Until January he will be here more or less of the time looking after the store business, then he will go on the road as state representative of the Malleable Steel Range company of South Bend. At present he will act as assistant state agent.

GIFT TO ACADEMY.

C. E. Coffin Presents the School with a Valuable Engraving.

The presentation of a beautiful steel engraving of the old sailing ship Constitution was an unexpected feature of dress parade at the academy Monday evening. The picture was the gift of Mr. C. E. Coffin of Indianapolis who made the presentation speech. He gave a brief account of the history of "Old Ironsides" and the part which it had played in bringing honor to the American navy. Then he told the circumstances leading to the purchase of the picture with a view to presenting it to the Culver Summer Naval school.

Mr. Gignilliat made a happy and appropriate speech in reply, congratulating the school upon the present itself and upon having thus been associated in the minds of its friends with the old vessel which was always a victor.

The picture is a beautiful steel engraving representing the "Constitution" under full sail. It is about 30x30 in size and is handsomely framed. Its permanent place will be in the library.

SMALLPOX NEAR BY.

Several Cases Supposed to be Chick-enpox are in Quarantine.

The much-called chickenpox which has for the past week been developing in different families, both in town and country, has reached such a stage that the local physicians with Dr. J. J. Thomas, county health officer, who was called here Monday from Winamac, decided it was smallpox in a modified form. Of all the cases up to this time only a few have been confined to their bed, a number not being sick enough to give up. Four families in town are now under quarantine: J. W. Daugherty, A. C. Wolfram, E. C. Zehner, and S. V. Zehner. In the former there are six ill, in the Wolfram one, E. C. Zehner's three and S. V. Zehner's one. The disease is identically the same as has been in Rochester, Winamac, Leiters' Ford, Ora, and the country surrounding these places at various times during the past four or five years. No deaths occur from it, and the scare naturally comes from the name of the disease—smallpox.—Monterey Sun.

A DOUBLE WEDDING.

A Culver Man One of the Fortunate Grooms in the Event.

Warren, Ind., Aug. 17.—A double wedding will occur at the elegant country home of H. C. Creviston, a well-known stock-raiser and politician of Grant county, on Sept. 5, when Miss Perlle Creviston will wed Chester Bigley of Culver, and Miss Laura Creviston will become the wife of Ernest Keller of Kokomo. Mr. and Mrs. Bigley will spend their honeymoon on the former's farm on Lake Maxinkuckee.

The Van Buren News-Eagle says: The handsome and accomplished daughters of H. C. Creviston are members of one of the wealthiest and most influential families in Grant county. They are popular in social circles and church work. Miss Perlle, the eldest, has been a most successful teacher in the public schools for a number of years, the past year having had charge of the music in the grades, also having a large class which received private instruction on the piano.

The Lake View.

Capt. McCoy expects to keep the Lake View open this season until after the opening of the academy, Sept. 19. This will extend the season until nearly the 1st of October.

Miss Maurine Waldorf entertained a number of friends at a dance Friday evening. The White Swan, which occupied a position in front of the cottage, was decorated with chinese lanterns and bouquets of asters. Tees were served on the lower floor between dances, and a program of sixteen numbers and two extras was enjoyed.

Die Suddenly.

Wm. Matthew and wife were called to Monterey yesterday on account of the serious illness of Mrs. Matthew's mother, Mrs. Murphey. They did not arrive until after the death of Mrs. Murphey.

Dr. Murphey started early this morning for Rochester to arrange for the funeral and burial lot. After reaching Rochester, he died suddenly.

Mr. Matthew went to Rochester this evening to arrange for the burial of both. They were each about 60 years of age.—Tuesday's Plymouth Independent.

Will He Bid?

A representative of the Leader Iron Works of Decatur, Ill., was in town last week with the intention of bidding on the water plant. He looked over the ground and left the same day, stating that he would put in a formal bid after the town had furnished the specifications. He also said that the figure of the National Construction company ($8,000) was low, and that he would not make a lower one on the material and work as at present specified.

Afternoon Party.

Mary Myers entertained a number of young people Sunday in honor of her sister Pearl who came home from South Bend for the day. Those present were the Misses Stella Pontius, Lucy Hissong, Vada Pontius, Blanche Walker, and Messrs. Floyd Custer of Mishawaka, John Kline of South Bend, Jim White, Bert Voreis and W. H. Myers and family. Ice cream and cake were served. The occasion was an enjoyable one to all present.

Hurt in Wreck.

Otto Albert received word last evening that his mother and father and Mrs. Dibble and son Kenneth were in a railroad wreck at Lima, Ohio, and were all injured. They are expected home this evening.—Tuesday's Plymouth Independent.

LOCAL ITEMS

Monday and Tuesday were extremely hot. The thermometer registered 95 each day.

The six additional cutters have been received at the academy, increasing the fleet to twelve.

George Kline, east of the lake, had a valuable cow killed by lightning during Monday afternoon's storm.

Supt. George Davis will begin work on the new ice houses of the Maxinkuckee Ice company about Sept. 1.

Rev. J. F. Rogers has been returned by conference to the Methodist Protestant charge at Maxinkuckee.

A hayrack load of young people came up from Mt. Hope Thursday evening to attend the band concert.

The Panhandle employes at Logansport will come to the lake on Saturday. About forty carloads are expected.

Dr. Parker has moved into the house recently occupied by his mother, and O. T. Goss takes the Parker house.

Fourteen Culver young people drove to Argos Tuesday evening on a hayrack, but arrived too late for the band concert.

Rev. Robert V. Hunter of Buffalo, N. Y., an eminent Presbyterian clergyman, preached to the cadets last Sunday.

Owing to the absence of the pastor on his vacation there will be no preaching at the Christian church next Sunday.

H. L. Austin has been seriously sick for the past week with something like congestion on the brain. He is now improving.

The annual picnic of the G. A. R. and the M. B. will be held this Saturday at Peeples' grove, week

The rain of Monday afternoon which was only a passing shower in Culver was a downpour of three hours 2 miles south of town.

The barn of Daniel Savage in Green township, was struck by lightning and burned during the heavy storm of Thursday evening.

Henry Stahl gave a party last night to the Culver young people on his farm south of town in honor of his brother Otto and sister Clara.

A heavy electrical storm visited Culver Monday afternoon. Three telephone poles near the grist mill were shattered by a stroke of lightning.

The Dorcas society will meet at Mrs. Lemuel Woods' on Thursday afternoon. A general invitation is extended to all who wish to help in the work of the society.

Henry Backhoister has taken rooms over Hessel's store and will remain in Culver. He is one of the best carpenters in this section, and his many friends are glad to see him locate here again.

Reckless auto drivers of motor cars can be made to observe a decent respect for the rules of the road if the driver of the horse carries a "gun." In many cases this seems to be the only protection a farmer has.

There seems to be a regularly organized gang of horse thieves in this section of the country. Many horses have been stolen in this and adjoining counties during the past two months and none of them found, nor is there any clew to the thieves.

A Culver man is laying for a certain Knox doctor whom he has twice met on the road when the doctor was driving an auto with reckless speed and absolutely ignoring the fact that the Culver man's horse was frightened on both occasions.

PROPER CARE OF THE HAIR

IN SUMMER GIVE IT A REST FROM ARTIFICIAL CURLING

Those at the Seashore Should Never Allow the Salt Water to Remain in the Hair—To Protect the Skin.

Women intending to pass the summer or a portion of it at the seashore must be very careful of both skin and hair. The salt of wind and wave, as well as the glare on the sandy beaches, play havoc with the texture of the skin and the beauty of the hair.

Pounds and more pounds of the best cold cream should be used on the skin, and the sea water should never be allowed to remain in the hair. It is better to wear oil-skin caps and so protect the head entirely, but with the utmost precaution an occasional wetting occurs, and then the salt water should be rinsed out as soon as possible and the hair dried. A little salt is good for the hair, but not the real salt water of the sea; it leaves the hair sticky and in time destroys its gloss beyond restoring.

It should be the rule to rest the head from all, or as much as possible, artificial dressings, and helps through the hot months; no curling iron should be used at all, for one reason that the curl will not stay in, and another, that the hair may have the rest it so much needs from the constant dressing in the whirl of the winter festivities.

The woman who thinks she looks "a fright" without the "marcelling" of her hair, will find she can wear charming veils of lace, of chiffon or soft liberty silk most becomingly over perfectly straight locks, and also the be-ruffled lingerie hats. If she will loosen her hair after the bath, and if it is wet, rinse it and dry it in the sun and wind, it gets a "fluff" of its own, from simple relief.

Advice for the Stout Woman

Firm Flesh Well Carried Is Not Ungainly—How to Reduce.

There is a wonderful new German reduction method which calls for a rubber blanket, in which the fat woman is wrapped. Sometimes she is put into a rubber suit. And with this so tight that it both compresses and sweats her she does her exercises. The result is a rapid loss of weight. And particularly does this weight around the belt line disappear, just where it is the thickest and looks the worst. Make the room quite hot and go through a simple course of gymnastics, the most important of which is the bending exercises. She can lie flat on the floor and elevate her feet. She can stand and bend over. She can lie upon the floor and lift one foot and then the other.

The rope gymnastics are extremely good. A rope is slipped over the foot and the handles are held in the hand. The rope is seersawed by the handles, and the patient is strengthened as to her back and broadened as to her shoulders. The second of the rope exercises is taken lying flat upon the back. The patient lies down, lifts one foot, throws a rope over it, and seersaws it, pulling the handles back and forth. This is for the reduction of the belt line proper. Incidentally it develops the chest.

A Few Healthful Breathing Exercises

In a Bag Lined with Wash Leather and Conveniently Placed.

The accompanying sketch illustrates a useful little bag for a razor, made for hanging up on the post of a looking-glass or on a nail in the wall by the side of the glass. The bag should be about eight inches in length and two in width. It is gathered at the top and a ribbon run through, which answers the double purpose of closing the neck and supporting the bag when it is hung up. This little article can be made from any odd piece of material that we happen to have by us, and the word "razor" may be worked in silk in plain letters on the side as shown. It should be lined with soft wash-leather, as the leather will keep the razor bright and clean and in good condition. A razor will not improve if it is left lying about loose on a dressing-table, to say nothing of its being a most dangerous plaything should it happen to fall into little hands, and if after it has been used it is returned regularly to the bag it will at any rate be safely out of the way.

For reducing the chin and the waist at the same time there is an old physical culture exercise which resembles in a way the puss in the corner game of the nursery folk. The one who is reducing kneels down in the corner puss fashion, throwing the rope to some one else, who pulls on it in a sort of tug-of-war fashion. If there is no one to assist the puss can play it by herself, throwing the rope over something and seersawing the handles. This is excellent from the viewpoint of exercise. The kneeling position, the exercise with the arms, the vigorous chest movements, and the fact that the chin is kept constantly on the go makes it quite varied and enjoyable.

When all is said and done about reducing those who are stout never need look or act ungracefully if they are fastidious about their daily baths—two a day, the hot at night, the cold plunge in the morning—dainty about their food, eschewing the grosser sorts and taking the fruits and vegetables in abundance, with no water at meal time and plenty within two hours of meals, and if, besides, they indulge in regular exercise—walks, golf, swimming, horse-back riding, or some other favorite physical practice. So long as the flesh is firm and well carried and pure from internal and external impurities, it is not ungainly or unpleasant to the eye.

A Good Place to Keep the Razor

No Expensive Gym. Apparatus Needed, But Full Value Received.

When one knows how much there is in breathing one begins to realize the importance of breathing exercises. To make sure that we breathe right we should prepare the lungs before we begin as the runner does who takes a little run before he starts in the race in order to get the second wind by the expansion of the whole chest cavity. We can get our second wind simply by tapping the chest, which causes the lungs to expand and get lungy for air.

Place the hands on the hips and draw in a full breath, at the same time throwing the head upward and backward. Exhale as the head is brought forward. The hands on the hips hold the shoulders down. Count four while breathing in and four while breathing out.

Clasp the hands over the abdomen and take a full deep breath, at the same time pressing upon the abdomen and lifting the chest as high as possible. Count four while breathing in and the same while breathing out. Do not relax the pressure on the abdomen while breathing out, but continue it all the while.

The third movement is full breathing with chest lifting, almost the same as the last. Raise the chest high and hold it there, letting the breath go out, and pressing hard upon the abdomen to prevent the chest from sinking. You cannot let the chest down while you clasp the hands tight.

Empty the lungs completely of air, close the throat, and raise the chest as high as possible. This makes a suction that creates a vacuum in the chest. The blood is then being pumped out of the liver. Open the throat for a few seconds and let the air in, then repeat the exercise.

Good for the Eyes.

Open the lids and let the water bathe the eyeballs. Wipe them with a soft towel, taking care to rub toward the nose. This motion has a tendency to remove any foreign matter.

HERITAGE OF CIVIL WAR.

Thousands of Soldiers Contracted Chronic Kidney Trouble While in the Service.

The experience of Capt. John L. Ely, of Co. E, 17th Ohio, now living at 500 East Second street, Newton, Kansas, will interest the thousands of veterans who came back from the Civil War suffering tortures with kidney complaint. Capt. Ely says: "Contracted kidney trouble during the Civil War, and the occasional attacks finally developed into a chronic case. At one time I had to use a crutch and cane to get about. My back was lame and weak, and besides the aching, there was a distressing retention of the kidney secretions. I was in a bad way when I began using Doan's Kidney Pills in 1901, but the remedy cured me, and I have been well ever since."

ANYTHING FOR FILTHY LUCRE

Writer's Cynical Justification of Mean Piece of Work.

A certain gifted writer of whom it has once said that he wouldn't recognize his wife if he met her on the street wrote a charming love story not so long ago, and it was printed in a popular magazine. His friends and all those of the circle in which the author moved recognized the story as an exact and recent transcript from the life of the writer, involving a very beautiful young woman, also well known in the same set. One man, coming across the author, took him to task for it.

"What in the world did you write up that affair with Miss Blank for?" he demanded.

The author looked at him unmoved and with the same exquisite calm and clearness that characterized his work, replied:

"I needed the money."

The University of Notre Dame, it appears, has some features that can not be indicated in any other school. It is one of the old, well-established colleges, with settled traditions reaching back sixty-four years, with a distinguished staff of professors and excellent library and laboratory equipment. Its discipline is of the paternal kind—strong without being oppressive; and as it embraces in its scope the grammar school, high school and college work, its appeal is as broad as it is potent. Perhaps the most remarkable feature of the famous Indiana University, however, is the fact that it has arrived at its present marvellous development absolutely without government. An announcement of the courses provided at Notre Dame appears on another page.

Convenient English.

"We become accustomed to a phrase," observed an educator at a teachers' convention, "but when we introduce a new one along exactly the same lines, it startles the hearer."

"A number of ladies were seated in a hotel parlor, and one of them, commenting on a woman who was standing in the hallway, said:

"Mrs. Loraine seems unusually happy this morning."

"Yes," answered a companion, knowingly, "the ladies of Newark gave a tea in her honor yesterday. But doesn't her husband look gloomy and dejected?"

"That is true," admitted the first speaker. "I presume the gentlemen of Newark gave a beer in his honor last night."

Foreign Born Men of Fame.

Of the 300,000 Canadians engaged in business or following professional pursuits in the United States many hold prominent posts. "Who's Who in America" mentions 245 Canadians. Allowing one-eighth of those born in Great Britain but brought up in and therefore rightly to be credited to Canada, the number of Canadians becomes 276, or 2.3 for every 10,000 Canadians in the United States. With this may be compared the British rate per 10,000 of 2.2, that of 2.1 for the Dutch, that of .5 for Swedes, and that of .9 for native Americans (black and white), or 1.9 for native white Americans.

A WINNING START.

A Perfectly Digested Breakfast Makes Nerve Force for the Day.

Everything goes wrong if the breakfast lies in your stomach like a mud pie. What you eat does harm if you can not digest it—it turns to poison.

A bright lady teacher found this to be true, even of an ordinary light breakfast of eggs and toast. She says:

"Two years ago I contracted a very annoying form of indigestion. My stomach was in such a condition that a simple breakfast of fruit, toast and egg gave me great distress.

"I was slow to believe that trouble could come from such a simple diet but finally had to give it up, and found a great change upon a cup of hot Postum and Grape-Nuts with cream, for my morning meal. For more than a year I have held to this course and have not suffered except when injudiciously varying my diet.

"I have been a teacher for several years and find that my easily digested breakfast means a saving of nervous force for the entire day. My gain of ten pounds in weight also causes me to want to testify to the value of Grape-Nuts.

"Grape-Nuts holds first rank at our table."

To Launder Hardanger Embroidery.

The popular hardanger embroidery launders beautifully if one knows just how to do it. Whether worked in cotton or silk, do not rub, but dip up and down and squeeze in warm Ivory Soap suds until clean. To dry, spread between coarse towels and roll them up. Iron between cloths until nearly dry, then press on the wrong side. ELEANOR R. PARKER.

Smokers Shown by Handwriting.

Mr. Saunders, a former schoolmaster, told the British house of lords committee on juvenile smoking that he could detect smokers by their handwriting—that of boys who smoked being a loose, flabby kind. Handwriting, he said, was a cinematograph of the heart.

SORES ON HANDS.

Suffered for a Long Time Without Relief—Doctor Was Afraid to Touch Them—Cured by Cuticura.

"For a long time I suffered with sores on the hands which were itching, painful and disagreeable. I had three doctors, and derived no benefit from any of them. One doctor said he was afraid to touch my hands, so you must know how bad they were; another said I never could be cured; and the third said the sores were caused by the dipping of my hands in the water in the dye-house where I work. I saw in the papers about the wonderful cures of the Cuticura Remedies and procured some of the Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. In three days after the application of the Cuticura Ointment my hands began to peel and were better. The soreness disappeared, and they are now smooth and clean, and I am still working in the dye-house. Mrs. A. E. Maurer, 2340 State St., Chicago, Ill., July 1, 1905."

World's Cotton Consumption.

The consumption of cotton from 1893 to 1898 averaged only 9,000,000 bales annually in the whole world, but from 1895 to 1903 the average was 19,684,146 bales annually, and the average price was three cents per pound greater than for the previous period. If the consumption increases at the same rate during the next five year period the average will be nearly 12,000,000 bales annually, and the prices will be much higher than in the previous period. This indicates a prosperous future for the cotton producer and manufacturer, as well as for the export trade.

BIG NEW SHOE BUILDING.

It is Dedicated by the W. L. Douglas Co. at Brockton.

The dedication a short time ago of the new administration and jobbing house building erected by the W. L. Douglas Shoe Co. as a part of its mammoth manufacturing plant at Montello was marked by the thoroughness and attention to detail characteristic of the firm in all its undertakings.

The dedicatory program included open house from 11 a. m. to 8 p. m. with concert by the Mace Gay orchestra and the presence of a Boston caterer to attend to the wishes of all. The building itself afforded a feast for the eye, especially the offices, which are marvels in many ways. Fifteen thousand invitations were sent out, including over 11,000 to the retail dealers in the United States who handle the W. L. Douglas Co. shoes, the others going to shoe manufacturers and all allied industries in Brockton and vicinity. Mr. Douglas will be glad to have anybody who is interested call and inspect the new plant, and says "the latch string is always out." All departments of the plant were open for inspection, the three factories as well as the new building, and visitors were received and escorted through the industrial maze by ex-Gov. Douglas, assisted by the heads of the various departments.

Under the present system all shoes are manufactured to order, and customers sometimes lose sales waiting for shoes to arrive. With the new jobbing house they will be enabled to have their hurry orders shipped the same day they are received.

The new building is 260 feet long and 60 feet wide and two stories in height. The jobbing department will occupy the entire lower floor, while the offices will occupy the second floor. The jobbing department will carry a complete stock of men's, boys', youths', misses' and children's shoes, slippers, rubbers and findings equal to any jobbing house in the country. Buyers are especially invited to come here to trade, and every effort possible will be made to suit their convenience. There will be a finely appointed sample room on the second floor, with an office in which both telephone and telegraph will be installed, with operators, both Western Union and Postal Telegraph wires to be used. There will also be arrangements for the receipt and despatch of mail.

WORKING WOMEN

Their Hard Struggle Made Easier—Interesting Statements by a Young Lady in Boston and One in Nashville, Tenn.

All women work; some in their homes, some in church, and some in the whirl of society. And in stores, mills and shops tens of thousands are on the never-ceasing treadmill, earning their daily bread.

All are subject to the same physical laws; all suffer alike from the same physical disturbance, and the nature of their duties, in many cases, quickly drifts them into the horrors of all kinds of female complaints, tumors, ulceration, falling and displacements or perhaps irregularity or suppression, causing backache, nervousness, irritability and lassitude.

They especially require an invigorating, sustaining medicine which will strengthen the female organism and enable them to bear easily the fatigues of the day, to sleep well at night, and to rise refreshed and cheerful.

How distressing to see a woman struggling to earn a livelihood or perform her household duties when her back and head are aching, she is so tired she can hardly drag about or stand up, and every movement causes pain, the origin of which is due to some derangement of the female organism.

Miss F. Orser, of 14 Warrenton Street, Boston, tells women how to avoid such suffering; she writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham—

"I suffered misery for several years with female irregularities. My back ached; I had bearing-down pains, and frequent headaches; I could not sleep and could hardly drag around. I consulted two physicians without relief, and as a last resort, I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and to my surprise, every ache and pain left me. I gained ten pounds and am in perfect health."

I could not sleep and could hardly drag around. I consulted two physicians without relief, and as a last resort, I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and to my surprise, every ache and pain left me. I gained ten pounds and am in perfect health."

Miss Pearl Ackers, of 327 North Sunnyside Street, Nashville, Tenn., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham—

"I suffered with painful periods, severe backache, bearing-down pains, pains across the abdomen; was very nervous and irritable, and my trouble grew worse every month. My physician failed to help me and I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I soon found it was doing me good. All my pains and aches disappeared, and I no longer fear my monthly periods."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the unfailing cure for all these troubles. It strengthens the proper muscles, and displacement with all its horrors will no more crush you.

Backache, dizziness, fainting, bearing-down pains, disordered stomach, moodiness, dislike of friends and society—all symptoms of the one cause—will be quickly dispelled, and it will make you strong and well.

You can tell the story of your sufferings to a woman, and receive helpful advice free of cost. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. The present Mrs. Pinkham is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years she has, under her direction and since her decease, been advising sick women free of charge.

Lavender Creighton's Lovers By OLIVIA B. STROHM

(Copyright, 1905, by Olivia B. Strohm.)

CHAPTER VI. Next morning Lavender strolled idly into the woods back of the fort.

The woods were more friendly; silent, save the sighing of leafless branches in restless wooing of the spring.

On a sudden, the whizz of an arrow rang in her ears, and she felt its wind on her face.

Her impulse was to run, leaving the wounded man to his fate.

But after a moment's hesitation, she knelt at the Indian's side, and lifted the unconscious head to her lap.

The ghastly bunch of feathers protruded from the buckskin coat; one instant's shuddering pause, then with a quick jerk she wrenched the arrow from its yet pulsing sheath.

Slowly his eyes opened, and met her gaze, wide with pity.

He nodded, keeping his gaze on her; then with an "Ugh!" of relief, closed his eyes again.

Afraid to call, the girl sat motionless. Shouts might bring another arrow, and surely help would come soon!

There was a rustle in a tangle of evergreen near; the bushes were parted, and a head, surmounted by a towering circle of gaudy feathers, peeped cautiously.

The Indian advanced, his gigantic, plumed head brushing the trees. He stooped over the two figures on the ground, and without touching the girl, raised the arm of the unconscious one.

Pushing back the sleeve, he examined the strange tattoo marks which defaced the dark skin.

Apparently the scrutiny satisfied him—he rose, and, picking up the arrow, calmly wiped the blood from it and replaced it in his own quiver.

Then without word or sign, he departed as silently as he had come.

In a stupor of fright, Lavender sat mechanically stanching the blood, her eyes upon the bushes whence the savage had intruded.

There were few hostile Indians about, and the settlers had grown bold. Lavender was as much surprised as alarmed at this sudden apparition.

Familiar with all the friendly Indians about the fort, she knew the wounded man to be a stranger, and wondered at his presence in the neighborhood.

Suddenly her eyes alighted upon a packet that had fallen from a small knapsack he carried.

In her haste to get the brandy, she had disturbed the dispatches, and a few blood spots dabbed the writing.

Carefully she wiped away the stains, intending to replace them in the knapsack, when a name caught her eye—a name which made her turn from red to white with alarm—Charles Winslow, and closely following it the words, "spy" and "traitorous designs."

The writing fascinated her; the characters burnt deep into her memory, and she kept her gaze upon them as if to assure herself that she read aright—that the words "spy" and "traitor" did, indeed, stand close to the name of Winslow.

At the moment she heard footsteps—not stealthy. Firm and sure they crunched the dead leaves, and the noise was inspiring after the awful calm of the forest and its savage tenants.

about. This one was hurt by a random arrow; there may be others.

Winslow sprang to her side. "Shall I take your place; or would you rather wait a minute while I go for help?"

To his surprise, Lavender replied: "Neither—yet."

Then, with a gesture that enjoined silence, she handed him the dispatches. On the bosom of her gown they had left a tiny red stain.

He hesitated. "You must be my first care; let the papers wait."

But she insisted: "Read!" Indifferently he opened the papers, but at the first sentence started with an exclamation of indignant astonishment.

Rapidly his eyes scanned the page, but without waiting to finish it, he stooped to raise her. "Come." But she pushed him aside.

"What is in the paper? What does it mean?"

"It is a lie, and it means a prison," he replied, tersely. Then, bending over the wounded man: "He must be brought to camp," he said; "and you—you are wretchedly uncomfortable; come, let us—"

But she interrupted him. "I will not stir, or rouse this man until I know the contents of those dispatches; they fell from his knapsack, and I was about to put them back when I saw—" she hesitated, and looked around cautiously. "I saw your name, and another word, 'spy.' That was enough for me. I appropriated the dispatches. Now tell me the rest."

Bending low he whispered: "Burr is a prisoner. I am to be held here pending his trial. They have orders to arrest me."

A mischievous smile dimpled the corners of her mouth, and a little color crept into her pale cheeks.

"Pardon me, I have the orders to arrest you," and she slipped the dispatches into her hiding place, and over the tell-tale spots of blood arranged anew the folds of her scanty gown.

Winslow was about to remonstrate, but she shook her head in warning as the Indian stirred restlessly and opened his eyes. He tried to rise, but sank back helpless.

"The wound is slight," Winslow said, after a hasty examination; "but he is faint from loss of blood. I will have a litter brought here as quickly as possible."

Lavender put out her hand, and, grasping his sleeve, pulled him toward her, until her lips were very near his ear. "First you must promise me to say nothing of the dispatches—let us talk it over. Do nothing rash."

He pressed her hand in both of his, and, with a significant smile, hurried to the fort.

Soon the Indian rallied a little, and struggled to a sitting posture.

"Be patient; one has gone for help," Lavender said.

There was blood on her dress where the dusky head had lain, and the girl, tired and weak after the cramped position, staggered to her feet and leaned against a tree with an exhausted sigh.

All this the red man noted. "White maiden tired?" Then his eyes sought the knapsack, and he made an effort to reach it. Lavender quietly handed it to him, though her heart beat violently.

"See, it is empty," she said. A strange smile crossed the man's dark face—a smile of cunning, secret intelligence. Only for an instant; it passed, and he wore again the impassive look—his savage soul once more a prisoner behind the inscrutable eyes.

"It is empty," he agreed, repeating her words and inflection; "Owatoga has lost the dispatches."

Then, stretching out his hand for the sack, he deliberately dropped it in the hollow of the tree back of him. There it lay out of sight. Satisfied that it was safely hidden, the Indian hung his head wearily, and neither moved nor spoke.

Lavender, too, stood silent, with every nerve alert—waiting.

It was not long before she heard voices and the tramp of feet. Led by Winslow, a party of soldiers from the fort came to the relief. A few questions were asked, and Lavender told her story. Her description of the second Indian who had so mysteriously come and gone, led them to believe him a wandering hunter whose arrow had flown wide of the mark. He doubtless belonged to the Ojagwas of which tribe the wounded man was a member.

Examination of the tattoo marks had satisfied him that he and his victim were akin—that they worshiped the Great Spirit and tortured their enemies after the same good way.

Probably there would have been no trouble in any event, but now they might feel doubly secure.

"Beg pardon, corporal," Lavender interferred. "You see he is so weak; cannot the questions wait?"

Obedient to her suggestion, the squad proceeded to camp, bearing the wounded man on the litter.

Winslow and the corporal walked with Lavender. The officer said: "It is curious that Owatoga should have lost those dispatches. He is frequently sent from Fort Washington here, and is usually careful. He had nothing in the way of papers when he fell, Miss Creighton?"

Lavender paused to disentangle a bit of briar from her skirt, and replied, without looking up: "Indeed, you can well imagine that I was too frightened to pay much attention to particulars."

"I am sure it was a pretty hard experience," the soldier agreed. "She is plucky, isn't she?" he said to Winslow, with an admiring nod in Lavender's direction.

"Very," was the laconic response, but Winslow's manner as he took her arm implied much more.

The soldier chatted aimlessly, and in silence the two followed him back to camp. Occasionally, the maid stole a glance half humble, half defiant, at Winslow. He would shake his head with a severe frown—which, however, lost effect from the smile in his eyes.

At the bastion gate they separated, and while the corporal went in advance, Lavender lingered to say: "We hope to see you after supper, Mr. Winslow. Mother and I will be waiting in her room." The commonplace invitation was given strong meaning by her look—half command, half entreaty. This was emphasized, too, by a slight rustle of the papers as she clasped both hands to her bosom that rose and fell with every anxious breath.

When, an hour or two later, Winslow presented himself at Mrs. Creighton's door, it was with feelings hard to define. If the dispatch were discovered, or if it remained secret, were alternatives equally distasteful. The indignity of the guard house, the delay and ill-fame of a trial, scarcely more than balanced his horror of any underhanded proceeding.

"I will leave it to Fate," he thought, as he knocked for entrance. And then: "No, I will leave it to her," was his second resolve, as the door opened and Lavender stood before him.

For in spite of the defiant sparkle in her eyes, and the scarlet in each cheek, there was about her an atmosphere of such absolute innocence—such fearless consciousness of integrity, that Winslow was ashamed of his own scruples. They seemed pusillanimous beside her instinctive perception of the right.

"She is one of the few who can be a law unto herself, and yet walk the narrow path," he thought.

Mrs. Creighton came at once to the subject uppermost in the minds of all. "Lavender has told me everything, Mr. Winslow, and I have read the dispatch. I can scarcely contain my indignation, my sympathy for you, or my personal regret that you are brought to this trouble through care for us."

She beckoned him to a seat beside her, and her voice sank to a confidential tone; "but tell me what you think best to do."

Winslow hesitated. "There are two plans which suggest themselves. One is to go direct to the commander, explain all, and prove my innocence, if possible, relying upon his justice. The other—" he paused, meaningly, and lowered his voice. "The other—is to take French leave at our first opportunity."

Mrs. Creighton smiled as she said, sympathetically: "And you are at a loss how to act? I can well understand it."

But Lavender, who was all this time impatiently tapping her foot against one andirion, turned her back to the chimney piece, her whole figure vibrating with indignation. "You understand his hesitation, mother? Well, I confess I don't! Why should we give up these dispatches? It would do nobody any good, and would cause a great deal of harm. Mr. Winslow's conscience is clear—what is to be gained by the mockery of a trial? They would find him guilty, of course—then as her listeners started in surprise—"He is guilty of the only thing of which he stands accused—connection with the Burr expedition. You would not deny that. So you see it was providential that we got hold of the papers first. And that reminds me—" her mood changed, and she laughed merrily, "if I am not mistaken, I got hold of the papers first."

Here Winslow reminded her: "But you have forgotten the Indian. There is every reason to fear his explanation, or, in any case, the investigation he may set on foot."

Lavender did not reply for a moment. She was thinking of the Indian's face when he said "Owatoga has lost the dispatches." Of the look in his eye when he hid the empty knapsack. She recalled his silence later when interrogated by the corporal, and her belief was strong that from Owatoga they had nothing to fear.

But ashamed lest she be thought over-confident, she said only: "Let us not worry about Owatoga; only let us go as soon as we can."

"Then you approve of the French leave?"

"Strongly, sir; don't you, mother?" and she sank to the stool at her mother's feet—all the frowning impatience gone from the beautiful face.

Mrs. Creighton spoke softly, twisting the tiny curls on the fair, bent head at her knee. "From a selfish point of view, daughter, I certainly do. If Mr. Winslow stands trial, he will be detained here indefinitely, and we with him, or adrift without him. It is characteristic of his generosity that he lets two helpless women decide to their own advantage. He may prefer the mere open course, and we must insist that he alone decide. It is a choice of evils—as are most things in between smbe and a tear. "A hard choice, truly," Lavender agreed, with a saucy tilt of her chin. "But think of the brave company you would be in. Choose at once, sir—a prisoner here, alone, or a thief in the night with mother and me, the abetting malefactors!"

All joined in the laugh, and Winslow felt his spirits rise as with a new and strange elixir. "A thief in the night be it, then!" he said, in mock heroics. Then soberly the plan of action was agreed upon. They were to say nothing of the dispatches, but to seize the first pretext to leave the fort.

"And in order that there may be no backsliding, the bridges must be burnt," and going to the grate, Lavender dropped the dispatches on the heart of the coals. Slowly the edges uncurled in a last mischievous attempt to reveal the secret; then a greedy flame devoured the papers.

"Ashes!" Lavender exclaimed in triumph. Then, turning to Winslow: "There is nobody now to call you spy or traitor!"

NEAR ENOUGH TO PROMISE

A Gardener Who Was Conscious of His Value and Was Correspondingly Important.

Joshua Willet was the best gardener in Bushby, and therefore, in a place where good gardeners were few, he was in great demand among the summer people, relates Youth's Companion.

"Josh, he lays claim to be a regular landscaper, and I don't know but he has a right to," said one of the natives. "He seems to have knowledge of setting a bush here and cuttin' away a limb there that isn't given to all; but the summer folks'll find they've got a job on hand if they expect to tie him down to set times for workin'."

It turned out that this was the case, and one day an exasperated summer resident opened the vials of her wrath and poured them on Mr. Willet's head.

"When we pay you all you ask, and give you carte blanche—all the tools and everything you wish in the way of plants and shrubs and all sorts of garden materials"—said the lady, indignantly, "I should think you might at least come on Thursdays, as you promised, instead of making it Wednesday, Thursday or Friday, just as it suits your convenience!"

"Now it's no manner o' use for you to get riled, ma'am," said Mr. Willet, calmly. "When you said you'd like to have me come Thursdays, all I said was that I cal'lated to get round about the same day every week, an' I have done it so far. Now if you'll move your foot, ma'am, I've planned to put a re-organism just where you're grindin' in the soil."

His Journey Was in Vain Had Been Abroad and Made a Fortune for Girl Who Proved to Be a Boy.

The two brothers had been apart for years, but now Jack had returned from the colonies, and he lit a cigar and eyed his brother sheepishly, relates Gray Stories.

"You know, I always was a quixotic sort of chap," he said, tentatively, "but can you guess why I came home this year?"

"Well, old chap, we're all glad enough to see you; but I can't say I know your special reason for coming home."

"The other drew a photograph from his pocket. "You remember you sent me this group about five years ago?"

"Well," said his brother, "what about it?"

"This. You see this girl in the front row? Well, as soon as I saw her photo I fell in love with her. Man, she's perfect! Her face has been before me in all my wanderings, and I determined that I would make a fortune and then come home and lay it at her feet. Yes, I know it was an odd fancy to take, but I'm like that; and now that I've made the money I've come to you to know who she is and where I can find her."

"My dear old fellow," said Fred, kindly, "don't take it to heart, but—" "She's married?"

"No, it's not that; but that is a photograph of young Tom Robinson. He's a member of an amateur dramatic club, and when that was taken he was taking a girl's part!"

The New English History. The following extract comes from a school girl's essay in a high school in India, and was published in the monthly magazine of the school: "King Henry VIII. was the greatest widower that ever lived. He was born at Anna Domino in the year 1066. He had 510 wives, besides children. The first was beheaded. The second was revoked. She never smiled again. But she said the word 'Calais' would be found on her heart after death. The greatest man in his reign was Lord Sir Garret Wolsey. He was born at the age of 15 unmarried. Henry VIII. was succeeded on the throne by his great-grandmother, the beautiful and accomplished Mary Queen of Scots, sometimes known as the Lady of the Lake, or the Lay of the Last Minstrel."

American, B'gosh. A countryman registered at a hotel in Kansas City the other day. He did not explain on what "plan" he purposed to become a guest.

"European or American?" asked the clerk. The guest looked surprised. "American," he said, emphatically. "Born and raised up here in Matte county. I don't look like no foreigner, do I?"

EVENTS OF GREATEST INTEREST THROUGHOUT THE STATE

TO WED OLD SWEETHEART

Indianapolis Girl Notifies Husband-to-Be of Change of Mind on Appearance of Long-Absent Lover.

Indianapolis.—Capt. Charles E. Higgins, of the United States Signal corps, appeared here after an absence of five years on the sea just in time to find that his old sweetheart, Miss Bessie Thompson, was to be married in a few hours to W. H. Connetle.

She immediately telephoned to Connetle that she would not marry him, and arrangements to meet the sailor were made.

Believing that the young woman was not serious in her announcement, Connetle obtained a license and informed his sweetheart of the fact shortly after noon, less than three hours before the ceremony was to take place.

The young woman was steadfast in her determination to break the engagement, even at that late hour, however, and the word "void" was written in large letters upon one page of the marriage license books at the courthouse.

It seems that a quarrel separated Capt. Higgins and Miss Thompson several years ago. He declared that he would leave Indianapolis and when he returned, if he ever did, it would be with another girl as his bride. He went back to the navy and was assigned to service in northwestern waters.

Absence made the heart grow fonder and a correspondence soon began. Miss Thompson admits that she wrote the first letter. After many exchanges of tender missives their correspondence suddenly lagged, and at this stage of Cupid's intricate game Connetle appeared on the scene.

Taggart Not Ready to Resign. Indianapolis.—Thomas Taggart, chairman of the national Democratic national committee, denied that there is to be a meeting of the committee when Bryan reaches New York from Europe. He said that there would be no occasion for such a meeting, and when told of reports to the effect that he might resign the chairmanship he refused to discuss the question, simply asking why he should resign. When asked what he would do if Bryan demanded his resignation on account of the French Lick complications, he said he would not discuss the subject. Friends of Taggart say that he has received no intimation from any member of the committee that he ought to resign, and that he has not been asked to call a meeting of the committee for any purpose.

Gala Day for Big Trolley Line. Laporte.—Several bands of music have been engaged and preparations made for the running of excursions to this city on September 1, when the Chicago, New York & Boston railway company will break ground near this city for the construction of the first branch of the road which is to ultimately connect Chicago and New York, the third rail system being used. It is proposed to make the day a holiday in this city.

New National Bank for Marion. Wabash.—Marion is to have a new national bank, to be known as the Merchants' National. It will have a capital of $100,000, and is to be ready for business in October. The promoters are residents of Marion and an Indianapolis capitalist, who will take all of the stock which cannot be placed advantageously at Marion. This will give that town three national and two state banks.

Glass Industry Being Promoted. Boonville.—Capitalists of Evansville are proposing to establish a $75,000 glass plant in this city, and have made a proposition to the Boonville Business Men's club, asking for a contribution of $15,000 and a factory site. H. Barris, former manager of the Evansville glass plant, is the promoter. If the plant is established here, employment will be had for 200 men and boys.

Greeks and Italians in Race Riot. South Bend.—In a fierce race riot between Greeks and Italians here, one man was mortally wounded and another badly hurt. Demnick Scanbo and eight others were captured and locked up on a charge of attempted murder. Frank Quinn has a bullet through the abdomen, and Scanbo himself has a severe gash in the back.

Attorney Killed by Train. Evansville.—Robert Cox, a Democratic attorney, was killed by an Illinois Central passenger train here.

Suicide of County Treasurer. Goshen.—E. E. Drake, treasurer of Elkhart county, has committed suicide. His health followed the loss of $5,000 of the county funds by the failure of the Indiana National bank which he had to replace.

New Central League Umpire. South Bend.—Joe Miller, for ten years a minor league pitcher, who has been umpiring in the Iowa State league, has arrived from Waterloo, Ia., to accept a position as umpire in the Central league.

Soldiers at Fort Benjamin in Mimic Warfare.

Fort Benjamin Harrison.—The Blue and Brown armies continued their maneuvers Friday, the positions being reversed. The Blues defended their camp while the Browns with all the cavalry attached to their forces made the attack under the command of Brig. Gen. Harrah, who commanded the Michigan troops. Thursday's maneuvers, though attended by much hard work were most gratifying to Gen. Carter. The men sustained themselves with credit and no serious illness has been reported.

Fort Benjamin Harrison.—Battalion drills in close and open order Tuesday initiated the Indiana National guard into camp work with the regular troops. No serious illness in camp has been reported to the hospital corps.

Will Fight Suspension. Indianapolis.—Manager Michael Kelley, of the Minneapolis baseball team, received a telegram from President O'Brien, of the American association, notifying him of his indefinite suspension, pending an investigation of his share of the recent charges of gambling against Empire Owens. Kelley immediately answered by wire, as follows:

"You have no grounds for suspending me as manager of the Minneapolis club, except personal prejudice. Your action in this matter is in line with your decisions in other cases in which the Minneapolis club was interested. In suspending me before trial you are simply taking advantage of your position as president of the American association and you are hereby notified that I shall take action immediately to protect my interests.

(Signed.) "MICHAEL KELLEY."

Indianapolis Politician Weds. Indianapolis.—Albert W. Wishard, of this city, and Mrs. Carrie Wallace, of Hopkinsville, Ky., were married in the parlors of the Stratford hotel at Chicago by Rev. Thomas R. Jones. Mrs. R. H. De Treville, mother of the bride, witnessed the ceremony, immediately after which a wedding luncheon was served at the hotel. The bridal party immediately left for Minneapolis via Mackinac Island, where they will remain over Sunday. Mrs. De Treville and her daughter arrived at the hotel Friday morning and registered from Hopkinsville Ky. In the afternoon Mr. Wishard arrived at the Grand Pacific hotel and registered from Indianapolis. He did not remain at the hotel except at night, spending the time with his fiancée at the other hotel. The bridegroom is a well-known politician in Indianapolis.

Suit Filed for $65,000. Bluffton.—A suit for $65,000 has been filed by Alonzo C. Poulson against Lot McCulloch C. Poulsee of Chester township as ex-trustee same character waip. A suit of the same character was filed against McCulloch over a year ago by the advisory board, the demand being for $3,600. At that time it was agreed between the advisory board and J. C. Graves & Co., who brought the suit, that technicalities should not enter into the case, and an attempt was made to recover only the amounts alleged to have been actually stolen by McCulloch. Such pressure was brought to bear on the advisory board that the case was dismissed before it went to the jury.

Sees Chance in Fight Game. Laporte.—Eddie Stern, of Laporte, formerly of Noblesville, whose entrance into the prize ring several years ago was made notable by the decision which he secured over Battling Nelson at Michigan City, and who is now an interurban street car conductor, will probably reenter the ring. He has received several fight propositions from clubs at Indianapolis, Terre Haute, Fort Wayne and Peoria, Ill.

Red Men's Wigwam Dedicated. Shelbyville.—The Red Men of Fountaintown have dedicated their new wigwam. James E. Watson made the principal address, and Dr. C. A. Robinson, of Greenfield, conducted the ceremonies. The Fountaintown tribe is composed of 140 members and the degree of Pocahontas, which was organized recently, has 80 members. The new building is of concrete and was erected at a cost of $3,000.

Prize Offer to Gain Members. Terre Haute.—The national board of directors of the Travelers' Protective association has offered another prize, $250, for the state division in class A, which is composed of Missouri, Illinois and Indiana, for the largest gain in membership before the end of the association year, April 30 next. Indianapolis won the prize last year.

Accused Pastor Is Deposed. Laporte.—Rev. Samuel V. Williams, pastor of the Christian church here, who, on being accused recently by Mrs. Jane Tilt of having insulted her, admitted he had been leading an evil life, was deposed by the trustees of the church.

General Praises Michigan Troops. Indianapolis.—The first week of joint maneuvers between the regulars and state militia has ended with the departure of the Michigan troops. Brig. Gen. Carter gives it as his opinion that the "Michigan National guard could easily take the field as a very effective body along with the regulars." The Indiana National guard, consisting of three regiments of infantry, two batteries of artillery, a signal corps and a hospital corps, has gone into camp with the regulars.

OUTLINE OF THE PLAN

Method to be Adopted in Organizing Waterworks Company.

OPINION BY TOWN'S LAWYER

Endorsed by Public—Committee Will Solicit Stock.

At a called meeting of the citizens on Wednesday night of last week the report of the committee was presented, accompanied by Attorney Parker's opinion as printed herewith. The sentiment of the meeting was entirely harmonious. Apparently there is no opposition to the plan as outlined for constructing a system of waterworks in Culver, and President Keen of the town board was authorized to appoint a committee of five to solicit subscriptions to the preferred stock. If $4,000 can be thus raised a contract will be entered into and the plant will be installed before the season closes.

Report of Committee.

We the undersigned committee who were appointed to ascertain whether or not the town of Culver could legally by taxation raise money enough, about $4,000, with which to install a water works plant submit the following report:

We find that the cost of the plant would be about $8,000. The plan is for the town to own half of the stock, and the other half to be sold to private parties as preferred stock. We further estimate that the running expenses of the plant would be about as follows:

Taxes.....	$100
Gasoline.....	110
Extra salary for marshal.....	120
Repairs.....	50
Interest on preferred stock.....	240
Retiring preferred stock.....	200
Interest on bonds.....	200
Total expenditure.....	$1020

Income—
Rentals.....	$250.00
33-cent levy on $235,000.....	775.50
Total revenue.....	$1025.50

Making the income $5.50 per year more than the yearly outlay. We therefore recommend that work of installing said plant go on with as little delay as possible.

H. M. SPEYER,
A. A. KEEN,
T. E. SLATTERY.

Attorney Parker's Opinion.

Suggestions for a Plan under which a Waterworks Plant may be Constructed in the Town of Culver:

In presenting the following suggestions it is assumed that the waterworks plant will cost $8,000 and that the town may contract an indebtedness of $4,000 without violating the section of the constitution fixing the per cent of the assessed valuation for taxable purposes of all property within the town as the debt limit.

This plan involves several steps which will be stated and explained in their order.

First. The organization of a corporation under the act [cited] providing for the formation of companies to carry on the following purposes: "To supply any city, town, village or community with water, light, heat or power."

This company should have a capital stock equal to the entire cost of the plant.

Second. The town shall become a stockholder in the corporation to the extent of $4,000. Towns are now expressly authorized to become part stockholders in waterworks companies formed to supply water to themselves and their inhabitants. [Statute cited.] To pay for its stock the town can issue its bonds and sell the same and use the proceeds for that purpose. These bonds may bear interest at a rate of not exceeding six per cent per annum payable annually or semi-annually as the board of trustees may determine, and shall be sold for not less than their face value. These bonds may be made payable at such time or times as the board may fix and the proceeds can be used for no other purpose than to pay for the stock in the waterworks company.

By pursuing this course, and following the assumption still that the cost of the plant will be $8,000, the town will contribute half the money and own half the stock of the waterworks company. The town will not be able to contribute more, or but little more, than the $4,000. If interested citizens are willing to take the other $4,000 of stock and to pay for it upon exactly equal terms with the town, these suggestions might end here. But it is fair to assume that citizens of the town may not wish or be willing to take stock on the same terms as the town. This brings us to our next step.

Third. The stock should be divided into 800 shares of the par value of $10 a share. The 400 shares that the town will take should be common stock. From 10 to 50 shares more should be common stock. The balance should be preferred stock. This is so because the business of the waterworks company must be managed by a board of not less than three nor more than eleven directors. These directors must be stockholders in the company and the holders of the preferred stock are excluded from any voice in the management of the affairs of the company. The town should have one member of the board of directors and the other holders of the common stock the other members. Any citizen who will take any considerable amount of the preferred stock as an investment for the reasons hereinafter stated, will want a voice in the management of the business of the company. He can only secure that voice by taking one or more shares of the common stock. The preferred stock, under our law, presents the following disadvantages:

a. As stated above, the holders of preferred stock cannot participate in the management of the business of the company.

b. In case of insolvency or upon dissolution of the company all debts and liabilities of the company shall be paid in preference to the preferred stock.

But the preferred stock presents the following advantages which, it would seem, ought to make it fairly desirable as an investment, or at least sufficiently desirable to induce a patriotic citizen to take and pay for a reasonable amount of it.

a. It can and should be made to draw a semi-annual dividend of not exceeding four per cent. The rate of dividend should be stated in the certificates issued for the stock. This dividend is payable from the net profits of the company, and must be paid before any dividend is set aside or paid on the common stock. The dividend should be made cumulative so that if the net profits at any dividend-paying time are not sufficient to pay the dividend the unpaid part can stand over to be paid when the net profits are sufficient to warrant payment.

b. This, as well as the other stock, is non-taxable.

c. In case of the dissolution or insolvency of the company the holders of the preferred stock are to have all the assets of the company applied to the payment of their stock, with all arrearages of dividends, after the payment of the debts of the company, to the exclusion of the common stock.

d. The company cannot convey any of its real estate or mortgage any of its property without the written consent of the holders of a majority of the shares of the preferred stock; nor can the company, without such consent, declare any dividend upon the common stock that will impair its capital.

e. The holders of such preferred stock are exempt from liability, individually and personally, for the debts and liabilities of the company.

f. The preferred stock may be paid off or redeemed at such times as may be expressed in the certificates.

Fourth. The town should grant a franchise to the waterworks company to use the streets and alleys for the laying of its mains and pipes, and should make a contract to take and pay for water for public use for a period of years to be determined upon a careful calculation and made to approximate the time when the income of the company, after paying taxes, running expenses, keeping up repairs and dividends on the preferred stock, will pay off and retire the preferred stock. [Here follow figures which are covered by the report of the committee.]

One of the most interesting of the summer's lectures was given last night by Prof. Marion of the United States Naval Academy upon the incidents connected with the recent discovery and bringing to this country of the body of John Paul Jones. Prof. Marion is a native of France, but is now in the department of modern languages at Annapolis. He was selected by the navy department as official historian of the commission which visited France and brought home the body of this early naval hero.

PRIVATE BANKS.

Number Diminished in Indiana But Condition has Not Deteriorated.

When the report of the state statistician, Joseph H. Stubbs, on the banks and trust companies of the state, was published a few days ago, it was noted that the resources of the private banks had diminished from $37,275,222 01 in 1905 to $29,283,127 61 in 1906. "This is caused," said Mr. Stubbs, "by the fact that there are not as many private banks in Indiana this year as there were last year. In 1905 there were 260 private banks in Indiana, while in 1906 the reports show that there are 228. When the new banking laws were passed by the legislature, thirty-two of the private banks changed to state or national banks. This adds to the total resources of the state and national banks and cuts down the showing of the private banks. It does not, however, speak anything against the private banks that remain. They make fully as good a showing as ever.

A Cadet Politician.

Fred F. Bays, brother to Capt. H. C. Bays, a graduate of C. M. A. in 1905 and editor-in-chief that year of The Vedette, is the youngest county chairman in Indiana. He is but 23 years of age, but has shown unusual ability as a political organizer. When he conceived the idea of going into politics it was as an opponent for the legislative nomination. He printed 6,000 dodgers heralding himself as an aspirant for legislative honors and with his pockets bulging with electioneering cards he went out among the farmers wearing a split-tailed overcoat, patent leather shoes, kid gloves and a high collar, and solicited their votes. The practical politicians laughed at him for venturing among the farmers in such spick-and-span raiment and predicted that he would not get a single vote from the rural districts.

His answer was that Sullivan is a great county and her people do not want to send to represent them in the legislature a man who would look like a wart on a log. He astonished all the old timers by receiving 1,051 votes as against 989 for Brown and 1,094 for Parker, the last named winning by a narrow margin.

Everybody believes that two years from now Fred F. Bays will receive a commission to represent his county in the legislature.

Seeks Third Divorce.

The peculiar matrimonial experiences of Daniel Overmeyer, the aged Monterey farmer, which have been given publicity, are finding a climax in his application for a divorce from Mrs. Mildred Smith Overmeyer of Noblesville upon the ground of abandonment. He has been married four times, twice divorced and twice separated by death from his wives. He says that just as soon as the court grants his decree, he will marry one of two widows who have attracted his interest.

Mr. Overmeyer is past 70 years of age, owner of a fine farm, and the father of eleven children. His present wife is a daughter of Ex-mayor Smith of Noblesville.

FILL NEGRO'S BODY WITH LEAD PELLETS

SOUTH CAROLINA MOB AVENGES BRUTAL ATTACK WITH KNIFE ON WHITE GIRL.

Governor Appeals to Mob to Spare Life of Black Who Had Been Identified by His Victim, But Effort Proves in Vain.

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 17.—Within the shadow of the home of his victim, Miss Jennie Brooks, after having been identified by her, and after Gov. D. C. Heyward, who went to the scene of the trouble, had addressed the mob in vain, "Bob" Davis the negro who on Tuesday murderously attacked Miss Brooks with intent to commit assault, and who afterwards outraged a negro girl 14 years old, was lynched at Greenwood about 7:30 o'clock Thursday evening.

Cheers for Governor.
Gov. Heyward reached the scene shortly after the negro had been captured. A platform was erected in a fence corner on the premises of the victim's father, from which platform Gov. Heyward addressed the mob in an effort to prevent the lynching. The governor beseeched the mob not to lynch Davis, but in vain. At the conclusion of his speech the governor was vociferously cheered.

Riddle Negro's Body.
The mob then removed the prisoner from the view of the governor and within a short distance of the home of his victim the negro was riddled with bullets.

It is impossible to estimate the crowd, as citizens from several counties had gathered at the scene and for two days had been in pursuit of the negro, but it is certain that hundreds of bullets were sent through his body.

Story of the Crime.
The assault by Davis on Miss Brooks was made Tuesday in her father's store, where she was temporarily in charge. After making some purchases the negro grasped a meat knife, shouting, "You are what I want," and sprang toward the girl. Miss Brooks attempted to defend herself with an iron bar, but the negro slashed her across the throat, making a gash four inches long, and almost severed two of her fingers.

Assaults Negro Girl.
Afterward he went three miles to another farm and outraged a 14-year-old negro. A posse of a thousand men started in pursuit of the negro soon after the outrage at the Brooks store, and finally captured him Thursday afternoon, near Ninety-Six, a town nine miles from Greenwood.

TWO LOSE LIVES IN SAIL LOFT

Waterproofing Material Explodes, Kills Veteran Captain and Workman.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Two men lost their lives in a fierce fire which broke out in the sail loft of a ship chandler's establishment on Main street Wednesday. The dead are Capt. James Robertson, a veteran lake captain, and Charles Johnson, a sailmaker.

The men were working in the loft, waterproofing sails, when suddenly an explosion occurred and flames burst out all over the top floor of the building which was occupied by the Buffalo Ship Chandlery and Supply company. Johnson rushed out of the building on fire and was so badly burned that he died soon afterward.

Capt. Robertson's charred body was found in the building. He was 72 years old and had sailed the Great Lakes about 15 years previous to his retirement. There were several narrow escapes from the fire. Other employes got out by ladders and scrambled over the tops of other buildings. The loss is $75,000.

BUFFALO TREASURER SET FREE

Charge of Grand Larceny in "Graveyard" Scandal Does Not Hold.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 17.—Fred O. Murray, collector of customs, and former deputy county treasurer, was acquitted Thursday of the charge of grand larceny in connection with the "graveyard" scandal, by which the county was mulcted out of many thousands of dollars. When the state closed its case against Murray a verdict of not guilty on the ground that no evidence had been introduced to sustain the indictment.

TO EXTERMINATE PULAJANES

LEYTE OFFICIALS PROMISE SUPPORT TO GOV. IDE.

Causes of Conditions on the Island Date Back to Spanish Times—Extreme Penalty for Leaders.

Manila, Aug. 15.—Gov. Ide returned to Manila Tuesday after a conference at Tacloban, island of Leyte, Aug. 12, with Maj. Gen. Wood, Brig. Gen. Lee, Gov. De Yeyra, 15 presidentes and Col. Taylor of the constabulary. The presidentes promised to support the American authorities and to furnish information leading to the extermination of the Pulajanes.

There are various causes for the present conditions of Pulajanism in the island of Leyte, dating back to Spanish times. The disarming of the municipal police by Gov. De Yeyra, his political opponents assert, caused the recent disturbances. It is declared that had the late First Lieut. John F. James of the Eighth infantry, possessed correct information he would not have gone out with a small force Aug. 9. The fight occurred in the darkness and the troops were the victims of a bold rush of superior numbers, during which their rifles were of no use. The bodies of Lieut. James, Contract Surgeon Calvin D. Snyder, Private William J. Gillick and Mathias Zeck have been buried at Tacloban.

NEGRO TROOPS GO ON RAMPAGE

Kill Bartender, Wound Policeman and Spread Terror in Texas Town.

Brownsville, Tex., Aug. 15.—Evidently angered because of a search made among their ranks in an effort to apprehend a negro who attacked Mrs. Leon Evans at her home here Monday evening and whom she asserted was a negro soldier, members of a battalion of negro federal troops stationed at Fort Brown, near here, entered Brownsville Tuesday, became unruly and fired several volleys down Main street.

As a result Frank Natus, a barkeeper, is dead, a bullet from a Krag-Jorgensen rifle having pierced his heart, and Policeman Jos. Dominge is wounded, his arm and hand shattered by a bullet, and his horse shot from under him.

Twenty-three of the bullets-fired entered the home of Louis R. Cowan, many went through the residence of F. E. Stark and several bricks were shot from the walls of the Miller hotel, near the window where guests were sleeping. After their depredations the negroes returned to their garrison.

The battalion of Fort Brown is composed of companies B, C and D, Twenty-fifth infantry.

NOTED REPORTER PASSES AWAY

Took Notes of Many Famous Debates and Great Trials.

Washington, Aug. 15.—Francis H. Smith, one of the first official reporters of congressional debates, died Tuesday at Washington, Conn., where he was born March 11, 1829. For many years he had been a prominent banker here. Daniel Webster was one of the first men Mr. Smith reported in congress, and later Mr. Smith reported for the Associated Press the court-martial of the Lincoln conspirators and the subsequent trial of John H. Surratt. Another famous trial he covered was that of Gen. Daniel Sickles for the killing of District Attorney Key.

DYNAMITE BLOW-UP IN MEXICO

Laborers and Bystanders Blown to Atoms in Explosion.

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 16.—It is reported here that 20 to 30 Mexican laborers and bystanders were killed Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 at Chihuahua, Mex., by the explosion of a carload of dynamite on the Mexican Central railroad. The car was being transferred for the Robinson mine at Santa Eulalia. Bodies and pieces of human flesh were hurled into the air and picked up a mile distant. Windows were broken at almost every house in town and many walls were cracked. Several American foremen are reported killed.

FRATERNAL CONGRESS MEETS

Secretaries Organize to Further the Work of Mutual Insurance.

Montreal, Aug. 16.—The Association of Secretaries of the National Fraternal congress was formed here Wednesday. About 55 fraternal societies are represented in the association. W. O. Robertson, of Boston representing the Royal Arcanum, was elected president. Miss Emma Bower, of Ann Arbor, Mich., of the Ladies of the Modern Maccabees, was elected vice president. T. J. Edmunds, of Lawrence, Kan., representing the Fraternal Aid association, was elected secretary and treasurer.

Well Known Broker Dies.

Cincinnati, Aug. 17.—Pitts H. Burt, a broker and brother of Gen. S. Burt, U. S. A., retired, died at his home in this city, aged 69 years. He was manager for Dominick & Dominick, held the first certificate in the Cincinnati Stock exchange, and was widely known.

Peaceful Settlement Expected.

Tokio, Aug. 17.—It is confidently asserted here that the Aleutian Islands incident, involving the killing and capture of a number of Japanese seal poachers, will be amicably settled without the slightest complications.

RAILROAD HAULED ICE AT HALF RATE

SUBSIDIARY CONCERN HAD BIG ADVANTAGE OVER ITS COMPETITORS.

Free Office Rent and Transportation of Workmen Added Materially to Profit of "Infant Industry," Favored by Carrying Company.

Toledo, O., Aug. 15.—Judson C. Clements, member of the interstate commerce commission, Tuesday began an inquiry on behalf of the government into the relations between the railroads entering Toledo and the ice companies shipping over these lines.

Joseph A. Miller, manager of the Toledo Ice & Coal company, and one of the men sentenced to the workhouse by Judge Kinkade for conspiracy in restraint of trade, was the first witness called by the government. Miller's testimony was to the effect that previous to five years ago, when he became manager of the ice company, he was purchasing agent for the Ann Arbor railroad; but while an agent for the road he had sold ice for the ice company and was paid by the road, and that Wellington R. Burt, president of the Ann Arbor, and Harry Ashley, general manager, were directors of the ice company, and that practically all the stock in the ice company was owned by the railroad people.

Paid No Office Rent.

He further testified that the office of the ice company is located on Ann Arbor railroad property, but that no rent was paid. The 100 or 125 men sent each year by the ice company to cut ice were carried free by the Ann Arbor road until 1904, when a flat rate was charged. Miller testified that as manager of the ice company he traveled over the road on an annual pass.

Organized Ice Company.

Wellington R. Burt, once receiver and president of the Ann Arbor railroad, testified he was president of the road when the Toledo Ice & Coal company was organized, that he suggested the organization and coaxed the employees of the railroad to become stockholders in the concern, but that he did not know the road carried freight for the ice company free of charge. He knew the ice company was using the railroad real estate as a basis of operations, but this was done by other companies which produce freight.

Mr. Burt said it is the custom to haul freight at half rates for building up industries.

EARTHQUAKES CAUSE ANXIETY

Fifty-One Distinct Shocks on St. Lucia in Eight Hours.

Kingston, Island of St. Vincent, Aug. 17.—An earthquake was experienced here the night of August 14 and several shocks and tremors were felt on the island of St. Lucia. There were four shocks here the night of August 2 and on the island of St. Lucia, within the space of eight hours there were 51 distinct shocks. The continuous nature of the earth tremors since the severe shock of last February, chiefly in St. Lucia, is causing considerable anxiety.

ARREST MEMBER OF DOUMA

ALLEGED TO BE IMPLICATED IN MURDER OF OFFICIALS.

M. Vragoff Is Said to Have Stirred Up Agrarian Troubles on Return From Capital.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 17.—Dispatches received here Thursday from Penza, the capital of the province of Penza, and located at the junction of the Sura and Volga rivers, report the arrest of another member of the late parliament, M. Vragoff, under circumstances quite as compromising as those in the Onipko case, Vragoff being charged with complicity in the murder of Lieut. Petroff, of the rural police and the wounding of a sergeant of the same force.

After the return of Vragoff from St. Petersburg, agrarian disorders broke out at the village of Kamenko, in which Petroff, who attempted to quell the disturbances, was killed. Upon the arrival of the governor and military, Deputy Vragoff and the other ringleaders were arrested and sent to Penza and the village priest was removed and confined in the monastery.

Agrarian disorders in another district of the province of Penza led to an encounter between the populace and Cossacks in which one peasant was killed and several were wounded.

The effect of the continued agrarian disorders on the Russian yield is shown in the fact that the St. Petersburg bureau reports the purchase of 30,000 bushels of grain in Germany for Russian delivery, the first time in the history of the bourse that such a thing has occurred. It is explained that owing to the enhancement of the price of grain it is cheaper at the coast ports to buy abroad than in the interior. Conditions are aggravated by transportation conditions, the nature of which is shown by an order of the minister of railways permitting for the first time the loading of grain trains at night.

MISSIONARY WORK NEGLECTED

Church Followers Said to Waste Money on Dress and Tobacco.

London, Aug. 16.—The Rev. Dr. Robert Forman Horton created a sensation at the Free church convention at Harrogate Wednesday by declaring that missionary work was making the smallest headway owing to the indifference of the church at home, thousands of Christians and many ministers spending more on tobacco and dress than on missions. Yet, he said, some work had been accomplished abroad that was finer than anything recorded in the Acts of the Apostles. The Chinese martyrs, he declared, were as great as any who perished in the Diocletian persecutions.

DOWIE AND VOLIVA TO END WAR

Rumors of Compromise Follow Conference at Shiloh House.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—Rumors are rife in Zion City. It is hinted on all sides that a visit made by Voliva to Dr. Dowie Thursday afternoon may have as its object the compromise of the warring interests in the city and their union for the benefit of the city's interests.

There was a secret conference between Voliva and Dowie at Shiloh house, but neither of the parties to the meeting will discuss the matter. As a result of this conference the people, not knowing where they stand, are distracted.

ELECT OHIO EDITOR G. A. R. COMMANDER

R. B. BROWN, OF ZANESVILLE, SUCCEEDS TANNER AS HEAD OF VETERANS.

Senior Vice Comes from Indiana, While Junior Hails from Michigan, with Archbishop Ireland Elected Chaplain-in-Chief.

Commander-in-Chief—R. B. Brown, Zanesville, O.
Senior Vice Commander—William H. Armstrong, Indianapolis.
Junior Vice Commander—E. E. Fenton, Detroit.
Chaplain-in-Chief—Archbishop John Ireland, St. Paul.
Surgeon General—W. H. Johnson, Lincoln, Neb.

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 17.—The above officers were elected Thursday at the annual meeting of the Grand Army of the Republic.

The new commander-in-chief of the Grand Army, R. B. Brown, was born in 1845 and has always lived in Ohio. He enlisted in the Fifteenth Ohio infantry at the age of 16 years and served in the Fourteenth army corps in the Army of the Cumberland until he was mustered out in 1864. He then reenlisted as a veteran soldier and served as such until the end of the war. He was a private throughout the first three years of his service and then became a non-commissioned officer. He has always been active and prominent in the work of the Grand Army. Mr. Brown is now editor of the Zanesville Courier.

Tanner Analyzes Bad Citizens.

The report of Commander-in-Chief Tanner covered all features of the work during the last year. No mention was made of the canteen question, but recommendation was made that the Grand Army enter a dignified protest against the erection of the Wirz monument.

Commander Tanner declared the G. A. R. has attained "a position of commanding influence, which has been beneficial, not only to our own comrades, but to the nation which we served in the hour of its peril."

Secretary's Report.

The total membership is declared in the report of Adjt. Gen. Tweedle to be 235,825, an increase of 3,368 during the last six months. The losses by death for the year ended December 31, 1905, were 9,205, or 3.99 per cent. In the preceding year the loss by death reached exactly the same percentage.

The receipts from the per capita tax are declared insufficient. The suggestion is made that the tax be increased from three and one-half cents to five cents per annum.

ENLISTED MEN TO BE ADVANCED

Privates Will Have Opportunity to Become Second Lieutenants.

Washington, Aug. 17.—Secretary Taft has decided that enlisted men shall have the first chance at the 48 vacancies in the grade of second lieutenants in the army.

An order was issued some time ago granting only a small portion of the vacancies to enlisted candidates.

Secretary Taft's attention was called to the order which discriminated against the 35 enlisted men who are candidates and he immediately sent a message from Oyster Bay asking that the order be annulled and another issued which will do justice to the enlisted men who are striving for advancement.

LAUNCH BOOM FOR UNCLE JOE

Danville Convention Urges Nomination for President.

Danville, Ill., Aug. 17.—Speaker Cannon's boom for the presidency was launched here Thursday when the speaker was renominated for congress by acclamation by the Republican congressional convention of the Eighteenth district.

In accepting the nomination for congress, Mr. Cannon made a long speech, which sounded the party slogan for the coming campaign. The speaker extolled the record of the Republican party and pointed to the nation's prosperity as a justification of its continuance in office.

NEGRO CONVICTS KILL GUARD

Cut White Man's Throat with Knife and Escape from Stockade.

Charleston, S. C., Aug. 17.—Feigning illness, three negroes, Alonzo Goodwin, Hammond Wilson and George Kenny, convicts serving long terms on the chain gang near Ashley Junction, remained in the stockade Thursday. Having asked for water they seized and overpowered H. C. Steilo, the white guard, and cut his throat with a butcher knife. Two trustees at the stockade were locked in by the men, who donned civilian clothing and escaped into the nearby swamps.

AN OLD PAINTER'S IDEAS.

The autumn season is coming more and more to be recognized as a most suitable time for housepainting. There is no frost deep in the wood to make trouble for even the best job of painting, and the general seasoning of the summer has put the wood into good condition in every way. The weather, moreover, is more likely to be settled for the necessary length of time to allow all the coats to thoroughly dry, a very important precaution. An old and successful painter said to the writer the other day: "House owners would get more for their money if they would allow their painters to take more time, especially between coats. Instead of allowing barely time for the surface to get dry enough not to be 'tacky,' several days (weeks would not be too much) should be allowed so that the coat might set through and through. It is inconvenient, of course, but if one would suffer this slight inconvenience, it would add two or three years to the life of the paint." All this is assuming, of course, that the paint used is the very best to be had. The purest of white lead and the purest of linseed oil unmixed with any cheaper of the cheap mixtures, often known as "White Lead," and oil which has been doctored with fish oil, benzine, corn oil or other of the adulterants known to the trade are used, all the precautions of the skilled painter are useless to prevent the cracking and peeling which make houses unsightly in a year or so and, therefore, make painting bills too frequent and costly. House owner should have his painter bring the ingredients to the premises separately, white lead of some well known reliable brand and linseed oil of equal quality and mix the paint just before applying it. Painting need not be expensive and unsatisfactory if the old painter's suggestions are followed.

Grocer Was Getting Even.

"That was tit for tat with a vengeance," said Walter Christie, the automobilist, apropos of a quarrel between two French chauffeurs. "It reminds me of a grocer I used to know in Paint Rock. This grocer went over to the jeweler's one day to get a new crystal put on his watch. The latter as he fitted and cleaned the crystal suddenly flushed. He hit his lip and frowned. His hand trembled so that he could hardly go on with his task. Finally, handing the watch to the grocer, the jeweler said in a restrained voice: 'Beg pardon, but didn't I just see you put a couple of rings and a scarfpin in your pocket?'"

Have Troubles.

Rich Women fashionable women are too busy and had too many interests to feel acute sorrow over their broken crockery was disproved the other day when Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish went into the principal dry goods store in Newport with a friend who was selling cement for cut glass and called to Mrs. Fish: "Oh, here is a cement for cut glass which not only mends it but makes it ring as clearly as if it were new." Mrs. Fish called back: "My servants break so much of my glass now that it is heartbreaking and if they knew it were possible to mend it they would break it all, so I don't care for any, thank you."

Sinal, the "Turquoise Land."

Sinal was known as the "turquoise land" in very ancient times, and Dr. Flinders Petrie believes that it was the first mining center in the world. In his recent book on the subject Dr. Petrie tells of the various expeditions sent to Sinal by the Egyptian government. At the head of the party was the "commander," or "bearer of the seal of the god," the Pharaoh. The official staff consisted of "masters of the house of metals," or assayers, scribes and secretaries, to make inventories of the output of the mines.

AN OLD TIMER.

Has Had Experiences.

A woman who has used Postum Food Coffee since it came upon the market 8 years ago knows from experience the necessity of using Postum in place of coffee if one values health and a steady brain.

She says: "At the time Postum was first put on the market I was suffering from nervous dyspepsia and my physician had repeatedly told me not to use tea or coffee. Finally I decided to take his advice and try Postum, and got a sample and had it carefully prepared, finding it delicious to the taste. So I continued its use and very soon its beneficial effects convinced me of its value, for I got well of my nervousness and dyspepsia."

"My husband had been drinking coffee all his life until it had affected his nerves terribly. I persuaded him to shift to Postum and it was easy to get him to make the change for the Postum is delicious. It certainly worked wonders for him."

"We soon learned that Postum does not exhilarate or depress and does not stimulate, but steadily and honestly strengthens the nerves and the stomach. To make a long story short our entire family have now used Postum for eight years with completely satisfying results, as shown in our fine condition of health and we have noticed a rather unexpected improvement in brain and nerve power." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

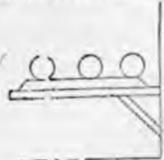

Increased brain and nerve power always follow the use of Postum in place of coffee, sometimes in a very marked manner. Look in pkgs. for "The Road to Wellville"

THE HEN HOUSE.

Some Points About the Dimensions and Arrangements of the Well-Appointed Building.

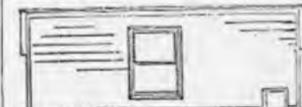

The floor plan of the hen house shown in an illustration taken from Country Gentleman, indicates a building 12 by 14 feet in dimensions. One window in the center in front, which, for appearance sake, might have one large glass in each ash, or to cheapen the cost, smaller panes. The front elevation, in connection with the quartering elevation, shows the finished appearance of the building. The door for entrance at the rear and smaller windows at either end of the building.

The dropping-board may be made in several different ways. This is hung upon a bracket against the wall. Some dropping-boards are fastened with hinges and supported by a wire or a rope on the outer edge. Again, the entire roost may be built like a table, with the roost lifted above the top from eight to 12 inches. Sufficient length of roosting or perching room should be provided, so as to have eight for each Leghorn and from nine to ten inches for a Plymouth Rock or a Wyandotte. In a very cold climate, an end may be built up at the outer edge of the dropping-board, and a canvas curtain dropped down in front at night, which makes what is known as the hooded roost, a protection from the cold weather.

The roosting poles can be made of round pieces of timber or of a square piece rounded on top. It is not best to compel the poultry to sit upon a flat piece with sharp corners when roosting.

The nests can be placed wherever most suitable and convenient. It is best that they should be up off the ground, and so constructed that the hens can go in them and not be in sight of the other hens in the house. Each fowl kept in a building should have four to six square feet of floor space. This house, as described would accommodate from 25 to 30 hens very comfortably. More than this could not be well kept therein.

The size of the runway or yard about the poultry house can be decided in accordance with the space you have to spare. This can be built as plain and cheap as desirable. The cheapest construction would be of 12-inch barn boards, which should be stripped on the outside; a better construction, regular siding nailed on the upright pieces, with a shingle roof, the cheaper construction roof to be covered over with barn boards and tar paper. If the ground is dry, with good drainage, an earth floor is the best. If the ground is not dry, raise the building from the ground and fill in with soil, or put in a cement floor and lay boards on top of the cement.

Legs of Fowls.

It is well for the poultry raiser to keep a close watch of the legs of his fowls. If more would do this the poultry would be saved attacks of the insects that burrow under the scales on the legs and produce what we call "scaly legs." Often the trouble is not realized till the pest has spread all through the poultry yards and most of the fowls are affected. Then some of them have become so bad that it is extremely difficult to cure them. If they are taken in time, a good bath of the legs in a kerosene emulsion or some other insecticide may check the invasion, as the insects will be annihilated. It is not uncommon to find birds so badly affected that their legs have become chalky and in some places are bleeding from the attempts of the fowls to pick off the parasites, which evidently cause intolerable itching. If the legs are as they should be they will be smooth and glossy in appearance, no matter what their color may be.

BANTAMS FOR PROFIT.

The Breeds Which Command Attention and are Well to Consider When Buying.

Bantams, if properly managed, pay without doubt, but the amount of animal profit derived from them differs greatly with regard to the variety you keep. First of all it is imperative that you select one of the most popular varieties, and in addition select the best specimens you can find of that variety. To-day one of the most popular breeds, says the Ohio Farmer, is the Black Rosecomb. As the name implies, this breed is all black, and the feathers should bear a nice green sheen, and the comb, with a nice leader or spike behind. The legs should be black, the lobes snowy white and round. The cock should weigh about 10 ounces and the hen about 16 ounces. The more feather they carry the better. The cock should have a very full feathered tail, with an abundance of side hangers, and long sickle feathers as broad as possible.

The next breed to claim attention is the pretty little Scotch Grey. This breed of Bantams bids fair, in the near future, to become one of the most popular varieties. It was formerly known as the clean-legged Cuckoo. It is a most hardy variety, and the eggs, as a rule, are quite fertile. The size should be the same as the Black Rosecomb, but the color should be exactly the same as the Scotch Grey fowl; single comb, red lobes, with clear white or mottled legs. In breeding this variety about one-third of the chickens come out black, and strange as it may seem, these black chickens are invariably pullets. They are so good for show, and should be killed or retained to mate with a light-shade cockerel.

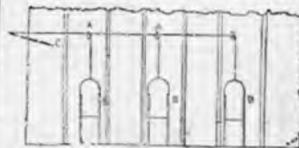

The Modern Black Red is one of the most popular varieties to-day, and I have known of a specimen selling in England about eight years ago for $250; but it is declining in favor, making room for the more popular strains of Variety Bantams. As the reader may know, Bantams are subdivided into two great divisions, Game Bantams and Variety Bantams, and again these are divided into numerous breeds.

The Modern Duckwing is a very attractive variety, but the demand for it is not so great as for some of the other varieties. And it should be borne in mind that the variety that pays best is the one that is most popular. As table birds, Bantams are, of course, no good, but the profit derived from keeping them is made by selling eggs for incubation. Keep the best and then you will not regret having started Bantam breeding. It is just the same with Bantams as with any other class of stock on the farm; the better your stock is, the greater will be the demand for what you wish to sell.

FOR CLOSING CHICKEN BARN.

How One Man Saves Many Steps and Makes Sure That Hens are Safe for Night.

Our hen house being about 200 feet distant from the dwelling house and divided into three apartments, the closing of the traps was a disagreeable task in the evening, says a correspondent of the Farmers' Review. We made a device to close them by a wire running to the house. A clothes line is attached to the traps and run through pulleys A, which are attached to roof plate, then through the end of the building and attached to wire. The traps B must work up and down easily. A screen door spring it attached to rope at C to pull back rope when traps are to be closed, as the weight of the traps is not enough to balance weight of wire.

Milk for Growing Chicks.

At this season it seems appropriate to call attention to the necessity of having plenty of pure fresh water and shade for the growing chicks if you want them to mature and grow to be strong, vigorous birds. Growing chicks should have fresh water at least two or three times each day and the vessels containing the water should be thoroughly rinsed and kept clean. I find that milk is a great thing to feed the young chicks. It seems to agree with them and puts them in good shape to sell as broilers. Butter milk of which most farmers have plenty, is also excellent.

POULTRY AND BEE NOTES.

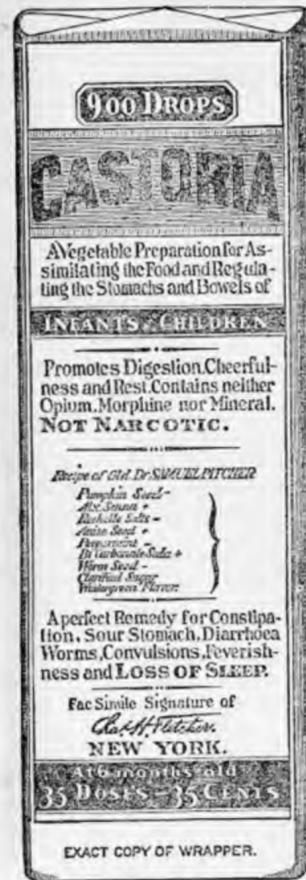

I use ordinary whitewash, adding some salt and kerosene, with which I paint poultry houses and droppings boards, giving them a good coat in the evening just before roosting time. I paint perches with a good liquid lice killer.

There are more than 50 different kinds of bugs, mites, spiders and fleas that attack fowls. They cause an enormous loss to the poultry keeper. Don't try to keep poultry without a plentiful supply of insect killers of hand besides the dust baths. After the hot weather has set in and the bees are numerous enough to cover all the combs the entrance should extend the full width of the hive and should, during the busy season, be seven-eighths of an inch deep.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. F. Gerald Blattner, of Buffalo, N. Y., says: "Your Castoria is good for children and I frequently prescribe it, always obtaining the desired results."
 Dr. Gustave A. Eisenbrauer, of St. Paul, Minn., says: "I have used your Castoria repeatedly in my practice with good results, and can recommend it as an excellent, mild and harmless remedy for children."
 Dr. E. J. Dennis, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have used and prescribed your Castoria in my sanitarium and outside practice for a number of years and find it to be an excellent remedy for children."
 Dr. S. A. Buchanan, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have used your Castoria in the case of my own baby and find it pleasant to take, and have obtained excellent results from its use."
 Dr. J. E. Simpson, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."
 Dr. R. E. Eskildson, of Omaha, Neb., says: "I find your Castoria to be a standard family remedy. It is the best thing for infants and children I have ever known and I recommend it."
 Dr. L. R. Robinson, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria certainly has merit. Is not its age, its continued use by mothers through all these years, and the many attempts to imitate it, sufficient recommendation? What can a physician add? Leave it to the mothers."
 Dr. Edwin P. Pardee, of New York City, says: "For several years I have recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."
 Dr. N. B. Sizer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I object to what are called patent medicines, where maker alone knows what ingredients are put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use."

Veterans Rapidly Passing Away. Veterans of the civil war are dying now at the rate of 100 a day, according to records of the United States pension office. The monthly reports for several months past have shown the death rate among the old soldiers to be in the neighborhood of 3,900 a month. Pension office officials who have watched the figures closely and know the tendency of the death rate are of the opinion that the number of civil war pensioners has reached the maximum and that hereafter each succeeding month will show a decrease.

Nicotine in Tobacco. A scientist writes: "The essential quality for which tobacco is smoked or chewed lies not really in the leaves themselves, but in contained in thousands of hollow-knobbed hairs which cover their surface. The vital nicotine is garnered in these pearlike balls, but as it is impossible to shave off these hairs, and would be a scarcely commendable achievement if it could be undertaken, it becomes necessary to preserve the whole foliage for commercial purposes."

SERIOUS ASSAULT.

Lieter's Ford Man Makes a Savage Attack on John Brosnan.

Word was received here late Tuesday evening that A. Zimmer of Leiters' Ford had assaulted John Brosnan of Lagro, causing injuries to him so that he was taken to the hospital at Logansport, where he lies in a precarious condition. It is said that bad feeling has existed between the two men for some time and that Zimmer allowed his temper to get the better of him, and after knocking down Brosnan, walked upon his prostrate body without any feeling, doing great damage. We are told the sheriff swooped down from Rochester and carried Zimmer back with him, where he will be held until Brosnan shows signs of making a complete recovery. An eye witness to the affair says that the beating given Brosnan was severe enough to put his life out. The trouble was over a building in this place, used as a saloon by Zimmer for a number of years, which he rented to Brosnan last January, at which time the latter took charge of the saloon.—Monterey Sun.

Additions to "The Row."

Two new houses, belonging to Captains Crandall and Fleet, are approaching completion on "Officers' Row." Cadets taking the route by the west gate when on their way to town, would hardly realize that six years ago not a house belonging to an officer or member of the academy existed off the main grounds. Now there are eleven dwellings and the surroundings begin to assume a metropolitan appearance.

Another New House.

Isadore Hessel has about concluded to build a residence this fall on his two Main street lots. It will contain eight rooms and will be a modern home.

The Town Board.

At Monday night's meeting of the board Henry Zechiel's plat was approved.

The resignation of J. F. Weiss as a member of the board was accepted. His successor will be appointed at the next meeting.

THE FINAL WEEK.

Attractive List of Events for Closing of the Summer School.

The grand fete will begin on Monday. This will be strictly an "aquatic day" with both forenoon and afternoon devoted to water sports. Swimming contests, dives, work on rings and trapeze, and chutes, together with water polo, tilting matches and baseball will keep things going all day. To be sure of a full program, however, there will be the cutter races, sailing and rowing, and a grand championship race between the "Mary Ann" and the "Sally Ann." The events of this day will in large measure determine the medal winners to be announced on Wednesday. At night aquatic sports will give place to a lawn fete which is expected to surpass all others of its kind.

Tuesday morning will be devoted to a genuine water circus in which picked men will give a special thrilling performance introducing acts never witnessed before. The afternoon of this day will be taken with a sham battle to be participated in by a full land and naval force and using all the maneuvers of troops and boats which the young sailors have learned this summer. The final ball at night will close the series of enjoyable dances which have marked the summer.

CULVER'S PRIDE.

Above All Other Claims its Educational Facilities are Recognized.

The Culver Summer Navalschool has had remarkable growth. It began four years ago with 22 cadets, and its future seems under the glowing sun, for its enrollments are now to be measured by hundreds.

The academy was founded in 1894 by H. H. Culver, a philanthropic citizen of St. Louis, with a view of helping boys of the present day to obtain an education which would best fit them for college or for business. The school is on the north shore of beautiful Lake Maxinkuckee, which covers an area of about 12 square miles, resting in an amphitheatre of finely wooded, rolling country. The academy is in a park of 40 acres, with 200 acres more available as occasion may demand. The shore is dotted with charming summer homes and hotels, and it is a delightful place for learning for an American youth. While Culver is not a religious institution so far as support from a denomination goes, the faculty is made up of christian men who do what they can to keep the school in a christian atmosphere.

LAWN SOCIAL.

A Pretty and Successful Entertainment by Epworth League.

The ice cream social given by the Epworth league on the Shilling lawn last Friday evening was a success both socially and financially. The lawn, effectively lighted by colored lanterns, and dotted with prettily decorated tables, was very attractive, and the pleasant evening drew a good attendance. The band, under the leadership of Captain Wilson, furnished music that added much to the evening. Home-made candy, lemonade, ice cream and cake were the dainties served. In a wigwam on the lawn a fortune-teller was to be found who dispensed fortunes and futures to the curious for a consideration, affording much amusement.

The league cleared $30.

Prohibition Meetings.

I. G. Shaw of Franciscville, Pulaski county, prohibition candidate for congress will speak at the following places: Aug. 23, Tippecanoe, West school building; Aug. 24, Plymouth, Albert's hall; Aug. 27, Sligo church, West township; Aug. 28, Methodist church, Lapaz; Aug. 29, Wright's opera house, Bremen. Meetings at 8 p. m.

More Telephone Talk.

It is reported that the farmers are talking of extending the telephone line from Talma to Monterey, a distance of 8 or 9 miles, provided Culver takes no further steps in organizing a home company.

COUNTY BUSINESS.

Contracts Awarded for Fuel and for Constructing Bridges.

The board contracted with Wm. O'Keefe at $3.60 a ton for 50 tons Hocking Valley coal. Mr. O'Keefe was also awarded the contract for 150 tons Hocking Valley to be delivered at the court house and jail for $3.60 a ton. Linkenbelt and Garn were the other bidders on the coal. Wm. and Basil Boggs were given contract for 250 cords hard wood for the county asylum at $4 a cord. Gottlieb Grimm received the contract for 90 cords mixed wood for $3.90 a cord to be delivered at jail, court house and asylum.

The Winamac Bridge Co. was given the contract for the bridge over the Sells ditch for $973.40. Frank Shively got contracts for the Knepp ditch arch and Yellow creek bridge. John Flosenzier received the contract for the arch over the Zimmer ditch.

Milo B. Ritter of Tippecanoe was awarded the contract for painting the bridges of the county for $370 and $11 for cleaning and scraping them. He is to use B. P. S. or Rubber Paint Co's mineral paint. The sum of $1,500, which has accumulated as interest on public money was transferred to the bridge fund.

On petition of Auditor Singrey certain moneys still on hand in several ditch funds, against which there were no claims, were transferred to the ditch cost fund.

An agreement was entered into with the Peck-Williamson Co. in regard to the furnace put into the jail last winter. It is claimed by Sheriff Steiner that the furnace does not do the work and the board has so far refused payment of $581, the cost price. A fair trial is to be given and if the furnace works satisfactorily the county is to pay the bill with 5 per cent interest. If alterations are necessary the bill is to be paid without interest.

A bill of $75 was paid Frank Shively for abutments on the Shoemaker ditch bridge. Trustee Grossman had refused to pay this amount and the board ordered that this amount be withheld from Walnut township's semi-annual distribution.—Plymouth Chronicle.

DOUBLE ACCIDENT.

Sister Meets Mishap While Conveying Injured Brother Home.

Saturday forenoon while employed on the Erie section at this place Bert Long received a broken jaw while he and Andrew Schmidt were operating a "jack," raising track. Shortly after the accident, he started to walk to his home one mile south-east of the town, and was met by his sister, Mrs. Peter Slonaker, who seeing that he was injured stopped with the buggy to convey him to his home, but at this juncture an Erie freight train running at a high rate of speed and loudly whistling, frightened the horse, throwing Mrs. Slonaker and sister, Mrs. Roberson, who with the latter's little daughter were with her, out of the buggy, breaking Mrs. Slonaker's wrist.—Monterey Sun.
