to whether the weak offensive is the precursor of a big battle or a diplomatic maneuver. Belief in the prompt conclusion of peace is weakening. The heat is intolerable. Even the nights afford little relief.

Oyama Reports Successes.

Tokio cablegram: The following official dispatch has been received from the headquarters of the Japanese armies in Manchuria:

"In the vicinity of Yingcheng, June 21, 1,000 of the enemy's infantry, pressing our scouts, advanced, and when they reached Hsiangyangkeau, ten miles southeast of Wankau, our forces repulsed them with heavy loss and pursued them to the vicinity of Weiyanpaomen."

"After our force, which occupied Yangmulinzu, June 19, had completed their mission, they returned."

"The enemy, consisting of three battalions and four squadrons, with twelve guns, advanced through the eastern districts of the Kirin road and moved southward June 21. From 11:30 in the morning his infantry gradually appeared on the heights between Chapeng and Lechiatun, and his artillery, posted on the heights of Lienhuachell, shelled the northern heights of Nantchenzy. Our force, after a few hours' engagement, assaulted this offensive and completely repulsed the enemy, captured the heights and pursued him."

"Otherwise the situation is unchanged."

State's Claim is Outlawed.

Minneapolis, Minn., dispatch: The Minnesota supreme court decided the case of the state versus Congressman Buckman, to recover damages in the neighborhood of $70,000 for illegal cutting of timber on state lands, in favor of Mr. Buckman on the ground that the state's claim was outlawed.

Women Crowd Ohio Prison.

Columbus, Ohio, special: With the arrival of Mrs. Harriet Forsythe from Fayette county, convicted of bigamy, and Sarah Lemmon of Cuyahoga county for forgery the number of women inmates in the Ohio penitentiary is fifty-eight and the department is overcrowded.

"You!" she whispered. "They told me you were dead!"

"A fever from the blow I received on the head after I left you—the night of the London fog," I explained. "I am well now."

"Ill!" she repeated, "ill!—and they would have wedded me to Cousin Raoul—even Aunt Elaine forsook me. Oh, it has been a hateful time! Dreading the worst for you—spirited away, at first I knew not where—shut up in your house—subject to surveillance most of the time—I came near to hating them all! What is that?" she added in a whisper. "Come back in here among these bushes. If they find you here, I doubt not but they'll kill you."

"Rosemary, be not afraid for me," I said.

"I would not, indeed; I would match you against them all," she said with a proud toss of her head. Then, nothing my pale face, "if you were yourself!"

To satisfy her I drew back in among the bushes, while she walked a short way off and listened. Hearing nothing, she came back.

"But you have not told me how it happened?" she said.

"I know very little myself," I replied. "I was found unconscious outside of Dream House the night after I left you."

"Some rascalion about town, bent on robbery?" she suggested.

"I think not," I said, "for I was robbed of nothing. I remember passing the pillars at the entrance. I believe on them are carved the armbearings of the Dwight's and its motto, 'I strike hard,'" I added dryly. "I had been followed—the blow was intended for me—there is no doubt of that."

"You did not recognize anyone?" she queried.

"No," I replied. "The men were masked; I saw so much from the light of a torch which was swung before my eyes, and it blinded me so I could not grasp my sword ere the blow fell."

"Oh, no!" she cried. Her tone was pleading. "It could not be?"

who I really was. The fops of London thought it a good joke and entered into the sport with a zest, even Nell lent a hand.

"It might have had a sad ending had I killed Raoul Dwight in that duel which we were to fight," I said.

"Ah! I believe in the luck of the Feltons," she laughed.

"Nevertheless, I thank God, providence, or the King, that it never came to pass," I said heartily.

"I think you have to thank my father for that," she returned dryly; "he it was who induced the King to forget his promise and have you imprisoned."

Then she added tenderly: "I shall have to make amends to you, Quentin"—my name fell softly from her lips—"all my life, if you please."

"Ah, Rosemary!" I cried, "your name fits you like the petals of the rose its golden center."

I drew her to me and kissed her blushing face. For awhile we stood hand in hand absorbed in each other. Then I bethought me of Gil and his chagrin over the missing paper; also the vow I had made at my father's grave.

CHAPTER XXIII.

"It Was the Night Lord Waters Left Me."

"Rosemary, tell me about the lock," I said.

"Ah there! it came near to being your undoing—a woman's vanity," she sighed, yet looked archly at me as though demanding that I contradict her.

"Was the paper in it when you gave it to Gil?" I asked.

"Did I tell Gil so when I gave it to him?" she replied.

"It is lost, I said, 'and Gil asserts that the lock never left his person until he placed it in my hands—and there was none in it then.'"

"What matters it?" she asked lightly. "Twas naught but an old bit of paper."

"It was valuable to me," I said.

"You would keep it?" she asked jealously.

"Indeed I would, if I could but find it," I answered.

"Do you know who wrote it?" she questioned.

ance of Christ. "He is a tall, well-proportioned man. He is very straight in stature. His hands are large but spreading, his arms are very beautiful. He talks little, but with much gravity, and is the handsomest man in the world."

The shirt waist man and the netwaist girl go hand in hand today, and the people year after year go on throwing their clothes away. The coat and vest are laid to rest and where is the fleecy shawl? And clothes get fewer and thinner—what will be the end of it all? Oh! what will the shirtwaist man take next from the things he has to wear? And what will the netwaist girl throw of her shoulders now half bare. The shirtwaist man and the netwaist girl go rollicking down the way. Have we started a trend that going to end in the old fig-leaf some day?

Periodic Pains.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are a most remarkable remedy for the relief of periodic pains, backache, nervous or sick headache, or any of the distressing aches and pains that cause women so much suffering.

As pain is weakening, and leaves the system in an exhausted condition, it is wrong to suffer a moment longer than necessary, and you should take the Anti-Pain Pills on first indication of an attack.

If taken as directed you may have entire confidence in their effectiveness, as well as in the fact that they will leave no disagreeable after-effects. They contain no morphine, opium, chloral, cocaine or other dangerous drugs.

"For a long time I have suffered greatly with spells of backache, that seem almost more than I can endure. These attacks come on every month, and last two or three days. I have never been able to get anything that would give me much relief until I began the use of Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, and they always relieve me in a short time. My sister, who suffers the same way, has used them with the same results." MRS. PAUK, 721 S. Michigan St., South Bend, Ind.

THE SHRINE OF AMERICAN LIBERTY

"INDEPENDENCE HALL"

Thumbnail History of the United States

By JOHN BACH McMASTER

Within a year from the day when "the shot heard round the world" was fired at Concord all semblance of allegiance to Great Britain disappeared. The Continental army was in existence; Washington was Commander-in-Chief; Bunker Hill had been fought; the Colonial Legislatures had been replaced by Provincial Congresses or Provincial Conventions, and the Royal Governors by Committees of Safety.

When matters had gone as far as this the Continental Congress advised the colonies to establish civil government of their own creation, took into consideration the resolution of Lee declaring the colonies sovereign, free and independent states, and appointed a committee to write a declaration of independence and another to frame a plan of government for the United States. July 4, 1776, the Declaration was adopted, and between 1776 and 1784 eleven states framed and put in operation written constitutions and so turned themselves from colonies into states. Rhode Island till 1842, and Connecticut till 1818 continued to use their old colonial charters.

In July of 1776 Congress took up the Articles of Federation, or plan of government for the United States, and in 1777 sent them to the states for approval; but disputes over the ownership of lands west of the mountains delayed their acceptance till 1781. From the first the plan was a failure. Congress had no power to lay a tax of any sort, nor regulate trade with foreign countries, nor between states. The states issued paper money, regulated foreign trade, each in its own way without regard to the regulations of others, and by this lack of uniformity produced the financial, commercial and industrial distress which wrecked the Confederation. Business conditions made an abandonment of the articles necessary, and in 1787 our present Constitution was framed at Philadelphia. Eleven states promptly ratified and in April, 1789, Washington was inaugurated at New York. In 1790 Philadelphia became the seat of government, and in 1800, Washington.

The financial legislation of the first and second congresses split the people into two political parties—the Federalists, who supported Washington, with Adams, Hamilton, Jay, Pickens, and King for leaders, and the anti-Federalists or Republicans, who opposed the administration under the lead of Jefferson, Madison, Monroe and Gallatin. Scarcely had the parties been organized on domestic issues when France declared war on Great Britain and opened her West Indies to neutral trade, and our country entered upon a long period of foreign complication. Washington issued a proclamation of neutrality (1793) and our merchants rushed to the French West Indies. But Great Britain seized their ships and the Anti-Federalists attempted to force Congress to retaliate. Lest this should bring on war Washington sent Jay to London to negotiate our first commercial treaty with Great Britain. This treaty offended France, who rejected our new minister, demanded tribute and so insulted us that an army of volunteers was raised, coast defenses erected, the Navy department created, and a naval war waged from 1798-1800. From 1801 to 1803 there was peace in Europe, and during these years our trade declined; a wave of population swept westward; Ohio was admitted as a state; Jefferson was elected president; Louisiana was purchased from France and war renewed in Europe.

As nearly all western Europe soon became tributary to Napoleon, our country became the great neutral ocean carrier. An immense trade was developed which Great Britain attacked with orders in Council and Napoleon with decrees. Nothing was left but fight for our neutral rights or abandon the sea. Jefferson chose the latter and began retaliation by a system of trade restrictions, which ended with war in 1812.

The loss of our neutral trade and the war brought on a period of business reorganization, depression, hard times and caused such distress that hundreds of thousands of people left the seaboard and hurried to the far West of that time. As a consequence, between 1816 and 1821, Indiana, Illinois, Alabama, Mississippi and Missouri entered the Union as states.

The foreign issues which distracted the people from 1793 to 1815 were soon replaced by others of domestic origin, and during this period of transition the Federalist party disappeared. From 1817 to 1821 there was but one national party, and so harmonious was it that in 1820 Monroe was the only presidential candidate. This harmony was due to lack of national issues; but it could not last, and in 1824 four party chiefs—Adams, Clay, Crawford and Jackson—contended for the presidency, and threw the election into the House of Representatives in 1825.

Between 1825 and 1845 the industrial development of our country was extraordinary. Manufactures flourished, canals were dug, railroads were introduced, the national debt was paid, a surplus revenue was accumulated and distributed among the states, trades unions were formed and the ten hour day secured, nullification was put down, wild speculation produced the panic of 1837, the struggle with slavery commenced in earnest in Texas.

Annexation of Texas led to war with Mexico and a further expansion of our territory. The effort to provide New Mexico and Utah with territorial governments brought on the free-soil struggle and the compromise of 1850; the Kansas-Nebraska contest produced the Free Soil and Republican parties and made slavery the ruling political issue to 1860. Out of the war for the Union came four classes of issues—our claims on Great Britain for damages caused by cruisers fitted out in her ports, abolition of slavery and the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments, the reconstruction acts and the great bonded and floating debt. While these issues were in process of settlement our country again entered a period of great industrial, agricultural and mining development; the Pacific railroads were built, the Middle West and the Northwest were settled, great corporations came into existence and financial, industrial, labor and commercial problems became the issues of the day. The acquisition of Hawaii and the results of the Spanish war expanded our territory to the doors of China and gave us new problems in government.—New York World.

URGED CELEBRATION OF DAY.

John Adams in Approval of a Boisterous Fourth.

In honoring the Fourth of July, the famous letter written by John Adams from Philadelphia on the day following the signing of the Declaration of Independence should be remembered, as it practically shows his approval of what many have called the more boisterous methods of celebrating the day. The most notable portion of this letter, written July 5, 1776, is: "Yesterday the greatest question was decided which was ever debated in America, and a greater, perhaps, never was or will be decided among men. A resolution was passed, without one dissenting colony. That these colonies are and of right ought to be free and independent states."

"The day is past. The Fourth of July, 1776, will be a memorable epoch in the history of America. I am led to believe it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. "It ought to be commemorated as the day of deliverance by solemn acts of devotion to Almighty God. It ought to be solemnized with pomp, shows, games, sports, ringing of bells, bonfires and illuminations from one end of the continent to the other from this time forward and forever.

"You will think me translated with enthusiasm, but I am not. I am well aware of the toil and blood and treasure that it will cost us to maintain this declaration and support and defend these states. Yet through all the gloom I can see the ray of light and glory. I can see that the end is worth more than all the means and that posterity will triumph."

Encouragement after censure is as the sun after a shower.—Goethe.

Ring, ye glad bells, from the steeple and towers!
Speak ye loud cannon, with thunderous voice!
Spread the glad news through this broad land of ours,
Bid every heart on this day to rejoice!

Known far and wide is its wonderful story.
In every land on the face of the earth;
For 'tis the day of America's glory—
The pride of our nation—the day of its birth!

Turn back to-day through our history's pages,
Search through this record of days fair and bright;
Many are there which in all coming ages
Ever will shine with a radiant light.

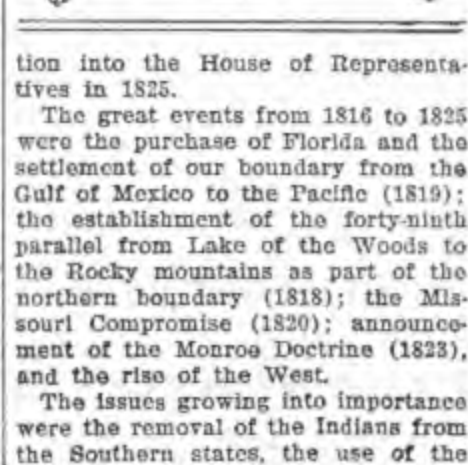

But, midst this legion of days brightly beaming,
One makes all other to pale 'neath its rays.
As the fair stars, with their silver light glistening,
Vade in the light of the monarch of day.

Long years ago, 'midst the turmoil of battle,
The greatest of Liberty's children was born;
Its lullaby-songs was the drum's startling rattle,
And thunder of cannon at evening and morn.

Reared in the school of privation and sorrow,
Brave, strong and noble our country has grown;
Ever renowned for its progress and vigor,
Grandest of nations the world has e'er known!

Lift up your voices in praise and orations,
Fling out the banner of freedom on high;
The birthday is here of the greatest of nations;
Shout and rejoice 'tis the Fourth of July!

—U. C. Michtler.

ADDS TO SPLENDOR

MEN OF BUSINESS RECOGNIZE ADVANTAGES OF ACETYLENE.

Famous Summer Hotel, the Grand Union of Saratoga, Has Installed This Best of All Artificial Lights—Means Increased Comfort and Health.

Saratoga, June 27.—The very name, "Saratoga," brings to every mind health-giving springs, unsurpassed hotels and beautiful drives. It has been for many years the Mecca for all who admire nature, enjoy good living, and are searching for health, or are simply taking a vacation.

The Grand Union, the largest summer hotel in the United States, set among green trees with its long wings enclosing a court with fountains and flowers, grass and trees, music and light, is throughout the season thronged with guests. With the progressive spirit always shown by its management, the Grand Union has again added to its attractiveness by introducing acetylene gas to make still more brilliant the evening hours. The general proprietors believe in furnishing their guests with the best of everything, and now, after investigating and finding that Artificial Sunlight can be had, they have installed a complete acetylene gas plant to produce it, and have connected upwards of six thousand acetylene burners in and about the house and grounds to this little gas plant.

Like many discoveries of recent years, which are coming into popular favor, acetylene, one of the most recent, is very simply produced. It is adapted for use wherever artificial light is needed and the necessary apparatus can be understood and operated by anyone.

The generator in which Acetylene is produced by the automatic contact of carbide and water might be termed a gas plant, as it performs all of the functions of a city gas plant. The acetylene generator can be purchased for a few dollars and in any size, from one adapted to furnish acetylene to ten or a dozen burners for a cottage, up to the large but still simple machine such as is now furnishing Acetylene for six thousand burners in the Grand Union.

Outside of large cities the use of Acetylene is quite common. The owner of the country home now demands running water, gas and other conveniences which a few years ago were considered as luxuries, and acetylene gas has met his requirements, and gives him a better and cheaper light than is ordinarily furnished in cities.

It is well known that rooms lighted with Acetylene are more comfortable, because cooler, and more healthful because the air is not vitiated.

ELEPHANT HAD KIND HEART.

But Nature Never Meant Her to Mother Young Partridge.

Bishop W. N. McVieker of Rhode Island is a man of Titanic mold. Yet his every thought is kindly. When he stops it is with great care lest he crush a daisy under his weight. He will stop to let an ant pass before him. Bishop McVieker is that sort of a man. He loves the dumb creatures and has learned much of their lives. He would deny it from sheer modesty, but he is also a master at telling animal stories. Here is one:

"There was once a kindly female elephant, strolling through a wheat field. How she happened to blunder so cruelly I don't know, but in her wanderings she stepped on a female partridge. With deep grief the elephant saw what she had done and pitifully she looked at the little partridges running about looking for their mother.

"Poor little orphans," said the compassionate beast. "I have made them orphans." Then she gathered them all together with her trunk and having observed how mother partridges hover over their young, she carefully lay down upon the bereft brood to shelter them for the night. All of which goes to prove that a woman is not necessary at the head of an orphan asylum.—New York Times.

Pierre Loti Admires Turks.

As Pierre Loti, the academician, is known as a great lover of cats, there was nothing surprising in his opening the cat show at Bordeaux. He refused to make a speech, though, saying: "Let's imitate our friend the cat. He's a silent creature." It is more surprising, however, to find Pierre Loti championing the Turk and objecting to the epithet "unspeaking." In reference to him the academician has sent a message on the occasion of the appearance of the first number of Le Rayon, a paper published in Semlin. He supports the paper's aim, which is to make the Turks known in Europe, and says: "The Turkish people are brave, gentle, sober and admirable dreamers, thoroughly loyal, magnificent in war and one of the noblest on earth."

Accompanies Peary's Expedition.

Miss Mamie Dabb of Westbrook, Me., who sails with Commander and Mrs. Peary in the Roosevelt when the explorer makes his quest for the north pole, is perhaps the youngest woman who has ever undertaken such an expedition. She is 20 years old. It is not through the spirit of adventure that she takes this trip, but because she has been offered a large salary to go as stenographer to the commander and companion to Mrs. Peary. Physically Miss Dabb is a slight girl and does not look able to stand great hardship. She is now staying at Eagle Lodge, an isolated island in Casco bay, the Peary summer home.

One Hundred Besiegers Are Slain by Citizens in Armenia.

INSURGENTS FIRE THE TOWNS

Cossacks Repulse the Invaders, Capturing 870 Prisoners, With Arms and a Black Standard—Chiefs and Mullahs Are Killed.

St. Petersburg, cable.—Bands of insurgents in the district of Scharonkhan, province of Erivan, Transcaucasia, recently sacked and burned four Armenian villages. Subsequently the insurgents surrounded and attacked Ovilanoraschau. The inhabitants of the town repulsed the besiegers, killing 100 of them. Cossacks and other troops stationed at the village of Khoulanndian also repulsed an attack of the insurgents on that place, inflicting enormous losses on them and capturing 870 prisoners, a quantity of arms and a black standard. The insurgent chiefs and mullahs were executed. Proclamations were found exhorting the Sunnites and Shites to join in a war against the common enemy.

Powers of New Assembly.

The Novoe Vremya announces definitely that the powers of the new popular assembly, which will be composed of 500 members elected for five years, will be co-equal with those of the council of the empire and that all legislation to become law must pass both houses and receive the emperor's approval.

Congresses to Reconvene.

Moscow cablegram: Calls have been issued reconvening the congresses of All-Russian zemstvos, mayors of the leading cities and marshals of the nobility to receive their report of the delegation which on June 19 presented to the emperor the address drawn up by the all-Russian zemstvo congress and the mayors. The congresses will meet separately—the mayors June 28, the zemstvos July 1, and the marshals of the nobility July 3. It is probable that at their regular meetings the congresses will hereafter discuss questions relating to the public weal.

Japs Quiet Again.

Gansu Pass, Manchuria, cable: The operations of the Japanese which at first were thought to be portentous, apparently ended after the last fight. The Japanese appear to be merely clearing their immediate front.

There is now no reason for any further delay in beginning the great battle, as the opposing armies are essentially equal. The Russian troops are under the impression that an advance is about to begin.

Correspondents are not allowed to refer to the sentiments of the army concerning the peace proposals. The heads of the various armies have adopted a bellicose attitude, especially since the opening of peace negotiations were reported here.

WILL COUNT CURRENCY IN VAULTS OF TREASURY

Large Force Will Be Employed for Weeks to Ascertain if Cash on Hand is Correct.

Washington, dispatch.—Charles H. Treat, who will succeed Ellis H. Roberts as United States treasurer, beginning July 1, has had several conferences with Secretary Shaw. Mr. Treat will come to Washington two or three days before he takes charge and will spend the time making himself familiar with the work of the office and with accounts.

Immediately after he has assumed charge the great work of counting the cash of the treasury will begin. This is to determine the actual amount of money which the new treasurer is responsible for and to make the account of the retiring treasurer straight. When Treasurer Roberts came into office eight years ago the count took a number of weeks, many persons being employed. The retiring treasurer had to pay $600 due to the theft of some silver dollars while the count was progressing, as Treasurer Roberts gave a receipt for the amount turned over to him.

The long count will require the services of twenty or thirty clerks and a number of higher officials. Every dollar in every vault must be counted, so that the total will correspond exactly with the books. Should anything like a shortage be revealed the outgoing treasurer's large bond would cover it, but such a thing, unless technical, resulting from bookkeeping, is never even thought of in advance.

Greek Consul is Accused.

San Francisco dispatch: Greeks have petitioned King George of Greece to remove John Kapsiwallis as consul because, they say, he has arranged with certain railroad officials to employ only such Greek laborers as have paid him a consular fee of $30 to $50.

Lawyer is Robbed.

New York, dispatch.—Under the guise of telephone inspectors two men are reported to have robbed the country home of a prominent corporation lawyer, doing business in New York and Boston, of diamonds and other jewelry valued at $23,000.

WHY THEY ARE HAPPY

TWO NOTABLE RECOVERIES FROM EXTREME DEBILITY.

Husband's Strength Had Been Waning for Three Years, Wife a Sufferer from Female Weakness.

"My strength had dwindled so that I couldn't apply myself to my business with any snap but was tired and listless all the time," said Mr. Goldstein.

"I went to bed completely used up by my day's work, and when I got up in the morning I didn't feel rested a bit. I had awful headaches too, and my kidneys got out of order and caused me to have severe pains in the back. At one time I became so feeble that I could not stir from bed for three weeks."

Mr. Goldstein is a young man and had then but recently established a home of his own. His anxieties were increased by the fact that his wife was far from being robust. Mrs. Goldstein says:

"For two years I had been ill most of the time. Sometimes I was confined to bed for weeks in succession under a physician's care. I had headaches, kidney trouble, pain about the heart and many more uncomfortable symptoms connected with that weakness to which my sex is peculiarly subject."

Trouble had invaded this household and settled in it in just the years that ought to be the very happiest. Physicians could not tell them how to get rid of it.

"I was utterly discouraged," said Mr. Goldstein. "Then the urgency of some friends led me to try a blood and nerve remedy which was said to be wonderfully successful. Within a month there were unmistakable signs of improvement in my condition, and within a year I was completely well. Through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I have now as good health as I ever had in my life."

Mrs. Goldstein adds: "The wonderful effect that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had in the case of my husband led me to try them and they helped me even more quickly than they did him. One box made me decidedly better and a few months' treatment cured me."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the best tonic and regulator, they make pure, rich blood and when there is general weakness and disorder that is what the system needs. Mr. and Mrs. H. Goldstein live at 38 Gore street, East Boston, Mass. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by druggists everywhere.

Foolish Customs Laws.

Several times of paint were found among the luggage of an Englishman who was traveling to Morocco last month. He was in charge of a racing craft, and intended to use the pigment to touch up the vessel after its long railway journey. The French customs officials, however, took exception to the paint, on the ground that it contained dutiable spirit, whereupon the traveler argued that he intended bringing it back on leaving the country. Asked how he was going to bring it back, he replied, "On the sides of the boat." Even this plea did not suffice, the authorities arguing that the spirit would have evaporated.

Every housekeeper should know that if they will buy Defiance Cold Water Starch for laundry use they will save not only time, because it never sticks to the iron, but because each package contains 16 oz.—one full pound—while all other Cold Water Starches are put up in 8-oz. packages, and the price is the same, 10 cents. Then again because Defiance Starch is free from all injurious chemicals. If your grocer tries to sell you a 12-oz. package it is because he has a stock on hand which he wishes to dispose of before he puts in Defiance. He knows that Defiance Starch has printed on every package in large letters and figures "16 oz." Demand Defiance and save much time and money and the annoyance of the iron sticking. Defiance never sticks.

Howells Highly Complimented.

The most conspicuous of this year's academic decorations are the LL. D. conferred by Princeton on George Brinton McClellan, mayor of New York, who is scholar and writer as well as man of affairs, and Columbia's Litt. D. for William Dean Howells. In presenting Mr. Howells' name Prof. Peck spoke of him as having, through "action as true as truth itself," become "the interpreter of his own countrymen to themselves."

Old "Sweethearts" United.

Angela R. Kilbourn and John F. Johnson of Winsted, Conn., were schoolmates and sweethearts fifty years ago. They quarreled and separated and each married another. Death broke in upon their domestic lives; one became a widow, the other a widower. Recently they met, "made up" the old quarrel and married.

Why Bankers Like Mohammedans.
A swarthy man drew $500 out of the saving fund and the cashier said on his departure:
"If all our depositors were like that gentleman our concern would soon become rich. Murad Ali is an Indian, a native of Calcutta, and his religion forbids him to take interest on money. He has had a savings account with us for twelve years. His interest altogether has amounted to $700. But he has never accepted a cent of it. It has all flowed back into our coffers again."
"All Mohammedans are like Murad Ali. They won't take interest on their money. Hence, India, I think, must be a grand country for the banking business, and how glad our bankers would be if Mohammedanism were to spread a little."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

To the housewife who has not yet become acquainted with the new things of everyday use in the market and who is reasonably satisfied with the old, we would suggest that a trial of Defiance Cold Water Starch be made at once. Not alone because it is guaranteed by the manufacturers to be superior to any other brand, but because each 100 package contains 16 ozs., while all the other kinds contain but 12 ozs. It is safe to say that the lady who once uses Defiance Starch will use no other. Quality and quantity must win.

JAPANESE BALK AT ARMISTICE

Feel That Cessation of Hostilities Would Benefit the Enemy.

OYAMA CONTROLS LARGE ARMY
Reinforcements for Linevitch Simply Replace Men Lost Through Effects of Sickness and in Battle—Powers Refuse to Act.

Washington, dispatch.—Japan has informed the United States that she will not agree to an armistice with Russia until the peace plenipotentiaries have met and found each other's credentials entirely satisfactory. She would be willing to do so if a guarantee of some kind could be given her that Russia will negotiate a peace in good faith.

The president's efforts to stop the fighting in Manchuria have thus met a temporary check.

Those who have seen the restless way Mr. Roosevelt has searched for an opening to bring peace may feel assured that he will not cease his efforts to induce the belligerents to end—temporarily, at least—the operations of their armies.

Armistice Would Aid Russia.
So far as can be ascertained Russia has not asked for an armistice, and will not do so. She is in the same receptive mood she was when the president broached the idea of peace. It is Japan this time which is not welcoming the suggestion of an armistice. Marshal Oyama has a force greatly superior to that of Gen. Linvitch. A tremendous victory will insure better terms for the country. Moreover, if hostilities should be stopped the Russians might continue to strengthen Gen. Linvitch. At present he has only sufficient reinforcements to make up for the wastage due to death in battle or from disease.

Commissioners Are Not Named.
Count Cassini, the Russian ambassador, is expected to see the president and will discuss the personnel of the Russian peace commission. Minister Takahira will also see the president and his legation is also in ignorance of the names of the Japanese plenipotentiaries, Marquis Ito being the only man to be mentioned in the official dispatches.

The state department received a dispatch from Ambassador Meyer announcing that Count Lamsdorf is ill and in bed. Count Lamsdorf is the Russian minister of foreign affairs, and has been a staunch advocate of peace. His illness is greatly deplored, as the war party will have an opportunity to influence the emperor without any one of importance being at hand to rebut their views.

Nearly Take German Prince.
London, cable.—The Times' correspondent with Gen. Nogi's army says Gen. Mitchenko recently was reinforced by a mixed division of cavalry from the Caucasus. The Japanese on June 17 sent two columns against Gen. Mitchenko's advanced base and drove him across the Liao river. During the movement a German prince was nearly captured. A sharp charge burst among the foreign attaches. Two horses were killed and Portay Bey, the Turkish attache, was wounded.

Linevitch Still Retreating.
Tokio, cablegram.—Heavy rains and mists are hindering the operations in Manchuria. The Russians are reported to be retreating in confusion in northern Korea. The Japanese are advancing. The war office has notified commanders that the continuance of the war was not affected by peace proposals, saying that peace is remote and the war will continue.

This will give Hoch time to raise money and get his case before the supreme court.

Brattleboro, Vt., dispatch.—A reprieve until Dec. 8 for Mrs. Mary M. Rogers, the condemned murderess, was signed by Gov. Charles J. ERRORS IN A CYCLOPEDIA.

Careful Man Discovers 1,000 Blunders in a Work of Reference.

A man who has done a great deal of work in correcting some large dictionaries, encyclopedias and historical reference works, who has studied ten languages and who is well informed on a number of foreign lands, examined over 15,000 pages of an encyclopedia recently published in this country. Much of the work he did without the publisher's knowledge.

Though this encyclopedia was considered to have been edited carefully, he discovered over 1,000 mistakes in the first volume alone. In the following volumes he found many thousands.

In speaking of one of the most famous violin virtuosos who ever lived, it was said that in his youth he fell out with his parents and ran away to Cassel, Germany, twelve years after he died. In giving a sketch of a living European author, the statement was made that he wrote and published his first book nine years before he was born. In calling an editor's attention to this error, the editor replied, "Verily, a bright kid this! What prophecy!"—Success.

Of Wide Interest.

Breed, Wis., June 26.—Special—Chas. Y. Peterson, Justice of the Peace for Oconto Co., has delivered a judgment that is of interest to the whole United States. Put briefly, that judgment is, "Dodd's Kidney Pills are the best Kidney medicine on the market to-day."

And Mr. Peterson gives his reason for this judgment. He says: "Last winter I had an aching pain in my back which troubled me very much. In the morning I could hardly straighten my back. I did not know what it was but an advertisement led me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. After taking one box I can only say they have done more for me than expected as I feel as well now as ever I did before."

Pain in the back is one of the first symptoms of Kidney disease. If not cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills it may develop into Bright's Disease, Diabetes, Rheumatism or some of the other deadly forms of Kidney Disease.

Honor Revolutionary Hero.

Boston Sons of the Revolution last week dedicated a boulder to the memory of Capt. Isaac Hall, who commanded the Medford minute men at Lexington and Bunker hill. The boulder is of Medford granite and is in place in the yard of the former residence of Capt. Isaac Hall, corner of Bradley road and High street. On the bronze tablet facing High street is this inscription: "On this site lived Capt Isaac Hall, who commanded the Medford minute men at Lexington and Bunker hill. Paul Revere stopped here on his memorable ride to Concord, April 18-19, 1776, to warn Capt. Hall that the British soldiers were on the march. Placed by the Massachusetts Society Sons of the Revolution, June 14, 1905."

Keep Sober.

A foreboding, frightful warning against the use of strong drink comes from the lips of a dead man in Philadelphia, Pa. Benjamin H. Gaskill passes away a few days ago and there were flattering obituary notices of his busy and useful life in the newspapers. He was considered a first class business man, had followed the brokerage profession, made much money, lived luxuriantly, had plenty of friends and was supposed to be all right.

Following his death came the discovery that he was a forger, an embezzler, a destroyer of several private fortunes, the wrecker of a bank, a deceiver in every sense of the word of friends and those nearest and dearest to him. He lived a dual life and while providing munificently for his family, he maintained an illegitimate establishment and thus deceived those who trusted in his virtue and honesty. His death virtually revealed a new being to his friends and the change was most shocking.

Confessions of this man's misdeeds found written on scraps of paper among his effects, show up his true character and tell the cause of his downfall. The voice from the grave is one of the most powerful pleadings against the use of intoxicating liquors ever made by man. Gaskill says he never did a wrong act while sober, but when a desire to engage in a questionable speculation or commit the crime of forgery to secure funds he resorted to drink, then the way seemed perfectly clear. He raised the figures on checks and certificates of stock so as to deceive bank cashiers and trust company officials and thus had unlimited credit with his false securities. He would be filled with remorse in his sober moments and resolve never to drink again, then when funds grew low, as bills came due, he turned to wine for relief and he always found it.

What a sad history of one who was capable of good things, meant to do right yet gave way to temptation for the sake of riches, the flattery of men and passing pleasures. The saddest part of it is that this man left others to bear the disgrace of his misconduct all through life. What fiends, rascals, as well as fools, does the intoxicating cup make of men. Keep sober.—South Bend Tribune.

Don't be Scared to Quote Prices.

When advertising quote prices, no matter whether they are high or low. Of course, the great majority of buyers are attracted by low prices, but there are people and their number is not so small as might be supposed, who regard a big price as an unflinching indication of excellence. And in these days of enormous fortunes and quickly acquired wealth, there are people who would not buy an article at a low price, no matter how good it might be. By all means quote prices when you advertise. The long suit of the of mail order houses is their price quotations. Home merchants, if they will just form the habit of quoting their regular prices in their advertisements, will suddenly find themselves possessed of a "big club" which can be used effectively against these snide foreign invaders.

A Splendid Opportunity.

Josh— I tell you Roosan Japan 'ill have big war taxes to pay when all this is over.

Silas— Yew betcher! It'll give 'em a bully chance to partect their home industries.— Puck.

The postoffice department has made ruling that farmers may make their own mail boxes and that rural carriers must deposit and receive mail from them. It is provided, however, that such boxes must be made of standard gauge sheet iron or steel, and must be not less than 18 inches long and 6 inches in diameter, and must have an adjustable metallic signal, and must be sent to the department for approval. The last clause makes it almost impossible to meet the requirements, and operates to the advantage of the mail box manufacturers.

The governor is not the only J. Frank Hanley in Indiana. A furniture drummer from Lafayette answers to the same name and as a consequence caused the authorities at Akron to get busy one day last week. Hanley telephoned that he would be in Akron, and the word got out that he was going to clear out the slot machines from that town. So before his arrival the places using slot machines were given imperative orders to remove them.

Many towns in this end of the state report that counterfeit coins of various denominations are in circulation. At Milford last week a stranger attempted to pass a bogus $20 gold piece which was of such poor workmanship that the fraud was instantly detected and the man was instantly arrested and taken to jail at Warsaw.

Marriage and Infectious Disease.

A young woman in the state of Washington sued a man for breach of promise of marriage. In his answer he confessed the promise, and averred that he would have married the woman had he not discovered, after it was made, that she had tuberculosis. The court held that, if tuberculosis is an infectious disease, transmissible from parent to offspring, it is against public policy that a person suffering from tuberculosis should be married, and that nobody should have to pay damages for breaking a promise to marry such a person. This is a case in which the State must be cruel to some individuals, in order to be kind to the majority. In self-defense, it should prohibit such marriages.

Mr. J. T. Barber of Irwinville, Ga., always keeps a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy at hand ready for instant use. Attacks of colic, cholera morbus and diarrhoea come on so suddenly that there is no time to hunt a doctor or go to the store for medicine. Mr. Barber says: "I have tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy which is one of the best medicines I ever saw. I keep a bottle of it in my room as I have had several attacks of colic and it has proved to be the best medicine I ever used." Sold by T. E. Slattery.

Cuban Diarrhoea.

U. S. Soldiers who served in Cuba during the Spanish war know what this disease is, and that ordinary remedies have little more effect than so much water. Cuban diarrhoea is almost as severe and dangerous as a mild attack of cholera. There is one remedy, however, that can always be depended upon as will be seen by the following certificate from Mrs. Minnie Jacobs of Houston, Texas: "I hereby certify that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy cured my husband of a severe attack of Cuban diarrhoea, which he brought home from Cuba. We had several doctors but they did him no good. One bottle of this remedy cured him, as our neighbors will testify. I thank God for so valuable a medicine." For sale by T. E. Slattery.

Hard Task.

It was a huge task, to undertake the cure of such a bad case of kidney disease, as that of C. F. Collier, of Cherokee, Ia., but Electric Bitters did it. He writes: "My kidneys were so far gone, I could not sit on a chair with out cushion; and suffered from a dreadful backache, headache and depression. In Electric Bitters, however, I found a cure, and by them was restored to a perfect health. I recommend this great tonic medicine to all with weak kidneys, liver or stomach. Guaranteed by T. E. Slattery, druggist; price 50c.
