THE FOURTH SESSION BEGINS

Summer Naval School Opens with Nearly Two Hundred Cadets.

From twenty-three in 1902 to one hundred and eighty-three in 1905 this indicates how the school is growing in popularity and strength. As the Log said last year "it is no longer a venture, a new scheme, but an established fact." From these figures one judges that the School has come to stay, that it satisfies a real desire on the parts of the parents and boys of the whole country, not only of this section. From Massachusetts to San Francisco, from Mexico to Alaska cadets have come. One hears the middle western burred "r" mingled with the "fo'teen" of the Georgian; in the mind of one cadet waves the luxuriance of the Anheuser bush, while his neighbor dreams of the coffee tree and tropical palm—Old St. Louis and Old Mexico hobnob with Alaska and folks from York state.

School began officially Thursday morning with the raising of the colors to the strains of the National Anthem and after a few moments spent in chapel service and in listening to a short talk from Maj. Gignilliat classes were held in regular order until noon. In the afternoon there was a short infantry drill with old cadets in charge, and by supper formation there was a decided difference in the way the new men moved at the word of command. By the time this is read that difference will become more marked, and in two weeks a chance visitor would hardly believe that work started July 6th instead of June 6th.

A goodly number of former cadets are back enough to make organizing the battalion an easy matter—of whom Fegan—who was number twenty-three in 1902—has the largest number of service stripes.

Mr. Gignilliat arrived from the South accompanied by his wife, her daughter Miss Sauborn, and his son Tom. The faculty has undergone a few changes, but none of the faces are entirely new. Capt. D. P. Smith has the work in Physics and Chemistry, while Capt. Hunt with Capt. Noble F. relieves the congestion in the department of English.

Prospects are exceedingly bright, the most sanguine could hardly wish for more, and with the joys of past summers still in our minds, we see nothing but good things ahead.—The Log.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL NOTES

Happenings of the Past Week in Culver and Vicinity.

Mrs. Platt was a Plymouth visitor Saturday.

All the hotels have on sale the CITIZEN'S Souvenir Cards.

S. E. Medbourn transacted business in Plymouth Tuesday.

Rev. McConnehey transacted business at Plymouth Saturday.

Dr. O. A. Rea and daughter Lucretia were at Plymouth Saturday.

Children's exercises at the M. E. Church next Sunday evening, July 16.

George Davis and J. H. Koontz transacted business in Plymouth Saturday.

Miss Estella Ulery, of Mishawaka is visiting relatives and friends here.

Rev. Shepherd, of Plymouth, will preach at the Assembly, Sunday at 3 p. m.

Miss Emma Hillsman, of Plymouth, is now employed at the Critzes office.

Mrs. David Swigart has not improved very much in health. She is rather feeble.

Walter Miller and wife of Chicago arrived Sunday for a week's visit with relatives here.

The All Saints Guild will meet with Mrs. Lamson at the Palmer House, Tuesday, July 18.

A fine collection of Souvenir cards, at Slattery's drug store. The Culver Citizen prints them.

Mrs. Irwin Swigart of Logansport visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Gandy, Sunday.

It has been suggested that a society for the prevention of cruelty to animals is needed in Culver.

Miss Haslinger who has been visiting Miss Sadie Korp returned to her home at South Bend Monday.

Mrs. N. J. Haas, daughter Ethel and son Roy are visiting the families of D. G. Walter and J. H. Koontz.

Mrs. Mary Haas, daughter Ethel and son Ray of Chicago are visiting the families of D. G. Walters and J. H. Koontz.

Have you seen the Culver Citizen's line of souvenir cards at Slattery's drug store? They are excellent views of the lake.

Ed Gandy's illness settled down to a case of typhoid fever. He is a very sick young man, but hopes are entertained of his recovery.

Mr. Allison Stewart, of Princeton University, and Jack Morville started Monday on a canoe trip on the Tippecanoe river to Lafayette.

The Culver band received their new uniforms last Friday. A well drilled band of sixteen pieces in splendid new uniforms is a credit to any town.

During the past month the Post-office Department has issued fraud orders against E. W. Beucher and Indiana Chemical Mfg. Co. both of Mishawaka.

Austin Roming has purchased a lot, of D. W. Wolf and will erect a dwelling at once. Jacob Zecheil has the contract and the work will be rushed to an early completion.

Lots of new sailboats on the lake. Messrs. Shirk, Ogle and Edwards have crafts of the knock-about type and Messrs. Coffin and Porriu are the owners of new cats. There should be some good races.

Bert Allman has a soldiers license which permits him to sell or peddle goods in Marshall county. When we first saw it we took it to be a marriage license but upon closer examination we discovered our mistake.

FIRST YACHT RACE MONDAY

Lack of Wind Prevents the Meet Scheduled for Saturday.

As there was no wind the race set for Saturday was postponed until Monday morning at nine thirty but as there were delays the race did not get off until ten o'clock. It was decided to start the sloops before the cat boats so as to avoid any trouble in the two classes mixing and being in the way of each other. The course was triangular, running from a point in front of Murdock's pier to a buoy off the Lake View thence south to a buoy in front of Farrar's. The first gun was fired at ten and after three minutes to jockey for places the second gun was fired and the sloops were off. The Nassau (Thomas Hendricks new boat) was the first to cross the line followed by E. W. Shirk's White Lady, Old Scout and Kenneth Ogle's new boat the Esperance. Ten minutes later the cat boats started all of which did not cross the line until the third gun had been fired so that the times were taken at 10:10. The Lucas crossed the line first followed by C. Coffin's new boat, the Diones, Gilbert Van Camp's new boat, the Indian and the Flip. Among the sloops all sailed the first leg about evenly but on the second leg the Old Scout as usual took the lead and held it until the finish. The Esperance made the second best time and the Nassau the third best. Thomas Hendricks had the hard luck to foul one of the buoys on the second round which necessitated his going around it again and K. Ogle had the same misfortune. With the cat boats the two new boats which Captain Edd Morris built last winter made an exciting race. J. E. Fulton who has the third boat built by Capt. Morris was not able to be here to race Monday so his boat, the Isabella did not sail. In the first round the Uncas held the lead until the "Van Camp," caught and passed her on the last leg after which the "Van Camp held the lead and one minute and eight seconds ahead of the Indian the second boat. The Sewahanaka handicapping rule has been adopted by the club for the handicapping of the round bottom sloops. Before this they have been handicapped by the club's knowledge of the relative speeds of the different boats, but the new rule handicaps them on their relative sail areas and water lines. The following is the table of times of the different boats:

SLOOPS.

NAME	Start	Finish	Time
Old Scout (1st)	10:04:25	11:15:30	1:11:05
Esperance (2nd)	10:04:25	11:21:41	1:17:16

The Diamond Cure.
The latest news from Paris is that they have discovered a diamond cure for consumption. If you fear consumption or pneumonia, it will, however, be best for you to take that great remedy mentioned by W. H. McGee, of Vanleer, Tenn. "I had a cough for fourteen years. Nothing helped me until I took Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption, coughs and colds, which gave instant relief, and effected a permanent cure." Unequaled quick cure for throat and lung troubles. At T. E. Slattery's drug store; price 50c and $1.00, guaranteed. Trial bottle free.

CULVER, INDIANA, JULY 13, 1905.

Dietrich & Co., of Bremen, one of the oldest and most substantial business houses in the county have reorganized. They have taken into the firm four additional members, men who have been at the head of different departments in the store for years.

The Churnbusco Truth says an editor in Ohio started about twenty years ago with 15 cents is now worth $100,000. His accumulation of wealth is owing to his frugality, strict attention to business, and the fact that an uncle died and left him $99,998.

"We understand that some farmers permit Canada thistles to grow upon their lands," says the Valparaiso Messenger. "It is a duty of road supervisors to see that such thistles are cut off, under penalty of a fine. Owners permitting them to grow can be prosecuted. Better destroy them and save trouble."

A Macy man says that some people go to church to weep, others to sleep. Some go their wives to please, there conscience others go to ease. Some go to tell their woes, others go to show their clothes. Some go to hear the preacher, others like the solo screecher. Boys go to reconnoiter, girls go because they oughter. Many go for sage reflection, precious few to help collection.

Prof. Miller, President of the Maxinkuckee Assembly was in town the greater part of last week making preparation's for the Assembly. The program will be the strongest ever presented and will merit a liberal patronage. The grounds will be more beautiful and the accommodation's for the public more complete than ever before. Maxinkuckee has natural advantages for the location of a Chautauqua, that are superior to the location of other similar institutions, these natural advantages coupled with energy and push will assure us an entertainment that will be bright, instructive, and of lasting benefit.

We have frequently made the remark that Culver is the liveliest, and our merchants do more business than is done in any town of its size in the state. Go into any store in town and you will find the capacity of the merchant taxed to its limit. We have more delivery wagons on the road delivering goods, than any town in the county, Plymouth included. Compared with its size, there are more new buildings going up, that represents a greater investment than any town in the county. Our postal receipts rank second in the county, being second only to Plymouth. This is the greatest produce market in the county. Farmers come here a distance of 10 and 12 miles to do their trading. If we only had a spur electric line from here to Plymouth or Argos we would draw trade from beyond these towns.

One Dollar Saved Represents Ten Earned.
The average man does not save to exceed ten per cent. of his earnings. He must spend nine dollars in living expenses for every dollar saved. That being the case he cannot be too careful about unnecessary expenses. Very often a few cents properly invested, like buying seeds for his garden, will save several dollars outlay later on. It is the same in buying Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea remedy. It cost but a few cents a bottle, and a bottle of it in the house often saves a doctor's bill of several dollars. For sale by T. E. Slattery.

THE COLONEL'S VALET

[Copyright, 1905, by T. C. McClure.]
Colonel Bennett of the native Sixth Infantry, stationed in the provinces of Bombay, had taken a native valet because that was the fashion, and he expected the fellow to assassinate him some day, because that was the custom of native valets. He thought the event might happen the first year, then the second, the third, and when four years had gone by and no attempt had been made on his life he called Nizam to him one day and said:

"How is it that you have let me live on so long?"
"May the sahib colonel live for a thousand years," was the reply of the man with the impassive face who stood before him in cringing attitude.
"That's all gammon, Nizam, and you know it. Like all other Hindus, you have a deadly hatred of the English. You wish for nothing so much as an other rebellion and a chance to cut our throats. Do I not speak the truth?"
"Great and powerful are the English, and their rule is merciful and full of justice."

"All sheer hypocrisy on your part, Nizam. You'd like to put your knife into a dozen of us today. You have now been with me four years."

"Four long and happy years, sahib colonel, and it would break my heart to have you send me away."
"More rot. There has not been a week in the four years that I have not knocked you about. I am quick tempered, and I strike first and talk afterward. I have cuffed and kicked you, and I have had you whipped, and I'm not fool enough to think you have passed it all by."

"In my heart there is nothing but love for the sahib colonel," replied the valet.
"All right, Nizam. You won't tell the truth, and I can't make you, and so we will let this subject drop. Take a pointer from me, however. When you set out to kill me make a quick job of it. If you don't I'll have you roasted over a slow fire."

Nizam went away to his room to ponder. It was true that he hungered for the colonel's death. He would have given everything but his own life to bring it about. It was true that for four years he had been ready for any opportunity and had never been without poison, but he feared the white men. They could trace the most subtle poisons, and they were always suspicious. He knew of several valets who had killed their sahibs, and each and every one had been found out and punished, no matter how sharp they were. He had often wondered if the sahib colonel suspected his feelings, and now that he knew he did he might be taken out and shot any day. The Hindu's alarm lasted for a month. Then he began to pluck up heart again.

The simplest and easiest weapon at hand was one he had never thought of, and the idea came to him like a flash one day. An hour later he was setting on it. Two days later one of the beggars visiting the compound to ask for food carried a basket. When finding himself alone with Nizam he said:

"There is the basket you will find a cobra fresh from the jungle, and the slightest scratch from his fangs means death. Let him be turned loose in the sahib colonel's room, and he will do the rest. When serpents are found everywhere, who can say that you had anything to do with this?"

There were guests at the mess that night, with much drinking and speech-making, and the colonel came in late and staggering under his load of wine. He was not so far gone, however, but that he remembered certain things, and while being put to bed he sleepily said:

"Nizam, you liar and hypocrite, you know you'd like to murder me, but you haven't the nerve. You are a coward. You haven't the courage of a woman. I'm drunk tonight and shall sleep like a log, but I shall have no fear of you."
"I shall watch over the sahib colonel as a mother over her child," replied the valet as he turned his face aside to hide a smile.

Half an hour later the basket was upset in the colonel's chamber and the hissing and angry cobra turned loose. He would find the sleeper within ten minutes and bury his fangs in his flesh. Nizam sat down in his own room to enjoy the sensation. In the course of an hour he would go out on the veranda and push one of the screens aside and give the cobra a chance to escape.

It might be said he had been careless about the screen or they might say that the sahib colonel had blundered around after being left for the night. There was a bright moon, and it shone full into Nizam's room. There were neither screens nor glass to keep it out. The natives of India care neither for heat nor insects. As the valet sat crouched on his haunches, wondering and listening and smiling, something came wriggling over the sill of the window and dropped to the floor. The cobra had got out through the screen of the colonel's window, but had not made off to the jungle. For two minutes the serpent remained quiet. Then it began creeping toward the valet. His eyes were fastened upon it and dilated in horror, but his muscles were paralyzed, and he could make no move. Nearer, nearer, and then the cobra erected itself and hissed and struck.

"Nizam, where the devil are you?" shouted the colonel next morning as he turned out of bed. "Oh, there you are, you imp of Satan! What—dead? By George, so he is, and from the swelling I should say it was the work of a cobra. Sorry for the poor beggar that he died without getting a whack at me!"

How Is Your Heart?

Is your pulse weak, too slow, too fast, or does it skip a beat? Do you have shortness of breath, weak or hungry spells, fainting, smothering or choking spells, palpitation, fluttering, pains around the heart, in side and shoulder; or hurt when lying on left side?
If you have any of these symptoms your heart is weak or diseased, and cannot get better without assistance.
Dr. Miles' Heart Cure strengthens weak hearts, and rarely ever fails to cure heart disease. Try it, and see how quickly you will find relief.

"About January 1st, 1903, I took down with weakness and dizziness, and gradually grew worse. I was told by my family physician that my case was hopeless. My neighbors and family had given me up to die. My limbs and body were swollen to such a degree that I could not move, and water had collected around my heart. For at least three months I had to sit propped up. I sent for five bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, and by the time I had taken them all I was entirely cured. I feel better than I have for twenty years, and I am able to do any kind of work on my farm. My attending physician told me that if it hadn't been for Dr. Miles' Heart Cure I would now be in my grave."
L. T. CULL, Wilmore, Ky.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails he will refund your money.

Mrs. Frank Lamson entertained a number of friends at a dinner party Friday in honor of Mrs. E. Brown and Miss Lilly Brown, of South Bend.

The souvenir cards printed by the Culver Citizens are meeting with a great demand, views of every conceivable point of interest have been called for.

Advantages of a Rural Telephone

About a week ago Mrs. E. A. Curtis took suddenly sick during the night. Mr. Curtis being alone with his wife could not call the assistance of a neighbor.

Logic of Advertising.

John Wannaker, referring recently to the advantage of advertising, says: "The good, sensible merchant sticks to his proposition throughout the year, never withdrawing his announcement but constantly pounding away at the public."

Increased Equipment.

The School's increase in equipment has kept pace with the growth of numbers. Two cutters have been added to the navy already in hand.

CHOLERA INFANTUM

Child Not Expected to Live from One Hour to Another, but Cured by Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy.

Ruth, the little daughter of E. N. Dewey of Aqueduct, Va., was seriously ill of cholera infantum last summer. "We gave her up and did not expect her to live from one hour to another," he says.

The Automobile Law.

On account of the numerous automobiles that come to town and the accident that happened to the George Osborn family, the law upon that subject will be of especial interest.

The last legislature passed a very stringent law on the subject of operating automobiles on the public thoroughfares. This bill was prepared by Senator D. L. Crumpacker of the 10th district and is regarded as a very fair law.

Sec. 2. That any person or persons operating a motor vehicle on any public highway or in any public place shall not operate the same at any rate of speed greater than is reasonable and proper.

Sec. 3. That any rate of speed provided in section two of this act shall not be diminished nor prohibited by any ordinance, rule or regulation of any municipality, board or other public authorities.

Sec. 4. Any person or persons operating a motor vehicle shall at all times provide the same with a good efficient brake and a suitable bell, horn or other signal, and shall upon approaching any person or persons riding, leading or driving a horse, horses, draft animals upon any public highway or in any public place, signal such person or persons with said bell or horn.

Sec. 5. That any person or persons operating a motor vehicle shall, upon meeting any person or persons riding, leading a horse, horses or draft animals or other farm animals on any public highway, upon request or signal by putting up the hand from any such person or persons so riding, leading or driving any horse, horses or other draft animals or other farm animals (if in sufficient light for such signal to be perceptible) immediately bring his motor vehicle to a stop and remain stationary so long as may be reasonable to allow such horse, horses or other draft animals or other farm animals to pass.

Sec. 6. That any person or persons operating a motor vehicle shall, upon meeting any person or persons riding, leading or driving a horse, horses or other draft animals or other farm animals the operator of any motor vehicle when signaled as above provided shall reduce the speed of such motor vehicle and before passing shall allow reasonable time for such animal to be driven or conducted to the side of the road. PROVIDED, That the driver of any horse, or other draft animals or other farm animals shall, upon the approach of any motor vehicle drive to the right so as to give to said motor vehicle one-half of the traveled portion of the highway or street, and the operator of any motor upon the approach of any driver of horse, horses or other draft animals or other farm animals shall drive his motor vehicle to the right so as to give one-half of the traveled portion of the highway or street to the driver of said horse, horses or other animals.

Forced to Starve.

B. F. Loek, of Concord, Ky., says: "For 20 years I suffered agonies with a sore on my upper lip, so painful, sometimes I could not eat. After vainly trying everything else, I cured it with Bucklen's Arnica Salve."

LESSONS OF THE WAR.

An "African Brigadier," writing to the London Standard, declares that the principle of Japanese attacks could not be used against German, French or American troops.

"The Russians were not able to use their fire adequately, with the result that the Japanese, counting upon this deficiency, stormed positions with masses and received the terrible casualties of close quarter work instead of the wholesale massacre which might have ensued if every foot of the advance had been covered by efficient rifle fire."

"Napoleon said that fire is everything, and the rest of small account. In the case of the Russians it was the fire that had been of small account, therefore let us have ample evidence that the lessons of the war are drawn from fairly normal conditions before we alter our methods."

Why Soap Eaters Eat Soap.

Mr. Charles S. Howe, the general secretary of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, said at a dinner of scientists: "False science, the pseudo scientific method, with its explanations that explain nothing and help us in no wise, may be illustrated perhaps with a little episode that I heard of the other day."

"I am informed, sir, that people are sometimes born with a desire to eat soap?"

"That is quite true," the instructor answered. "What is the cause of it?" asked the student.

"These people," was the reply, "are the victims of sapsopomania." "What does sapsopomania mean, professor?" the student said.

Another Pygmalion.

Recent research has carried back the history of French art to a period two centuries earlier than that in which it was supposed to have had its rise. A portrait of King John, by an unknown artist of the fourteenth century, was until recently the oldest recorded French painting.

Artificial Cotton.

Recent experiments have been made in Bavaria in regard to preparing artificial cotton from pine wood, and it is said that the new process allows it to be made cheaply enough so that the artificial cotton may compete with the natural product.
